was given first, so the work of the Law is first, Rom. VII. 9. When the Commandment came, sin revived and I died. As Moses delivered the people of Israel into the hand of Joshua, so the Law when it hath sufficiently disciplined us, commits us into the hand of Grace. As in Gal. III. 17. The Covenant that was confirmed before of God in Christ, the Law, &c. cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect. The Law is subservient to the promise, so this work of the Law to Grace. Is a meer work of the Law sanctifying Grace? True, the work of the Law goes along with grace, hence many a gracious heart is under terrors. But is the first work of the Law Grace? No, it is to fit the heart to receive Grace. Many now a days say, I have the Spirit. How came they by it? If they have it, it is an unnatural birth, not bred and born after Gods ordinary way. To day debauched, to morrow turn Sectary, and then have the Spirit. That was a wonder in the Prophet, speaking of one, that before she travailed was delivered, such a wonder is this, if it be so. No, God causeth this work of Common Grace to prepare and fit us for the reception of the Holy Spirit.

V. The Spirit worketh both these by the Word. The Spirit gave the Scriptures, and he useth them for the end why they were given, viz. mans Salvation. The Spirit unhingeth not the Essential actings of the Soul, but works with them. Now the acting of the Soul is by reasoning and perswasion. The Will chooseth, being perswaded by the Understanding, and the Understanding is perswaded by the object. And so the Spirit does in the work of Grace, Gen IX. 27. God shall perswade Japhet, 2 Cor. V. 11. We perswade men. Now this is not done but by the Word. The heart is moulded by the Spirit to receive perswasion: but by the Word he works perswasion in us. Common grace, first grace, growth of Grace are thus all wrought by the Word. I mean Common grace where sanctification is to follow. Sometime there is stirring of Conscience in wicked men from horror and affrightments, and sometimes from the Law for the glorifying of it: but where healing must come, the wound is made by the Word, and the healing is effected by the Word.

A man is perswaded and satisfied, that he is in an undone condition. How is he so perswaded? By the Word. The Law does it, Rom. VII. 9. before mentioned. A man is perswaded to rest on Christ. The Word doth it. Faith comes by hearing. That in Joh. VI. 45. will illustrate this. It is written in the Prophet, And they shall be all taught of God. Taught of God, who had been taught of the Devil. Every man therefore that hath heard and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me. Cometh unto me as Teacher. And how did they hear and learn from the father, but from the Word of the Father? Growth of grace also is built up by the Word. 1 Pet. II. 2, 3. As new born babes desire the sincere milk of the Word, that ye may grow thereby. What sets man upon obedience, and striving against sin, longing after God, &c? The Word continually applied. Man lives by the Word, grows by the Word. This is the means that the Spirit useth. They that speak of a Light within them, that serves for all, if they mean Light from the Word, let them then own the Word; if they mean the Light of nature, that never yet lighted man to Heaven. That was the true light that lighteth every man that cometh into the World, viz. The Gospel, that went through the World: tis clear that the Evangelist means that there, Joh. I. 9.

VI. Having the Spirit speaks not perfection in him that hath it. It speaks Holiness, not Sinlesness. Take this in the mouth of two witnesses as holy as any. First, S. Paul, Rom. VII. 17. Sin dwelleth in me: and 25. vers. with the flesh I serve the Law of sin. Secondly, S. John, 1 Ephes. I. 8. If we say we have no sin we deceive our selves, and the truth is not in us. To them that distinguish not betwixt holiness and perfection, but say they are perfect because they think they are holy; I say two things. 1. They are little seen in their own hearts. 2. Little seen in the Scripture and Divinity. For the Scripture is abundant to the contrary: and Divinity makes the contrary most plain, and facil to be understood.

It is a Paradox, Adam had perfection though not the Spirit; a Believer hath the Spirit, yet not perfection: and yet the Believers imperfection is more excellent than Adams perfection. I might instance, First, in the foundation of either's holiness, Adams from his Creation and nature, a Believers from the Spirit and grace. Secondly, In the manner of Acting, Adams, Adams was liable to losing, a Believers not. Thirdly, In the amissibleness of which anon. I cannot but observe that in Ephes. IV. 24. The new man which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness: ὁσιότητι τῆς ἀληθείας, which is rendred two ways: and both to the present purpose. The English well and according to the Hebrew Idiom, reads true holiness: and so the Apostle seems to compare the holiness of the new man with Adams. His was true holiness, but this truer, and more excellent, though imperfect. It is rendred also, The holiness of truth. The Gospel is oft called Truth, and if it be so to be rendred here then it means Evangelical holiness, not only in opposition to Legal,

Legal, but to Adams. Evangelical holineſs is the holineſs, and that that indeed reſtores the Image of God. After God created in righteouſneſs and the holineſs of truth. Hence is that in 2 Pet. I. 4. That by theſe ye might be partakers of the Divine Nature. Adam was not partaker of Gods holy nature, but only of his creation: if his holineſs were any, yet it was mans only; but a Believer is partaker of the Spirit, when he hath holineſs. Let me aſk this Queſtion, and Anſwer it, and that will clear all.

Why are we juſtified by perfect juſtification and righteouſneſs (for ſo we are, becauſe it is by the righteouſneſs of Chriſt, which is called the righteouſneſs of God) when we are not ſanctified by perfect ſanctification and holineſs, though ſanctified by the Spirit of Chriſt? I anſwer.

Firſt, It is needful that Juſtification be perfect, for if we are not juſtified from every ſin, it is all one as if we were from none. As break one Command and break all, ſo unjuſtified from one ſin and unjuſtified from all. For 1. Such perſons are not accepted of God. 2. They are liable to condemnation; therefore Juſtification muſt be perfect. But in ſanctification tis not ſo, as I ſhall obſerve by and by. A man may be truly, though not perfectly holy.

Secondly, It is Gods will and diſpoſition to glorifie his grace in holineſs by its living and acting in and againſt contrariety. As it was Abrahams glory, in Rom. IV. 18. Who againſt hope believed in hope. Whether is it greater to be holy in the midſt of ſinfulneſs, or as Adam to be holy when no ſin touched him? Which was greater for Lot to be holy in Sodome or in Abrahams houſe? Compare a Believer with Adam. Adam had Gods Image, the Believer hath Gods Image reſtored. What was Gods Image in Adam? It conſiſted firſt, in the Eſſence of his Soul, and made him ſpiritual, intellectual, immortal: and ſecondly, in the qualification of his perſon, and made him holy, righteous. The former is not loſt nor extinguiſhed by ſin, nor could, only ſpoiled and ſoiled. The Devils for all their ſin, yet are ſpiritual, intellectual, immortal ſubſtances. The latter did embalm and keep freſh the former. His holineſs kept his ſpiritualneſs, his intellectual nature in the right temper, while he kept it. Now to a Believer there is ſo much holineſs as to do the ſame thing. He is ſpiritual though he be fleſh; his Holineſs makes his intellect right, viz. To know God and love him: and preſerves him to immortality: nay goes beyond Adam in operation. As namely,

1. He knows God in Chriſt: which full revealing of God Adam did not attain to.

2. He loves God more excellently than Adam did or could do. Adam had no pul-back to hinder him from the Love of God, the Believer hath, Sin, the World, the Fleſh, the Devil, nay, Deum Viſum iratum, God himſelf when he ſeems to be angry, yet he loves God through all theſe. Whereas Adam fell in the firſt oppoſition.

3. A Believers obedience is more excellent than Adam did or could perform. Adam had no hindrance, nay he was not in a condition of paſſive obedience. A Believer obeys through poverty, ſadneſs, pains, nay to death it ſelf. Thus Having the Spirit ſpeaks not perfection, yet at laſt brings to perfection in Heaven. Adam begun in perfection and grew imperfect. Holineſs begins and ſojourns in imperfection here, and ends in perfection hereafter.

VII. Having the Spirit ſpeaks having it for ever: XIII. Joh. 1. Having loved his own which were in the World, he loved them unto the end. The falls of them that have the Spirit, as for example of Peter, of David, ſpeaks not the loſs of the Spirit, nor the weakneſs of the Spirit, but only the Spirits diſpoſing: Every ſickneſs is not loſs of life, ſo every fall is not the loſs of the Spirit. I might illuſtrate this from the Spirits acting in ruling and guiding the courſe of nature. The Spirit as Creator, preſerves the Univerſe in its being and order. How? In that he hath ſet rules in the courſe of nature, that there ſhould be ſuch ſeaſons, ſuch productions, ſuch cauſes to produce ſuch effects; that warmth and nearneſs of the Sun ſhould cauſe Spring and Summer, and ſo contra. And the Spirit ſits above all and gives influence. So when Nature is inverted, that there happen winter-weather in Summer, and contra, Summer-weather in Winter, the Spirit is not departed from his work, nor is he become weak, but ſo diſpoſes, and that after his own Rule, viz. Northern cold winds and rain to breed cold, though in Summer, thick cloudy air and ſky warmth even in Winter. So though he fails of the Rule ſet in regard of the ſeaſons, yet not of the Rule ſet of ſuch cauſes producing ſuch effects. So the Spirit hath ſet a Rule in Courſe in the work of Grace, that ſuch cauſe produce ſuch effect, that it ſhould be Summer or Winter with the Chriſtian as the Sun of Righteouſneſs is near or far off. And in Winter we have not loſt the Sun, though he be not ſo near. Now when the Courſe of Grace is inverted, and man falls, the Spirit is not loſt, but this is according to the Rule ſet of cauſes and effects; care of mens ways to produce growth and comfort; neglect thereof, to produce failings. But yet the Spirit is not quite gone from his work.

VIII. Having the Spirit, ſpeaks not having the gift of Propheſie. As ſome did not diſtinguiſh before, concerning the Indowments of the Spirit, ſo do others not diſtinguiſh here, or at leaſt confound. Hence ſome will ſay, I believe, therefore I have the Spirit of propheſie: Of all men I believe leaſt they have the Spirit, that boaſt of it. But to this I ſhall only ſay two things, Firſt, Did the very holineſs of Chriſts perſon neceſſarily indue him with the Spirit of Propheſie? If ſo, then what need had he of the gift of the Spirit? It is ſaid of John, Luke I. 15. That he ſhould be filled with the Holy Ghoſt even from his mothers womb. But it is not ſaid ſo of Chriſt. Nor was John Baptiſt filled with the Holy Ghoſt in that ſenſe.

Secondly, Theſe are of ſo different natures, that one is not the cauſe of the other. 1. The Spirit of Sanctification is only to help our infirmities, &c. the Spirit of Propheſie not. 2. The Spirit of Sanctification is beneficial to the perſon in order to his Salvation; the other not. 3. The Spirit of Sanctification only proves good, the other may be the occaſion of evil. S. Pauls revelations were in danger to puff him up, 2 Cor. XII. 7. Leſt I ſhould be exalted above meaſure through the abundance of the Revelations, there was given unto me a thorn in the fleſh, the meſſenger of Satan, to buffet me. 4. The Spirit of Sanctification changeth the heart, the other not. 5. It goeth through the whole ſoul, the other not.

And thus I have done with the eight Obſervations I named, which may ſerve as good directions for our underſtanding what it is to have the Spirit, and what is the nature of his operations. I might add more. As, Firſt, One may have the Spirit and not know it. Secondly, One may have a great meaſure of the Spirit, and yet doubt whether he have it at all. Thirdly, The Spirit is not had upon courteſie of mans will, but by the overpowering of Gods grace. Fourthly, The chief way of the working of the Spirit, is to work Faith and Love, and to build up Chriſtians by Faith and Love.

A SERMON

PREACHED AT

S. MARIES Cambridge,

June 24. 1660.

1 COR. XIV. 26.

How is it then Brethren? When ye come together every one of you hath a Pſalm, hath a Doctrine, hath a Tongue, hath a Revelation, hath an Interpretation: let all things be done to edifying.

THE laſt time I ſpoke of one abuſe in the Publick Aſſembly of this Church of Corinth, and that was, misjudging and miſreceiving the Holy Sacrament. Here in the Text is another diſorder and confuſedneſs in the exerciſe of the Publick Miniſtry: from what ariſing uncertain, but certainly ending in non-edification, as the Apoſtle intimates by the concluſion of the verſe. Such confuſion indeed in their buſineſs, that we know not where to find them; and indeed the Chapter is very hard: very hard, either to find out what it was they did, or what it is the Apoſtle would have them do, or whence proceeded that enormity that he doth correct. We will inquire after it the beſt we can, and keep as near as we can to the words of the Text.

In it are three parts. I. What to do in a certain caſe. How is it then Brethren? II. The caſe propounded; When ye come together every one of you hath a Pſalm, hath a Doctrine, a Tongue, hath a Revelation, hath an Interpretation. III. The Determination given. Let all things be done to edifying.

I. What to do in a certain caſe. מה בכך; a School-phraſe; and if I be not much deceived, the ſame with מהו a word uſed infinitely in the Talmud, and in Tanchum of the word occurs a thouſand times.

ילמדנו רבינו בעל טוב מהו שישא את כפיו
ילמדנו רבינו שהו להרלק

It means moſt commonly, What is to be done in this caſe: or, May ſuch a thing be done. Either will ſerve here. Every one hath a Pſalm, hath a Doctrine, hath a Tongue, &c. What is to be done in this caſe? Or may we do thus, and keep to this Cuſtom? The Apoſtle reſolves the caſe in the end of the Verſe, Let all things be done to edifying. And ſo verſ. 15. compared with verſ. 14. If I pray in an unknown Tongue, my ſpirit prayeth, but my underſtanding is unfruitful. And then comes on מה בכך; What is then to be done? verſ. 15. I will pray with the Spirit, and I will pray with the underſtanding alſo. So in Act. XXI. 22. מה בכך; What is it therefore, the multitude muſt needs come together, for they will hear that thou art come. The Brethren at Jeruſalem are here deliberating concerning the caſe of St. Pauls preaching to the Jews ſtrangers, that they ſhould forſake the Inſtitutions of Moſes: the report of which had given great diſtaſte unto the believing Jews in in Jeruſalem. This was the caſe. τί ἐν ἐστι; what is to be done therefore? Then follows the reſolution. Do this therefore that we ſay unto thee, verſ. 23. This then is the Queſtion, what is to be done in a certain caſe? Now the Caſe is this which is the ſecond particular contained in the Text.

II. The caſe propounded. Every one hath a Pſalm, &c. Here are two queſtions. Firſt, Whether every one in the Congregation had theſe gifts? And Secondly, If not, whether every one, that had gifts, had all theſe gifts?

To the former queſtion I anſwer, It is undoubted, but that ſpiritual gifts were in this Church, 1 Cor. I. 5. That in every thing ye are inriched by him in all utterance, and in all knowledge. And in the 6. verſ. Even as the Teſtimony of Chriſt was confirmed in you. The teſtimony of Chriſt, i. e. the Spirit of propheſie. For that not only teſtified of Chriſt by preaching him, but alſo the very gift it ſelf ſpake Chriſt the Lord of glory. And in 2 Cor. XII. 12. Truly the ſigns of an Apoſtle were wrought among you in all patience, in ſigns, and wonders and mighty deeds. Such were healing, doing miracles, and among the reſt giving of the Holy Ghoſt, ſo verſ. 13. aſſerts. Nor is this gainſaid by their being not able to give up to Satan, in 2 Cor. V. where you find that cenſure was inflicted upon the inceſtuous perſon by S. Paul himſelf; for that was purely an Apoſtolick work. As to give the Holy Ghoſt was a peculiar prerogative of the Apoſtles, ſo the giving up to Satan was peculiar to them. So that the Corinthians had theſe gifts that were given, by virtue of the Apoſtles conferring the Holy Ghoſt, viz. to propheſie and to ſpeak with Tongues.

Secondly, Theſe gifts were not beſtowed on all, but Miniſters only. Here the Enthuſiaſts miſtake, and they make much of this example, and their argumentation runs thus, Every one had a Pſalm, had a Doctrine, had a Tongue, &c. And therefore it concludes, that any one may have the Spirit, and be a teacher in the publick. Which ſuppoſes that the members of the Church had theſe gifts of the Spirit, whereas theſe gifts were only imparted to Miniſters. For the clearing of this conſider theſe things.

1. It is not to be doubted, but that there were Miniſters in this Church ordained by the Apoſtle, as in all other Churches, Act. XIV. 23. where you ſee what their practiſe was, ordaining Elders in every Church. I need not inſiſt on this.

2. Thoſe whom the Apoſtle ordained, he beſtowed the Holy Ghoſt upon, otherwiſe they had been unable to have performed the work they were called to, that is, to preach the Goſpel to unbelievers, and to confirm their doctrine by doing miracles. In order to which he conferred the Holy Ghoſt on thoſe whom he ordained, Act. XIX. 6. And when Paul had laid his hands upon them the Holy Ghoſt came on them, and they ſpake with Tongues and Propheſied. Such an one was Timothy, 2 Tim. I. 6. where S. Paul reminds him to ſtir up the gift of God, which was in him, by the putting on of his hands.

3. Such were theſe perſons in the Text, that were endued with ſpiritual gifts, they were Miniſters, not any private perſons. For proof of this, firſt, See verſ. 6. Now I brethren if I come unto you ſpeaking with Tongues, what ſhall I profit you, except I ſhall ſpeak to you either by revelation, or by knowledge, &c. and verſ. 15. What is it then? I will pray with the Spirit, and I will pray with the underſtanding alſo, I will ſing with the Spirit, &c. and verſ. 18. I thank my God, I ſpeak with Tongues more than you all. In all which verſes he ranks them with himſelf, as of the Miniſterial function with himſelf. And for further proof Conſult, Secondly, verſ. 16. Elſe when thou ſhalt bleſs with the Spirit how ſhall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned ſay, Amen, &c. of the unlearned, ἰδιώτου; the word ſignifies a private perſon. How ſhall this private perſon in the Congregation ſay Amen at thy giving of thanks; as the Congregation in the Synagogue ſaid Amen after the publick Miniſter? So that you ſee, he ſets a diſtinction here between the Miniſter and the private perſon; it was the Miniſter, that had the gift, he bleſſed with the Spirit, and not the private man.

Thirdly, There were many Miniſters then ordained in all Churches. In the Church at Antioch there were ſeveral Prophets and Teachers, namely, Barnabas and Simeon, that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, and Saul: as you read in the XIII. Act. I. In the Church at Jeruſalem there were Apoſtles and Elders, XV. Act. 2. In the Church at Epheſus you meet with twelve, XIX. Act. And ſo it appears it was in this places; and there was the greater need of many Miniſters there, becauſe Corinth was great. And hence did Diotrephes φιλοπρωτεύειν, affect to be chief among the many Miniſters in the Congregation where he was, and it may be it was in this very Church, if Gaius to whom John writes was the ſame with Gaius of Corinth. This numerouſneſs of Miniſters was practiſed in the Chriſtian Church;

1. From the platforme of the Synagogue, where though there was but one Chazan, Angelus, yet there were ten learned Men, who took care of the Congregation, able to teach, and do other things pertaining to their office, as there was occation.

2. This number of Miniſters in the Churches was needful, becauſe Chriſtian Congregations were daily and numerouſly increaſing: And,

3. Be-

3. Becauſe ſome were to be ſent out to other places. And ſo the former Queſtion is reſolved.

Now as to the other, viz. Whether every one that had gifts had all theſe gifts? That will be anſwered by and by. But firſt,

Note we the miſcarriage of theſe Miniſters in the Church about theſe gifts is two fold. 1. That they ſpake with Tongues not to Edification: for they were not underſtood. 2. That they propheſied (when they might be underſtood, yet) confuſedly and crowdingly: ſo it ſeems in the Text, and by the Counſil of the Apoſtle: in 29. verſ. Let the Prophets ſpeak two or three, and let the others judge: and 31. verſ. for ye may all propheſie one by one, that all may learn. This miſcarriage in both theſe ſeems to proceed from a double original.

1. Either from ſome vain glory, and affectation of popular applauſe: or at beſt, becauſe each thought his courſe and faculty beſt. Some thought beſt to ſpend the time in ſinging Pſalms, others thought the time better ſpent in delivering ſome doctrine, others in ſpeaking with ſtrange Tongues, &c.

2. Or indeed rather in both theſe practiſes they Judaized. As in Chap. XI. they followed the cuſtoms and opinions of the Jews, in praying vailed, in wearing long hair, and in their miſconſtruction of the Holy Sacrament; ſo they did here, both in ſpeaking in a ſtrange Tongue, and in thus crowding to propheſie together.

The Jews read the Scriptures in the Hebrew Tongue, and although it were unknown, yet they would ſo read it, and have an Interpreter. נחתה בסנסיר The Doctor in his School whiſpered in the Hebrew. If you conceive the ſtrange Tongue here uſed by them to be Hebrew, as there is the moſt reaſon to do ſo, being a Church that Judaized in many other things, and conſiſting in a great meaſure of Jews. I need ſay no more to ſhew they Judaized in this.

So for many of the publick Miniſters in their Synagogues to ſpeak together, to read, interpret together, their own records do ſo far aſſert it, that they ſet the number how many together in each, and in ſome allow good ſtore. In like manner you ſee in the Text how they thus crowded, many ſpeaking together confuſedly in five diſtinct adminiſtrations. One hath a Pſalm, others a Doctrine, others a Tongue, others a Revelation, and ſome an Interpretation. And the word ἕκαστος every one, means not that every one had all theſe, but every one their ſomething of theſe. So every one muſt ſignifie if you read 1 Cor. I 12. Every one of you ſaith, I am of Paul, and I of Apollos, and I of Cephas, i. e. ſome for one, and ſome for another: not each one for all. And thus the ſecond queſtion is anſwered.

And now to proceed in the Explanation of the Text. The extraordinary gifts of the the Spirit are comprized under two heads in Scripture, Tongues, and Propheſie, XIX. Act. 6. The Holy Ghoſt came upon them, and they ſpake with Tongues and propheſied. And verſ. 1, 2, 3, &c. of this Chap. Deſire ſpiritual gifts, but rather that ye may propheſie. For he that ſpeaketh in an unknown Tongue ſpeaketh not unto men, but unto God, &c. But he that propheſieth ſpeaketh unto men to edification, and exhortation, and comfort. Where you ſee the Spiritual gifts in the firſt verſe are divided into Tongues and Propheſie. Now all theſe five are thus reduced to theſe two.

I. Speaking with Tongues. That which is meant by it, is couched under thoſe two words, Hath a Tongue, hath an Interpretation. That is, Either to ſpeak with ſtrange Tongues himſelf, or to Interpret them that do.

II. Propheſying. What is comprized under that, is explained by thoſe three words. Hath a Pſalm, hath a Doctrine, hath a Revelation.

1. The word Propheſying is taken for ſinging and prayſing. So 1 Sam. X. 5. Thou ſhalt meet a company of Prophets coming down from the high place with a Pſaltery and a Tabret, and a Pipe and a Harp before them, and they ſhall propheſie אינון משבחין Chald. They ſhall praiſe him. And Chap. XIX. 24, 25. And the Spirit of God was upon him alſo, and he went on and propheſied until he came to Naioth in Rama ואזל מיזל ומשבח and he went on and praiſed. And he ſtript off his cloths, i. e. his royal robes נשבח and praiſed.

2. Propheſying means preaching, declaring to the people the Doctrine of the Goſpel. So here hath a Doctrine. The Apoſtles by the Impoſition of hands ordained Miniſters, and gave them Spiritual abilities to propheſie, or preach and unfold the Doctrine of Chriſt and Salvation. So the Chaldee moſt commonly renders נבא by ספרא A Scholar, one learned and able, and that taught the people. So even that in 1 Sam. XIX. ult. Is Saul בספריא among the Scholars or Miniſters. It is uſually ſaid of theſe extraordinary gifts, that they are, Tongues and Propheſie: but ſee Act. X. 46. They heard them ſpeak with Tongues and magnifie God. This magnifying God is to the ſame ſenſe with propheſying. For they magnified God theſe two ways, viz. Singing or prayſing, and preaching the glorious things of the Goſpel.

3. Propheſying

3. Propheſying means ſpeaking ſome heavenly Revelation. So here hath a Revelation, and thus the word Propheſie is taken in its proper ſenſe, as ſome had in thoſe times: either a Revelation of ſomething to come, for a warning to the Church, as Agabus, Act. XI. 28. who ſignified by the Spirit, that there ſhould be a great dearth throughout all the World, which came to paſs in the days of Claudius Cæſar. And he is called a Prophet, in 27. verſ. And you meet with him again, in XXI, Chap. 10. Or the Revelation was of ſomething, that God would have his Church to do, as in Act. XIII. 2. As they miniſtred unto the Lord, and faſted, the Holy Ghoſt ſaid, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them.

Hence we may underſtand that in verſ. 29. Let the Prophets ſpeak two or three. That is, one to ſing prayſe, and one or two to preach. But verſ. 30. If any have a Revelation, let the firſt, that had the Pſalm, give place, and let him rather be heard, as remembring that God might intend ſome ſpecial admonition to the Church by ſo ſpecial a Declaration.

To diſcourſe of all theſe five would take five times as much time as is allotted me. I ſhall therefore only meddle with the firſt at preſent, Hath a Pſalm: and ſpeak ſomething concerning that great and heavenly work of ſinging of Pſalms in Chriſtian Congregations. And that the rather, becauſe it hath been ſpoken againſt in the croſs times, that have gone over our heads, wherein all Religion has been brought into diſpute. Although it is a queſtion, whether theſe Pſalms mentioned in the Text, were of their own dictating, or penned by others, the former whereof ſeems more probable, yet the very mode and work of their ſinging Pſalms, ſhews that it was a practiſe in the Chriſtian Church from its very beginning. Nay, though this place ſpeak it not clear, yet others do, That it was the practiſe to ſing Davids Pſalms in the publick Congregation, the whole Congregation together.

You know what arguments are brought againſt this our practiſe. 1. That the Congregation is not holy enough to joyn with in the performance of this Duty, the very ſame argument which ſome urge againſt the reception of the holy Sacrament. 2. That they being ſet forms are too narrow to expreſs our particular wants and thankſgivings. 3. That every one doth not underſtand, and we ſhould ſing with underſtanding, verſ. 15. Therefore I ſhall take up this Diſcourſe the rather, to ſhew that ſinging of Davids Pſalms is a Duty incumbent upon Chriſtians. For the clearing of this, I ſhall Firſt, ſpeak ſomething of the nature of this work, which will ſpeak it moral, and upon that account fit to be uſed in the Chriſtian Church. And ſecondly, the Evidence of the uſe of it in the firſt times.

And firſt of the Nature of this Duty. Many things are ſpoken of the excellency of the book of Pſalms; and many may be ſpoken of the Excellency of ſinging Pſalms. I may allude to that expreſſion, Many daughters have done virtuouſly, but thou excelleſt them all. So may I ſay in reference to this Duty; all Duties are excellent, but this includes all. In ſinging of Pſalms there is what is in other Services, and more. Prayer is our duty, Praiſe, ſpeaking of Gods works, ſinging are our Duties, but this laſt is all; it is like the holy Incenſe, mixt of all theſe perfumes. The excellency of this duty will appear further under theſe four heads.

Firſt, It is an action that helps up and keeps up the heart in a Spiritual frame as much as any. See the Apoſtle arguing for ſinging upon this account, V. Epheſ. 18, 19. Be filled with the ſpirit, Speaking to your ſelves in Pſalms and Hymns and ſpiritual Songs, ſinging and making melody in your hearts to the Lord. And V. James 13. Is any among you afflicted? Let him pray. Is any merry? Let him ſing Pſalms. If the heart would be up in mirth, uſe this to help it up, being not yet come into frame. If it be up, uſe this to keep it, that it be not tranſported. The Heart by ſpiritual muſick is called up to beat in the right mean. As David by his Harp calmed Sauls ſpirit; ſo this is proper to beat down immoderate mirth. And ſo on the other hand it is proper to free the mind of lumpiſhneſs and ſadneſs; as Eliſha being put into a paſſion and diſturbance at the ſight of the King of Iſrael, called for Temple Muſick to pacifie and allay his diſcompoſed mind, 2 King. III. 14, 15. And Eliſha ſaid, as the Lord of Hoſts liveth before whom I ſtand, ſurely were it not that I regard the preſence of Jehoſaphat the King of Judah, I would not look toward thee nor ſee thee. But now bring me a Minſtrel. And it came to paſs when the Minſtrel played, that the hand of the Lord came upon him. See a ſtrange paſſage in Jer. XX. at the 12. verſ. the Prophets heart is quite down, O Lord of Hoſts that tryeſt the righteous, and ſeeſt the reins and the heart; let me ſee thy vengeance on them, for unto thee have I opened my cauſe. At the 14 verſ. his heart is lower yet, Curſed be the day wherein I was born, let not the day wherein my mother bare me be bleſſed. But in the midſt of theſe ſorrows and dejections he falls to praiſing and ſinging unto God. At the 13 verſ. Sing unto the Lord, praiſe ye the Lord. He ſtrives to wind up his heart to a right pitch, with Sing unto the Lord.

As

As God requires outward and inward worſhip, ſo a ſpiritual frame for inward worſhip may be forwarded by the outward compoſure. Gazing drowſineſs hinders the activity of the Soul, but the contrary temper furthers and helps it. Singing calls up the Soul into ſuch a poſture, and doth as it were awaken it: tis a lively rowzing up of the heart.

Secondly, This is a work of the moſt meditation of any we perform in publick. It keeps the heart longeſt upon the thing ſpoken. Prayer and hearing paſs quick from one Sentence to another, this ſticks long upon it. Meditation muſt follow after hearing the word, and praying with the Miniſter, for new ſentences ſtill ſucceeding, give not liberty in the inſtant well to muſe and conſider upon what is ſpoken. But in this you pray and meditate, praiſe and meditate, ſpeak of the things of God and meditate. God hath ſo ordered this duty, that while we are imployed in it we feed, and chew the cud together. Higgaion or Meditation is ſet upon ſome paſſages of the Pſalms, as IX. Pſal. 16. The ſame may be writ upon the whole duty, and all parts of it; viz. Meditation. Set before you one in the poſture to ſing to the beſt advantage: eyes liſt up to Heaven denote his deſire that his heart may be there too: hath before him a line or verſe of prayer, mourning, praiſe, mention of Gods works; how fairly now may his heart ſpred it ſelf in Meditation on the thing while he is ſinging it over. Our ſinging is meaſured in deliberate time, not more for Muſick than Meditation. He that ſeeks not, finds not this advantage in ſinging Pſalms, hath not yet learned what it means.

Thirdly, This is a Service in which we profeſs delight in the thing we have in hand. Yea even in ſad mourning ditty we delight ſo to mourn, Pſal. C. 1. Make a joyful noiſe unto the Lord all ye Lands, ſerve the Lord with gladneſs. Tis a noiſe of joy and gladneſs. It ſpeaks that we delight in Gods Ordinances that we are about. As Muſick at Table ſhews we make a Feaſt of delight of what God hath provided. Solatur voce laborem. He that ſings at his work ſhews that his work goes on with contentedneſs. David at his harp, and compoſing Pſalms to the honour of God, what delight did he take therein. So that in ſinging there muſt be two things,

I. The Ditty to be applied by Meditation.

And II. Tuning the Voice to it in the beſt livelineſs we can, as delighting in the work. Nay, Fourthly, This is a Service wherein one is cheared from another. It is a joynt κόλλαμα. One takes mirth, life and warmth from another: a holy fervor and emulation, as the Seraphins, Eſa. VI. ſtrive to outvy one another in praiſing God. Who is there but while he is joyning with the Congregation in this Duty, feels ſuch an impreſſion and excitation: his own ſtring wound up by the conſort of the Quire. Tis a ſtory goes of St. Auſtin, that it was one means of his converſion, the hearing the heavenly ſinging of Pſalms at Milan. As all our Duties here in publick carry ſome bond and badge of communion: we come to pray together, hear together, and ſo profeſs our ſelves Chriſtians together, we being all Scholars in the School of Chriſt; ſo this of ſinging together more eſpecially ſpeaks it out. But herein is not only a ſign of communion, but alſo mutual excitation. As David ſpeaks when he was at this work, Pſal XXXIV. 3. O magnifie the Lord with me, and let us exalt his Name together. We do as it were joy one another to put on all as much as we can, to joyn together in the praiſe and honour of God.

I need to ſay no more to ſhew that ſo excellent a Duty could not but be ſetled by Chriſt, with others, in the Chriſtian Church, the very nature of the thing may ſpeak it. I ſhall therefore only ſpeak to three things.

I. The warrant of Chriſt for the obſervance of this Duty.

II. The admonitions of the Apoſtle for the ſame purpoſe.

And III. An Inſtance or two of the practiſe of all the Church. And all this will ſerve for illuſtrating the ſecond thing I propounded for the clearing this Duty, viz.

Secondly, The Evidence of the uſe of it in the firſt times.

I. Our Saviour the very next thing he did, after ſigning, ſealing, and ſanctionating the New Teſtament, was to ſing a Pſalm. And who then can doubt of the inſtitution of this as a New Teſtament-duty, Matth. XXVI. 28. 29, 30. For this is my blood of the New Teſtament which is ſhed for many for the remiſſion of ſins. But I ſay unto you I will not drink henceforth of the fruit of the Vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Fathers Kingdom. And when they had ſung an Hymn they went out into the Mount of Olives. Let us ſtick here a little, and from this ſinging of an hymne, ὑμνήσαντες; we may obſerve three things.

1. It is ὑμνήσαντες in the plural number. Beza approves of Eraſmus here for departing from the Vulgar. That hath it Hymno dicto; He cum cecinisſent. Beza hereupon, Ut intelligatur Apoſtolos una cum Chriſto cecinisſe. That men might underſtand that the Apoſtles

Apoſtles joyned with Chriſt in ſinging. And very true; for it was the cuſtom among the Jews in all companies that celebrated the Paſsover, ſo to do: for though one chiefly rehearſed, yet all had ſome ſhare in the Quire. And ſo in the caſe in the Text, though the Pſalm were of their own compoſing, yet the Congregation bare ſome part in it, as Miriam with Moſes, XV. Exod. 21.

Apoſtolos cecinisſe, the Apoſtles ſung. Was Judas there or no? I wonder it is not confeſſed by all the World; it is ſo plain, that he eat the Paſsover, received the Sacrament, and ſtayed the Pſalm, and was preſent till all roſe from the Table. And Chriſt knew him and yet gave the Pſalm, and ſung with the whole Table. And Peter and John knew him, and yet it were peeviſhneſs to think that they joined not in the Quire, when it is ſaid ὑμνήσαντες, when they had ſung. What can they ſay to this that refuſe to joyn with us in this exerciſe? Will they, can they ſay that Judas was not there? But if that be granted, that he was gone, yet at the eating the Paſsover it is well known every company ſung together without bogling.

2. Ὑμνήσαντες having ſung. What? The very ſame that every company did, viz. The great Hallel, as it was called, which began at the CXIII. Pſalm, and ended at the end of the CXVIII. No expoſitor but grants this, and no reaſon to the contrary; for Chriſt complied with all the rites of the Paſsover, and ſtarted not from them in this. Here the Lord of David ſings the Pſalms of David. What Chriſt ſaith by way of poſing, If David in Spirit call him Lord, how is he his Son? We may ſay the like by way of admiration, If David in ſpirit call him Lord, how did he deſcend, to make uſe of his Poetry? What ſays our Caviller now? Set forms are too ſtrait for the Spirit. He that had the Spirit above meaſure thinks not ſo, but uſeth ſuch. He that gave the Spirit to David to compoſe, ſings what he compoſed. That All-bleſſed Copy of peace and order, could have indited himſelf, could have inſpired every Diſciple to have been a David, but ſubmits to order, which God had appointed, ſings the Pſalms of David, and tenders the Peace of the Church, and takes the ſame courſe the whole Church did.

3. Ὑμνήσαντες, having ſung a Hymn. In what Language? Here is a queſtion indeed, and that might provoke a Scholaſtical diſpute both in Divinity and Antiquity. In Divinity: Did they ſing in the original Hebrew? That was not now underſtood. In Antiquity: Had they a tranſlation of the Pſalms and Hagiographa now? Yea, they had the LXX. But all that ſung underſtood not the LXX. But had they a Vulgar Tranſlation in their own Tongue? This draws into another queſtion, viz. What was their Tongue? I ſhould anſwer, Not the Syriack we now read; but the old Syriack or Chaldee, which they call Turgumica. And I ſhould anſwer to the former queſtion, That they had the Hagiographa now in the Tongue, as well as the Prophets of Jonathans tranſlation: and I find in both Talmuds, that each ſpeaks to it to confirm it. However who thinks they ſung in a Tongue they underſtood not, or in any other but the Vulgar? And here is our warrant for our framing the Pſalms into our Tongue and Metre. Thus have we ſeen the Example, nay inſtitution, of our great Maſter.

II. Now let us hear our great Apoſtle, the Apoſtle of the Gentiles. In two places he ſpeaks to this ſubject, beſides what he ſays in this Chapter, Epheſ. V. 18, 19. Be filled with the Spirit: ſpeaking to your ſelves in Pſalms and Hymns and ſpiritual ſongs, ſinging and making melody in your hearts to the Lord. And Col. III. 16. Let the word of Chriſt dwell in you richly in all Wiſdom, Teaching and Admoniſhing one another in Pſalms and Hymns and Spiritual Songs, ſinging with grace in your hearts to the Lord. Where let us take up three things, as we did in the former.

1. Obſerve how ſpiritual a pitch he ſet this at, and what elevation of Heart he aſcribes to it. Be filled with the ſpirit, ſpeaking to your ſelves in Pſalms and Hymns, &c. It is the very vent and iſſue, whereby a ſpiritual frame breaks out in its chiefeſt demonſtration. The more we are filled with the Spirit, the more we break out this way: and a moſt fit vent it is to the Spirit, when both Tongue and Heart ſpeak and put forth themſelves in their beſt vigor by ſinging to the praiſe of God, when the heart is full of ſpiritual fervor this excellent way. So in that place to the Coloſſians, Let the word of Chriſt dwell richly in you. When it does, it will break out in all wiſdom, and in Teaching and Admoniſhing one another in Pſalms and Hymns, &c.

2. Obſerve the three Titles he uſeth, Pſalms, Hymns, Spiritual Songs. They are variouſly indeed taken, but very generally for the Pſalms of David. Pſalms מזמרים i. e. Pſalms upon any ſubject. Hymns תהללים i. e. Pſalms of Praiſe. Spiritual Songs שירים i. e. Cantica magis artificioſa. Pſalms about which is employed greater art and curioſity. Others differ upon particulars, but agree upon this, that by theſe three are meant the Pſalms of David, and other Songs in Scripture. What? If ψαλμοι be the Pſalms of David upon any ſubject; ὕμνοι, Hymns be ſuch Pſalms as are picked out and uſed for ſpecial occaſions, as Hallel, thoſe of Degrees, and for every day. So that word ſeems to imply, from the word ὑμνήσαντες that is uſed to expreſs the Pſalms that Chriſt and his Apoſtles ſung at the Paſsover, which were ordinarily uſed by the Jews for that occaſion. Ὠδὰς, Spiritual Songs, were other Songs in Scripture beſides Davids. So you read of the Song of Moſes and the Song of the Lamb, in XV. Revel. 3.

ſeems

3. Obſerve the word ἑαυτοῖς, Epheſ. V. The Engliſh tranſlates it, to your ſelves, i. e. inter vos mutuo, among your ſelves, as Beza well, and as that in Col. III. explains it νουθετοῦντες ἑαυτοὺς, admoniſhing one another. Which ſpeaks it a publick exerciſe, and of communion, where all joyned, and ſtirred up one another.

III. Further examples of this Exerciſe in the New Teſtament we might obſerve in the Revelations. That Book ſpeaks of the State of the Chriſtian Church, and one great work of it is ſinging, Rev. V. 9. And they ſung a new ſong, &c. The ordinary practiſe was to ſing the Pſalms of David: but they ſung a new ſong: and that is there ſet down, Thou art worthy to take the Book, and to open the ſeals thereof: for thou waſt ſlain, and haſt redeemed us to God by thy blood, &c. So in Rev. XIV. 23. And I heard the voice of Harpers harping with their harps: And they ſung as it were a new ſong before the throne, and before the four beaſts, and the Elders, and no man could learn that ſong, but the hundred and forty and four thouſand, which were redeemed from the Earth. This place ſpeaks according to the acceptation of the Jews, how they ſhall ſing when Meſſiah brings them out of Captivity; for there is mention among them of one hundred and forty four thouſand of the twelve Tribes. And ſo upon other occaſions, you find the Church ſinging, as in XV. Chap. 2, 3.

But that that I ſhall fix on, is that in 1 Cor. XI. 5. Every woman that prayeth or propheſieth with her head uncovered, diſhonoureth her head. What is meant by the woman propheſying? Not preaching. For that is forbidden them in the Chapter wherein the Text is, 34. verſ. Let your women keep ſilence in the Churches, for it is not permitted them to ſpeak, &c. Nay, nor ſo much as to aſk any queſtion, which in the Jewiſh aſſemblies at their Sermons was ordinary, verſ. 35. And if they will learn any thing let them aſk their husbands at home. Neither is meant by this propheſying propheſying in the proper ſenſe, i. e. foretelling things to come. For it is a queſtion, whether any woman in Corinth, nay in rerum natura now, Philips daughters excepted, Act. XXI. 9. did thus propheſie. But it is plain the Apoſtle ſpeaks of the ordinary Service, which whole Congregations joyned in; and the praying and propheſying here uſed, is praying and praiſing or ſinging Pſalms. Take the Apoſtles own gloſs in this Chapter, verſ. 15. I will pray with the Spirit, and I will pray with the Underſtanding alſo: I will ſing with the Spirit, and I will ſing with the Underſtanding alſo. As all the Congregation joyned in prayer with the Miniſter, and ſaid Amen, verſ. 16. So all the Congregation, Men and Women, joyned with him, that had and gave the Pſalm, and ſung with him.

For the Concluſion I might produce even endleſs Encomiums and Extollings of this work in Chriſtian Writers, viz. That it is the work of Angels, the Employment of glorified Saints, the muſick of Heaven, &c. I confeſs I want words to expreſs the excellency of this Duty. Now to make ſome Uſe of what I have ſaid.

I. If I were in a vulgar or unlearned Congregation, I would give rules for ſinging of Pſalms with profit: and among divers, eſpecially theſe two.

1. To mind what is ſung: not only that the Heart go along with the Tongue in general, but to be carefully obſervant of what is ſung. There is variety of matter in moſt Pſalms: they paſs from one thing to another. This we ſhould carefully obſerve: now I pray, now I mourn for my ſins, for the Church of God, &c. To this I may apply that in verſ. 15. I will ſing with the underſtanding, if the place ſpeaks in reference to a mans own underſtanding of what he prays or ſings: but the Apoſtle there means of ſinging and praying to be underſtood by others.

2. To apply to our ſelves the matter we ſing, as far as it may concern us: To bear a part with David, not in word and tune but affection. This way we muſt uſe in hearing or reading the Scripture, to bring it home to our own concernment. So likewiſe in this action of ſinging. Thus did they Revel. XV. 3. They ſung the ſong of Moſes, that is, they applied Moſes ſong in Exod. XV. unto themſelves. And this the leiſure for meditation gives you opportunity to do. At male dum recitas, incipit eſſe tuus. He that illy repeats another mans verſes, makes them ill verſes, but withal makes them his own. But here I will alter the words a little, Si bene recitas; If you ſing right, ſing Davids Pſalms, but make them your own. Let the ſkill of compoſure be His, the life of devotion yours.

II. If I thought there were any here, that made ſcruple of this ordinance, I would ſpeak a word or two to them. Let me ſay but two things.

Firſt,

First, There is no plain ground, why to refrain from ſinging, but moſt plain grounds, why to ſing. A thouſand times we are bidden, Sing; never forbidden, Sing not. So of the holy Sacrament, tis commanded in Scripture, Do this, but never Do it not.

Secondly, Where a Duty is commanded, and a ſcruple ariſeth from ſome circumſtance, it is ſafer to go with the Command, than from it. It is commanded in Pſal. XXXIV. 3. O magnifie the Lord with me, &c. The ſcruple is, that ſome prophane perſons ſing, that ſet forms are too narrow, &c. It is warrantable now notwithſtanding theſe ſcruples to keep up to the Command, but not contra, not warrantable to omit the Command becauſe of theſe ſcruples. There is no extinguiſhing a Duty becauſe of ſome particular doubts concerning it. This rule holds good of the reception of the holy Sacrament.

III. I might ſpeak by way of incitation to all, to make Conſcience of this Duty. Fail not to joyn with the Congregation in the performance of it, ſtir up your hearts while you are converſant about it. Say to your ſelves as David to his Inſtruments, Awake Lute and Harp, I my ſelf will awake right early. I will ſay but this, Qui vult cantare in Cœlo, diſcat cantare in terris. He that will ſing in Heaven, let him learn that divine exerciſe on Earth. As S. Paul ſaith of Charity, 1 Cor. XIII. 8. Charity never faileth, but whether there be propheſies, they ſhall fail; whether there be Tongues, they ſhall ceaſe; whether there be knowledge, it ſhall vaniſh away. But charity only remains, and goes to Heaven with us. So I ſay of this Duty, Praiſe only of all the Services we perform to God here, goes along with us to Heaven. There is no praying, no hearing, no receiving Sacraments there, nothing but praiſing, lauding, and celebrating God: and that is the work of Saints and Angels to all Eternity. Amen.

A SERMON

PREACHED ON

Novemb. V. MDCLXI.

DAN. X. 21.

And there is none that holdeth with me in these things, but Michael your Prince.

THE words of an Angel, and strange because of the singularity spoken of in them. But one Angel and Michael to stand for the people of God? Where are all the heavenly host in such a pinch? At first sight the words are obscure: we must clear them, First, by the Context; Secondly, by the thing it self.

In verse the second, Daniel is mourning three weeks. And the reason of it was, because of the hindring the building of the Temple, Ezra IV. 24. Then ceased the work of the house of God. which is at Jerusalem. So it ceased unto the second year of the raign of Darius King of Persia. It was hindred several years, but it was only three weeks, before Daniel had comfortable tidings of it. That is called one and twenty days, vers. 13. But the Prince of the Kingdom of Persia withstood me one and twenty days. By Prince of Persia some understand the tutelar Angel: as if Angels fought with Angels: but he means the King of Persia, Artaxerxes. So vers. 20. Now will I return to fight with him.

Here observe Gods dispencing. Daniels prayer must first make way for victory. God intended good concerning his Temple and his People, but gave not commission to the Angel Gabriel, till Daniel had prayed, and then he goes out. Here a wheel on Earth moves the wheel in Heaven. Such power hath the prayer of the faithful, and such delight hath God in their prayers: that he takes as it were the Watchword from them.

Where is Praying to Angels? Had Daniel done so, what would it have availed, since this Angel had not yet his commission?

Well, now he hath upon Daniels prayers. I shall not question whether he had knowledge of his success before? If I should say, he had not, it would be no Solœcism; since the will of God is revealed to Angels not all at once, but as they are to be employed And observe that in Mark XIII. 32. Of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no not the Angels which are in Heaven. But I shall not insist on that.

Now he hath knowledge of the Will of God, and his Commission to fight against the King of Persia. And here we may understand a parallel Phrase, Judg. V. 20. They fought from Heaven, the Stars in their courses fought against Sisera. Angels are called Stars, Job XXXVIII. 7. When the morning Stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy.

Well, he goes to fight with the King of Persia, but he goes alone. None holdeth with me. Where are the thousands of Angels? There were many against Sisera, and none here? Is not the cause the same? Jacob to have an army of Angels, Gen. XXXII 2. and the whole people of God but one? Where are they, or where is their mind? The meaning is not tending this way: not but that the Angels are ready always to help and stand ſtand up for Gods people. But the meaning is, that God would do this work by himſelf. Only Michael muſt do it by his Angel. אין אחד Not one either man or Angel muſt ſerve for this, but Michael your Prince ſtands with me, and that is enough.

That by Michael is meant Chriſt, this very place evidenceth: in that he is called your Prince. For who is the Prince of the Church but Chriſt? And Chap. XII. 1. He is called the great Prince. And in Revel. XII. mention is made of Michael and the Dragon, that is, Chriſt and Satan. He is called the Archangel, Jud. verſ. 9. And ſo 1 Theſ. IV. 16. The Lord ſhall deſcend from Heaven with a ſhout, with the voice of the Archangel. Which elſewhere is expreſſed, ſhall hear the voice of the Son of God, Joh. V. 25. He is the Archangel in two reſpects: either as the chief Angel or meſſenger that ever God employed, or as Chief or head of the Angels. As ἀρχιερεὺς is a chief Prieſt, or the Chief of Prieſts.

So that hence the meaning is clear: I will go fight with the Prince of Perſia, and Michael, or Chriſt, is with me, and ſo the work ſhall be done miraculouſly, without any other ſtrength; for no other needeth. In the words then may two things be Obſerved.

I. That Chriſt ſtandeth for his people.
II. That if he ſtand for them, no matter, though there be no other.

As the Apoſtle ſpeaks, if he be with us, who can be againſt us? So may we ſay, If he be with us, no matter whether there be any other for us. I might ſpeak here of the Miniſtration of Angels. But that I ſhall wave at preſent, and fix upon this Doctrine.

That Chriſt ſets himſelf againſt them that ſet themſelves againſt Religion.

The truth of the Doctrine will appear here in the Text, and in this days Commemoration. The King of Perſia thought he might do what he would with the Jews, who were now his own people, had information againſt them, that their City had been rebellious, and hurtful unto Kings and Provinces, and thereupon forbad the building it, Ezra IV. But yet Michael there Prince takes their part againſt the Prince of Perſia. So they, for our deliverance from whom this day is celebrated, what ſought they? Who defeated them, if Chriſt had not been on our ſide? We need not particular proofs. Look into the Scripture, and into ſtory: who ever oppoſed Religion and proſpered? Chriſt is a ſtone to bruiſe his enemies to powder.

Now the reaſon of this is, Firſt, Becauſe Religion is Chriſts own child, of his begetting, and he will defend it. He created it in the beginning, and he will maintain it to the end. Secondly, Becauſe oppoſing Religion is the higheſt wickedneſs. Other wickedneſs may be of weakneſs, or for the ſatisfaction of the fleſh; but this is the direct part of the Devil: and direct oppoſition of Chriſt. Thirdly, Becauſe Chriſt delights in Religion. He dwelt upon the Ark, he walkt in the Candleſticks. The zeal of thine houſe, ſaith he, hath eat me up. And there are two things in Religion, that makes him take this pleaſure in it; the one is, that it glorifies him, and the other, that it tends to the ſaving of Souls.

Of this diſcourſe we may make this Uſe. Firſt, To tremble to oppoſe Soul-ſaving Religion. Secondly, We may ſee the certain induring and continuance of it, becauſe Chriſt defends it. And thirdly, We may learn to what to aſcribe our deliverance this day. Not to us, not to us, but to thy Name give the glory. In Scripture Gods gracious dealing with his people is aſcribed to his mercy, and to his Name. And to that alone muſt the glory of this our deliverance be given alſo.

A SERMON PREACHED AT ELY, Novemb. V. MDCLXIX.

REVEL. XIII. 2.

And the Dragon gave him his power, and his ſeat, and great authority.

IT is recorded of Hannibal, that great Commander and Enemy of Rome, that being but a Youth he put himſelf under an Oath before the Altar, of maintaining a perpetual enmity againſt that City. And he proved as big as his Word and Oath. This day may juſtly call upon England, to ingage in ſuch a feud and hoſtility againſt the ſame City. For on this day ſhe proclaimed open feud and hoſtility againſt England. This day ſhe ſhewed that her Doctrine and practiſe and Church is not to be reconciled to: her Doctrine deſtruction, her Practiſe murther, her Charity cruelty, her Piety barrels of powder. In a word as Joab to David, 2 Sam. XIX. 6. Thou haſt declared this day, that thou regardeſt neither Princes nor Servants: for this day I perceive, that if Abſalom had lived, and we all had died this day, then it had pleaſed thee well. This day ſhe declared, that ſhe regarded neither Princes nor Servants, who this day may perceive, that if Abſalom had lived, and we had all died, if Popery might have lived, though all England had periſhed, ſhe had liked it well; and indeed that was her great deſire and great deſign.

The day commemorates a Deviliſh plot, and a Divine deliverance, and the work of the day very ſutable is, as to render all our Praiſes and Thankſgivings poſſible to the Author of our Deliverance; ſo to whet our deteſtation againſt the Author of ſuch a Plot and Deſign. To help on this latter I have choſen theſe words, that I have read, that out of them I may lay before you the picture of that City, that fathered and foſtered ſuch a Plot; and the ſight of that may help on the former, and ſet an edge upon our Thanksgivings, when we ſee from whom and from what we were delivered.

The words that I have read, I look upon as one of the moſt remarkable paſſages in this book; (which book hath not a few paſſages very remarkable) That the Devil ſhould give his ſeat and Authority and Power to Rome. For that by the Dragon is meant the Devil, there is none can doubt: and that by the Beaſt ſpoken of here, and whoſe ſtory runs on through the greateſt part of the Book, is meant Rome, needs not much proving; for Romaniſts themſelves do not deny it. Before I proceed further, I cannot but remember and mention two things, which are recorded by Roman Hiſtorians themſelves concerning their City.

I. They tell you that the proper Name of Rome was a great ſecret, and that very few knew it, and that it was not to be uttered. And Pliny tells you of a man that was put to Death for calling Rome by its ſecret proper Name. Our Apocalyptick doth not mention Rome by name in all this Book; but truly he gives it its very proper and ſignificant name, one while calling it Babylon, Chap. XVII. 18. Another while Egypt and Sodom, Chap. XI. 8. And what qualities of Babylon, Egypt and Sodom were, every one very well knows.

II. Thoſe

II. Thoſe Hiſtorians tell you, that whereas it was commonly known, under what Tutelar God or Deity other Cities were, ſome under Mars, ſome under Jupiter, ſome under Hercules, it was utterly unknown, who was the Tutelar God of Rome. Our Apocalyptick here reſolved that ſcruple; he tells you who is the Patron and Deity of that City, under whoſe Tutelage and Guardianſhip it is, viz. of the Dragon, the old Serpent the Devil, who gives his ſeat and power and great authority to it. For that Rome is meant here, and all along through divers Chapters forward is not only the conſent and opinion of antient Fathers, not only of Proteſtants, but the very Romaniſts themſelves grant it, if you will but grant the diſtinction twixt Imperial and Papal, Heathen and Chriſtian. And indeed our Apoſtle hath ſo plainly charactered it, that it cannot be denied, that he means that City.

In Chap. XVII. 9. He telleth that the Scarlet whore, that is drunk with the blood of the Saints ſitteth on ſeven Mountains, which is the very character of Rome in her own Poets and Hiſtorians, and they reckon the ſeven Mountains by name on which the City ſtood, and at verſ. 18. he ſaith, The whore which thou ſaweſt is that great City, which reigneth over the Kings of the Earth. Now he is a meer ſtranger to Hiſtory, that knoweth not that Rome, when John wrote this Revelation, ruled all Kings and Kingdoms; and even any one may gather ſo much from Luke II. 1. where it is ſaid, There went out a Decree from Ceſar Auguſtus, that all the World ſhould be taxed: meaning only the Roman Empire, which is reputed there, as ruling and ſpreading over all the World. Divers more demonſtrations might be given, but they need not, ſince Papiſts themſelves cannot but grant it. So that the ſubject of the matter in the Text thus underſtood, yields us this clear Doctrine and Demonſtration,

That Rome is the Devils ſeat, his Deputy and Vicegerent: one that the Devil hath inveſted in his own Throne and Power, and ſet it as Vice-Devil upon Earth. And can any good thing come out of ſuch a Nazareth as this? It is no wonder if fire and gunpowder, miſchief and deſtruction come from this City, when it is, as it were, the Deputy-Hell, that the Devil hath conſtituted on Earth, to act his authority and power. Glorious things are ſpoken of the City of God, Pſal. LXXXVI. 3. But what things are to be ſpoken of the City of the Devil? I ſhall not fetch colours any where from abroad to paint out its blackneſs, though Hiſtories relate infinitely horrid actions of it, as black as Hell; I ſhall only uſe thoſe colours that are afforded by the Scripture, and take my diſcourſe only from within the compaſs of that.

When you read of the Devils ſhewing Chriſt all the Kingdoms of the Earth and the glory of them, do you not preſently conceive that he ſhewed him Rome, and her dominion and glory? For there was no glory and pomp on Earth then comparable to her glory and pomp. And when you read that he ſaid, All theſe will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down, &c. that he offered to make him Ceſar? And when he ſaith, For that is mine, and to whomſoever I will I give it; how agreeable is it with the Text, that that ſeat, authority and power, was the Dragons, but he gave it to that Beaſt? It is not ſo ſaid of the other Monarchies that had gone before. It is not ſo ſaid of Babylon, Greece, &c. that the Devil gave them their Power and Authority, as it is ſaid of Rome in this place, nor indeed could it ſo properly be ſaid of them, as I ſhall obſerve afterward.

And here I doubt the fift Monarchy Man is foully miſtaken in his reckoning, when he accounts the fift Monarchy to be the Kingdom of Chriſt, whereas indeed the fift Monarchy was this Kingdom of the Devil. In the ſecond and ſeventh Chapter of Daniel, you read of the four Monarchies, and all deſtroyed before Chriſt came in the fleſh, as is apparently to be obſerved there. They were the Babylonian, Mede-Perſian, Grecian and Syro-Grecian, and after them roſe the fift, this of the Roman. And which is obſervable, and which may be obſerved out of Roman Records, It began moſt properly to be a Monarchy that very year, that our Saviour was born, as might be ſhewed out of Dion, &c. if material; and ſo Chriſt and this Roman Beaſt born and brought forth at the very ſame time.

Well, the Devil gave his Seat and Power to this Beaſt, this City. If you look for any thing but Deviliſhneſs and miſchief from it, you look for Grapes of Thorns, and Figs of Thiſtles. True, there was in the beginning of the Goſpel a flock of Chriſt there holy, and their Faith famous, Rom. I. 8. but poor men they were underlings and of no power. We ſpeak of Rome in its pomp and power, acting in its authority and dominion, as it ruled over all the World: and as it was inveſted in the Authority and Seat of the Dragon himſelf.

And why did the Devil give his Seat and Power and great Authority to it? You may eaſily gueſs for what, viz. that it ſhonld be an enemy to that, and them to whom he himſelf was chiefly an Enemy, Chriſt, and his Goſpel, and his People. We cannot ſay, that Rome conquered Nations, and ſubdued Kingdoms by the power of the Dragon, ſo properly as that Rome fought againſt Chriſt and his Goſpel and People by the power of the Dragon.

Dragon. And this was the very end, why the Dragon gave him his Seat and Power. And that City hath done that work for her Lord and Master the Dragon, as faithfully, zealously, constantly as the Dragon himself could have done. For indeed the spirit of the Dragon hath all along acted her, and been in her.

The first cast of her office for her Master, and which shews what she would do all along for him, was, that she murthered Christ himself, the Lord of life. I said before that it is not said of the Monarchies before, that the Dragon gave his power and his seat and great authority to them, nor indeed could it so properly be said of them, as of Rome. For the Dragon had something for Rome to do, which they did not, could not, viz. to murther the Saviour of the World, the Lord of Glory. In Rev. XI. 8. where mention is made of the witnesses Prophesying, and being martyred, it is said, Their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great City, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also our Lord was crucified. When you hear of the City where our Lord was crucified, you will think of Jerusalem, but when you hear of the great City, this Apostle teaches us to look at Rome. And who can but observe that, which our Saviour himself saith concerning himself, Luke XVIII. 32, 33. The Son of man shall be delivered to the Gentiles, and shall be mocked and spitefully entreated, and spitted on. And they shall scourge him and put him to death. Who was it that so spitefully entreated, and put to death the Son of God? The Gentiles. And who those Gentiles? The Evangelists tells you who: Pilate the Roman Governor, and the Roman Souldiers, and that by the Authority and Tyranny of Rome, and in the cause of Rome, that would have no King but Cesar. There were two Nations that had a hand in the conspiracy of Christs murther, the Jew and the Roman, and whether of them deeper in the murther? The Evangelists tell, and the Jews themselves tell, that the Roman must do it, or it could not be done. Joh. XVIII. 31. Pilate said unto them, Take ye him and judge him according to your Law; the Jews therefore said unto him, It is not lawful for us to put any man to death. Therefore thou must do it, or it will not be done. And he did it.

And now as Hannibals father brought him to an Altar, and engaged him in an oath to be an enemy to Rome, so let me bring your thoughts to Christs cross, and engage your hearts in such another enmity. Christian, it was Rome that murthered thy Saviour, and need I to say any more? As oft as you read, repeat the History of our Saviours bitter passion, remember Rome, for it was Rome that caused him so to suffer, and Pontius Pilate brought him to it by the Authority of Rome. And the very frame of the Article in the Creed, Suffered under Pontius Pilate, hints you to observe and remember such a thing. For if it had meant to intimate Christs sufferings only, it had been enough to have said, He suffered, without saying any more, but when he saith, He suffered under Pontius Pilate, it calls you to think of that Power and Tyranny by which he suffered, viz. the Power and Tyranny of Rome, which Pontius Pilate the Roman Governor acted and exercised.

And here let us argue with a Romanist according to the cue of his own Logick: He saith Peter was at Rome, &c. Ergo. We argue likewise, Pilate was at Jerusalem, &c. Ergo. Here was a sad beginning, and that which speaks plainly, why it was that the Devil made Rome his Deputy, and invested it in his Seat and Power, viz. that it might murther his great enemy, the Lord Christ. And this was but too plain a prognostick what it would do to the members of Christ in succeeding generations; which how it did, there are so many thousand stories written in blood, that I need not to mention them.

I might begin with the Ten Persecutions raised by the Heathen Emperors against the Professors of Christ and his Gospel: wherein so many thousand poor Christians were destroyed with the most exquisite torments that could be invented, and whereby that City and Empire shewed, how zealously it wrought for its Master, and would not spare the dry tree, when it had cut down the green, would not spare Christ in his members who had so little spared him himself in his own person.

But a Papist will say, True indeed, Heathen Rome was even as you say, but Papal Rome is of another kind of temper. It is the Church of Christ, the Mother Church, the chief of Churches. It was Babylon, and Sodom and Egypt in the Heathen Emperors time, and the seat of the Devil, but under the Popes it is Jerusalem, Sion, and the City of God.

I should ask him that pleads thus one question, and ere ever I should turn Romanist I would be resolved of, but I doubt the infallible chair it self is not able to resolve it; and that is this. Whence it is, that since the Jew, that had a hand in murthering Christ, hath laid under a curse ever since, and hath been utterly cast off of God for it, and is like to be to the end: how comes it to pass that the Roman, that had a hand as deep in that horrid act, if not deeper, should be so blessed, as to be the only people and Church of God? That Jerusalem for that fact should be a curse, a hissing, and an everlasting desolation, and that Rome, that was as guilty every whit, should be a blessing, a renown, and the prime Church of all Churches? Let a Papist solidly unriddle me this, and he says something. And

I.

H. And to ſpeak to what he pleads, we may firſt anſwer with that common ſaying, Ubi lex non diſtinguit, &c. what the Word of God doth not diſtinguiſh, we are not to make any diſtinction about; but of any differences of qualities twixt Rome Heathen and Papal, the Word of God doth not diſtinguiſh, unleſs it ſhew the Papal to be the worſe of the two. In this Chapter indeed, it diſtinguiſhes of the change of ſtate and government from Imperial to Pontifical, but for miſchievouſneſs and abomination there is no ſuch diſtinction, Rome Heathen in the beginning of the Chapter is a Beaſt like a Leopard with feet like a Bear, and a mouth like a Lion. And Rome Papal at verſ. 11. a beaſt like a Lamb, but it ſpeaks like a Dragon, and exerciſeth all the power of the former Beaſt, and is not behind it a whit in wickedneſs and cruelty. A Lamb in ſhew, but a Dragon, a Devil in ſpeech, and the very former beaſt in demeanor; the former beaſt had the mouth of a Lion, this of a Dragon, the former bad, this worſe. And look but at ſeveral places, that ſpeak of this City, and you find, they ſpeak of it without any ſuch diſtinction of quality, but that Rome all along is her ſelf, i. e. ſtark naught till her latter end, and till ſhe periſh.

I. The firſt time you meet with any hint of Rome in Scripture is Numb. XXIV. 24. And ſhips ſhall come from the coaſt of Chittim, and ſhall afflict Aſſhur, and ſhall afflict Eber, and he alſo ſhall periſh for ever. Where by Chittim, that Rome and Italy are meant, it is the conſent both of Jews and Chriſtians, both of Proteſtants and Papiſts; and the very intent and ſtory of the paſſage doth ſo enforce it to be taken. And the words ſhew, how Ships and Souldiers from Rome, ſhould afflict and conquer Aſſyria, who had been once the great afflicter, and that they ſhould afflict and conquer Heber, or the Hebrews, the afflicted people, yea, afflict Chriſt the chief child of Heber, for Rome, as I ſaid, put him to death. All which, Hiſtory ſheweth to be moſt true. And he alſo, that is, Chittim, Rome or Italy, ſhall periſh for ever. The word alſo parallels her perdition with Amaleck, of which there is mention, verſ. 20. Amaleck was the firſt of the Nations; that is, he was the firſt of the Nations that fought againſt Iſrael, Exod. XVII. and that Nation ſhall periſh for ever. So Chittim or Rome is the laſt of the Nations, that ſhall afflict Heber and the Iſrael of God, and he alſo ſhall periſh for ever. Now do you find any ſuch diſtinction here, as that Rome Papal ſhould be holy, bleſſed and the moſt excellent Church in the World, when the concluſion, the period of Chittim is, that he ſhall periſh for ever.

II. And the laſt time, that there is diſcourſe in Scripture of Rome, it makes this diſtinction indeed of the ſtate and government of it, that Rome Heathen is the Beaſt, and Papal is the falſe Prophet, but it leaves both under the ſame condemnation, and periſhing for ever, Revel. XIX. 20. And the Beaſt was taken and the falſe Prophet: And both theſe were taken, and caſt alive into a lake of fire burning with brimſtone.

III. Antichriſt in Scripture is charactered under the character of Apoſtaſie, or falling away from the Truth, 2 Theſ. II. 3, 4. There muſt be a falling away firſt, and then the Man of ſin ſhall be revealed. And Rev. IX. 1. I ſaw a ſtar fall from Heaven unto the Earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomleſs pit. And he opened the bottomleſs pit, and there aroſe a ſmoke out of the pit, as the ſmoke of a great furnace, and the Sun and the Air were darkened by reaſon of the ſmoke of the pit. And there came out of the ſmoke Locuſts upon the Earth, &c. He that lets Hell looſe, and opens the bottomleſs pit, and lets out ſmoke that darkneth all the World, and lets out Locuſts that devour all before them. He is a Star, a Churchman, an Angel, a Miniſter of the Church, (as Chap. I. 20. The ſeven Stars are the Angels of the ſeven Churches) but a Star fallen from Heaven: a Miniſter apoſtatized and revolted from the Truth; or elſe he would not rightly reſemble his father the Devil, who abode not in the truth, but fell from it, and became an enemy. Now let any one judge, whether Rome Heathen or Papal, be this apoſtatized wretch, and whether of them hath departed from the truth. Rome Heathen never embraced the truth, and ſo could never fall from it; Rome Papal hath done it with a witneſs.

IV. And laſtly, That much miſtaken place in Revel. XX. ſpeaks to this very tenour we are upon. Firſt, The old Dragon, which is the Devil and Satan is bound by Chriſt a thouſand years, that he ſhould no more deceive the Nations, verſ. 3. The old Serpent had deceived the Nations, τὰ ἔθνη, the Heathen, for above two thouſand years with Idolatry, falſe miracles, falſe oracles, and with all blindneſs of ſuperſtition. Now Chriſt ſending the Goſpel by his Apoſtles and Miniſters among the Heathen or Gentiles, bound the Devil and impriſoned him, curbed his power and deluſion, that he ſhould not deceive the World in manner as he had done, but the World now becomes Chriſtian, and Heatheniſm is done away; and this is there called the firſt Reſurrection, viz. the Reſurrection of the dead Heathen, as Epheſ. II. 1. You hath he quickned who were dead in treſpaſſes and ſins. And Joh. V. 25. The hour is coming and now is, when the dead ſhall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear ſhall live. Well, thus the Devil is bound a thouſand years, during which time the Goſpel runs through the World, and prevails and makes it Chriſtian. At verſ. 7. the Devil is let looſe again and by Popery he makes the World as blind, deluded, heathenish, as it it had been in the worſt times under Heatheniſm. And it were no hard thing out of Hiſtory to ſhew that Rome Papal did equal, nay exceed Rome Heathen, in all blindneſs, wickedneſs, cruelty, uncleanneſs, and in all manner of abomination. But an hour, a day, a week would not ſerve the turn to deſcribe that full Parallel. The Text gives a full ſummary of all, though in few words when it tells us that the Dragon, the Devil, gave his power, ſeat and authority to Rome, and it hath, and doth, and will act, in that ſpirit while it is Rome; and can any thing but miſchief be expected from ſuch a ſpirit?

This days memorial is evidence enough, inſtead of more. A Plot and Deſign of cruelty and horridneſs, that Rome Heathen could never ſhew its parallel. And the old Roman valour, though cruel enough, yet would have been aſhamed to have been ſo murtherous, in ſo baſe and undermining a manner.

And now ſurſum corda, lift up your hearts unto the Lord. It is very meet, and right, and our bounden duty ſo to do, upon conſideration of our deliverance, and upon conſideration from whom and what we were delivered. Let us fall into the hands of the Lord, ſaith David, and not into the hands of men. Where had we been, had we fallen into the hands of theſe men? Bleſſed, ever bleſſed be our God, that he did take us into his own hand and protection, or elſe poor England had dwelt in ſilence. Imagine in your thoughts, that you ſaw that, which your hearts abhor to imagine, the curſed Plot to have taken place and effect: as Abraham from the hills of Hebron, ſaw the ſmoak of Sodom and Gomorrha aſcend up to Heaven, like the ſmoak of a furnace. Imagine that you had ſeen King, Parliament, Religion, England, going up in fire and ſmoak, and deſtroyed and come to nothing: can our hearts but quake and tremble at the only imagination of ſuch a ſight? Oh! what great things hath God done for us, that we neither ſaw it, nor heard of it; yea, the Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we rejoyce.

They ſhew how ſenſible they are, from what and from whom they are delivered, that ſing ſo triumphantly, and praiſe God ſo heartily upon the Fall of Babylon, Revel. XIX. the beginning: and they intimate what a vexation, a curſe, a plague that was to the World while it ſtood, when they ſo were raviſhed with joy when it is taken away. After theſe things, ſaith the Apocalyptick, I heard a great voice of much people in Heaven, ſaying Alleluia, ſalvation and honour and glory and power unto the Lord our God. For he hath judged the great whore, that corrupted the earth, &c. And again, they ſaid Alleluia, verſ. 3. And again, Amen. Alleluja, verſ. 4. They never think, they can ſay enough for ſuch a deliverance of them from ſo miſchievous a vexer and enemy.

The word Hallelujah is frequently in Davids Pſalms, rendred, Praiſe ye the Lord. Ye firſt meet with it at the latter end of Pſalm CIV. where the Jews note upon it is not impertinent, viz. That Hallelujah comes not till there be tidings of the ruin and deſtruction of ungodly men: and ſuch you have in the laſt verſe of that Pſalm, Let the ſinners be conſumed out of the Earth, and let the wicked be no more: Bleſs thou the Lord O my ſoul. Hallelujah. Ye have the like in that place of Revelations; the wicked deſtroyed, Babylon, Babylon no more, but ruined, fired, and her ſmoke goeth up for ever and ever; and then are the mouths of all the Church of God filled with Hallelujahs, praiſing of the Lord for ſo great deliverance.

When Babylon ſhall be deſtroyed, I ſhall not go about to propheſie, too many have loſt themſelves in that boldneſs and curioſity: but when the Plots of Babylon have deſtroyed, eſpecially ſuch an one as this was, which would have deſtroyed us all; when ſuch brats of Babylon are daſhed againſt the ſtones; we know not what Babylon is, nor what our own intereſt is, if our mouths be not filled with Hallelujahs, and our hearts with the praiſes of the Lord. Where had England been by this time if the Plot deſigned had taken effect? We had been by this time like the Syrians blindfold in the midſt of Samaria; our eyes blinded with the ſmoak of the bottomleſs pit, that we ſhould never have ſeen the light of that Truth and Goſpel, that we now behold. Blindneſs, and ignorance, and ſuperſtition had been entailed upon us to all generations.

Except the Lord had been on our ſide, now may Iſrael ſay, except the Lord had been on our ſide, when men roſe up againſt us, they had ſwallowed us up quick, when they were ſo wrathfully diſpleaſed with us: This is a day which the Lord hath made, we will rejoyce and be glad in it.

A

SERMON

PREACHED AT

ELY, Novemb. V. MDCLXX.

REVEL. XX. 7, 8.

And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison. And shall go out to deceive the Nations, which are in the four quarters of the Earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battel, whose number is as the sand of the Sea.

A Very sad story and heavy news: Satan loose, Gog and Magog in arms, Nations deceived, and a numberless army mustered, and going forth to battel against the Camp of the Saints, and the beloved City, as it is related in the verse following. It is no wonder, if there go before such a rout as this, such a Proclamation, as you have, Chap. XII. 12. Wo to the Inhabitants of the Earth, and of the Sea, for the Devil is come out among you having great wrath. I, and having a great army too. And as Balaam complains, Alas! who shall live, when the Lord doth this? Numb. XXIV. So may we; Alas! who shall live, when the Devil doth this, and the Lord suffer him? You cannot blame Elishas servant, when he saw the City where he was, beset round about with Syrians, if he cried out, Alas! Master, what shall we do? If the matter of the Text have any relation to our times, we have much reason to make such a crying out, Alas! Men and Brethren, what shall we do? And whether the things concern our times we shall search as we go along.

You see in the Text the Monster Goliath and his uncircumcised Philistins, marching against the poor Israel of God; and if God be not with them, what will become of them? Now blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for that he hath set such a memorial upon this day, as he hath done, and written as it were upon it, Emanuel, God with us. For if the Lord had not been on our side, now may England say, if the Lord had not been on our side, when these enemies rose up against us, they had swallowed us up quick, when they were so enraged against us. For that those that then contrived our Destruction were of Satans army, I believe, none but they themselves will be so senseless as to deny: and that they were of Gog and Magogs regiments, the design it self, and the truth it self makes undeniable.

That may seem something in consistence with the Text, which the Apostle speaks, Eph. VI. 12. We have not to fight against flesh and blood, but against the Rulers of the darkness of this world. But the Text tells, that we have to fight against them, and against flesh and blood too; against Satan, and against Gog and Magogs army also. But the Apostle understands the word only, which if spoken out, makes the sense clear, and reconciles him, and our Apocalyptick very well, and very easily together. We have not to fight against flesh and blood only, but against principalities, &c. And such manner of speech is no rare thing in Scripture, as might be shewed by several instances, if I would insist upon it.

And all the World is inevitably put upon this Dilemma, either thou must be of Satans army, or must fight against Satans army, and expect it to fight against thee. That therefore fore may ſeem an hard caſe, that God from the beginning put enmity between the Devil and Men, Gen. III. 15. And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy ſeed and her ſeed. And was there any need of this? Had not the Devil ſpight and enmity enough againſt men, without Gods putting enmity between them? Yes, enough and enough again, but man had not enmity enough againſt the Devil. He had been too much friends with him, in harkening to him, obeying him, complying with him to the violating Gods Command, and the undoing of all mankind; and ſhould he ſtill continue in that compliance with him, there were no hope of recovery, no way but eternal ruine. Therefore it was a moſt comfortable and happy paſſage, when God himſelf takes on him to diſſolve this ſociety, and to ſet them at odds, that the ſeed of the woman ſhould ſet the Devil at defiance, be an Enemy to him, and fight againſt him, and at laſt through Gods ſtrength and good aſſiſtance tread him under foot.

But they muſt look for as ſharp dealing from him, as poſſible. If they will be enemies to him, and not obedient and compliant, he will be an enemy to them to purpoſe, and omit nothing that may tend to their ruine, whether ſubtilty or ſtrength. For he hath his deceivings and his Army in the Text, and he hath his deceivings and his ſtrength in his temptations and aſſaults.

I need not to ſpread before you, the parts of the Text, they lye ſo plain in their ſeveral clauſes. The taſk before us is rather to explain them, which we ſhall aſſay to do in the method and order as they lye.

And firſt, the firſt clauſe, And when the thouſand years are expired, Satan ſhall be looſed, recals us to the third verſe of the Chapter, where Satan is bound for a thouſand years. There bound, here looſed: there bound for a thouſand years, here the thouſand years are expired: there bound and impriſoned that he ſhould not deceive the Nations, and here looſed he goes out to deceive the Nations again.

I doubt a Millenary and I ſhould ſcarce agree about the explication of this Scripture. He looks for the thouſand years yet to come, I make no doubt, but they are long ſince paſt and ended. He thinks Satan ſhall be chained up that he ſhall not perſecute or trouble the Church, when the Text tells you plainly that his chaining up was that he ſhould not deceive the Nations. And there is a great deal of difference between perſecuting and deceiving, between the Church and the Nations.

Do but call to thoughts, how the Devil deceived the Nations, or the Heathen (for that Engliſh word of ours is the very Greek word ἔθνη uſed in the Text) to worſhip Idols, or, as the Scripture phraſeth it, to worſhip Devils, to believe lying Oracles, falſe Miracles, to account the higheſt profaneneſs to be Religion: as the Proſtitution of their bodies in Fornication, to be divine adoration, offering their children to Molock, to be devotion, ſacrificing men and women, to be zeal, and to bury men quick, to be a bleſſed attonement. I ſay, do but call to remembrance how the Devil thus deceived the Nations, before the Goſpel came among them, and you may eaſily perceive what is meant by the great Angels binding the old Serpent, the Devil, and impriſoning him, that he ſhould not deceive the Nations, or Gentiles, as he had, viz. Chriſt ſending his Goſpel among them did by the power and prevalency of it, curb, reſtrain and chain up the Devils power and activity from cheating ſo abominably, as he had done hitherto. For the Goſpel caſt down their Idolatry, ſilenced their Oracles, diſſolved their Miracles, and curbed thoſe abominations that had reigned before. As thoſe that are any whit acquainted with Hiſtory, do very well know, and thoſe that but read the Bible cannot be ignorant of. And thus he bound the Devil, that he ſhould not deceive the Nations.

Secondly, His binding and impriſoning is ſaid to be for a thouſand years. Which may be taken Alluſively or Determinately.

1. Alluſively, or ſpeaking according to the common opinion of the Jewiſh Nation: which conceiveth that the Kingdom and Reign of Meſſias ſhould be a thouſand years; as it were eaſie to ſhew in their own Authors abundantly. And ſo the Apocalyptick may be conceived to ſpeak according to their common opinion, that he may the better ſpeak to their capacity: and that ſpeaking by things familiarly received and known, he might intimate his mind more feelingly to their apprehenſions. But withal he explains what is meant by Chriſts reigning, viz. in and by the power of the Goſpel conquering Nations to the obedience of the Truth, and ſubduing Satan from his cheating and deluding them as he had done.

Now the Scripture ſpeaking ſo much of Chriſts Kingdom, and reigning among the Gentiles by the Goſpel; that Goſpel ſubduing the power of Satan among them, and bringing them to ſubjection under Chriſts ſcepter: and the Jews holding that Meſſias his Kingdom ſhould be a thouſand years: our Evangeliſt relates to the former, and alludes to the latter, that he may the better be underſtood, when he ſaith, Satan was bound a thouſand years, and the Saints of Chriſt reigned with him a thouſand years.

2. You may take the time determinately, and that very properly, for just so long a time. And begin from the time that the Gospel was first sown by the Apostles among the Heathen, and count a thousand years forward, and you have them ending in the depth and darkness of Popery: when Satan was let loose again, and the World and Nations cheated and deceived by him into as gross ignorance, palpable darkness, horrid Idolatry, ridiculous belief of forged Miracles, and Oracles, and committing all manner of abominations, as ever the Heathen had been deceived and cheated by him before.

The Gospel from the first preaching of it among the Gentiles, had now gone through all Nations, and by it the World was made Christian; and all People, and Nations, and Languages were come to the acknowledgment of it, when up comes Popery in the West, as Mahumetism in the East, and overspreads the World with an universal darkness, that it becomes as blind, superstitious, deluded, heathenish, as ever it had been. And that Popery is more peculiarly here meant, whereby Satan deceived the Nations, as much as ever he had deceived the Nations under Heathenism, besides that the calculation of the time taken determinately, doth help to argue, the main scope of this book from Chapter XIII. hitherto doth also evince, which is to speak of Rome, or the Western Babylon, and as it were to write her story.

III. Thus according to the first clause in the Text, When the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed; upon which passage and providence, we cannot but stand and muse a little: to see Barabbas the Vilain and Murtherer let out of prison, and at liberty again. Can you but wonder at it, that such a horrid Vilain as he should not be kept fast, when he was caught and laid fast.

That Satan did break prison and loose himself from his bands, I suppose, none can imagine, that remember that Christ laid him up, and Christ was too strong and too watchful to let such a prisoner escape from him, whom he had so fast. And the very expression in the Text, Satan was loosed from his prison, hint that he got not loose himself, but was loosed by him that had tyed him up.

And this in some reflection may speak comfort, that the Devil whom God hath in a chain, is not at his own disposal and liberty, but that God restrains or enlarges, binds or looses him at his pleasure. He reserves him in chains of the darkness of his wrath and displeasure, that he shall not finally escape him; and he hath him in the chains of his providence and disposal, that at his pleasure he curbs and restrains him, rage he never so much, and be he never so furious.

But there are two things here that are a just cause of sadness, for this one of comfort.

First, That Christ should let him loose, when he had him fast, seeing with him there is nothing but mischief. Had he broke loose it had been another matter, but that Christ should loose him it is something the more bitter to think of, as it is very well worth the thinking of. Let me relate this story for answer to this strangeness: When the cruel and bloody Phocas was Emperor of Greece, and the Church and Kingdom lay under very much sadness and affliction under so wretched a Ruler; a good and holy man in his zeal and devotion, made bold to question God, why he had set so wicked a Governor over his People? And he received this answer, That Phocas indeed was as vile and wicked a Ruler as could be set over them, but that the sins of the People had deserved, that such a Tyrant should be set over them. If any one in like zeal and bitterness of Spirit should be so bold as to question Christ; Lord Jesus, why shouldest thou let Satan loose when thou hadst him fast, seeing thou knewest that he being loose would only do mischief and destroy? He might very well receive this most true and just answer, That it is indeed a very woful thing that Satan should be let loose, to go and deceive the Nations, and to lead them into blindness and error, but the Nations had deserved that they should be so served. And let the Apostles be the Lords interpreters, 2 Thes. II. 10. Because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved, therefore God sent them strong delusions, the great deluder, that they might believe a lye.

God had chained Satan that he should not deceive them, in that he had brought in the Gospel among them. But Jesurun waxed fat and kicked. The World grew wanton with the Gospel, and toyed with it. They prized it not as they should, improved it not as they should, slighted the truth, embraced error, followed their own ways and follies. Therefore, saith Christ, as it is in Esa. LXVI. I also will chuse their delusions, to give them up to them, and because decipi vult hic Populus, decipiatur. Therefore among them, Satan, and let them have enough of falshood, deceiving and delusion, because this people love to have it so.

Wantoning with the Word of God, and dallying with the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ is but too justly punished with the loss of it, and with removing the Candlestick out of its place, if men care not to walk by the light of the candle. When men will shut their eyes against the light, it is no wonder if God make them dwell in darkness.

This

This is one ſad buſineſs that Satan is thus let looſe to deceive, but behold! a ſecond wo cometh after it, viz.

Secondly, That he being thus looſed, you never find that he is bound again. He had been looſe before, and was bound, but looſed here, and for ought we find, looſed ever. Read the Chapter henceforward, and you find no end of his deceiving till you find an end of his being. In the Text he is deceiving, and his army is muſtered and marching againſt the beloved City: and what is the next news, verſ. 9. Fire came down from Heaven, and devoured them: and verſ. 10. The Devil that deceived them was caſt into a lake of fire and brimſtone. Aſk you, how long ſhall Satan be thus looſe, and deceive, how long ſhall his army battel againſt the Camps of the Saints, and beſiege the beloved City? The Apocalyptick here tells you till his army be deſtroyed by the fire of Gods vengeance from Heaven, and till Satan himſelf be caſt into fire and brimſtone. A paſſage which I think is very well worth their conſidering, which look for and ſpeak of ſuch golden and glorious times, yet to come before the end of the World.

Fourthly, Satan looſed, you ſee, falls to his old trade again of deceiving the Nations. IV. A right Jail-bird indeed, a Theif, that delivered out of priſon, falls to his old courſe of theiving again, and will not leave till the Gallows ended him. Would you not think that a thouſand years impriſonment ſhould have wrought ſome change in him, and amendment upon him? But bray a fool in a mortar, and he will come out a fool ſtill. Satan is no changling, but will be Satan ſtill. Who what he is, we ſhall have occaſion to ſpeak to more hereafter.

Fifthly, Among the Deceived by him, Gog and Magog is particularly named. And V. what is meant by them is variouſly, and by ſome wildly gueſſed. I might make a long Diſcourſe concerning Gog and Magog, and tell you;

1. That the Jews, from Ezek. XXXVIII, & XXXIX. where there is a dreadful Propheſie concerning Gog, do hold that ſuch a dreadful enemy ſhall appear a little before Meſſias ſhall appear, and that Elias ſhall come to fight with him; and they tell terrible things about the War of Gog framed out of their own fancy.

2. That ſome Chriſtians by Gog and Magog underſtand the Turk, ſome the Pope, ſome both.

Not to trouble you with things more immaterial, our Apocalyptick alludes to that Gog in Ezekiel: he means not the ſame perſon with that Gog there mentioned, but one of the ſame temper and qualities with him. So he calls the City where our Lord was crucified, Sodom and Egypt, Chap. XI. 8. becauſe that City was a place of the like wickedneſs with them. Now that Ezekiel by Gog, and the Land of Magog means the Kingdom of the Syro-Grecians, or Greek-Syrian, more eſpecially Antiochus the great Perſecutor of the Jews, and their Religion, might be copiouſly proved both by the order of Ezekiels propheſie, eſpecially comparing that propheſie with the book of Daniel, and by the ſtory of that Kingdom, and that King himſelf.

In all that large Propheſie I take up but verſ. 17. of Chap. XXXVIII. Art thou he, of whom I have ſpoken in old time by my ſervants the Prophets of Iſrael, which propheſied in thoſe days many years that I would bring thee againſt them? His meaning is, No, thou art not he. My Prophets propheſie of the King of Aſſyria, and the King of Babylon, that theſe ſhould come up againſt them to avenge my quarrel upon them, and to be my ſcourge to puniſh them for their iniquities. But thou art an upſtart riſen of thy ſelf, not to do my work, but to work againſt me, and againſt mine ordinances. Read Dan. VII. 25. that ſpeaks of this curſed King. He ſhall ſpeak great words againſt the moſt High, and ſhall wear out the Saints of the moſt High, and think to change times and laws, and they ſhall be given into his hands for a time, &c. And of the ſame Wretch, and the ſame actions ſpeaks he, Chap. XII. 11. He took away the daily ſacrifice, and ſet up the abomination that maketh deſolate. Upon which he that readeth 1 Maccab. I. will find a large comment: that he enjoyned, upon pain of death, the Jews to take up the manner of the Heathen, not to circumciſe their Children, not to uſe the Law, that he cauſed abominable things to be offered on the Altar, Idols and Groves to be ſet, and in a word not to uſe their own Religion upon pain of death. The like may be read of him in Joſephus, and other Authors; and that not only he, but other Kings of the ſame Kingdom, bore the ſame enmity, and exerciſed the ſame perſecution againſt the Jews and their Religion.

This is that Gog and Land of Magog that Ezekiel ſpeaks of, ſo bitter and grievous enemies unto Iſrael. To him our Apocalyptick alludes in this place, and ſpeaking of a Kingdom and party of the like temper, and that imitated him in enmity and perſecuting the true Religion, he uſeth the very ſame name; and meaneth that Satan ſhould deceive men into a falſe Religion, that they ſhould hate and perſecute the true, as Gog and Magog, the Syro-Grecians and Antiochus, had once done. And be it Pope that he intends or be it Turk, or both, I do not diſpute, but by the currant of the diſcourſe along the whole Chapter, Chapter, to me the Papacy is plainly meant more especially: and how properly it belongs to Rome, sad experience hath so copiously evidenced, that I need not to insist on any parallel. About the fortieth year of Christ the Gospel was brought among the Gentiles, then Satan began to be bound and imprisoned, that he should not deceive the Heathen as he had done: Count a thousand years thence, and look what times were in the World about the year of Christ MXL, and methinks, I see the World turned purely Heathen again for blindness, and superstition, and Idolatry: that Satan was then plainly let loose, and the Nations as much deceived then, as they were under Heathenism before Christs coming.

One thing by the way may not be passed unobserved, That in one sense he was loose when he was bound, and did a World of mischief one way, when he was tied up from doing mischief another: Within those thousand years from the first going forth of the Gospel among the Gentiles, counted thence forward, you find as bitter persecution of the Gospel, as bloody murthering of the Saints of God as ever was in the World, till he was loosed again, and Popery fell to that trade a fresh. Within the thousand years that Satan is said to be imprisoned, were those Ten bloody Persecutions, that Ecclesiastical History speaks of; in which so many hundred thousand precious Christians were horridly and barbarously murthered for the profession of the truth. And is not the hand of Joab in all this? Had not Satan a hand in all that butchery? No, he was imprisoned. But can such mischief be wrought, and Satan not there? All that persecution, and cruelty, and murther committed, and the great Murtherer from the beginning not there? By which very thing you may observe, that there is a great deal more danger in Satans deceiving, than in his persecuting: for his persecuting is not here mentioned, while he is said to be tied up from deceiving.

Upon the whole thus unfolded we may Observe these three things.

I. That Satans great work and business that he follows is, to deceive.
II. That it is his great Masterpiece to deceive in matter of Religion.
III. That it is his ultimate refuge to raise persecution when he cannot deceive.

How all these arise out of the Text, I suppose, none but may easily observe. His work before his imprisonment was to deceive the Nations, and he sets to the same again, when loosed from imprisonment. His deceiving of the Nations was by cheating them into false principles and practises of Religion, Heathenism before and Papacy after. And when he cannot deceive, the camp of the Saints, and the beloved City, he hath his Gog and Magog, his army as the sand of the Sea to fight against.

Need I to spend much proofs to shew, that it is Satans trade, and work and business that he follows, to deceive? It was the first thing he did after he was Satan: the Serpent deceived me, saith Eve, and I did eat: and he hath been doing the same ever since, and will be ever doing, whilest he is. He is a Lyer and the Father of Lies, Joh. VIII. 44. And that very name and profession of his speaks cheating and deceit. There was a lying Spirit in the mouth of Ahabs prophets, to cheat both him and them; and there is a lying Spirit in the heart of thousands and thousands to deceive and ruine them. I fear lest Satan have beguiled you, as he beguiled Eve, saith the Apostle to some that were a thousand fold better than some thousands in the World.

How abundant proof of this, that it is Satans work to deceive, might be fetched from Scripture, how abundant from experience? But what testimony would be given of this in Hell? If it were asked there, Do you think that Satan is a Deceiver? Oh! what a howl would be given up of the attestation of this, felt by woful and miserable experience? Oh! he hath deceived and cheated us all hither: he hath led us like the Syrians blindfold into Samaria, into the midst of their enemies; so us into this misery merely with his cousening; and we never dreamed of any such thing. He made me believe, says one, and to say in my heart, that there was no God, and now I feel there is an angry one with a witness. He cheated me say others, to think the threatnings and curses of the Word of God were but Bugbears to fright men, but now we feel them heavier than Rocks and Mountains. He cousened us to believe, that the pleasures of sin should never be changed, the contents of the Flesh and the World should never have an end. And how sadly and miserably do we feel the contrary to our eternal sorrow. Oh! Satan, thou hast deceived us, and we have been deceived, thou hast proved stronger than we, and hast undone us.

For indeed Satans strength lies in his Cosenage: cut but these locks of his like Sampsons, and he is weak and can do little. Satan with all his strength and power cannot force any man to sin, and therefore his way is to cheat them to sin. If Satan could force any soul to sin, all souls must go to Hell, and no flesh should be saved, for he would spare none: but since he cannot force and compel the Will, he cheats and cosens the Understanding, and and so persuades the Will. The subtil Serpent winds into the Will and Consent by deceiving the Fancy and Intellect: as the Apostle speaks of sin, Rom. VII. 11. Sin deceived me, and so slew me. Satan deceives and so destroies.

How he does insinuate and inject his deceit and illusions upon the minds of men, how he strikes fire, that the tinder of the soul may take some kindling, is not so easie for discovery, as it is sad in experience. It is a depth of Satan hard to be known, as to his managing of it, but too well known in the effect and operation. I shall not therefore trouble you with any discourse upon that subject, though something might be said about it both from Philosophy and Divinity.

II. It is a Masterpiece of his cheating to cheat men in matter of Religion. To deceive the Nations with a false Religion instead of a true, as he did the Heathen before he was bound, and as he hath done the greatest part of the World with Popery and Mahumetism since he was let loose. As it is the great work of Christ to propagate the truth, and to promote the Gospel, which is the great Truth of God, and Mystery of Salvation; so Satan makes it his business to sow tares among the wheat, to corrupt the truth as much as possible; and to muddy the wholsom waters of Religion, of which the Sheep of Christ should drink, as much as he can, that no man may drink but durt and puddle. As he himself abode not in the truth, Joh. VIII. so he cannot abide, that men should abide in it, if he can prevent it. In 2 Cor. IV. 4. The God of this World blindeth mens minds, that the brightness of the Gospel of the Glory of Christ should not shine to them. The Devil plays not the small game of cheating men of their mony, of their lands and worldly interests, as men cheat one another; but of their Religion, of the soundness of truth, of solid and wholesom principles. Whence else such Idolatrous principles among the Heathen, such damnable traditions among the Jews, such cursed heresies among Christians? The enemy hath done this, who cannot abide the fair growing of the Wheat, but if possible he will choke it with Tares. Do you not hear of Doctrines of Devils, 1 Tim. IV. 1. and of damnable heresies, 2 Pet. II. 1. Tis the Devils damnable plot and design, to destroy men by their very principles of Religion: to poyson the fountains, out of which they should drink wholsom water, that they drink death and damnation, where they should drink wholsom refreshing.

It is a cheat too sad, when the Devil cosens men to the hurt of their souls, by their chusing and using things for their bodies outward condition; but it is a Mastery of his delusions, when he cheats them in matters and principles of Religion, which they chuse and use for their souls. Tis a great and a sad mastery of his, when he brings men to sin out of the very principles of their Religion, to establish mischief by a Law. As the vilest Act, that ever was committed in the World, viz. the crucifying the Lord of life, the Jews did it out of the very Principles of their traditional Religion, which ingaged them not to endure such a Messias. And the horrid fact, that this day commemorates, which even amazeth all stories, and the like to which no Age or Nation can produce or parallel, they did it out of the very principles of their Religion: their Faith being Faction, and their Religion Rebellion, as our Churches have many a time heard that character of them.

It is not a trifling business for men, to take up principles and practises in Religion out of fancy and humor and self conceit, though that hath been very much in fashion in our days. It is Satans masterpiece of Policy, to make men forsake the Waters of Siloam that run softly, and to dig themselves Cisterns, that will hold no water, and so to perish for thirst. Is it not a desperate cheat of Satan, that men should out of principles of Religion, refuse the publick Ministry; out of principles of Religion should rant and become Atheists; out of principles of Religion should do, as they were about to have done by us this day, to destroy those that are not of the same principles and Religion?

A sad thing, when that which should be a mans balm becomes poison, and those things which should have been for his greatest good, should turn to his greatest evil, when his principles of Religion become his greatest ruine. Surely a very powerful cheat of Satan is there, when men chuse darkness to be their light, poison their diet, and doctrines of Devils to be their way of Salvation. I shall only mind you of the Apostles counsel, 1 Joh. IV. 1. Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the Spirits whether they are of God: for many false Prophets are come into the World. And that of another Apostle, Prove all things, and hold that which is good; And, Be not led away with every Doctrine.

The present occasion calls upon us to remember, what men seduced by Satan would have done to us, and what the God of truth and mercy hath done for us: and we can not better do either, than with reflection upon Religion. The Text before us tells us that Satan deceives all he can, and musters an Army of those that he hath deceived, to fight fight againſt thoſe that will not be deceived. For aſk that Army, why do you fight againſt the Camp of the Saints, and why do you beſiege the beloved City? And what anſwer in the World can they give but this, Becauſe they will not be deceived by Satan, as we are.

And aſk our Gunpowder Plotters, Why do you go about to deſtroy King, Parliament, and Nation? What quarrel have you againſt them, that you would bring ſo horrid a ruin upon them? What wrong have they done you, that you will take ſo ſevere and cruel a revenge? Why, they will not be as we are, blind as we are blind, befooled and deceived, as we are befooled and deceived.

A ſad caſe, that a Nation muſt be deſtroyed, becauſe it will not be cheated by Satan; becauſe it will not put out its own Eyes, and chuſe to be blind and live in darkneſs, when it hath Eyes and light. A doleful thing, that men ſhould be killed, becauſe they will not be fools. Think of the hundreds, that have gone to the fire and faggot, becauſe they could not believe Tranſubſtantion; becauſe they could not believe that which is contrary to Reaſon, Religion, and the trial of the Sences, therefore they muſt be put to a moſt cruel death. Poor England, becauſe ſhe will not be Popiſh muſt be no more; becauſe ſhe will not loſe her wits, ſhe muſt loſe her life. Poor Abel muſt be murthered, becauſe he will not be ſuch a wretch, hypocrite and vilain, as Cain. This is all the quarrel they had againſt us, becauſe we would not be of ſuch a Religion, as they are of, and had no mind to build our Salvation upon ſtraw and ſtubble.

Think of this and of the conſtant practiſe of Rome, to ſeek to deſtroy thoſe, that will not be of her mind and Religion; then gueſs who is the Gog and Magog in the Text, that takes up perſecution and fighting againſt thoſe, that will not be deceived by Satan, as they themſelves are. The deſign of this day engageth us to hate Popery, that muſt be maintained and propagated with blood and force. I ſhall not diſpute which is the true Religion, the Proteſtant or the Popiſh. Only ſet Jacob and Eſau before you, whether of the two is more lovely? Popery is rough and rugged, witneſs the Inquiſition, the Maſſacre, the Marian days, and the fift of November. Think of theſe, and hate Popery.

Let me enlarge my ſelf a little upon this ſubject, what a great cheat Satan puts on men, when he deceives them to become enemies to true Religion. There was hardly ever any perſecutor of the truth in the World, but he would confeſs this truth, ſo that I might need no other proof of it, but the confeſſion of ſuch enemies. Paul when he murthered the members of Chriſt without mercy or meaſure, he would be ready enough to ſay, Oh! its a curſed cheat the Devil puts upon men, when he ſets them to be enemies to perſecute the true Religion: but this Sect of Nazarens that I perſecute, they are Hereticks, Apoſtates, and tis a good deed to perſecute them, for they are fallen from the Religion of their Fathers.

Bonner that Butcher of Hell, that ſo bloodily murthered ſo many of the Saints of God in Queen Maries time, he would be ready enough to ſay, Oh! its a curſed cheat of the Devil to ſet men upon perſecuting true Religion, but theſe Lollards, theſe Proteſtants are deſperate Hereticks, horrid Apoſtates, that have fallen away from holy Mother Church of Rome, and it is fit ſuch men ſhould not live. And none that hates and perſecutes another for Religion, but he will be ready to ſay in the like kind: this being one arrand and very general cheat of Satan, to make all men, though of the falſeſt, worſt and moſt damnable Religion or profeſſion of Religion, to believe theirs is the beſt.

The greateſt Diſpute in the World is, which is the true Religion; and as the Apoſtles upon Chriſts ſpeaking of one betraying him, every one aſked, Is it I? So will every Religion in the World, upon this Queſtion, Which is the true Religion, anſwer, It is I. The Jew ſaith, His; the Turk, His; the Papiſt, His; the Proteſtant, His: one Proteſtant, his manner of worſhip and profeſſion is beſt, another His, and a third His. Like the two Hoſteſſes before Solomon about the living and dead child, one ſaith, the dead Religion is thine, and the living mine, and another, nay, my Religion is the living, but thine the dead.

How is it poſſible to determine this controverſie, about which there hath been ſo much quarreling, and ſo many, many vaſt Volumes written? And if we do not determine which is true Religion, we can make nothing of the Doctrine before us, which ſpeaks of Satans cheating men to be enemies to it. It would ſpeak high to undertake to determine, when diſpute is betwixt ſo Learned Men. But let me give you theſe two marks of it, which alſo may help to give ſome caution againſt being enemy to it.

I. That

I. That is the true Religion, and true Religiousnes, that the Devil hates most. That is the King of Israel, that the Captains of the Syrians bend themselves most to fight against, 1 Kings XXII. Need I to tell you how the Devil in the Revelations is continually fighting against the true Saints of God and their Religion? It hath been his quarrel ever since God set the enmity between the Womans seed and him, Gen. III. 15.

Now certainly it may be a very pregnant mark of discerning what a mans Religion and Religiousnes is, by computing, whether the Devil have reason to hate it or no. In the great question twixt Papists and us, whether is the true Religion? Bring them to the touchstone: hath the Devil any cause to hate worshiping of Images, to hate the casting away the Scripture, and taking up the wretched Traditions of Men, to hate their nursling of the people in Ignorance, and the blind leading the blind into the ditch, to hate the Popes pride and arrogance against God and Christ, and Kings and Princes, the Clergies domineering over the Consciences of Men to keep them blind, and so as they may make a prey of them?

In a word, hath the Devil any reason to hate that Religion that is nothing but paint and show and outside, and no life of Religion at all in it? These things make for him and are on his side, and bring him Souls to Hell heaps upon heaps, and he hath no reason to be an enemy to these.

Hath the Devil reason to hate or hinder the Religion and Devotion of him that is huge devout in the Church in all ceremonial and formal appearance, and they would take him for a Saint or an Angel: but out of the Church he is loose, covetous, malicious, cruel, prophane, and no better than a Devil? Such mens Religion will never do the Devil any disadvantage, or be any diminishment to his Kingdom.

But that Religion that gives God his due in holy and spiritual Worship, in holy and spiritual walking; that devotion that serves God in Spirit and Truth; that Ministry that in care and constancy, and conscientiousnes, is always striving to bring Souls to God, and to bring them beyond the form to the power of godlines, and to deliver them from the power of darknes to the Kingdom of Gods dear son; Let any man of reason and understanding guess, whether Satan do not, cannot choose but hate such a Religion, Devotion, Ministry. So that as Solomon judged, this live child is that Womans, because her bowels earn towards it: so may we very well judge, that to be the true and best Religion and Religiousnes, that the Devils bowels earn against, that he cannot but hate and be enemy to.

II. That is the best and truest Religion and Religiousnes that sheweth forth the most power of godlines. There is a form and a power of godlines, and as much difference between them, as between a picture taken to the Life, and the live person of whom the picture is taken. A form of godlines is like an apparition of a dead person, that carries the resemblance of him when he was alive, but it is but an empty airy Phantasm, an apparition, no substance: but the power of godlines is that that is substantial and hath life in it: a living Religion, a fruitful Religion, a Religion with power: as it is 2 Tim. I. 7. God hath given us not the Spirit of fear, but of power. I cannot but observe that in 1 Tim. IV. 8. the distinction betwixt bodily exercise and godlines. Bodily exercise profiteth little, but godlines is profitable to all things. By bodily exercise he means strictnes or austerity used upon the body upon a Religious account, much fasting, watching, lying hard, faring hard, and even severity upon a mans self. The Papists will tell you brave stories of such persons, and brag of the stupendious austerity of their Saints, Hermits, Anchorits, Cloisterers, how hard they faired, how they watched, how hard they lay, what cold, what heat they endured: whereas when all is done, all that may prove a clean distinct thing from godlines, and may prove but little profitable.

I might speak at large, what godlines is, as distinct from this, what the power of godlines is, as distinct from the form, and wherein true Religiousnes shews forth the power of godlines: but I will give you only the Apostles brief description of all. Jam. I. 27. Pure Religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the Fatherless and the Widdows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the World. True Religion is that that brings forth the fruits of charity and purity. The power of godlines is that that appears in charity and purity, to visit the Fatherless and Widdows, and to keep unspotted from the World.

Need I much discourse to shew what a sad cheat Satan puts on them that he deceives to be enemies to the power of godlines? If time would permit I might reckon by particulars.

First,

First, Is it not a baſe cheat of Satan to make men his drudges and deputies to vent his ſpleen? In the Fable, the Fox uſes the Cats foot to take the apple out of the fire. Satan puts ſuch mens fingers into the fire to ſerve his own turn. Sometimes wicked men are inſtruments in the hand of God to puniſh the wicked, and God when he hath done with the rod, throws it into the fire: but to be an inſtrument in the hand of the Devil to perſecute godly men, is a dreadful cheat of the Devil, to bring men to it: and if that rod ſcape fire, you might ſay, There is no God.

Secondly, Tis a baſe cheat to bring men to account it godlineſs, to hate godlineſs, to do God ſervice by doing him diſſervice: to cheat men even out of their wits, to think it Religion, to hate, perſecute and deſtroy thoſe that will not be as irreligious, ceremonial, profane, and evil as themſelves An old trick that began in Cain, 1 Joh. III. 12. and hath been in faſhion too much in all time.

Thirdly, To deceive men that profeſs the Goſpel, to perſecute the Goſpel, is to cheat men to the very height of iniquity. Some think this carries a great ſmatch of the ſin againſt the Holy Ghoſt. Certainly it will be hard for you to name a greater impiety. Error in Religion is ſad and lamentable, corruption in manners is ſinful and deplorable, but to perſecute and hate the power of godlineſs, breaths the very breath and lungs of the Devil.

A

SERMON

PREACHED AT

ELY, Novemb. V. MDCLXXII.

2 PET: II. 15.

Who have forſaken the right way, and are gone aſtray, following the way of Balaam the ſon of Bozor, who loved the wages of unrighteouſneſs.

THE laſt days of Jeruſalem are charactered in Scripture in one regard the beſt of times, in another the worſt. The beſt in regard of the dealing of God, the worſt in regard of the dealing of men. For

I. As to the dealing of God. In the laſt days of that City, (for ſo is that expreſſion to be underſtood moſt commonly, when we meet with mention of the laſt days:) God ſent his Son, Heb. I. 2. In the laſt days of that City, God poured down his Spirit, Act. II. 17. In the laſt days of that City, was the mountain of the Lords houſe exalted above the mountains, and many Nations flowed unto it. Eſ. II. 2. And in a word, in the laſt days of that City, were accompliſhed all the great things, that God promiſed concerning Chriſt, the coming of the Goſpel, and calling of the Gentiles. The happieſt times that ever came in regard of Gods actings.

II. But in regard of the actings of men, the moſt unhappy and wretched. For in thoſe laſt days were perillous times, 2 Tim. III. 1. In thoſe laſt times there were thoſe that departed from the faith, 1 Tim. IV. 1. In thoſe laſt times were Mockers, 2 Pet. III. 2. And in a word, in thoſe laſt times were many Antichriſts, 1 John II. 18. By which (ſaith the Apoſtle) we know that they are the laſt times.

And hence the generation of thoſe times are pictur'd ſo black and ugly all along the New Teſtament, An evil and adulterous generation, Mat. XII. 39. An untoward generation, Act. II. 40. A generation of vipers, Mat. XXIII. 33. And in a word, a generation that no man can ſpeak out their wickedneſs: for ſo the Prophet means, Eſay LIII. 8. Who ſhall declare his generation? Meaning the wickedneſs of the generation wherein Chriſt lived.

The men the Apoſtle ſpeaks of in the words of the Text are the worſt of that generation, as that generation was the worſt of all before it. That the very dregs of time, and theſe the very dregs of thoſe dregs. In ſo much that if you would give forth a lot to find out the wickedeſt generation of men, and the wickedeſt men of the generation, that had been from the beginning of the world till thoſe times, that generation and thoſe men would be taken. How theſe men are pictured at large in their proper ugly colours and complection in thoſe places in the Epiſtles to Timothy, in the Epiſtle of Jude, and this Chapter

Chapter all along, you may read at leisure. What their Character is in the words that are before us, gives a fair conjecture what they are in their full description; and the words speak them bad and bad again, though they say no more of them. They have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray, &c. They are gone out of the right way, and have betaken them to the wrong, and have chosen even the worst of wrong ways, the way of Balaam.

Of him and of his actings you have the story in Numb. XX, and forwards: and the Apostle gives a very fair Epitome of it here in a very few words, when he saith, He loved the wages of iniquity. We will first consider of him a little and his Copy after which these men write, and then we will consider of their writing after it.

I. You have him here described by his Parentage, and by his qualities. By his Parentage, he is Balaam the son of Bozor: by his qualities, He loved the wages of unrighteousness. That you may read of him in his story in Moses, though not in such terms, yet in equivalent; but his fathers name to be Bosor, that you find not there; but all along he is called there, and whersoever named in the Old Testament, Balaam the son of Beor. Those that are apt to tax the Originals of Scripture of corruption and interpolation, may chance think it is so here; and that some carelesness or unhappy dash of the pen made it Bosor here, when it should have been Beor. I remember the eleventh verse of the Tenth Chapter of Jeremiah, that it is written in the Chaldee tongue, and so is no other passage in all his propheſy, Thus shall ye say to them, The Gods that have not made the Heavens, and the Earth even they shall perish from the Earth, and from under these Heavens. These words come not into the Chaldee tongue by chance, or any inadvertency, but by sacred wisdom, to put so much of the Chaldee language into the mouths of the Jews against the time when they should be captivated into Chaldea in Babylon, that if they could speak no more of that language, yet they might have thus much of it, as to be able to answer the Chaldeans, if they should be braging of their Gods, or intice them to worship them, That the Gods that made not the Heavens and the Earth, should perish from the Earth, &c.

The change of the name Beor into Bosor relishes of the Chaldee language too, as they that are versed in that language may very well observe, Ain being ordinarily changed into Sin, and Sin into Ain. And our Apostle doth neither mistake himself in so pronouncing the name, nor hath any transcriber miswritten it after him; but he uttered it according to the Chaldee Ideom and propriety: and by this very word gives intimation, that he was in Chaldea when he wrote this Epistle. He dates his former Epistle from Babylon, Chap. V. 13. The Church which is at Babylon doth salute you. And this word uttered in the Chaldee Idiom, doth evidence that it was Babilon in Chaldea, though some would have it to mean Rome, which in mistery is called Babylon.

We might by the way upon change of the name, Beor into Bosor, observe these three things.

First, That Peter spent his latter days in Chaldea, and that there he dyed; whereas it is, so confidently asserted, but can never be prov'd, that he dyed at Rome. For he himself tells in Chap. I. 14. that he was now old when he wrote this Epistle, and looked dayly when he should lay down the Tabernacle of his body.

Secondly, That no tittle in Scripture is idle, but ought to have its consideration; according to the saying of the Jews, That there is no tittle in Scripture, but even mountains of matter hang upon it: And as our Saviour saith, one jot or tittle of the Law shall not perish: so not one jot or tittle in Scripture, but hath its weight. Here is one poor letter, which one would think were crept in by some oversight, yet that carries with it matter of important and weighty consideration.

Thirdly, How necessary humane learning is for the understanding and explaning of Scripture, which is so much cryed down and debas'd by some. They that cry out against humane learning, and take on them, that they can expound the Scripture by the Spirit, I doubt they would be very hard set to clear this place, and to reconcile Moses, and this Apostle about the pronunciation of the word Beor and Bosor.

Well, however these names differ, yet Balaam is the same both in name and nature, and no changing. He loves the wages of unrighteousness to day, and he loves them to morrow, and whereſoever he goes, that goes with him, and he is always at the same lock with it.

It is a strange passage in his story, that God should forbid him to go with the first Messengers of Balak, and yet suffer him to go with the second: that when he had permitted him to go with these second, he should by his Angel meet him and stop him with a drawn sword, and with danger of his life: and that after that stop he should permit him to go again, and restrain him no more. God saw his heart, how it hankered to curse Israel, that he he might get the wages of iniquity, the mony and reward which Balak had promiſed. So that one while God permits him to go, that he might try him what he would do, another while he ſtops him from going, becauſe he ſaw his heart was ſet on miſchief. At laſt he ſhews himſelf, after his diſſimulation all along: and when he had told Balak, that he would ſpeak nothing in favour to him, but only what the Lord ſhould command him; and had told his Servants, that though Balak would give him his houſe full of ſilver and gold, he would not ſtep one word aſide from what the Lord ſhould dictate to him: yet his heart run after his covetouſneſs all this while, and the ſilver and gold and honours that Balak promiſed run in his mind, and his mind upon them; he cannot but hanker after thoſe wages of unrighteouſneſs.

Therefore whereas God did ſo overpower and overrule him, that he could not curſe Iſrael, as with his heart he would have done, before he would have loſt that mony: he finds a trick to make them make themſelves accurſed, by counſelling Balak to intangle them in whoredom with Midianitiſh women. Curſed counſel indeed it was, and proceeded from a moſt curſed heart. A wretch, that knew by ſuch experience as he did, that God would not have the people curſed, yet he rather then loſe his mony, will make them to make themſelves curſes. A wretch, that prefers his bag of mony, before the welfare of a whole Nation; that cares not how many of them periſh both ſoul and body, rather than he ſhould fail of his prize.

This is Balaam, this is the way of Balaam, thus to love, thus to purchaſe the wages of unrighteouſneſs. For I need not to ſhew, why they are called the wages of unrighteouſneſs, when they are thus gotten. II.

This is the Copy, that they follow in the Text, and write ſo fair after, if the following of ſuch a foul copy may be ſaid to be writ fair. And who they were, the firſt clauſe in the Text doth give ſome notice of: that they had been in the right way and had forſaken it: and ſo had Balaam been ſo far in the right way, while he bleſſed Iſrael, if he could have kept him there; but he forſook that way, and betook to the way to make them curſed. Theſe moſt abominable ones in that moſt abominable generation we have been ſpeaking of; and the Text ſpeaks of, were ſuch as had been once in the right way, in the profeſſion of the Goſpel, but now were utterly revolted from it, and become moſt contrary to it. And ſo our Saviour ſhews the very topping up of the wickedneſs of that generation, in that Parable of the Devil caſt out by the Goſpel, but come in again with ſeven evil Spirits worſe than himſelf. So, ſaith he, ſhall it be with this generation, Mat. XII. 45. Of ſuch the Apoſtle ſpeaks, 1 Tim. IV. 1. Some that ſhould depart from the faith, giving heed to ſeducing Spirits, and doctrines of Devils. And he ſaith, that ſuch a falling away would diſcover the man of ſin, and child of perdition, 1 Theſ. II. 3. And the Apoſtle, 1 Joh. II. 19. ſaith, that many Antichriſts were abroad, come out from them, that profeſſed the Goſpel, but now were become Antichriſts. And this our Apoſtle in this Chapter, verſ. 2. intimates, that they had once known the way of righteouſneſs, but were turned from the holy commandment, that was delivered to them.

And being thus turned out of the way, and fallen from the truth, they were fallen into all manner of abomination. Read but this Chapter and the Epiſtle of Jude, at your leiſure: and you will ſee the full Character of them. In little take this account of them.

1. That like Balaam for love of filthy lucre, they made merchandize of ſouls, and cared not what became of them, that they might get gain. And accordingly

2. That they led them into all looſneſs and libertiniſm; to commit fornication and eat things ſacrificed to Idols; to riot in the day time, and indeed to account any thing lawful. I might produce Scriptures for all theſe, but I ſuppoſe, you remember them.

3. They were direct enemies to the power and purity of the Goſpel, and bitter perſecutors of the ſincere profeſſors of it. The Apoſtle gives evidence enough of this in thoſe few words, 2 Tim. III. 8. As Jannes and Jambres withſtood Moſes, ſo do theſe alſo reſiſt the truth. I ſhall ſpare more picturing of them: read but the places I have cited, and you will ſee them in very ſad colours.

And now let us look upon them, as very juſtly we may, as a very ſad ſpectacle; ſuch another as the ſpectacle of the fallen Angels; once Angels but now Devils: theſe once Chriſtians, but now brute beaſts, Atheiſts, Devils incarnate. In the curſed copy and example before us, Balaam, and theſe his diſciples or followers, we may ſee the fruits of two as curſed trees, as any grows by the lake of Sodom: Covetouſneſs in Balaam, and Covetouſneſs and Apoſtacy or revolting from the truth in theſe that came after him.

Covetouſneſs, that makes him to ſell a whole Nation to Gods curſe and plague and their own ruine, for the wages of unrighteouſnes. He hath got a bag of mony, and twenty four thouſand men of Iſrael are deſtroyed for it, and the anger of the Lord brought upon the whole Camp. And what cares Balaam for all this, ſo long as he hath got the mony. Oh! the curſed fruits of covetouſneſs that might be reckoned heaps upon heaps; I ſhall but mention one, and that may be enough. Covetouſneſs made Judas ſell the very ſon of God for for mony. A monſter of villany that the very Devils themſelves might ſtand amazed at, but that he played their own game.

And as for Apoſtacy or revolting from the truth, how horrid fruits and effects have followed and do follow upon it, Scripture and Hiſtory give ſuch evidence and inſtance, that to ſpeak of them would take up more time, then even this whole day would afford us. We ſhall only ſpeak of, one perticular, wherein all Apoſtacy and all the fruits of Apoſtacy are met and convened; and that is, that which this day gives us occaſion to commemorate and remember, viz. the Church of Rome. When you read of thoſe that have forſaken the right way and gone aſtray, remember Rome; for who is there that hath done ſo more? and when you read of following the way of Balaam, and loving the wages of unrighteouſneſs, remember that Church and City, for who hath done the one, and who doth the other, more than ſhe? ſhe cavils at us, as if we had forſaken the right way, when we forſook her, but we moſt truly anſwer, that we forſook her, becauſe ſhe hath forſaken the right way.

The Church at Rome was once in the right way indeed, and celebrated for it, through the whole world, as the Apoſtle tells us, Rom. I. 8. But how long did it continue in that way? I may very well anſwer, as long as it was built upon the rock Chriſt: but when it began to build it ſelf upon Peter, then and thenceforward did it forſake the right way. For certainly he forſakes the right way, that leaves to build upon the ſure foundation, Chriſt, and builds upon the ſand, the perſon of a meer man.

If I were to render an account of my belief concerning the firſt Founders of a Church at Rome, I ſhould have recourſe to that paſſage Act. II. 10. That there were at Jeruſalem at the feaſt of Pentecoſt, when the Holy Ghoſt was poured upon the Apoſtles, Strangers of Rome, Jewes and Proſelytes. Did not ſome of theſe believe, and returning to Rome carried the Goſpel thither with them? If any doubt it, I ſhall name two of them, that did, Rom. XVI. 7. The Apoſtle from Corinth ſaluting the Church that was then at Rome, among others, names there, Salute Andronicus and Junius my kinſmen, and Fellow-priſoners, who are renowned among the Apoſtles, and who were in Chriſt before me. Here are two men that were very highly reſpected among the Apoſtles, and that before Paul was an Apoſtle, and where and when could this poſſibly be, but at that time at Jeruſalem, theſe being of thoſe that are mentioned in thoſe words, There were then at Jeruſalem, Strangers of Rome, Jews and Proſelytes. By theſe men and ſome other, that we cannot name a Romaniſt muſt give me leave to believe that the Goſpel was firſt planted in Rome, and a Church firſt founded there.

And I muſt believe, that the Church by them planted there was watered by Paul, and that before ever he came to Rome. That ye may think a Solæciſm, to ſay that he watered the Church of Rome before ever he came at it; But the Church came to him. For if you obſerve that Act. XVIII. 2. That Claudius had expelled all the Jews out of Rome: and that the Apoſtle met with Priſcilla and Aquila, and divers others of that Church mentioned, Rom. XVI. you muſt conclude that when they returned to Rome again, after the death of Claudius, as it is plain they did, they returned fully furniſhed with the doctrins and inſtructions of that bleſſed Apoſtle; and ſo there is a Church there then pure and holy, and in the right way, and renowned as the Apoſtle tells us through the world: but how long it ſo continued is not eaſily determined; but that it did not always ſo continue is as eaſily proved. The Apoſtle gives us cauſe to ſuſpect, that ſome corruptions were crept in there even in his own time, when in his Epiſtle to them, Rom. XVI. 17. he ſpeaks of diviſions and ſcandals as it ſeems among them contrary to the Doctrin they had learned. And in his Epiſtle to the Philippians written from Rome he intimates, that ſome preached the Goſpel as it ſeems there, not purely; but of ſtrife and contention, Phil. I. 14, 15.

However though we cannot punctually determine the time and degrees by which the Church of Rome did degenerate; yet that it is degenerate from the purity of that firſt Church there, and from the purity of the Goſpel primitively profeſſed there, is written ſo plainly, that the dimmeſt eye may read it, if a man will not ſhut or put it out. How is the faithful City become an Harlot? righteouſneſs once lodged there, but now murtherers, is the ſad queſtion and complaint of the Prophet Eſay concerning Jeruſalem, in his firſt Chapter. How and by what degrees it came to be an Harlot, and to what an high degree of harlotry it was come, the former was not eaſie to determine, and the latter not eaſie to expreſs, yet that it was ſo was but too plain. And the very like may be ſaid in this caſe and of this City. The City once faithful is become an harlot: but how and by what degrees, and to what a degree, let her look to that at her peril. It is not ſo very material to determine of the time and degrees of her degeneration, as to conſider how groſly ſhe is degenerate. If we ſhould go about to particularize in every thing concerning faith and manners, wherein that Church hath forſaken the right way, and is gon aſtray, we had need to take up the longeſt day in ſummer to ſpeak out that matter, rather than to confine our ſelves to a piece of an hour, and it would require our examining even their whole doctrine and practice. We we will touch but two inſtead of two hundred.

Firſt

First, The Apoſtle Chap. I. 8. ſaith the Faith of the primitive Church at Rome was renownedly ſpoken of through the world. Now do you think, it was ſuch an implicit faith, as the Church of Rome teacheth now? That it ſufficeth, if a man believe as the Church believes, though he know not what either the Church, or himſelf believeth. Do we think that the firſt Founders of the Church in that City, be it Peter, as they will have it, or Paul, as he had ſome concurrence to it, or thoſe that I have mentioned; do we think I ſay, that they ever broached ſuch a doctrine there, It is enough if you believe with an implicite faith, or as the Church belives? The right way of believing in Chriſt, the Apoſtle laid down moſt divinely in ſuch expreſſions as theſe, Let every one be aſſured in his own mind. I know whom I have believed. Have Faith in God, and if thou haſt Faith, have it to thy ſelf, &c importing a knowledge and certainty of what is believed, and not that faith ſhould grope in the dark, and believe it cannot tell what, but only as others believe.

The right way that the Primitive Church of Rome was in, was the way of knowledg and underſtanding, that they knew and underſtood the things of ſalvation, and were acquainted with the things of God, and the way of eternal life. Can he that reads the divine Epiſtle to the Romans think otherwiſe? Or that hears the Apoſtles commendation of them think otherwiſe?

Now hath not that Church forſaken the right way that teacheth, That Ignorance is the mother of devotion, and practiſeth accordingly to keep the people in ignorance? Was Paul of that mind, think you when he writ his Epiſtle to the Romans? He might have very well ſaved that labour of inſtituting them in thoſe many high and excellent poynts that he doth in that Epiſtle, if he had been of the mind the now-Church of Rome is, that the way to build people up in devotion is to keep them in ignorance. His counſel is, Be not Children in underſtanding; but theirs, By all means to make them in underſtanding children. And when as our Saviour tells, that blind guides lead blind people into the ditch, theſe teach, that blindneſs is that, that will lead to Heaven. Have not theſe forſaken the right way to Heaven, that chooſe the ways of darkneſs to lead thither?

Secondly, Certainly that Church hath forſaken the right way, that goes clean contrary to the right way. If the right way is to ſearch the Scriptures, as Joh. V. 39. then they have forſaken the right way, for their way is to keep men from ſearching them. If the right way is to uſe a known tongue in publick worſhip, as, 1 Cor. XIV. their way is to uſe a tongue not underſtood. If the right way is to adminiſter the Cup in the Sacrament; their way is to forbid its adminiſtration. The right way is, Thou ſhalt worſhip the Lord thy God, and him only ſhalt thou ſerve: certainly they have forſaken the right way, that worſhip Angels and Saints departed, that worſhip Crucifixes and Images, that worſhip and adore a piece of bread.

Thirdly, In a word, (for it were endleſs to reckon all their aberrations) Is there any wrong way in the world, if blowing up of Parliaments be not out of the right one? If this be the right way, then Pharaoh was in the right way, when he plotted the drowning of the Infants of Iſrael. Jezabel was in the right way, when ſhe murthred the Prophets of the Lord. And Nebuchadnezzar was in the right way, when he threw the three young Nobles of Judah into the fiery furnace. Either this is not the right way, or the beſt of the Saints of God were in the wrong; for they ever walked in a way clean contrary to this kind of dealing. They were many of them ſlain for the truth, you ſhall never find ſo much as one of them, that ſlew any for the truth. Do you think that Peter the founder of their Church, as they pretend, would ever have conſented with them, had he been alive, to the blowing up of a Parliament? And do they find any direction or encouragement to ſuch a thing in any of his writings? Though he was once ſo fiery as to draw his ſword, and cut off the High Prieſts Servant's ear; yet I believe, he would never have been perſwaded to have been a Faux, a Garnet, or a Catesby in ſuch a deſign as this. His Maſter had cooled his courage for ſwording it again with that Cooler, He that ſmiteth with the ſword ſhall periſh with the ſword. And theſe men might have learned that leſſon, if they had been either his or Chriſts Diſciples.

When the two Sons of Zebedee, James and John, miſconſtruing the meaning of their name, Boanerges, would have fired a village of the Samaritans, our Saviour checks them with You know not what ſpirit you are of. His meaning was, that they underſtood not, what ſpirit the Diſciples of Chriſt ſhould be of: not ſo fiery, but meek, charitable and forgiving. Did theſe men, think you, ever conſult Chriſt and his oracle, when they went about to fire Parliament and State and Kingdom? Would Chriſt, think you, ever have given ſuch counſel? and would he have owned ſuch a ſpirit for the ſpirit of a true Chriſtian? Certainly, they are gone aſtray from his right way, that breath nothing but fire and ſword, and blood and ſlaughter.

I have

I have heard it more then once and again from the Sheriffs that took all the Powder Traitors, and brought them up to London, that every night, when they came to their lodging by the way, they had their muſick and dancing a good part of the night. One would think it ſtrange, that men in their caſe ſhould be ſo merry. And was it, think you, becauſe God had prevented their ſhedding ſo much innocent blood, as David once rejoyced for ſuch a prevention by the Counſel of Abigail? No, it was becauſe they were to ſuffer for ſuch an undertaking, accounting they ſhould dye as Martyrs in ſuch a cauſe.

Let them dance and make themſelves merry with ſuch a fancy; I am ſure we have cauſe to rejoyce and to leap for joy, becauſe their deſign was prevented. For where had England been, had their deſign taken effect? It may make us even to tremble to think, where England had been, had their deſign taken effect. Bleſſed be the God of our mercies, that hath given us cauſe only to think of it, and that we did not feel it: that only ſhewed us the pit, and did not ſhut us up in it. The great Memorandum to Iſrael was, I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of Egypt, out of the houſe of bondage. To England it may be, I am the Lord thy God, which kept thee out of Egypt, and from the houſe of ſpiritual bondage. And our keeping from falling into that ſervitude, was little leſs, if not as much as their delivery out of it.

A SERMON

PREACHED AT

ELY, Novemb. V. MDCLXXIII.

2 TIM. III. 8.

As Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses: so do these also resist the truth.

IF any one be of that curiosity as to desire to see the picture of incarnate Devils let him look here, for the Apostle is charactering such from the beginning of the Chapter hitherto. A generation of men as black as Hell, and of that linage and kinred. An ungodly breed of worthies that, like the Devil himself, sinned as deeply as they could against God; as irrecoverably as they could against themselves, and as destructively as they could to others. That whereas the Lycaonians said concerning Paul and Barnabas, The Gods were come down to them in the likeness of men; Paul and Barnabas might very well say concerning these, That fiends were come up among men in the same likeness of men.

From such turn away, is the Apostles counsel at the fifth verse of this Chapter, which words compare but with those words of another Apostle, Resist the Devil and he will flee from you, and guess what kind of creatures these were. A man may make the Devil flee from him, but there is no putting of these to flight but you must flee from them. Impudent untractable ones, that will by no means be moulded to Religion, Reason or Humanity: that will never be convinced, answered, satisfied, that there is no way to deal with them, but not to deal with them; no way to deal with them, but to flee from them. Their manners the Apostle begins to describe, as vers. 2. That they were lovers of themselves: lovers of money, proud, boasters, blasphemers, disobedient, &c. so he goes on to the 5th verse. There he describes their Religion, That they had a form of godliness, as a Devil in shape of an Angel of light, but that they denied the power of it, resisted the truth of it, and that not in an ordinary manner and degree, but as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses.

So that in the words you have mention of a cursed Copy and a cursed Company that wrote after it. The Copy, Jannes and Jambres withstanding Moses, and the cursed Company that wrote after it, those also resist the truth. The former obscure, who they were, and the latter obscurer.

I. Of Jannes and Jambres you have no more mention by name in all the Scripture: For Moses himself nameth no such men, though the Apostle say, They were the men that did resist him: And the Apostle gives no other signification of them, but only that they resisted Moses. Who then were they, and whence had the Apostle their names? From the common received opinion and agreement of the Jewish Nation, that currently asserted that the Magicians of Egypt was called by these names. So their own Authors tell us in their Babylonian Talmud. in the Treatise Menacoth: Aruncha Talmudical Lexicon in the word יניס And the Chaldee Paraph. of Jonathan upon Exod. I. to omit more. So that the Apostle takes up these two names neither by revelation, as certainly asserting that the Sorcerers of Egypt were of these names, but as he found the names commonly received by the Jewish Nation so he useth them.

Such

Such a paſſage is that of the Apoſtle Jude, about Michael contending with the Devil about the body of Moſes, which he neither ſpeaketh by inſpiration, nor by way of certain aſſertion, but only citing a common opinion and conceit of the Nation: he takes an argument from their own Authors and conceſſions. The obſervation of ſuch a thing as this is uſeful, upon general places of the New Teſtament, which is more worth diſcourſing upon, if it ſuited with the time and place.

Thus have we intelligence who Jannes and Jambres were, the Sorcerers or Magicians of Egypt, that withſtood Moſes, helped to harden Pharaoh, deceived the people with lying wonders, affronted the real miracles of God, and oppoſed the deliverance of Iſrael. Wretches, that one would think, they ſhould never find their matches, and yet the Apoſtle hath found mates for them: For where was there ever copy of villany ſet, but ſome or other was found that hath written after it? Even the crucifying of the Lord of glory, when it cannot be done litterally becauſe he is not here again to be crucified, yet there are but too many that in our ſenſe crucifie the Lord of glory, Heb. VI. 6. And if he had been again upon Earth, do you not think he would have been crucified again before this?

II. Who theſe are whom the Apoſtle compares with Jannes and Jambres is harder to find, than to find who Jannes and Jambres were. For the mark whereby the Apoſtle would diſcover them ſeems rather to cloud than to clear their diſcovery, viz. the circumſtance of the time wherein they lived, which he calls the laſt days, verſ. 1. This know that in the laſt days ſhall perilous times come. So 2 Pet. III. 3. In the laſt days ſhall come mockers walking after their own luſts: the very ſame men that our Apoſtle ſpeaks of here. But which are theſe laſt days? A threefold conception is taken up concerning the thing.

1. That by the laſt days is meant, all the time of the Goſpel from its firſt coming into the World, to the Worlds end. But that is too wide a compaſs, to be a mark or ſuch an occurrence as the Apoſtle ſpeaks of here.

2. By the laſt days, ſome underſtand the laſt days of the World: and ſo will apply the things and men ſpoken of here, to theſe times wherein we live, and hereabout and ſo to the Worlds end: but this conſtruction will hardly agree to what the Apoſtle aimeth at here, when he bids Timothy, Turn away from ſuch men: nor agree with other places of Scripture that ſpeak of the ſame men. Therefore

3. The proper meaning of the expreſſion in the common uſe of the Phraſe in Scripture, is, The laſt days of Jeruſalem and of the Jewiſh ſtate, when both of them drew near their end and deſolation. And for confirming of this among numerous evidences that I might produce, I ſhall give you but two places of Scripture and the reaſon of the expreſſion. Act. II. 17. The Apoſtle Peter citing thoſe words of the Prophet Joel, It ſhall come to paſs in the laſt days, I will pour out my Spirit upon all fleſh, &c. He plainly and poſitively aſſerteth that the Propheſie was fulfilled at that time when now it was but forty years to their deſtruction. The Apoſtle John, 1 Epiſtle chap. II. 18. plainly tells, Little children, It is the laſt time, and as you have heard that Antichriſt cometh, ſo there are now many Antichriſts whereby we know that it is the laſt time. And the reaſon of the expreſſion, Becauſe the deſtruction of Jeruſalem and of the Jewiſh ſtate, is charactered in Scripture as the deſtruction of the whole World, which might be evidenced by abundance of inſtances. Therefore the laſt days of that City and State, are named as the laſt days of that World.

Now who theſe were, of whom in thoſe laſt days of Jeruſalem the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, may be ſome queſtion, viz. whether unbelieving Jews, or ſome that had profeſſed the Goſpel but had revolted from it, and had corrupted it by their falſe doctrine and evil lives.

I doubt not he means the latter, which might be cleared out of ſeveral other places in Scripture, and even out of this place alſo, when the Apoſtle ſaith they had a form of godlineſs, and that concerning the faith or doctrine of the Goſpel they were reprobate. The myſtery of iniquity he calls it, 2 Theſ. II. i. e. iniquity under a maſk or viſor of Religion, for the oppoſition of the unbelieving Jew againſt the Goſpel was barefaced iniquity: Iniquity above board, and that had no maſk or myſtery in it: But theſe under the maſk of the profeſſion of the Goſpel oppoſed the purity and reſiſted the truth of it. And of ſuch Apoſtates the Epiſtles of all the Apoſtles are full of complainings, as inſtances might be produced which would take up the whole time now allotted. I ſhall alledge but theſe two places. Act. XX. 29, 30. For I know this, that after my departing ſhall grievous wolves enter in among you, not ſparing the flock. Alſo of your own ſelves ſhall men ariſe, ſpeaking perverſe things to draw away Diſciples after them. And 1 Joh. II. 19. They went out from us, but they were not of us: for if they had been of us, they would no doubt have continued with us; but they went out that they might be made manifeſt, that they were not all of us. And to the ſame tenor tends that parable, Matth. XII. ad fin.

So

So that you have here the wickedeſt men of the wickedeſt generation that ever was upon the earth. For ſo was that generation, wherein they lived, and they the very dregs of that generation: that generation reſiſting Chriſt and the Goſpel with open face, theſe under a maſk of Religion and the Goſpel: that generation proclaimed open enmity againſt the truth, theſe practiſing it under pretence of friendſhip. Thoſe came againſt Chriſt with ſwords and ſtaves, theſe ſaluted Chriſt with a Hail Maſter, but betrayed him, They pretended to the Goſpel, as Herod pretended to worſhip Chriſt when he was new born, but intended to murther him. And herein they outvied Jannes and Jambres their ſamplar, as commonly in writing after a wicked Copy, the Tranſcript exceeds the Original. For Jannes and Jambres had never owned the Truth, as they had done: for theſe had owned it, bet now reſiſt it.

I need not, I ſuppoſe, either to trouble my ſelf or you, by inſiſting to prove that the Apoſtle by the truth here does mean the Goſpel. And do I need to clear why the Goſpel is called by that title of the truth? If any deſire that let me briefly propoſe theſe things to him.

I. Firſt look upon the heathens Theology and Religion, and that were but a mere lie. Thoſe poor wretches as Eſa. XLIV. 20. Fed on aſhes, and a deceived heart turned them aſide, that they could not ſay there is a lie in my right hand: though there was nothing but a lie there. The Devil foiſting the greateſt lie upon the World that all the anvils of Hell could forge, viz. to perſwade men to worſhip Devils for God, 1 Cor. X. 20. The thing which the Gentiles ſacrifice they ſacrificed to Devils and not to God. That I may well remember to you that paſſage about the mad Emperor Caligula that would needs be a God, and for that purpoſe had dreſſed himſelf in accoutrements poſſible to make him ſeem ſuch a one. A ſober man that ſaw all, being aſked what he thought of him, why, ſaith he, I think he is magnum delirium. A great piece of foolery.

Stand and look on the Divinity of the Heathen as it is charactered by the Poets, and all is but a great fable. Mark the Religion of the Heathen as it was preſcribed by their Augurs, Pontiffs, Philoſophers and it is nothing but a great lie. That the Goſpel that was to uncharm thoſe deluſions, to releaſe thoſe poor creatures from thoſe cheats and impoſtures, is moſt deſervedly called The truth.

II. Look upon the Religion of the Jews: that was all but types and ſhadows: Moſes face vailed, Iſrael in the cloud, all Divinity and Religion under myſteries and figures. The Tabernacle was filled with a cloud as ſoon as it was ſet, Exod. XL. ad finem, and all the Ordinances given out of it, cloudy and ſhadows. Hereupon the Goſpel is called the Truth, becauſe it unridled thoſe myſterious Hieroglyphicks, unvailed the face of Moſes, and ſhewed the ſubſtance and body, which thoſe vails and ſhadows did infold. Thereupon it is that the Evangeliſt makes that moſt pertinent oppoſition, Joh. I. 17. The Law was given by Moſes. The moral Law was given by Moſes, the miniſtration of condemnation as the Apoſtle calls it, 2 Cor. III. but grace came by Jeſus Chriſt againſt condemnation. The ceremonial Law was given by Moſes a miniſtration of types and ſhadows, but truth came by Jeſus Chriſt ſubſtantiating and reſolving all.

III. Look into the Goſpel it ſelf, It is the greateſt and moſt Divine truth that can be given. And as the Devil when he brought in the Heathen Religion brought in the greateſt lie that could be impoſed upon men: So when God brought in the Goſpel he brought in the greateſt Truth that could be received by men. And ſhould I exceed my bounds, if I ſaid, The greateſt Truth that could be revealed by God. For what could God reveal to mortal men more than he hath done in it, himſelf, his Son, his Spirit, his Grace, his Salvation? More than what is revealed in the Goſpel ſhall never be revealed to men on this ſide Heaven. And is not Heaven it ſelf revealed very plainly in it? And yet there are men in the Text, and men in the World that make it their work to reſiſt this Truth. This light to lighten Gentiles they would put out. This glory of the people Iſrael they would corrupt, and this great and Divine Oracle of God they would ſilence and ſtop its mouth. Very fitly reſembled in the Emblem, where the candle being lighted and ſet up, the Devil, the Turk, the Pope, and a company of Hereticks and Perſecutors, ſet with all their earneſtneſs and indeavour to blow it out.

More than an Emblem of ſuch an indeavour, was the great plot and deſign of this day, from the ſtroke of which, we are here met to render our acknowledgment and thankſgiving: An indeavour to have blown up and blown out the Truth of God and the purity and power of the Goſpel out of this nation for ever.

In the words before us you plainly ſee two things, an Act and the Agents, reſiſting of the Truth, and the men that reſiſted it: But do you not alſo obſerve one out of ſight, or behind the vail, viz. the providence of God looking on and permitting ſuch a thing to be done. A myſtery of iniquity in the curſed acting of the perſons, and a myſtery of providence and diſpenſing in ſuffering them ſo to act.

1. Concerning the persons and their acting. The Truth might take up the complaint and expostulation of David, It was not an open enemy that did me this evil, for then I should have born it; neither was it an open adversary that magnified himself against me, for then peradventure I might have hid my self from him; but it was thou my companion and familiar, which took counsel with me together and we walked to the House of God, as friends. He that eateth at my table hath lift up his heel against me.

These men and the Truth or Gospel had been old acquaintance, they had conversed and been familiar together, they had taken counsel together, and gone to Church too as friends: but now they become her enemies because she is Truth. They had approved the Gospel, been initiated into it, profest it, and it may be some of them had preached it, but now they become its enemy because she is Truth. They had once received the knowledge of the Truth, but now they wilfully sin against it, Heb. X. 26. They had once known the way of Righteousness, but now were utterly turned away from it, 2 Pet. II. 21. They had once run well, as Gal. III. but now they run clear counter to what they had done: and seek to destroy the Gospel which they had once professed, and resist the Truth with as much, nay more fervency and earnestness, than ever they owned it.

It was Pauls honour and comfort that He now preached the Gospel which he once destroyed, Gal. I. 22. but it was these wretches dread and condemnation that they destroyed the Gospel which they once preached.

That general Apostasie or revolting from Truth that was then in the Church, brought forth twins of a clear contrary complexion as different as Jacob and Esau, if I may use Jacobs name with such persons, when both of them are of the manners and conditions of Esau and you could hardly tell which of them was the worse. For some Apostatized to pure Judaisme, some to meer or worse than Heathenism, some to dote upon the rites of Moses, and to look to be justified by the works of the Law, and to betake themselves to a Pharisaical austerity, hoping thereby to be justified. Others revolted to all looseness of life and Atheism, abusing the liberty of the Gospel to libertinism, and turning the grace of God into wantonness: and accounting all things lawful, that might content the flesh and please a carnal mind.

Now the Apostles give intimation of both these, and sadly complain and invey against them, I need not to particularize, he that runs may read it; more especially in the Epistle to the Galatians concerning the former, and in 2 Pet. II. and Jude concerning the latter.

I might speak how these wretches did resist the Gospel, or what instruments or machinations they used for the opposing of it. As

1. Venting damnable Heresies and Doctrines of Devils, as our two Apostles tell us, 1 Tim. III. 1. 2 Pet. II.

2. Using the trade of Jannes and Jambres, conjuration and sorcery and lying miracles, as our Law had foretold, Matth. XXIV. 24. That they should shew signs and wonders to deceive the very elect, if it were possible. And the Apostle tells it was so as our Saviour had foretold, 2 Thes. II. 9. That the coming of this mystery of iniquity, was according to the working of Satan, in all power and signs and lying wonders.

3. They used the trade that the Roman Emperors afterward used, of bitter, sharp and cruel persecution. Of which you have several memorials in the Epistles: ravening Wolves breaking into the Church in sheeps clothing, and making sad havock of the flock all before them. This was the judgment that begun at the house of God, 1 Pet. IV. 17. The hour of temptation that came upon all the Earth, Rev. III. 10.

I might by the way observe, How far a man may fall from the true profession of the Gospel, viz. so far as to become the worst of men, and the Gospels most bitter enemy. And that the bittereſt enemies of the Gospel have ever been some that have pretended to the Gospel. Persecution never did that mischief in the Church that Heresie hath done: And the sorest wounds that the Gospel ever received, were like his in Zach. in the house of her friends, but this I shall not insist on.

You see Jannes and Jambres have here met with their match: but is there any match to be found for these men, that have matched them? Yes, look at Rome and you find them there. As many Protestants and Papists by the last days do indeed understand the last days of the World: So many Protestant Divines do attribute all the characters of those wretched men to the Papacy. And indeed they are so like that it is no wonder if they be not clearly discerned asunder. Though the Papacy would be taken for 2 Jacob, yet she must give leave to standers by to take her for Esau, when her hands and neck and other parts be as rough as his.

Set her and this mystery of iniquity, we have been speaking of, together, and can you know them asunder? Though I am not perswaded the Apostle speaks of Rome, in 2 Thes. II. but of these first Apostate Christians, yet comes not Rome an inch behind what is charactered there.

1. Both

I. Both of them Apoſtatized from the truth, ſhe as well as thoſe in the Text before us. Its very true, Rome had once been a famous Church, whoſe Faith was renowned through the whole World, as the Apoſtle intimates once and again in his Epiſtle thither. But as the Hiſtorian, Quæres Samnium, You may ſeek for Samnium where Samnium was, and not find it: ſo may you ſeek for ſuch a Church there where once ſuch a Church was and be far enough from finding it. Corruptio optimi, The corruption of that beſt Church that then was is become the worſt corruption. And if you would find either truth or a right Church there, you do but look for the living among the dead. They brag of their incorruption, and that their Doctrine and Worſhip hath deſcended pure all along, and that that Church hath not been tainted from its firſt foundation by Peter and Paul. So the Jews of old cried, The Temple of the Lord, The Temple of the Lord, when they had made it a den of thieves.

You can hardly perſwade me, but ſome taint was got into that Church (in the time of Peter, I do not ſay, for I am aſſured he never was there, but) even before Paul came there, and while he was there: and ſure he muſt be of a large faith that can believe ſhe hath kept pure ſo many hundred years together above a thouſand. When I read that, Rom. XVI. 17. I beſeech you brethren mark thoſe that cauſe diviſions and offences, contrary to the Doctrine ye have learned, and avoid them. For they ſerve not our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, but their own belly. I cannot but ſtrongly ſuſpect, that there were ſome ſuch wretched ones as theſe we have been ſpeaking of, then tampering in the Church of Rome, and it was well if ſhe received no taint from them; hardly any Church in the World, but did. And when I read that Philip I. 16. Some preach Chriſt of envy and contention not purely, thinking to add affliction to my bonds: I cannot but ſuſpect, that that was in Rome it ſelf where the Apoſtle then lay priſoner: And that then the quarrel, I am of Paul, I am of Cephas or Peter, was ſet afoot in the Church of Rome, as it was in the Church of Corinth.

How ever I believe that that Star that fell from Heaven, to whom was given the key of the bottomleſs Pit, and he opened the Pit and let out horrid ſmoke, and ſo horrid Locuſt, Rev. IX, beginning, is moſt truly underſtood by our Proteſtant Divines, of the Biſhop of Rome or the Papacy. For a Star in the Revelation-language is a Doctor or Miniſter of the Church, and falling from Heaven is falling from the Truth, and the true Church.

II. As the Apoſtaſie of the men in the Text, and in the Apoſtles deſcription in this Chapter and elſewhere, was into the two contraries, ſtrictneſs in outward ceremony, and looſeneſs of life and converſation, he that knows not the like in the Papacy is little acquainted with their ſtory. As great ſtrictneſs injoyned in the one, and as great looſneſs permitted in the other in that Church, as that the Jews themſelves were not more ſtrict in the one, nor the Heathens themſelves more looſe in the other. Like Solomons Temple windows, if it were fit to compare ſo noble a thing with ſo baſe, narrow without and broad within, ſtrict in outward formality, looſe in inward converſation.

III. As theſe in the Text reſiſt the Truth, ſo that the Papacy doth, none that is a child or diſciple of the Truth, but he knows with grief, and can they of the Papacy but know it themſelves? How many witneſſes of this matter, have been in every corner of the World, eſpeciall in thoſe where the truth or purity of the Goſpel hath appeared?

Were you to name the greateſt contrariety to the truth of the Goſpel that you could name, could you name any thing ſo directly contrary as Popery. The ſmoke out of the bottomleſs pit, that is as contrary to the purity of the light, as what can be moſt contrary. I ſhould but do what is done again and again in large and numerous volumes, if I ſhould go about to prove and evidence this to you, viz. That the Papacy is the great reſiſter of the Truth and Goſpel, and the great contrariety to the purity of the Goſpel. There are two things that ſpeak it out, though all Proteſtants hold their peace: And thoſe are,

1. Their corruption of the Scriptures and the Fathers: As the meſſengers for Micaiah would have corrupted him to ſpeak as the falſe Prophets did, ſo do theſe by the Scriptures and Fathers, to make them ſpeak according to their own mind. Their Index expurgatorius ſhews that they are void of all ſhame in this point as well as void of all conſcience. And crueller then the Gileadites that ſlew ſo many for ſaying Sibboleth, theſe make thoſe ſay Sibboleth whether they will or no, that they may deſtroy the Truth that they once ſpoke out.

2. The bitter and bloody perſecution that the Church of Rome hath ever uſed againſt the true profeſſion of the Goſpel, is a teſtimony written in blood, how incomparable a reſiſter of the Truth the Papacy is. And had Chriſt been at Rome any time for thoſe many and many years, he had taſted of their kindneſs that way. It is compounded of ſuch principles, that the Truth and it cannot live together, but it cannot but ſeek to deſtroy the Truth. The very temper of the Devil himſelf, who not only ſtrives to deſtroy the Goſpel, but cannot do it with all his endeavour. Aut tu illum aut ille vi. He muſt either deſtroy it or it will deſtroy him. What reſiſtance the Papacy practiſeth againſt the Truth by by perſecution, I ſuppoſe it needleſs to ſpeak of unto any, that hath heard of the bloody days of Queen Mary, the Maſſacre in France and the Powder Treaſon in England, that you need go no further for inſtance. And bleſſed be the Lord, for that we have theſe teſtimonies only to our ears, and have not ſeen Popiſh reſiſtance of the Truth, by perſecution with our eyes. The Lord grant that England never ſee it.

Thus have we briefly taken ſome view, of the myſtery of iniquity hinted in the Text, and verſe whence it is taken: Men of corrupt minds reprobated concerning the faith, reſiſting the truth as Jannes and Jambres withſtood Moſes:

Now how large a diſcourſe might we take up of the myſterious diſpenſation of God, in permitting his moſt ſacred Truth to be ſo affronted and reſiſted; His moſt dearly beloved Truth thus to be abuſed and ſpurned againſt; His moſt divine Truth, ſealed with the blood of his dear Son, thus to be perſecuted, afflicted, tormented.

The name of Rome, in Rev. XVII. is Myſtery Babylon: And that indeed not only becauſe it is Babylon in a Myſtery, but that it is a great Myſtery that God permits ſuch a Babylon, ſo cruel, bloody, inhumane a perſecutor of his Truth: ſo continual a diſturber and vexation and firebrand to the World: Such a Deceiver, Seducer and Deſtroyer of Souls. We may take up that, Jerem. XII. 1. Righteous art thou O Lord, if I plead with thee: yet may we plead with thee concerning thy judgments: why doth the way of the wicked proſper? And why is it ſo well with thoſe that work iniqnity? Why is it ſo ſucceſsful, with Popery, Hereſie, Error and Ignorance? That that is aloft and prevaileth, domineers and tyrannizes, while Truth is troden down, and the poor Goſpel trampled under foot?

I might ſpeak at large how God permits things to go thus upon very Divine reaſons. As, Firſt, For the trial of his own people, that profeſs his Truth, how they will ſtick to his Truth under oppoſition: how they will cleave to a poor, perſecuted, deſpiſed Goſpel: how they will own a Truth that brings in no Mony, no Worldly profit, nor Honour, nor Preferment, but Loſs of all things, to gain Eternity. The Goſpel is the fan of Chriſt, whereby he purgeth his floor, and ſeparates wheat and chaff aſunder.

Secondly, He permits wicked men to reſiſt his Truth, that they may make up the meaſure of their iniquities. They think, they avenge themſelves of the Truth, whereas God avengeth himſelf on them, in giving them up to ſo reprobate a mind. To refuſe the Truth is bad enough, to diſobey the Truth, this is worſe; to deny it and apoſtatize from it, this is bad of bads; but reſiſting and perſecuting it, this is worſt of all. Some count this the ſin againſt the Holy Ghoſt. In theſe men it might be, for they had ſeen his miracles. But however, it was a ſin unto death in them.

Thirdly, God permits this, becauſe he knows Truth at laſt will conquer. As God turned Chriſt looſe to combate Satan, and withdrew his Divine acting, becauſe he knew Chriſt would at laſt come off a conqueror. As it was ſaid of Gad, Gad a troop ſhall overcome him, but he ſhall overcome at the laſt; XLIX. Gen. 17. So it is with Truth, it may be oppoſed, oppreſſed, trodden under, yet it will overcome at laſt. Truth is a heavy ſtone, whoſoever falls upon it will be broken, but whomſoever it falls upon, it will grind him to powder. If Truth triumph not in the converſion of men, it will triumph in their condemnation. When there were perſecuting Emperors, how doth Truth triumph over them? And ſo the time of Rome is coming, when the Truth and Goſpel, which ſhe hath ſo bitterly reſiſted and perſecuted, ſhall triumph, and clap their hands at her confuſion and ruine; when Babylon ſhall ſink as a milſtone in the midſt of the Sea, and riſe no more. And all thoſe divine Truths in the Goſpel, that ſhe hath oppoſed, reſiſted, perſecuted, ſhall everlaſtingly riſe up in judgment againſt her, and load her with torments and condemnation.

So let Babylon come in remembrance before the Lord, and he plead the cauſe of his Truth, Goſpel, People, Intereſt; and reward her, as ſhe hath done to all theſe, and as ſhe would have done to poor England on the fifth of November. And let all the people ſay, Amen.

A SERMON

PREACHED AT

S. MARIES Cambridge,

Novemb. V. MDCLXXIV.

ACT. XIII. 9, 10.

Then Saul who also is called Paul, filled with the Holy Ghost, set his Eyes on him,

And said, O full of all subtilty, and all mischief, thou child of the Devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?

A Dreadful and dismal character to be given to a man by an Apostle, and an Apostle now filled with the Holy Ghost to give it. Take out but that little great clause, Thou child of the Devil, and there needs not much more to the picturing of the Devil himself in his proper colours and full proportion: Full of all subtilty, full of all mischief, enemy of all righteousness, and the unceſſant perverter of the right ways of the Lord. How little needs there more to the limning out the Prince of darkness himself in his blackest complexion? What is it for these titles to be given to any man? But our Apostle could very well discern between a Brother and a Sorcerer, between a true Christian and a false Prophet, between a Professor of the Gospel, and a professed perverter of the ways of the Lord.

The Text tells us, he set his Eyes upon him, and sees him through, he discovers what he is to the very bottom, and accordingly is warranted by the Holy Ghost, with whom he is filled to give him these brands, O thou full of all subtilty and of all mischief, thou child of the Devil, and enemy of all righteousness.

The two Parties in mention were as different and contrary as light and darkness, as Hell and Heaven; the one an Apostle, the other a Sorcerer; the one a most near servant of God, the other as near a servant of the Devil, the one full of the Holy Ghost, the other full of all subtilty and mischief: and all the agreement that was between them, (if that be any) was that either of them had a double name: for Saul he was also called Paul, and Bar Jesus, he was also called Elymas.

The reason of the Apostles double name, I should look no further for, than to his double relation, as he was a Jew born, and as he was a freeborn Roman. His Hebrew name Saul, relates to his Hebrew original, and his Roman name, Paul to his Roman privilege. And whereas he had been called by his Jewish name, Saul, all along the story hitherto, while he had been conversing among the Jewish Nation: he being now appointed Apostle of the Gentiles, and now set out upon that employment, he is called by his Gentile name all along hence forward, Paul, and Saul no more.

But

But the resolution about the Conjurers double name is not so easie, and we shall not find Esau in this matter so smooth as Jacob.

First, As concerning his name Bar Jesus; I believe it was almost as far from the signification of that Blessed Name that we adore, as he himself was from adoring him; and I believe it was a very great way from the letters of that Blessed Name. In the Arabick translation, indeed that we have in our Polyglot Bible, it is written with the very same letters. But in the translation, in that Language, published by Erpenius it is written otherwise, and better I doubt not; and yet I question whether with the letters proper for it or no I should devine his name Jesus from the Hebrew word עשש Ain inchoante, which signifies contabescere, morbo corrodi, to languish, to pine away, to be eaten up with some malady; and if I miscount not, you have it but three times in the Bible, and those in the Psalms, Psal. VI. 7. עששה מכעס עיני rendred by our English, Mine eye is consumed because of grief: by the Interlinear Latine, Eroſus est præ indignatione oculus meus. And the very same words you have, Psal. XXXI. 9. where our English renders after the same manner, and that Latine Contabuit; and in the very next verse after, עצמי עששו My bones are consumed. Now the third person future of that word, if you would write it in Greek letters, you can hardly do it more properly, than in the word Jesus that is before us.

And to this Hebrew word I cannot but conceive, that the Syriack Translator had an Eye, when he writes not Bar Jesus, but Bar Shuma; by which he means not Filius Nominis, a man of Name or renown, as some would have it, and as indeed it might signifie, but a man of sores, swellings or breakings out: for so שומא is taken in Levit. XII. 2. in the Targum of Jerusalem, and Jonathan upon the Law; and שומתא in Esa. I. 6. and elsewhere in the Targum of the other Jonathan upon the Prophets. And how Bar Shuma, a man of sores agrees with Bar Jesus, a man wasting and languishing, I need not tell you.

But how doth Elymas agree with both? vers. 8. Elymas the Sorcerer, for so is his name by interpretation: But there is some scruple which name is meant, whether his name Bar Jesus, or his title Magus. And that that hath been the currentest rendring hath been by the Arabick word עלימא Ain inchoante, which signifies a knowing, a wise man, and so may be bowed to the sense of Magus: But both the Syriack and Arabick Translators begin the word Elymas with another Letter. I learn from that incomparable work for pains and learning the Heptaglot Lexicon, that Alima or Elima, Eliph inchoant, in the Arabian Tongue, signifies Dolere or cruciari; to be in pain or anguish. And I think I need to look no further how Elymas doth interpret Bar Jesus, when the one signifies contabescere, and the other dolere; the one morbo corrodi, and the other cruciari, the words being so near a kin.

It were worth inquiring, why his Hebrew name is rendred into Arabick, and not into Greek, as is generally done all along the New Testament with other names. But that discussion is not so proper for this time and occasion.

The mans sickly names therefore, Bar Jesus or Contabescens, and Elymas or dolens, may justly make us to look upon him, as some pitiful, pining, languishing, diseased body. Which whether that were so or no, is not much material, but certainly the titles that the sacred Historian and blessed Apostle do give him, put it out of all question, that he carried a very sad sickly and diseased soul. The Jewish Writers when they would speak out a very wicked man indeed, they say, that he brake out לחרבות רעה to the superfluity of naughtiness, as our English renders the phrase turned into Greek, περισσειαν κακιας, Jam. I. 21. Now read this mans Epithites, and guess whether he could have broken out further than he did. The holy Pen-man calls him a Jew, a false prophet, a Sorcerer, vers. 6. The holy Apostle calls him full of all subtilty, full of all mischief, the child of the Devil, and enemy of all righteousness, in the verse before us. Titles or Epistles, or Stigmata, or call them what you will, so foul that an hours discourse can speak but little to them of what might be, or what were requisite to be spoken, to give every of them their due.

Therefore to confine my self to the time, I shall confine my discourse only to his present action, upon which the Apostles Eye is more peculiarly intent, viz. that he perverted, and ceased not to pervert the right ways of the Lord. Into which sink of his, as into a common sewer, flowed all the rest of his puddles here mentioned, some as causes of his so acting, and some as instruments.

Hither flowed as causes his being a Jew, a false prophet, a Sorcerer: these set him on work. And hither flowed as instruments, his subtilty, his mischievousness, his Devilishness, his enmity against all righteousness: these helped him in his work. And what his work was, or what is meant by his perverting the right ways of the Lord, we need not go far to learn, the eighth verse resolves it fully, he withstood the Apostles Barnabas and Paul: and he sought to turn away the Deputy Sergius Paulus from the faith. He opposed the preaching of the Gospel, and he opposed the conversion of the Gentile.

And

And such Emissaries, some will tell you, the Jews had abroad in the World for such a purpose; subtil and mischievous men, sent abroad purposely to oppose, and contradict and vilifie the Gospel, and to hinder as much as possibly the conversion of any Heathen. It were too bold to say, this man was sent by the Sanhedrin upon such an employment. If he were not, they could hardly have fitted themselves better for such a business, than with him so accomplished and accoutred for so cursed a design. The very mildest title that he carries, viz. as he was a Jew, speaks him capacitated and principled sufficiently for such an Employment, had he been neither false prophet nor Sorcerer.

Accordingly I shall only take up that Epistle and relation of his, and let all the rest alone, and consider him as a Jew, and so acting, as a Jew, in this his cursed employment, Not ceasing to pervert the right ways of the Lord, or to oppose the Gospel.

If you scan and observe the demeanor of the Devil in the two different ages of the World, under Heathenism, and under the Gospel, you will find this to have been his method, and his shifting policy, viz. That under Heathenism he foisted upon the World the greatest lie that could be forged in Hell, to make the Heathen believe, that the Devils that they served were Gods. And under the Gospel, when that lie would not do, he set men to oppose and contradict that greatest truth, that could be revealed from Heaven, the truth and tenor of the Gospel. And the first Agents that he employed in this business was the Nation of the unbelieving Jews. A generation by the very principles of their Religion fermented into a sowrness and contrariety to the Gospel, and the right ways of the Lord in it. Our Apostle in Rom. XI. 8. tells us, They were under the spirit of slumber. And 1 Thes. II. 15. he intimates, how they were under a spirit of contradiction: They are contrary to all men. Under the spirit of slumber, so that all their Religion was but a dream of men that slumbred. And under the spirit of contradiction, so that all their acting was to oppose whatsoever was not according to that Dream.

And that that caused both these was their drinking in the inchantments of their Traditions. Which drunkenness cast them into a deep sleep, and which made them rave and rage whilst they thus slept.

It is very observable again, how Satan, and the Nation it self did shift and change the manner and means of their undoing. Before their Captivity into Babylon, they were all for Idolatry, and the Devil cheated them with his great lie, as he did the Heathen, to worship and sacrifice to Devils instead of God. But after that Captivity he something changed his temptation, and they became the means of their undoing; he perswading them to embrace another great lie, that of Traditions, instead of that of Idolatry: and they embracing it. They had so sorely smarted by the seventy years captivity for their Idolatry, that it was not so easie to bring them to that again; but he found it easie to foist upon them this other great lie, to make them believe that every doting Tradition, the invention of foolish men, was a divine Oracle, delivered to Moses at mount Sinai, and so from hand to hand to all posterity.

The Nation had been used to divine Oracles, by Visions, by Prophets, by Urim and Thummim all along. But now all these under the second Temple were ceased and gone: and how should a people that had been always used to such Oracles do without them? Here Satan saw his opportunity to cheat them with a Leah instead of Rachel, to impose upon them the famed oracularity of Traditions instead of the lively Oracles of God: like the deceitful Harlot in the Book of Kings, to lay a dead Child in their bosom instead of a living; and this they wing and cherish and make much of, as if it were the living Child, even to this day.

Now how these Traditions wrought with them I may very well spare my labour to demonstrate, the Gospels and Epistles do it so abundantly. That by their Traditions they transgressed the commandments of God, Matth. XV. 3. That by their Traditions, they made the Word of God of none effect, vers. 6. That by their Traditions they worshipped God in vain, teaching for Doctrines the Commandments of men, vers. 9. And in a word, that they were led into a vain conversation by the traditions received from their Fathers, 1 Pet. I. 18. Thus was it as to their effect in general; instances of particulars might be endless. I shall only mention three; and those that may be called the first three, as David's three Champions were, if I may mention so noble persons, and so base things together.

First, These Traditions of theirs made them dream, that Messias should be a pompous temporal Prince, arrayed with all earthly royalty and glory, and crowned with all terrene victoriousness and triumph. And this dream under the spirit of slumber, cast them also under the spirit of opposition against the true Messias when he came. Poor Jesus looked so unlike the gallant Messias they dreamed of, that by the very principles of their Traditions and Religion, they could do no less to him, than what they did, persecute, afflict, torment, crucifie him. For he was not the Messias they looked for, but a false Christ forsooth, a false Prophet, a deceiver, a seducer of the Nation.

Secondly,

Secondly, Their Traditions made them dream, that Messias and his Law and Doctrine that he should bring with him, should be so far from abating or abolishing any of the ceremonies of Moses, that he should rather add to them, heighten and enhance them. And this dream under that spirit of slumber cast them also under the spirit of opposition against the Gospel. That is not for their turn, but against it, that cries down those ceremonies, and that justification they expected by them; that lays those shadows aside, and does, as it were, bury Moses, as Christ did his body, in the vally of Beth Peor. So that with them you cannot be a friend to Moses, unless you be an enemy to the Doctrine of Jesus.

Thirdly, and lastly, Their Traditions made them dream, that they were the only beloved of God of all people: that the seventy Nations of the World were abhorred, hated, cursed of him, and were to be destroyed. But oh! dearly loves he the seed of Israel, how intirely does he affect the Children of Abraham! And this dream under the spirit of slumber casts them also under the spirit of contradiction against the calling of the other Nations. What must those dogs eat of the Childrens bread? Must these Children of the bond woman come to be heirs with the Children of the free? They forbid us to speak unto the Gentiles, that they might be saved, saith the Apostle in that place to the Thessalonians before quoted. And our Saviour must be cast down the steep hill, and dashed all to pieces by his Townsmen of Nazaret for but hinting the calling of the Gentiles, in the story of Elias sent to the widdow of Sarepta, and Naaman the Syrian sent to Elisha, and healed.

And thus briefly from this short scantling we may see, how this wretch before us was principled to oppose the Gospel, and to resist the Deputies conversion, by the very dictates of his Religion, as he was a Jew. How he might be forwarded and helped in his so acting by being a false Prophet, and a Sorcerer, by his subtilty and mischievousness, and by the rest of his deviliſh accommodations for such a purpose, I need not insist to demonstrate, the thing it self speaks it sufficiently.

So much therefore be spoken concerning his Person, and his Qualities and Conditions. Nor need we to stand gazing only upon him, since this day hath discovered some too like unto him. In the verses after my Text, it is related that this varlet was struck blind, and that he went up and down groping for some, that might take him by the hand and lead him. The memorial of this day may direct him, where to find some that may go hand in hand with him; and whether leads the other, it is no great matter; for whersoever does, it is but the blind leading of the blind.

The day commemorates a Fact and Design, as black as all this wretches Titles. It commemorates men full of subtilty and mischief, as well as he, men that opposed the Gospel, as well as he; and that were principled by their very Religion to oppose it, as well as he. And men, who while they stile themselves The Society of Jesus, by their principles and practises give suspition that they relate more to this Bar Jesus, which we have had in hand, than to him, upon whom they would father their denomination. Men, I say, that are principled by the very dictates and elements of their Religion, to oppose the Gospel and the sincere profession of it. And indeed you can expect no better from Rome, from whence these mens principles came, either from the Place or from the Religion.

I. For the Place. The Holy Ghost hath spoken out the Numen of Rome, which was by no means named or known before, Rev. XIII. 2. The Dragon gave it his power and seat. For that Rome is there meant hath not only the consent of the Interpreters of old, and of the Protestants at this day, but even of the Romanists themselves, if you will but allow them the distinction of Rome Heathen and Christian. And can any good thing be expected thence, where the Dragons donation is the Founder of the power, I doubt, more truly than Constantines? And can the Gospel but find opposition there, when there is such a power delegated from the great opposer? For you read not of any revocation or alienation of that Conveyance of Power.

II. As to her Religion in after times, and at this day, give me leave to use the words written upon the wall of Belshazzers dining room, Mene, Mene, Tekel, Upharsin.

1. Mene. Number the Doctrines of that Church and Religion one by one, and how great a company of them will prove to be like those of the Jews, but dreams of men, lying under the spirit of slumber: Universal Bishopship, Primacy, Infallibility, Power to pardon, Purgatory, and Deliverance thence, Transubstantiation, and multitudes more of the like fancy: the believing of which is but like his case in the Prophet, that dreameth that he eateth, and behold! he is still hungry; and dreameth that he drinketh, but behold! he is still thirsty, and his soul fainteth in him.

2. Tekel. Weigh their Doctrines in the ballances of Scripture, reason, and impartial judgment; and how great a company of them will prove again like the Jewish, of no greater weight, than fond traditions and the vain inventions of men, even from the Chair, where in the King sitteth upon the Throne, to the Souls in Purgatory, or the servant behind the Mill.

3. Lastly,

3. Laſtly, Perez, Divide their Doctrines, that every one may have his part, to whom it belongs; and how great a ſhare will fall to the unbelieving Jew, and how great a ſhare to the Apoſtatizer, or him that once believed, but was revolted and fallen away?

Theſe two were the great Enemies and Oppoſers of the Goſpel in the Apoſtles times, before ever the Heathen Rome began to perſecute it. And theſe two, if my conjecture do not very much deceive me, made up the full meaſure of the ſtature of the Antichriſt, that the Apoſtles St. Paul and St. John ſpeak of, as extant in thoſe very times. The former, the unbelieving Jew, was the man in the Parable, out of whom the unclean ſpirit was not yet caſt. The Apoſtatized Jew was he, out of whom indeed that ſpirit had been caſt, but was returned with ſeven other ſpirits worſe than himſelf, and dwelt there again. The former oppoſed the Goſpel by inforcing againſt it the rites and ceremonies of the Law, and juſtification by it. The latter by that alſo, as it would ſerve his turn; but withal abuſing the liberty of the Goſpel againſt the Sanctification of it.

Theſe were the Oppoſers of the Goſpel before the Heathen Roman perſecution began to meddle with it. And when that ceaſed, after long ſucceſſion of time, whether the ſame ſpirit and principles were not metempſychoſed into Rome now grown Papal, let any impartial Cenſure judge, by comparing her ſtrictneſs for Moſaick rites, and the looſneſs of her Libertine Doctrines. I am deceived, if the Jubilee now coming ſpeak not very fair and far toward the atteſtation of both theſe, Moſaick ſtrictneſs in proclaiming a Jubilee, and Libertine looſneſs in indulging ſo eaſie pardons.

If mens practiſes ſpeak their principles, as this mans in the Text did, we need not to rip ſo much into the principles of this Church, elementing and indoctrinating to the oppoſing of the power, purity and ſincerity of the Goſpel; her practiſes do make them legible abundantly, as written in Capital letters of fire and blood. This days memorial gives evidence ſufficient, that I may not trouble you with raking into any more.

Which commemorates a deſign of cruelty and horror, a deſign full of all ſubtilty, of all miſchievouſneſs, of all inhumanity, that remote ages to come, will hardly believe, that a Church that takes on her to be the only holy Catholick Church, ſhould ever breed ſo horrid a monſter. And why ſo cruel againſt a harmleſs Nation? What had we done, that we muſt be ſo deſtroyed? Abimelechs plea to God was, Lord wilt thou alſo deſtroy an innocent Nation? And God accepted his plea as good, and would not deſtroy it. But theſe men were deaf to any ſuch pleading, and an innocent Nation muſt periſh, becauſe it was ſo innocent. As all the crime of Abel that muſt coſt him his life was, that he was more righteous than his Brother; ſo all our guilt was becauſe we had the more righteous and pure Religion. And therefore Mother and Child, our Religion and we muſt periſh together.

As God by fire ſent from Heaven, in the days of Elias, did determine the queſtion, who was the true God, the Lord or Baal; ſo he by preventing this fire from Hell hath determined the queſtion, betwixt Rome and us, which is the true Religion, theirs or ours. O! England, happy in thy Goſpel and Religion, a Religion doubly lovely and beautiful Tirzah-like, both becauſe thou deſerveſt the hate of ſuch a people, and becauſe God hath ſo owned thee againſt thy haters. Bleſſed be the great God of Grace and Truth, that hath planted thee, watered thee, preſerved thee, and ſo ſhines upon thee. And ſo may it grow, and proſper, and flouriſh, and bring forth bleſſed fruit under the ſame influence of Heaven, and let all the people ſay Amen. Hallelujah.

A SERMON PREACHED AT Guildhall LONDON,

Jan. XXIV. MDCLXXIV.

REV. XXI. 2.

And I John saw the holy City, the new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of Heaven.

AND no wonder if there be a new Jerusalem, when at the fifth verse of this Chapter, God proclaims that he makes all things new. And that new Jerusalem must needs be a holy City, when it is sent down from God, and comes out of Heaven. And that holy City coming from Heaven could not but be a most lovely prospect to him that saw it, when the old Jerusalem on Earth had been once so lovely, that it was the glory and joy of the whole Earth, Psal. XLVIII.

Who it was that saw it, he himself tells you, speaking out his name, John: by which I suppose there is none here but understands the blessed Apostle and Evangelist of that name; though time hath been, that some have dreamed of another John: but no account could be given who he was, or whence he came. I shall therefore in this matter, which I believe needs but little dispute now, only say these three things.

I. That it is disagreeable to all reason to think, that our Saviour, when he intended to do some man so much honour and favour, as to impart such noble and glorious visions and revelations to him, as are recorded in this Book, that he should pass by and skip over his own Apostles and Disciples, and should pick out a man, that we all know was no Apostle, that no one knows, whether he were a Disciple or no. But,

II. It is agreeable to all reason to conceive, that as the man, to whom God vouchsafed the revelation and discovery of the times and occurrences, that were to intervene betwixt his own times and the fall of Jerusalem, was Daniel, a man greatly beloved; so that the John, to whom Christ would vouchsafe the revelation and discovery of the times and occurrences, that were to intervene betwixt the Fall of Jerusalem and the end of the World, was John the Disciple greatly beloved.

III. Of that Disciple Christ had intimated, that he would that he should tarry till he came, Joh. XXI. 22. that is, till he should come in vengeance against the Jewish Nation and their City to destroy them; for that his coming, both in that place, and in divers other places in the New Testament, doth mean in that sense, it were very easie to make evident, should we take that subject to insist upon.

Now as our Saviour vouchsafed to preserve him alive to see the Fall and destruction of that City, so also did he vouchsafe to him the sight of a new Jerusalem instead of the old, when that was ruined, laid in ashes and come to nothing. He saw it in Vision, we see it in the Text, and upon that let us fix our Eyes and Discourse, for we need not speak more of him that saw it.

In

In the verſe before, he ſees a new Heaven and a new Earth, and in this verſe a new Jeruſalem. Something parallel to which is that in Eſa. LXV. 17. Behold, I create new Heavens and a new Earth. And in the verſe next following, Behold, I create Jeruſalem a rejoycing. The expreſſions intimate the great change of affairs, that ſhould be in the World under the Goſpel, from what had been before. A new Heaven, or a change of Church and Religion, from a Jewiſh to a Gentile Church, and from Moſaick to Evangelical Religion. A new Earth, or a change in the World, as to the management or rule of it, from Heatheniſm to Chriſtianity, and from the rule of the four Heathen Monarchies, Dan. VII. to the Saints, or Chriſtians, to judge the World; 1 Cor. VI. 2. or being Rulers or Magiſtrates in it. I.

And the new Jeruſalem is the emblem and Epitome of all theſe things under this change, as the old Jeruſalem had been, before the change came. There is none but knoweth, that Jeruſalem, in Scripture language, is very commonly taken for the whole Church then being, as well as it is taken particularly and literally for the City it ſelf then ſtanding. That City was the Church in little, becauſe there were eminently in it all thoſe things that do make and conſtitute a true Church, viz. the adminiſtration of the Word and divine Ordinances, the Aſſemblies of the Saints, the Worſhip of the true God by his own appointment, and the preſence of God himſelf in the midſt of all. And can any doubt, but that the new Jeruſalem meaneth in the like ſenſe, and upon the like reaſon, The Church of God under the Goſpel, this inriched with all thoſe excellencis and privileges, that that was, yea and much more? There was the Doctrine of Salvation, but wrapped up in Types and Figures, and dark Propheſies; but here unfolded to the view of every Eye, and Moſes vail taken off his face. There Ordinances of divine Worſhip, but mingled with multitudes of carnal rites; here pure adoration in Spirit and Truth. There an aſſembly only of one People and Nation; here a general aſſembly compacted of all Nations. There God preſent in a cloud upon the Ark; here God preſent in the communication of his Spirit.

Therefore it is the leſs wonder that it is called the holy City, becauſe of theſe things, which is the ſecond circumſtance conſiderable in the words, I ſaw the new Jeruſalem, The holy City. It is obſervable that the ſecond old Jeruſalem (for ſo let me call the Jeruſalem that was built and inhabited after the return out of Captivity) was called the holy City, when goodneſs and holineſs were clean baniſhed out of the City, and become a ſtranger there. When the Temple had loſt its choiſeſt ornaments, and endowments that contributed ſo much to the holineſs of the place and City, The Ark, the cloud of Glory upon it, the Oracle by Urim and Thummim, the fire from Heaven upon the Altar: theſe were all gone, and Propheſie was utterly ceaſed from the City and Nation: yet even then it is called the holy City in this her nakedneſs. II.

Nay when the Temple was become a Den of Thieves, and Jeruſalem no better, if not worſe; when ſhe had perſecuted the Prophets and ſtoned thoſe that were ſent unto her, when ſhe had turned all Religion upſide down, and out of doors, and worſhiped God only according to inventions of men; yet even then, and when ſhe is in that caſe, ſhe is termed the holy City, Matth. IV. 5. Then the Devil taketh him up into the Holy City, and ſetteth him on a pinacle of the Temple. Nay when that holy Evangeliſt had given the ſtory of her crucifying the Holy of Holies, the Lord of life and glory, even then he calls her the holy City, Chap. XXVII. 53. The bodies of many Saints, which ſlept, aroſe, and came out of their graves after his Reſurrection, and went into the holy City, and appeared to many.

Call me not Naomi but call me Marah, might ſhe very well have ſaid then, and ſo might others ſay of her, for it might ſeem very incongruous to call the holy City, when ſhe was a City ſo very unholy. She was indeed ſimply and abſolutely in her ſelf moſt unholy, and yet comparatively The holy City, becauſe there was not a place under Heaven beſides, which God had choſen to place his Name there; and there he had: and that was it that gave her that name and title. And while ſhe kept the peculiarity of the thing, ſhe kept the name, but at laſt forfeited both; and then God finds out another City where to place his Name, A new Jeruſalem, A holy City, a holier City; her younger ſiſter fairer than ſhe.

Holy, under the ſame notion with the other, becauſe God hath placed his Name only there: Holier than ſhe, becauſe he hath placed it there in a more heavenly and ſpiritual manner than in her, as was touched before. And Holier ſtill, becauſe ſhe ſhall never loſe her holineſs as the other did, as we ſhall touch hereafter. And ſhe cannot, but be holy as I ſaid before, when ſhe comes down from Heaven, and is ſent thence by God. III.

And this is the third thing remarkable in the Text, I ſaw the new Jeruſalem coming down from Heaven. The Apoſtle S. Paul calls her Jeruſalem which is above, Gal. IV. 26. Our Apoſtle ſees her coming down from above; and the Prophet Ezekiel in his fortieth Chapter and forward, ſeeth her pitched here below when ſhe is come down. She is above, and and yet she is beneath; much as the case was at Mount Sinai, there was a Tabernacle above, the heavenly pattern on the top of the Mount, and there was a Tabernacle beneath, the material building and fabrick at the foot.

Jerusalem that is above; intimating that it is not a material building, but a spiritual, that the Builder is not man, but God: and yet that Jerusalem is come down, and is also here below, because it is among men, and consists of men; Men as lively stones being built up into a spiritual house and building, as it is 1 Pet. II. 5. Most commonly in this book of the Revelations, she is called by the very name of Heaven it self, that where you read Heaven you must understand the Church, partly because she is the only Heaven that is upon Earth; partly because of the presence of God in the midst of her as in Heaven; and partly because of the holy and heavenly things that are in her; and partly because she is the gate of Heaven, and the only passage whereby to come thither. Upon all which accounts together, it is no wonder that she carries the name of the heavenly Jerusalem, the holy City, and the holy City, that came down from God.

And let this suffice to be spoken concerning the meaning of the New Jerusalem, or what it is, viz. the Gospel Church. The great question and dispute is where it is? And whereas our Apocalyptick saw it coming down from Heaven, the great inquiry is, where it lighted, pitched and took its station? Where is the house of the Prince, and where is this City of the great King? Where is the true Church, this new Jerusalem? The finding where it is not, will be some direction how to seek it, where it is: and let us begin there first.

I. First therefore, Let me say in this case much like what was said of old by the Historian concerning the City Samnium, You may look for Samnium there where Samnium stood, and cannot find it. If you look for the new Jerusalem there where the old Jerusalem stood, you will not find it there: though the Jew would have you to look no where else, and have it to be found no where else. It is well known what the conception and expectation of that Nation is in this point: how they look for a most stately Jerusalem to be built where the old one stood, for a pompous Kingdom setled in the Land of Canaan suitable to such a City, and for a pompous Messias riding in the midst of both with statelines suitable to both. I shall say no more to this opinion but briefly only this, (for it is not worth speaking much unto) That this opinion helped forward the murther of the true Messias when he came among them. And I much wonder whether the opinion that produced so bad an effect then, can come to any good effect at any time. Because our Saviour, Poor Jesus, did not bring so much pomp and gallantry with him, as that opinion expecteded he was looked upon by them as a false Messias, and under that notion they made him suffer. And it is more than suspitious that such an opinion can prove good, solid and succesful never, that proved so very fatal and mischievous then.

It is true indeed that the Prophet Ezekiel doth delineate his visionary Jerusalem, as seated in the very place where the old had been: for indeed there was then a Jerusalem to be built there, as it was after the return out of captivity. But whosoever shall take measure of the dimensions that he giveth to his City in space and compass, will find it to come near, if not to equal, the space and compass of the whole Land of Canaan. And this Apocalyptick, the best interpreter of that Prophet, measuring his square new Jerusalem at vers. 16. of this Chapter, finds it to be twelve thousand furlongs, or fifteen hundred miles, upon every side of the square, six thousand miles about; and the wall about it also fifteen hundred miles high: The wall of Salvation, Esa. XXVI. 1. So that these things considered, a mystical or spiritual sense is enforced here, and for a literal one there is left little or no room at all. And we must look for the new Jerusalem somewhere else, then where the old one stood, for there is not room for it. Where then shall we seek next, since we cannot find it there. Here,

II. I cannot but remember the story in 2 Kings VI. The Syrians are seeking Elisha at Dothan, and he strikes them blind; and this is not the way, says he, this is not the City, but follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom ye seek, and he brought them to Samaria. We are seeking the new Jerusalem, and there are those that will tell you (but you must let them blindfold you the first) that you of London, we of England, are out of the way, if we look for any new Jerusalem, any true Church here among us, but follow them, and they will lead you where it is, and they will bring you to Rome. A place where I should as little seek for the new Jerusalem, as I should have sought for the old Jerusalem in Samaria; or as I should have sought for true worshippers, and the place of true worship at Sichem, and mount Gerizim. When they pretend to lead you to the new Jerusalem, and bring you to Rome, they could hardly lead you to any place under Heaven more unlikely where to find the new Jerusalem, then there.

Our Divines in their writings have evidenced this abundantly, and I shall not trouble you with rehearsing any thing they have spoken. I shall only lay these four Scriptural considerations before you, easie to understand and carry away; and even out of the way any impartial judgment cenſure and determine in this caſe. And firſt, Two concerning the place and City: And then two concerning the Church and Religion.

I. Concerning the Place and City.

Firſt, As the new Jeruſalem is never mentioned in Scripture, but with an honourable and noble character, ſo Rome on the contrary is never ſpoken of under any name or title, but with a character as black and diſmal. One Memoir only excepted, (which is in her ſtory, as Abijah was in the family of Jeroboam, 1 King. XIV. 13. the only one there, in whom was found any thing that was good.) And that is, that there was once a Church there, whoſe faith was renounedly ſpoken of through the whole world, Rom. I. 8. There was ſo indeed, and there could not be an Antichriſtian Church there, unleſs there had been a Chriſtian Church there firſt: ſince, There muſt be a falling away firſt, that the man of ſin might be revealed, 2 Theſ. II. 3.

The firſt mention that you have of Rome in Scripture is in Numb. XXIV. 24. under the name of Chittim: and there it is branded for the great oppreſſor and afflicter of Nations: and it is finally doomed to periſh for ever.

Secondly, You have mention of her armies, Dan. IX. ult. but with this brand upon them, that they are called The abominable army that maketh deſolate, there ſtyled by their Vulgar Latine, as in Matth. XXIV. the abomination of deſolation.

But thirdly, That which tops up all is, that ſhe is called Babylon in this Book of the Revelations, and deſcribed there as ſhe is. For that by Babylon is meant Rome, the Romaniſts themſelves will readily grant you, if you will grant them the diſtinction of Rome Pagan and Chriſtian, Imperial and Pontifical. And the laſt verſe of Chap. XVII. puts the matter out of all doubt, where it ſays, that the Woman, the ſcarlet Whore, which thou ſaweſt is the great City which reigneth over the Kings of the Earth. Upon which every one that is acquainted with the Rome-hiſtory muſt needs conclude, that no City can there be underſtood like the City Rome.

Now it is a very improper inqueſt to look for the new Jeruſalem in a place that muſt periſh for ever; to look for the holy City among the abominable armies, and to look for Sion the City of God in Babylon that Mother of Harlots, and abominations of the Earth.

Secondly, Whereas old Jeruſalem and the Jewiſh Nation incurred ſo great a curſe and guilt for the murther of the Lord of life, as we all know it did; it requireth very cogent arguments to prove, that Rome that had a hand as deep in that murther, ſhould obtain ſo great a bleſſing, and happineſs on the contrary, as to be the only Church in the World, and the Mother of all Churches. There is no Chriſtian but knoweth how deep a hand Jeruſalem had in that horrid fact: and he knoweth but little that knoweth not that Pontius Pilate was Deputy for Rome there, and how deeply alſo he was ingaged in it, as her Deputy.

And ſo much be ſpoken concerning the very Place, and how unlikely it is to find the new Jeruſalem there. How improper it is to imagine that that ſhould be the City of God, of which God himſelf in his Word ſpeaks not one good Word, but evil: to imagine that he ſhould chooſe that of all Cities for his deareſt ſpouſe, that of all Cities had the deepeſt hand in the murther of his dear Son.

II. Concerning their Church and Religion. If theſe men that pretend to lead men to the new Jeruſalem, and lead them to Rome, would but ſpeak out and plain, and tell them that they will lead them to the old Jeruſalem, and ſo lead them to Rome, they ſpeak ſomething likely. For what is the Church and Religion of Rome, but in a manner that of old Jeruſalem, tranſlated out of Judaick into Roman, and tranſplanted out of Paleſtina into Italy. And there is hardly an eaſier or a clearer way to diſcover that ſhe is not the new Jeruſalem, then by comparing her with the old: as God doth moſt clearly diſcover the Jeruſalem then being, Ezek. XXIII. by comparing her with Samaria and Sodom divers hours would ſcarce ſerve to obſerve the parallel in all particulars, and punctually to compare the Tranſcript with the Original: I ſhall only and briefly hint two things to you to that purpoſe. And, Firſt, Let me begin with that diſtinction that the Jews have in their writings once and again; of the Moſaick Law, and the Judaick Law, or the Law of Moſes, and the Law of the Jews. And they will tell you, ſuch and ſuch things are tranſgreſſions of the Moſaick Law, and ſuch and ſuch are tranſgreſſions of the Judaick Law. And as they themſelves do make the diſtinction, ſo they themſelves did cauſe the diſtinction. What they mean by the Moſaick Law, we all underſtand, and by their Judaick Law, they mean their Traditional Law, which they call the Law unwritten. While they kept to the Law of Moſes for a rule of faith and life, as they did under the firſt Temple, they did well in point of Doctrine, and no hereſie and heterodoxy tainted them: but when they received and drank in Traditions, as they did under the ſecond Temple, they drank in their own bane and poiſon.

There

There is in Scripture frequent mention of the laſt days, and the laſt times: by which is meant moſt commonly the laſt days of old Jeruſalem, and of the Jewiſh œconomy, when they were now drawing toward their diſſolution. But from what date or time to begin her laſt days may be ſome queſtion. If you date them from the time ſhe firſt received and entertained her traditions, you do but fit the calculation to the nature of the thing calculated. For then did ſhe fall into the conſumption and diſeaſe that brought her to her grave: then did ſhe catch that infection and plague, that never left her, but grew upon her, till it made her breath her laſt in a fatal end. Traditions ſpoiled her Religion, and brought her to worſhip God in vain, teaching for Doctrines the commandments of men, Matth. XV. 9. Traditions ſpoiled her manners, and trained her up in a vain converſation, received by tradition from the Fathers, 1 Pet. I. 18. In a word, Traditions, as they made the Law, ſo they made the Goſpel of no effect; and the doctrine of Chriſt, the death of Chriſt, the belief in Chriſt, to be but needleſs buſineſs, and things to no purpoſe. Nay Traditions leavened them to hate the Goſpel, to murther Chriſt, and to perſecute his Diſciples. For by the principles of their Traditions they could do no leſs than all theſe.

Now ſurely Jeruſalem that is above is above this infection; and the new holy City certainly brought no ſuch infection from Heaven, nor was tainted with this contagion, which was the death of the old: as a Prieſt in Iſrael could hardly be infected with Lepro-ſie. But you may ſee the tokens upon the Church of Rome very thick; traditions upon traditions; ſome of ſo like ſtamp to thoſe of old Jeruſalem, that you can hardly know them aſunder; but all of the like effect and conſequence, that they make the Goſpel of none effect, as thoſe did the Law; and cauſing men to worſhip God in vain, while they are taught for Doctrines the commandments of men. How great a part of their Religion is nothing elſe but the commandments of men, and other Traditions, and how great a part of their Church is built upon nothing elſe? The very chief corner ſtone in all their fabrick is of no better ſubſtance and ſolidity, viz. that S. Peter was Biſhop there, and there was martyred, when the Scripture and reaſon gives a far fairer probability that he was Apoſtle to the circumciſion in Babylonia, and there ended his days.

Secondly, You would hardly think that there was a worſe brood in the old Jeruſalem, than thoſe that we have ſpoken of; the men ſo infected with the Plague (and with a Frenzy with it) of traditions. And yet I can name you a worſe, and that was thoſe that had forſaken their Judaiſm, and entertained and embraced the Goſpel, but at laſt apoſtatized from it, and revolted to their old Judaiſm again; to their old Moſaick rites, which ſometime had been right, but now antiquated, and to their traditional principles, which had never been right, but now leaſt of all to have been embraced; and to a deadly hatred and perſecution of the Goſpel, that they once profeſſed.

How the Apoſtles ſpeak of and againſt this Apoſtaſie in their Epiſtles, I need not tell you, he that runs may read it: But he that ſtands ſtill, and reads preſely will find, that they find The Antichriſt, that then was, in that Apoſtaſie. I ſay the Antichriſt, that then was. For the Scripture gives a hint of a twofold Antichriſt, one in the Epiſtles, and the other in this Book of the Revelation: one that was in thoſe times, and the other that was to be afterwards: one among the Jews that had embraced the Goſpel, and the other among the Gentiles, which ſhould embrace it. And if you will let the unbelieving Jew to be one part of the Antichriſt, that then was, the Apoſtatized Jew was much more. Many Antichriſts in thoſe times, as this our Apoſtle tells us, 1 Joh. II. 18. but thoſe were they eſpecially of whom he ſpeaks immediately after; They went out from us, but they were not of us. And the like character do theſe Apoſtates carry in other places in the Epiſtles in terms equivalent.

Now therefore the neareſt way to diſcover the Antichriſt, that was to be in after times among the Gentiles, is by obſerving his likeneſs and ſimilitude to the former, viz. in apoſtatizing from the pure and ſincere profeſſion of the Goſpel to Judaiſm, or to Moſaick manner of worſhip, and Judaick principles and Religion.

Which how the Church of Rome hath done, it would require a long time to compare in all particulars; but it will require a far longer time for her to clear her ſelf from that juſt accuſation. How near doth ſhe come to Judaiſm in the doctrine of Juſtification? how near in the doctrine of opus operatum? How near in the doctrine of expiation by bare Confeſſion? How near in the doctrine of the value of Traditions? And one for all, how near in turning all Religion into Ceremony? Their preſent year of Jubilee is it not Moſaick? And were you there at it, and ſaw the manner of their devotions, their formal Services, and Ceremonious Worſhip, would you not think you were in the old Jeruſalem among the Scribes and Phariſees, rather than in the the new, where the true worſhipers worſhip the Father in ſpirit and truth.

So

So that when we departed from the Church of Rome, we did but the ſame thing, that the Apoſtles, Diſciples, and other holy converts of the Jewiſh Nation did; they forſook Judaiſm to embrace the purity of the Goſpel. And ſo did we. And in the way that they call Hereſie we worſhip God.

If I have treſpaſſed too much upon your patience by ſo prolix a diſcourſe upon ſo unpleaſing a ſubject, I muſt crave your pardon. We enquiring after the new Jeruſalem, where we might find it, come to the place where your ways parted, and one went right, and the other wrong. The wrong way is the broader, pleaſanter, and more trodden; and not a few that ſtand in it, and cry, This is the right way, and no other. It is good to give warning, it is needful to take warning, that we be not miſled, that the men and the way do not deceive us.

And having thus far obſerved where the new Jeruſalem is not to be found, let us now look where it is.

And, firſt, we muſt not expect to find it in any one particular place, as you might have done the old Jeruſalem; but it is diſperſed here and there abroad in the World. It is the Catholick Church, as we are taught in our Creed, and it is not in one only, but in this, and that, and the other Nation. When the new Jeruſalem is to be meaſured in Zach. II. an Angel bids, O run after yonder young man, that is to meaſure it, and tell him, that Jeruſalem ſhall be inhabited as a City without walls, for the multitude of men and cattel that ſhall be therein. It is a City unlimited, and therefore not to be bounded within this or that compaſs. We may uſe this Paradox of it, That it is a fluid and yet a fixed body, nay fixed becauſe fluid: that is, it is moving ſometime into one place, ſometime into another, and therefore it ſhall never fade or periſh.

The Jews accuſed S. Stephen of Hereſie and blaſphemy, becauſe he ſaid, that the Church and Religion ſhould not alway be pinned to that City and Temple, but taken away. In his anſwer he ſheweth, that the Church and Religion is a Pilgrim, one while in one place, another while in another: in Meſopotamia, in Charran, in Canaan, in Egypt. And our own obſervation may tell us, that when it failed in Egypt, and Iſrael followed the Idols and manners of that Land, as Ezek. XX. that then God found himſelf a Church in the family of Job and his three friends. The ſaying of our Saviour may ſuffice for this, The Kingdom of Heaven ſhall be taken from you, and given to a people, that ſhall bring forth the fruits of it. And this is that that makes it fixed, or never failing, becauſe when it decayeth in one place it groweth in another. And that promiſe of our Saviour will ever maintain it in life and being, Upon this rock will I build my Church of the Goſpel, and the gates of Hell ſhall never prevail againſt it: as they have done againſt the Church of the Jews.

In Matth. XXIV. when Chriſt foretels of the deſolation of that City, Church and Nation, that their Sun and Moon and Stars, Religion and Church and State, ſhould be darkned, and fall, and come to nothing: and they ſhould then ſee the Son of man, whom they would never own, coming in a thick cloud, and ſtorm of vengeance againſt them; it might be queſtioned, where then will God have a Church, when that is gone? He gives an anſwer, That the Son of man ſhould ſend his Angels, or Miniſters, with the ſound of a trumpet, the trumpet of the Goſpel, and gather him a Church from all the corners under Heaven. To which may not improperly be applied that, Heb. XII. 22. Ye are come to an innumerable company of Angels. God will never want his Church, but if it be not in one place, it will be in another.

Secondly, There is an inviſible Church as well as a viſible. Pauls Jeruſalem which is above and out of ſight, as well as Ezekiels Jeruſalem pitched here below. There is commonly ſome inviſible Church within the viſible, as Ezekiels wheel within a wheel. But there is ſometimes an inviſible Church, where there is none viſible, as thoſe ſeven thouſand men in the days of Elias, when he could not diſcern one. The Apoſtle ſpeaking of the new Jeruſalem, that we are ſpeaking of, in that place of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews before alledged, among other things ſaith, Ye are not come to the Mount that might be touched, meaning Mount Sinai, but ye are come to Mount Sion. One would think when he ſpake of Mount Sinai, he ſhould rather have called it, the Mount that might not be touched; for God charged that neither man nor beaſt ſhould touch it, Exod. XIX. But you may ſee the Apoſtles meaning, That the Myſtical Mount Sion is not ſuch a groſs earthly thing, as Mount Sinai was, that was ſubject to ſenſe and feeling, to be ſeen and felt and trod upon: but that Sion is a thing more pure, refined and abſtract from ſuch ſenſibleneſs, ſpiritual and heavenly.

And from this undeniable notion of a Church inviſible, we may eaſily anſwer that captious, and ſcornful queſtion, that you know who put upon us, Where was your Church and Religion before Luther? Why, it was in the Jeruſalem that is above, out of the reach, and above the ken of mans diſcerning: it was upon Mount Sion, above the ſphere of ſight and ſenſe. It was in ſuch a place and caſe, as the Church and Religion was in, when there were seven thousand men, that never bowed the knee τῇ Βαάλ, to the Golden Heifer at Dan or Bethel; and yet the greateſt Prophet then being could not diſcern the leaſt ſign of any Church at all. Now, Thirdly, The new Jeruſalem muſt be known by her Pearls and Jewels, upon which it is founded and built up. True Religion is that that muſt diſtinguiſh and diſcover the true Church. And where that is, it is like the Wiſemens Star over the houſe at Bethlehem, that points out, and tells, Jeſus, and his Church is here. I muſt confeſs I do not well underſtand that conceſſion of ſome of our Proteſtant Divines, that yield, That the Church of Rome is a corrupt Church indeed, but yet a true Church. For I do not well underſtand how there ſhould be a true Church under a falſe Religion. If the Church of the Jews, under the great corruption of Religion, that was in it might be called a true Church, that was all it could look for. And it muſt have that title rather becauſe there was never a Church in the World beſide it, than from any claim by Religion. But what do you call true Religion?

1. Firſt, That which is only founded on the Word of God; as the Wall of the new Jeruſalem, in verſ. 14. of this Chapter, is founded upon twelve pearls engraven with the names of the twelve Apoſtles of the Lamb.

2. That Religion that tends directly to the honouring, of God and ſaving of ſouls, and is adequate to theſe ends. In ſhort, That Religion that can bring to Heaven. For I ſo little believe, that any man may be ſaved in any Religion, that I believe there is only one Religion, in which any man may be ſaved. And when Moſes can bring Iſrael only to the ſkirts of the Land of Promiſe, I hardly believe that any Religion will bring them into it.

Though one ſhould not ſtick to grant that a perſon may be ſaved in the Church of Rome, yet ſhould I queſtion, whether in the Faith of Rome. And it is the Faith or Doctrine of a Church more eſpecially that I mean by the Religion of it. Let a Romaniſt ride all the ſtages of his Religion, from his uncouth kind of Baptiſm to his extream Unction, through his auricular Confeſſions and Abſolutions, through his Penances and Pardons, through his Maſſings and Croſſings, through all his Devotions and Auſterities: will all theſe bring to Heaven, if the main fundamentals of Faith be faulty and failing? Nay if the main fundamentals of belief be clean contrary to the way of God to Heaven? A Scribe or Phariſee in old Jeruſalem is as devout in Religion, and as ſtrict and ſevere in outward converſation as is imaginable, that you would think ſanctity it ſelf were there; yet will all this bring to Heaven, when the chief principles of his Faith are directly contrary to the way of Salvation; while he believes to be juſtified by his own works, and places all in opere operato, in a little formal and ceremonial ſervice? Like him in the ſtory and on the ſtage, that cried, O! Heaven, and pointed down to the Earth; theſe pretended for Heaven in their practical Devotions, but pointed downward in their Doctrinal principles.

I ſhall not inſiſt to illuſtrate thoſe particulars that I mentioned; I ſuppoſe they carry their own proof and evidence with them, that they are moſt proper touchſtones, whereby to try the truth of a Church and Religion. And it is our comfort that we can, that we do, that we deſire to bring our Religion to ſuch Teſts and touchſtones, and refuſe not, but moſt gladly appeal to the impartial Judge, the Word of God, to give judgment of it. I ſhall not therefore undertake ſo needleſs a taſk, as to go about to prove the truth of our Faith and Religion, ſince ſo many Proteſtant pens have ſo clearly, and ſo abundantly done it, far more learned than my Tongue. And ſince I may make ſuch an Appeal to you, as the Apoſtle did to King Agrippa, King Agrippa, believeſt thou the Prophets? I know thou believeſt. Fathers and Brethren, believe you the Truth of our Religion? I know you believe it. Then I have no more to do but to offer two or three words of humble exhortation and entreaty, viz. Prize it, Cleave to it, Beautifie it.

I. Prize it; for it is the chiefeſt jewel in all our Cabinet: And the wiſeſt Merchant in all your City cannot find out a Pearl of greater price. It is the life of our Nation at home, and it is the honour of our Nation abroad. It is that that makes our Land a Royal Street of the new Jeruſalem. It is that that muſt make your City a holy City.

We ſee a new London, as our Apocalyptick ſaw a new Jeruſalem. The buildings ſtately and magnificent, the furniture ſumptuous and very ſplendid, the ſhops rich and bravely furniſhed, the wealth great and very affluent: but your Religion the all in all As it was ſaid in old time that Athens was the Greece of Greece, and as it may be ſaid at this time that London is the England of England, ſo let your Religion be the London of London. It is that by which your City muſt ſtand and flouriſh, by which your proſperity muſt be watered and maintained, and the Ancile, which kept in ſafety, will keep us in ſafety.

II. Keep

II. Keep therefore close to your Religion, and leave it not. Dread revolting from the true Religion. The Apostasie in the Apostles times was the sin unto death, in our Apocalypticks first Epistle, and last Chapter. And there is an Apostasie in our time but too common and to be deplored with tears, to a Religion but too like to that, to which they then revolted. I would therefore that those that are tempted either by the lightness of their own hearts, or by the Emissaries of Rome, to revolt from their Religion, would remember that dreadful saying of the Apostle, Heb. X. 26. If we sin wilfully after we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sin; but a fearful expectation of judgment, and firy indignation, which shall devour the adversary. Which is spoken peculiarly of Apostasie, or else it were a passage too terrible for all flesh.

Hannibals father took him at nine years of age to an Altar, and there swore him never to have confederacy and friendship with Rome. If all the World had alway been under such a tye, it had been happy for it. I hope our Religion, our Hearts, our God will keep us from entring into league and society with that City, that had so deep a hand in the murther of our dear Saviour, and in the blood of his dear Saints.

III. Lastly, Let us strive to adorn our Religion with a sutable conversation: to beautifie our Church with the beauty of Holiness. We desire to be owned for Citizens of the new Jerusalem: and whereas our Religion may give us some title to it, it is holiness of conversation that must naturalize and enfranchise us. The new Jerusalem doth chalenge a new conversation: and doth not a new London new Hearts and Lives? The City so stately and sumptuously built up, if such top stones be laid on, we may comfortably and joyfully cry, Grace, grace, Peace, peace unto it.

A SERMON

Preached upon

EXODUS XXX. 15.

The rich ſhall not give more, and the poor ſhall not give leſs than half a ſhekel, when they give an offering unto the Lord, to make an attonement for your Souls.

IT is our Duty to love all men; and a reaſon of it is, our likeneſs to all men: they have Souls like ours; their Souls have all the image of God as well as ours, and capable of the fruition of God, and eternal glory, as well as ours. Which Parity, whether it be not fairly intimated in the words of the Text, judge you, when God for attonement for Souls ſets a value to all people alike; the Rich and Poor to meet in one and the ſame ſum, and not one to pay more or leſs than another, but all alike. The rich ſhall not give more, and the poor ſhall not give leſs, than half a ſhekel. This may ſeem to be ſomething an unequal rating, and the rich to be ſet too low, and the poor too high.

But to give a clear account of this matter, let us conſider,

I. Of the ſum that was to be given, Half a ſhekel.

II. The end for which it was given, To be a ranſom or attonement for ſouls. And then,

III. The parity that is to be in this payment, None to exceed above, nor none to abate beneath another: but all to pay alike.

I. The ſum is half a ſhekel. Now their ſhekel was of the value of our half crown, and the half ſhekel was half as much. And as our half crown is either in one piece, or hath five ſix pences to make it up in value: So they had their ſhekel either in one piece, or four pieces to make it up. Thoſe four pieces in the Greek language were called Drachmes, in the Hebrew Zuzees, in Latine Pennies. And ſo the Greek renders the half ſhekel here two Drachmes. And the two Pennies that the good Samaritane gave, Luke X. 35. is the very ſame ſum, viz. half a ſhekel: the Roman penny being ſeven pence half penny, and two of them making half a ſhekel, or fifteen pence.

And that ſum of two pence, that the good Samaritane lays down, is very properly mentioned in that caſe. For as here the half ſhekel, which was in value two pence, is to be given for attonement of Souls, ſo there the two pence, which was in value half a ſhekel, is given for recovery of life.

Two things concerning this half ſhekel here mentioned are obſervable in the New Teſtament.

Firſt, That the mony changers Tables that our Saviour overthrew in the Temple, were the Tables of the Collectors and Receivers of this half ſhekel. And why then ſhould he overthrow their Tables, when the mony they received was of Gods appointment? It was indeed, but the wretched Receivers made a baſe trade of getting gain by changing their mony. And for giving them ſingle mony for their whole ſhekel or half crown piece, they muſt be paid ſome profit. This is that that made our Saviour kick down their Tables, and not any croſneſs againſt the ſum, which was of Gods own appointment.

Secondly, In that ſtory, Matth. XVII. 24. It is this half ſhekel mony, that they come to demand, which Chriſt rather than he will not pay, will fetch it by miracle out of a fiſhes mouth. Now,

II. What was the end or reaſon of this gift or payment. It was for the ranſom of a Soul, for the attonement of a Soul. Where by Soul is not ſtrictly meant that inward part part of man properly so called, but his life and person; for so the word Soul signifies also in Scripture very often. As instead of more, for the first signification, viz. Soul for Life, take that of David, Let them be cut off, that seek after my Soul. For the last, Soul for Person, that in Exod. I. 5. All the Souls that came out of the Loins of Jacob were seventy Souls. The meaning is that this parcel of mony was yearly to be paid, as a payment or tribute, to God for the preservation of their lives and persons. And that may be observed by these two things.

First, This was an extraordinary oblation, and not the like commanded in the whole Law, i. e. any offering of mony. Lambs and Goats and Bullocks were commanded to be offered, but as for the offering of mony there was this payment only. Now the Sacrifices of Lambs and Bullocks were more properly for the attonement of their Souls, viz. for the pardon of their sins, and the withholding or removing of judgment. But this peculiar and extraordinary one of mony was for the peculiar and extraordinary end, viz. for the ransom or preservation of their life and person.

Secondly, This you may find hinted in vers. 12. When thou numbrest the people, they shall give every one a ransom for their Souls, lest there be a plague among them. This must be a ransom for their lives, to keep the plague, or any other deadly occurrence away, that might take away their lives, or destroy their persons.

III. The parity or equality in the payment of this sum. The rich no more, and the poor no less. The reason of which when we come to weigh, let us be sure to do it in Gods own ballances, or we may easily be mistaken. What the rich pay no more than the poor, and the poor as much as the rich? A Gallant would scorn to be so ranked with the poor, to pay no more than he; and the poor would grudge to be rated with the rich, to pay as much as he. But he that ordained the payment saw very good reason for what he did; and would that they rest in his ordaining, and learn somewhat from such appointing. The rich shall not give more, and the poor shall not give less.

And now let us look over these three things again, and consider what may be learned from them.

I will transpose a little these particulars, and speak of the second first, viz.

I. The end and purpose for which this sum was given, to wit, as an acknowledgment and an owning that their lives and persons were in the hand of God, and that to him they looked for their Preservation. And therefore it was that they paid this sum, for the ransom of their lives. So that as the payment of this mony was a Duty, so it was a Doctrine, teaching them to own their depending upon God for their lives and beings. So that hence we learn,

That every man is to own his dependance upon God for his life and being.

The Jews were taught it by their being bound to pay a yearly tribute to God for the preservation of their life and being: and we taught it from their example. And I speak to this subject the more willingly, because the thing and the time do concur so fair together; so that the subject we speak of is not only useful and necessary, but seasonable and agreeable both to their time and ours. Concerning their payment of this Pol-mony, or dependance mony, their own writers tell us, that the Collectors of this Tax began upon the Collection of it the last month of their year; and so went on gathering in the beginning of the new year. That we are come to the last month, nay the last week of our year doth very justly give us occasion to remember our preservation the year that is now gone over our heads, and all the years of our life hitherto; and to consider of that merciful and good Providence, that hath preserved us all along those years. And this, and hardly a more seasonable discourse can we take up at this time, than such an one, as shall remind us, and if it may be, warm us with a feeling of our Dependence upon God for our preservation.

Need I to divide the Theme before us and prove apart, That our Dependence is upon God for our preservation: And, That we are to be sensible of this Dependence? We can hardly find a place in Scripture that proves the one, but it proves both together: and none there is hardly but if they acknowledge the truth of the thing, that mens dependence is upon God for their preservation; but they acknowledge also their sense of it, and that they so own their preservation.

I might instance multitudes of places, but do I need, when there is not a holy man through all the Bible, that speaks of his own preservation, but he owns it to have been from God, and shews himself to have been sensible of it? Job X. 12. Thou hast given me life, and thy visitation hath preserved my spirit. Lam. III. 22. It is the Lords mercies that we are not consumed: And Act. XXVI. 22. Having obtained help of God, &c. There is not a person in Scripture that takes notice of the preserving of his life and person, but he always turns it that way to own God the Author of it; unless it be such a fool as he, that bids, bids, Soul, take thine eaſe, &c. or as he, Is not this great Babylon that I have built, &c. or they that ſay, To day, or to morrow we will go into ſuch a City, and buy and ſell and get gain: and never mention God or his providence in the bargain. I hope I need not prove that all our lives, perſons, and the preſervation of both are in the hand of God, and at his diſpoſal; but I may ſum up all in this challenge and appeal, Dare any defie Gods Providence and Preſervation, and take upon you your own preſervation, and to maintain your life and perſon of your ſelves?

But let not ſuch a thing be once mentioned among Chriſtians: but the great buſineſs is that Chriſtians would become rightly ſenſible of their dependence upon God.

I cannot omit one thing in this Law about paying this half ſhekel, viz. verſ. 14. that every one that was twenty years old and upward, was to pay it. And why then? And why not before? Not but that they that were under twenty years old were under the ſame preſervation, and had reaſon to acknowledge the ſame preſervation: but at twenty years of age they were come to that age as ſhould be the age of diſcretion, and that men ſhould now conſider under what tuition they lived, and that then it was time to own it; though folly and vanity of youth had not ſuffered them to do ſo before. And twenty years of age was the time, when they were in their prime and ſtrength and fluſh, and when it was the likelieſt time to think of their own ſtrength and vigor, and that they ſtood upon their own ſubſiſtence. Then and forward, it was moſt ſeaſonable to admoniſh them upon what it was that they ſubſiſted, and who it was that preſerved them.

The acknowledgement that it is God that doth preſerve our life and being, may be of the Tongue only, and nothing but words, or bare conviction of the truth of the thing, and but little more than words neither. But a feeling acknowledgment of Gods preſervation is ſuch a thing, as ſpeaks it ſelf by ſome evident demonſtration. It is the Apoſtles ſaying, That ſaving faith worketh by Love; we may ſay the like of Hiſtorical Faith, if it work at all, it worketh by ſome evidence or demonſtration of action. And ſuch evidences or demonſtrations in this caſe are various.

I. Such a perſon, who owns and feelingly believes his dependence upon God for his preſervation, is careful to commit himſelf to Gods protection, and his preſerving providence the beſt he can. We read of perſons being under the wings of the Almighty, and putting themſelves under his wings; and they are there becauſe they put themſelves there, Pſal. XCI. 4. He ſhall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings ſhalt thou truſt. How comes he there? He puts himſelf there by committing himſelf to Gods providence as he ought to do. As Ruth did II. Chap. 12. Pſal. XXXVI. 6, 7. Thou ſaveſt man and beaſt. How excellent is thy loving kindneſs, O God; therefore ſhall the ſons of men put their truſt under the ſhaddow of thy wings. There is a general providence, that preſerves man and beaſt; but a peculiar protection for them that put themſelves under the ſhaddow of his wings.

Can we ſay that man is under Gods protection, that never put himſelf under Gods protection? Can we ſay God keeps that that was never committed to him? Such an one as a Worldling, an Epicure, that minds not God, nor his duty of committing himſelf to him? Yes, you will ſay, for this man lives and is preſerved as well as the beſt; he is kept out of danger as well as the holieſt: he is in health, wealth and a thriving condition as well as another man; and therefore ſure God keeps him as well as another: He preſerves indeed man and beaſt, as the Pſalmiſt tells us, and ſo he is preſerved as beaſts are preſerved. But he owns not God in his preſervation no more than they.

A man that rightly owns his dependence upon God, commits himſelf to God by prayer, beſeeching him to take him to his care and charge. Thus the Saints of God have ever put themſelves under his wings. I will call upon the Lord, who is worthy to be feared and ſo ſhall I be ſaved from mine enemies. This was Davids way to be in ſafety and preſervation continually. And it is according to Gods direction, Pſal. L. 15. Call upon me in the time of trouble, and I will deliver thee. So Jacob commits himſelf to Gods protection, when he is going for Syria by prayer and a vow. Gen. XXVIII. 20. If God will be with me, and keep me in the way that I go, and will give me bread to eat and raiment to put on, &c. And ſuch another copy you have of Jabez, 1 Chron. IV. 9. And Jabez called upon the Lord God of Iſrael, ſaying, O that thou wouldſt bleſs me indeed, and inlarg my coaſt, and that thine hand might be with me, and that thou wouldſt keep me from evil, that it may not grieve me. And God granted him that which he requeſted. This is the way to engage God to our preſervation, when we thus caſt our ſelves upon him, and implore his care of us.

II. They that own their dependence upon God for preſervation and protection put themſelves under his protection in the way of his protection. Do you think that Gods merciful protection dwells every where, and that a man may promiſe himſelf to meet with it every where; in an Idol Temple, a Whorehouſe, leud company? He that walks in a wickwicked course of life; can he expect Gods merciful providence will meet with him here? The Apostle tells us how to put our selves under Gods protection, 1 Pet. IV. 19. to commit the keeping of our souls to him in well doing. And David long before, Psal. XXXVII. 3. Do good, and verily thou shalt be fed. Keep in his ways and he will keep thee: be doing his work and he will take care of thee: But canst thou expect his protection and care, when thou art in the ways of the Devil, and doing the work of the Devil? A Christian should alway be doing of that, as that he may lawfully and warrantably beg Gods blessing upon him while he is doing it. Joyn prayer and well doing together, and thou art sure to speed well.

III. He that owns his dependence upon God, aims that his preservation be to the service of him that preserves him. As he owns that he lives upon God, so he aims to live to him. This use of Gods preserving providence Jacob aimed at, Gen. XXVIII. 21. If God will be with me and keep me in this way, &c. so that I come again to my Fathers house in peace, then shall the Lord be my God. And David, Psal. CXVI. 8, 9. For thou hast delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling. I will walk before the Lord in the land of the living. And it pinched Job that he should any way have failed of it; Job VII. 20. I have sinned, what shall I do unto thee, O! thou preserver of men? Hast thou preserved me, and do I sin against thee, contrary to the end I should have aimed at under thy preservation? Reason and the very light of nature may argue to such a purpose, that in all equity and justice he that is maintained by God should be serviceable to God. We look for service of our servants and beasts, and all the reason in the World God should have it from Men.

IV. He that owns his dependence upon God, observes Gods constant preserving providence; and counts nothing in preserving providence small. No sin is to be accounted little, because it is against a great God; and no good providence is little, because it is exercised towards sinful men. A true owner of his dependence upon God, looks upon Gods preserving mercy towards him through this double multiplying glass, his own brittleness, and his own unworthiness; that God should preserve a thing so brittle, and so ill deserving.

And thus I have considered the end of this offering, viz. To be an acknowledgment to God of their dependence on him for their lives, and to implore his care and good providence towards them for their preservation. Now in the second place we come to consider,

II. The quantity of this sum. Half a shekel. What? But half a shekel for the best man in Israel? Why? The price of a servant was thirty whole shekels, and is the rate of the best freeman in Israel, but at a poor half shekel? Exod. XXI. 32. If an Ox push a man servant or maid servant, that they die, the owner of the Ox must give to their Master thirty shekels of silver for the price or value, of his servant he had lost. And so our Saviour was sold at the price of a servant, viz. thirty pieces of silver: a poor price to value him at: and you may think it not a rich price to value the best man of Israel, but at half a shekel, when the poorest servant was valued at thirty whole ones.

Do you not observe the difference? That was the price of a Servant twixt man and man; this the rate of men twixt Man and God. A servant might well be worth thirty shekels to his Master, as being able to be profitable to him. But what can poor sinful man be profitable to God? Even an Ox or an Asse may be of a good handsom price twixt man and man, because they may be profitable to man; but what can man be profitable to God? It is Eliphaz question, Job XXII. 2. Can a man be profitable to God, as a wise man may be profitable to himself? You find oft in Scripture mention of the Children of Belial: the word signifies, Unprofitable, but it means an Idol, a God that cannot profit, and whom it is no profit to serve. Our God is not such, he is not an unprofitable Master; it is profit to serve him, but when we have done all we can, we have cause to say, We are unprofitable.

If we should be valued by God according as we can be profitable to God, (as we value our cattel according as they are profitable to us) at what rate should he set us? At a grain of dust, and a dram of ashes, at a puff of vapour, and a blast of wind, at the rate of a moth, and the price of a worm, at the value of nothing, and lighter than vanity: this is the proper weight we carry upon the ballance, if we be weighed as we are indeed in our selves. Therefore never complain that God rates men so low as but half a shekel: wonder rather that he rates or values them so high; nay, that he sets any value upon them at all. For Lord, what is man that thou shouldest value, or think of him, and the Son of man that thou shouldest make account of him. Man is like to vanity, his days are like to a shadow that departeth away; Psal. CXLIV. 3, 4. And yet upon such an one God setteth his eye, upon such an one he setteth some value. He was to offer God half a shekel for his Soul. God lays not this Tax to rate men according to their worth, for that was nothing, nor to lay any heavy burthen upon them, for the tax was small, but it was to instruct them, That

That God requires ſome tribute of men for their preſervation.

Men muſt not think to live on free coſt, and that God maintains their lives for nothing but rather let them know that he looks for ſome pay and tribute from them. The Apoſtle tells us, that what was written aforetime was written for our learning; and ſo what was written for them is written for us too. Only the punctual rate and payment of half a ſhekel lies not upon us, as it did upon them; but what is intimated by the payment of this rate, is intimated to us as well as it was to them. The intimation was, that they, Men, owe God a debt and payment for the preſervation of their lives, and he expects it from them. This payment of half aſhekel mony ceaſed, when the Jews ceaſed to be a Nation; but the equity and intimation that it read and carried with it, ceaſed not, but takes hold upon us as it did on them.

The Ceremonial appointments of the Jewiſh Nation did not only preſcribe the external action, but alſo enjoyned the ſignified Duty too. They were enjoyned to offer ſacrifice. The outward action was killing a beaſt, and offering him upon the Altar for an attonement for their ſins. The thing ſignified was the ſacrificing of Chriſt, the great oblation for the ſins of men. The Duty intimated was, that they ſhould look to the death of Chriſt, and by that believe to obtain the forgiveneſs of their ſin, and not barely by their ſacrifice. So that they were bound both to the moral Duty, to believe in the death of Chriſt for the attonement of ſin: and they were to offer ſacrifice too, thereby to ſignifie his death in which they believed. And the like might be ſaid of the other ceremonious burthens that were laid upon them. But we will only take inſtance in that before us.

They were enjoyned to offer this half ſhekel yearly to God for the preſervation of their lives. The thing ſignified was, that their lives depended upon God, and to him they muſt look for their preſervation. The moral Duty intimated and required, was, That they were bound to pay atribute of obedience to God for his preſerving them. For it was not mony that God looked after, but to obey is better than ſacrifice. The ceremonial part of their work was laid down long ago, but the moral Duty that it ſignified lays ſtill upon all of us, and all men in the World.

By the way let me tell you this out of the Roman Hiſtories, that when Veſpaſian had conquered and deſtroyed Jeruſalem, he commanded that the Jews ſhould pay this half ſhekel, that they uſed to pay to God for their lives, to his Idol Jupiter Capitolinus at Rome. A ſad thing to pay that that was to be paid to God their Preſerver, to the Devil the Deſtroyer. For his God Jupiter Capitolinus was no better than a Devil. And I wiſh in the parallel it be not too true with too many: that they pay what they owe to God for their lives and preſervations to the Devil.

Well, the firſt thing taught in the payment was, That we ſhould learn and obſerve, that God doth not preſerve and take care of mens lives for nought, but that he expects ſome tribute and payment for it. And truly that he may in all reaſon in the World, if we will but compare his caſe and mens together. Every ſhepherd, every ſhepherds boy muſt be paid for keeping another mans flock; and muſt the great ſhepherd have no pay for keeping and leading Iſrael like a flock? Nay, Satan himſelf ſees it all the reaſon in the World, though he ſpeak it with a venomous intent, that if God have hedged Job round about, as he had done, and taken ſuch care of him, that he pay him with fear and careful walking before him. Doth Job fear God for naught? Haſt thou not made an hedge about him, and about his houſe, and about all that he hath on every ſide? I. Chap. 9, 10. Therefore it is no wonder if he fear thee, it is all the reaſon in the World he ſhould.

There is no care in the world taken of one perſon by another, but it is repayed with ſome fair repayment or other: Even the care of Parents to their Children, which you will ſay nature it ſelf binds them to, yet they expect to be paid with their obedience. That challenge of God is but moſt juſt, Mal. I. 6. A Son honoureth his Father, and a Servant his Maſter; if then I be a Father, where is mine honour, and if I be a Maſter, where is my fear? It is the very title and profeſſion of God, that he is the Preſerver, Keeper Saviour of men; and no pay to him from men for all this? Job VII. 20. O thou preſerver of men. The word ſignifies Obſerver too. As God looks to men, ſo he looks after men to ſee what they do, and how they demean themſelves to him that looks to them. So Samuel hints to Saul, and Nathan to David; I have done thus and thus to you, kept you, dignified, promoted, proſpered you, and is this the requital you make to me? Need I to tell you that God is called the Watch man of Iſrael, that never ſlumbereth nor ſleepeth, but continually takes care of them. But the Apoſtle, 1 Tim. IV. 10. goes further, and tells you, that he is not only the Preſerver of Iſrael, but even of all men. We truſt in the living God, who is the Saviour of all men, ſpecially of thoſe that believe. Some from the word Saviour would conclude univerſal universal grace and redemption; but the word means as in the Book of Judges, a Preserver or Deliverer; and so God is to all, especially those that believe. Though he preserve not unbelievers in the very same manner and degree that he doth believers, yet he preserveth them, and looks for requital from them for their preservation.

Now that in all equity some payment is due to God in this case, let us a little consider of these things.

First, The preciousnes of life; that very thing may argue, that it is not a small debt we owe to him that preserves it. It hath the proper name of precious. Prov. VI. 26. For by means of a whorish woman a man is brought to a piece of bread, and the adultress will hunt for the precious life. And do you not think that Solomon speaks very true when he calls life precious; and do you not think that even the father of lies speaks true when he said, Skin for skin, and all that a man hath will he give for his life? What will any man take for his life to pass it away? What jewels, what rubies, what riches will buy his life from him? No, he accounts it too precious to part with his life for mony or monies worth. And this doth enhance the preciousnes of life, that it is not only so excellent a being in it self, but without it all things are nothing to him that hath lost it. Bring a dead man bags of gold and heaps of silver, fill his coffin up with pearls and jewels; strew his grave with diamonds and rubies; there is no hearing, no minding, no affecting, when his jewel, that was more worth then all these, his life, is gone.

Now who is the Preserver of this dear jewel, while we carry it about us? Is it we our selves? The Psalmist tells us, that It is he that made us, and not we our selves. Psal. C. And reason may tell us, that it is he that preserves us, and not we our selves. For can we any more preserve our lives of our selves, than we can give life to our selves? When a desperate danger is ready to swallow us up, if God withdraw his preserving providence can man bring his life out of danger? In Scripture Phrase for a man to put his life in his own hand (Judg. XII. 3.) is to venture it to danger, where there is no safety: but in the hands of God it is secure, while he will take charge of it. Feeling is that passage of Daniel to Belshazzar, Dan. V. 23. The God in whose hand is thy breath. Canst thou take it into thine own hand, and there hold it? The Jews tell a story of the Angel of death sent to take away the soul of Moses, but Moses withstood him, and he could not do it; but when God saw his time to take it, no withstanding. The Angel of death in their meaning is the Devil, and the Apostle speaks to their opinion, Heb. II. 14. That through death he might destroy him that had the power of death that is the Devil. Now wherein lies the reason, why Satan takes not away our lives, when he pleaseth? Is it in our selves? Would not he, think you, carry away all men bodily to his den, if it were in his power? And is it our power that doth restrain him? Think of those poor possessed ones in the Gospel, whom the Devil hurried so up and down at his pleasure. Is it our own power that doth restrain him, that he useth not us so? When we read or hear such stories have we not cause, if we had hearts, to look up at a higher power than our own, that we are not, as they were, in his power? And was it his courtesie that he spared their lives, when God had given him liberty to use their bodies as he did? Or was it not, that God restrained him? you may guess it by Jobs case, betwixt whose life and Satans malice against him God had put this bar, Only take not away his life.

But when God himself comes by death resolvedly to take away any mans life, whose power is it in to hinder? When he is resolved to tear body and soul asunder, who shall say, what dost thou? When he will preserve life no longer, who can make it out, and preserve it himself? The Lord giveth life and the Lord taketh it away, in his hand only is the disposal of our life and being.

Secondly, God shews himselves tender of our lives: doth not only preserve them, but shews that he is tender of them, and willing to preserve them. God is the fountain of being, and giver of life, and it is agreeable to his nature to maintain the being of men, and their lives; but it is not so agreeable to him to destroy them: it is said of him that he doth not afflict willingly, nor grieve the children of men, Lam. III. And he saith of himself that he hath no pleasure in the death of the sinner, Ezek. XVIII. And no wonder, for it is somewhat besides his nature: q. d. for it is his nature to give being, and not to destroy it.

Now that God is tender of the lives of men, and preservs them willingly and tenderly, you have it evidenced in the mouth of three or four witnesses, that the truth of it may be established.

1. He is tender of the lives of very birds and beasts, and therefore forbids all cruelty towards them. Balaam for cruelty towards his poor Ass is reproved both by the Angel, and the Ass her self. And how does God forbid to kill a beast and her young on the same day, to take a bird and her young at the same time, but if he take the young to let the dam go; forbids to seeth a kid in his dams milk: and in a word, it is a token the Holy Ghost gives of a good man, that he is merciful to his very beast.

2. Is

2. Is it not an evidence that God is tender of mens lives, when he hath made ſo ſevere a Law againſt murther, or taking them away? And what ſtrange diſcoveries hath he made of murthers and murtherers, that he that hath taken away a mans life may not go unpuniſhed? So tender is God of the life of man, that as man hedgeth in a choice tree or plant that he is tender of; ſo hath God mans life with ſuch a firy law, as well as he doth alſo with his providence.

3. Doth not God tender the life of man, when he would have all men to ſpin out their lives to life eternal, and ſhewed them a way how to do it, if they would but take his way? God had rather thy life ſhould reach Heaven and Eternity there, than to drop into Hell in the end, and be drowned in eternal death. And this is one thing amongſt others that doth highly enhance the preciouſneſs of mans life, that it may be tranſlated to Eternity.

4. And Laſtly, If you yet need any evidence and demonſtration of Gods tenderneſs to mens lives and willingneſs to preſerve them, and unwillingneſs to deſtroy them, look upon your ſelves as you are alive here this day. And whence is it, that you are ſo? Can you give any other proper reaſon, than this, becauſe God is tender of your lives, and is not willing to deſtroy them? Hath he not power enough to have cut them off and deſtroyed them long ago? And have we not given him cauſe enough to have deſtroyed them over and over? Whence is it then, that we are all here this day? God hath ſpared our lives, preſerved our lives, tenderly preſerved them, or our ſouls had long ago dwelt in ſilence.

And are we not in debt to God for this care and tendering of us? Is there nothing to be paid him, not one half ſhekel, for all our preſervation? Doth not all the reaſon in the world dictate, that when we live by him, we ſhould live as he would have us: that when he ſpares and preſerves our lives, we ſhould lead and ſpend our lives according to his rule?

And this is all that he requires from us, He looks not for mony nor monies worth; not for a ſhekel nor half a ſhekel, not for an offering of a lamb or bullock for the ranſome of our lives; but all that he requires is, that we pay God obedience and ſervice; live to God as we live by him.

III. Having conſidered the Quality of this payment, viz. to be a tribute of acknowledgement of their dependence upon God for their lives, and the preſervation of them: and the Quantity of it, or the Sum it ſelf, Half a ſhekel, to imply that they lived not on free coſt, but under a rent and homage to God: we come now in the third place to diſcourſe of the Equality of the payment. The rich ſhall give no more, and the poor ſhall give no leſs; but every one exactly alike. Which may ſeem ſomething ſtrange, when there was ſuch a diverſity of perſons. That was a miracle about the meaſuring of Manna, that every one ſhould have the ſame proportion, when they came to meaſure, and yet ſuch a difference of proportion, when they gathered. And this is ſomething wonderful in the proportioning, that all ſhould pay ſo exactly alike, when there was ſuch vaſt difference twixt perſons and conditions. Some worth thouſands, ſome worth nothing, ſome on high on a Bench of State, and ſome as low embracing a dunghil: and yet all pay alike: What are we become Levellers, All hail, fellows, and no diſtinction; the rich no better than the poor, and the high become yokefellow with the baſe? This taught them and may teach us, that which ſo oft is inculcated in Scripture,

That God is no Reſpecter of perſons in regard of any ones outward condition, Rom. II. 11. There is no reſpect of perſons with God. Act. X. 34, 35. Of a truth I perceive that God is no reſpecter of perſons. But in every Nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteouneſs is accepted with him. But Peter there ſeems to deſtroy what he had built up, for he had ſaid, God is no reſpecter of Perſons, and yet immediately after he ſaith, God accepteth ſome. But the meaning of him, and of other places that ſpeak the ſame is, that God reſpects no men upon any external accounts; he reſpects not the rich man a whit the more for his being rich, nor any poor man the leſs for his being poor; he is not like them, Jam. II. 2. Who if they ſee a man with a gold ring or gay cloathing, O! then I pray Sir, come up hither and ſit here; but if a poor man in mean garb and habit, then go thou, and ſtand or ſit there at my footſtool. The Apoſtle at verſ. 4. gives them their right title, though at firſt ſight not eaſy to underſtand, Are ye not become Judges of evil thoughts? His meaning is not, that they judged or paſſed ſentence upon evil thoughts, but that they were evil thoughted Judges, as a Judge of unrighteouſneſs is an unrighteous Judge. When God hath ſo commanded, that men ſhould judge impartially without reſpect of perſons, are not you evil thoughted Judges, when you ſo prize the rich, and deſpiſe the poor, meerly becauſe of their outſide, or external condition?

God cannot do ſo: he cannot gaze with admiration upon a gallant ſuit and clothings, glittering lace and diamonds: he cannot ever the more regard a man, that hath regarded mony and gotten a great deal of it together. Nothing that the World can contribute to a perſon, can make God to reſpect him a ſtraw the more. Take but that one inſtance of

Herod

Herod Agrippa, Act. XII. When he was in all his pomp and gallantry, and as richly dreſſed as mony and hands could make him, the ſun ſhining upon his cloth of ſilver, and cloth of gold raiment, that dazled the ſpectators eyes, as Joſephus tells the ſtory; the fooliſh people, they admire him, applaud, adore him; and he ſpeaks and looks more like a God than a Man. In that very inſtant God ſhewed how little he regards any man for his outſide, be it never ſo gorgeous; for he ſtrikes him with the lowzy diſeaſe and he is eaten up with lice, and dies.

God looks upon men as they come into the world, and as they go out, Naked, and not through any deckage that the world hath put on them. And accordingly Exod. XXXIII. 5. When God would call the people to account for their making the golden calf, and look upon them in their proper condition, he bids them put off their ornaments from them. Now God looking upon men in this their naked condition, as men, he ſees this equality in all men in the world.

Firſt, That they are all alike his Creature, and therefore he may in this reſpect value them all alike. The rich did no more create himſelf then the poor, and the high no more than the low, but they are all alike his creation. Pſal. C. He made us, and not we our ſelves. And there is no man to be excepted from the word Us, but he made one as well as another. That is a Caveat to the rich and high, which God ſpeaketh to Job, in Chap. XL. 15. Behold now Behemoth, which I made with thee, he eateth graſs like an Ox. What doeſt thou compare with me any thing that eateth graſs? Yes, I made him as well as thee, and thou madeſt thy ſelf no more than he did, and you are both my creatures, as well the one as the other. Thou as well as He. So is the rich his creature as well as the poor. Prov. XXII. 2. The rich and the poor meet together, the Lord is the maker of them both. They meet together, and it may be, the rich ſpits at the poor in ſcorn and deſpiſing: yet the Lord made them both; and in that regard there is no difference betwixt them. And thereupon the ſame Solomon ſaith, Prov. XIV. 31. He that oppreſſeth the poor reproaceth his Maker. As if he caſt in the teeth of God, for that he made ſuch a pitiful creature, that were fit for nothing, but to be oppreſſed and trodden upon. The oppreſſor thinks himſelf another kind of creature, whereas they were caſt in one and the ſame mold.

Doth the rich and high and great think, that he is leſs beholding to God for his creating, than the poor and the mean? Or elſe does he think, that God laid out more pains and power and love in the creation of him than he did on the other? Did God uſe more art or skill, or more care and endeavour in making him, than in making the pooreſt Creature, that goes from door to door? Although the Holy Ghoſt hath made ſome difference in relating the hiſtory of the Creation of other things, and of man, and hath brought in the whole Trinity conſulting for the making of man, Come let Us make Man; yet in the making of ſeveral men we muſt not look for any diverſity. And whatſoever men will gather out of Pſal. XXXIII. 15. He faſhioneth their hearts alike: as ſome from thence would gather the præexiſtence of ſouls, ſome the equality of ſouls: certainly this may be, that God made no difference of his working, when he made all.

Secondly, As all the men of the world are of this parity and equality in regard of the Creators work that made them, ſo alſo in regard of the matter or mettle of which they are made. Did God chuſe any finer clay for the making of one than for another? Duſt thou art, was the character of the firſt Adam, and does any of his poſterity differ from that character? Did God look out for finer clay to make a great rich man of, than he did to make a poor? Jer. XVIII. 4. The veſſel that he made of clay was marred in the hand of the Potter: ſo he made it again another veſſel, as ſeemed good to the Potter to make it. The Potter hath a pot on the wheel, and it hits not to the faſhion he aimed at, ſo that he workes it up to veſſel of another faſhion, but the ſame clay ſtill. So however there may be ſome variety in the frame of the veſſel made, ſome diverſity in the compoſure of men, ſome fair, ſome foul, ſome black, ſome white, ſome a ſmooth Jacob, ſome a rough Eſau, yet the clay that theſe diverſified veſſels are made of, is but one and the ſame.

You remember that Eſay XLV. 9. Wo! to him that ſtriveth with his Maker, let the potſheard ſtrive with the potſheards of the earth. The meaning of the latter clauſe, The potſheards of the earth, is, Men to ſtrive with men is ſomething like, equal match; and if they will needs ſtrive, let them ſtrive one with another, but Wo! to him that ſtriveth with his Maker. You ſee the title given to all on earth, they are but earthen potſheards, but as bits of a broken pitcher. While the pitcher was whole it was but an earthen pitcher; while Adam was in innocency he was but a veſſel of clay, though a veſſel of honour: but his fall hath broke the pitcher all to pieces; and all the men of the world are but as ſheards of a broken picher. It may be one piece of the potſheard may be bigger than the others are, yet that is but a potſheard ſtill, and of the very ſame mettle with the other. It may be one piece is finely painted and coloured, which the other is not, yet it is but a potſheard for all its painting, and but of the very ſame clay, with the other bits for all its bravery.

Thirdly,

Thirdly, And as all are of the ſame duſt in their original, and no differenc; ſo is there any difference in the duſt to which they ſhall return? Shall great and rich leſs turn to duſt, than mean and poor; or ſhall they turn to nobler duſt than the other? Shall a more noble or gentile worm ſeiſe upon a great man in the grave, than does upon a mean; or a more gallant corruption devour the rich man than doth the poor? There the Kings and Counſellors of the earth lie down together, Job II. 14. And there the poor and rich have the ſame lodging, and the Servant hath the ſame bed with his Maſter. And do they not all go to the ſame, the very ſame duſt, and doth not the ſame, the very ſame corruption ſeize and conſume them? Pſal. CIII. 14. The Lord that made us knoweth our frame, he remembreth that we are duſt. Duſt in our beginning, duſt at our latter end, and one and the ſame duſt, both in our beginning and end, and no difference.

And therefore how can he in this regard but value all at one rate; and when the poor and rich come to pay tribute for the preſervation of this duſt, our bodies, that all ſhould contribute alike; the rich no more, and the poor no leſs.

But are all mens Souls alike too, that God ſhould rate them all alike too? Take the word in the text in the proper ſence, you ſhall make an attonement for your Souls; are all Souls looked upon by God alike too? It was an old queſtion in the Schools, An animæ ſint æquales? Whether all Souls are equal? And our inquiry adds one queſtion more, Whether God weigh all Souls alike? And the the queſtion lies not ſo much in this, Whether God prize not an holy Soul above a ſinful, as whether every Soul be of the ſame value as a Soul? And the reaſon of the queſtion is from the vaſt difference of the tempers of men, in which the acting and nature of the Soul appears. And it were wonder if ſome of the Jews did not cavil at this Law upon this very poynt. They took upon them to be exceeding wiſe; and abundance of them gave themſelves that title; and muſt they be valued with fools and Ideots?

I am not curious to diſcuſs this queſtion copiouſly. It might be a very proper anſwer to this queſtion, ſuch as is Joh. XXI. 21. Where Peters inquiſitivneſs receives an anſwer, What is that to thee? So when any are curious to know, whether all Souls are alike, whether an unlearned Soul is like a learned, an Heathen like a Chriſtian, an Ideot like a ſolid man, I may ſay, What is that to thee? ſearch and try and examine, and take care of thine own Soul. Yet to ſpeak ſomething to this caſe.

Firſt, Diſtinguiſh between the Activity of the Soul, and the Capacity of it: what it does and what it is able to do. It is a Maxim, A poſſe ad eſſe non valet conſequentia. From what a man can do, it will be but a weak conſequence to conclude, that therefore he will do it. The Leper to our Saviour underſtood Logick better, and concludes not, that he would make him clean becauſe he could do it; but he begs that he would do it, ſeing that he could, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canſt make me clean. It is a good conſequence to ſay, a Man does thus, therefore he can do it; but a wild one to ſay, therefore he can do no otherwiſe. So as to the judging of the true quality of the Soul, if you would take meaſure of a Soul aright, you muſt not barely look at its preſent acting, but at its capacity, and what in its full largeneſs and latitude it is able to act: not take meaſure of a reaſonable Soul, as it is in its childhood, but when it is in its full growth, and capacity.

Secondly, Now the acting of a Soul in its full capacity, cannot be while it is in the body. It cannot ſee God face to face, nor the Devil as he is a Spirit, which it may do when out of the body. It cannot converſe with things in eternity, which it cannot but do, when out of the body, either bleſſed or miſerable. It cannot here but be deceived many a time over, there it cannot poſſibly be deceived; and ſo I might ſpeak in other particulars.

So that the proper judging of the nature of the Soul and its capacity, is to take it as God did Iſrael at Sinai, (when he would know what to do with them,) ſtript of their ornaments; ſo muſt the Soul be ſtript out of the Body; looſed of all that that pinioned, hampered or any ways ſtrainted it. And what think you of the Souls of Infants, of Fools and Ideots then and there? Can we think their Souls are Infants, Fools and Ideots in the other world? For

Thirdly, Though the Soul be of a vaſt capacity while in the body, yet the acting of it even there is many and many a time hindred, and curbed that it cannot reach to its acting in its full capacity, which it could reach to even here, if there were not ſome hindrance. Take inſtead of more an inſtance or two of what may ſeem neareſt to folly and ideotiſm, and are not. A man is drunk; does his Soul then act according to the proper capacity that it were able to act in, if he were ſober? There is a man learned, and an hundred that have no learning at all. Now the reaſon why thoſe unlearned ones are not learned as well as he, is not, becauſe their Souls were not of capacity to have received learning, but becauſe they had not the means of education in learning that he had. So the acting of the Soul according to its capacity is often time hindred by the want of apt organs or inſtruments ments in the body. Do you not see before your eyes by experience a man or woman moped, their understanding clean spoyled by a sad stroke of the Palsy or Apoplexy, that the person is not the same that he was before? and yet his Soul is the very same, but the right acting of it spoyled by the spoyling of the organs or instruments by which it should act. The brain is so shattered by the stroke of a Convulsion, that it cannot be so serviceable to the Soul as it hath been. And so those Naturals and Ideots we are speaking of, their Souls are like to other Souls, spiritual substances, as well as others, immaterial and intellectual as well as others; but there is some defect of the organ or instrument in the body, something that the Intellect should use, is failing or bruised.

Now not to wade farther into this question, these two things are undeniable concerning all Souls in the world.

1. That they are all of the workmanship of God, and no Souls but come out of his hand. Ezek. XVIII. 4. Behold! all Souls are mine. XXXVIII Jer. 16. Zedekiah sware to Jeremiah, As the Lord liveth, who made us this Soul. And he spake very true; though Jeremiah was as good, and he as bad, yet God made both their Souls alike, Jeremia's as well as Zedekiahs, & contra. In that dispute about Præexistence of Souls, some hold Præexistence, and some not: yet both hold that the Soul comes immediately from the hand of God. And sure God sends no maimed Soul out of his hand.

2. That all Souls have equally need of Gods support. There is a double support of the Soul. Either that God preserve and keep it in the body for the life of the body, or preserve and keep it in grace for the good of the Soul. This distinction the words of the Apostle mean, 1 Tim. IV. 10. He is the Saviour of all men, especially of them that believe. He preserves the lives of all that live, but especially he preserves the Souls of those that believe in him.

So that, if the Question be, Doth God preserve all alike? Doth his providence set it self to keep all alike? If not, why should all be bound by this tax in the Text to pay for their preservation alike?

The Answer is easy, though it may seem strang when given; He doth, and he doth not. But I may facilitate it by this distinction.

First, He preserves all alike; that is, all that are preserved have their preservation alike from him, and alike owe their preservation to him. So that none is able to say, I owe my preservation to God less than thou doest. Thou art much beholden to him for the preservation of thy life, but I am not so much. Thou hast had more need of his preservation than I have had.

Secondly, He preserves not all alike, viz. in this sence, That he takes care of the preservation of the Souls of some in another manner than he doth of others. He preserves the persons even of ungodly men, and keeps their Souls in them; but he preserveth the Souls of the godly in well being, as well as their bodies in life. Hence those frequent expressions. He keepeth the Souls of his Saints. The Lord careth for my soul. Commit the keeping of your souls to him, 1 Pet. IV. ult. And that one instead of more, Psal CXXI. 7. The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil, yea, he shall keep thy soul. He shall preserve thee from all evil to thy body; but which is the preservation indeed, he shall take care of the welfare of thy soul.

I shall not need to insist to shew the great difference of these two kinds of preservation; even all the wicked of the world are under the former, Gods preservation of their lives; but the children of God are under both, the preservation of their bodies and souls also.

There is nothing that differenceth men in the sight of God, but good or evil actions. And the Judge of all the world, that cannot but do right, judgeth and rewardeth every one according to their works. As the Apostle hints, Rom, II. 6, 7, 8. Who will render to all men according to their works, and For there is no respect of persons with God. He respects not whether men be high or low, rich or poor, but deals with all according to their works. Hence that in Eccles. IX. beginning. Outward accoutrements distinguish men in the world, but not with God; and poverty or riches, high place or contempt are not signes of his favour or disfavour; but he looks on men according to their doings.

Well; by Gods thus equally valuing all, we are taught, that we should undervalue none. God hath set a stint, that we should not be proud nor despise any. For, I

1. What are we better then another? Yes, I have more estate than another, I go braver; such an one a poor pitiful fellow, not to be compared with me. I, but he is Gods workmanship as well as thou. Ye are twins so like, that ye cannot be known asunder. Yea God himself knows no differenc betwixt you. Hast thou an immortal soul, so hath he. Hath he a mortal body, so hast thou. Hast thou a soul that is made in the image image of God, ſo he. Hath he a body, that is but duſt and aſhes, ſo haſt thou. What is added by the world, as we ſay, of wealth, and honour, and cloths, are ſuch things as will once be clean ſtript off, and where is the difference then?

2. And who hath made the difference as to their outward condition? Anſwer the Apoſtles queſtion. What haſt thou that thou haſt not received? And if thou haſt received it, why boaſteſt thou thy ſelf, as if thou hadſt not received it? When we ſee a perſon in worſe ſtate than our ſelves, we commonly look upon our ſelves as ſome body; whereas we ſhould look up to him, that hath made the difference. And do we ſee a poor miſerable creature, and look upon him with ſcorn? And do we not rather think, Might not God have made me as poor and miſerable, as this poor wretch? He might have clothed me with rags, as well as this poor beggar. He might have made me as ſilly as this poor Ideot. Down great heart, and proud, and learn to aſcribe all the comforts and benefits thou haſt above any other poor ſoul, where it is due, and to aſcribe nothing to thy ſelf, but guilt and ſinfulneſs.

II. If we deſire to be eſteemed, what is it to be eſteemed by God? He hath ſet all at one rate, as men are in the lump; if we deſire to be of a better value, it is wiſdom to labour to be ſo in his eyes that ſo values all. To eſteem our ſelves is but a folly, to labour to have others eſteem us is but folly, unleſs it be in an eſtimation, that God will ſay Amen to it alſo. Remember that of the Apoſtle, It is not he whom man approveth, but whom God approveth. If we would be thought to be beautiful, let it ſhine in the image of God; if rarely decked, let it be with his ornaments; if to be learned, remember that, He that honoureth me, I will honour.

A SERMON

Preached upon

JUDGES XI. 39.

And it came to pass at the end of two months, that she returned to her Father, who did with her according to his vow which he had vowed.

THE Apostle in the Epistle to the Hebrews, Chap. XI. reckoning up, that noble Catalogue of men famous for faith and great actions under the Law, at vers. 32. mentions three, that may seem to be something questionable: and those are Gedeon, and Samson and Jephtha: men indeed that had done great acts, but that in the close came off with some foul blot. Gedeon, Judg. VIII. 27. made an Ephod, and put it in his own City Ophrah, and all Israel went thither a whoring after it. Samson pulled down the house upon his own head, and so became Felo de se, or guilty of his own death. And was not Jephtha guilty of the death of his own daughter?

That is the question we are now to look into. I have lately shewn you the Heathen sacrificing men and women to their Gods, and Heathenish Israelites sacrificing their children unto Moloch; let us now consider, whether Jephtha, a man of a better Name, and Religion fell not under the like miscarriage, in sacrificing of his Daughter. The Text tells us, He did to her according to his vow which he had vowed. And the resolution of the question lies in the resolution of another verse, what his Vow was? That you have at vers. 30, 31. And Jephtha vowed a vow unto the Lord, and said, if thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into mine hands. Then it shall be that whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me, when I come in peace from the children of Ammon, shall surely be the Lords, and I will offer it up for a burnt-offering. A rash Vow, as appears by his repenting and renting his garments, vers. 35. A rash Vow, that he could not come off with either breaking or performing it, but with sin. If he performed it not, he sinned in making a Vow that he might not perform. If he performed it, he sinned in performing a Vow that he might not make. So that as the King of Syria once said, Whether they came out for peace, take them alive, or whether they come for war, take them alive. So is Jephtha taken deadlily, whether he hold his Vow or break it: he is caught under a rash and sinful Vow, as a man that hath a Wolf by the ears, that whether he hold him, or let him go he is in danger. If he break his Vow, how can he answer his taking such an ingagement upon him, as not to keep? If he hold it, how can he answer making a Vow of so nice a performance?

The words of his Vow are read one way by some Interpreters, and another way by others: and there is one letter in the Hebrew Text breeds this diversity, viz. ו, that may signifie either And, or Or. And accordingly some read it, Whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace, shall surely be the Lords. And I will offer it up for a burnt offering. And others read it, Or I will offer it up. As meaning, if it be fit to be offered in sacrifice, I will offer it in sacrifice; but if it be not fit, yet it shall be the Lords. So some of your Bibles give intimation of this diversity of reading, having one in the Text, and the other in the Margin. But in the Text you see it is, And I will offer it up. And so it is in the Greek, Vulgar, Italian, French; and so rendred also from the Eastern Languages.

Now what could meet him out of the doors of his house that was fit for sacrifice? Nothing to be expected to come out thence, but Men, Women and Dogs; and any of these, yea the very Dogs might come out to meet him, and welcom home their Master, but none of these were fit to be sacrificed. Nay a Dog is not fit to be dedicated to God any any way. For though there is a ſuppoſal, Levit. XXVII. 11. and a permiſſion of dedicating and ſanctifying an unclean beaſt to the Lord, that was not fit to be ſacrificed, and that it might be redeemed for a ſum of mony to be given to the Prieſt: yet a Dog is particularly excepted in that prohibition, Deut. XXIII. 18. Thou ſhalt not bring the hire of a whore nor the price of a dog into the houſe of the Lord for any Vow. And do ye think Jephtha had his dog in his thoughts when he made his Vow? That were more ridculous to imagine. And if any were ſo ſimple as to imagine it, it might be anſwered, He could not think of his dog becauſe he knew a dog could not be ſo conſecrate to God.

Could he then think of a Bullock, Ram, Lamb, Kid or Goat? Theſe were things indeed that were fit to ſacrifice; but a double objection lies againſt thinking that he thought of any of theſe. The one is becauſe he ſpeaks of coming out of the doors of his houſe; which no one will underſtand but of his dwelling houſe. And it were ridiculous to think of Ox, or Ram, or Lamb, or Goat, coming out of his dwelling houſe. And the other is, that he ſpeaks of coming to meet him, which expreſſion means to welcom him home, as his Daughter went out to meet him to welcom him home. Now it can little be imagined that he thought of any Bullock, or Lamb, or Goat, coming out to meet him under any ſuch notion.

Therefore theſe things conſidered, it is paſt all doubting, that when he ſaith, Whatſoever cometh out to meet me, that he meaneth ſome man or woman or child of his family. And child he had none, but only this one daugter, verſ. 33. And it is very like he little thought of her, when he made his Vow, but ſome of his men or maids. And whereas our Engliſh hath rendred it favourably, becauſe of the great queſtion that is raiſed upon his Vow, Whatſoever cometh out, the Hebrew original will moſt properly bear it, He that cometh forth: and ſo the Greek, Latine, and other Tranſlations bear it.

For he was now upon an extraordinary and very great deſign, viz. To go and fight with the potent army of the Ammonites, his forces not being very great. And therefore it is very likely that he makes an extraordinary Vow to his extraordinary deſign he was upon. Now this had been but an ordinary and common buſineſs to Vow, if I return from the children of Ammon with victory, I will offer the firſt Lamb, or Ram or Bullock I meet withal at my coming to mine own houſe. Had this been any great Vow for the imploring his proſpering in the great undertaking he went about? But to dedicate a man or a woman to God ſpoke high, and ſomething like the greatneſs of the deſign.

And how he ſerved his daughter when ſhe came firſt to meet him, is the great queſtion and diſpute? Some tender of Jepthahs credit, and reckoning it not fit to lay more hard things on him than the ſtory will well bear, therefore to make the beſt of it, hold that he did dedicate to God, not ſacrifice his daughter; he devoted her to God in keeping her a Recluſe and Nun, and never to be married; though he had no other child, and ſo his family was like to fall. But on the contrary, Firſt, Nunſhip and Vow of Virginity by the Papiſts indeed is pretended to be a great piece of devoting and conſecrating the party to God. But that it is ſo, never was, nor ever will be proved, but only pretended, and with a loud noiſe cried up; as they did in the great hubbub at Epheſus, Great is Diana of the Epheſians; when none could underſtand or ſee any reaſon for ſuch a hubbub and outcry. Certainly among the Jewiſh Nation, they were ſo far from accounting the Vow of Virginity a piece of Devotion and Religion, that they accounted it a reproach for a woman to be childleſs; nay a reproach for a woman not to be married. You remember that ſaying of Elizabeth that had thitherto been barren, Luke I. 25. Thus the Lord hath dealt with me in the days when he looked upon me to take away my reproach among men. A great reproach for a woman to live and die childleſs; but God hath taken away that reproach from me in giving me a child.

And a greater reproach it was for a woman not to be married. And hence is that in Pſal. LXXVIII. 63. Their young men were ſlain by the ſword, and their maidens were not praiſed, for ſo it is in the Original, which our Engliſh hath rendred, were not given in marriage. For it was a diſpraiſe for a woman not to be married. Nay the Jews in their Traditional Law, (by which they were led too much) did not only account it a ſhame not to be married, but a ſin and a breach of Gods command. For thoſe words, Gen. I. 28. Be fruitful and multiply, they account not only a bleſſing, but a Command; and reckon it the firſt Command of the ſix hundred and thirteen commands that are in the Law. And to this opinion of theirs it is that the Apoſtle reflects, 1 Cor. VII. 25. Where treating concerning virginity and marriage, he ſaith, Now concerning Virgins, I have no command from the Lord, but I give my judgment, as one that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be faithful.

Secondly, To this may be added, that Perſons dedicated to the Lord, were not therebybo und to perpetual Virginity. For we read of ſome that were ſo dedicated, that yet yet for all that married. As Samſon a dedicate Nazarite, yet took him a wife, and that of the daughters of the Philiſtins. And Samuel dedicated by his parents; and yet afterwards married, and had children.

So that whereas the Papiſts account vowed Virginity ſo great a piece of Religion and Devotion, and thereupon their Nuns, and their Prieſts muſt not marry; they will hardly find the leaſt warrant for it either in the Old Teſtament, or the New. It is meerly an invention of their own, as indeed is moſt of their Religion, and clearly without any warrant or allowance of God. It is very unlikely therefore that vowed Virginity ſhould be ever ſo much in faſhion or requeſt in the Jewiſh Nation, as for them to account it ſo great a piece of Religion, or that Jephtha ſhould account that a noble performance of his Vow; and account it a great Vow to devote his Daughter to perpetual Virginity.

But if that were not the intent and action of his Vow, what did he to his Daughter? Did he really ſacrifice her, and offer her up for a burnt offering? That was leſs Religion, and leſs in cuſtom in the Nation, to ſacrifice a perſon. And can it be imagined, that Jephtha, that the Apoſtle reckons among the faithful, ſhould do ſuch a thing?

I anſwer, Very true. But may we not think him, though faithful, yet for the preſent that he might fall under ignorance, and a blind zeal. It is indeed ſomething hard and ſtrange to think ſo uncharitably of ſuch an one as he was. But,

The Fathers of old were almoſt unanimouſly of the mind, that he really ſacrificed his daughter. They that have purpoſely handled this queſtion will tell you, that Tertullian, Athanaſius, Nazianzen, Hierom, Ambroſe, Chryſoſtom, Auſten, Theodoret, and others were of that mind. Beſides Jewiſh Writers that might be produced. I will name but two, the Chaldee paraphraſe, and Joſephus. And divers modern Chriſtians are of the ſame mind.

But ſtill the objection will return. What ſuch a man as Jephtha murther his own Daughter, and offer her in ſacrifice? Would the Apoſtle ever have reckoned him among the noble army of Faithful ones, had he done ſuch a thing as this?

I anſwer, Firſt, That comes but a little ſhort of this that is ſaid of Solomon, 1 King. XI. 5. Solomon went after Aſhtoreth the Goddeſs of the Zidonians, and Milcom the Abomination of the Ammonites. Let the Jews plaiſter the caſe the beſt they can, and ſay, that he himſelf did not worſhip theſe Gods, but only ſuffered his wives to worſhip them; and that he did not build thoſe high places for Chemoſh and Molec, verſ. 7. but only ſuffered his wives to build them. Yet how deeply was he guilty in ſuffering ſuch a thing. But the Text tells you that he himſelf went after theſe Gods; which in Scripture language ſignifies commonly the real committing Idolatry with ſuch Gods. And do but remember what the ſervice of Molec was, and offering children to him; and obſerve that Solomon went after Milcom or Molec, and built high places to Molec: and how little ſhort that does come of Jephtha's ſacrificing his daughter? And yet I doubt not of Solomons ſalvation; for I doubt not of his repentance.

Secondly, That it was now too common in Iſrael to worſhip Molec. Now obſerve, Judg. X. 6. The children of Iſrael did evil again in the ſight of the Lord, and ſerved Baalim and Aſhtoreth, and the gods of Syria, Zidon, Moab, the children of Ammon and the Philiſtins; and forſook the Lord, and ſerved him not. An evil caſe were the people in, when they were generally ſo idolatrous, and ſo variouſly idolatrous. Now among others obſerve, that they ſerved the God of the Ammonites, which was Molec: So that it was no ſtrange thing with them to offer ſuch barbarous and bloody ſacrifices, as their own children. That you may gueſs, that the corruption of the times might ſuggeſt to Jephtha the fancy of offering ſome ſuch ſacrifice of Man or Woman to God; the rather ſince Thirdly, That he was now going to fight againſt the children of Ammon, who offered their children to their God Molec. And it ſeems he thought he ſhould ſpeed better againſt Ammon, who offered their children to Molec, if he vowed and offered ſuch another ſacrifice to God.

We obſerved before, that nothing could come out of the doors of his houſe to meet him, that could be fit to be ſacrificed by any warrant or allowance of God; not his dog, nor his ſervant: and therefore that his words cannot but be conjunctive, Whatſoever meets me ſhall be the Lords, and I will offer it up. And that the ſtrictneſs of his Vow as he conceived it, did put him on to the ſtrictneſs of his performance.

It had been the part of the Prieſt, and of the great Councel of the Kingdom to have prevented ſuch a fact as this. The Prieſts lips they ſhould have preſerved knowledge, they ſhould have taught him better: and the great Councel that ſhould have preſerved righteouſneſs, and good order ſhould have taken care againſt ſuch an action. But the Nation it ſeems was ſo overgrown with ignorance and idolatry, and particularly with the the ſerving of the Idol Molec, that ſuch a thing as this proved no regret at all to them.

The poor girle his daughter begged two months reſpit, that ſhe might go upon the Mountains and bewail her Virginity. She might have hoped that in all that time, ſome reſcue might have come to her; either the Counſel of the Prieſts, or the authority of the State interpoſing with her Father. But all was ſo out of tune and overgrown with Idolatry, as may be ſeen in that Text I cited before, Chap. X. that Jephtha, that was too much led away with the evil example of the times, is not at all reſtrained, but rather encouraged by the negligence of thoſe, that ſhould have directed and ordered better.

And to one that doth more narrowly ſearch into the Bible, I may recommend this obſervation to his examination. That in the time of the Judges, the High Prieſthood was loſt out of the line of the ſons of Eleazar into the line of the ſons of Ithamar, from one family of Aarons to another. And whether it might not be, becauſe the then High Prieſt did not better demean himſelf about this very matter, let him ſeriouſly conſider.

I am unwilling to charge Jephtha too heavily, nor lay ſuch a fact to his charge; but I have given you the opinion of the greateſt men of note that have written, laying it to his charge, and I have given you ſome reaſons, that might induce and move them to it. But I dare ſay, none of them that have ſo held, but they thought that he had repentance proportionable to this miſcarriage. And ſo no doubt had Gedeon in ſetting up his Ephod in his City, which cauſed all Iſrael to go awhoring after it. And ſo repented Solomon after his building of Altars to Molec; and ſo did Manaſſeh after his offering of his ſons to Molec. And ſuch repentance of Jephtha, I doubt not but the Apoſte had an eye to, when he reckons him among the faithful, and thoſe that died in the Faith.

I ſhall fix only upon one Obſervation, which fairly offers it ſelf unto us, take we the ſtory one way or other; that he ſacrificed his Daughter, or only devoted her to perpetual Virginity, viz.

What care, prudence and piety men had need to uſe about making of Vows.

Do you not think, that Jephtha would have born witneſs to this, when he found himſelf caught in the trap of his Vow, and his daughter fallen into it, which he little meant? Could he not wiſh he had had more care in the making of his Vow, when the keeping of it muſt prove ſo bitter? Did not raſhneſs go before his care, when he vowed and conſidered not what might be the iſſue? Did not his eagerneſs go before his prudence, when he vowed ſome body, but he knew not whom? And did not his zeal go before his piety, when he vows but violence to ſome or other, on whomſoever it lights, viz. either to ſacrifice them, or otherwiſe to devote them, though againſt their will? When he rends his garment upon his daughters meeting him, and cries out that ſhe was one that troubled him; it might have been anſwered him, as Elias did Ahab, No, I am not he that troubled Iſrael, but thou and thy fathers houſe. No, Jephtha, it is not thy daughter that troubles thee, but it is thy Vow that troubles thee, that was made with no more conſideration. If more care, prudence and piety had been there, thy preſent grief and perplexity had not been here.

I name theſe three moſt deſervedly, and upon very good reaſon. For as a Vow is a bond or cord, whereby a man binds himſelf, ſo theſe are as a threefold cord twiſted to make up ſuch a bond. Theſe are ſo eſſential to the conſtitution of a right and lawful Vow, that let any of them be abſent, there will be a ſad maim there. Let Care be abſent, the Vow will be raſh; let Prudence be abſent, it will be impertinent: and let Piety be abſent, it will be wicked and ungodly.

A Vow is a bond that binds the Soul, and ſo the Scripture calls it, Numb. XXX. 3. If a woman ſhall Vow a Vow to bind her Soul with a bond. And a man had need to be prudent and careful how he binds his Soul. It is a tender piece, take heed the bond ſit right, leſt it gall and fret it. Take heed the bond be not ſuch, as to bind hand and foot, and to caſt into utter darkneſs. What elſe think you was thoſe forty mens Vow, that bound themſelves by an oath, that they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed Paul. Had not theſe men fettered their own Souls for utter darkneſs by the bond of their Vow?

Now becauſe we have before us a remarkable caſe of a Vow, let us a little conſider of that ſubject, and what a man does or ſhould do, when he makes a Vow.

And, firſt, let us begin with this queſtion, Whether a man be bound to make Vows or no? Is a man bound to lay ſuch a bond upon his Soul? It is enjoyned, Pſal. LXXVI. 11. Vow and pay unto the Lord your God: Let all that are round about him bring preſents unto him that ought to be feared. Now doth this bind a man to make Vows, or only bind him to pay them if he have made them? And if it bind to make Vows, doth it bind under the t he Goſpel, as well as under the Law, where moſt of their Vows were vowing of ſacrifices? And ſo that latter clauſe of the words cited give intimation, Bring preſents, &c. And ſo ſome conſtrue that, Eccleſ. V. 4, 6. If thou haſt made a Vow, defer not to pay it. Suffer not thy mouth to cauſe thy fleſh to ſin, neither ſay before the Angel, it was an error. Where by Angel they underſtand the Prieſt that ſhould receive the ſacrifice. Thou Vowedeſt; ſay not before him, thou waſt miſtaken. Now for the reſolution of this Queſtion many things are to be ſpoken, and eſpecially the nature of a juſt Vow conſidered.

To the conſtitution then of a lawful Vow theſe two things are requiſite and eſſential.

I. That it be for a Religious end.

II. That it have a Religious warrant. And both theſe muſt be concurrent, elſe a Vow cannot be lawful.

A Vow is a matter of Religion, by which a man ties himſelf in a bond to God; and Religiouſneſs muſt be that, that muſt give it life and warrant. The Scripture calls a Vow a bond laid by the perſon that Vows upon the Soul, in the place above cited. And therefore the thing refers unto the Soul, and ſo is ſomething betwixt the Soul and God. To bind the Soul in reference to any thing of the World, is both contrary to the intereſt of the Soul, and not agreeable to the proper nature of a Vow. I will inſtance in one as likely, colourable, and common as may be, viz. A Vow never to be ſurety, nor bound for any man. This may be a good reſolution poſſibly, but hardly poſſibly a good Vow. For a Reſolution and a Vow may admit of a clear diſtinction. And a man may reſolve wiſely, juſtly and warrantably ſuch and ſuch things concerning his eſtate and affairs in the World: Whereas ſuch Reſolutions may not be fit to be turned into Vows. Thou mayeſt do wiſely in reſolving never to be bound for any man; or to reſolve, I will ſpend but thus much weekly, monthly, or yearly in houſkeeping. But thou mayeſt not do wiſely, or warrantably to bind thy ſelf to theſe things by a Vow: to bind thy Soul under a bond, and conſequently under a curſe, if thou break thy bond, for ſuch worldly things as theſe: To call in God to witneſs, and to engage to him about ſuch earthly concerns as theſe.

The Phraſe of the Apoſtle is obſervable, 1 Cor. VII. 36. where he is ſpeaking of Virginity, which the Papiſts would bring under a Vow. If any man thinketh he behaveth himſelf unſeemly towards his Virgin, if ſhe paſs the flower of her age, and need ſo require, let him do what he will. Nevertheleſs he that ſtandeth ſtedfaſt in his heart, having no neceſſity, but hath power over his own will, and hath ſo decreed in his heart, that he will keep his Virgin, he doth well. You find not here either Vow of Virginity or oath not to marry, but only a ſteady reſolution. Standing ſteadfaſt in his heart; and decreeing in his heart: not laying any bond of Vow or oath upon his Soul.

You find not in Scripture of any Vow of any good man, but it was aimed at a Religious end, and in tendency to the ſervice of God, and not to any worldly intereſt or reſpect; I mean when conſiderately made. Such an one was Jacobs, Gen. XXVIII. 20. Such another Vow was that of David, Pſal. CXXXII. 2. And without all controverſie Pauls Vow, Act. XVIII. 18. had a higher aim and end than any earthly or worldly concernment. Nay even men of no Religion, yet accounted that a Vow aimed at a religious end. Even Abſalom, when he made his Vow in Geſhur, pretends to ſuch an end, 2 Sam. XV. 8. And the mariners in the Ship with Jonah ſacrificed Sacrifices, and vowed Vows, Jonah I. 16. Aud their Sacrifices and Vows without queſtion looked both the ſame way, and aimed at the ſame end, religious worſhip. And that Vow that the Iſraelites made, Numb. XXI. 2. Iſrael vowed a Vow unto the Lord, and ſaid, if thou wilt deliver and give this people into mine hand, then I will utterly deſtroy their Cities. Though it may ſeem ſomewhat hard and unreaſonable, yet they aimed at a religious end in it, viz. obedience to Gods command, that had enjoyned them to deſtroy the Canaanites, and not to ſpare them.

Theſe Vows mentioned you ſee were Conditional; and the perſons ingaged in them deſired in them as it were to bind God to do ſomething for them, and they engaged to do ſomething for God. But there were and are vows abſolute, and without any ſuch condition, whereby men out of conſcience of their duty bound, or bind themſelves to as ſtrict obedience and ſervice of God, as they can; ſuch is that of David, Pſal. CXIX. 106. I have ſworn, and will perform it, to keep thy righteous judgments. And ſuch was the general end of the vow of the Nazarites, to ſet themſelves peculiarly to ſome ſervice of God, Numb. VI. 2. When either man or woman ſhall ſeparate themſelves to vow a vow of a Nazarite to ſeparate themſelves unto the Lord. Nazaritiſm was properly a Vow of humiliation, that a man would chaſtiſe himſelf and deny himſelf his ordinary delight of liberty, and neatneſs.

I ſay of liberty, for he bound himſelf to a ſtrict avoiding of every thing, that might defile him. And this required not a little care and circumſpection, and denied him that liberty of walking at freedom, that he might have had. It is ſaid of Elizabeth the Mother

Mother of the Baptiſt, that when ſhe conceived with child, ſhe hid her ſelf five months. And why? Becauſe ſhe carried a Nazarite in her womb: leſt ſhe ſhould be any prejudice to the Nazarite ſhe bore, by lighting upon any thing unclean to defile her. She thus recluſed her ſelf from all company that ſhe might be ſure to be far from all defilement. And the Nazarite denied himſelf the liberty of eating or meddling with any thing that came of the Vine, Wine, Grapes, Raiſins, or any thing the Vine bred.

And, I ſay, he denied himſelf of the common neatneſs and comlineſs, that both he might have had, and every body elſe had. And that was in that he let his hair grow, and did not cut it as others did. For however long hair among us be accounted a bravery, and men be grown effeminate like women; yet among the Jewiſh Nation it was accounted clean contrary, a ſluttery, naſtineſs, and deformity. And they are mightily miſtaken, that think that Abſalom wore his hair ſo long, becauſe he was proud of it: he wore it ſo long becauſe he had vowed Nazaritiſm, and by way of humiliation, and denied himſelf that neatneſs that he uſed before. For that which the Apoſtle ſaith, 1 Cor. XI. 14. Doth not nature it ſelf teach, that if a man have long hair it is a ſhame to him: the Jewiſh Nation conſented to with all their hearts. And therefore they looked upon Nazarites with their long hair, as men under humiliation, and that wore it ſo, to take ſhame unto themſelves before God and Men. And ſo they took up their Vow, as whereby to tie themſelves to a more ſtrict way of religiouſneſs and humiliation.

Men generally think there is ſome weight, and aw and terror in a Vow, and even the profaneſt of men ſtand in fear of breaking even of fooliſh and raſh Vows, Prov. VII. 14. The Whore there ſpeaks, This day have I paid my Vows. I have known where a wicked fellow having made a Vow, that he would never go in at his neighbours door, durſt not for his Vow ſake go in at the door; but could be content to creep in at the window. And another that having made a Vow he would not go into ſuch an Alehouſe of ſo long a time, durſt not for his Vow ſake go into it, but could be content to be carried in. Now however theſe wretches dallied with God, and trifled with their Vows, and their own Souls: yet they ſhewed, that there is ſome aw of a Vow even upon an ungodly heart, and that that ſtands over them, as with a whip and ſcourge. A good heart diſcerns the aw of it much more: and many a good man hath made Vows of careful walking; that he might have his Vow his Monitor, and keep him in aw to it: hath ſtuck as it were this rod always by him, to mind him to have a care, and to whip him if he failed.

Now is every man bound to make ſuch Vows as theſe; with David to make a Vow to take heed to his ways, and to take an oath, and ſwear that he will keep Gods commandments? The bond lies upon us from God to walk holily and carefully, have we need, or are we bound to add to the bond, and to lay a Vow upon our ſelves ſo to do?

For anſwer to this, I ſhall recommend to you two paſſages of Solomon, and one of David.

I. Firſt, That in Prov. XX. 25. It is a ſnare to a man to devour that which is holy, and after Vows to make enquiry. For a man to Vow, and to devour what he had vowed, and not pay it; and then to make enquiry concerning his Vow; whether he vowed well or ill or no? This is a ſnare. This ſhould have been done before he made his Vow, and not after. It is beſt for a man to conſider before he Vows, whether he do well in making his Vow, and whether he ſhall be able to perform it, when he hath made it? The great cauſe of breaking Vows, or repenting of what a man hath vowed, is want of conſideration before hand, what he goes about.

A Vow, even a holy Vow is a thing of deliberation, and not to be undertaken raſhly, but as in our Saviours parable, He that builds a Tower had need to ſit down and caſt, whether he be able to finiſh it when he hath begun it? To conſider whether he be able to perform his Vow, when he hath made it? For as a Vow is to be of a thing lawful and weighty; ſo it is to be of a thing poſſible. He that vows that which is not reaſonably in his power to perform, caſts not himſelf only into a bond, but into a ſnare. Such is the Nuns Vow of Virginity, and the Prieſts Vow among the Papiſts never to marry. It is not more a Vow, than a Snare, becauſe they cannot ſay or think it is abſolutely in their power to perform it. And the contrary hath been proved, and is daily among them by doleful experience.

A good heart, out of a good intention, may be willing to bind himſelf under a Vow to walk as carefully before God as poſſible: but let him well conſider before hand, how he can keep his Vow. For conſider that conſiderable place of the ſame Solomon.

Secondly,

Secondly, Eccleſ. V. 5. It is better that thou ſhouldſt not Vow, than that thou ſhouldſt Vow, and not pay. Whether Solomon ſpake there only of vowing a Sacrifice, or generally of any holy Vow, his ſaying will hold true, that it is better not to Vow, than to Vow and not perform. II.

Such holy Vows as we ſpeak of, a mans vowing all care poſſible in his holy walking, proceed either from conſcientiouſneſs of his Duty, or conſciouſneſs of his frailty. A man out of conſcientiouſneſs and a holy zeal to his Duty, binds himſelf by a Vow to his utmoſt performance of it; that his Vow may be a continual ſpur, and Monitor to him to keep up to it. Another out of conſciouſneſs of his readineſs to fail, or to be ſleepy in his Duty, or to be ready to faulter from it, binds himſelf by a Vow, to be as a Bell to keep him awake to it, and to be a check to his faultering. Theſe men have done well in making their Vows, if they keep them: but if they keep them not, it had been far better not to have vowed, than not to pay. God undoubtedly requires, that they ſhould perform when they have vowed: but we cannot ſay, that he ſo ſtrictly requires, that they ſhould Vow. Which makes me remember that of Peter to Ananias, Act. V. 4. While it remained was it not thine own, and when it was ſold was it not in thine own power? And thou mighteſt have choſen, whether thou wouldſt have vowed and conſecrated it to God or no: but ſince thou haſt taken on thee to devote it to him, the Lord requires that thou ſhouldſt perform, and not faultor with him. As a man may chuſe whether he will enter into bonds or no, but when he is entred into them, he muſt look to pay them.

Thirdly, A hint about this matter let us take from Pſal. LVI. 12. Thy Vows, O Lord, are upon me. He ſpeaks oft of his own Vows being upon him, here of the Lords. Either thy Vows, that is, made to thee. So ſacrifice was the Lords ſacrifice: Or thy Vows, that is, that thou haſt laid upon me; the bonds wherein thou haſt bound me. III.

A Vow in Baptiſm is laid on us by God; ſo on Iſrael by circumciſion: and God even as ſoon as we come into the World, ſeizes upon us, and would tie us to him: Swaddles us in the bond of the Covenant, as ſoon as we come into the ſwaddles, that he might bring us up for his. And as it is ſaid of Jonathan, That he made David ſwear, and enter into oath with him, becauſe he loved him as his own Soul: ſo God makes us to ſwear, and to enter into Vow to him, becauſe he is very tender and loving to our Souls.

It is the great diſpute, Whether an Infant in Baptiſm be capable to have a Vow and bond laid upon him? And thereupon ſome deny Infant baptiſm; becauſe he is not able to ſtipulate, or take any bond upon him; for he knows not what a bond or a Vow means. Man is born as a wild Aſſes colt, ſaith Job: and a wild Aſſe colt little underſtands any religious concernment, and an Infant, when he is baptized as little.

Very true, and yet Anabaptiſts cannot ſay, A wild Aſſe colt is as fit to have a bond laid upon him, as an Infant. An Infant hath a Soul, and ows duty to God, a wild Aſſe colt wants both: which moves God to deal after another manner with an Infant, than with an Aſſe colt. An Infant hath ſin and guilt upon it, and ſo hath not an Aſſe colt; and upon this account alſo God deals in another manner with an Infant than an Aſſe colt. An Infant is born a child of wrath, as the Apoſtle ſaith, all are, Epheſ. II. 2. God ſurprizes it as ſoon as born, and makes it enter into bonds with him, that it may come out of the ſtate of wrath. But further in anſwer to this objection conſider theſe three things.

I. The child indeed then underſtands not what it does, and cannot ſtipulate again in words to God, as God by his Word doth to it; but the very equity of the things, that God lays upon it, doth tie the child in the bond, and wrap him in the obligation, as juſtly and forceably, as if the child had ſaid Amen to every particular. For it is the equity of Gods commands that lays the obligation of obedience upon men, and not their own conſent. For as the Prophet ſpeaks, whether they hear, or whether they forbear, yet the obligation lies upon them. Becauſe it is ſo meet, fit and juſt, that they ſhould do what God commands them. By this equity God lays his obligations upon us in our baptiſmal bond. And though as Infants, we cannot underſtand, nor conſent to it, yet by the juſtneſs of the things enjoyned we are inwrapped in it. And Gods Vows are upon us, and the more becauſe he lays them on for our good, viz. to deliver us from the wrath under which we are born. The bond is, to forſake the Devil and his works, to believe in God and to ſerve him. And can there be any thing more juſt and equal? And though we are not then able to give conſent to the bond and obligation, and though none others ſhould undertake for us, yet doth not the very equity of the thing required oblige us?

II. God

II. God by the continual preaching of his Word minds us of the obligation. We know not what we did, nor what it was laid upon us: but he all along now teaches us to know it, and daily is refreshing to us the sight and sense of our bond, and as it were anew tying it on. It is considerable, that the Commands are called the Covenant, and the two Tables of the Ten Commandments, the Tables of the Covenant. And whose Covenant? Both Gods and Mans. Gods, because God hath indented with man upon such conditions. And Mans especially, because the condition of the obligation is his. And God is continually warning him that it is his obligation. There is a voice behind him, continually telling him this is his duty.

III. As God in Baptism lays his obligation upon us, when we knew not of it, and in preaching of the Word is continually urging of us to know it; so in the Sacrament of the Lords Supper he would have us willingly and knowingly to take it upon us. They know not what the Lords Supper means, that own not an obligation in it. As in that Sacrament there is taught living by Christ, so there is challenged a living to him. The Sacrament reads, that Christ died for men; and that very thing reads, that men are not to live to themselves. There is a benefit, pertaking of Christ to live by him; but there is an obligation also, a bond, to live to him. For as the Covenant is obligatory, so this seal or administration of the Covenant is so too. Now he that in receiving the Sacrament owns not such an obligation, and takes not that bond upon him, understands not what he does. And if his heart do not engage to live to Christ, as much as he desires to live by Christ, he seeks to serve his own turn, and not Christs.

A

SERMON

Preached upon

1 KINGS XIII. 24.

And when he was gone a Lion met him by the way and ſlew him: and his carcaſs was caſt in the way. And the Aſſe ſtood by it, the Lion alſo ſtood by the carcaſs.

IN this Chapter there is mention of one or two miracles, and there is intimation of two wonders. The miracles are the Altar at Bethel renting and Jeroboams hand withered, and at the Prophets prayer reſtored again. The wonders are, that ſo brave a Prophet ſhould be deceived as he was, ſhould be deſtroyed, as he was: and its wondrous, that the Lion that deſtroyed him ſhould not alſo deſtroy his Aſſe. I know you know the ſtory. He was ſent to cry out againſt the Idolatrous Altar at Bethel and ſo he did. He is commanded not to eat or drink in that place, and he did not, though the King kindly invited him home. But by the deceiving of another Prophet he is brought back again, when he was got out of Town; he eats and drinks in the Town contrary to what he was commanded; and when he goes out again a Lion meets him by the way and kills him.

There is no difficulty at all in the wordsof the ſtory, it is very eaſie to be underſtood: but there is myſteriouſneſs in the providential diſpoſal of God, that appears in the ſtory.

I. The good Prophet to be ſo deſtroyed. How would this incourage Jeroboam and the Idolaters at Bethel in their Idolatry? Oh! this man was but a falſe Prophet, all he ſaid againſt our golden Calf and Altar was but a ſcarbabe, for otherwiſe he would never have come to ſuch an end. And how might they boaſt, that their new God at Bethel had met with him for his ſaucineſs againſt him.

II. And how might this diſcourage other Prophets to go on the meſſage of the Lord, when this poor man ſped no better, than to be killed with a Lion.

III. That one Prophet ſhould ſo deceive another as the old Prophet at Bethel deceived this poor man to his undoing, by telling a lye and making him tranſgreſs the command of God. How might this diſadvantage the function and credit of the Prophets, for who will believe them, when they lie one to another, and deceive one another?

IV. A poor man to be cheated and deceived into a tranſgreſſion, having that fair excuſe, The old Prophet did deceive me, and I did it: And yet to be ſo dreadfully puniſhed for it, as that it muſt coſt him his life; and in ſuch a manner too as to be killed by a Lion.

V. That this poor man ſhould ſuffer ſo ſeverely for violating but one command of God, Eat not; and Jeroboam ſhould eſcape ſo ſecure that had violated the greateſt command in the two Tables, Thou ſhalt have none other Gods but me: and Thou ſhalt not make unto thy ſelf any graven Image.

This poor man is induced to ſin by another, and that by ignorance, and he ſpeeds ſo ſore; and Jeroboam induceth all Iſrael to ſin, and that wilfully, and yet he is Jovial and feels and fears no dangers.

VI. It is ſomething obſcure what this old Prophet of Bethel was, a true Prophet or a falſe, a good or a bad. If a true Prophet, why did he lie to him? If a falſe, how could he foretel him of his end? He was a true Prophet, and this poor good man knew that he was a true Prophet: and the lie that he told was not with intention of any hurt to him, but an officious lie to perſwade him to go home with him. He deſired to have the company of this good man, and to give him ſome entertainment at his houſe. He ſees no arguments will perſwade him: therefore he minteth that lie, that an Angel had ſpoken to him, and commanded him to bring him back, and ſo is the poor man deceived and undone.

no

In this ſtory of his fatal end, we may firſt conſider a little upon the inſtrument of his death, a Lion; and then concerning his death and fate it ſelf.

I. I. A Lion met him and ſlew him. How much praiſe have you in Scripture of the Land of Canaan; that it was the pleaſant Land, the glory of all Lands, Ezek. XX. 15. The Land flowing with milk and honey, in multiudes of places. A Land upon which the eye of the Lord was from one end of the year to the other. A Land of Vineyards, and Olive-yards, &c. And yet how ſadly, and dangerouſly was that Land infeſted with ravenous, cruel, wild beaſts? Where almoſt might a man be ſafe? Samſon walking by the vineyard of Timnah, a Lion ſets upon him, and had ſerved him as this Lion ſerved this poor man, if he had not met with his match, and Samſon had been too hard for him. And a Lion and a Bear ravin upon Davids flock and had rob'd him of a Lamb and Kid, had not he alſo been too ſtrong for them. But every one was not ſo. As Jacob doubted concerning Joſeph, Certainly an evil beaſt hath devoured him, undoubtedly my ſon Joſeph is ſo dead. What a ſad havock was it, when about this very place, Bethel, where the Lion deſtroys this Peophet, two ſhe-Bears at one clap tear in pieces two and forty Children.

And that paſſage is very remarkable, in the ſtory concerning the battel betwixt Davids men and Abſaloms, in the wood of Ephraim, 2 Sam. XVIII. 8. The battel was ſcattered over the face of all the Country, and the wood devoured more people that day than the ſword devoured. The wood devoured? How? Why the Lions and Bears, and ravenous beaſts that were in the wood, they pickt the men up as they were ſcattered up and down and made a greater ſlaughter than the ſword.

It is ſomething obſcure that which is ſaid, Deut. VII. 22. The Lord thy God will put out theſe Nations before thee by little and little: thou mayſt not conſume them at once leſt the beaſts of the field increaſe upon thee. And among other things that might be inquired upon it, this might be one, why God did not drive out the wild beaſts out of the Land, as well as he drove the Canaanites out? And the anſwer might be various.

I. That he might ſhew that there is no abſolute quiet, and happineſs, and ſecurity to be expected here. Canaan the choice Country upon Earth, the only paradiſe on this ſide Heaven, and yet even Canaan is not without its inconvenience and moleſtation. There were Gardens, and Orchards, and Vine-yards, and Olive-yards, but it may be a Lion or Bear lurking in them; there was all pleaſure and plenty, but there were wild and ravenous beaſts ranging abroad, that one could never ſay, I will walk without danger.

So would God teach them, that it was not their earthly Canaan that they were to look after, but they muſt look higher, if they would look for reſt and quiet and ſecure habitation. A man ſat under his Vine or under his Fig-tree, it may be on a ſuddain a wild beaſt ruſheth upon him, and he ſcapes narrowly, if he ſcape, devouring. A man is binding ſheaves in the field, or a woman gleaning, and ſuddainly a Lion or Bear is at their back; that there is but a ſpan betwixt them and death, if there proved ſo much. This was a very evincing leſſon that abſolute quiet and ſafety was not to be had there for all the bravery of the Land; but that they muſt look for another Land of promiſe, if they would be perfectly ſafe, quiet and free from danger.

II. Theſe wild and ravenous beaſts in the Land, were as it were a rod or ſcourge ready in the hand of God, to whip tranſgreſſors withal, as he ſaw cauſe, as he did this poor tranſgreſſor in the Text. And he reckons them among the Plagues and puniſhments that he uſed to avenge himſelf by upon the rebellious, Ezek. XIV. 15. If I cauſe noiſom beaſts to paſs through the Land and they ſpoil it ſo that it be deſolate, that no man may paſs through becauſe of the noiſom beaſts. And verſ. 21. How much more when I ſend my four ſore judgments upon Jeruſalem, the ſword, and the famine, and the noiſom beaſt, and the peſtilence. You have ſome emblem of a man perſecuted with noiſom beaſts, Amos V. 19. A man flees from a Lion and a Bear meets him, and he gets home and leans his head upon the wall and a Serpent bites him. And you have a real example of it, 2 King. XVII. 25. They feared not the Lord, therefore the Lord ſent Lions among them, which ſlew ſome of them. And God doth give this as a promiſe of a ſingular bleſſing; Levit. XXVI. 6. I will give peace in the land, and ye ſhall lie down, and none ſhall make you afraid: and I will rid evil beaſts out of the land.

And how can we chooſe but remember the mercy of God to this our Land in this particular: That no ſuch ravenous, dangerous beaſts do range in our Nation; if men themſelves would not be Wolves and Bears and Lions one to another. A man may take his journey and never fear being ſet upon by any wild beaſt. No father ſending out his ſon needs to fear any evil beaſt devouring him; and no mother hath cauſe to weep with the women of Bethel for their children torn in pieces by he or ſhe-Bears. God hath ſo bleſſed our Land, that ſuch dangers are leaſt feared of us. We ſee no Lions or bears, unleſs unleſs it be under grates and bars. It is to be bemoaned with tears that we are ſuch Lions, and Bears, and brute beaſts one to another.

II. And thus much of the inſtrumental cauſe of this poor Prophets death, A Lion. The efficient cauſe was his tranſgreſſing a command of God.

Upon which if any heart be moved any whit to murmur, or diſpute againſt the ſeverity of God in this caſe, let me calm it much after the manner that Joabs meſſenger muſt calm David. If the Kings anger ariſe, and he ſeem vexed and diſpleaſed, ſaith Joab to the meſſenger, then ſay thou to him, Thy ſervant Uriah is dead alſo. If thy heart, ſinner, ariſe againſt Gods dealing here, and thou think it very ſevere that this poor man muſt die thus, let me ſay this to calm thee, But thou art not dead, who art as great a tranſgreſſor as he. Why he died a reaſon may be given, but canſt thou, or all the World, give a reaſon why thou art a live.

This then let it be the firſt application of this ſtory: Every one to conſider with themſelves, That they after all their ſinning are yet alive, when this poor man but for one ſin came to ſo fatal a death. Let me uſe our Saviours ſtile and queſtion a little, Think you that theſe Galileans were ſinners above all others; or that thoſe eighteen on whom the Tower of Siloam fell were ſinners above all others? Thinkeſt thou this man was a greater ſinner than thou art, that he came ſo to his end and to ſo fatal an end? Nay, ſpeak heart from the very bottom and in ſincerity, Thinkeſt thou not, that this man was an hundred fold, a thouſand fold leſs ſinner than thou art? And yet he was thus taken away and thou yet alive: He a good man, a holy man, a holy Prophet, and yet he ſo fearfully cut off for violating but one command, and deceived into that miſcariage too. And how many commands haſt thou broke knowingly, wittingly, wilfully; and how far, how many degrees art thou ſhort of the holineſs of this man, and yet alive? Haſt thou any heart to complain of Gods ſeverity againſt this poor man, look home and ſee what cauſe thou haſt to ſtand amazed at his patience toward thee. He for breaking one command: How many ones haſt thou broken? Nay if God had reckoned to cut thee off at the hundredth the thouſandth breach of his commands, had not the account been up an hundred, a thouſand times over? And yet thou art here.

David queſtions, Lord what is man? Take the Philoſophers anſwer, Homo mirum. Man is a wonder. And ſo he is, a wonder in his creation: and ſo David himſelf owns, Pſal. CXXXIX. I am fearfully and wonderfully made. A wonder in his preſervation, when there are ſo many concurrents, that might daſh him all to pieces, and yet he lives.

I will draw nigh, ſaith Moſes, and ſee this great ſight, that is before me; The buſh burning and yet is not conſumed. And a great ſight indeed, that fire that devours all things that it lays hold on, ſhould burn ſo vehemently in the buſh, and yet the buſh nothing at all impaired. Draw nigh and turn thine eyes to ſuch a kind of ſight in thine own preſervation. So many things concurring that might cauſe thy conſuming, duſt and aſhes, frailty, mortality, ſinfulneſs, provoking of God and yet not conſumed. What account can we give of our preſervation?

Firſt, Let us look upon this man, and then let us look upon our ſelves: As the man that fell among thieves travailing from Jeruſalem to Jericho, lay by the way ſide half dead: So this poor man is fallen into the paws of the Lion, and lieth by the way ſide wholly dead. And is this nothing to us, that we ſhould like the Prieſt and Levite thus ſlightly paſs by him? The man was a good and holy man, and I make no queſtion but he was ſaved, though he came to ſuch a fatal end.

Saved? Will you ſay, when he came to ſuch an end, for tranſgreſſing Gods command? He died in his ſin certainly, and can we think that he was ſaved?

1. Conſider what follows immediately in his ſtory, 28. ver. The Lion had not eaten the carcaſs nor torn the Aſſe. God that ſo ſeverely puniſhed him to the death, yet ſhewed a miracle for him when he was dead. Which ſheweth that God had not caſt away all care of him, though he had ſo ſorely puniſhed him: And it was a very fair ſign that God had not ſuffered the great roaring Lion to devour his ſoul, in that he ſuffered not this Lion to devour his carcaſs. Its Davids ſaying, Doeſt thou ſhew wonders for the dead? Yes, in one ſenſe he did here: And can we think that God would ſhew ſuch a miracle for a caſtaway, and for one whoſe ſoul was now in Hell, would he ſhew ſuch a wonder for his body?

2. Its true indeed that he died for tranſgreſſing of Gods command, but had he not repented of that tranſgreſſion? Its obſervable what is ſaid of the Prophet, that had brought him back again, verſ. 21. That he cried to the man of God that he had brought back: When God had revealed to him, what wrong he had done in lying to the poor Prophet, and making him tranſgreſs Gods command, and what a ſad fate ſhould befal him for his tranſgreſſion, he cried out with ſadneſs and affection, and told him how it ſhould be with him. And can we think that the good man having his ſin ſo laid before him, and his his dreadful punishment, was not deeply touched with the sense of his sin, and with all earnestness sought to God for pardon?

We may not judge of him by our selves; we little take to heart what we have missdone, and what is denounced by God against our sinning. A holy Prophet was of better temper and of a tenderer heart, and deeply sorrowed for his transgression, when he was convinced of it, and sought for pardon and obtained it. So that though he died for his sin, yet he died not in it. The case of David may give some illustration to this case. When Nathan told him home of his sin about Uriah and his wife, he instantly repents, is pardoned, that he falls not under condemnation for it: but he is not quit from temporal judgment and punishment for it. The sword shall never depart from thine house. And, the child shall die. So this man is told of his fault by the other Prophet; he repents, is pardoned, that he falls not under condemnation; but he is not acquitted from a temporal punishment, and that a severe one, that cost him his life.

We may here take notice of divers things.

First, Of the wild opinions of Antinomians, that say a Believer is not punished for his sins, whatsoever befals him. But the reason they give spoils what it would prove. For Christ, say they, hath born his punishment: which if it be true, yet it is punishment as to satisfaction, not to castigation. For who among us ever said, that a Believer was punished for the satisfaction of his sin. God punisheth him upon other accounts. Davids sin was pardoned, and satisfied for by Christ, when Nathan tells him, the Lord hath done away thy sin; but the punishment followed, viz. the Sword, which was not to depart from his house. And the reason of his punishment was, because he had given occasion to the enemy to blaspheme; therefore God, to vindicate his own honour, and the honour of Religion, punished him, that men might see that God was righteous, and hated iniquity, wheresoever he saw it.

Secondly, Let us remember here that strange passage, Amos III. 2. You have I known of all the families of the Earth, therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities. You have I known, owned, chosen, of all the families of the Earth. What then? One would think he should infer, Therefore I will not punish you; but he says the contrary, Therefor I will. The children of God are punished many and many a time as to temporal punishments, when wicked and ungodly men scape. This poor holy man falls under so sad a fate, while Jeroboam the wickedest wretch upon Earth, that made all Israel to sin, eats and drinks and sleeps, and no hurt comes to him. Some will think that speaks strangely, others will think it speaks as they would have it, in Hos. IV. 14. I will not punish your daughters, when they commit whoredom, nor your spouses, when they commit adultery. This is as they would have it; for then they may whore, and drab, and adulterate, and fear no colours. But that is a sad Diapason, Jer. V. ult. What will you do in the end thereof? And that 2 Pet. II. 9. God knoweth how to reserve the unjust to the day of judgment to be punished.

That of the Apostle may state the case on both hands, 1 Cor. XI. 32. When we are judged, we are chastned of the Lord, that we may not be condemned with the World. When wicked men are not judged, it is a sore sign that they are to be condemned with the World. When God neither judgeth them, nor they judge themselves, there will be a judgment to come will pay for all. For a man to go on uncontrouled in his sinning is the very preface of destruction; and especially if his own conscience do not now and then controul him: for that is sometime the whip, wherewith God doth chasten. God saith of some persons, I will not punish, I will not chasten him, when he sins against me, but Let Ephraim alone he is joyned to Idols, so let him be. Let the Scribes and Pharisees alone; they are blind leaders of the blind, and let them be so still. Wouldst thou change thy afflicted state with one of these? Wouldst thou part with thy smarting conscience for such seared, stupid, past feeling souls, and such as God will have nothing to do withal? God hath thee in hand and is chastening thee for thy good, these he hath utterly cast off all care of, and will have nothing to do with.

But what kind of chastening was this to this poor man that it cost him his life, and cut him off, whereas God useth to do good to his people by his chastisements? Heb. XII. 11. No chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; nevertheless afterwards it yieldeth the peaceable fruits of righteousness to them that be exercised thereby. But what fruit was there with this man, when the very chastening was his death? A Jew will tell you that his death did expiate for his sin, and was a means to attone for it; and a Papist will almost be of the same opinion. But Gods intention in the dispencing of this providence looked another way, viz. to vindicate his own honour, and to shew to the World how tender he is of his own commands. And that is the third thing we may read in this great and dreadful severity, viz.

Thirdly,

Thirdly, That God will not abide to have his Commands dallied and trifled withal: that we are not to account that common which he hath ſanctified. He is a jealous God, that will not hold him guiltleſs that breaks his Commandments, Hoſ. VIII. 12. I have written unto them the great things of my Law. The things of his Law and commands are great things, and what one of them is little, or ſo to be dealt withal? Though they are one leſs than another, if compared among themſelves, yet none of them are to be reputed little by us. One is leſs than another in regard of their matter, yet all alike of reverence and dread to us in regard of their Author. A ſmall buſineſs you would think for this man, being hungry and weary, to eat and refreſh himſelf in Bethel, and that being invited by another Prophet, and told too by him, that an Angel had commanded him to invite him. But becauſe he had a command from God to the contrary, you ſee how dear it coſt him.

A ſmall thing you would think for Saul to ſave Agag alive, and to bring away ſome of the Amalekites cattel, eſpecially when it was to ſacrifice to God; yet how ſeverely doth he ſmart for it, becauſe in it he tranſgreſſed Gods command to the contrary. How might the poor man have pleaded, as he went to be ſtoned for gathering ſticks on the Sabbath day; Alas! this was not ſo great a crime to gather a few ſticks, eſpecially when I wanted them for the neceſſity and benefit of my family. But, friend, there is an expreſs command and Word of God againſt it; the Word of the Lord is ſharper than a two edged ſword.

That title of the Law is regardable and dreadful, in Deut. XXXIII. 2. From his right hand went a firy Law for them. Or, as it is in the Original, the fire of a Law for them. A Law not only given in fire, as it was in Mount Sinai, but a Law that it ſelf is Fire, to conſume and deſtroy thoſe that tranſgreſs it. As our God is a conſuming fire, ſo his Law and Commandment is a conſuming fire; Hoſ. VI. 5. I have hewen them by the Prophets: I have ſlain them by the words of my mouth. His word is a weapon of ſlaughter to them that diſobey and rebel againſt it. And whereas it is ſaid, Man ſhall live by the Word of God, if he obey it; he ſhall die by the Word of God, if he tranſgreſs it. The Commandments of God are edged tools, if ſlightly meddled withal they cut to the quick; and prove as that ſtone, if they fall upon one they will grind him to powder. Not one command, but the tranſgreſſion binds over to eternal condemnation: and therefore it ſpeaks leſs to ſay, it binds over to temporal puniſhment.

Fourthly and laſtly, This mans repentance ſo little a time before his death, as we ſpake of before, and obtaining pardon, ſome may chance take hold of, and uſe it as an argument for puting off repentance till his death bed, and latter end. For may his carnal heart thus argue: if this Prophet repented of his tranſgreſſion but an hour or two before his death, and obtained pardon; I hope I may do ſo too, and obtain pardon as well as he. Yes, it is like thou mayeſt, if thou be like him. He was a holy, a good, a righteous man all his time, only he was now fallen into one tranſgreſſion a little before his death, and repents of it, and is pardoned. But thou, who thinkeſt of putting off repentance till thy laſt time, I doubt, art in another caſe. He had no ſin unrepented of, but only this, that he had juſt now committed, and that he repented of, and is pardoned. Thou wilt have all thy ſins to repent of at thy latter end; and that changeth the caſe not a little. He walked in the ways of repentance and holineſs all his life, thou thinkeſt not to do ſo till thy death.

A SERMON

Preached upon

ACTS VII. 53.

Who have received the Law by the diſpoſition of Angels, and have not kept it.

I Concluded laſt day with mention, how God would have none of his Commandments to be dallied and trifled withal, from that dreadful example of the poor Prophet, that broke Gods Commandment in eating and drinking in Bethel, being cheated into that tranſgreſſion by the lie of another Prophet: and yet he eſcaped not, though his ignorance might ſomething excuſe him; but a Lion met him by the way and ſlew him.

I have choſen theſe words in the proſecution of that ſubject: to conſider a little upon Gods giving his Commands or Laws, and mans too common violating them, and miſdemeanor againſt them. The Law given by the diſpoſition of Angels, but men not keeping it.

The words are the words of Steven, pleading for his life, and anſwering that charge that his accuſers laid againſt him; of Blaſphemy againſt Moſes; for that he had ſaid, That the rites of Moſes ſhould be changed: and againſt the Temple; for that he ſaid, That holy place and City ſhould be deſtroyed. How he anſwers particularly to this accuſation I ſhall not trouble you with obſerving: in the concluſion of his ſpeech he comes to ſpeak home to the perſons, both of them that accuſed him, and of them that ſat in judgment upon him. He firſt calls them all ſtif-necked, and uncircumciſed both in heart and ears. Then he chargeth them all with all reſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt, ſpeaking by the mouth of the Prophets: chargeth their Fathers with perſecuting and ſlaying the Prophets, and them with the murther of the great Prophet, Chriſt: and concludes his ſpeech with the words before us, Who have received the Law by the diſpoſition of Angels, and have not kept it.

In the words is ſweet and ſower, life and death, light and darkneſs. Ye received the Law by the diſpoſition of Angels, this is like Ezekiels book ſweet in the mouth: but ye have not kept it, that is in the belly as bitter as gall. In the former clauſe, you may ſee Iſrael before mount Sinai in a happy condition, receiving the Law: in the latter, you may ſee them a little from it, undoing themſelves by making a golden Calf. And to that particular we might very well apply the words. There were thouſands of Angels in the Mount, when ye received the Law, but ye ſo little kept it, that within forty days ye broke the two firſt Commandments of it, viz. Thou ſhalt have none other Gods before me. And, Thou ſhalt not make to thy ſelf any graven Image.

But it may be queſtioned, whether he ſaying, They received the Law by the Diſpoſition of Angels, means the Angels that were attending God, when he gave the Law at Sinai. True, the Scriptures mention frequently the preſence of Angels with God, when he gave the Law. Two only may ſerve inſtead of more, Deut. XXXIII. 2. He came with ten thouſands of his holy ones, at his right hand was a firy Law for them, Pſal. LXVIII. 17. The charets of God are twenty thouſand, even thouſands of Angels; the Lord is among them, as in Sinai the holy place. But what did the Angels that were there? You read not, nor hear of a word that they ſpake, but it was the Lord, that ſpake theſe words, and ſaid, I am the Lord thy God.

For the underſtanding therefore of the Martyrs meaning:

Firſt, We may mention a wild conception of the Jews, that ſay, That all they that heard the Law uttered by God from Mount Sinai, were by that very hearing made like unto

unto the Angels; that they ſhould never have begot children, never grown old, never died, but have been as the Angels, had not that unlucky buſineſs of the Golden Calf fallen out, and that turned them to ſinful and mortal men again. There is a ſtrange conſtruction in the original Greek, εἰς διαταγὰς, which our Engliſh renders, By the diſpoſition of Angels; whereas the word in the ſtricteſt propriety ſhould be read, Unto the diſpoſition of Angels. As if Steven did rub their own opinion upon them, as is frequently done by the Apoſtles, and that his meaning ſhould be this, You ſay and conceive that the very receiving of the Law, did tranſlate and diſpoſe them that heard it into the very predicat and ſtate of Angels, and yet this brave Law you have not kept. The Law that you conceit made others Angels, you have made but dirt; and that that you think had ſo noble an effect upon them that heard it, hath had no good effect upon you at all; for ye have not kept it.

But this Interpretation I ſhall not inſiſt upon, though it be very frequent with the Apoſtles arguing with the Jews, to confute them from their own Opinions and Tenets. I ſhall name but two to you, 1 Cor. XI. 10. For this cauſe ought the woman to have power on her head, becauſe of the Angels. Where the Apoſtle argues from their own conceſſions, practiſe and cuſtom. And Jude, verſ. 9. Yet Michael the Archangel, when contending with the Devil, he diſputed about the body of Moſes. Not that ever ſuch a diſpute was twixt Michael, or Chriſt, and the Devil about Moſes body, but the Jews have ſuch a conceit and ſtory, and we meet with it in their writings; and the Apoſtle uſeth an argument from their own ſaying to confute their doing. But,

Secondly, If I ſhould ſay, that there were none but Angels on the top of Mount Sinai at the giving of the Law, I ſhould ſpeak but the language of Steven, that ſpeaks the words that we have in hand; at verſ. 38. This Moſes is he, that was in the Church in the wilderneſs with the Angel which ſpake to him in the Mount Sinai. It is ſaid, God ſpake all theſe words, and ſaid: and yet Steven ſaith, It was the Angel that ſpake to him in Mount Sinai. But he means the Angel of the Covenant, the Lord Chriſt; the Arch-angel or the chief or Lord of all the Angels.

And here let an Arian or Socinian, that denies the Godhead of Chriſt, compare Moſes and Steven together, and learn to acknowledge the truth. Moſes ſaith, it was God that ſpake to him in Mount Sinai; Steven ſaith, It was the Angel, viz. The Angel of the Covenant, Chriſt, who, as the Apoſtle ſaies, is God bleſſed for ever.

So that the great Angel Chriſt, at the giving of the Law, was the ſpeaker, and all the created Angels his ſilent Attendants. And this Obſervation might be uſeful in ſome points of Divinity, that Chriſt gave the Law as well as he gave the Goſpel. But,

Thirdly, The Prophets and Miniſters in Scripture phraſe are uſually called Angels. Do I need to give inſtance? Eccleſ. V. 6. Suffer not thy mouth to cauſe thy fleſh to ſin, neither ſay before the Angel, or Miniſter at the Temple, that it is an error, Mal. II. 7. The Prieſts lips ſhould keep knowledge, and they ſhould ſeek the Law at his mouth, for he is the Meſſenger or Angel, of the Lord of Hoſts. And Chap. III. 1. Behold, I ſend my Angel, i. e. my meſſenger, before thy face. And to ſpare more, you remember that in Revel. I. ult. The ſeven ſtars are the Angels, or Miniſters, of the ſeven Churches.

So that the words before us may be reduced to this ſenſe, Ye received the Law by the diſpoſition, preaching and explaining of the Prophets and Miniſters, and have not kept it. And to this ſenſe ſpeaks, that Heb. II. 2. For if the word ſpoken by Angels, that is, Gods meſſengers the Prophets, were ſtedfaſt, and every tranſgreſſion and diſobedience received a juſt recompence of reward: How ſhall we eſcape if we neglect ſo great ſalvation, which at the firſt began to be ſpoken by the Lord. That is, If the word in the mouth of the Prophets might not be tranſgreſſed, but there was a juſt recompence of reward paid to the tranſgreſſor, much more he muſt be paid that neglects the Salvation ſpoken by the Lord Chriſt. And to the like ſenſe may that be taken, in Gal. III. 19. The Law was added becauſe of tranſgreſſion, being ordained, diſpoſed of, preached, by Angels, i. e. Prophets and Miniſters, in the hand of a Mediator.

And this ſenſe of Angels in the Text agrees very well with the words of Steven a little before. Your Fathers perſecuted and killed the Prophets, the Lords Angels or Meſſengers, and ye have received the Law by ſuch Angels or Miniſters, but have not kept it. For the word Ἄγγελος, or Angel in the Greek Tongue ſignifies any meſſenger among men, as frequently as it does the Angels in Heaven.

And ſo taking all theſe conſtructions together, the words do fairly lead us to conſider, what cauſe or reaſon God hath given men to keep his Law and Commandments, but men will not keep them. Some have written large and excellent Diſcourſes concerning the equity and reaſonableneſs of Chriſtian Religion. And how large a diſcourſe might be made upon this particular in our Religion, How it is agreeable to all the reaſon in the World to obey and keep Gods Commandments, which he hath given. The Socinian requires requires a natural reaſon for what is ſupernatural, or elſe he muſt not believe it. Becauſe it cannot be demonſtrated in Logick, Philoſophy, Mathematicks, how three ſhould be one, and one ſhould be three, therefore we muſt not believe, that there are three Perſons in the Trinity, and but one God. But the wiſer and more ſolid diſcourſe would be rather to ſhew a reaſon, why we are to believe ſuch a thing, than to ſeek a reaſon, why or how ſuch a thing is. For there may be a plain reaſon to believe an article of Faith, the reaſon of which thing reaſon cannot fathom. So it may be but a ſawcy, wild inquiry, what reaſon God had to give ſuch and ſuch particular commands. But it may be a pious and humble inquiry to ſearch what reaſon we have to keep his Commandments, now he hath given them.

I. And the firſt reaſon we meet withal in all regular method and order is, becauſe he hath given them, therefore we ſhould keep them. Ye received the Law by the diſpoſition of Angels, therefore ye ſhould have kept it. The Command in it ſelf does not only challenge our obedience of it, but the very giving of it does alſo challenge it. There is a bond in the giving as well as a bond in the Command it ſelf, viz. a bond of love and mercy: that would impart his Will and Commands. David in Pſal. CXLVII. ult. accounts it an incomparable mercy, that Iſrael had above other Nations, That God made his Law known to Jacob, and his ſtatutes to Iſrael. And dealt not ſo with any Nation beſides, neither had they knowledge of his Law.

And God himſelf inſtituted the Feaſt of Pentecoſt at that juſt time of the year when the Law was given, that they might celebrate the Memorial of that great mercy; as he had inſtituted the Feaſt of the Paſſover at that juſt time of the year, when they were delivered out of Egypt, that they might commemorate the memory of that mercy. He would have them to own the giving of the Law an equal mercy with their delivery out of bondage. And what was the treaſure of the Ark, or the precious things that were laid up there? The two Tables, and Pot of Manna. The Pot of Manna, that minded them of the merciful and miraculous food, wherewithal the Lord fed their bodies; and the two Tables, which minded them of the divine and heavenly food of their Souls, that Man liveth not by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

That paſſage is worthy a great deal of meditation, Luke XII. 47, 48. He that knew his Maſters will and did it not, ſhall be beaten with many ſtripes. But he that knew it not, and committed things worthy of ſtripes, ſhall be beaten with a few ſtripes. Now whether do you think it better to know our Maſters will, or not to know it? To have God to impart his Commands to us, or not to impart them? Herein it might ſeem better not to know his Commands, becauſe if we keep them not, not knowing them, there will follow the fewer ſtripes; but the more, if we know them and break them. But this weighs the ballance down on the other ſide, that it is impoſſible to avoid ſtripes, if there be not the knowledge of Gods Commands; it is poſſible to avoid them, if there be knowledge. More ſtripes indeed will be added, if we keep them not, but if we keep them, no ſtripes at all.

If we ſhould diſpute this queſtion, whether God ſhewed more mercy in giving his Law and Commandments, or in giving the Goſpel and promiſes? This might make ſome ſtand about the determination; becauſe though the promiſes are given of an infinite mercy, yet there is no poſſibility of coming up to the attaining of the promiſes, but in the way of the Commandments. In the Promiſes God ſhews, that he would do good to us, and ſave us; and in the Commandments he ſhews that he would have us to do good to our ſelves, and ſave our ſelves. Say not therefore, that it was any ſeverity in God to lay any ſuch binding Commandments upon men; acknowledge it mercy, that he would make known his Will and Commandments to thee. Wouldſt thou change places with a Heathen or Pagan that never heard of the Law and Commandments of God? Doſt thou not think it an infinite mercy that God hath revealed them to thee, and laid them before thee? In that very thing he ſhews, that he would not that thou ſhouldſt periſh without the knowledge of his Law, but that thou mighteſt know and keep his Commandments and live. His Commandments are not bonds of iron, and fetters of braſs, but they are the cords of men, and the bonds of Love. God gives them in mercy, that we might know what he would have us to do, and that we may do it, and be bleſſed in the deed; and this may be a ſecond reaſon to urge our keeping of Gods Commandments, viz.

II. Becauſe God gave them, that we might keep them. He gave them in mercy that we might keep them for our own good. God gave them with this intent that men ſhould keep them, and that keeping them it might be well with them both here and ever. He ſpeaks this once and again himſelf, Exek. XX. 11. I gave them my ſtatutes, and ſhewed them my judgments, which if a man do, he ſhall ever live in them. And Deut. XXX. 15. I ſet before thee this day, in giving thee my Commandments, life and death, bleſſing and curſing, that that thou mayeſt obtain the one and eſcape the other. And obſerve his pathetical and affectionate expreſſion to this purpoſe, Deut. V. 29. O that there were ſuch a heart in this people, that they would fear me, and keep my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and with their children for ever.

So that theſe two things are obſervable concerning the Law and Commandments of God.

Firſt, That the Commandments of the Law were given for a Goſpel end: that though the Law be the miniſtration of death and condemnation, 2 *Cor.*III. yet the direct end of it was for life and ſalvation, *Gal.*III.24. It was our School-maſter to bring us to Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by faith. The Antinomians ſure little conſider what injuriouſneſs they offer to God, when they ſay, the Law to Iſrael was a Covenant of works; as if God had given them a Covenant which ſhould do them no good. For by the Law how little could they be juſtified? True indeed the Law is called his Covenant, the two Tables the Tables of his Covenant, but he means his Covenant of grace, to which the Law aimed and directed. And the Law was not a Covenant of works, but a noble part of the adminiſtration of the Covenant of grace. Tis true that the Law killeth, curſeth, condemneth, but that is the firſt end of it, not the laſt; neither did God ordain it, that it ſhould only condemn, and there end, but by condemning it might drive men on to ſeek ſalvation.

Secondly, That though the performing of the Law in one ſenſe is impoſſible, yet the keeping of the Law in another is not impoſſible. It is impoſſible to perform the Law ſo exactly, as to be juſtified by it, yet tis not ſo impoſſible to keep the Law, as to be ſaved in it. Now what is it to keep the Law? When a man makes it only, and intirely his rule to walk by; and as near as he can, keeps from declining from it either to the right hand or left. God never gave his Law to fallen man with intention that he ſhould perfectly perform it, when Adam did not, who had power to have done it. But he gave his Law to fallen man, that he ſhould make it his Law; and that he ſhould not walk lawleſs, or after his own will, but that the Law of God ſhould be his Law and Rule. And he that makes the commandments and Law of God his rule, whereby he walks, and keeps as cloſe to that as he can, this man keeps the Law of God; though no man be able to perform it to juſtification.

Here then is a ſecond inforcement to keep the Commandments of God, becauſe they were given us for that very purpoſe, and there is a bleſſing and happineſs in keeping them.

III. I might ſpeak of the authority wherewith they were given, and of the terror in which they were given, fire and thunder, &c. Both of which ſpeak the reaſon and obligation for our obeying them. God commanded them, and he requires obedience; and he gave them in terror, as intimating what muſt follow upon diſobedience to them.

But I ſhall ſpeak only to what the Text eſpecially ſpeaks, viz. of his giving his Law and Commandments by the diſpoſition of Angels, i. e. Prophets and Miniſters, men like our ſelves. You may remember that in Exod. XX. that when the people had heard God ſpeak from Sinai in ſuch dreadful terror, they trembled and quaked, and ſtood afar off. And we are not able, ſay they, to hear this terrible voice of God any more, if we do, we ſhall die. Take thou, ſpeaking to Moſes, the words from the mouth of God, and ſpeak thou to us. Be thou the Angel, or meſſenger of the Lord to us, to tell us what his mind and commandment is, and we can hear it, but if the Lord himſelf ſpeak thus to us any more, we are but dead men. And the Lord did accordingly, firſt giving his Laws to Moſes, that he might give them to the people; and afterwards raiſing up Prophets and Miniſters among them that they might inſtruct them in his Laws and Commands. And ſo in all ſucceeding generations. So that his Commandments come now to us not in fire and thunder, but in a ſtill voice by men like unto our ſelves. Thus God draweth near to men in mildneſs, and ſoftneſs, that if it might be, he might win upon them: We Ambaſſadors of God beſeech you in Chriſts ſtead, that you would receive the Commandments of God, and be ſaved.

IV. Laſtly, The reaſonableneſs of Gods Commandments is reaſon ſtrong enough to enforce our keeping of his Commandments, and obedience to them for the keeping them. Some of the Commands that God gave Iſrael in the Ceremonial Law were ſuch as the reaſon of them was not ſo readily to be found out. For why may not I wear linſey woolſey, might a Jew ſay, as well as other people? Why may not I plow with an Ox and an Aſſe, as well as other Nations do? Why may not I eat ſuch and ſuch things good for diet, as other countries do? The reaſon of theſe commands and prohibitions lay deep, and were not ſo eaſie to be diſcovered. But God hath laid no ſuch Commands upon us, but whoſe very equity is not only a bond upon us to keep them, but is a reaſon plain and apparent, why they were given.

What more reaſonable thing in the World than that we ſhould all love God, and our neighbour? And what greater equity in the World than that we ſhould believe in Chriſt, Chriſt, deny the World, mortifie corruption, live holily, and glorifie God, and ſeek to ſave our own Souls? Do we need to go to Heaven to fetch thence a reaſon of theſe Commandments, or to go beyond the Sea, to learn the equity of theſe precepts? Do we need to dig deep to find a reaſon, why we ſhould be bound to theſe things? Do they not of themſelves ſpeak all equity and reaſon in the World? And as it is Rom. XII. that we ſhould offer up our ſelves a holy living ſacrifice to God, is it not a moſt reaſonable ſervice, that is required of us?

Upon what hath been ſpoken theſe two conſequences muſt needs be concluded.

Firſt, That if there be ſo great reaſon to keep the Commandments of God, how unreaſonable a thing then is it, not to keep them? The Scripture ſpeaketh not in vain when it calls wicked men Fools: for they go againſt all reaſon, and have even loſt their reaſon, unreaſonable men, as the Apoſtle calls them, men that are without all reaſon. Is there any pleading for Baal, as Gideons Father ſpoke? Is any reaſon to be pleaded for mens tranſgreſſing the Commands of God? Produce your arguments, bring forth your ſtrong reaſons to plead for your Idols, and Idolatry, ſaith God in deriſion to thoſe that worſhipped ſtocks and ſtones. Produce your arguments, bring forth your ſtrong reaſons, why you ſhould tranſgreſs any of the Commands of God. And think you, you can anſwer or ſatisfie God with all the arguments you can invent? I muſt break ſuch a Command, or I ſhall loſe my pleaſure; ſuch a Command, or I ſhall loſe my profit; ſuch a Command, or I am croſt, and ſhall loſe my will. Excellent reaſons! Wherewithal to out-argue the divine will of God; and excellent pleadings! To lay before God at the great day of judgment, and very likely to come off fairly with.

A good man, according to S. Peters counſel, ſhould be ready to give a reaſon of the hope that is in him. Can a wicked man give any reaſon either of any hope in him, or of the evil that proceedeth from him? Sinning is a thing unreaſonable; and where there is ſo great reaſon for the keeping of Gods commands, the breaking them muſt needs be againſt all reaſon. And from this very thing, if there were no other, muſt the Conſcience of ungodly men in Hell torture them for ever; becauſe reaſon is now awaked with them, which they lulled a ſleep in their luſts here: and now they ſee, how it was againſt all reaſon that they tranſgreſſed Gods commands.

Secondly, If there be ſo great reaſon and equity to bind men to keep the Commandments of God, certainly there is ſome reaſon and equity to bind them over to puniſhment, if they keep them not. Does God ever Command, and never demand what becomes of his Commands? Did he give them in ſuch terror, and will no terror follow the breach of them?

A SERMON

Preached upon.

REVELAIONS XX. 5.

But the reſt of the dead lived not again until the thouſand years were finiſhed. This is the firſt Reſurrection.

WHAT is meant by the firſt Reſurrection here, is to be diſcerned by the verſes preceding. They tell you of Chriſt, the Great Angel, binding the Devil in a great chain, and caſting him into the bottomleſs pit a thouſand years, 1, 2, 3 verſes, and of thrones ſet, and ſome ſitting on them, and judgment given to them; and thoſe that were martyred for the profeſſion of Chriſt living and reigning with him a thouſand years, verſ. 4. But the reſt of the dead lived not again, &c.

The end, for which Chriſt thus bound the Devil being conſidered, will help to clear and unfold the whole matter, and that you have verſ. 3. That he ſhould deceive the Nations no more: i.e. that he ſhould not delude the Heathen or Gentiles, as he had done. From the caſting off the Gentiles at Babel, the Devil had kept all the world under a perpetual cheat, to worſhip Idols, to ſacrifice to Devils, to live and walk in all the ways of the Devil, till Chriſt ſent his Goſpel among them to teach them better. This then was the Chain, whereby the Great Angel of the Covenant, Chriſt, tyed up the Devil, that he ſhould not cheat the world as he had before done, viz. ſending the Goſpel among them, by the preaching and power of which he reſtrained and quelled that power and deluding of the Devil. The Heathen by the inſtruction of the Goſpel come to know and worſhip and fear the true God, to caſt away their Idols, to defy the Devil and his works, and to laugh his Oracles and deluſions to ſcorn. Dagon is now fallen before the Ark of God, and his head, and hands broken off, and now Dagon is left but a meer ſtump. Jericho's walls are fallen flat with no other Engin but only the ſound of Trumpets made of rams-horns; the ſtrong hold of Satan caſt down with the only ſound of the great trump of the Goſpel: and he himſelf tyed up that he ſhall no more cheat and couſin the world, till a thouſand years be expired; and then he is looſed again, and couſins the world by Popery now, as he had done by Heatheniſm then.

The poor Heathen thus recovered out of the power of Satan by the coming in of the Goſpel among them, did creep out of their graves of Ignorance, Idolatry and Sinfulneſs, in which they had layn ſtinking and rotting ſo many ages together, had life put into them, to live to God: they are awaked out of their duſt and long ſleep, to ſee and act and live as the children of God. And this is that, which is here called, The firſt Reſurrection.

And the very ſame title doth our Saviour give to the very ſame thing, John V. 25. Verily, verily, I ſay unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead ſhall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear ſhall live. That he ſpeaks of the firſt reſurrection: and of the laſt, at verſ. 28, 29. Marvel not at this, for the hour is coming, in which all that are in the grave ſhall hear his voice; And ſhall come forth, they that have done good unto the reſurrection of life, and they that have done evil unto the reſurrection of damnation. And do but conſider, how great and near a parallel there is twixt this firſt, and that laſt reſurrection. That laſt ſhall raiſe men from the death of the body; this raiſed the Heathen from the death of the Soul. That ſhall be by the powerful ſound of the Trump of God; this was by the powerful ſound of the Trumpet of the Goſpel. That will will be acted by an infinite power raising men dead in the grave: this was acted by an infinite power raising men dead in sins.

But the rest of the dead lived not again, till the thousand years were finished. And did they live then? The Millenary will tell you, Yes. For his conceit about these thousand years is this. That at the begining of the thousand years, those that suffered martyrdom for Christs sake shall be raised out of their graves, and reign with Christ a thousand years, and when the thousand years are finished there shall be the general resurrection. And accordingly they construe the words before us to this sence. The rest of the dead lived not until the thousand years were finished. And then lived

An opinion, as like the opinion of the Jews, as one egg is like another. They think, Christ shall reign among them on earth a thousand years pompous reign: So do these. They think that at the beginning of his reign the holy Prophets and Patriarchs shall be raised from death, and reign with him: So these. They think, that at the end of his thousand years reign, there shall be the general resurrection, and world of Eternity: so do these. So that the Millenary doth Judaize, and he knows it not, he is fallen into the Jews opinion, and is not aware of it.

This book of Revelations is exceeding full of expressions that allude to the Jewish customs and opinions. I say, again, is exceeding full; but it were ridiculous to think, that such passages are to be construed in the same literal sense, that the Jews took them in. Only those common and well known things, as being familiar to the Nation, are used to signifie or illustrate some spiritual sence or matter. Expressions are used in this place, that are agreeable in sound to the opinion of the Jews; but not agreeable in sence, but signifying something else. They conceit a personal pompous reign of Christ on earth a thousand years in all earthly state and gallantry. These words speak of a reign of Christ a thousand years, but they mean his reign and ruling by his Word and Spirit; and of his subduing and bringing the Nations into subjection and obedience, but by the Ministry of the Gospel. They speak of those that had been martyred reigning with him, but the meaning only is to intimate, that the children of his kingdom must suffer persecution, and that they shall lose nothing by their persecution; but as the Apostle speaks, If they suffer with him, they shall also reign with him. Let us read the verse before, I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the Word of God: And which had not worshiped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands, and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years.

But the rest of the dead lived not again, till the thousand years were finished. And did they live then? That is not imaginable, the time of reviving being then past and over. For at the end of the thousand years Satan is let loose again, brings in Popery and Mahumetism, and the World grows as Heathenish as it had been before Satans binding and imprisoning. So that they had lost the opportunity of reviving, which was in the thousand years.

The word Until signifies doubly, either concluding or else excluding, you may see my meaning by these examples. The Master in the Parable gives Talents to his servants, and bids them, Occupy till I come. Here the word until concludes that he would come again. This iniquity shall not be purged from you till you dye, Es. XXII. 14. Here the word till excludes them from ever having their iniquity purged. The word until in the text is of this latter construction, and means, that they let slip and embraced not the opportunity of reviving all the thousand years, when was the time of reviving, and so they lived not again at all.

And if we well observe the Histories both of the Heathen and of the Church, we shall find, that all along this time that the Gospel was dispersing through the World, there were multitudes of Heathens that would not forsake their Heathenism; and multitudes in the Church in a little time fell to superstition and worshiping of Images; and so even turned to Heathenism also. Therefore God suffers Satan to be let loose again, to go about in the world again with his delusions: he brings in Popery in the West, and Mahumetism in the East; and so the whole World is returned to blindness and darkness again; because when the light shone they would none of the light. They would not embrace the offer of reviving, when the time and opportunity of reviving was: therefore they lived not again, till those thousand years were finished, and then the time of living again was over.

So that in the words before us we observe three things.

I. That the raising of the Gentiles from the Death of Sin is called the first Resurrection.

II. That in that time of raising some lost the opportunity, and would not be raised.

III. That

III. That they losing the opportunity of rising and living missed always of rising and living.

I. As to the first thing named, That the raising of the Gentiles from the death of sin is called the first Resurrection. It gives us occasion to consider, how a mans getting out of the state of sin into the state of grace is a Resurrection or a rising from the dead. And with all to compare this first and last resurrection together, and to see what connexion there is between them.

I. To Sadduces and Atheists that deny the resurrection at the last day, because they can see no reason for it, I should propose this question, Whether there hath not been a raising of dead souls from the death of sin? Abraham once an Idolater; was not his soul dead then? Yet afterwards he was the great Father of the faithful. Was there not then a Resurrection of that dead soul? Manasseh the King, an Idolater, a Conjurer, a Sacrificer of his Sons to Molech, was not this man dead in trespasses and sins? and yet this man afterwards was a Penitent, a Convert, a Promoter of piety, and the true worship of God. Was not here a Resurrection of a dead Soul? Is God less able to raise a dead body out of the grave, than to raise a dead soul out of its sins? Nay, is not this as great a work of God, as that will be? Christ, that can make such vile souls, that they may be like unto his most glorious soul, cannot he make these vile bodies, that may be like his most glorious body, according to the mighty working whereby he is able to subdue all things to himself?

II. But let us look upon this first resurrection a little, and blessed and holy is he that hath part in it, over such an one shall the second death have no power. In some things it is not parallel or like to the second resurrection, in more it is.

First, The Second Resurrection shall be of all bodies, this First is not of all souls. And if we come to seek for the reason of the difference, where shall we find it? Cannot the same power, that shall raise all bodies also raise all souls? The reason of the difference lies not in the difference of that power. Were it not as much for the glory of God to raise all souls, as to raise all bodies? The reason of the difference lyes not there neither. For God chooseth freely the ways of glorifying himself, and is not tyed to this or that way by any necessity. But the reason of the difference lyeth.

First, In his own Will, as the Apostle resolves it. He will have mercy on whom he will have mercy, and whom he will he hardneth. But Secondly, As in reference to the persons raised, he raiseth what souls he raiseth by virtue of his Covenant of grace; but he raiseth not all the bodies he raiseth by the same virtue. It is said concerning Christ himself, that God brought him from the dead by the blood of the everlasting Covenant, Heb. XIII. 20. So doth he by the blood and virtue of the same Covenant, bring from the dead every soul that he brings from the dead; but he doth not so every body that he brings from the dead. Now the tenor of the Covenant is, Hearken to my voice and live. Es. LV. 3. Incline your ear, and come unto me; hear and your soul shall live. And to the very same tenor are those word of our Saviour mentioned before, Joh. V. 25. The hour is coming and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live, What kind of language is this? The Dead shall hear? All the Dead shall hear, and yet only they that hear shall live? What needed more to have been said, than that the Dead shall hear his voice and live. But his meaning is, all the dead Heathen shall have the Gospel, and hear the word of it brought among them, and they that hear it, that is, obey it and follow it, shall live.

Let me repeat that which I alledged from Esay, LV. 3. and add what follows there, Hear and your soul shall live, and I will make an everlasting Covenant with you even the sure mercies of David. Now that by sure mercies of David is meant the resurrection of Christ, the Apostle teacheth us in Act. XIII. 34. And as concerning that he raised him from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise, I will give you the sure mercies of David. The resurrection of Christ therefore are the sure mercies of Christ. For that by David is meant Christ it were easy to shew, and it is so confessed by the Jews themselves in their expositions of that place. It was the sure mercy that God gave to Christ himself, of which he so rejoyceth, Psal. XVI. 9. My heart is glad, my glory rejoyceth, and my flesh also shall rest in hope. Because thou wilt not leave my Soul in Hell, &c. And it is the sure mercy of Christ, that God gave to the members of Christ, that he raised him from the dead, and imparts to them the benefit of his Resurrection. And this is called there an Everlasting Covenant that he makes with them. That as he gave Christ a resurrection, so he will give them a resurrection. The first and the latter rain, the first and the latter resurrection. First to raise their Souls by the virtue of his Covenant from the death of sin in his good time, and to raise their bodies by virtue of the same Covenant at the last day. Of which last our Saviour speaks three times over, Joh. VI. ver. 39. This is my Fathers will which hath sent me, that of all that he hath hath given, I should lose none, but raise him up at the last day, ver. 40. And this is the Will of him that sent me, that every one that seeth the Son, and believeth on him should have eternal life, and I will raise him up the last day. And ver. 44. None can come to me except the Father, which sent me draw him, and I will raise him up at the last day. Will Christ raise up all persons in the world at the last day upon these terms? Ye see, No, but only those that comply with his Covenant, to come to him, see him, believe in him. His power and justice will raise all others, the virtue of his Covenant will raise these.

Now I suppose you easily see how to distinguish twixt the Tenor of his Covenant, and the Virtue of his Covenant. The Tenor of his Covenant is, Hear and obey my voice and live. The virtue of his Covenant is his unfailing truth, power, goodness, that will give life to them that hear his voice and obey him. Thus you see one reason of the difference, why he raiseth but some souls here from the death of sin, but will raise all bodies from the death of the grave.

Thirdly, Another reason of difference may be given, for that at the last day he will raise all the persons in the world from their graves, that he may glorifie himself, but he raiseth only some few from their sins, that they may glorify him. And there is a great deal of difference twixt Gods glorifying himself upon men, as he did upon Pharaoh, and the Egyptians, and bringing men heartily and laboriously to glorifie him, and to live to his glory. But

Secondly, a main difference in these two resurrections, the soul from sin, and the body from the grave, is that the first resurrection is with the desire of him that is raised, the latter will be in despite of thousands, that will have no mind of it. God will bring thee to judgement. Eccles. XI. 9. is a cutting saying, but all the World shall never be able to take the edge of it off. But let wicked men struggle and strive and tug never so hard against the resurrection, God will bring them to it, and no resisting. But the first resurrection, or the raising a soul from the death of sin, how sweet, how welcome, how comfortable is it to every one to whom it comes? Thy people will be willing in the day of thy power, and help forward their own rising as much as they can: and the Spirit and Bride say come, and the soul and heart say, Come Lord Jesus, come quickly, and let me see this resurrection.

And thus have we seen some circumstances, in which the first and second resurrection differ, and are at distance let us now consider, wherein they agree and shake hands one with another.

Observe, that the Scripture speaks in some places of the Resurrection, as if it were to be no Resurrection, but of just and holy ones only; as you may take notice in 1 Cor. XV. and 1 Thes. IV. That there shall be a Resurrection of the unjust as well as of the just, the Scripture assures us over and over again; but it more especially calls that a Resurrection, that is a Resurrection indeed, and and not a raising to be cast down again. Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more, as the Apostle tells us, Death hath no more dominion over him. And the Scripture doth more especially call that a Resurrection, that is written after his Copy, for a man to rise from the dead to die no more. That man is but little helped which we read of in the Prophet, that in the way met a Lyon, and flying from him into the house, a Scorpion bit him. And can you call that a Resurrection cheerfully and savourly, when a man is raised from one death to die another?

Blessed and holy is he, saith this our Apocaliptic, that hath part in the first Resurrection, over such an one the second death shall have no power. But if he have no share in the first Resurrection, at the second Resurrection, his rising is but to remove out of one death into another, out of one deadly room in the prison into a worse. Therefore the Scripture in the places mentioned speaks of the Resurrection, as if belonging only to the holy and righteous, speaking of it as it is in its proper definition, ariling again from death, and not flitting from one death to another; it speaks of the second Resurrection, as it is akin and related to the first, that being an arising from one death, this from another.

I And this is the first Parallel that we may make between them, they are both a rising from death, that neither in the one nor in the other death hath any more dominion: not the death of sin in the first Resurrection, nor death in the grave in the second.

Shall we dispute whether the first or second Resurrection be the greater work, the greater business? They are as it were brethren, and to whether belongs the priviledg of birthright? It hath been said of old, that sleep is the elder brother of death; and certainly with as much right we may call rising from the death of sin elder brother to rising from death in the grave. May we not call sin the elder brother of Damnation, and on the contrary, Grace the elder brother of Glory, and the rising of the Soul elder brother to the rising of the body? What is the first formulation or corner stone that is laid for the building building up of a happy and bleſſed Reſurrection at the laſt day? Will you lay it in the Power of God? That can raiſe men to damnation, as well as ſalvation. Will you lay it in the Will of God? That will raiſe up ſome to damnation, as well as ſome to ſalvation. But you muſt lay it in the firſt Reſurrection, or the riſing of the ſoul out of the grave of ſin.

Thou ſhalt not ſuffer thine holy one to ſee corruption. The word is ſo written in Hebrew, that it may be read Holy one, or Holy ones. We know the Holy one of God did not, could not ſee corruption, and the reaſon was becauſe he was ſo holy an one: and it muſt be holineſs that muſt be the beginning, the great promoter of our incorruption. And get but the ſoul happily raiſed and cleared of her corruption, the happy raiſing and clearing from the corruption of the body will certainly follow.

You remember the expreſſion of the Apoſtle, If you be riſen with Chriſt, ſeek thoſe things which are above. Col. III. 1. We riſen with Chriſt? It is well worth conſidering how that is done. There were ſome that aroſe with him indeed out of their graves at his Reſurrection. Mat. XXVII. Of theſe it might well be ſaid, you are riſen with Chriſt: but how of others? The meaning is, Not only you are riſen as Chriſt is riſen, but you are ingrafted into Chriſts Reſurrection, and riſen united to his riſings. The Apoſtle warrants the expreſſion of ungrafted, Rom. VI. 5. For if we have been planted together in the likeneſs of his Death, we ſhall be alſo in the likeneſs of his Reſurrection. So that in the inſtant of the firſt Reſurrection, that any man attains to riſing from the death of ſin to the life of righteouſneſs, that man is ingrafted, implanted into Chriſt; and as ſure of a happy Reſurrection, as that Chriſt is riſen.

II. A Second Parallel of the firſt and ſecond Reſurrection is in regard of the inſtrumental cauſe of both. The ſecond Reſurrection will be effectuated by the all powerful voice of Chriſt, calling all out of their graves. Joh. V. 28. All that are in the graves ſhall hear his Voice, and ſhall come forth. This the Apoſtle calls the Voice of the Archangel, and Trump of God. 1 Theſ. IV. 16. And in 1 Cor. XV. The trump ſhall ſound, and the dead ſhall be raiſed. Let us by the way pauſe a little, and take up ſome thoughts of this Trump or Trumpet.

The Father of old ſaid, That whether he were eating or drinking, or whatſoever he did, he ſtill thought he heard this Trumpet ſounding this alarm, Ariſe ye dead and come to judgment. Suppoſe you heard it now, would it not ſtartle you? We have been ſtartled many a time with a dreadful clap of thunder; what amazement and dread would you be in, if you heard this alarm? the voice of the Trumpet, that will make Heaven and earth to quake, and to vaniſh away: the Voice of the Archangel and his Trumpet, that will rouze and awake all the world, and whoſoever hath ſlept the longeſt in the duſt: The alarm of the Trumpet, that will not only force all to awake, but to riſe and to come, and appear at the Judgment.

Now what parallel doth the firſt Reſurrection bear to this? Why, that is an alarm alſo of the Trumpet of the Goſpel. How oft is the Miniſtry of the word of God compared to a Trumpet? Eſay XXVII. 13. The great Trumpet ſhall be blown, and they ſhall come, that were ready to periſh in Aſſyria, and the out caſts in the land of Egypt, and they ſhall worſhip the Lord in the holy mount at Jeruſalem. That is, the ſound of the Goſpel ſhall gather them, and bring them to worſhip the true God. Mat. XXIV. 31. He ſhall ſend his Angels with a great ſound of a Trumpet, and they ſhall gather together his elect from the four winds, That is, he ſhall ſend his Miniſters with the ſound of the Goſpel. Think of the ſound of the Trumpet at Sinai, and think of the Trumpet at the laſt day: at Sinai, to cauſe a firſt Reſurrection, or to bring Iſrael out of their ſinful condition to riſe and live to God: and at the laſt day, to call to account about the keeping of that Law, that was then given.

So that would you know, Whether you ſhall have a happy Reſurrection at the laſt day, conſider with your ſelf, whether you have come to the firſt Reſurrection even to this day. And if you would know whether you have attained that, conſider, whether you have been raiſed by the Trump of the Goſpel. It is to thy firſt Reſurrection thou muſt look, to judge of thy ſpeeding at the ſecond. Theſe two are linked together, and have relation one to another, as the Feaſt of Pentecoſt, when barly harveſt was now got in, had relation to the ſecond day in Paſsover week, when barly harveſt firſt begun. The Reſurrection will be a fit harveſt for every man to reap according as he hath ſowed. There is none but would willingly have a Reſurrection at the laſt day to life, and not to damnation; begin thy Reſurrection here; and as thy ſoul is riſen from the death of ſin, ſo mayeſt thou expect thy bodies riſing from death in the grave.

The

The Jews ſpeak of a little bone in ſome part of a mans body, they call it Luz, which they ſay will never be conſumed in the grave, but will be as it were a ſeed ſown in the ground, out of which will ſpring the Reſurrection of the whole body. I may ſay, graciouſneſs in the ſoul is rather the ſeed of the Reſurrection of the body, that will cauſe it to riſe to life and happineſs. And thus much concerning the firſt Obſervation.

II. That in the time of the firſt Reſurrection, that is, the raiſing the Gentiles from the Death of ſin, ſome loſt the opportunity and would not be raiſed. The reſt of the dead lived not again, becauſe they were not raiſed by a firſt Reſurrection, when ſeaſon and opportunity of living again was in date, that is for the thouſand years mentioned in the Text.

Whether you take the thouſand years for a certain determinate time of exactly ſo many years, or that a certain number is uſed for an uncertain, and this number the rather becauſe it is uſed by the Jews: whether the one or the other, you are to begin to count from the time the Goſpel was firſt ſent among the Gentiles. And count ſuch a ſpace of time forward, and you will find in ſtory, that though the Goſpel had gone through the world, in that time, and made the world Chriſtian, and vaſt numbers were converted to Chriſtianity: yet there was ſtill a ſtruggling to have kept the World Heathen, and multitudes were unwilling to come off from their old Heathen and Idolatrous Religion.

For three hundred years the Emperors, and all the Magiſtrates were enemies to the Goſpel, and if any of them did not perſecute the Chriſtians, as but few but did, yet they maintained their Heathen Religion might and main. And the great wiſe men of the World, (as they were eſteemed) the Philoſophes and learned ones; were the greateſt ſticklers for the maintaining of the worſhiping of their many falſe and idol Gods all along, when the Emperours were become Chriſtians. Which may very well make us to remember the words of the Apoſtle, 1 Cor. I. 26. Not many wiſe men after the fleſh, not many mighty, not many noble are called; but God hath choſen the fooliſh things of the world to confound the wiſe. I cannot omit two remarkable paſſages.

The one of Julian the Emperor, who was brought up a Chriſtian, but turned Heathen; nay, who, as ſtories relate of him, had been a Lecturer in a Chriſtian congregation, but became the bitter enemy to Chriſtianity. He, when the Emperors had been Chriſtian for two ſucceſſions, viz. Conſtantine and Conſtantius; and the Chriſtian Religion had flouriſhed in their times well towards forty years, and the Heathen Idolatrous Temples ſhut up, and Chriſtian Churches opened: He opens the Heathen Temples, ſhuts up the Chriſtian, promotes Idolatry again, and the worſhip of the Heathen Gods; and hath many Heathen Philoſophers, Iamblichus, Maximus, Eccebolus, Libanius, and I know not how many more, to ſpur him on to it.

And the other paſſage I have, is a clauſe in a letter of Adrian the Emperor to one of his Nobles; in which he tells him, I have been in Egypt, and there I obſerved the Chriſtians worſhiping Chriſt and Idols; yea, the Chriſtian Biſhops worſhiping Chriſt and Serapis. Which Serapis was the great God and Idol of the Egyptians.

By all which we may ſee the truth of what is aſſerted in the Text, That the reſt of the dead lived not again, but continued ſtill in their dead condition of blindneſs and Heatheniſm. And may alſo ſee the reaſon why they lived not again, viz. becauſe they would not, but choſe death before life, to continue in their dead condition of being Heathens, rather than to become Chriſtians, and live. And from this we may ſee, how juſt it was with God, to let Popery and Mahumetiſm invade the world, and to reduce it to its heatheniſh ignorance, blindneſs and ſuperſtition again, becauſe it was ſo unwilling to part with its ignorance, blindneſs and ſuperſtition. Becauſe they would not receive truth in the love of it, as the Apoſtle ſayes, it was juſt with God to give them up to ſtrong deluſions, to believe a ly.

And by that ſad example we may obſerve, how men loſe and let ſlip the opportunities that God affords them for their own good, and ſo loſing them they loſe themſelves. Jeruſalem knows not the time of her Viſitation, and the things of her peace, and ſo poor Jeruſalem is loſt, and her opportunity gone for ever. There is a critical time, when there is a ſeaſon opportune for the good of the Souls, and the clock ſtrikes Time is; but fooliſh men too commonly take ſo little notice of it, that the brazen head cryes Time is paſt, and breaks to pieces.

If we ſhould take up the Diſpute, whether God do not ſet his time and ſtint, how long he will let men have opportunity of riſing from the death of ſin, are there not many evidences for the affirmative, that he doth? He ſets his ſtint and date, how long he will afford a man the opportunity that his body may live; and doth he not the like for the living of the Soul? Doth not God ſhut the gates of mercy againſt ſinful Souls even in this life, and doth he not ſhut the gates of Repentance? Theſe in the the Text that lived not again, was not all poſſibility of living again taken again from them, becauſe they had let the time and opportunity of reviving let ſlip, and go, and neglected it? Eſau loſt his opportunity, and having loſt that, he found no place of recovery, though he ſought it with tears. And Joh. XII. 39, 40. They could not believe, becauſe Eſaias had ſaid, he hath blinded their eyes, &c. Why? were Eſaias words a charm to them that they could not believe? No, they could not believe, becauſe thoſe words of Eſaias were verified upon them. And they had ſo long wilfully blinded their own eyes, and hardned their hearts, that God had put to his Seal; and blinded and hardned them, that they were now paſt all poſſibility of believing.

In that great diſpute and iniquiry, how God hardneth mens hearts, of which there is ſo frequent mention and intimitation in Scripture: the firſt criſis toward the determination of it is, that God hath ſet ſuch men a time, how long they may be in a poſſibility of repenting and believing, which when it is come, and they are ſtill impertinent, and unbelieving, and will not repent and believe, he ſhuts the door againſt them that they ſhall not repent and believe.

Upon the conſideration of all which, we have advertiſement what we have to do; viz. to ſtrive after this firſt Reſurrection, while the Lord affords time and opportunity; and when God offers the advantage of our living again, not to be enemies of our own reviving.

A

SERMON

Preached upon

2 SAMUEL XIX. 29.

I have ſaid, Thou and Ziba divide the land.

AND I think it is ſaid very nobly and as became a David. A Prince of prudence and clemency. A Prince of faithfulneſs and juſtice, though I cannot tell who thinks ſo of theſe words but my ſelf. I believe there are but few that have either commented upon theſe words, or that do read them but they have ſome hard thoughts of David, as if he dealt but ſomewhat hardly with poor Mephibosheth.

I am ſenſible what diſadvantage I go upon, if I go about to plead for him, though I ſpeak for the King: for it is much that a firſtborn gloſs or expoſition upon a difficult place of Scripture doth gain by being firſtborn. And the commonly and old received opinion upon theſe words, hath ſo got prepoſſeſſion in the hearts of moſt by privilege of its birthright, that a younger interpretation will hardly find entertainment becauſe it is a younger brother.

The Jews do commonly ſpeak their minds upon theſe words in this manner. I have ſaid, Thou and Ziba divide the land. At the ſame inſtant divine providence ſaid, Then let Rehoboam and Jeroboam divide the Kingdom. Accounting this action of David ſo horrid unjuſt a thing, as that it deſerved and brought that ſore judgment of renting ten Tribes from Davids Kingdom. Chriſtian expoſitors are no more favourable to him in their conſtruction, but lay the very ſame accuſation to his charge, of harſhneſs, raſhneſs and injuſtice in this caſe: for giving away half Mephibosheths, innocent Mephibosheths land to his lying ſervant. Come let us reaſon together with him and with our ſelves a little.

I. And is thy kindneſs, O David, to thy old dear friend Jonathan, the man of thy love and the man of thy Covenant, to uſe his ſon ſo very hardly, yea though he had given thee ſome juſt offence? Thou once profeſſedſt with tears, Thy love to me, O Jonathan, was wonderful paſſing the love of women. And now this unkindneſs of thine, O David, were as wonderful paſſing the unkindneſs of an enemy.

II. Is David become ſo weak in Wiſdom and Judgment, as to be ſo baffled and befoold by a cheating fellow and never to diſcover him; or is he become ſo eaſie and ſoft as to ſit down with ſuch a gull put upon him, and he never go about to ungul himſelf? Tis true indeed he was ſurprized with the lie when he was fleeing for his life, chaſed with anxiety and vexation; but can we think David of ſo ſleepy a conſcience, as ſo raſhly to undo a poor man by giving away all his land upon a bare information, and never to take ſecond thoughts, whether he had done the man wrong or no? And how eaſie was it for him before he here met with Mephibosheth to have informed himſelf of Mephibosheths behaviour, and of his innocency?

It is ſaid in verſ. 17. that a thouſand men of Benjamin met him at Jordan when he was returning, and is it likely that he would not inquire of them about him, or that they could not or would not inform him of his demeanor, who was now the chief man of their Tribe? Had they ſo loſt the love and remembrance of their old Maſter Saul and his good ſon Jonathan, as to ſee his ſon ſo undone by a cheat, and none of them to teſtifie his integrity.

III. His very beard and cloaths might bear witneſs for him, if no body elſe would: and theſe might give Ziba the lie, and ſatisfie David that the poor man was falſely accuſed: for he had neither trimmed his beard nor waſhed his cloaths ſince the Kings going away, until his return again, but had utterly neglected and been careleſs of himſelf, as ſhewing really, that he was really afflicted for the Kings affliction. And would not David think you believe ſuch clear and evident teſtimonies as theſe?

IV. It

IV. It is said 1 King. XV. 5. That David did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, and turned not aside from any thing that he commanded all the days of his life, but only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite. Truly it might very well have been added, And in the matter of the wronged Mephibosheth: if he did so condemn him to the forfeiture of his land upon a false accusation.

V. And lastly, Can David be so ready as he was, to pardon Shimei who cursed him to his face, and be so hard to be reconciled to Mephibosheth who was only accused behind his back? And the Holy Ghost hath seemeth to hint this very thing, and observation to us: For who observeth not the dislocation of this story we are upon? That it is laid out of its proper place, and that it is placed before its proper time?

In the story immediately next before this you have David at Jordan, there speaking with Shimei, at vers. 23. And in the story immediately next after this, you have David still at Jordan there taking his leave of Barzillai, vers. 31. And yet in this story between you have David met with Mephibosheth at Jerusalem, vers. 25. This is not done at random and by any oversight, as if the Holy Ghost had forgot himself, as we poor fumbling creatures are many time lost in our tale; but the sacred Spirit hath purposely thus methodized the story with such a dislocation, for our more narrow observation and clearer instruction. In the story before, you have Shimei and Ziba meeting David at Jordan: a very proper couple and fitly yoked together, like to like. The one of them had cursed the King to his face, and the other had cosened him to his face: the one had abused him with rough railing and the other had abused him with a smooth lie.

What past between David and Shimei the story tells you, but not a word of what passed twixt David and Ziba. That is comprehended in this story of what passed twixt David and Mephibosheth, because Ziba's business was Mephibosheths concernment.

The story tells that Shimei fell down before David and confest his fault and begged pardon: and if Ziba did not so too he was a fool, as well as he had been a knave before: for he might well conclude that his knavery either was already, or else would be discovered. Well, whether he did or No, The Holy Ghost as soon as he hath related how Shimei had obtained his pardon, comes and relates this conference twixt David and Mephibosheth; as prompting us to think that if David were so readily reconciled to Shimei, who had been guilty of so great a crime, he would not be unreconcilable to Mephibosheth who indeed was guilty of none. And if he had not given this hint by this strange placing of this story, our own reason might suggest such an argument to us. That certainly if he so easily was friends with Shimei, whose villany he himself was an eye and ear witness of, he cannot be so unexorable to Mephibosheth his dear Jonathans son, against whom he had only the accusation of a false tale. That if he would not hearken to Abishai the son of Zerviah when he urged him for revenge upon Shimei, but puts him back with what have I to do with you ye sons of Zerviah, vers. 22. Certainly he would not be so harsh and inexorable to Mephibosheths fair and just Apology and vindication of himself.

Upon these reasons that I have mentioned, to spare more, I must crave leave to refuse the common and very generally received exposition and interpretation of these words of David, that tends not a little to his crimination and reproach: And let me crave your patience and pardon, if I take the humble boldness, to construe his words to a clear contrary sense, and a construction that tends to his honour and vindication.

When David takes Mephibosheth first to his notice, friendship and Table, 2 Sam. IX. He hath these words first to Mephibosheth, at vers. 7. Fear not, Mephibosheth, for I will surely shew thee kindness for Jonathan thy fathers sake. And this at vers. 3. he Phraseth, shewing the kindness of God. But surely it was neither kindness of God, nor kindness of man, if he should so unkindly at last take his land from him, and be so kind as give it to his servant. At vers. 10. he hath these words to Ziba, I have given to thy masters son all that pertained to Saul and all his house. Thou therefore, and thy sons, and thy servants shall till the land for him, and thou shalt bring in the fruits, that thy masters son may have food to eat: but Mephibosheth thy masters son shall eat bread alway at my table. A piece of a riddle and who can unriddle it? Thy masters son shall always have food at my table, and yet thou must till the land that thy masters son may have his food to eat. We must plow with Samsons heifer to find out the riddle, and the twelfth verse is that that will help us. And Mephibosheth had a young son whose name was Micha. And all that dwelt in the house of Ziba were servants to Mephibosheth. And now upon this Text and this case let me ask these two questions.

First, Who was it that Ziba must till the land for that he might have food? It was for Micha; for Mephibosheth himself had food at the Kings Table. But,

Secondly, Whence must Mephibosheth have to maintain himself in clothes, and to maintain his port and retinue at the Court, according to his place and rank and quality? Did David find him these as he did find him meat and drink? Certainly when he took him to his Table, upon the restoring of Sauls land to him, we can little think, that he did it be-becauſe he would have him to live of mear alms, but he did it out of pure reſpect to him for his fathers ſake. Not ſo much as if Mephiboſheth had need to be at the Kings finding, when he had now all his grandfathers land, but that the King would honour him with the participation of his own table and friendſhip and becauſe he would injoy his company.

So in this Chapter out of which the Text is taken, the King invites Barzillai to go and live with him at Jeruſalem, and he would feed him at his own table, verſ. 33. What? Would he have Barzillai to live purely upon his alms? No, that he knew he needed not, for the verſe before tells, that Barzillai was a very great man, and that he had provided the King ſuſtenance whilſt he lay at Mahanaim. And becauſe he had done ſo, the King invites him to his own table, not out of mear alms, but out of kindneſs and gratitude; and becauſe he would injoy his good ſociety.

Do you not by this time ſee how Mephiboſheths land is divided twixt him and Ziba? Not to make Ziba a Proprietor, but a Tenant, or rather a Bailiff or Steward: He to till the land and to bring in the profits, and the one part to go to find Micha food and maintenance, and Zibas houſe, and the other part to go for Mephiboſheths maintenance and the maintaining his retinue at the Court. And thus he and Ziba divide the land from the very firſt, and it was Davids own project from the very firſt, that it ſhould be thus divided; Ziba to injoy half for the maintenance of Micha, and to pay rent for the other half for the maintenance of Mephiboſheth.

And to this purpoſe is obſervable, that it is ſaid, That all that dwelt in Ziba's houſe were ſervants to Mephiboſheth: And how could they be ſo, when Mephiboſheth and they lived ſo far a ſunder, as he at the Court in Jeruſalem, and Zibas houſe in the land of Benjamin's but that they were all ſervants to him in this ſenſe, that they were all under him as chief Landlord, that they were Bailiffs for him upon his land and demeſnes, for the maintenances of his ſon, who was with them in the houſe, and Mephiboſheth himſelf who was at the Kings table.

When David was ſurprized with Ziba's lie, then he ſaid, Behold, thine is all that pertaineth to Mephiboſheth, Chap. XVI. 4. But did he mean withal, behold, thine is all that pertaineth to Micha? That had been yet a more unjuſt act, than giving away Mephiboſheths land; for he had no accuſation againſt Micha, though he had againſt Mephiboſheth: So that then it was at this point, Ziba and Micha divide the land, for poor Mephiboſheth was clean thut out. But when David was come again to Jeruſalem, and come again to himſelf then it is at this, Now Mephiboſheth and Ziba divide the land, as it was in the firſt contrival and diſpoſal. Ziba to have one part for Micha's maintenance, and Mephiboſheth the other for his. And to this ſenſe may his ſaying, I have ſaid, be very well applied to Davids firſt determination about the land: though I know it may alſo be applicable to his preſent ſaying, why ſpeakeſt thou any more of thy matters, I ſaid ſom the very firſt when I gave thee thy fathers land, and took thee to mine own table, that the land ſhould be ſo divided twixt thee and Ziba, for the uſe of thy ſelf and thy ſon Micha, and I hold to the ſame determination, and I ſay ſo ſtill.

Thus have I laid before you with all humble ſubmiſſion to better Judgments, my thoughts and conceptions upon theſe words. And now what can I ſay more upon this Text?

To take up from it any obſervation or doctrine, either dogmatical or practical, I know not how. For I muſt either frame it according to the common ſenſe given upon the words, which I refuſe, and then I ſhould lay the foundation of my building upon ground I like not. Or I muſt frame it according to mine own ſenſe, that I have given, and then I ſhall lay the foundation of my building upon a ground which it may be you like not. Therefore I ſhall to avoid theſe rocks on either hand, ſteer a middle courſe, and ſpeak to that, which the very ambiguity of the Text, and the diſlocation of the ſtory out of which it is taken, may juſtly call upon us to Obſerve, viz.

That the ſtile and difficulty of Scripture requireth all ſerious and ſober ſtudy of the Scripture.

You ſee the ſtile here, and you ſee the difficulties here. The ſtory laid out of its natural and proper order: and the words of the Text capable of two and thoſe even contrary ſenſes. The former not done by heedleſneſs or at peradventure, the latter not as if the Scriptures were not of a fixed and ſteady ſenſe: but both to ſtir up the more ſerious and ſober ſtudy of Scripture.

It is our Saviours preſcription, as our Engliſh reads it, Joh. V. 39. Search the Scriptures, and if you aſk a reaſon he gives you two in that verſe, and divers more may be given. Search and ſtudy the Scriptures, becauſe it is the Scriptures, the writing of God, the diſcovery of the mind of God, the witneſs of the Son of God, the revealing of the glory of of God. To be ſtudied to make one wiſe, to be ſtudied to make one holy, to make one happy.

But I ſhall not ſpeak of theſe or of what other reaſons of like kind might be alledged to very ſerious ſtudy of Scripture; but I ſhall bring my diſcourſe to a cloſer and narrower compaſs, to urge a reaſon only from its ſtile and difficulty, The ſtile and difficulty of Scripture requires all ſober and ſerious ſtudy of it. The thing that I aſſert, will on the one hand pleaſe the Romaniſt, if he may limit it to his ſenſe, but on the other hand it will not ſo very well pleaſe the Enthuſiaſt. The one will tell you that the Scripture is ſo difficult indeed that it requires all ſerious ſtudy, but of the Clergy only, for it is too difficult for Laity to meddle withal: the other will tell you there is no difficulty at all in the Scripture to them that have the Spirit, but all things eaſie enough to underſtand and explicate, by revelation, without any ſtudy. So that here are two rocks more for us to ſail, and hold a middle courſe between, leſt we daſh either upon the one or upon the other, and the card and compaſs I ſhall go by ſhall be the Scripture it ſelf.

The Scripture it ſelf tells us there is difficulties in it: and if it did not ſo in words, yet we might eaſily find it in deed. And I might need no other proof of this aſſertion, than ſuch a one as he gave to prove motion, he roſe out of his chair and moved up and down: Tolle, lege, take up the Bible and read preſly, and that very thing will ſhew you that you had need to read preſly, becauſe of the difficulty.

Let me but obſerve in our entrance into this matter theſe two things to you.

I. That the difficulty of Scripture doth ſo much require ſtudy, that none but by ſerious ſtudy can perceive its difficulty. As the Philoſopher could not ſo much as imagine how hard it was to define God, till he ſet ſeriouſly to ſtudy upon the matter and then he found it. The further you go in Ezekiels waters, Chap. XLVII. the deeper you go, and the more you ſtudy the Scriptures ſeriouſly, the more cauſe you will ſtill find to ſtudy them ſeriouſly. And it is not the leaſt cauſe of their error, that hold the explaining of Scripture is ſo very eaſie, that they have not attained to ſo much ſkill in the ſtudy of the Scriptures as to ſee their hardneſs. And I doubt not but I could ſhew them ſcores nay hundreds of very hard and obſcure places, which they had never the eyes to ſee: and I doubt as little, that they would find as little eye-ſight to reſolve them, if they ſaw them.

II. The Holy Ghoſt hath purpoſely penned the Scriptures ſo as to challenge all ſerious ſtudy of them. Elſe what think you is the meaning of that, He that readeth let him underſtand, Matth. XXIV.

Peter tells us that there are divers things in Pauls Epiſtles hard to be underſtood, 2 Pet. III. 16. and why did the Holy Ghoſt dictate them ſo hard by Paul; and why did not Peter explain them who had the ſame Spirit? As that paſſage of Peter, you may very well remember the Parable of the wounded man twixt Jeruſalem and Jericho. The Prieſt and Levite paſs by, look on him, but afford him no help. And why does Peter ſo by thoſe hard places, and afford them no explication? Becauſe the Holy Ghoſt hath ſo penned Scripture ſo as to challenge all ſerious ſtudy: He could have penned all ſo plain that he that runneth might have read them, but he hath penned them in ſuch a ſtile, that he that will read them muſt not run and read but ſit down and ſtudy.

It were a very long taſk indeed to ſhew wherein the difficulty of Scripture doth conſiſt in every particular. I ſhall give you but a taſte in two or three heads.

I. To begin with that which the difficulty of the Text may firſt hint to us, viz. that there are ſeveral paſſages in Scripture may be eſteemed to a clean contrary conſtruction, may be taken in two ſenſes not only differing one from another, but directly contrary. I ſhall only inſtance in ſome that I cannot but deal withal as I have done with the words of the Text, viz. take them in a ſenſe clean contrary to that ſenſe that commonly is put upon them.

The firſt I ſhall offer you is that, Gen. IV. 7. If thou doeſt not well, ſin lieth at the door. Who is there, that reading or explaining this doth not conclude it for a threatning? If thou do not well judgment is ready at doors to ſeize upon thee. I cannot but on the contrary conſtrue it for a comfort; and that ſin meaneth only a ſin offering, as the word in the original is uſed an hundred times: and the very Engliſh word is ſo uſed once and again, as Hoſ. IV. 8. They eat up the ſin of my people, that is, their ſin offering; and 2 Cor. V. 21. He hath made him ſin for us, i. e. a ſacrifice for ſin. And the ſenſe to be for the raiſing of Cain from dejectedneſs and deſpair, If thou do well, there is undoubted acceptance; and if not, yet deſpair not, let not thy countenance fall for there is a ſin offering to be had that may heal all again lying at the door: and you know in the Law the ſacrifice was to be brought to the Tabernacle door, Lev. I. 3. &c.

A ſecond is that Exod. I. 19. The Midwives ſaid unto Pharaoh, Becauſe the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women; for they are lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them. How many expounding that place do roundly conclude they told a lie lie to ſave their ſtake; when, as I ſuppoſe, it were no hard thing to ſhew, that the thing they ſpake was moſt true, that the Hebrew women in travail were ſo miraculouſly vigorous: and that their words are ſo far from a ſneaking lie to ſive their lives, that they are a bold and holy confeſſion of their faith and piety, to the hazard of their lives; that they ſaw ſo plain an evidence of the wonderful hand of God in that extraordinary vigor of the travail of the women, that do what Pharaoh would, they durſt nor would not ſtand or ſtrive againſt it, becauſe they would not ſtrive againſt God.

A third is that Exod. VIII. 19. Then the Magitians ſaid unto Pharaoh, this is the finger of God. How many are there that read and comment upon thoſe words, that without any ſcruple conceive, that they are a fair and ingenuous confeſſion of the power and work of God; whereas, I ſuppoſe, it were no hard thing to ſhew, that they are an horrid blaſphemy againſt the Lord, they aſcribing the miracle wrought to their Elohim, their unknown gods or Deity, in ſcorn and affronting of the true God, the Jehovah of the Hebrews. This is the finger of Elohim, this is not the finger of Jehovah.

Let a fourth and laſt be that Eſa. IX. 1. Nevertheleſs the dimneſs ſhall not be ſuch, as was in her vexation, when at the firſt he lightly afflicted the land of Zebulun, and the land of Naphthali; and afterwards did moſt grievouſly afflict her by the way of the Sea beyond Jordan in Galilee of the Gentiles. Who but takes theſe words, the dimneſs or affliction ſhall not be ſuch, to mean, it ſhall not be ſo great as was in her vexation, &c. where it were not hard to ſhew, that the meaning is, It ſhall be greater. I ſpare more; theſe with the Text are enough in this head to ſhew and confirm, That the ſtile and difficulty of Scripture requires all ſober and ſerious ſtudy of the Scripture.

II. A ſecond head let be, paſſages in the New Teſtament directly contrary to the Old, as if the two Teſtaments were fallen out and were not at unity among themſelves. I will give you but five inſtances of theſe as I did of the other.

1. Jechoniah, Matth. I. 12. is ſaid to beget Salathiel, whereas Jer. XXII. 30. he is threatned with a witneſs, (O! Earth, Earth, &c.) that he ſhould be childleſs.

2. In Luke III. 36. you have a Cainan the father of Shelah or Sala and ſon of Arphaxad, whereas Gen. X. 24. Arphaxad is the father of Shelah, and there is no ſuch man as Cainan to be found at all.

3. In Act. VII. 14. Jacob goes into Egypt with ſeventy five, whereas in Exod. I. 5. you have them reckoned but ſeventy.

4. In the next verſe but one you have dead Jacob carried over into Shechem to be buried, whereas in Gen. L. 13. you have him carried over to Machpelah before Mamre and Hebron, ſome ſcores of miles diſtant from Hebron.

5. And the ſame verſe you have Abraham buying a burying place of the ſons of Emor the father of Sichem, whereas in the ſame verſe in Geneſis and Chap. XXIII. you have him buying it of Ephron the Hittite.

I ſpare more again, theſe are enow in this head alſo to confirm what I ſay, and to ſhew, That the ſtile and difficulty of Scripture requires all ſober and ſerious ſtudy of Scripture.

III. A third head let be the ſtrange manner of accounting and reckoning of numbers even in the Old Teſtament different from it ſelf, as if that were not conſtant and conſonant to it ſelf. I ſhall give you ſome inſtances alſo of this head, a few amongſt many.

1. In Joſh. XIII. 3. The Text is reckoning five Lords of the Philiſtins, and it counts them, the Gazathites, Aſhdodites, Askelonites, the Gittites, Ekronites, and Avites; it ſpeaks of five but reckons ſix.

2. In 2 King. VIII. 26. Two and twenty years old is Ahaziah when he began to reign and reigned one year in Jeruſalem; but in 2 Chron. XXII. 2. Two and forty years old was Ahaziah, when he began to reign, &c. And if you look well there and compare his fathers age in the latter end of the Chapter next before, you will find that he is made there two years older than his father.

Need I trouble you with any more inſtances to prove the difficulty of Scripture? I might give a thouſand, ſome in Chronology, ſome in Chorography, ſome in Language, ſome in Senſe. So that ſome have taken upon them to pick out ſome places in the Bible which they ſay are paſt all poſſibility of interpreting or underſtanding.

But I may ſeem to have pleaded the Papiſts cauſe againſt the Scripture enough and too much. But I am far from making the conſequence and concluſion from the difficulties of Scripture that they make. They ſay the Scriptures are hard, therefore let not the Laity and unlearned meddle with them or read them at all. I ſay the Scriptures are hard therefore let the Laity and unlearned read and ſtudy them the more. And I need not fetch a warrant of my argumentation from any rule of Ariſtotle, for behold a greater than Ariſtotle is here, and ſets me a copy, and that is the Holy Ghoſt in the mouth of Joſhua. Joſh. XXIV. 19. Ye cannot ſerve the Lord, ſaith Joſhua, for he is an Holy God, he is a jealous God, he will not forgive your tranſgreſſions nor your ſins. The Pontifical inference after the the rate they infer about the difficulties of Scripture would be this; therefore let the ſerving of God alone, and go not about to ſerve him at all; whereas the inference the Holy Ghoſt aims at it this is, Therefore give the more diligence and uſe the more care and indeavour to ſerve him as ye ſhould. The parallel in the matter we are ſpeaking of will ſpeak it ſelf.

I ſhall not enter into any deep Scholaſtick diſcourſe for the making of this inference good, upon which ſo many Learned pens have made ſo many large diſcourſes. I ſhall mention only ſome few demonſtrations which carry their own evidence in their forehead and ſpeak it plain to the moſt vulgar and meaneſt underſtanding.

I. It became the Holy Ghoſt, the penner of Scripture, to write in a Majeſty, that the wits and wiſdom of all the men in the World ſhould bow before it. As is the man ſo is his ſtrength, do they ſay, Judg. VIII. 21. and as is the Writer ſo is his ſtile and ſtrength of writing. If Pericles the Orator at Athens ſpoke Lightning and Thunder, as it was commonly ſaid of him, becauſe of the ſtatelineſs and awe of his Oratory, certainly it is no wonder if the great God of glory ſpeak Thunder and Lightning out from Mount Sinai. If the Holy Ghoſt wrote the Scriptures, we muſt needs conclude that he wrote them like the Holy Ghoſt in a Divine Majeſty. Nor is it enough that we give to the Scriptures, if we ſhould think only they were written for the benefit of men, if we do not think and conſider alſo that they were written in the demonſtration of God. And how ever a blaſphemous Jeſuite durſt be ſo daring as to take the Bible in his hand, and to ſay, Thou Spirit that, the Proteſtants ſay, breatheſt in theſe Scriptures, I defie thee; yet we have better learned the Scriptures: and cannot but tremble at ſuch blaſphemy, but are no whit moved by the boldneſs and confidence of it, the leſs to own and maintain that the Holy Ghoſt that gave the Scriptures, breatheth in the Scriptures in Majeſty and Power. In Power to convert Souls, and in Majeſty to confound confidence in mans own Wiſdom.

We ſhould look upon the Majeſty of Scriptures, viz. ſo as to bow to it, and not to make it bow to us. My meaning is not for any adoration to the book or papers wherein Scripture is written, as the Jews keep a great deal a do with the very book of the Law, little ſhort of adoration; but to bow to that Divine Wiſdom and Authority that ſhineth there.

That remarkable paſſage of the Apoſtle hath been obſerved by many, as it is very obſervable, Rom. VI. 17. You have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine whereto you were delivered; as the Original Greek carries it, and ſo ſome of your margins give intimation: whereas in the Text it is, which was delivered to you. The Scripture is delivered to us ſo as we rather are delivered up to Scripture: much like the ſame Apoſtles expreſſion in another place and another caſe, Phil. III. 12. I apprehend, but am apprehended. We are delivered up to the Scriptures as they are to be our Maſters and not we theirs. As another Apoſtles expreſſion is, We are to be doers of the Law and not Judges; to be ſtudents of the Scriptures, doers of the Scriptures, not their judgers.

You know who ſay, I will not believe the Scriptures for themſelves, unleſs they could ſhew their own Authority: Let them ſhew me in Scripture where the Scripture tells, that all the books in the Bible are Scripture; where it ſaid, ſuch a book was written by ſuch a pen-man, or elſe how ſhould I believe that all the Bible is Scripture? How ſhould I believe that the books were written by ſuch and ſuch pen-men? Let them chuſe whether they will believe it or no, may God ſay, but at their own peril. He never intended to ſatisfie every mans curioſity and croſneſs and cavilling, but he hath given the Scripture in Authority and Majeſty, and if men will bow and ſubmit to it well and good, and if they will not, let them ſee how they will anſwer it another day. If a priſoner at the bar ſhould not own the Authority of that venerable Peer to judge him, unleſs he ſhould particularly fetch out his Commiſſion and ſhew it him, what would you call ſuch, peeviſhneſs, madneſs, or impudency, or both, or worſe. The application is eaſie enough.

II. Difficulties and things hard to be underſtood in Scripture, is one part of the majeſtickneſs of Scripture, and it is good to judge of ſuch difficulties aright. One once reading the crabbed and moſt obſcure Poet Perſius and not being able with all his ſtudy and endeavour to make ſenſe of him, he flung him away with this ſaying, quoniam non vis intelligi: becauſe thou haſt written ſo as if thou reſolvedſt not to be underſtood, I am reſolved not to be at pains and ſtudy to underſtand thee. Are the difficulties of Scripture of this nature? Are they the reſolved purpoſes and purpoſed reſolutions of the Holy Ghoſt not to be underſtood? Did he write them intentionally that men ſhould never come to know the meaning of them? If this were ſo, the inference of the Papiſts were conſequ ſomething reaſonable; therefore meddle not with them, for they are inſuperable: but it is no ſuch thing, for the difficulties of Scripture are of another end and intention. And let us conſider of them briefly in theſe two or three Particulars.

1. Though

1. Though we ſay, There are difficulties in Scripture, yet we dare not ſay the Scriptures are difficult. Peter ſaith, Some things in Pauls Epiſtles are hard to be underſtood: he will not ſay, Pauls Epiſtles are hard, 2 Pet. III. 16. The Holy Bible is like the Holy Land: ſome part indeed mountainous and rocky, and hard to be travailed over, but the greateſt part pleaſant, plain, champaigne, and valley. Like any clean beaſt or fowle that might be eaten, ſome bones but the far greateſt part fleſh: now it were but a mad kind of inference, never go about to eat the fleſh becauſe thou canſt not eat the bones.

Men indeed have made an obſcure Bible, but God never did. As Solomon ſpeaks, God made man righteous, but they found out ſundry inventions. So God made the Bible plain as to the main of it, but men have found out inventions of Allegorizing, Scepticizing, Cavilling, that would turn light into darkneſs, but that the light ſhineth in darkneſs, and the darkneſs comprehends it not. That which God hath ſanctified do not thou call common, and that which God hath made plain, do not thou darken, nay do not thou ſay it is dark. How plain as to the general is the hiſtory in Scripture? How plain the commands, exhortations, threatnings, promiſes, comforts, that are written there? Take a Sunbeam and write, and is it poſſible to write clearer? And what? Muſt not the Laiety and unlearned meddle with Scripture, becauſe it is too obſcure? I doubt their meaning indeed is, becauſe it is too clear and will diſcover too much.

2. Theſe difficulties that are in Scripture, which indeed are not a few, are not a noli me tangere to drive us from the ſtudy of the Scriptures, as the inference would be made, but they are of another kind of aim and tendency. They are not unriddleable riddles, and tyring-irons never to be untied, but they are divine and majeſtical ſublimities, not to check our ſtudy of Scripture or of them, but to check our ſelf confidence of our own wit or wiſdom. They are not to drive us from the holy ground where God ſhines in Majeſty in the flaming buſh, but to teach us to put off our ſhoos at the holy ground; not to ſtand upon our own ſkill or wiſdom, but to ſtrike ſail to the Divine Wiſdom and myſteriouſneſs that ſhineth there. Not to diſharten us from ſtudy of the myſteries of God, but to teach us in all humility to ſtudy them the more. That obſcure paſſage, Dan. IX. 27. about the abomination of deſolation; is not, that for the obſcurity we ſhould caſt away the book, not meddle with it, but that we might read and ſtudy the more preſſly that we may underſtand, Matth. XXIV. 15.

It is true, That God never intended that all men in the World ſhould underſtand Scripture alike; nor that all men in the World ſhould be able to ſtudy the Scriptures alike, or have opportunities to do it: yet theſe two things we may obſerve as to Gods will and diſpoſing in this caſe.

I. That God would have all to ſtudy and meditate on the Scriptures according to their capacities: The Scriptures do ſo frequently and urgently call upon all to this purpoſe, that I ſuppoſe it is altogether needleſs to go about to prove it, Thou ſhalt meditate therein day and night: Thou ſhalt meditate therein when thou ſitteſt down and riſeſt up, when thou ſitteſt in the houſe, when thou walkeſt in the way: and various ſuch paſſages as theſe, require and ingage all ſorts and conditions of people to this ſtudy and meditation, according to their ſeveral capabilities and atcheivances.

In ſome important points of Divinity, ſome men have ſometimes miſtaken in ſtating them by mens benefit rather than by their duty. If you did ſo in this point, it would make one very good piece of an argument; ſtudy the Scriptures for you may benefit by ſtudy of them: But take the other and it argueth more ſtrongly, ſtudy the Scripture for it is your duty: God calls for it, lays his command upon you to do it the beſt you can.

II. Therefore upon this we may make ſuch another inference as Samſons mother doth, Judg. XIII. 23. If the Lord were pleaſed to kill us, he would not have accepted an offering, neither would he have ſhewed us all theſe things. If the Lord were pleaſed that the Scriptures ſhould not be underſtood, he would never have written them, he would never have charged all to ſtudy them. God never writ the difficulties of the Scripture only to be gazed upon and never underſtood: never gave them as a book ſealed, and that could never be unſealed, that learned and unlearned alike might never ſee what is in them, but that they might be more ſeriouſly read, more carefully ſtudied; that ſo being underſtood and practiſed they might become the means of Salvation unto all.

A SERMON

Preached upon

DANIEL XII. 12.

Bleſſed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thouſand three hundred and five and thirty days.

13. But go thou thy way till the end, for thou ſhalt reſt, and ſtand in the lot at the end of days.

DOTH he not ſpeak riddles? Tis hard to tell whether verſe is harder. And I have choſen to ſpeak to them, partly that I may explain them, partly in ſubſequence to my late diſcourſe about Gog, Rev. XX. 8. I ſhewed that meant an enemy to true Religion (and more particularly the Pope) ſtyled by the name of the old Enemy, Ezek. XXXVIII. & XXXIX. I ſhewed that Gog was Antiochus, that laid waſt the Jews Religion, and would force them to turn to the manners of the Heathen: that forbad them Circumciſion, Law, Religion, forbad the daily Sacrifice, and profaned the Altar with Swines fleſh, and ſacrifices abominable and offered to Idols. I cited that that ſpeaks concerning him, Chap. VII. 25. He ſhall ſpeak great words againſt the moſt High, and ſhall wear out the Saints of the moſt High, &c. until a time and times, and the dividing of time: that is, a year, two years, and half a year; or, three years and an half.

In the verſe before the Text there is mention of the ſame matter, and there are reckoned only a thouſand two hundred and ninety days. From the time that the daily ſacrifice ſhall be taken away, and the abomination that maketh deſolate ſet up, there ſhall be a thouſand two hundred and ninety days. For the Holy Ghoſt reckons by round ſums, near about three years and an half, which he calls a time, times and half a time; and does not punctually fix upon the very exact ſum. And ſo in the Book of the Revelations, where alluſion is made to the ſame ſpace of time, viz. three years and an half, it is ſometimes expreſſed by a thouſand two hundred and ſixty days, as Rev. XII. 6. The woman fled into the wilderneſs, where ſhe had a place prepared of God, that they ſhould feed her there a thouſand two hundred and threeſcore days. Sometimes by forty two months, Chap. XIII. 5. And there was given to the beaſt a mouth ſpeaking great things and blaſphemies, and power was given him to continue forty and two months. You have both in Chap. XI. 2. They that tread the holy City under-foot forty and two months. And verſ. 3. I will give power unto my two witneſſes, and they ſhall propheſie a thouſand two hundred and threeſcore days.

Now let your thoughts conceive the caſe and ſtate of the people and Temple in this time, a thouſand two hundred and ninety days, three years and an half or there abouts: no Law, no Religion, no Sacrifice, but what is abominable; the Temple filled with Idols, the Heathen there ſacrificing ſwines-fleſh, and other abominable things to their abominable gods. Ah! Poor Jeruſalem, what caſe art thou in! How is the gold become dim, nay changed to dros? What deſolation of Religion is come upon thee, and what bondage and thraldom under irreligion? How it goes againſt their heart not to circumciſe their children? But they dare not do it. How grievous to ſee the Books of the Law burnt, and they upon pain of death dare not ſave them, nor uſe them? How bitter to ſee Altar, Temple, Holy of Holies all defiled with abomination, and all Religion laid in the duſt, and they cannot help it, dare not reſiſt it? What ſhould theſe poor people do? Wait Gods deliverance: for Hæc non durabunt in ſecula. Theſe things will not always laſt. Stay but till one thouſand three hundred thirty five days, but forty five above the thouſand two hundred and ninety of the Temples defilement in the verſe before and there is deliverance.

And

And read two verſes together. From the time that the dayly ſacrifice ſhall be taken away, and the abomination that maketh deſolate ſet up, there ſhall be a thouſand two hundred and ninety days. Bleſſed is he that waiteth and cometh to the thouſand three hundred and five and thirty days. Add but forty five days further, the ſum to come up to a thouſand three hundred thirty five days, and there is ſome remarkable thing done; as pleading the cauſe of the people and Religion, that had been ſo abuſed: which in all probability was the death of the Tyrant, that had brought this miſery upon them: or at leaſt ſome ſignal thing done by God for the relief of the people, who had been ſo oppreſſed. But I rather believe the former. The ſtory of whoſe actions and death you may read in the firſt Book of the Maccabees, Chap. I. beginning. The ſtory of which book goes almoſt ſtep by ſtep with Joſephus. However his death was the Mercy, or ſome other ſpecial providence, the words afford plainly theſe two Truths.

I. That the time of the affliction of the people of God is determined with God.
II. That it is a bleſſed thing for the afflicted to wait his time and determination.

The former Obſervation lies in the latter clauſe, the latter in the former. The two things, the latter an inference upon the former, or the former a Doctrine, the latter the Uſe and Application of it, I ſhall handle in the ſame method and order. The time of the affliction of the people of God is determined with God; Therefore it will prove a bleſſed thing for the afflicted to wait his time and determination.

In proſecuting either, I ſhall not ſo much prove as clear them; and to begin with the former, I muſt begin with clearing a ſcruple or objection or diſcouragement.

Tis true, will an afflicted people and perſon ſay, that in the times of the Old Teſtament God did determine the time of his peoples affliction, but we can find no ſuch determination now. The affliction in Egypt determined to four hundred years, Gen. XV. 13. And though the time were long, yet they knew when it would expire; and there might be the more patient bearing, becauſe the end was known, and the end would come. So for their wandring in the wilderneſs, God told them before that it ſhould be forty years, and they might the more contentedly bear it, becauſe they ſaw ſome ſhore, and knew that that calamity would laſt but to ſuch a time. So the affliction upon Judah by Iſrael or Ephraim, it was told before hand, that it ſhould laſt ſo long, and no longer, Eſa. VII. 8. Within threeſcore and five years ſhall Ephraim be broken, that it be not a people. What need I ſpeak of the Captivity in Babylon told of before, and limited to ſeventy years, and no longer. And theſe miſeries of the people in the Text, it is told them before that they ſhould expire at the end of a thouſand three hundred thirty five days.

But now there is no ſuch prediction, no ſuch limitation, that men can know of. Poor afflicted Chriſtians may take up that mournful Ditty, Pſal. LXXIV. 9. There is no more any Prophet, neither is there among us any that knoweth how long. We are afflicted, oppreſſed, trodden under foot, and we cannot tell when theſe things will come to an end. How long, Lord, holy and true, doſt thou not avenge our blood, &c. is their cry, Rev. VI. 10. But they cannot tell how long that How long will be. Is not this ſome diſadvantage to poor Chriſtians above what thoſe had in antient times, that God hath not, doth not certifie them before hand of the end of their calamities? Their caſe ſeeming ſomething like theirs, Eſa. LIX. 10, 11. We grope for the wall like the blind, we grope as if we had no eyes. We roar like bears, and mourn ſore like doves; we look for ſalvation but cannot diſcover how far it is from us.

I ſhall not inſiſt to diſcuſs, why God gave that people of Iſrael ſuch revelations before hand of the term and date of their miſeries, and hath not imparted ſuch forehand diſcoveries to his people now. It is enough to ſay as the Apoſtle, Theſe things were done to them, and are written before us for our learning: that ſince he is the ſame God ſtill that changeth not, and hath the ſame regard of the afflictions of his own people yeſterday and to day, and the ſame for ever; we might believe and be aſſured, that the affliction of his people is determined now with him, as well as then; that he ſets his period now as well as then, that he numbers the days of it now, as he does theirs in the Text.

But what am I the better as to my comfort, if I know not when this period, date and time is ſet?

I remember the ſtory of him, that carrying a baſket covered very cloſe, and being aſked what was in it? Anſwered, It is covered ſo cloſe purpoſely that none ſhould aſk or know what is in it. And I remember withal the ſaying of our Saviour, Act. I. 7. It is not for you to know the times and the ſeaſons, which the Father hath put in his own power. That was ſpoken in the beginning of the going forth of the Goſpel, and may very well be taken notice of in all ages after.

It pleaſed God ſo to reveal the term and end of Iſraels affliction to them, as being a peculiar people, and a people of whom Chriſt ſhould at laſt deſcend, and they not fail from being being a people till Christ was come of them. Therefore when such calamities came upon them, it pleased God to tell them still of the end of them, that they might still bear up in their subsistence and expectation of Christ to come. Let me observe these two things to you.

I. That you have some old women and barren till old, bare children in some generations before Christ: Elizabeth in the very half year before Christs birth; but you read of no such thing after. The reason whereof is, because their supernatural child bearing was to make way to the belief of the supernatural child bearing of the Virgin Mary. For thus may reason justly argue, if these bear children when past the course of nature, why not a Virgin beyond the course of nature? But after the birth of Christ, such births of old women ceased, because in the birth of Christ, that which they related to was fulfilled.

II. That the Holy Ghost draws up a Chronicle of times from the Creation to the Redemption, from the beginning of time to the fulness of it, viz. from the beginning of the World to the Death of Christ, and there he leaves and counts the time no further, save only that he mentions Pentecost fifty days after. The reason whereof is, because by links and links of time God would draw men on to observe, how God was numbring and counting out times toward that great time of promise and expectation, and to observe, when that great matter was accomplished, how faithful God was through all changes and vicissitudes of times, to carry on that great promise. Accordingly it pleased God in the time before that great work of Redemption to certifie his people oft when they fell into misery, nay oft before, how long the time of their affliction and oppression should be; that still they might be carried on to look for deliverance: and by the deliverance might still have an eye to the promise, and be confirmed in the promise concerning deliverance by Christ.

So Jacob foreseeing in Gen. XLIX. 17. the great deliverance of Israel from the Philistins by Samson of the Tribe of Dan, that he should be as a Serpent by the way, and an Adder in the path, that bites the Horse-heels that he throws his rider: So he caught the heels of the Philistins Horse, the posts of the house on which they were mounted, and overthrew house and riders, even three thousand. I say, Jacob foreseeing this, presently cries out, vers. 18. O Lord, I have waited for thy salvation. His eyes look beyond that deliverance of Samson to the deliverance or salvation of Christ; and in the sight of that Type his belief of that greater matter signified is confirmed. So in this very thing we are speaking of: Till Christ came God very frequently acquainted his people before hand of what times were to come upon them? What miseries? What deliverances? What oppressions? What deliverance? Seventy years captivity in Babylon, and then deliverance: three years and half oppression under Antiochus, and then deliverance; and so in other examples: that still in their afflictions their hearts might be held up patiently to wait Gods time of deliverance: and the deliverance answering and verifying the promise of deliverance, they might be built up in belief and expectation of the truth of the promise of the great Deliverer when he should come.

But when Christ was come and had done that great Work; and there being now no such peculiar people to be born up in hope of their subsistence, till Christ should descend of them: but the Church of God being scattered through the World, and Christ having sanctified the bearing of the cross to them by his own bearing it, and having allotted the cross to them for their portion, and assured them, 1 Cor. X. 13. That they should not be tempted above what they were able, but that with the temptation he would make way to escape, that they might be able to bear it.

First, It cannot be imagined that every particular Church in the World should be acquainted with what persecutions and afflictions should come upon them, and how long they should last, and when they should be removed, as God was pleased to acquaint that peculiar Church. Nor,

Secondly, Is it requisite, that God should punctually and exactly tell them the end of their persecution and affliction, but that they should always be kept to their duty, waiting, patience and dependance. When Peter would be curious to enquire concerning what should become of John, Christ answers, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee, follow thou me: Look not thou at his end but mind thou thine own duty. So if any people now should be inquisitive, How long Lord, and what, and when will be the end of this calamity? God might justly answer, It is not for you to know the times and the seasons; but keep to your duty, possess your Souls in patience, and wait to see the salvation of God in his own time and way. For let me repeat my Doctrine again, and now come to clear it further.

The time of the affliction of the people of God is determined with him.

He knows it, nay he hath set it. For these two are the main things we shall speak to in this Point.

That no times, no mens times are hidden from God, Job makes it a principle, as of which there is no queſtioning; Job XXIV. 1. Why ſeeing times are not hidden from the Almighty, do they that know him, not ſee his days? The latter half of the verſe is of ſome ſcruple, and tranſlations are various, and ſcrupulous upon it; but the former is of no ſcruple, but of undoubted conceſſion; that times are in no wiſe hidden from God. Only the botching Greek Tranſlation, which ſome would authorize above the divine Hebrew original, reads it clean contrary, Why are times hidden from God? As if they were hidden from him. Point the latter clauſe right as you ſhould do (for I obſerve in ſome Bibles it is miſpointed) and the paſſage is much cleared. Why ſince times, &c. do they that know him, not ſee his days? Or, not more conſider of his Eternity?

Dan. VIII. 13. There is a word ſomething ſtrange in the Original פלמוני the Engliſh Text reads it, That certain Saint, Then I heard one Saint ſpeaking, and another Saint ſaid unto that certain Saint that ſpake, How long ſhall be the Viſion? &c. But the margent reads it, The numberer of ſecrets, or, the wonderful numberer. His name is Wonderful, Eſa. IX. 6. And Judg. XIII. 18. Why askeſt thou after my Name, ſeeing it is ſecret? Marg. Wonderful. When he is now treating concerning times, he is called the wonderful numberer of them. Mene, mene, Tekel. He numbers and he finiſhes the Times of Men and Kingdoms: he weighs men and their Times and their Conditions. He is the Wonderful Numberer, in whoſe hand and knowledge and diſpoſal are the times of all men, as David ſaith of his own, Pſal. XXXI. 15. My times are in thy hand. Concerning Gods knowing and dating the Times of men, and their affairs, I might largely ſpeak to theſe two things for evidence to it.

I. His foretelling of times and affairs before they come. By this very thing he proves himſelf to be the true God; and by coming ſhort of this, the Gods of the Heathen to be but lies and vanity; Eſa. XLI. 22, 23. Let them bring forth, and ſhew us what ſhall happen, let them declare us things for to come. Shew the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that ye are Gods. But Chap. XLIII. 12. ſaith God of himſelf, I have declared, and ſaved and ſhewed, when there was no ſtrange God among you. And Chap. XXVI. 9, 10. I am God, there is none like me. Declaring the end from the beginning, and from antient times the things that are not yet done, ſaying, My Counſel ſhall ſtand, and I will do all my pleaſure. How did he determine the time of the ſojourning of the children of Iſrael before their coming out of Egypt four hundred and thirty years before to the very day? Exod. XII. 40, 41. Now the ſojourning of the children of Iſrael who dwelt in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty years. And it came to paſs at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the ſelf ſame day it came to paſs, that the Hoſts of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt. How did he foretel of the Death of Chriſt ſeventy ſevens of years, even four hundred and ninety years before it was, to the very hour? Dan. IX. 21. At the hour of the evening ſacrifice, the Angel Gabriel tells Daniel the time to that very hour Chriſt ſhould ſuffer: for he ſuffered at that hour. Is not the time of the affliction of his people determined with him, who foreſees, foretels of times and affairs to a day, to an hour, ſo many hundred of years before they came?

II. His harmonizing of times in ſo ſweet an union as he hath done, doth not that ſhew that he is the wonderful Numberer of times, and Numberer of times of the affliction of his people? The Scripture is moſt copious, and the providence of God moſt ſweet and heavenly in this kind of conſort; and it may much refreſh and raviſh the Reader of Scripture to obſerve ſuch harmony. Henock, that glorious ſhining light upon Earth, to run his courſe here juſt in as many years, three hundred ſixty five years, as the Sun doth his courſe in Heaven days, three hundred ſixty five days; Gen. V. 23. David, to reign exactly ſo long a time in Jeruſalem, as Chriſt the ſon of David lived here upon earth, thirty two years and an half; 1 Kings II. 11. No rain in Elias time three years and an half, Luk. IV. 25. Antiochus deſolating of Religion three years and an half, in the verſe before the Text, and Chriſts Miniſtery to be three years and an half, Dan. IX. 24. Doth not this Harmony tell that God is the wonderful Numberer of time, and Weigher of all affairs?

Multitudes of ſuch Harmonies of times are to be found in Scripture: which all ſound out this truth we are upon, that with God the times of the afflictions and Condition of his people are moſt certainly determined, becauſe all times are determined by him.

For the further clearing of this Point, I might diſcourſe diſtinctly of theſe two things.

I. That it is Gods determination, that his children ſhall be afflicted.

II. Gods determining of their afflictions leaves not the time, they ſhall laſt, undetermined.

It is the latter of theſe I ſhall proſecute. The Providence of God herein is not like the Oſtrich, that lays Eggs, and leaves them in the ſand: as if he determined of the thing, and left the time of its laſting at random, but he weigheth and ſetteth the one as well as the other. In Mene, Mene, Tekel, Upharſin, the two latter words are either of them two ſeveral Languages. Tekal in Chaldee, is, He hath weighed: Tekel in Hebrew, Thou art light. Parſin in Hebrew is the Perſians; in Chaldee, They divide: And accordingly Daniel doth render them. So in Gods determination of the Saints affliction (as thoſe words ſpeak ſpeak of Gods determining that Kingdom) there are two ſeveral providences, viz. as to the thing it ſelf, and as to the manner and time of it: theſe two are twins born together in Gods decree, and when he determines the one he determines the other.

In thoſe paſſages in the Revelations where the Church is in the Wilderneſs in a ſad and ſolitary condition a thouſand two hundred and ſixty days, Chap. XII. 6. And where the beaſt blaſphemes and tyrannizes forty two months, Chap. XIII. 5. though the time be not that time definitely, yet the very expreſſions ſhew the times defined and determined with God. Alluſion is made to the time of Antiochus tyrannizing over Religion three years and an half: not as though the Church was to be bewildred three years and an half, and no more and no leſs: but by uſing the memorial of that ſum of three years and an half, he ſpeaks the ſad condition of the Church in that time it was in the wilderneſs, as the times under Antiochus were ſad. And ſo concerning the Beaſts blaſpheming, tis not meant, as though he were to blaſpheme and tyrannize forty two months exactly; take them either of days, which make three years and an half, or of years, a thouſand two hundred and ſixty years: but by the memorial of the time of Antiochus rage and miſchief, the rage and miſchief of the Beaſt is intimated. So, I ſay, though the time intended be not exactly and punctually the time named, yet when ſo punctual a ſum is named, it muſt needs argue, that the time intended is punctually determined with God.

But need I to ſpend time to prove this to them that have learned that not a ſparrow falls to the ground without our Father; and that the hairs of our heads are all numbred, Matth. X. 29, 30. which laſt paſſage puts me in mind of that, Luk. XXI. 18. There ſhall not an hair of your head periſh. Obſerve, verſ. 16. Some of you they ſhall cauſe to be put to death. And yet, Not a hair of your head fall to the ground; not a hair periſh. With many a Saint of God head and all have fallen to the ground, as it was with them, Revel. XX. 4. that were beheaded for the witneſs of Jeſus. And yet not an hair of their head periſh? Some Expoſitors take this to have its accompliſhment in the Reſurrection, when the Saints, ſay they, ſhall riſe with all their hair. Which granted, yet the Expoſition is far fetched. The expreſſion is a Proverbial ſpeech, as appears by 1 Sam. XIV. 45. Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great ſalvation in Iſrael? God forbid; as the Lord liveth, there ſhall not one hair of his head fall to the ground. The meaning is, he ſhall not ſuffer the leaſt hurt or injury. And to apply it to that paſſage of our Saviour, and it ſpeaks this comfortable Doctrine,

That the Saints of God in the bittereſt perſecution, yea in death it ſelf, ſuffer not the leaſt hurt or damage.

But however take it in what ſenſe you will; if our hairs be numbred, and it be promiſed, that not one of them ſhall fall to the ground, then undoubtedly nothing befalls the Saints concerning affliction fortuitous or by hap hazzard, but the thing, matter, manner, meaſure, time of affliction is determined by God.

Is there not an appointed time for man on Earth, Job VII. 1. There is an appointed time for every man, which he ſhall not paſs, Job XIV. 5. Be his end never ſo caſual, accidental in the Eyes of men, yet it is prefixed by God, and he cannot paſs it, or go beyond it. And can we think any thing occurs to a Saint of God in the way to his end, that is not likewiſe fixed?

A SERMON

Preached upon

HEBREWS X. 29.

And hath counted the blood of the Covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing.

THE whole Verse runs thus, Of how much soever punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, that hath trodden underfoot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the Covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace? The spring head of this verse is at vers. 26. and that bubbles out fire and brimstone. Not a more dreadful portion of Scripture at the first reading and hearing in all the Bible: A Text which speaks, much like as the Law was spoken, in Fire and Thunder. If we sin wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sin. But a certain fearful looking for of Judgment, and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries. No sacrifice for sin, if any sin wilfully after receiving the knowledge of the Truth; and nothing but fearful expectation of judgment, and fiery indignation. If the Truth mean here the Gospel, as undoubtedly it doth, then, Men and brethren, what shall we do? Who hath not sinned wilfully, since he received the knowledge of the Gospel? Nay our English translation is as favourable as may be; for the word in the Original is ἑκουσίως, willingly: and that makes the case still sadder. For who hath not sinned willingly: nay, who not wilfully, since he received the knowledge of the Truth of the Gospel, against Knowledge, against Truth, against the Gospel?

That Chyrurgeon had need of a tender hand, that is to dress a wounded heart gashed with the keen and cutting edge of this dreadful Scripture. If any heart should be darted through with this arrow of the Almighty, and that the reading or hearing this Text wounds his heart to the very root: as the story is, Origens heart after his Idolatry, was wounded with reading those words in Psal. L. 16, 17. But to the wicked, God said, What hast thou to do to declare my statutes, or to take my Covenant in thy mouth; seeing thou hatest instruction, and castest my words behind thee? So that upon reading them he sat down and wept, and all the Congregation wept with him. What could be said to the comfort of such a bleeding soul? Should a soul wounded with these words of the Apostle, cry out, as that Prophet in another case, My bowels, my bowels, I am pained at the very heart, my liver is cut through as with a javelin, to hear that there is no sacrifice for sin, that sinneth wilfully, after receiving the Knowledge of the Truth, and I have sinned so of, and so wilfully against that Knowledge and Truth as I have done: What plaister? What lenitive could be applied to allay the aking smart and torture of so sad a cut? As our Saviour of the smarting and cutting days of affliction before the ruine of Jerusalem, Except those days should be shortned, no flesh should be saved: So if there were no allay to the soreness of such a stroke and case, what flesh could but perish? But there is some allay, and that is this.

That the Apostle speaks not of that common, willing or wilful sinning, to which who is not incident at one time or other, in one degree or other? But of a willing, wilful, total apostatizing, and revolting from the Truth and Gospel once professed and received. If you observe in the Epistles of the Apostles, and in the story of the New Testament, you will find that the very topping up of the wickedness of the Jewish Nation, and of their perdition was this, that as the unbelieving part of the Nation, continued enemies to Christ and his Gospel; so those that had believed did by infinite numbers and droves revolt and apostatize from what they had belived, and became, if possible, worse enemies than the others, and drew as many of the believing Gentiles as they could, into the ſame Apoſtaſie and condemnation with themſelves.

mies

I might evidence this by inſtances heaps upon heaps: And hardly any one of the Apoſtolick Epiſtles but it is ſo plain in it, that he that runs may read it. I ſhall only give you three paſſages inſtead of ſcores, that might be given.

Firſt, Weigh that 1 Joh. II. 18. Little children it is the laſt time: and as ye have heard that Antichriſt ſhould come, even now there are many Antichriſts. And who were they? verſ. 17. They went out from us, but were not of us. Once Profeſſors, and following the Apoſtles, now revolting, and fallen from them; once Diſciples, and now Apoſtates and Antichriſts.

Secondly, Who can paſs that of the Apoſtle without ſerious obſerving, 2 Tim. I. 15. This thou knoweſt that all they which are in Aſia are turned away from me. A ſad Apoſtaſie! Ah poor Paul, all turned away from thee? Where now haſt thou any friend? Nay rather, Ah poor ſouls, ah unhappy ſouls, that turned away from S. Paul, and the bleſſed Goſpel, that he brought with him.

Thirdly, And that for all. How ſadly does our Saviour foretel this in the Parable of the Devil caſt out of the poſſeſſed, but comes again with ſeven other ſpirits worſe than himſelf, and repoſſeſſes: And obſerve the cadence at Matth. XII. 45. Even ſo ſhall it be alſo with this wicked generation. The Application is eaſie.

Of ſuch Apoſtaſie it is the Apoſtle ſpeaks, at verſ. 26. where he calls it, wilful ſinning after receiving the knowledge of the Truth. And of ſuch an Apoſtate he ſpeaks in this verſe, when he ſaith, He hath trod underfoot the Son of God, and counted the blood of the Covenant, wherewith he was ſanctified, an unholy thing. Many think that the Apoſtle ſpeaks here of the ſin againſt the Holy Ghoſt. I am ſure he ſpeaks of that ſin unto death of which the Apoſtle John hath mention, 1 Joh. V. 16. Not but that the ſin againſt the Holy Ghoſt is a ſin unto death; but the ſin unto death may be diſtinguiſht from the ſin againſt the Holy Ghoſt in this reſpect, that the Scribes and Phariſees, whom our Saviour layeth under the guilt of ſinning againſt the Holy Ghoſt, never received the knowledge of the Truth, and acknowledgment of the Goſpel. But this wretch that ſins this ſin unto death, had received that knowledge, but was apoſtatized and revolted from it.

Their Apoſtaſie or falling back from the Truth was into a two fold gulf. Some fell to horrible Libertiniſm to abuſe the liberty of the Goſpel, to eat things ſacrificed to Idols, and to commit fornication: Of which you have intimation in ſeveral places of the Epiſtles, and particularly in Revel. II. 15.

But the moſt general Apoſtatizing was from the true liberty of the Goſpel to the ſlavery of Judaiſm again, to ſeek juſtification by the works of the Law. Againſt this you find the Apoſtle ſpeaking copiouſly almoſt in all the Epiſtles; and particularly S. Paul, the pen-man of this Epiſtle, (For I make no doubt at all to aſcribe it to him,) ſets himſelf purpoſely to ſtay the Hebrews, to whom he writes, from ſtaggering and falling in ſuch Apoſtaſie. And you may obſerve, how in the whole current of his diſcourſe, he bends himſelf to ſhew, that thoſe Moſaick ceremonies and ſervices, by which they thought and looked to be juſtified and ſaved, were but ſhaddows, that did but ſignifie greater things to come: but ſhaddows, that were but for a time, and were to fade away.

The ſame ſubject, that he is upon at this portion of Scripture, he is handling, in Chap. VI. 4, 5, 6. Where we may have an expoſition of ſome words or paſſages in our Text. Receiving the knowledge of the Truth, he calls there, Being inlightned, taſting of the heavenly gift, of the good Word of God, of the powers of the World to come. Sinning wilfully here, is falling away there with him: and the fate and puniſhment of ſuch a wretch here is no ſacrifice for ſin, there in few words it is impoſſible to renew them again to repentance. His wickedneſs in this verſe is threefold, and his judgment in the verſes before threefold alſo.

I. He hath trodden under foot the Son of God. For as the Apoſtaſie generally was from the grace of the Goſpel, to ſeek to be juſtified by their own works, then what need of Chriſt at all? What value is he of to ſuch wretches any more than the mire under their feet? As S. Paul, Act. XIV. was firſt accounted a God, then preſently ſtoned: So theſe wretches uſed Chriſt not much unlike. Firſt, They profeſſed him, embraced him, looked to be juſtified and ſaved by him; preſently they looked to be juſtified by the works of the Law, and caſt away Chriſt, and ſcornfully trample upon him, as a thing altogether uſeleſs.

II. He accounted the blood of the Covenant a thing unholy, or a thing common, as the Greek word moſt ſtrictly ſignifies: Not ſo holy, not ſo valuable, as the blood of Goats and Calves. For that blood was ſhed for ſomething, but this wretch makes Chriſts blood ſhed for nothing. And indeed what was his blood ſhed for, if men can juſtifie and ſave themſelves?

III. He hath done deſpite unto the Spirit of grace: Or hath reproached, deſpiſed the Spirit of grace, and the grace of the Spirit. He is now revolted from that, and expects to be be saved by his actings, and puts a scorn and reproach upon the Spirit of grace. A sad wretch! Look on him, look on his villany, and of how sore punishment do you think him worthy? The Apostle reads his doom.

I. That there is no more sacrifice for his sin, to keep off vengeance, when he hath trod under foot the great sacrifice, and counts the blood of attonement but a common thing.

II. That that could not but follow, when there was no sacrifice for attonement, viz. A fearful expectation of judgment, and firy indignation.

III. That that at last was to seize as sure, and sorer than the punishment of him, that despised Moses Law, who yet died without mercy.

In the words that I have chosen to insist upon, which speaks the second part of this wretches villany, He accounted the blood of the Covenant wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing: A great question is, who is the He that is here said to be sanctified? Doth it mean this wretch himself? He ever sanctified? Ever sanctified by the blood of the Covenant, that he now so undervalues? I am not ignorant what is disputed upon this case; which dispute I shall not take upon me to determine; but the sense of the place it self I suppose, may be otherwise determined without any great difficulty or dispute, viz. that the He here mentioned to be sanctified is the Son of God, mentioned in the clause next preceding. And I should read the two clauses together to this sense, He hath trod under foot the Son, and hath accounted the blood of the Covenant, wherewith He, the Son of God himself was sanctified, an unholy thing. And I am induced to believe, that this is the Apostles meaning in this place, upon these two or three reasons.

First, Because the same Apostle hath much like such an expression in this very Epistle, Chap. XIII. 20. Where he saith, that God brought Christ again from the dead by the blood of the everlasting Covenant. Now if it be proper to say, Christ was raised by the blood of the Covenant, it is not improper to say, Christ was sanctified by the blood of the Covenant. For,

Secondly, As the words both in the Original and your English, do as fairly carry that sense, that I put upon them, in Grammatical construction; so do they in that sense carry a most undeniable truth in Theological Doctrine,

That Christ was sanctified by his own blood.

Not indeed as a Saint of God is sanctified by the blood of Christ, who was once unholy, but by it now is made holy: But as the word signifies to separate, set apart, and capacitate to a holy use or office. As Aaron is said to be sanctified by his cloths, and unction, i. e. set apart, fitted, accomplished for his office, and Priesthood. So Christ sanctified by the blood of the Covenant, i. e. fitted, capacitated to be perfect Mediator. And so,

Thirdly, The Apostle that he may aggravate the sin of this wretch, that he is speaking of, doth enhance the blood of the Covenant by the highest dignity and excellency that is possible to intitle it to. This wretch accounts it an unholy, common, trivial thing: Whereas the Son of God himself was sanctified by it, by it capacitated and fitted to be a perfect Redeemer: An High Priest, who by his own blood entred into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us.

I shall not be urgent with any to entertain and espouse this construction, that I make of the words. If the fairness and probability of the sense I propose, will not speak and plead for it, let it alone, and remember that of the Apostle, Prove all things hold fast that that is good.

But that that I shall insist upon shall be to consider of the meaning of the blood of the Covenant. And in our consideration of that we shall see the infinite preciousness and value of that blood, which yet the wretch in the Text doth so undervalue, that he accounts it but unholy and common; And there are but too few, too few that value it at its proper rate. I need not tell among Christians, that the blood of the Covenant means the blood of Christ, of which such glorious things are spoken in Scripture, viz. that we are washed, redeemed, justified, saved by his blood, the blood of the everlasting Covenant. And this very intimation parts our discourse into two branches, viz. to consider it, as the blood of Christ, and to consider the blood of Christ as the blood of the Covenant.

It is observed by a pious pen, how Malice cankers things where it comes. For those words, Sanguis ejus super nos, &c. His blood be upon us and our children, spoken in a right Christian pious sense, speaks a thing, that a more excellent, happy and desirable cannot be prayed for, viz. The blood of Christ to be upon us, and upon ours, as it is upon all true believers, to wash, clense, justifie, save. But in their cursed, cankered sense the Nation finds it to this day; their direful and doleful infelicity, that the blood of Christ is upon them, as they wished. So there is much spoken, and much of comfort spoken concerning concerning the ſprinkling of Chriſts blood, and the ſprinkling of his blood in that Scripture ſenſe brings all happineſs with it. But take it according to the bare letter there is no ſuch thing, nay there is the contrary in ſome reſpect. Take his blood barely to mean that ſubſtance of his blood, that iſſued from his wounds, as he hung upon the Croſs; and ſome of it was ſprinkled upon the Croſs, and ſome of it ran upon the ground, and what happineſs either to the Croſs or ground from ſuch ſprinkling? Nay, ſome of it was ſprinkled and daſhed upon his murtherers, and proved ſo little happineſs to them, that it made them the more unhappy, nay the moſt unhappy men under Heaven.

Therefore as the Scripture ſaith, The life is in the blood, ſo are we to look for ſomething beſides the bare ſubſtance of his blood, that flowed from him, and beſides the bare flowing of his blood from him; ſomething that was as the life of that blood, that gave it the vigor, virtue and efficacy of juſtifying and ſaving. And what was that? You will ſay, His infinite ſufferings; let me add, His infinite obedience. In both which is concluded the ſuppoſal of the Dignity of his perſon; and the whole is ſpoken.

I ſhall not much inſiſt upon his ſufferings, becauſe his obedience to thoſe ſufferings was the life of thoſe ſufferings, the very life of his death, as I may ſo phraſe it, and that (the Dignity of his Perſon computed in) that gave virtue, vigor, efficacy to his ſufferings, death and blood.

Of his ſufferings I ſhall only ſay thus much, That he ſuffered as much as God could put him to ſuffer, ſhort of his own wrath; and that he ſuffered as much as the Devil could put him to with all his wrath. You will ſay, I ſpeak too high, when I ſay, He ſuffered as much as God could put him to ſuffer; and that I ſpeak too low, when I ſay, ſhort of his own wrath. I dare not ſay, He ſuffered the wrath of God, as many do; but the Prophets and Apoſtles teach me, that he ſuffered the tryings of God. And more he could not be put to ſuffer than what he did It pleaſed the Lord to bruiſe him and to put him to grief; Eſa. LIII. 10. And more could not be laid upon him, than what was laid. Have you ſeriouſly weighed the meaning of thoſe words of our Saviour himſelf, Luke XXII. 53. This is your hour, and power of darkneſs? The plain Engliſh of it is: This is your hour, that God hath let you looſe upon me to do with me what you will without reſtraint: And ſo hath he let looſe upon me the Kingdom of darkneſs in its utmoſt power, at the full length of the chain, to do againſt me the utmoſt it can do. I was daily with you in the Temple, and ye ſtretched out no hands againſt me. For then Providence reſtrained them, becauſe the Hour was not yet come. But this is your hour, and now Hell and all its power, and all its Agents are let looſe againſt him; and Providence does not check them with any reſtraint.

I might inſiſt to ſhew you, that whereas God, from the day of Adams fall, had pitched a combate and field to be fought twixt the Serpent, and the ſeed of the Woman; in which the Serpent ſhould bruiſe his heel, and he break the Serpents head: the hour of that incounter being now come, the Godhead of Chriſt ſuſpends its acting, the providence of God ſuſpends its reſtraining; and lets Satan looſe to do the utmoſt of his power and malice, and leaves Chriſt to ſtand upon the ſtrength of his own unconquerable holineſs. The Providence of God hath the Devil in a chain, yea, as to wicked and ungodly men. Elſe why are they not carried bodily to Hell by him? Why are they not hurried to their own place by him body and ſoul together? But here God let the chain quite looſe: Satan, do thy worſt againſt him, uſe all thy power, rage and malice: but all would not do, for God very well knew what a Champion he had brought into the field to incounter him. And therefore I may very well ſay it again, That God put him to ſuffer as much as he could put him to ſuffer on this ſide his own wrath; and the Devil put him to ſuffer as much as he could do with all his rage and power.

But his ſufferings were not all, that gave his blood and death that virtue, that moſt juſtly is aſcribed to it, of juſtifying and ſaving. The torments that he ſuffered were not the Godfather, that named his blood by that precious Name of juſtifying and ſaving; but it was that infinite Obedience, that he ſhewed in bowing ſo low as to undergo thoſe ſufferings. And there eſpecially does the Scripture lay and lodge the ſtreſs of it, Rom. V. 19. By the obedience of one ſhall many be made righteous. Phil. II. 8. He humbled himſelf, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the Croſs. Heb. V. 8. Though he were a ſon yet learned he obedience, by the things which he ſuffered.

Our Saviour in his ſufferings and death; for to that I will confine my diſcourſe concerning his Obedience, as the Text confines us to treat only of his blood, and as the Scripture more peculiarly lodges his Obedience there. For though he performed Obedience to God all his life, yet the Obedience that he ſhewed to and in the ſhedding of his blood, was the very apex and top-ſtone of his obedience. And for this it is, that I ſcruple to ſay, that he ſuffered the wrath of God in his ſufferings; becauſe it is hard to think, that he lay under the depth of Gods diſpleaſure, when he was now in the higheſt pitch of obeying and pleaſing God. I ſay, That Our Saviour in his ſufferings and death had to deal with God and Satan upon different accounts; with God to satisfie him, with Satan to destroy him. And with one and the same instrument, as I may call it, his Obedience, he effected these contrary effects. As the pillar of fire, Exod. XIV. was darkness to the Egyptians, but light to Israel: So his Obedience was destruction to the Devil, and satisfaction to God.

to

I. Christ was to break the head of the Serpent, as the Serpent had broke the head of Adam and all mankind. He was to conquer the Devil, who had conquered Man. And what was that by which he conquered him? By his divine power as he was God? That had been no great Mastery; for the great God, by his omnipotent power to conquer a creature. When he did but exert a little of his divine power at his apprehension, he made Judas and all his band of Ruffians to go backward, and fall to the ground, Joh. XVIII. 6. But he was to conquer Satan by righteousness, holiness and obedience to God. He had not needed to have been incarnate, to conquer the Devil by his omnipotent divine power; but he was to conquer him, and he did conquer him, by obedience and holiness.

Joh. XIV. 30. The Prince of this World cometh, saith he, and hath nothing in me. And he came with all his forces, all his fury, all his power; and do all he could, he could find nothing in him, that could serve his turn. All that he did or could do, could not move him one hairs bredth from obeying God, and persisting in his holiness. The Apostle in the ninth of this Epistle, vers. 14. saith, He offered himself without spot to God. One spot had spoiled all the offering; but the Devil could not fix one spot upon him, though he flung against him all the sink of Hell: but still he keeps to his obedience and holiness. Vicisti, Galilæe. Julian, a child of the Devil, once said, O Galilæan, thou hast overcome me. The Devil himself hath cause to say so now. The Devil let loose upon him, to do the utmost against him that he could without any restraint, to bring him from his obeying of God, and so to foil him; and all will not do. All the temptations, and tricks, and assaults, that the anvil of Hell could forge and sharpen, were bent and used against him, and all return blunted and avail nothing. All that Satan can do cannot bring from him one repining word for all his tortures, not one desponding thought for all his pangs, not one unbecoming passage for all his passion. But still he will oby God, come what will; he will still retain his holiness and integrity, let Devils and Men do what they will.

Satan, art thou not conquered? O Devil, where is thy power now; O Hell, where is thy victory? Thanks be given to God that hath given us such victory through Jesus Christ our Lord. Satan, thou hast not the first Adam now in handling, who was foiled by one Devil; and in one and the first temptation presented to him. Now all the power and army of Hell is let loose, all the machinations of the bottomless pit put in practise against the second Adam; but all to no purpose; he stands like a rock unmoved in his righteousness and obedience, and by such a death destroys him that had the power over death, the Devil.

II. As the Devil must be conquered, so God must be satisfied. And as Christs obedience did the one work, so it did the other. Obedience was the debt of Adam and mankind; and by disobedience they had forfeited their Bonds. Then comes this great Undertaker, and will satisfie the debt with full interest, yea and measure heaped and running over. Does not the Apostle speak thus much, Rom. V. from vers. 12. forward; particularly at vers. 19. By the disobedience of one man many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous?

Nor was this all, that mans debt must be paid, but Gods honour lay at stake too, and that must be vindicated. God had created man his noblest creature, that he might glorifie and honour his Creator by his obedience, Satan brings him to disobey his Creator, and to obey him. How might Satan here triumph, and the honour of God lie in the dust? I have mastered the chief Creation of God, might Satan boast, and made him, that carried the badge and livery of his image, now to carry mine. I have frustrated the end and honour of the Creator, and now all is mine own. How sad a time were those three hours or thereabouts, that passed betwixt the Fall of Adam, and the promise of Christ?

Adam in darkness, and not the least glimpse of promise or comfort: Satan triumphing, and poor mankind, and Gods honour trampled underfoot. But then the Sun of righteousness arose in the promise, that the seed of the woman should break the head of the Serpent. And shall this uncircumcised Philistin thus defie the honour and armies of the living God, saith Christ; shall Satan thus carry the day against man, and against God? I will pay obedience, that shall fully satisfie to the vindication of Gods honour, to confound Satan; and to the payment of mans debt, to his reinstating and recovery.

And

And that was it that he paid conſummatively in his Obedience to the death, and in it, and to the ſhedding of his blood. Of which to ſpeak in the full dimenſions of the height, depth, length, bredth of it, what tongue can ſuffice, what time can ſerve? Tis a Theme the glorified Saints deſervedly ſing of to all Eternity. I ſhall ſpeak in little of that which can never be extolled enough, theſe two things only.

I. That he died merely out of obedience. The Apoſtle tells us in Phil. II. 8. He became obedient to the death, the death of the Croſs. And what can ye name, that brought him thither but Obedience? Chriſts dead body imagine lies before you. Call together a whole College of Phiſitians to diſſect it, and to tell you what it was of which he died. And their Verdict will be, Of nothing, but Love to man, and Obedience to God. For Principles of death he had none in his nature. And the reaſon of his death lay not in any mortality of his body, as it does in ours, but in the willingneſs of his mind. Nor was his death his wages of ſin, as it is ours, Rom. VI. ult. but it was his choiſe and delight, Luke XII. 50. I have a baptiſm to be baptiſed withal, and how am I ſtraitned till it be accompliſhed? Aſk the firſt Adam, why he ſinned, when he had no principles of ſin in him; and the true anſwer muſt be, Becauſe he would ſin. And ſo aſk the ſecond Adam why he died, when he had no principles of death in him; his anſwer muſt be to the like tenor, He would lay down his life, becauſe he would be obedient to the death.

He came purpoſely into the World, that he might dye. Behold! I tell you a myſtery: Chriſt came purpoſely into the World, that he might dye, and ſo never did Man but himſelf; never will man do, but himſelf. True, that every Man that comes into the World muſt dye, but never Man came purpoſely that he might dye, but only He. And he ſaith no leſs than that he did ſo, Joh. XII. 27. Father, ſave me from this hour, but for this cauſe came I to this hour. And John XVIII. 37. For this cauſe came I into this World, to bear witneſs to the Truth. Even to bear witneſs to the Truth, to Death and Martyrdom.

II. Now add to all this the dignity of his Perſon, who performed this Obedience: that he was God as well as Man. That as he offered himſelf according to his Manhood, ſo he offered himſelf by the Eternal Spirit, or as he was God: as this Apoſtle ſaith, Chap. IX. 14. And now his obedience, his holineſs that he ſhewed in his death is infinite. And what need we ſay more? So that lay all the diſobedience of all men in the World on an heap, as the dead frogs in Egypt were laid on heaps, that they made the land to ſtink again; yet here is an Obedience that out-vies them all. For though they be infinite in number, as to mans numbring, yet lay them all together they are finite upon this account, becauſe committed by creatures finite. But here is an Obedience, a holineſs paid down, by him that is infinite.

And now Satan, where is thy Triumph? Thou broughteſt the firſt Adam to fail of perfect Obedience, that he ſhould have paid his Creator; and here the ſecond Adam hath paid him for it infinite Obedience. And what haſt thou now gained?

Therefore to take account from whence comes that infinite Virtue of Chriſts blood and death, that the Scripture ſo much and ſo deſervedly extols and magnifies: Becauſe, as the Evangeliſt ſaith, Out of his ſide came water and blood, ſo out of his wounds came obedience and blood, holineſs and blood, righteouſneſs and blood; and that obedience, holineſs, righteouſneſs infinite: becauſe he that paid it down and performed it was infinite.

And now judge, whether it may not very properly be ſaid, That Chriſt was ſanctified by his own blood? As Aaron was ſanctified for his Prieſthood by his Unction and Garments. Chriſt was conſecrated, fitted, capacitated by his infinite obedience and righteouſneſs, which he ſhewed to the death, and in it, to be an High Prieſt, able to ſave to the uttermoſt all thoſe that come to him.

For firſt as in reference to himſelf, it is ſaid by this Apoſtle, that he was raiſed from the dead by the blood of the Covenant, Chap. XIII. 20. And it was not poſſible but he ſhould be raiſed: for when he had performed ſuch obedience and righteouſneſs, as in it was infinite, in its validity ſubdued Satan, in its alſufficiency ſatisfied the juſtice of God, it was impoſſible that he ſhould be held of death, which is the wages of ſin and diſobedience. And as he was thus raiſed by the virtue of his blood, i. e. of his obedience and righteouſneſs, ſo ſee what the ſame Apoſtle ſaith of his Exaltation, Phil. II. 8, &c. And being found in faſhion as a man, he humbled himſelf, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the Croſs. Wherefore God alſo hath highly exalted him, and given him a Name which is above every Name. That at the Name of JESUS every knee ſhould bow, &c.

And think here, Chriſtian, what a ſtock of obedience and righteouſneſs here is for thee, to anſwer and ſatisfie for thy diſobedience and unrighteouſneſs, if thou become a child of the Covenant, as this blood was the blood of the Covenant. It is ſaid in Dan. IX. 26. That Meſſiah ſhould be cut off, but not for himſelf. This blood of the New Teſtament was not ſhed for himſelf, but for many. And here is enough for every ſoul, that comes to him, be they never ſo many: Like the Widdows oyl in the Book of the Kings, there is enough and enough again, as long as any Veſſel is brought to receive it.

And this may direct us toward the forming of the reliance of our Faith upon the blood of Chriſt, the great work that a Chriſtian hath to do for his Juſtification and Salvation. Which will be the more cleared to us, by conſidering how his blood is the blood of the Covenant. Which is the next thing we ſhould ſpeak to, had we time to do it.

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED UPON

HEBREWS XIII. 10.

We have an Altar whereof they have no right to eat, which ſerve the Tabernacle.

THERE is one that asks our Saviour, Good Maſter, what good thing ſhall I do that I may have eternal life? Mat. XIX. 16. And another that asks his great Apoſtle, What muſt I do to be ſaved? Act. XVI. 30. The queſtions mean one and the ſame thing, but only propoſed in different expreſſions. And the anſwers tend to one and the ſame purpoſe, though propoſed in terms very different. Our Saviour anſwers, If thou wilt enter into life keep the Commandments. The Apoſtle anſwers, If thou wilt be ſaved, believe on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. The one propoſeth Faith, the other propoſeth Good works; not in ſuch contrariety as the Apoſtle James ſpeaks of Faith and Works, Chap. III. but in ſuch conſonancy as that the one is ſubſervient unto the other, keeping of the Commandments towards the bringing on of Faith, and Faith to the breeding and forwarding the keeping of the Commandments, and both to obtain eternal life.

I will ſpeak at preſent of the abſolute neceſſity of Faith for the obtaining eternal life; and therefore have I choſen theſe words, which I have read to you, which ſeem at firſt ſight to be meer ſtrangers to ſuch a ſubject, but when explained and rightly underſtood, are very pertinent to ſuch a matter. I ſay rightly underſtood, for there are many, the Popiſh Expoſitors eſpecially, that underſtand them exceedingly wrong, and as far from the Apoſtles meaning as likely can be.

By we have a Altar, they underſtand the Altar in their Churches, viz. the Table where they adminiſter the Sacrament, and thence they call the Sacrament, The Sacrament of the Altar. A title that hath been too common in England, and which hath coſt many a good man very dear. The Lord grant the title be never known here any more. But the title of the Altar is commonly known among us ſtill; and ask many why they call it an Altar, they will be ready to produce this place of the Apoſtle, We have an Altar. As if the Apoſtle, who had been crying down the ſervice and ſacrifices of the Altar all along this Epiſtle, and ſhewed that they were but ſhadows, and to vaniſh when the ſubſtance appeared, ſhould ſet them up again; and build up anew, what he had ſo earneſtly ſet himſelf to deſtroy. As if Gedeon that deſtroyed the Altar of Baal in the night, ſhould fall awork in the morning and build it up again.

But the Altar in the Apoſtles meaning here is Chriſt himſelf. And as he had called him an High Prieſt, and a Sacrifice along in the Epiſtle before, ſo he calls him alſo the Altar here; ſhewing that all thoſe things did but repreſent him, and that he was the ſubſtance and reality of thoſe ſhadows. He ſhews how he was the Great High Prieſt in the later end of the fourth, and along the fifth Chapter. He ſhews how he was the great Sacrifice in the ninth and tenth Chapters; and how he was the great Altar, he ſhews at this place, We have an Altar.

And that he means Chriſt by the Altar is apparent by two things, that follow, to omit more, that might be collected by the context.

The firſt is, in the words immediately following, For thoſe beaſts whoſe blood was brought by the High Prieſt into the holy place for ſin, their bodies were burnt without the Camp. Therefore Jeſus alſo that he might ſanctifie the people with his own blood, ſuffered without the gate. His argumentation is this: The great ſolemn Sacrifice for ſin on the day of attonement was not burnt upon the Altar in the Temple, but was burnt without the City; ſo Chriſt

Christ was sacrificed without the gate; so that whosoever will partake of that true Sacrifice for sin, must go to the Altar there, and not to the Altar within the Temple.

And in the next verse but one he shews yet more plainly that he means Christ by our Altar, ver. 13. Therefore by him let us offer the sacrifice of praise continually to God. As on the Altar in the Temple they offered their Sacrifices and Thank-offerings, so by him, as on our Altar, Let us offer our sacrifice of praise to God.

So that in the words you have an Affirmative assertion, and a Negative. The Affirmative, That we have Christ for our Altar. The Negative, That they that serve the Tabernacle have no right to eat of this Altar. The Affirmative comfortable to every true Christian; the later seems comfortless for every true Jew. The reason of the Negative assertion we may inquire more particularly into afterwards. To the former to speak at present, we take up this Observation from it;

That he that will offer any sacrifice acceptable to God, must go to Christ as the true Altar, on which to offer it. No sacrifice among the Israelites could be accepted if it were not offered on the Temple-altar. And it was Gods special command, Thou shalt not offer thy sacrifice in any of thy Cities, but shalt go to the Altar of the Lord thy God in the place which he shall chuse. Nor can any sacrifice be acceptable to God of any Christian, but what is offered to him upon the Altar of his appointment, the Lord Christ, where alone is attonement for sinners. As Priesthood and Sacrifice were typical, and signified to this purpose, so also was the Altar of the same signification. And whereas there were two Altars at the Temple, one for Sacrifice, the other for Incense, they did both but represent Christ and his acting in his two great works, viz. His offering himself a sacrifice by his death, and his offering the continual incense of his mediation. And how methodically did the representation proceed suitable to the reality? For first the Priest offered the Sacrifice upon the Altar, and then went in within the Tabernacle, and offered incense. So Christ first offered himself at his death, and then went into the highest Heaven to make Intercession.

The Papists in their Mass take upon them to offer Christ as a Propitiatory sacrifice for quick and dead. So they are the Altar, and Christ is the offering. But we learn better, to make Christ the Altar, and we our selves, and our services the offering offered upon it.

For the clearing of the thing before us, and to reduce these words of the Apostle to a Doctrine of Faith, whither he intends them, let us premise these four things.

I. That every Christian hath three spiritual Sacrifices to offer to God, Himself, his Devotions and Religious services, and his good works and Religious walking. 1. Himself, Rom. XII. 1, 2. I beseech you Brethren, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God. 2. His prayers, Devotions and Religious services, Mal. I. 11. In every place incense shall be offered unto my Name, and a pure offering. And, 3. His holy walking, 16 ver. of this Chapter, To do good and to communicate forget not, for with such sacrifice God is well pleased. Christ is to be offered to God no more, as Papists take on them to offer him every Mass; but man is to offer himself to God, the only sacrifice that God now requireth. Now,

II. On what Altar is this spiritual Sacrifice to be offered, and presented to God? On some spiritual Altar, as it is a spiritual offering. Those Sacrifices that were earthly and material required an earthly and material Altar; but those that were spiritual must be offered on some spiritual Altar; else the manner of offering them contradicts their nature. Now what the Apostle speaks concerning the Rock in the Wilderness, The Rock was Christ; so we may say concerning the Altar under the Gospel, The Altar is Christ. In the Law the offering was to be put into the hands of a Priest, or it could not be accepted; so our services are to be put into the hands of Christ to be presented to God, else no acceptance. And the sacrifice was to be laid upon the Altar, or it could not be accepted; so must ours be laid on the altar Christ, or no acceptance. For,

III. The Altar must sanctifie the Sacrifice to make it acceptable; and so our Saviour tells, Mat. XXIII. 19. It was not enough that the Sacrifice was a clean Beast, and not unclean, nor that it was without fault or blemish to make it an acceptable Sacrifice. But it must be laid upon the Altar, for that to sanctifie it, and to make it a right Sacrifice.

IV. And here I cannot but take up the Jewish Doctors most true and pertinent explication of that point about the Altars sanctifying the gift, viz. The Altar sanctified that that was fit for it. The Altar could not sanctifie an unclean Beast, a Dog or an Ass, or a Cat, to make it a Sacrifice, but only a Beast that was clean. And if the Beast were a clean Beast in his nature, yet if he had faults or blemishes, the Altar did not sanctifie him for a fit Sacrifice; but it sanctified only that that was fit for it.

By all which laid together we may learn and observe the great Doctrine of Faith, about our acceptance with God only by Christ. Which to view particularly, let us begin from this.

First,

First, None can come to God to find acceptance with him, but he must first give himself into the hand of Christ to bring him to God for acceptance. The Apostle tells us that all acceptance is in the Beloved, and to be expected no other way, Ephes. I. 6. This is the great mystery of the Gospel. For the want of which duly owned, Turks and Jews are at loss, and are lost from God for ever. They both pretend for Religion, pretend for Heaven; but they both miss the door by which alone they are to enter, and so are excluded eternally, missing of Christ, by whom only we come there. Our Saviour indeed speaks of entring, and getting into the sheepfold some other way than at the door, but he saith, they are thieves and robbers. His meaning is of false teachers, that can find a way to creep into the sheepfold, the Church, to seduce and destroy the sheep, some other way than at the right door. But whosoever will get either into Heaven, or indeed into the true and sincere Religion that leadeth thither, must enter by Christ the Door, or he will never come there. Joh. XIV. 6. I am the Way, the Truth and the Life, none can come to the Father but by me. Consider of that, I am so the Way that none can come to the Father but by me. Then sure the Papists are out of the way, as well as Turks and Jews, when they think to come to God by the mediation of Saints and Angels. None can come to God but by me, saith our Saviour; but I can come to God, saith a Papist, by the Virgin Mary, by Peter, Paul, and the mediation of other Saints in Heaven. Certainly they must have some nice distinction here, or they contradict Christ to his face, and take his honour and give it to another.

Heb. VII. 25. Christ having an unfailing Priesthood is able to save to the uttermost those that come to God by him. If you come to God you must come by him; and that only is the way to be saved. But if you expect to come to God by any other means whatsoever, you are out of the way and will be lost. 1 Pet. III. 18. Christ suffered once for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God. If there were any other way to come to God than by Christ, the death of Christ was but to little purpose, and our believing in him to as little. And we may justly say with the Apostle, 1 Cor. XV. 14. Our preaching is in vain, and your faith is also vain. It is said of Christ, that he is a Priest for ever after the order of Melchizedek, Psal. CX. Though he died and offered himself the great Sacrifice for sinners; yet he is a Priest for ever, still offering sacrifice to God; but no more himself, but his peoples sacrifice; And that offering is twofold, viz. offering the persons of his people to God, as an acceptable living sacrifice; and offering their services, as an acceptable spiritual sacrifice to God. Of the former you have testimony from his own words, Isa. VIII. 18. Behold I and the children which the Lord hath given me. Of the later, Revel. VIII. 3. where you read of his offering the prayers of all Saints upon the Golden Altar, which was before the Throne.

What the manner of Christs mediation is, is too curious to inquire after; but what the matter of his mediation is, these two things make evident, viz. his presenting his people to Gods acceptance; and his presenting their services to the like acceptance. For what acceptance can any soul under Heaven find upon his own account? What can a man do toward his own justification before God? Job VII. 20. I have sinned, what shall I do unto thee? A very pertinent question. A man is so little able to find acceptance with God of himself, that he may rather stand amazed, that ever sinful men do find acceptance. The Apostle accounts it not an ordinary thing, to comprehend with all Saints the bredth and length, and depth and height of this mystery. Ephes. III. 18.

Before Christ, a Mediator, was set up, imagin how Adam could deal with God to find acceptance with him, after he was now become sinful Adam. Nay it is not easie to conceive how he dealt with God, even while innocent. For certainly it was his duty to pray in his innocency; thereby to shew his dependance on God; but upon what interest to pray, when he had no Mediator, is something difficult to apprehend. But after he was fallen, and Christ not yet promised, those three hours that he lay in darkness before the promise of Christ came to him: How could he then pray to God, and upon what account beg his pardon? But I need not to use many words to shew the need of Christ a Mediator.

Secondly, This that we have spoken concerning the Altar may give us some measure and scantling, how to come to Christ and believe in him for acceptance, viz. to relie upon him intirely for our acceptance with God; as the Israelite cast himself intirely upon the Priests offering, and the Altar sanctifying his gift, that it might be acceptable.

If there may be any distinction made betwixt coming to Christ, and believing in him (which indeed may very well signifie the same thing) let us observe it here, and observe it upon the comparison before us about the Altar.

An Israelite comes and brings a sacrifice along with him to the Priest and Altar, and prays him, I pray, Sir, offer this to God for me for acceptance. You must first observe the nature and quality of his sacrifice, whether it be fit for the Priest to meddle with, and for the Altar to receive upon it. I remember a distinction the Jews have in their writings tings concerning a first-born child, viz. that he may be fit for the inheritance, but not fit for the Priest, that is, may have some blemish or defect that he may not be fit to be consecrate to God, as the first-born ought to be; yet may be fit enough to inherit his Fathers land. A man may be fair and fit for this and that employment in earthly things, and very useful in his place and station, when in the mean while he may be little fit for Christs employment or receiving. An Israelite brings a Dog, Cat, &c. to the Priest, and entreats him to offer that upon the Altar for him. Was this a fit offering for the Altar? Could the Altar with all its holiness sanctifie such a gift as that? Antiochus the wretch when he offered Swines flesh upon the Altar, it was to defile the Altar, and not for the Altar to sanctifie the Sacrifice.

This shews what kind of person he must be that goes to Christ to desire him to present his person an acceptable sacrifice with God, and that he may find favour with him. He must bring him a clean sacrifice, or no coming there. In Isa. LXVI. 3. where the Prophet speaking about abolishing the Jewish Sacrifice under the Gospel, he saith, He that killeth an Ox is as if he slew a man; he that sacrificeth a Lamb is as if he cut off a Dogs neck; and he that offereth an oblation as if he offered Swines blood. Think not that when offering of clean beasts is ceased, offering of unclean will be accepted. Men think to obtain acceptance and favour from God through Christ at an easie rate, and with a little ado, when there is more in it than they conceive. They must first be such as are fit for Christ to own, and to present to his Father a sacrifice, fit to be offered to God upon his Altar, and not a Dog or Swine. The Apostle tells us how to come to this our Altar, Heb. X. 22. Let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water. It is the custom in our University, that when any one presents another to the Vice-Chancellor and University for the taking of any degree, he undertakes to them, that he is fit for such a degree. Christ never presented any to his Father to graduate him in his acceptance and favour, but such an one as was qualified and fit for that acceptance. When I say fit, I mean not out of merit, but so qualified as God requires those to be qualified that he will accept.

A thing very well worth the deep consideration of us all, that we be not deceived concerning believing in Christ, as too many are deceived. Who is he among us, but he thinks at one time or other so to believe in Christ as shall serve his turn for salvation; while in the mean while he walks in the clean contrary way to believing? To believe in Christ is indeed to relye upon him for salvation, but it is relying upon him on such conditions as Christ will admit of; not at a mans own pleasure. A man takes on him to get to Christ, through him to find acceptance of God, though his tongue be full of vanity, hands of filthiness, heart of evil, life of profaneness; yet through Jesus Christ our Lord he hopes to speed well enough. It is true indeed, that there is no other name under Heaven, whereby acceptance with God is to be found; but this man does no better than bring a Dog or a Swine to be offered on the Sacred Altar, when he thinks that Christ will present such a filthy beast as he for a person to be accepted of God. No, Wash you, make you clean, put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes. Cease to do evil, learn to do well. And then come to the Altar, and you may hope for acceptance.

Those that Christ presents to his Father are such, as of whom he is not ashamed, Heb. II. 11. and XI. 16. But would not Christ be ashamed to present a Dog or a Swine, a filthy and ugly sacrifice to his Father, a wretch that is all dirt and filth, and pollution, and wallows in it still, and will not out of it?

He in the Law that must come nigh the Altar, must wash himself in water, and change his garments, or he must not come to offer there. The application is so easie that I need not to insist upon it. And by this very thing we may observe two things.

I. That reliance upon Christ comes not into date, till a man do the best he can to fit himself to be a sacrifice for that Altar. The Altars sanctifying of the gift came not in date, till the offering was fit for the Altar. There must be these concurrents, First, It must be of the clean kinds of Beasts or Birds, Oxen or Sheep, or Goats, Sparrows, Pigeons, or Turtles; not Dog, Cat, Ass, Bear, not a Crow, Raven, Owl, or Vultur. Then it must be viewed by some skilful person, that it be without blemish, as well as that it be clean, viz. That it be not a blind Bullock, or Lamb, that it be not broken, diseased, &c. And lastly, the Offerers free-will and mind in his offering must be concurrent. And thus qualified it was fit for the Altar, and the Altar sanctified it. Now was there all this care about the offering of a beast upon a material Altar of brass or stone; and is not as much at least required for the offering of a souls own self on Christ the Altar? Must any thing polluted or unclean come near that Altar?

Faith in Christ is not so easie a matter as men take it for; a man must first do all he can in purifying himself, before he can believe. For his believing is his refuging to Christ, to make out for him, when he sees he cannot do it himself.

And by this appears the vast difference 'twixt the believing of a Jew, and the faith of a true a true Chriſtian. The Jew as he thought performed the Law, and believed that he ſhould be juſtified by his performance, and looked no further. A true Chriſtian obſerves the Law the beſt he can, but when he hath done all, he finds himſelf but an unprofitable ſervant, and that he comes infinitely ſhort of Juſtification by all he can; therefore caſts himſelf upon Chriſt to ſatisfie for him. The ſacrifices of God are a broken heart, a broken and a contrite ſpirit, O God, thou wilt not deſpiſe, Pſal. LI. 17. Under the Law nothing that was broken or bruiſed was to be offered; under the Goſpel no heart but broken or bruiſed, is to be offered. And whereupon bruiſed and broken? not only upon ſight of the evil they have committed, but alſo upon ſenſe how little they can do of good, when they have done their beſt. And then lay ſuch an heart upon the Altar, Chriſt and the Altar ſanctifies the gift, and makes out for it.

Brethren, take heed you be not deceived about Faith, by which you muſt ſtand or fall to all eternity. It is more than fancy, or thinking or hoping you ſhall be ſaved by Chriſt, it is more than taking on you to pray in the name of Chriſt, more than begging mercy for the ſake of Chriſt. It is working and labouring in the way of Gods Commandments till you be weary and heavy laden; and then reſting your ſelves in Chriſt for ſafety and refreſhing. It is doing your duty all you can, and ſtill leaning on Chriſt to make out all failings for you. It is that that muſt bring up the reer of your beſt endeavours. As Simon of Cyrene was laid hold upon to bear the Croſs of Chriſt after him, when it was too heavy for him. So on the contrary lay hold on Chriſt, and get him to bear your burthen for you, when you your ſelves are not able to bear it.

II. By this alſo we may obſerve the abſolute neceſſity of keeping Gods Commandments for ſalvation, as well as the abſolute neceſſity of faith for ſalvation, and the amicable and indeed unſeparable agreement 'twixt theſe two. It is impoſſible to find acceptance with God for juſtification and ſalvation, unleſs by faith in Chriſt we be preſented as living ſacrifices upon him, the Altar. And it is impoſſible to be fit ſacrifices for that Altar, unleſs by keeping the Commandments of God we be purified and fitted. For as Faith purifieth the heart where it is once come, Act. XV. 9. So keeping the Commandments of God is purifying the heart, that Faith may come. Conſider of that, 1 Pet. I. 22. Seeing you have purified your hearts in obeying of the truth. Now what is obeying of the truth, but doing what God in the word of truth directeth and commandeth? and this alſo purifieth the heart toward believing, as Faith doth, when a man now believes.

And thus believing and obeying are ſo twiſted together, that without keeping of Gods Commandments the beſt you can, you cannot come by Faith; and Faith when it is come, it cannot be without keeping of Gods Commandments the beſt you can. For as to the former we may not unproperly apply thoſe words of the Apoſtle, Gal. III. 23. For before faith came we were kept under the Law, ſhut up unto the faith which ſhould afterwards be revealed. And as to the later, that in Jam. II. 26. As the body without the ſpirit is dead, ſo faith without works is dead alſo.

And now to make ſome Application upon what hath been ſpoken, and to take up the words in order.

Firſt, From the title here given to our Saviour, that he is our Altar, upon and through whom to offer our ſelves, and all our ſervices to God, we may obſerve that the bare offering of Chriſt himſelf upon the Croſs is not the all that a Chriſtian hath to look after for his ſalvation, but he himſelf is alſo to offer himſelf through Chriſt to God. Chriſt was a dying ſacrifice, a Chriſtian muſt be a living; and as Chriſt voluntarily offered himſelf to God, ſo is he alſo to do in his place and ſtation. How oft do we find in Scripture that the death of Chriſt doth challenge our dying to ſin, and not living to our ſelves, 1 Cor. V. 7. Purge out the old leaven that ye may be a new lump, for even Chriſt our Paſſover is ſacrificed for us. 2 Cor. V. 15. And that he died for all, that they which live ſhould not henceforth live unto themſelves, but unto him that died for them. And ſo there are divers other places to the like tenor.

The obedience of Chriſt does not diſſolve the obedience of a Chriſtian, but enhance it. For his obedience was not to diſannul our obedience, but to challenge it, to love him who loved us firſt. His offering himſelf was to lead us the way, and to teach and engage us to offer our ſelves alſo. He to die according to the will of God, and we to live according to his will; that is, to die unto ſin, and to live unto righteouſneſs.

Secondly, Now ſince every one that is accepted of God is to be preſented to him as a ſacrifice offered through Chriſt, as the moſt Sacred Altar, it may give us juſt cauſe daily to examine our ſelves, how fit we are to be preſented to that Altar, and from that Altar to God. The Sacrifice under the Law was to be examined, whether it were fit or no, by one that was skilful in ſuch a ſcrutiny. The work now under the Goſpel muſt be our own; every one to examine his own heart, ſince the heart ſhould be that that is chiefly offered.

And

And let our hearts ſpeak to us, if they will but learn to ſpeak truth, how many of us, think we, are fit for the hands of Chriſt to preſent us at his own Altar, and to offer us to his Father? Will his pure and moſt holy hands meddle with any thing that is impure and filthy, to bring us to his Altar? A man is worldly and covetous, filthy and laſcivious, cruel and envious; is ſuch a beaſt, ſuch an unclean beaſt fit for Chriſt to hand to his Altar, to make him a ſacrifice to God? Do we believe that ever he will or can ſay to his Father, Father, I preſent this filthy man to thee, to be accepted of thee, as a well pleaſing ſacrifice? Who of us would be willing that Chriſt ſhould preſent us to God, to take us as we are, and deal with us as we deſerve? Who of us can think that we are ſuch, as that Chriſt may call us Brother or Siſter, or Mother, and commend us unto Gods acquaintance and favour under ſuch titles?

Let us compare the caſe with thoſe the Apoſtle ſpeaks of here, that have no right to eat of our Altar, viz. thoſe that ſerve the Tabernacle of the Levitical Prieſthood. And why have they no right?

I. It may be ſaid, they had no right to eat of the ſin-offering of attonement; for that was all to be burnt, and nothing to be eaten of it, as the Apoſtle toucheth immediately after. Now in this regard the parallel will not hold, becauſe Chriſt was not conſumed as that ſin-offering was; but he was ſacrificed that he might be eaten, or ſpiritually fed upon.

II. What the Prieſts did eat of the Sacrifices, they ate within the verge of the Temple, and might not bring thoſe holy things out of the holy ground. But as the Apoſtle tells here, Chriſt was ſacrificed without the Gate, whether it was not lawful for them to come to eat any ſacrifice. But this, I believe, is not the reaſon why the Apoſtle ſaith, They had no right to eat of the Altar that we have.

III. The Jews have a tenet, which is conſiderable, and not impertinent, כהנים אוכלים ובעלים מתכפרים The Prieſts eating of the Sacrifices was for expiation of them that offered them. It is very true, that God allowed the Prieſts ſuch and ſuch parts of the beaſt ſacrificed, for their diet and maintenance. But that was not all, but there was ſome religious concern in their eating them, viz. for the benefit of the offerer. Now if you take the Apoſtle ſpeaking in reference to this matter, the Prieſts that ſerved the Tabernacle could not eat of the Altar or Sacrifice that we have under any ſuch notion. For the offering of Chriſt, as it was not by men but by himſelf and God; ſo the feeding on him cannot benefit either them, or any other, but him only that feeds on him.

IV. Therefore the Apoſtles reference is to the Prieſts very ſerving in the Tabernacle; that they themſelves that ſtood upon thoſe Sacrifices and ſervices in the Temple, as ſufficient enough to attone for ſin, by that very conceit outed themſelves out of benefit by Chriſt our Altar, who is the only attonement; and they that can feed upon any other way of attonement have nothing to do with him.

We cannot but be affected with the expreſſion of Having no right to eat of our Altar, as a very doleful accent, which ſpeaks having no right at all to Chriſt. Which very ſound may make a heart to tremble. No right to Chriſt? No portion in the Son of God? The very mention of the thing may juſtly move us to the examination of our ſelves, whether we think we have any portion in him, yea or no. Take heed it be not with too many, as it was with the Church, Rev. III. that ſaid, I am rich, and encreaſed in riches, and want nothing, whereas ſhe was wretched, and miſerable, and poor, and blind, and naked. Take heed that we think not we have ſhare in Chriſt, and have none at all; and that we periſh not with ſuch a dead child in our boſoms, ſuch a fancy and deluſion in our hearts.

Look upon theſe men that ſerved the Tabernacle; they are men that are careful and attendant upon their ſervice, blameleſs in their lives, zealous in their Religion, and fervently looking after attonement and ſalvation. And yet becauſe they relyed upon their ſervices, and thought to be ſaved by the very works they did, they miſs of Faith, and ſo miſs of Chriſt, and have no right in him; and ſo periſh from him for ever and ever. How many of us have gone ſo far in a religious way as we may ſuppoſe theſe men to have gone, and ſought for juſtification and ſalvation ſo earneſtly as they have done, have been ſo conſtant in devotion and duty, as they have been? and yet they had no right in Chriſt. What juſt fears may this create in us that we alſo have no right at all in him?

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

LUKE XV. 7.

I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in Heaven over one sinner that repenteth more than over ninety and nine just persons, that need no repentance.

THE occasion of these words is at vers. 1, 2. where the Evangelist tells us, that all the Publicans and Sinners came unto our Saviour to hear him. Which is something strange to hear. For it was much, that any such came to him; but exceeding much, that all should come. And not a much unlike expression you have at vers. 1. of Chap. XII. Ἐπισυναχθεισῶν τῶν μυριάδων, that Tens of thousands of the multitude, or common people, were gathered to him: twenty thousand at least according to the strict propriety of the Greek expression. Which was a very vast company.

But if you observe the beginning of the Tenth Chapter, it gives light to these stories. A little above half a year before our Saviours death, he sends forth Seventy Disciples by two and two to every City, and Town, and Place, whether he himself was to come. These were to certifie the people of his Person, that he was Messias; and to certifie them of his coming to them, and to prepare them for the receiving of him against he should come. This raises vast multitudes to harken to him, hearing of Messias coming, and knowing where to meet him. And amongst others a very great and general conflux of Publicans and Sinners, men of an infamous name, and scandalous conversation among the Nation. The Scribes and Pharisees quarrel our Saviour for entertaining such and conversing with them. An evil business, but proves occasion of good, and light ariseth out of that darkness.

For thereupon our Saviour proposeth the three Parables of this Chapter. And in them transmits comfort to all posterity that should repent, and encouragement to all to repentance. The words of the Text are the Application of the first Parable. As a man that hath lost one sheep out of a flock of an hundred, rejoyceth more for the finding again that one that was lost, than for the ninety and nine, that went not astray. So I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in Heaven over one sinner that repenteth more than, &c.

In the words you see there are two assertions. The one, Positive, the other Comparative. The Positive, That there is joy in Heaven over one sinner that repenteth. The Comparative, That there is more joy in Heaven over one sinner that repenteth, than over ninety nine just persons, &c. The former something strange, but very comfortable. The later more strange, and something difficult.

It is something to hear of joy in Heaven for a sinners repentance. But more strange to hear of any men on Earth, that need no repentance. There is nothing but joy in Heaven, and one would think enough and enough again in the fruition of God. It may seem something strange, that any addition should be made to it by the conversion of men. And it were no great news to hear of ninety nine thousand, that did not repent, but strange news to hear of any one person that needed no repentance. The wisest of Men tells us, That there is not a just Man upon Earth that doth good and sinneth not, Eccles. VII. 2. And then is there a just Man upon Earth, that needeth no repentance for his sinning? And the Apostle James assures us in Chap. III. 2. That in many things we offend all: and that very thing may assure us, that we have need to repent of many things.

For

For the apprehending of the meaning of our Saviour in this Compariſon, we may obſerve, that he ſpeaks either by way of oppoſition to ſomething in the opinion of thoſe, to whom he ſpeaks; or directly in reference to the Perſons of whom he ſpeaks.

I. It was common with the Nation of the Jews to diſtinguiſh juſt Men into two ſorts. Thoſe that had been ſinners, but had repented, and were become new Men; theſe they acknowledged to be juſt Men in compariſon of wicked Men, and in compariſon of what themſelves had been before. But thoſe that had not been ſinners, and faulty, and vitious Men, but had led a fair courſe of life all their time, like that young Man, Matth. XIX. that had kept all the Commandments from his youth: theſe Men they account חסידים good or holy Men, and צדיקים גמורים perfectly juſt Men. And oh! How far were theſe beyond thoſe Men, that had needed repentance? How they ſpeak plainly and copiouſly to this Tenor in their writings, it were eaſie to produce. I ſhall give you but two inſtances according to the two things I mention, viz. Their making ſuch a diſtinction, and their under-ranking Men of repentance below the other. As to the firſt.

I. At the Feaſt of Tabernacles, while the Temple ſtood, the Elders and Grandees of the Nation uſed to dance in the Temple every night, and to ſing theſe Songs. Some of them this, Bleſſed be my youth, that hath no way ſhamed my old age. Theſe were חסידים (ſay they) good and holy Men; and that had been Men of good works מעקרא from their firſt ſprouting, or growing. The other ſung this, Bleſſed be my old age, that hath made amends, and expiated for my youth. And theſe, they ſay, were בעלי תשובה Men of repentance. And,

II. How far they undervalued theſe Penitents and Repentance below the other, they ſpeak in their interpretation of thoſe words, Eſa. LXIV. 4. From the beginning of the World Men have not heard, nor perceived by the Ear, neither hath the Eye ſeen, O God, beſides thee, what he hath prepared for him, that waiteth for him. The good things, ſay they, that the Prophets propheſied of, were for Men of Repentance, and thoſe things were revealed to the Prophets: but the things that are laid up for thoſe that are perfectly Juſt, never Prophets Eye ſaw, nor Ear heard, nor were they ever known to any but God. This diſtinction the Apoſtle alludes to, Rom. V. 7. For ſcarcely for a righteous Man will one dye: that is, for one that is barely a righteous Man by repenting himſelf of his unrighteous ways: yet peradventure for a good Man ſome will venture to dye; that is, for one that is perfectly juſt from the beginning, and that needeth no repentance.

They do indeed prefer Repentance before perfect righteous ones in this one regard, that Penitents have taſted the pleaſures and ſweet of ſin, and have forſaken them, and caſt them off: when it is doubtful, ſay they, whether thoſe perfect righteous ones would have done ſo, if they had taſted the pleaſures of Sin, as the others did. Yet howſoever they account it better always to have been of a holy converſation, than once to have been unholy, though now become holy. And better never to have needed repentance, than to have needed it, and betaken to it.

And if you underſtand our Saviour as facing this Opinion of theirs, there is no difficulty in his words, but they are plain and eaſie. As if he ſhould thus ſpeak out at large. You think your ſelves very righteous, and that ye need no repentance, and therefore ye deſpiſe theſe poor creatures, Publicans and Sinners, as men of a hopeleſs and deſperate condition; but I ſay unto you, There is more joy in Heaven over ſuch an one repenting, than over an hundred ſuch as you conceive your ſelves to be, not needing any repentance at all.

II. Or doth our Saviour ſpeak of thoſe that have been Good, not in their own conceit, but indeed and in reality, from the very firſt, and never run into any extravagancies from a child? As Joſiah ſought the Lord from eight years old, and ſo continued; and as Timothy trained up in piety from a child: and as others, that have been ſo happy as to remember their Creator in the days of their youth; and have begun to be pious, and ſo have continued from their cradle. Doth our Saviour ſpeak of ſuch as theſe on the one hand, as well as he ſpeaks of ſinners, that come at laſt to repent on the other? Is there more joy in Heaven for a penitent Thief upon the Croſs, that had been a vilain to that very time, than for a good Obadiah, that had feared God from his youth? More joy in Heaven for a Mary Magdalene repenting, who had been an arrant ſtrumpet a long time, than for a holy Hannah, that had never trod awry? It ſeems ſo by the Parable of the Prodigal and his elder Brother: more joy for the return of that mad, rambling, debauched, vitious fellow, than for his elder brother, who had ever kept at home with his father, and never tranſgreſſed his commands. And how the Parable may admit this conſtruction we ſhall obſerve afterwards.

However though as to the compariſon, there may be ſome difficulty, and about the Perſon that is ſaid to need no repentance: yet as to the Poſitive, and about a ſinner that repents, there is no ſcruple at all. And ſo we will ſpeak to that eſpecially; and ſpeak to the Compariſon, as occaſion offers it ſelf. The Poſitive being this:

There

There is joy in Heaven for a ſinner that repenteth. Joy in Heaven when a ſinner repenteth? Or, for a ſinner that repenteth? When we have wondred a while at the thing it ſelf, then we may aſk, Joy among whom?

And truly we have very juſt cauſe to wonder at the thing it ſelf. And it is as feeling a paſſage as likely we can meet with in all the Scripture, Joy in Heaven upon a ſinners repenting. How then may you conſtrue that expreſſion, Well done, good and faithful ſervant, enter into thy Maſters joy? Mutual joy, thou rejoycing in thy Maſter, and thy Maſter rejoycing in thee. The good ſervant by his very repentance rejoycing his Lord, as well as his ſalvation with his Lord rejoycing him. I cannot but think of that paſſage concerning the Eunuch, Act. VIII. That when he was converted and baptized, he went away rejoycing. And there was rejoycing in Heaven for it by our Saviours relation here, as well as there was with him on earth: one deep calling upon another through the noiſe of the waterpipes. And like two Lutes tuned in Union, the very ſame ſtring of joy ſounding in Heaven, that was ſtruck here upon Earth. Not much unlike the ſtile of that paſſage, What ye bind on Earth ſhall be bound in Heaven.

We read of ſome, that upon reading or hearing ſome particular Texts of Scripture have been converted, and become new men. So was S. Auſtin by reading a verſe or two in Rom. XIII. Junius by reading three or four verſes of Joh. I. And ſo others by others.

Now can you find a more winning, melting, piercing paſſage almoſt any where in all the Bible than this, if we well conſider of it, There is joy in Heaven over a ſinner that repenteth? That for yours, or mine or any of our repentances, there ſhould be joy in Heaven? Alas! if we were all in Hell, what were Heaven the worſe for it? And yet that it ſhould be joyful news to Heaven, if we repent! Do we not know how joyful news takes upon Earth? And do we not wonder, that our repentance ſhould bring joyful news to Heaven?

We read how Jacob was raviſhed and revived, when the joyful news came to him, that his ſon Joſeph was alive. And are there thoſe in Heaven would be ſo affected, if we repent? Yes, the great King of Heaven tells us ſo, That there is joy in Heaven, &c. How full are we, if we have good news to tell, till we tell it? Ahimaaz and Cuſhi ran as if they ran for their lives, who ſhall firſt bring the good news of Victory over Abſalom. And is it poſſible for any of us to bring good news to Heaven? Yes, the Text tells us we may. For our repentance would ſet Heaven a rejoycing; and be very gladſome tidings there. And who is it, that runs aſtrife, that he may firſt bring ſuch rejoycing news thither? As the four Lepers ſaid at the Camp of the Syrians, We do not well, that we tarry here, for this is a day of good tidings, and we are to blame, if we go not, and tell them. Men and Brethren, more joyful news cannot come to Heaven than of our repenting. And are we not moved at the thoughts of it, and do we not blame our ſelves for delaying to ſend ſuch news thither? Do we by muddling here for mony, and pleaſures, and preferments, and I know not what, as thoſe Lepers did in the Tents of the Syrians, when our repenting and turning to God would ſet Heaven it ſelf on rejoycing for us?

It is no wonder, if a Soul rejoyce, when it gets to Heaven: but it may raviſh us with wonder and amazement, that Heaven ſhould rejoyce for a mans making thither. For what need hath Heaven of ſuch poor, wretched creatures, as we are? Who would not dwell upon ſuch a ſubject as this? But it muſt be rather in Meditation than Elocution. For aſtoniſhment at the thing may ſwallow up words, that we are not able to ſpeak of it, to ſpeak it out. Make out by your memory, meditation, and admiring what my Tongue wants in expreſſing and uttering. Let ſuch a raviſhing truth as this, That there is joy in Heaven, &c. never ſlip out of your memory. Cheriſh the warm thoughts of it in your ſpreading meditation. Meditate your ſelves into rapture at ſuch comfortable tidings from Heaven, that your repentance would be joyful tidings to Heaven: that there would be joy in Heaven for your repenting.

II. But joy among whom there? And let that be a ſecond thing to meditate of, and to warm our meditation. The Text only tells of joy in Heaven, and particularizes no more, but the reſt of the Chapter ſpeaks out with whom. The laſt Parable in the Chapter tells you there is joy with God the Father, by that intimation, How the Father rejoyced upon the return of his loſt Prodigal ſon. The firſt Parable in the Chapter tells you, there is joy with Chriſt, the great ſhepherd, by that intimation, How the man rejoyced upon the finding and bringing again his wandring and loſt ſheep. And the application of the middle Parable ſpeaks it out, verſ. 10. That there is joy in the preſence of the Angels of God over one ſinner that repenteth.

Joy with God the Father, joy with Chriſt the Son, joy with the holy Angels. Do we need to enquire, whether with the bleſſed Saints in Heaven? We have more reaſon to ſtand admiring at this, that is ſo plain before us, than to intricate our ſelves with that that is more obſcure. God and Chriſt, and the Angels know a mans repenting here; which which the glorified Saints in Heaven, for ought we know, know not. And God and Christ and Angels can be helpful to a Soul in the ways of repentance here, which the glorified Saints in Heaven cannot be. I know who they be, that will maintain, that the Saints in glory know a mans repentance, and can be helpful to him in the ways of repentance. And that therefore they are to be prayed unto. But we leave them to their proofs and practises: we have no such Doctrine, nor custom; nor the Churches of Christ. We doubt not, but

First, The Saints in glory desire the consummating of the mystical body of Christ in glory. It is their desire here, and it leaves them not there, Rom. VIII. 23. They grone here for the Adoption, that is, the Redemption of the Body. And they carry the same affection of desire of it into Heaven.

Secondly, We may very well conceive, that the Saints in glory rejoyce as this his mystical Body comes on to be glorified, when a Soul comes to Heaven.

But that they know what men do here below, is neither proved, nor is it material to be believed. Therefore I shall not intangle my self in that question, but leave it to them that do believe it, to prove it, when they are able.

That God and Christ and Angels rejoyce over a sinner, that repenteth, is that that is before us: and it is a thing that may be wondrous in our Eyes, and we can never meditate too much upon it. That God should rejoyce over a repenting sinner with, Oh! this my Son was dead, and gone, but he is alive and found again. That Christ should rejoyce with, Oh! this my sheep was wandred and quite lost, but here he is found out, and brought back again. And that the Angels should rejoyce with, Oh! here is a poor Groat, that was quite lost and gone, but now found and recovered again. Certainly these are strange things to hear, and who could have believed such a report, but that word of it is brought from Heaven by him, that came to reveal the will of the Father, which is in Heaven?

Upon the hearing of it, whether shall we first stand to admire the wondrous goodness of God, Christ and Angels: or to consider the admirable excellency and virtue of repentance, that comes off so happily and comfortably with the rejoycing of God, Christ and Angels?

When we rank Angels so roundly with Christ and God, it is only in reference to the particular we are speaking of, their rejoycing for the Conversion of a sinner. For who else knoweth not the great distance between them, as between the Creator and Creatures. But in reference to the subject before us, let us consider these two things of them.

I. That their Wills are so intirely agreeing with the Will of God, that they can will nothing, but as he willeth. Their Dial goeth exactly with his Sun, and their Will set only by His, Psal. CIII. 20. They do his Commandments, and harken to the voice of his words. And they cannot go a hair bredth from it to the right hand or left. That is, the fair Copy we have before us in that petition when we pray, Thy will be done on Earth, as it is in Heaven. So that what God mindeth towards the good of men, they do the like. Doth he desire the salvation of men? They do the same. Doth he look and wait for any mans repentance? They do so also. Doth he rejoyce for a sinners conversion? They rejoyce also. And that,

II. Not only out of their intire agreement with the Will of God, but also out of their intire love of Men. They are Ministring-spirits for the good of them that shall be saved, Heb. I. ult. And they do their Ministration most willingly and readily, and out of intire love, and desire of the good of men. Guess them by their contrary, the Angels that fell. The Devils seek the mischief of man all that they can: the good Angels seek his good. The Devils do heartily desire that all men might be damned; the good Angels desire that all may be saved. The Devils rejoyce in any mans Perdition, the good Angels rejoyce for his Conversion. And they willingly and readily attend upon men for that end, as God doth appoint them; and they require no pay or reward for their attendance, more than the mans amendment, and repentance, and that he would do as God would have him.

The Papists will tell you of worshipping Angels: and the Apostle tells you there were some so deceived as to worship Angels, Col. II. 18. But will you hear what an Angel himself saith upon that point? Read Rev. XXII. 8, 9. I fell down to worship before the feet of the Angel, which shewed me these things. Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not. For I am thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren the Prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book. Worship God. Yes, that is all they desire for their attendance about us. Let us worship God, fear God, serve God, and they account themselves very well paid. Their Will is so intirely resolved into the Will of God, that they desire no more for all their service, than that our Will might be resolved so too. And their love and affection is so intire to man, that for their Ministration they desire no better pay, than that man would love God for his own everlasting good.

Therefore

Therefore though Angels be infinitely below God, as being his creatures; and though they cover their faces before God, Eſa. VI. as owning themſelves ſo infinitely below him: yet when the good of man is the buſineſs that is tranſacted; as the ſeeking of his good, rejoycing for his good: it is no wonder if Angels be alſo named with God and Chriſt in ſome concurrence for ſuch a thing.

But in what ſenſe are we to underſtand God and Chriſt and Angels rejoycing at a ſinners repentance? Are they ſubject to ſuch a kind of paſſion, and ſuch a change of paſſion and affection as we are? Conſider the contrary. As God is ſaid to rejoyce at ſinners repentance, ſo he is ſaid to be grieved at their ſinning and impenitency, Pſal. LXXVIII. 40. and XCV. 10. and Epheſ. IV. 10. &c. Now is their ſuch a change in God, as one while to be grieved, another while to rejoyce; one while to be ſad, another while to be glad? This is for ſuch changeable things as we are, that are twenty things in an hour; but not for the Lord of Hoſts, with whom is no change, nor ſhaddow of turning. But theſe expreſſions are uſed concerning God, the things themſelves, Joy and Grief, being ſo well known to us, that from theſe known things we might judge, how God looks upon ſin and impenitency, and how he looks upon repentance: how the one takes with him, and how the other.

Joy is the higheſt expreſſion of our Contentment, and being well pleaſed: for it ſpeaks that we have ſped of that contentment we deſired. For conſider of theſe three degrees, Deſire, Hope and Joy. There is a thing that would give us contentment, if we could obtain it, and thereupon we deſire it. Hope to obtain it doth ſomewhat add to the contentment, and doth warm the Deſire after it. But Joy comes when we have obtained it. Our joy is in our enjoying that content we deſire. So that by God, Chriſt and Angels rejoycing at a ſinners repentance, is expreſſed, how great contentment and ſatisfaction and well pleaſing a ſinners repentance is to them. It is that that they have mainly and earneſtly deſired: and now when it is obtained, oh! how contentive and well pleaſing is it to them. I have now found the Sheep that I long looked for: I have found the Groat that I long deſired to find: and my loſt Son, that I have long longed for his return, is now come ſafe home again.

There is nothing more deſireable to God, Chriſt and Angels than a ſinners repentance.

Let that be the firſt thing, that we ſpend our preſent thoughts upon. Wine glads God and Man, Judg. IX. So Repentance glads God and Angels. I remember that Job XXXVIII. 7. where there is mention of the creation of the World, and of laying the foundation of the Earth, and the corner ſtone of it: and then it is ſaid, The morning Stars ſang together, and all the ſons of God ſhouted for joy. The whole Quire of Angels ſang, and ſhouted for joy to ſee that great work of the Creator to go ſo wonderfully. And it was worthy of all their ſhouting and ſinging and rejoycing. But here is a buſineſs, that God himſelf joyns himſelf with the Quire, and rejoyces and triumphs with Angels too.

And what can move God and Chriſt and Angels to rejoyce but this? Think ſeriouſly of this queſtion, What could move them to rejoyce but only this? Look all the World through, and think what in it might move joy in Heaven but this. Gold and ſilver and wealth, and earthly pomp is but a drug, as we ſay, reputed there. And bring tidings of that, and what is that to Heaven? That that we ſo dote on, that we are ready to venture Soul, Body, Eternity, all for, i. e. the pelf and proſperity of the World, offer it to God, Chriſt, Angels or glorified Spirits by bags, barns, by heaps, by mountains, what are all theſe to Heaven? As much deſpiſed, as Earth is below Heaven. No, it could be none of theſe earthly treaſures that moved the joy of Heaven: nothing but the repentance of a ſinner.

Moſt true, God and Chriſt would be never the leſs bleſſed and holy and glorious, if never man in the World ſhould repent. For God receiveth no addition from man, but man from God. And the bleſſed Angels would be never the leſs bleſſed and happy, if never Perſon ſhould repent. For their happineſs is Primitive and Original to them, and not Accidental. If all the World were in Hell, what were God leſs in Majeſty and Glory? And what were the Angels leſs in bleſſedneſs and purity? And therefore it is the more raviſhing a conſideration, that God and Angels ſhould rejoyce when any come to Heaven. But the Repentance and Salvation of men is not a thing that God could not be without. For he was the ſame God before there was a World, that he will be for ever. Nor is it a thing the Angels could not be without. For the Angels were what they are before man was in being.

But God would not, Angels would not be without mens repentance and ſalvation: and as I may ſay with reverence, they are not ſatisfied, will not be ſatisfied without mens ſalvation. The principle of this deſiring is in the goodneſs of their own will, not in any pinching pinching urgency in their own want. A poor miſerable begger, a poor miſerable priſoner; that the one ſhould come to a better eſtate, and the other obtain his liberty; if we have any whit Divine or Angelick hearts, we ſhould wiſh it ſhould be ſo, and we ſhould rejoyce if it were ſo: but this not out of any pinching need we have of the bettering of their eſtate: for we are not the worſe, while they are in poverty and priſon, and we ſhould not be bettered by their being out. But ſomething within of Love, Charity, Pity and Goodneſs is that that moves us to deſire their bettering, at leaſt ſhould do.

And how many inward Principles, as with reverence I may call them, there are to move God and Chriſt and Angels ſo to deſire mans repentance, the way to his ſalvation, not a ſmall time would ſerve to diſcourſe. I ſhall only obſerve theſe two things concerning it.

Firſt, God created the World for Man, and Man in the World, more eſpecially to ſhew and communicate his Goodneſs. Conſult Pſal. CXXXVI. and it will inform, that the bottom of Gods deſign in creating all things was to impart his Mercy. He made the Heavens. Why? Becauſe his Mercy endureth for ever. He ſtretcheth the Earth upon the Waters. Why? Becauſe his Mercy endureth for ever. That made two great Lights. Becauſe his Mercy endureth for ever, &c. Shewing all along that that which moved God to create the World was Mercy: and becauſe he would impart Mercy to the Creature, eſpecially Man, for whom he created all things. It is true, that he Created the world to ſhew his Eternal Power and Godhead; and ſo the Apoſtle intimates, Rom. I. 20. But he created the World more eſpecially to ſhew that which he meant to communicate, which was his Mercy: whereas his Eternal Power and Godhead he cannot ſo communicate.

But,

Secondly, By the fall of man the brave workmanſhip and deſign of God is ruined. Man that he created to be his ſervant, is now become the Devils bondſlave: and he to whom he intended his mercy, hath now utterly loſt his mercy, and is under the worſt of miſery. Satan hath now got the day, and all is his own: but the Zeal of the Lord of Hoſts will not ſuffer it. Mercy doth not forſake poor man in miſery, but doth double it ſelf, and become Grace. Mercy had made him of a condition happy. Grace reſtores him from a condition miſerable. Mercy had made him able to do for himſelf, and when that was loſt, Grace raiſeth up Chriſt to do and ſuffer for him. Mercy had made him partaker of the Divine Image; Grace makes him partaker of the Divine Nature.

There is a Principle in God, as I may call it, that cannot but be moving for the good of man. And a Principle in Angels, that cannot but delight in that Principle of God. I ſay, that cannot but be moving; when indeed the wheel that ſtirs all, and neceſſitates that notion is only the goodneſs of God, and the Love of Angels to Men. As the moving, ſo the reaſon of the moving is within themſelves.

Object. Why then are not all men ſaved? If there be ſuch an eſſential moving in God for the good of Man, why do not all men partake of that goodneſs? And if ſuch joy in Heaven for a ſinners repentance, why doth not God bring all the World to repentance? For if he would, he could do it; and if he ſo delight in it, why doth he not do it?

Anſwer, I remember the ſaying of the Prophet, The Lord is pleaſed for his righteouſneſs ſake, to magnifie the Law and make it glorious. As the Lord is pleaſed to magnifie his Grace in mans Salvation, ſo God is pleaſed to magnifie the means of Grace, and that man ſhould magnifie the means of Grace, or no Salvation. God never intended that men ſhould leap into Heaven without more ado; but that they ſhould take Jacobs ladder, the means that he hath appointed, to get up thither. In that poſition, that God ſets in the Prophet betwixt his ways, and mens ways, (Are not my ways equal, are not your ways unequal) he plainly directs to take his ways whoſoever intends to come to him. For it is not mans ways; it is no other way, that will bring to him.

Now the means of Grace and Salvation we may diſtinguiſh into what God hath afforded for mans direction and forewarning, and what a man is to practiſe according to that direction. The Word and Ordinances of God is that that God hath afforded for direction and forwarding. And for the Practical means, I ſhall mention but theſe three inſtead of more. A mans ſtriving to get clear from Satan; his labouring to have part in Chriſt; and his glorifying God by obedience.

Here

Here are the reaſons of the joy in Heaven, when a ſinner repents. Becauſe a Soul is delivered from Satan. Becauſe there is one come in towards the making up of the Body of Chriſt, and to the glorifying of God, and his Word, and his Son, and Grace. I might enlarge copiouſly upon all theſe particulars. Now though there be ſuch joy in Heaven for a ſinners repentance upon theſe reaſons, yet can we not think for all that joy, that men ſhould be brought to repentance, that either deſpiſe ſuch means, or are far from applying themſelves to them.

Upon theſe things that we have hitherto ſpoken, we may the better judge of our Saviours compariſon here, of more and leſs rejoycing over a penitent ſinner, and a juſt perſon. A perſon that hath followed righteouſneſs from his youth, this man is not loſt to God, becauſe he hath always been in his ways. But a perſon that never came into the ways of God, and hath always been extravagant, that man is as yet loſt to God. He is twice or thrice loſt, in Adam, in himſelf, and by both loſt to God. Now when ſuch a perſon as this repents and turns into the ways of God, Oh! how is God and Chriſt delighted and well pleaſed to ſee ſuch a converſion. Not but that God tenders the ſoul of a Juſt perſon, as well as ſuch a Penitents; but by how much the greater and more apparent danger he is delivered from, the more is God, as I may ſpeak, affected with his Deliverance: and his own Grace and Word is the more apparently glorified in ſuch a Deliverance.

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

LUKE XXIII. 42, 43.

And he ſaith unto Jeſus, Lord, remember me, when thou comeſt into thy Kindom. And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Verily I ſay unto thee, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.

OUR Saviour upon his Croſs was like Joſeph in his Priſon, in regard of this circumſtance, that he was between two Thieves that had offended againſt the Law of the Land, as Joſeph was between two Servants of Pharaoh, that had offended againſt the Law of the life of their Maſter. One of theſe Delinquents was delivered, and the other Executed: as one of theſe Thieves is ſaved and the other periſhed. But here is a very great difference and diſcord, that Joſeph intreats one of theſe Offenders to remember him, when it ſhould be well with him, but he forgot him: but here one of the Offenders intreats Chriſt, that he would remember him, when he came into his Kingdom, and he does it and forgets him not.

O! Who would not love thee, O thou King of mercies, though the King of ſorrows, that forgeteſt thine own tortures to remember a poor Petitioner; and mindeſt not the wrecking of thine one Croſs, to take care of another ſouls deliverance? And who would be aſhamed, nay who would not triumph in a Crucified Jeſus, that evidenceth ſuch Salvation in his very Crucifying? That in the deepeſt of his ſhame, and in the higheſt of his pain, and greateſt of his weakneſs, ſhews ſuch pity, ſuch ſtrength, ſuch deliverance, towards a poor wretch, when there is but a ſpan betwixt him and deſtruction: when the roaring Lion had him in his mouth, and it was but three or four hours journey to have got him into his Den. But in comes this great deliverer in the very needful nick of time: and in the midſt of all his weakneſs and anguiſh, he wrings the Lamb out of the jaws of the devourer, and ſecures him; Verily I ſay unto thee, to day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.

For the conſtruction of the words, only theſe two carry ſome difficulty with them. One in the Thief's Petition, What he means by Chriſts Kingdom. And the other in Chriſts Anſwer, What he means by Paradiſe. The former we will refer to ſpeak to afterwards: and indeed the explication of the later will explain the former. But as for the later, who ſhall explain it to us?

If you will believe ſome, they will make it ſomething different from the higheſt and happieſt Heaven: though, if the Apoſtle were wrapt into the higheſt Heaven, he ſaith, he was taken up to Paradiſe. But here you muſt believe that our Saviour ſpake according to the common notion and apprehenſion of the Nation; and our ſureſt way to underſtand it, is to take the ſenſe in which they underſtood it. In their Writings they commonly ſpeak of The Garden of Eden, which ſpeaks but the ſame thing with Paradiſe: and that what they meant by it was the place and ſtate of the Bleſſed, may appear by theſe two things.

I. That they conſtanly oppoſe it to Hell, or Gehennah. Inſtances out of their Writings might be given numberleſs. Their explication of thoſe words of Solomon may ſuffice, Eccleſ. VII. 14. God hath ſet the one againſt the other; that is, ſay they, the Garden of Eden, and Gehennah, i. e. Paradiſe and Hell. Now as Hell in their conſtruction was the place of the wicked and damned in torment: ſo Paradiſe on the contrary in their conſtruction was the place of the righteous and bleſſed in glory. And,

II. This

II. This appears in their Writings more plain, in that they tell us, that Abraham when he dyed, went to Paradiſe; Moſes, when he dyed went to Paradiſe. Which elſewhere they expreſs after this manner, That Abraham and Moſes, and all righteous ones, when they dye, are laid up under the very throne of God. To which that ſeems to allude, Rev. VI. where mention is made of the holy Souls under the Altar. For the Altar they accounted the ſeat of the Divine Preſence. The Thief very well underſtood the meaning, for he was no ſtranger to the phraſe in the Nation: and he knew his Petition of being remembred by Chriſt in his Kingdom, was ſufficiently granted, when Chriſt ſecured him, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.

So that in the two verſes you have the Thief turned to Chriſt, and Chriſt to him; the Thief petitioning, and Chriſt promiſing: the Thief begging for Heaven, and Chriſt granting it: the great power and work of divine grace appearing in the Thiefs converſion, and the great freeneſs and abundance of divine grace appearing in Chriſts pardon. The mans requeſt, as happy a prayer as ever man made: and our Saviours return, as happy an anſwer as man could deſire. I.

We muſt firſt look upon the man and his Prayer. The man in the Evangeliſts character of him was λῃςης, a Thief, for ſo one calls him: and κακοῦργος, a Maleſactor, for ſo another: one that had traded in miſchief, and it had now brought him to the Gallows. And on the Gallows for a while bad enough too, if you will take the words of Matthew in ſtrict propriety; for he joyns both the Thieves as companions together in reviling of Chriſt, Chap. XXVII. 44. The Thieves alſo that were Crucified with him caſt the ſame in his teeth. That is, the ſame that other ſtanders by reviled him with: If he be Chriſt let him come down from the Croſs: And let God deliver him, if he will have him. And ſo it doth magnifie Divine grace the more, if it checkt him in his very reviling, and made that tongue that reproached Chriſt, in the very next inſtant to confeſs and adore him. So Saul was happily checked even while he was breathing rage and revenge againſt the Church, and he brought to be a moſt ſpecial member and miniſter in it. I.

The cauſe of this mans Converſion we muſt all aſcribe to Gods infinite grace and goodneſs. But the means that that grace and goodneſs uſed for his converſion, I cannot but aſcribe to theſe two things: a Doctrine, and a Miracle; as in thoſe times Doctrines and Miracles went very commonly together.

I. I cannnot but ſuppoſe, that the darkneſs, that then began to be over all the Land, wrought ſomething with this man to bring him to ſome conſideration with himſelf, of the preſent caſe, which he had not before. His fellow Thief it ſeems was not moved with it at all, but I cannot but believe, that This was ſo deeply affected with it, that it proved a means of his Converſion. They both of them knew very well, that Jeſus ſuffered meerly becauſe he profeſſed himſelf to be the Chriſt. That is plain by their ſaying to him, If thou be the Chriſt, ſave thy ſelf and us. And now this man ſeeing ſo ſtrange an occurence, as had been not ſeen, or heard of at any mans Execution before, begins to be convinced, that he was the Chriſt indeed, for whom ſuch a wondrous miracle was wrought and manifeſted. And then,

II. It may very probably be conceived, that he remembred thoſe paſſages of the Prophet Eſay, deſcribing his Paſſion and ſuffering, Chap. LIII. and particularly that, verſ. 12. He was numbred with the tranſgreſſors. A clauſe which the Jewiſh Expoſitors wreſt, ſome one way, ſome another, becauſe they cannot abide to hear of Meſſias ſufferings. But (which we may very well think) that as Divine grace brought his Soul to the acknowledgment of Chriſt, ſo it brought alſo that prediction of Chriſts ſufferings, and with ſuch company, to his remembrance, as a means to work him to that acknowledgment. For how might he argue, This Jeſus after all the great miracles that he hath done, agreeable to the working of Meſſiah, hath aſſerted and maintained, that he is Meſſiah to the very death: this ſtrange and wondrous darkneſs, that is begun over all the Land cannot but bear witneſs to ſuch a thing. And when it is ſo plainly propheſied by the Prophet Eſay, that he ſhould ſuffer, and be numbred with ſuch Maleſactors as I and my fellow are: I am paſt all doubting that this Jeſus is the promiſed Meſſiah. Therefore, He ſaid unto Jeſus, Lord remember me, when thou comeſt into thy Kingdom.

A great faith, that can ſee the Sun under ſo thick a Cloud; that can diſcover a Chriſt, a Saviour under ſuch a poor, ſcorned, deſpiſed, crucified Jeſus, and call him Lord. A great Faith, that when he ſees Jeſus ſtruggling for his own life, and no deliverer come to him; yet ſees reaſon to caſt himſelf upon him for his Eternal ſtate and Everlaſting condition, and pray to him, Lord, remember me. A great Faith, that could ſee Chriſts Kingdom through his croſs and grave and death, and where there was ſo little ſign of a Kingdom; and pray to be remembred in that Kingdom.

I doubt the Apoſtles reached not to ſuch a Faith in all particulars. They acknowledged Jeſus indeed to be Chriſt, while he lived, but when he is dead, they are at it, We truſted that it had been he that ſhould have redeemed Iſrael, Luk. XXIV. 21. But now they could not tell what to make of it. But this man, when he is dying doth ſo ſtoutly own him. They looked for a Kingdom that Chriſt ſhould have indeed, but they little looked that Chriſt ſhould ſuffer, and ſo enter into his kingdom; as it is intimated in the ſame Chapter, verſ. 26. But this man looks for it through and after his ſufferings. That it is no wonder if he ſped at the hands of Chriſt, when he brings ſo ſtrong a Faith with him; and that when he pours out his Prayer, Lord, remember me, &c. in ſuch ſtrength of believing, it is no wonder, if he hear from him in whom he ſo believes, Verily I ſay unto thee, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.

And could ſuch a Faith be without a parallel and ſutable meaſure of Repentance? Our Saviour very well ſaw that it was not. And the Evangeliſt gives ſome intimation, that it was not. For he tells, that he confeſſed his own fault, which is one ſign of his Repentance; We are here juſtly, and receive the due reward of our doings. And that he reproveth his fellow, and would fain have reduced him, which is another: Feareſt thou not God, ſeeing thou art in the ſame condemnation? And that he pleadeth for the innocency of Chriſt, which is a third: This man hath done nothing amiſs. And in what words and meditations he ſpent the three or four hours more, that he hung alive upon the Croſs, it is eaſie to conjecture, though the Evangeliſt hath ſpoken nothing of it.

The great ſum and tenor of the Goſpel is, Believe in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and thou ſhalt be ſaved. And as Chriſt himſelf did ſeal the truth of the Goſpel with his own death, ſo was he pleaſed, that that main truth of the Goſpel ſhould be proved and confirmed by this noble and notable example, even whilſt he was dying. And accordingly it hath pleaſed the Spirit of God to give a demonſtration of this mans believing in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, more copiouſly and apparently than of his repantence; though he hath given very fair demonſtration of that alſo. That as all poſterity was to read that great Doctrine of Believing in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt for Salvation, ſo they might have this illuſtrious and lively Commentary of the truth and proof of it in this mans believing, and in his Salvation.

And now having ſeen this great monument of Faith and Repentance and Pardon, What ſay we to it? As the Evangeliſts tell us, that they that had ſeen the paſſages at Chriſts death, returned from the Croſs, ſtriking upon their breaſts; and no doubt very full of cogitations. So what are the thoughts of our hearts upon this paſſage, which was not the leaſt remarkable among them? A great matter that the light of the Sun ſhould be ſo darkned; and not a ſmall, that ſuch a dark ſoul ſhould be ſo enlightned. A great matter, that the Earth ſhould quake, the Rocks rent, and the Vail of the Temple be torn from top to bottom: and not a ſmall matter, that ſuch a ſtupid ſoul ſhould be moved, that ſuch a ſtrong heart ſhould be diſſolved, broken and brought to ſoftneſs. The ſpectators then preſent conſidered of thoſe things. Our preſent work is to conſider of theſe: and what do we think of them?

I move not the queſtion without reaſon, becauſe many men aſſume vain hopes from ſuch demonſtrations of mercy, as theſe, without any ground. Therefore inſtead of looking what uſe may be made of this paſſage, let us conſider that we make not an abuſe of it. And the Apoſtle Peter gives the proper reaſon of it, Becauſe they wreſt the ſcripture to their own deſtruction, 2 Pet. III. 16. Here are things recorded indeed, that may juſtly be admired for their excellency by Men and Angels, the wondrous power of grace in converting ſuch a ſinner, the wondrous readineſs of Chriſt in pardoning ſuch a ſinner, and the infinite mercy of God in ſaving ſuch a ſinner. And yet even Manna it ſelf, the bread of Angels, proves worms and rottenneſs and ſtink to thoſe that uſe it not aright; as well as it proves wholeſome and pleaſant food to thoſe that do.

It is but too common with the rotten heart of Man to miſconſtrue ſuch demonſtrations of mercy to the more boldneſs in ſinning, and to make moſt baſe concluſions from moſt noble premiſes. Here is a great and notorious ſinner pardoned; he is pardoned upon his firſt begging of pardon; he begged not pardon, till he was juſt in dying, and yet was pardoned. And therefore thinks the carnal heart, I hope I ſhall as eaſily obtain pardon; and though I put off my ſeeking of pardon ſtill and ſtill, yet I hope I ſhall find it as well as he, when I ſeek it. And Men that put off repentance, and ſeeking pardon and ſalvation from day to day, and from year to year, do but ſpeak too plain, that they are of the ſame thoughts, though their tongue do not confeſs, and it may be, their hearts take no notice of it neither.

II. The Thief's Petition we may the better underſtand, if we conſider ſome Doctrines of the Jewiſh Nation, in which he was trained in his Religion, if he had any at all: which laid againſt his preſent thoughts, will make his Petition appear the more pious.

I. It

I. It was the common Doctrine in their Schools and Pulpits, That a condemned Malefactor, when he was to go to Execution, if he made but confession of his sins, that that and his death did expiate for his sins. To that Doctrine about Death expiating for sin, which was their Doctrine in that case and all others, do those words of our Saviour relate when he saith, The blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall never be forgiven neither in this life, nor in that which is to come. Which words Papists abuse to maintain forgiveness of sins by Purgatory in the world to come: whereas our Saviours meaning is, that it shall never be forgiven either before death, nor by death it self, as the Jews held it might.

Now it is very likely this Man had been at his Confession; and by his Confession had been encouraged to expect expiation of his sin by that, and by his death. But now that serveth not his turn, his mind is not satisfied with that; but he finds something else is needful, viz. To trust in the Messias, and to be saved by him. And therefore being satisfied now, that Christ is He, he addresseth himself to him in that Petition, That he would remember him, and that through him he might find and obtain Salvation. For to that tenor does his request run; Lord, remember me, &c.

II. It was the common Doctrine of the Nation that they needed nothing from Messias for redemption, but only that he would deliver them from their dispersion, and from under the yoke of the Heathen. They speak this out in plain terms in their Writings. For as for justification and salvation, they thought they could do that by their own works. And as for teaching and instruction, they concluded that they had as much as they needed, or as could possibly be contributed to them, by their Traditions, which they dreamed God delivered to Moses at Mount Sinai.

But this man you see looks upon the deliverance by the Messias with another kind of eye. He values it at its proper rate; viz. That his Redemption is the Redemption of Souls; that it is, as the Apostle most truly calls it, Eternal redemption: and thereupon he bequeaths his departing soul to his goodness for its eternal welfare.

III. The Scriptures had taught that Messias should have a Kingdom, and their Schools had taught, That this Kingdom must be an earthly, pompous, flourishing Kingdom; that he should restore the Kingdom to Israel, as the Apostles phancy, Act. I. 6. And that Israel should enjoy that Kingdom in all worldly prosperity, and earthly flourishing. But this man you see looks upon his Kingdom under another notion: he looks for his reigning in Heaven, rather than upon Earth, and his Saints reigning there eternally with him. And accordingly he begs that he may obtain that like felicity from him, and that he may have interest in that blessedness; Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy Kingdom.

Who taught him this wisdom, we need not to ask, if we but consider who or what it was, that brought him to his conversion. Divine grace must have the honour of all attributed to it: and so no doubt did he attribute it with all his soul, and ascribed it to his Divine goodness. Whose further goodness he still begs, that he would consummate that grace in glory, and compleat what he had begun in his Everlasting Kingdom.

And now look upon the Man thus converted, thus inlightned, and thus praying, and we may say of him, as our Saviour of the Syro-Phenician Woman, the title of the sex only changed, O Man, great is thy Faith.

II. In our Saviours Answer we may observe his ready granting the Thief's Petition, and his assuring the Man that it was granted. His granting of it, Thou shalt be with me in Paradise. His readiness of granting it, that it should be accomplished that very day. This day shalt thou be with me. And his giving him assurance of it, Verily I say unto thee.

What is meant by Paradise hath been some dispute. Some not thinking it means the compleat state of blessedness in Heaven, but something short of it; but how much short of it, it is not worth the examining. I believe the blessed Apostle (that was rapt into the third Heaven, or into Paradise; and he makes them one and the same thing) would determine the question after another manner, and assure us, that where he heard those unutterable things that he heard, was in the highest Heavens, where is the throne of God, and the habitation of the blessed.

When I think of mens wresting such passages of mercy, as these, to their own destruction, I remember that cross conclusion, that the Chief Priests and Scribes make upon very good premises, Act. IV. 19. That indeed a notable miracle is done by these men, is manifest to all them that dwell at Jerusalem, and we cannot deny it. What then? Therefore let us take care, that this doctrine spread no further. Whereas the direct contrary had been the proper inference; viz. Let us take care not to hinder it. So, that indeed a notable and renowned miracle of grace and pardon is shewed here, is manifest to all the world and all generations: what then is the conclusion, that such men make upon it? Therefore we hope we shall get pardon and salvation with a little ado: and if we put off the seeking of it till our death-Bed, we hope we may find it then, as this man did. Whereas the proper conclusion should be to no other tenor, viz.

Why

Why ſhould I ſin againſt ſuch a God, that is ſo good and merciful? Let us conſider of two or three things.

Firſt, Monuments of mercy were never ſet up in Scripture to be encouragements of preſumption, and examples of pardon never recorded to ſtate the rate and price of pardon. David's concluſion is, There is mercy with thee, that thou mayſt be feared, Pſal. CXXX. But God never ſhewed mercy, that he might be made the more bold withal, and the leſs feared. And the inference he makes upon the pardon of his ſin is this, Pſal. XXXII. 5, 6. I acknowledged my ſin, and thou forgaveſt the iniquity of my ſin. What uſe is here for others to make of that example? For this ſhall every man that is godly make his prayer in a time, when thou mayſt be found: and not put it off to what time he himſelf ſhall find, he knows not when. Whoſoever is emboldned by this rare example before us, to think he ſhall ſo eaſily obtain his pardon, though he put off the earneſt buſineſs of it to a ſick bed: Let him but hit on ſuch a nick of time as this man did, and he may poſſibly ſpeed. But it was ſuch a nick of time as the world never ſaw, nor ever muſt ſee the like: the very inſtant of time when Pardon and Salvation were purchaſing. And whereas he looks upon the Thief's ſin ſo eaſily pardoned, and thinks his own may be ſo too; Let him bring the ſame Faith and Repentance, that he did; and he may be likely pardoned as readily as he. For herein are men deceived about the facility of pardon, that becauſe God can eaſily forgive ſin, therefore it is eaſie to get ſin forgiven: and becauſe he hath ſo readily forgiven others, therefore he will as readily forgive me. As if no difficulty elſe lay in the way. Whereas,

Secondly, The great difficulty is to get the party fit and capable of pardon and Salvation. For that is an oyntment not to be poured into every Veſſel. There is no ſin but it may be pardoned, if it can be repented of, but all the buſineſs is to get repentance. The Scripture tells you of two ſins impardonable, the ſin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, Mark III. and the ſin unto death, or final Apoſtacy, 1 Joh. V. Now the reaſon of the unpardonableneſs of theſe ſins, lay in the men themſelves, that were guilty of them, viz. becauſe they were paſt repentance; and ſo the ſins could not be pardoned, becauſe they could not be repented of. There are thouſands in Hell whoſe ſins in themſelves were pardonable, and had been pardoned, had not they themſelves been the cauſe, why they were not pardoned, becauſe they did not repent of them.

If I were to Anſwer this Queſtion, What hope the greateſt ſinner may have of the pardon of their greateſt ſinning: I might reckon up how great ſins and ſinners have been pardoned from Adam upward. But this doth not reach the queſtion. For the queſtion is not, whether ſuch ſins be pardonable, nor whether God be able to forgive them; but what hope may the party have of pardon being ſuch a ſinner. For in this caſe ſomething more is to be looked at, than either Gods power or his mercy, and than either the quality of ſin or the quantity: And this ſomething more is a man coming into the way and capacity of pardon. When our Saviour prays for the forgiveneſs of thoſe that Crucified him, he never meant they ſhould be forgiven, while they continued in their cruelty, wickedneſs and unbelief; but that they might be brought into a compoſure and capacity fit for forgiveneſs.

Thirdly, The Providence of God was never the rule for men to go by, but his word. It were not good ſenſe to ſay, that Gods extraordinary actings ſhould be mens ordinary rule. He that would not plow nor ſow, but expect bread to be rained for him from Heaven, becauſe God once rained Manna upon Iſrael, may ſit and ſtarve: and he that will look for Ravens to bring him bread and fleſh morning and evening, becauſe they did once ſo to Elias, may walk with a hungry belly, but he will never be fed.

Gods extraordinary actings are peculiarly for the magnifying of his own glory, but never were intended for mans rule to go by. They ſhew what God can do, but little intend that man ſhould either expect the like or do the like. Here was a moſt ſingular acting of God, to pardon and ſave ſuch a wretch as this, who had put off his repentance to the very laſt; becauſe there was an extraordinary occaſion in hand, and becauſe God would ſignally glorifie the death of Chriſt. He that puts off his repentance, and ſeeking for pardon to the very laſt in relyance upon this example, does but tempt God, and turns that to his own poyſon, which God intended for a better end. And he forſakes the bridge that would carry him ſafe over Jordan, and ventures to go through the River to his own drowning; expecting a miracle for the drying of it up, becauſe it was once dryed up before the Children of Iſrael.

God hath appointed the wages and means to come to repentance, and thoſe we are to wait upon: and if he brought this man to repentance by a way extraordinary, we have to admire the peculiar diſpenſation of his grace, but ſtill to have an eye to our own rule.

The mercies of God are never recorded in Scripture for mans preſumption, and the failings of men never for imitation. Here is the memoral of a ſingular mercy of God in ſaving this ſinner: and a failing of this man, that he never ſought ſalvation till till this very inſtant. Now he makes but an evil application, that reſolves to imitate his failing, and yet hopes to ſpeed as he did, who had an unparalleled mercy: and whom God would ſet up for a monument to all generations. Not for mens preſuming upon mercy, becauſe of this mercy, nor to imitate the delay of repentance in this man: but rather from Gods mercy he ſhould be ſtirred up the more unto it.

For the ſtating of the ſure grounds, whereupon a man may comfortably hope and expect pardon and ſalvation at the hands of God, it were a mad doing, to lay for the two corner ſtones in ſuch a building, Preſumption upon Mercy, and delaying of Repentance. This is worſe than building upon the ſand, for this is building upon Impiety.

Now the word of God, which is to be our rule tells us theſe two things:

1. That Repentance is the gift of God, as well as Pardon. It is he that pours out the ſpirit of grace and ſupplication, Zech. XII. 10. Him God hath exalted to be a Prince and a Saviour for to give repentance to Iſrael and forgiveneſs of ſins, Act. V. 31. Therefore that man takes the intereſt of God and Chriſt out of their hands, that preſumes he ſhall give himſelf Repentance, and that when he pleaſeth. Can ſuch a man give himſelf life, when God will not give it; health, when God will not give it; And can he give himſelf Repentance, when God will not give it? They in the Apoſtle James, that ſay, To day or to morrow we will go into ſuch or ſuch a City, &c. are juſtly confuted, by the uncertainty of their life; that can ſo little maintain it, that cannot tell how long or little it ſhall be maintained. So thoſe that promiſe to themſelves repentance the next year, or the other; beſides that they cannot promiſe to themſelves to live to ſuch a time; and if they do, can they any more give themſelves repentance then, than they can now? Or can they preſume, God will give them repentance then any more than now? I remember that paſſage of the Apoſtle 2 Tim. II. 15. If peradventure God will give them repentance. If the Apoſtle put it to a Peradventure whether God will give them repentance, I dare ſay it is paſt all peradventure they cannot give it themſelves.

It is God that gives repentance, as well as he gives pardon. For he and he only is the giver of all grace: and repentance is the gift of ſanctifying grace, as pardon is of juſtifying.

2. He that hath ſet conditions, upon which to give repentance: a rule whereby to come to repentance, as well as he hath ſet repentance the rule whereby to come to pardon. And his rule is, Take Gods time, as well as take Gods way. His way is to attend upon his word, that calls for repentance; to caſt away every thing, that may hinder repentance. So his time is, Betake to repentance, when God calls for repentance. And that is this day, this very hour, every day, every hour. We hear of to day, and while it is called to day, in the claiming of mans duty; but we never hear of to morrow, or the next day, much leſs of the next month, or next year, or I know not how long to come.

How ever this man in the Text neglected Gods time all his life, and yet ſped well enough at his later end, becauſe God would make him a ſingular example of Gods mercy and Chriſt's Purchaſe, and triumph: yet canſt thou find no reaſon in the world to expect the like mercy, if thou neglecteſt Gods time; unleſs thou canſt think of Gods ſetting thy name in the Bible for a monument to all poſterity, as he did this mans? The Rule of our duty that we go by, and not by Providence, eſpecially miraculous and extraordinary. Now the rule of our duty teacheth, that we delay not any time, but to it to day, while it is called to day. And as our Saviour's leſſon is about not taking care for to morrow, in reſpect of food and clothing; ſo we may ſay, We are not to put off the care till to morrow in reſpect of repentance and amendment.

Object. But do you think, that Death-bed repentance never ſpeeds well? There have been many, that have not betaken themſelves to repentance, nay nor never thought of repenting, till death hath been ready to ſeize on them; and yet then have ſhewed great tokens of repentance, and have made a very hopeful end.

Anſwer. We muſt diſtinguiſh the rule of our duty, and the rule of judging others. The rule of our duty is plain and legible; the rule of our judging others is not ſo plain; if ſo be we have any rule at all, beſides the rule of Charity, which not ſeldom is miſtaken. It is not for us in ſuch caſes to be ſo wiſe as either to limit God, or to be too confident of our own determinations, or too ready to judge. The words of our Saviour may hint unto us a good caution in this caſe, Joh. XXI. 22. What is that to thee, follow thou me. Be not inquiſitive after other mens occaſions, but mind thine own. And this may be very pertinent counſel. Venture not Salvation upon ſuch late Repentance, and venture not to have the queſtion determined in your caſe, but keep to the ſtated and fixed Rule.

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

ACTS XXIII. 8.

For the Sadducees say, that there is no Resurrection, neither Angel nor Spirit. But the Pharisees confess both.

TWO Parties mentioned in the Text, that are oft mentioned, and oft mentioned together in several other places in the New Testament, viz. The Pharisees and Sadducees: Simeon and Levi. Brethren in evil, though at enmity among themselves: Samsons Foxes looking with their faces several ways, but their tails meeting together in heresie and mischief. Their Doctrine different in many particulars; but both corrupt leaven, and equally to be taken heed of, Mat. XVI. 12. Their manners different and their hearts envious one against another: yet both agreeing to be vexatious to Christ, and both proving alike a generation of Vipers, Matth. III. 7.

Parties that differed not only about this Article of Religion, viz. The resurrection and the World to come; but that differed even about the whole Frame of Religion. For the Pharisees would have their Religion to be built upon Traditions: and the Sadducees would admit of no Tradition at all. The Pharisees admitted all the Books of the old Testament, to be read in the Synagogue: the Sadducees the Books of Moses only. The Sadducees found in this particular, that they would not admit of Traditions, as the Pharisees did: But as unsound again in that they would not acknowledge the Resurrection. The Pharisees found in that particular, in that they acknowledged the Resurrection, which the Sadducees did not: But as unsound again, in that they so denoted upon Traditions, as they did. Both erring from the truth, and not a little; and both maintaining opinions directly contrary to the way of Salvation; and directly contrary to one another.

It is a saying of the Jewish writers, and is very true, That after the death of the later Prophets Zechary and Malachi, the Spirit of Prophesie departed from Israel, and went up. So that there was no Prophet thenceforward among them, no Vision, no Revelation, no Oracle by Urim and Thummim, at the least for four hundred years, till the rising of the Gospel. Ah! poor nation, how art thou not stript of thy great jewel and privilege, the Spirit of Prophesie and Revelation? What will now become of thee, when thy Prophts are gone, and such divine Guids, and Teachers are no more? Time was, when thou mightest in thy doubting have recourse to them, and they could resolve thee: in thy fear, have recourse to their prayers, and they would prevail for thee: in thy desire to know the mind of God, and they would inform thee. But now what will become of thee, when those thy Treasures, those thy Teachers are no more?

Why, naught become of them. For presently after the death of those Prophets, and the departure of the Spirit of Prophesie, the Nation parted into two deadly heresies, viz. The Pharisees, teaching for Doctrines the Commandments of men, Mat. XV. And the Sadducees, teaching for doctrines the very dictates of Devils; That there is no resurrection, nor Angel, nor Spirit, nor world to come.

The first thing that I observe hence is, That two such different Parties should be in the Nation together, should sit as they do here, in council together: So great a difference betwixt the parties, and a continual contestation about that difference: and yet both parties admitted to be in the Church to bear office in the Church, and to sit Judges in the great Council. There

There were Sadducee-Prieſts, as well as Phariſee. And the Jews Records have a ſtory of a Sudducee-Prieſt, that was to offer the drink offering upon the Altar at the Feaſt of Tabernacles: and becauſe he miſſed ſomething of doing exactly as he ſhould have done, all the Company preſent fell a pelting him with Pomecitrons, which every one uſed to carry at the Feaſt. And there were Sadducee Magiſtrates and Judges, as well as Phariſee. And the Jews Records do give us notice, that there was once a time, that the great Council at Jeruſalem conſiſted almoſt all of Sadducees, if not altogether. In reading of the Context at your leiſure, you will ſee, that in that great Council now as Paul ſtands before it, there were not a few Sadducees, as well as there were divers of the other Sect.

And what toleration there was of a diſſenting Party in that Church is worth the conſidering of thoſe, that have to diſpute about that Caſe.

Another Gloſs, that I ſhould make upon both theſe opinions, ſhould be this queſtion, II.
Was it poſſible that a Sadducee and a Phariſee ſhould be ſaved? Some will maintain, that a man may be ſaved in any Religion, in any opinion, ſo that he live honeſtly toward men, and devoutly towards God. Whereas a man may take up an opinion and belief, which may put ſuch a bar againſt his ſalvation, as to make it impoſſible for him to be ſaved, let him live never ſo honeſtly. For it is not bare civil honeſty, nor blind devotion will bring to Heaven.

Let a Sadducee live never ſo honeſtly, never ſo devoutly, was it not utterly impoſſible for him to be ſaved, while he held the opinions, that he did, which were directly againſt Salvation? And a Phariſee, while he made it the great Article of his Faith, that he could be juſtified and ſaved by his own works, put a bar againſt all poſſibility of his juſtification and ſalvation.

Men think it a ſmall thing to be medling with this or that new ſtrange opinion, or (ſhould I not ſay?) they think it a great thing, a brave matter to invent and vent ſome new opinion or other: when that very thing and opinion may be the very lock and key, and bar to keep them out of Heaven. Inſtance and example of ſuch opinions might be given in men of ſeveral profeſſions and religions in too great plenty. But we will look more particularly on this before us. The Sadducees ſay there is no reſurrection, neither Angel nor Spirit.

The Sadducees here are marked for their Heretical opinions about ſome main Articles of Faith; and it gives us occaſion,

I. To obſerve, that they denyed ſuch Articles.

II. To conſider the Articles they denyed.

As to the Firſt, we may firſt remember that ſaying of the Apoſtle 1 Cor. XI. 19. For I.
there muſt be hereſies among you, that they that are approved may be made manifeſt among you. That is a ſad accent, there muſt be hereſies. And whence comes that muſt be, or that neceſſity? Hath God any hand in it, that it muſt be, becauſe he will have it? Or is there any ſuch neceſſity, that it muſt be, becauſe the Church hath need of Hereſies? There muſt be weeds in the garden. Is it, becauſe the garden hath need of weeds? It hath need of weeding, rather than of weeds. But the muſt be proceedeth from the corruption of men of evil minds, that will raiſe up hereſies. And it cannot be otherwiſe, while their minds are and will be ſo evil. That we may take ſome view of this unhappy neceſſity, proceeding from ſuch an unhappy cauſe, let us gradually obſerve theſe things.

I. That God gives forth his word and truth to men authoritatively, that men ſhould beleive them at their peril. He ſends forth his word not to go a begging for belief of it and obedience to it: but let men disbelive and diſobey it at their peril, Ezek. I. Whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear, yet ſhall they know that there hath been a Prophet among them. And let them anſwer it according as they have recieved him.

II. Now the cauſes of mens not believing the Word, and not obeying the truth, are in themſelves, and not at all in God. He that gave his word to be believed and obeyed, would not be the cauſe that it ſhould not be believed nor obeyed. It is the wickedneſs of mens own hearts that cauſeth it: and it is the voluntary doing of their hearts not to obey it. It is ſaid Joh. XII. They could not believe; but the firſt cauſe was becauſe they would not believe. And ſo by the continual practiſe of not willing to believe, they came to the fatal diſtemper, that they could not believe. The Prophet Eſa. Chap. LIII. cryeth out, Who hath believed our report? Why, no body. And what is the reaſon? Was not the word worth believing? Or could they ſay, they could not believe it? The truth was, they had no mind to it. They had a mind againſt it. They in Jeremy, Chap. XLII. deal plainly and ſpeak out, We will not hear the word of the Lord

Lord, which thou haſt ſpoken to us. And what was their reaſon? They had no mind to it, becauſe it was not to their mind. Now had they been diſputed with, and queſtioned, Do you not think that God is wiſer than you? Are not his Councils better than your Councils, and the words of his mouth more to be valued, than the ſuggeſtions of your hearts? What anſwer do they make? Be it what it will, we will have our own minds.

This is the cauſe of the muſt be, becauſe men will have it ſo; and no perſwaſion to the contrary can prevail with them. We have the mind of Chriſt is the Apoſtles rejoycing: but we will have our own minds, is the worlds language and practice. And upon this mad wilfulneſs it is, that there muſt be Hereſies.

III. Now it is too tedious to enquire into all the immediate cauſes and originals of Hereſies, they are ſo many. The Father of them was an Amorite, and the Mother an Hittite, the whole breed a Canaanite, a curſed generation: a monſtrous generation, bred very oft of clean contraries, bred ever of what is contrary to Right and Good. Sometimes Hereſie is bred of ignorance; ſometimes of too much knowledge; ſometimes of too much carleſneſs about the word of God; ſometimes of too much curioſity; ſometimes of leaning too much to ſence; and ſometimes too much to carnal reaſon: moſt commonly of pride, of mens ſeeking themſelves, of croſneſs, of boldneſs about divine things; and ever of mens wilfulneſs to have their own minds.

Might I not inſtance and give example in all theſe things? And hath not the Church had too ſad experience of theſe things in all generations? Weeds ever creeping up in that garden out of one peice of curſed ground or other, and is never free of them. There muſt be Hereſies, ſaith the Apoſtle: there have been Hereſies, ſaith Experience; and there will be Hereſies, ſaith the corrupt nature and heart of man, that will be ſeeking it ſelf, and hath no mind of obeying the truth. Weighty is that ſaying of the Apoſtle, 2 Theſ. II. 10, 11. Becauſe they received not the love of the truth, that they might be ſaved. For th is cauſe God ſends them ſtrong deluſion that they ſhould believe a lie.

It is more proper to ſay (and it is more commonly done) that men rather fall into Hereſie, than that Hereſie falls upon them. That is, that they rather chooſe it themſelves, than that they are any way inforced to it. Hereſie is a Greek word put into an Engliſh dreſs. And the word in Greek, as Grammarians will tell you, ſignifies a Wiſh, a choiſe. Hereſie is a thing that a man takes up of his own wiſh and choice. And I think it might be a diſputable poynt, Whether a Heretic ever took up and maintained his opinions purely out of conſcience.

The great Hereſie abroad in one party, is Popery. And can I, or you believe, that the ring-leaders of that Religion, that lead the poor, ſilly people blindfold, do maintain that Religion purely out of the principles of a good conſcience: when we ſee they make no conſcience of Maſſacres, Powder-Plots, killing Kings, and diſquieting Kingdoms?

The great Hereſie abroad in another party is Socinianiſm. And can I think or believe, that the ring-leaders in that doctrine do maintain that doctrine purely out of the principles of conſcience: when even the whole Syſtem and Body of that Divinity doth clearly ſpeak it ſelf to be a croſſing even all the Articles of Religion, of what hath been received for ſound and orthodox in the Church in all ages?

And I muſt be excuſed, if I take Quakeriſm to be a direful Hereſie, and that it is hard to find out that the ring-leaders in it do maintain it purely out of the principles of conſcience; while they are ſo bitter, high, croſs and cenſorious. You remember the ſaying of the Apoſtle, The Wiſdom that is from above is firſt pure, then peaceable, gentle, eaſie to be entreated, Jam. III. 17. If their wiſdom or profeſſion carry thoſe marks; and if their Doctrine carry even any badg of Truth, we do not yet underſtand it or them.

And as for the Hereſie that the Text ſpeaks of, the Sadducees denying thoſe great Articles of Religion, The Reſurrection, Angels, and Spirits. Can we think they maintained their opinions meerly out of the principles of conſcience; and not rather out of Faction, Sectariſm, or ſome other by-reſpect and regard? Our Saviour chargeth them with Ignorance in the Scripture, and in judging concerning God. Do ye not err, ſaith he, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the Power of God? And it is not very ſuſpicious, that there was wilfulneſs in the matter too, that they were reſolved to ſtick to their opinion for ſome by-ends, that they had, of their own.

Let us a little conſider of the Perſons, and then of their Opinions.

I. Of the Perſons. We read not of Sadducees, but under the ſecond Temple, or after the return out of Captivity: but when and how they roſe then, is ſomething queſtionable.

Some think there were Sadducees in the time of Ezra, and the Prophets that lived after the Captivity, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi. And they think that thoſe words, Mal. III. 13. Your words are ſtout againſt me, do refer to the Sadducees. And there are of

of the Jewiſh Writers that ſay, that in the time of Ezra, there were Sadducees, that denyed the World to come. And therefore to affront that Hereſie, they of the great Council ordained, that in the end of ſome prayers, inſtead of ſaying Amen, they ſhould ſay for ever and ever. As inſtead of Bleſſed be the Lord Amen, they ſhould ſay. Bleſſed be the Lord לעולם עלמים For ever and ever, or as the words do properly ſignifie To worlds of worlds, or to ages of ages.

Others aſcribe the original of Sadducees to a later date: and that one Sadoc was the firſt author of the Hereſie, divers years after theſe holy Prophets were dead and gone. Which opinion is moſt embraced both by Jews and Chriſtians.

II. Well, be it the one way or the other; the firſt ſingularity of this ſect was, that they would receive no poynt of Faith, but what they could ſee plainly grounded in the Books of Moſes. For the other Books of the Old Teſtament they admitted not of, to be of ſuch authority, as were the Books of Moſes. And becauſe they could not find the Reſurrection, and the World to come ſpoke of in plain terms in all Moſes, therefore they would not take thoſe Articles into their Creed. I.

They would be their own chooſers, and what they will have to be Scripture muſt be Scripture; and what they would not have muſt not be: The great cauſe of Hereſie, which we mentioned before, mens wilfulneſs to have their own minds. It is a bleſſed thing to be led by Scripture; for that will lead to Truth and to Heaven. But on the contrary, a curſed thing to lead the Scripture whether a man would have it: For that will certainly end in error and miſcarriage.

It is but too common a thing, for men to take up an opinion, or doctrine of their own heads or minds, and as pleaſe themſelves: and then to lead and ſtrain the Scripture to ſpeak to their opinion, and to maintain it: to make the divine Oracles of God to truckle to their fancies. Like that that Solomon accounts ſo abſurd, and prepoſterous; to ſet Servants on horſeback, and Princes to lacquy by their horſe ſide, and to trudge afoot. Theſe Sadducees had learned from their Maſter Sadoc, that there was no Reſurrection, nor world to come. And to maintain that opinion they will make ſo bold with Scripture, that that which ſpeaks not plainly of thoſe things, ſhall be Scripture, but that that does, ſhall not be at all.

How the Church of Rome dealeth in this kind is very well known. That Church hath taken up curſed and abominable Opinions and Doctrins: and ſhe cries down the Scriptures, and would not have them meddled with. And you know who among us talk ſo much of the light within them as all-ſufficient for their guidance, and ſalvation: and how they undervalue the Scriptures by that very opinion. But yet will own and wreſt, and ſtrain the Scriptures, where they think it may ſerve their opinion. Men will have their own minds; and would have every thing to ſerve their humor, and to maintain their conceits.

The Arian and Socinian will have Chriſt to be a Creature, and not God; the Holy Ghoſt a Creature, and not God. What do they gain by this toward Heaven? Do they not ſet themſelves further off, when they make him that ſhould redeem them, but a Creature like themſelves; and him that ſhould ſanctifie them, to be but a Creature like themſelves? But they muſt have their own minds. Theſe Sadducees what gained they by their opinion againſt the Reſurrection and world to come? What either profit, or credit, or comfort could their opinion carry with it; that men ſhould die like dogs, or other beaſts, and there is an end of them? But they muſt have their own minds.

And it is like they were well content, there ſhould be no Reſurrection nor World to come. For this opinion might very well ſerve a voluptuous life. For a man to live as he pleaſed in all voluptuouſneſs, and pleaſure, and to hear no more of it: never to be judged, or called to account for what he had done. This is a brave opinion to maintain luſt and looſneſs, and all manner of villany. They in Eſai. XXII. cry, Let us eat and drink for to morrow we die. One would think they ſhould have been in another tune, when they thought death was ſo near; and left their jovializing to day, when they think they muſt dye to morrow. But dying was all the buſineſs they looked on, and looked no further. That was bitter to think of, when they muſt periſh with all their delights and pleaſures and braveries, but beyond death they little thought of any thing. And ſo Hiſtorians report of the Egyptians, that when they were feaſting, and in the height of their frolic and joviality, a man brought in a dead mans skull, and ſhewed to every one of them, with theſe words added, Eat and drink, and make merry, for you know not how ſoon you may be like to this. One would think, that the ſight of ſuch a ſpectacle ſhould have called them to repentance, and mourning and weeping and girding with ſackcloth. But they aimed it a clean contrary way: viz. that ſince they were ſure they ſhould die, they ſhould take as much pleaſure as they could, while they lived; and loſe no time from their voluptuouſneſs, becauſe they knew not how long or ſhort their time might be, and how ſoon they might be cut off from thoſe delights.

It is more than probable, that the Sadducees maintained their opinion to the like purpose; and were very well content to forgoe the world to come, that they might the freer and with leſs diſquieture enjoy this. The Phariſee faſted, and was of a ſtrict and ſevere life and converſation; but the Sadducee thought it more delightſome to live more at large, and not to deprive himſelf of thoſe contents and pleaſures that he might have here. And it is more than probable, that he ſo maintained his opinion upon that account: at leaſt his opinion did ſuite moſt properly with ſuch a courſe.

The Sadducees denying of the Reſurrection may juſtly mind us to make it our Hope, and Awe, unleſs we alſo ſhould be Sadducees. Let me uſe the ſtrain of Paul to Agrippa, Men and Brethren, do you believe a Reſurrection? I know you believe it. May I add and ſay, I know you remember it? This I dare ſay, that if you do not, I know you have no cauſe not to remmember it. A thing of the greateſt concernment, that ever will befal you: a thing as ſure to come to you, as you are ſure you have come hitherto: a thing that you can as little avoyd, as you can avoyd death, and a thing that muſt determine of your eternal ſtate. And do you not remember it? I am ſure we have all cauſe to remember it.

The Prayer of Moſes for the people is very reaſonable, pathetical and affectionate, Deut. XXXII. 29. O that they were wiſe, that they underſtood this, that they would conſider their later end. Do you not conſider this out of theſe words, That they that are not wiſe do not conſider this; and out of the thing it ſelf we are ſpeaking of, that the Reſurrection is our later end beyond our later end? Death is our later end, but the Reſurrection is a later end beyond it. And if the continual remembrance of death be needful (as who will deny it?) the continual remembrance of the Reſurrection is as needful. I had almoſt ſaid, is more needful; according to the rate that moſt men think of death. Oh! how bitter is the remembrance of death to them that are at eaſe, and in earthly proſperity. But upon what account? Becauſe they muſt part with all their delights here, and muſt be no more, as they have been, jocund and jovial and florid. The Roman Emperor of old ſpoke not only his own ſenſe, but the ſenſe of others, when dying he cryed out, Ah! poor ſoul, wither muſt thou go now? Thou muſt never jeſt more, nor enjoy thy pleaſures more, as thou haſt done. So they thought of death, but as an end and determining of their bravery here. But, the Reſurrection muſt determine of their ſtate for ever hereafter. And if Solomons whips be whips, Rehoboams whips are ſcorpions. If death be ſo ſharp to them, to part them from their preſent delights, what will the Reſurrection be, that will ſtate them in a ſtate undelightſome for ever?

Oh! how many ſins might we have avoided in the courſe of our lives, if we had had the ſerious remembrance and apprehenſion of the Reſurrection? And how many might we yet avoid? In the midſt of all our ſecurity and mirth and muſick to have this as Belſhhazzars hand writing upon the Wall in our eye, But will this hold in the day of Reſurrection? Will this follow me in another world? In the midſt of our Pride and Bravery to think, ſhall I be ſo dreſt at the Reſurrection at the laſt day? And will this Gallantry ſtand me in any ſtead in that day? I cannot but fancy how a Sadducee, that denies the Reſurrection, or any that are mindleſs of it, will be ſurprized at that day. He thought none ſhould ever riſe from the dead at all, and he himſelf will be raiſed whether he will or no. Oh! let me lye ſtill in the duſt, will his heart cry; Let the earth cover me, and the Mountains and rocks lie upon me. No, will the alarm of the great Trump ſound, Ariſe thou wretch, and come to judgment. And thou muſt come, and no avoyding, Eccleſ. X. 9 Know that for all theſe things God will bring thee to Judgment. He will do it, and thou canſt not hinder him.

II. And ſo much concerning the firſt Article, that a Sadducee put out of his Creed; He would not own, that there will be any Reſurrection. It follows, Neither Angel nor Spirit. Now why he ſhould deny this, is a great deal harder to find out, than to find out why he denyed the Reſurrection. For that he denyed becauſe he could not find mention of it in plain terms in all Moſes. But he finds mention of Angels and Spirits in terms plain enough there.

There is indeed no mention in Moſes of the creation of Angels in the Hiſtory of the Creation. And that might haply give the Sadducee occaſion to think there were no ſuch creatures made. But then what will he ſay, when he meets with the mention of Angels ſo frequently after? Gen. XXXII. 1. Jacob went on his way, and the Angels of God met him. And Jacob called the name of that place Mahanaim; that is, two Armies: viz. The army of the Angels that met him, and the other army or great train of his own Family. An Army of Angels then, and not one now? Thouſands of Angels at Sinai, Deut. XXXIII. 2. and not one extant now? What could a Sadducee think was become of thoſe Angels of which there is ſo frequent mention in Moſes? Were they dead, and not in being, or were they confined to Heaven, and no more to converſe with men?

It

It is not eaſie to unriddle an Hereticks fancy, a Sadducees miſtery. And it is very excuſable ignorance, to be ignorant of the depths of Satan, of the depths of a Sadducean Heretick.

There is not indeed mention of Spirits in Moſes in ſuch plain terms, but only of the Spirit of God, and the Spirit of Men. But though there were no more, yet one would have thought that enough to have ſtopped his mouth, that he ſhould not ſay, There was no Spirit: when it is ſaid in the very ſecond verſe in all Moſes, The Spirit of God moved upon the face of the Waters. And Numb. XXVII. 16. Let the Lord, the God of the Spirits of all fleſh ſet a man over the congregation.

The Firſt that offers it ſelf to our conſideration in this caſe, is, The diſtinction that is here made twixt Angels and Spirits; Neither Angel nor Spirit. And in the next verſe, The Phariſees cry out, We find no evil in this man, but if a Spirit or Angel have ſpoken to him, let us not fight againſt God. Where the queſtion is, What is meant by a Spirit thus diſtinguiſht from Angels, when the Angels themſelves are called Spirits? A further diſtinction of the Jews may help to clear this. They in their writings thus diſtinguiſh, Angels and Spirits and Devils. And among other ſayings that hold out this diſtinction, they have this, All things are ſubſervient to the will and command of the Holy Bleſſed God, Angels and Spirits, and Devils. Where what is meant by Angels and Devils is eaſie to underſtand; but what is meant by Spirit, when ſo diſtinguiſht from both? viz. walking Ghoſts of the dead, as they ſuppoſed, or Spectra appearing in the ſhape of this or that Perſon, that was dead. So the appearing of a repreſentation of Samuel raiſed by the Witch of Endor, they would account a Spirit. And that remarkable paſſage, Luke XXIV. 36, 37. As they thus ſpake, Jeſus himſelf ſtood in the midſt of them, and ſaith unto them, Peace be unto you. But they were terrified and affrighted, and ſuppoſed they had ſeen a Spirit. That is, They did not think that it was Jeſus in his own perſon, that ſtood in the midſt of them, but ſome apparition only in his ſhape. I.

Now the Phariſees thought there were ſuch Ghoſts and Apparitions. And ſo did the Heathen alſo conceive. And Tully a Heathen from that very thing doth plead the Immortality of the Soul. For, ſaith he, ſince men that are dead, appear to the living, it is a ſign that they alſo live, though they be dead: and that they are not quite extinguiſhed.

That there have been, and may be ſuch Apparitions, there is no queſtion, and Hiſtories give us ſome inſtances in this kind. As one among many, that famous ſtory of the Ghoſt of Julius Ceſar after his being murthered in the Senate, appearing to Brutus; who had had a chief hand in the murther, and telling him, Videbis me apud Philippos, Thou ſhalt ſee me again at Philippi. And ſo he did.

And the very forbidding of Necromancy in Scripture doth argue that there may be ſuch Apparitions, Deut. XVIII. 10, 11. There ſhall not be found among you an Inchanter, or a Witch, or a Charmer, or a conſulter with familiar Spirits, or a Wizzard, or a Necromancer. Now what is a Necromancer? The very Greek word ſpeaks it, that it is one that conſults or asks Council of the Dead; as the Witch of Endor would do of Samuel. And there is a hint of ſuch a thing, Eſai. VIII. 19. ſhould not a people ſeek unto their God? ſhould they ſeek for the living to the dead?

Now though the Phariſees with the Law condemned this wickedneſs, and witchcraft of conſulting the dead: yet if any ſuch Apparition offered it ſelf voluntary without ſuch calling forth by Sorcery, they accounted it to be harkened to. Therefore they ſay, If a Spirit or an Angel have ſpoken to him, let us not fight againſt God. But the Sadducees denied there was any ſuch thing as Spirit or Angel.

Where a Second queſtion ariſeth Whether they thought, there were no ſuch Incorporeal ſubſtances, as Angels or Spirits: Or whether their meaning was, that the appearing of Angels and Spirits was now ceaſed, and to be no more. II.

There is an expreſſion ſomething like this later. Joh. VII. 39. The Holy Ghoſt was not yet, becauſe Jeſus was not yet glorified. The Holy Ghoſt was not yet, for ſo the original Greek hath it exactly. And was there ever a time when the Holy Ghoſt was not in being? Our Engliſh hath well reſolved it in adding one word, The Holy Ghoſt was not yet given. He was in being from all Eternity, but he was not given and beſtowed upon men, as he was to be, when Jeſus ſhould be glorified. And ſo in that anſwer of certain Epheſians to Paul, Act. 19. 2. We have not ſo much as heard, whether there be any Holy Ghoſt. Yes, they had heard that a thouſand times over, that there was an Holy Ghoſt. But their meaning is, we have not heard, whether he be reſtored again to Iſrael, ſince his departing away after the death of Zechary and Malachi and thoſe laſt Prophets. So if the Sadducees did acknowledg ſuch things in being, as Angels and Spirits; yet they might deny, that ſuch things were in acting then. No appearing of Angels and Spirits then, for that was clean vaniſhed.

It was most true, that after the death of those last Prophets, the Spirit of Prophesie and Revelation departed from Israel, till the coming in of the Gospel. For a matter of four hundred years, no Vision, no Prophesie, no appearing of Angels, no Oracle by Urim and Thummim, no extraordinary gifts of the Holy Ghost. Samsons locks and strength shaved off and gone. And those great privileges, that that people had been blessed and honoured withal, clean departed and gone away. And hence it was that the Samaritans durst compare with the Jews for the better Religion, and mount Gerizim at Sechem compares with Jerusalem, as the truer and purer place of worship. For the honour and ornaments of Jerusalem were gone, her Prophets and the Spirit of Prophesy.

III. It is observable what is said in the last clause of the Text, The Pharisees confess both, Why? He had spoken of three things that the Sadducees denyed, The Resurrection, Angel, Spirit. And therefore it seems more proper to have said, The Pharisees confess all when he speaks of three, than to say they confess both, when he speaks of three. But he makes these two later but as one; and so distinguishes the things into two parts: the Resurrection was one thing the Sadducees denied, and Angels and Spirits was another one thing. And so by the addition of the word Spirit he intimates, that the Sadducee denyed all Angelical and Spiritual Substance. And so Expositors observe upon this: That he thought that even God himself is not a Spiritual, but a Corporeal or bodily substance: That the Good or Evil Angels that are mentioned, mean nothing but good and evil motions of mens minds. And that the Soul of man is not a Spirit, but a Crasis, or mixture of some certain humors, and temperaments. And that by the Spirit of God, is meant only his Mind; and by the Spirit of man his breath.

Strange and mad Divinity and Philosophy! And a strange world that this man conceives! A world that hath neither Angel in it, nor Devil: and only a Corporeal God in it. Souls that are bodily in the midst of the body, and that must dye as well as the body, when the body dies. And a world that must comprehend all that ever must be. And that there is to be no world to come, nor any other world but this.

Men of gross and thick and muddy minds! that either could not believe but what they saw; or could not but believe, that what they saw not was like to what they saw. That could not believe that there were Angels or Spirits, because they saw them not: and could not but believe, that God and Souls were like to bodily thing that they saw.

Their sad and fatal case and blindness may justly give us warning and advise what clear minds we ought to get to judge of divine things, and rightly to apprehend of things, that are above sense or seeing. The greatest things of our concernment are out of sight, viz. God, our Souls, Guilt, Grace, Hell, Heaven and Eternity, to omit to speak of Angels and Devils. We are not to look to the things that are seen, but to the things that are not seen, as the Apostle gives us intimation, 2 Cor. IV. ult. and in divers other places.

Now what are we to do in this case? Not believe them because we do not see them? This is Thomas his faith or infidelity rather not to believe that Christ is risen, unless we see in his hands the print of the nayls. Or shall we cavil with God, for that he hath not made these things visible, and not laid them conspicuous to our eyes, as he hath done bodily things? God would be loved, served, feared. Why doth he not shew himself visibly to us, that we might see him, and so love and serve and fear him? He would have us to avoid sin, and guilt: if he had made these things visible, as a dangerous pit or gulph or precipice is visible, we should then avoyd them. But now we must avoid a thing we see not. We are bidden to resist the Devil. Why, we cannot see him, and we would not see him. And we are bidden to take care of our Souls. They are things invisible and we cannot see, what they are, and how they are.

Yes; God hath given us an eye to see those things; an invisible eye to see things invisible. So it is said of Moses, that he saw him that was invisible. For the discerning of any thing, there are three things requisite, an Eye to see, and Light to see by, and a just or competent distance, that the thing to be seen be not too far; for then it is not to be seen. God hath provided for us all these things, for our seeing and knowing the things, which it concerns us to know, though they be invisible; if we be not wanting to our selves.

How much is comprehended in those words of God, which he uses, when he is about to create man? Let us make man after our own image. And God made man after his own image. Now you must refer this Image or Similitude more especially to the Soul: for the Body can little be said to be the Image of God, who is not a Body. But in how many things doth the Soul resemble him?

God is { Invisible / Spirit / Immortal. } And so is the Soul.

But

But more eſpecially doth the Soul reſemble God in the faculty and conſtitution of the mind: God being a pure Intellect or Mind, and all-knowing: and the mind of man repreſenting him in its great capacity of knowledge and underſtanding. That the Soul repreſents God in being Inviſible, Spiritual, Immortal, as He is, we may call it a paſſive repreſentation of God, pictured upon the conſtitution of the Soul. But the Souls repreſenting God in knowing, underſtanding, diſcerning of things, we may very properly call an active repreſentation of him: laying forth in action, as he alſo acteth. The Serpent in tempting Eve, concludes that the proper and moſt compleat reſemblance of God is in Knowledge. Ye ſhall be as Gods knowing good and evil. And he gueſſed not amiſs, as relating to that repreſentation of God, that is in the Eſſence of the Soul. For obſerve that of the Apoſtle, Col. III. 10. And have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him.

And the only ſpecimen, or evidence and declaration that Adam gave of the perfection of his nature, while he ſtood in innocency, was the demonſtration of his wiſdom or knowledge, in that he could and did name all creatures according to their nature. God brought all creatures to him, to ſee what he would name them: and he had the knowledge upon the very firſt ſight of them to underſtand their nature; and he named them according to their nature. Knowledge and Underſtanding was natural and eſſential to Adam, as he was a man, a reaſonable creature. Therfore by his fall he did not loſe that Faculty, though he abated of the meaſure of it. For it was eſſential to his Soul to be an underſtanding Soul, and it could not be a Soul without it.

Let us compare the Angels that fell and Adam falling, together. They were both created holy and righteous alike. For I make no queſtion, but Adam was created every whit as holy as thoſe Angels were created. And they were both created of great knowledge and underſtanding but not both alike; for I make no queſtion, but the Angels were endued with the more knowledge. But how was it with them when they fell?

Firſt, they both did quite loſe their holineſs and righteouſneſs. For that was not eſſential to their being but additional to their perfection. And their perfection they loſt by their Fall; their Eſſence and being they could not loſe. Now though they both alike loſt, and quite loſt their Holineſs and Righteouſneſs: yet their loſs of it was not alike. For the fallen Angels loſt alſo the capacity, the poſſibility of ever being holy and righteous again: fallen man did not ſo.

Secondly, As to their Knowledge and Underſtanding, they neither of them utterly loſt that; nor what they retained of that did they retain alike. For fallen man loſt the greateſt and main part of that knowledge, wherein he was created; but the fallen Angels loſt not ſo much. Whatſoever they loſt of the knowledge of Spiritual things, they loſt little of the knowledge of Natural. But fallen man loſt the knowledge of both. But he loſt not the capacity of recovery of the better part, viz. the knowledge of Spiritual things again.

Thoſe Hebrew words of Moſes, Gen. I. 14, יהי מאורת which our Engliſh hath rendred Let there be lights in the Firmament of Heaven; ſome would have rendred, Let there be Light-fats, or Light-Veſſels; viz. to receive and hold that light, that had ſhone the three firſt days of the Creation before Sun and Moon were made. As if the Sun and Moon were not light bodies of themſelves, but only bodies fitted to hold that light that ſhone before. Our minds now under our Fall, God knows, are opacous and dark things; and we can know nothing as we ought to know. But yet our minds are Veſſels capable to receive and hold that knowledge and underſtanding that we have loſt. And it is not impoſſible for us to receive and recover that knowledge, the loſs of which hath undone us. As the Schools diſtinguiſh between Potentia and Actus, ſo are we here between Capacity and Activity. Our natural minds as of themſelves are far from knowing ſpiritual things, as we ought to know them: but there is a poſſibility, a capability in our minds to know them. Any one mind is able to receive and hold all the knowledge that is in the world, if God put it there.

The mind is capable to know things diſtant, things out of ſight, things inviſible, all things that are needful to be known, and to know them as they ought to be known. And if a Sadducee will not believe what he cannot ſee, it is not through any uncapability in his mind, wanting in the conſtitution of his Soul; but it is through his own perverting of his mind, that he will not labour his mind to diſcern what he might do.

It is an old queſtion in the Schools, An animæ ſint æquales, Whether all Souls are alike? Is the Soul of him that ſits upon the throne, and of the ſervant behind the mill alike? Are the Souls of the learned Doctors in the chair, and of him could never read a letter alike? All Souls are mine, ſaith God, Ezek. XVIII. And all Souls are his alike under divers notions. But are all alike in themſelves? Yes, as to the eſſential conſtitution of the Soul they are alike. The beggars Soul Intellectual, Spiritual, Immortal, as well as the Soul of the Prince or Potentate. The Soul of the moſt unlearned indued with Will, with with a Conſcience; I, and with capacity of knowing, as well as the profoundeſt Scholar: viz. Of knowing thoſe things, that are needful for him to know. If there be concurrence of thoſe circumſtances that may bring that capacity into act.

IV. You know who they are, that cry up ſo much the light within them. Which when they have the made beſt of they can, they can make no more of it, than The light of nature, which is but a dim light to lead to Heaven May we not diſtinguiſh between the light of Morality, and the light of Divinity? The light of nature is the light of Morality. And even a natural, unregenerate perſon hath the light of Morality within him; that teacheth him, Thou ſhalt not ſteal, thou ſhalt not kill, nor commit adultery, nor be a falſe witneſs, and Thou ſhalt do to another, as thou wouldeſt be done to thy ſelf. Though too commonly ſuch perſons put the light under a bed, or under a buſhel. but can this light teach him the great miſteries of ſalvation, Grace, Faith, Juſtification, Eternity, Hell and Heaven? Another kind of light is required for this, than the dim candle of the light of nature. David made the Word of God the light to his feet, and the lantern to his paths; and the light within him did not ſerve his turn.

And the very reaſon why both Sadducees and Phariſees fell and continued in their error and blindneſs, was becauſe they would not uſe the Scripture for their guid to lead them better. The Sadducees refuſed the other parts of Scripture, beſides Moſes, which would have inſtructed them better about the Reſurrection and the World to come. And the Phariſees abuſed both Moſes and the other parts of Scripture by their Gloſſes and Traditions. Whereby they made them ſpeak their own mind, and not the mind of God. And it is no wonder, if they both walked blindly in the dark, when they refuſed the light, that ſhould have guided them.

V. It is true that there is a capability in the minds of all men to know what they ought to know for their ſalvation: but that that capacity ſhould come into act and reality, is required more than the more compoſure of our natural minds. For the Apoſtle tells us, That the natural man receiveth not the things of God; nor can he diſcern them, becauſe they are ſpiritually to be diſcerned. The Lamps in the Tabernacle and Temple were to burn continually; but the Prieſt was to dreſs them morning and evening, elſe they would not burn, as they ſhould do. The mind or Spirit of man within him, as Solomon tells us, is the Lords candle. But every man is to be a Prieſt to himſelf in this regard, to dreſs and ſnuff and take care of this candle, that it may burn bright. For you read of a corrupt mind, of a fleſhly mind, of a vain mind: and ſuch a candle is like to burn but courſly, if there be not conſtant care to mend it.

VI. The word Mind, or the thing, the Mind of man, doth ſignifie and import two things, viz. The Underſtanding, and the Bent or Inclination of the Soul: The Mind and the Spirit of the mind, as the Apoſtle expreſſes it, Be renewed in the Spirit of your Mind, Eph. IV. 23. The mind knows and underſtands ſuch and ſuch things, but the Spirit of the mind may ſway clean contrary to what it underſtands. And it is too commonly the cauſe of mens erring about things of Religion, that the bent of their mind is averſe to embrace and receive that that their mind doth or might know.

In a natural and unregenerate Soul, the Will generally ſways both Underſtanding and Conſcience. But in a good Soul, Underſtanding and Conſcience ſways the Will; it is moved by thoſe wheels, but it moves not them. You remember that ſaying of the Apoſtle, they would not receive the love of the truth, therefore &c.

And this is a very common cauſe of ignorance and error, becauſe men will not know and embrace the truth. My people love to have it ſo, as God complains in the Prophet. There is no ignorance like the ignorance that is wilful; and none ſo blind as he that will not ſee, but will put out his own eyes. Theſe Sadducees might have ſeen better, might have known better, but they would not know, nor ſee. The Phariſees might have taught them better in thoſe poynts about which they erred, but they ſcorned to be taught by them. The Word of God would have taught them better, if they would have embraced it. But they were prejudiced againſt it, and foreſtalled by their own opinion. They had drunk in their error about No reſurrection and no Angel nor Spirit, from their Teachers and from their Youth; and to that they will ſtick and hear nothing againſt it. As he of old, Though I ſee reaſon in that thou teacheſt; when one taught the Goſpel, yet I have been taught and trained up otherways, and there I muſt and will hold.

And this is all the reaſon that the moſt in the Romiſh Religion can give of their Religion: It is the old Religion, the Religion in which their Fathers, Grandfathers, and Anceſtors were born, bred, lived and dyed; and by no means muſt they forſake their Fathers Religion. As he in the ſtory, that profeſſed that he would go to Hell, whether ther he was told his Anceſtors were gone, becauſe they were Heathen, rather than to go to Heaven alone.

In enumerating the immediate cauſes of hereſie and error, this comes not in the laſt rank of them, that men are and will be wedded to their own opinion, and will not be moved from the fancy, that they have enclined to and taken up. And thoſe words of the Apoſtle may hint another cauſe and reaſon of it, 2 Pet. III. 5. For this they are willingly ignorant of. And that willing and wilful ignorance is moſt commonly the parent of ſuch a paradox and ſtrange brood.

The only Inference I ſhall make from the whole diſcourſe is, that we labour to know the truth and to keep it. Chriſtians, it is not a ſmall promiſe that our Saviour maketh, Joh. VIII. 32. Ye ſhall know the truth, and the truth ſhall make you free. There is a wheel within a wheel: one promiſe within another. Firſt, the truth ſhall make you free. Secondly, Ye ſhall know the truth; without which the other promiſe would little avail them. The freedom he ſpeaks of is freedom from ſin, as he ſhews in his diſcourſe following; and the way, the only way to come to attain this freedom is by the knowledge of the truth. So great a thing is it to know the truth, to embrace the truth, and to keep in it. And it is not ſo ſlight, and ſmall a thing, as men commonly make of it to take up new opinions either impertinent to the truth, or contrary to it. By our ſtanding to the truth or falling from it, we muſt ſtand or fall. And as we have ſtood to it, or fallen from it, we muſt be judged at the laſt day.

But in the different and various opinions that are abroad in the world, how ſhall I do to pitch upon the right? I am unlearned, and cannot ſift differing opinions with reaſon and argument, as learned men can, and therefore how ſhould I do to chuſe the right and keep in it? An objection that a ſtander by at Jeruſalem, that was neither Phariſee nor Sadducee might have made about the poynts in controverſie between theſe two Sects. The Phariſee ſays, There is a Reſurrection of the dead, there are Angels and Spirits. And the Sadducee denies both. How ſhould I that am unlearned know whether ſide to take, and whether opinion to cleave to?

The firſt anſwer I ſhould make, not to wade into any Scholaſtic diſpute upon this matter, ſhould be, Pray earneſtly to God for his direction: to the God of truth, that he would direct you into the way of truth. At the Tabernacle and Temple, when the Lamps were dreſſed, and mended, Incenſe alſo was offered at the ſame time. Prayer is to go along with the dreſſing of the candle of our minds. It was Davids conſtant prayer for himſelf, that God would inlighten his underſtanding: and it was the Apoſtles prayer for Timothy, The Lord give thee underſtanding in all things. It was the Profeſſion once of a very good man, and a very learned, I ever obtained more knowledge of divine things by prayer, than by all my ſtudy. He took the right way to attain knowledge, following the rule preſcribed by the Holy Apoſtle, If any man want wiſdom let him ask it of God, Jam. I. 5. And he had Solomons copy before him, Lord give me wiſdom. And it is not the leaſt cauſe of the ignorance that is in the world, that men do no more pray for underſtanding. How needful is ſuch prayer every Lords day morning, but how few do conſcientiouſly make it?

We think we are wiſe enough, and know enough, and that a little ado will help us to ſtock enough of underſtanding. So did the great wiſe ones among the Jews. They were called the Wiſe men, and they thought they were Wiſe men; And, This people that knoweth not the Law are curſed: but they knew it. And, The people are blind; but, Are we blind alſo? And yet thoſe Wiſe men knew not the things of their Peace, nor the day of their Viſitation.

Secondly, A means and an only means to know truth, to avoid error, and to judge clearly of the things we ought to know, is to get and keep our minds clear from luſts. If thine eye be ſingle thy whole body ſhall be full of light. And 2 Pet. III. 1. Stir up your pure minds. Such minds are likely to receive the truth in love. As the pure in heart ſhall ſee God. So they ſhall ſee the things of God. Luſts, like coloured glaſs, make men misjudge. Hereſie ſeldom proceeds from bare ignorance, but from one luſt or other.

A SER-

A

SERMON

PREACHED upon

JOHN XI. 51.

This ſpake he not of himſelf, but being High Prieſt that year he Propheſied, That Jeſus ſhould dye for that people.

AND is Caiphas among the Prophets? And is his counſil among the Propheſies? He the wickedeſt man then upon Earth, excepting Judas Iſcariot: and His the wickedeſt counſil that ever was given, ſince the Serpent counſelled Eve to deſtroy mankind. Had not the Spirit of Propheſie, by the pen of this our Evangeliſt, made this Interpretation of it, who could ever have thought it of ſuch a conſtruction?

If it may be wiſhed, I would the ſame Spirit had gloſſed upon the words of the whole Sanhedrin in verſ. 47, 48. What do we? For this man doth many miracles. If we let him thus alone, all men will believe on him; and the Romans ſhall come and take away both our place and Nation. If they grant he did ſo many miracles, why were they afraid that men ſhould believe on him? Why did they not believe on him themſelves? And afraid the Romans ſhould deſtroy their City and Nation, if he were believed in? Whereas their deſtruction was, becauſe they did not believe in him. Truly, Caiaphas ſaid but truly of them, though he aimed it at another ſenſe, Ye know nothing, neither do ye conſider. (No, nor thou, O Caiaphas neither.) For had they known, they would not have crucified the Lord of life; had they conſidered, they had not brought that guilt upon themſelves and the City, that they did.

But in what ſenſe he makes them ſo ſenſeleſs, is ſomewhat obſcure; Ye know not, neither conſider, that it is expedient for us, that one man ſhould dye for the people, and that the whole Nation periſh not. That they knew as well as himſelf, that any States-man, any reaſonable man might know well enough, that it was better to put to death a ring-leader of miſchief, as they took Chriſt to be, than that a whole Nation periſh. That old Maxim in Politicks and reaſon, Pereat unus, potius quam unitas, would eaſily be obſerved by leſs States-men, than they. And the one that they would have to dye, they all agreed in: but herein Caiaphas reſolution ſeems to have out-vied theirs: namely, that whereas they were afraid to take Chriſt off for fear of the multitude, he bluſters through that doubt and ſcruple, and would have it reſolved, that he muſt dye and be taken away.

So that in thoſe words of his, you may obſerve him ſpeaking as a Caiaphas, and as a Prophet. As a wretched Caiaphas, counſelling the Sanhedrin not to fear or boggle at the buſineſs, but reſolve on it, for it is expedient he ſhould dye. And as a Prophet, or one inſpired, ſignifying, that it was neceſſary Chriſt ſhould dye for the preſervation of that Nation, that it ſhould not periſh: namely, thoſe that believed in him; and ſo for the preſerving of all in other Nations, that ſhould alſo believe: The former he ſpake and meant with all his heart, to ſtir up the Bench to deſtroy Chriſt, for all the danger of the multitude. But this later he ſpake indeed, but meant it not, neither underſtood what he ſpake: and therefore the Text tells us, This he ſpake not of himſelf, but being High Prieſt, &c.

There had not been a High Prieſt, a Prophet, among the Nation for above four hundred years before; and muſt Caiaphas now become a Prophet? Nay the Jews tell us, and they tell us truly, that there had not been any Prophet at all in the Nation of ſo long a time: and it is wonder God ſhould now inſpire, ſuch a wretch as Caiaphas. They tell us, that upon the death of Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi, thoſe laſt Prophets, the ſpirit of Propheſie left left Iſrael, departed and was no more. In which they ſpoke juſt as Caiaphas does here, very truly and very maliciouſly: very maliciouſly, becauſe they would exclude the Apoſtles and Diſciples of Chriſt from having the Prophetick ſpirit: but withal very truly, as to the ſpace between the death of thoſe laſt Prophets, and the appearing of Chriſt and his Apoſtles. There was not a man endued with the ſpirit of Propheſie in all that ſpace of time: nay, not a man that did pretend to the ſpirit of Propheſie in all that time.

It is obſervable, that about the coming of Chriſt many aroſe, pretending themſelves to be Chriſt, or to be Prophets: but ye find not that any from the death of Malachi had done ſo before. And the reaſon was becauſe the Prophet Daniel had ſo exactly pointed out the time of Chriſts coming, that the Nation knew the time, and expected it: and when it came, ſuch Deluders then ſtart up with ſuch pretences, becauſe they knew there would be then a brave change of times. But till that came, they lay ſtill, convinced that the Spirit was departed, and ſhould not be reſtored, till Meſſias coming.

What I ſpeak, there is clear proof for in the New Teſtament. That they knew when Meſſias ſhould appear is plain by theſe words, Luke XIX. 11. He added and ſpake a parable, becauſe he was nigh to Jeruſalem, and becauſe they thought the Kingdom of God ſhould immediately appear. And by that concourſe of all the Nation out of all Nations to Jeruſalem, Act. II. 5. being inſtructed by Daniel in his ninth Chapter, of the compleat time of Meſſias, ſealing Viſion and Propheſie, and bringing in everlaſting righteouſneſs: which he had pointed out to the very hour.

And that they were convinced of the departure of the Holy Ghoſt, not to be reſtored till the coming of Meſſias, appears plainly by the anſwer of thoſe Jews at Epheſus, Act. XIX. 2. Paul ſaid unto them, have ye received the Holy Ghoſt, ſince ye believed? And they ſaid unto him, We have not ſo much as heard, whether there be any Holy Ghoſt. Not that they doubted at all of the being of the Holy Ghoſt: but that they had learned with the whole Nation, that the Holy Ghoſt was departed upon the death of thoſe Prophets; and they had never yet heard that he was reſtored.

The Jews ſay again, that from that time, there was no Urim and Thummim with the High Prieſt under the ſecond Temple. And there is confirmation for it in Nehem. VII. 65. And the Tirſhatha ſaid unto them, that they ſhould not eat of the moſt holy things, till there ſtood up a Prieſt with Urim and Thummim. And the reaſon of its ceaſing was, becauſe Propheſie was ceaſed. For the Oracle by Urim, as I once ſhewed you, was given by the Prieſt being inſpired and propheſying.

Now after all the long ceaſing of Phropheſying in the Nation, and of Propheſying among the Prieſt-hood, for a Caiaphas to ſtand up a Propheſier, ſeems ſomething ſtrange; and what ſhall we ſay to it? The Rhemiſts will reſolve you the ſcruple with a wet finger, if you will but believe them. Will you give me leave to give you their Gloſs upon the place? Marvel not, ſay they, that Chriſt preſerveth his truth in the Church, as well by the unworthy as the worthy Prelates thereof: the gift of the Holy Ghoſt following their order and office, as we ſee here in Caiaphas, and not their merits and perſon. And they conclude, How may we then be aſſured that Chriſt will not leave Peters ſeat, though the perſons that occupy the ſame were as ill, as the blaſphemous and malicious mouths of Hereticks do affirm. The aſſertion falſe, and the inference ridiculous. The aſſertion, that Caiaphas propheſied by virtue of the order of his Prieſthood, being moſt falſe. For none of that order had propheſied of four hundred years before. And the Inference ridiculous. And it ſhews they are hard ſet, when they muſt make Caiaphas a copy, after whom to write the Infallibility of their Papal chair. But they gazed ſo much upon the chair, when they wrote this Note, that they clean looked off the Book, and Text they had before them. For had they looked well upon that, that would have given them a more proper reaſon of his propheſying, and indeed the proper reaſon of it: namely, not ſo much, becauſe he was High Prieſt, as becauſe he was High Prieſt that year. This he ſpake not of himſelf, but being High Prieſt that year.

High Prieſt that year? Why? He had been High Prieſt ſeveral years before. So Luke tells us Chap. III. that he was High Prieſt, when Chriſt was baptized, three years and an half ago: and Joſephus tells us as much and more, and of his being High Prieſt after this year alſo. And therefore why that circumſtance added, He was High Prieſt that year? To ſpeak the proper reaſon of his propheſying.

Firſt, I might ſay, That was the year, nay even the hour, of the laſt gaſp of the High Prieſthood. It propheſied, and inſtantly breathed out its laſt.

There is much diſpute upon thoſe words of Paul, Act. XXIII. 5. which our Engliſh renders, I wiſt not Brethren, that he was the High Prieſt. If I ſhould render it, I know not that there is an High Prieſt; I am ſure it hath warrant enough of the Original Greek, and warrant enough of the truth of the thing it ſelf. Did not the High Prieſthood dye and ceaſe, and was no more, when the great High Prieſt of Souls died, and by death made made expiation for his people? If you will allow the other Prieſthood, and the employment of it to live ſtill after the death of Chriſt, and his ſacrifice offered by the eternal Spirit, till the fall of Jeruſalem, and diſſolution of the Temple: yet can you find nothing, that the High Prieſt had then to do, that it ſhould ſurvive any longer, after Chriſt was ſacrificed.

The other Prieſthood had ſomething to do, beſides what was moſt plainly typical in it, and referred to the death of Chriſt; as ſacrificing, and ſprinkling of blood did. For they had to offer the firſt fruits of the people for their Thankfulneſs, to purifie women after child-birth, to preſent the firſt born to the Lord, &c. But the diſtinctive work of the High Prieſt, in diverſity from the other Prieſthood, was on the day of Expiation to go within the Vail, into the moſt holy place with blood, and make an Attonement. Which when Chriſt had done through the Vail of his fleſh, through his own blood, as the Apoſtle tells us, Heb. X. 20. what had the High Prieſthood to do any more?

To this peculiarly related that which occurred at the death of the great High Prieſt, Matth. XXVII. 15. The vail of the Temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom. Which when you come narrowly to examine, you will find to be the vail, that hung between the holy, and moſt holy place. Which the Jews in their writings call by a Greek word, παρόχθις. This was the vail, that the High Prieſt turned aſide, as we do hangings at a door to go into the room. And he went into the moſt holy place only once a year. But now it is rent in pieces: no ſuch diſtinction or ſeparation thenceforward to be had; and no ſuch work of the High Prieſt to be done any more.

So that if we take theſe words of Paul to the ſenſe I mentioned, viz. I know not, Brethren, that there is now any High Prieſt, or any High Prieſthood at all; that Function is long ago laid in the duſt: it was ſpoken like a Paul, boldly, and as one that very well underſtood, and could well diſtinguiſh twixt ſubſtance and ſhadow; and how long thoſe Ordinances of that Oeconomy were to laſt, and when to decay.

And if accordingly, we take that circumſtance in the Text, He propheſied, as being High Prieſt that year, in the ſenſe I mentioned, namely that laſt year of the being and life of the High Prieſthood, it gives a ſtory not much unlike that of the ſon of King Cræſus. Who, when he had been dumb from the birth, and never ſpake word, at laſt ſeeing in a battel an enemy ready to run his Father through, he forced his Tongue ſo, as that he broke the ſtring of ſilence, and cryed out, O man, do not kill Cræſus. So the High Prieſthood having been dumb from Propheſying for above four hundred years together, and never ſpoken one Prophetick word; when now the King is ready to be ſlain, its Tongue is looſed in Caiaphas, and propheſieth of the Redemption of all the Iſrael of God, and preſently expireth. But Secondly, That year was the great year of pouring down the Spirit of Propheſie and Revelation, as in Act. II. the great year of ſealing Viſion and Propheſie, as in Dan. IX. And then it is the leſs wonder, if this dog get ſome crumbs, that fell from that plentiful table of the children; and ſome droppings from that abundant dew, that fell upon the Fleece of Gedeon. Something like the caſe of Eldad and Medad, (but they were better men) Numb. XI. 26. that in that great pouring out of the Spirit there, had their ſhare, though they were not in the company of thoſe, that were aſſembled at the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation.

And thus was the caſe with Caiaphas, as it was with Balaam, that wretch, inſpired till then by the Devil, but then by God. Who went purpoſely to curſe Iſrael, but God ſo overpowered and turned the ſtream, that he could not but bleſs them. So this wretch inſpired with malice from the Devil to plot and compaſs the death of Chriſt, is now alſo inſpired by the Spirit of Propheſie, to foretel his death, and to proclaim it Redemption to his people. A very ſtrange paſſage, that while he was ſinning againſt the Holy Ghoſt, he propheſied by the Holy Ghoſt; and that in thoſe very words that he ſpake againſt Chriſt, to deſtroy him, he ſhould propheſie of Chriſts death and Redemption, to magnifie it.

So can the Spirit of God overpower the Hearts and Tongues and actions of Men, to ſerve the deſign of his own glory.

And this is that that I ſhall ſpeak to.

I might obſerve obiter, how great diverſity there is twixt the Spirit of Propheſie and Revelation, and the Spirit of grace and holineſs. The ſame Spirit indeed is the Author of both; but there is ſo much diverſity in the thing wrought, that a Balaam, a Caiaphas have the Spirit of Propheſie, who are as far from having the Spirit of Sanctification, as the Eaſt is from the Weſt, Hell from Heaven. A miſtake hath taken the Spirits of too many, to account this good Language and Divinity, I am a believer, converted, ſanctified, fied, therefore I have the Spirit of Revelation; and I can preach and expound Scripture by that Spirit: little conſidering the vaſt diverſity of the gift of Propheſie, and of Grace, in its nature and end.

But that that I ſhall inſiſt upon ſhall be, to conſider ſomething concerning the Spirits overpowering of Men, their Actions, Tongues, Hearts, or all. And though here was no overpowering the Heart of this wretch, but of his Tongue only: yet I ſhall ſpeak more eſpecially of overpowering of the Heart, as moſt material in this ſubject: and which underſtood, the Spirits overpowering of the Tongue and Action will be underſtood with little ado. I ſhall couch what I have to ſpeak under theſe following Obſervations.

I. I may take up that Gen. VI. 3. And the Lord ſaid, My Spirit ſhall not always ſtrive with man. He ſaith not, with this, or that, or the other man in particular; but with man in general. Becauſe the Spirit of God ſtrives with every man in the World at ſome time, and in ſome degree or other, Act. VII. 51. Ye ſtif-necked, and uncircumciſed in Heart and Ears, ye do always reſiſt the Holy Ghoſt. The Spirit ſtrove with thoſe wretches, though this ſtriving was to no purpoſe or effect, becauſe of their reſiſtance. And ſo in that exhortation, 1 Theſ. V. 19. Quench not the Spirit, is intimated, that they that quench the Spirit, and let not his ſparks grow to any thing; yet that they have theſe ſparks ſtriving together, if they would let them alone.

Chriſtian, I ſhall not be ſolicitous to prove this, becauſe it needs not. And I muſt tell thee it is not ſo well and right with thee, as it ſhould, if thou findſt not the proof and experience of this truth in thine own Heart: if thou find not ſome knockings at that door, that calls and tells, It is time to awake out of ſleep, and ſet to work ſome checkings of Conſcience, when thou goeſt about knowingly to ſin; and ſome reprovings of Conſcience, when thou haſt ſo ſinned: ſome ſtirrings of Heart upon hearing the threatnings and curſes of the Law of God in a powerful Miniſtry: ſome trouble of Soul upon ſight of Gods judgments upon thy ſelf or others: in a word, if thou find not thy Conſcience, as a voice behind thee, calling after thee, This is the way, walk in it. If thou find any ſuch things, liſten and improve them. It is the voice of my beloved, putting, as it were, his finger in at the hole of the door, to ſee whether thou wilt open. It is the Spirit of God ſtriving with thy Heart. But if thou find not any ſuch thing, take heed leſt thou haſt wearied the Spirit of God, that he will ſtrive no more.

II. The Spirit is able to overpower any Heart, that he ſtrives withal. I need not to prove this neither to any that underſtand, what the Spirit of God is: which I hope you all underſtand. A Macedonian or Socinian, that denies the Godhead of the Holy Ghoſt, yet I ſee not how he can deny this, if he do but confeſs the Holy Ghoſt to be the Spirit of God. Let me even challenge of you, that have been better taught, to atteſt this truth with me, and to look up towards Heaven with due conſideration of the ſacred Spirit, and to acknowledge in the words of Job, Chap. XLII. 2. I know thou canſt do all things, and that no thought can be holden from thee. God in Jer. XXXII. 27. proclaims, Behold, I am the Lord, the God of all fleſh. Is there any thing too hard for me? If we ſhould take the words as ſpoken particularly of the holy Spirit, are they not moſt true to every tittle? Is not the Holy Ghoſt Jehovah? Is he not the Lord? Is he not the God of all fleſh, and all Mens Spirits? And then can any thing, can any Heart, be too hard for him?

But if any deſire a particular proof of the thing we aſſert, viz. That the Holy Spirit is able to overpower any Heart whatſoever, that he ſtrives withal: Let him either look at a profane wretch, that always reſiſted the ſtrivings of the Spirit, now come under horror of Conſcience. Or let him well ponder upon the ſtate of the damned in Hell, who were ſuch reſiſters, while they were here. And firſt, let him read that Eſa. XXX. 33. The breath, or Spirit, of the Lord, like a ſtream of brimſtone, doth kindle it. In that horrid torture of Conſcience of theirs, where the worm ever gnaweth, and never dieth, do you not think their Hearts are overpowered? Are not now thoſe brazen gates, and iron doors, that would bar out the overcomings of the Spirit, broke open, and broke all to pieces? Viciſti, Galilæe, as Julian once, ſo do not they everlaſtingly confeſs, that God is proved too hard for them? And how is this alto-ſhattering of their Hearts and Conſciences come upon them? The breath, or Spirit, of the Lord, like a river of brimſtone, is guſhed in upon them, and overflows them with horror; and they cannot reſiſt. It is the everlaſting vengeance of the Spirit of God upon them thus to cruſh their Conſciences with everlaſting confuſion and torture; becauſe they did, they would reſiſt his ſtrivings, while they were here. No, no, reſiſt, damned Souls, now reſiſt, and keep the doors faſt barred, that the power, the vengeance of the Spirit cannot break in. No, it will not be: the Spirit is all powerful; if he will, is able to overpower any Heart he ſtrives with here: he will with vengeance do it to him, that reſiſts hereafter.

III. The first aim of the Spirit in his striving is to try men. It is apparent by Scripture, that God by the motions of his Spirit comes to try those men, who, he knows will not receive the motions of his Spirit. As in 2 Chron. XXXII. 31. In the business of the Ambassadors of the Princes of Babylon, God left him to try him, that he might know all that was in his Heart. God withdrew, or suspended the acting of the Spirit of grace to try him. So God doth on the other hand employ some actings of the Spirit, to try whether men will entertain them.

God tries men by his Word, whether they will obey him or no, Exod. XX. 20. God is come to prove you, and that his fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not; saith Moses to the people of Israel concerning Gods giving them his Law, Mat. XXIII. 37. O Jerusalem, Jerusalem; thou that killest the Prophets, &c. how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen gathereth her chickins under her wings, and ye would not. I tried whether thou wouldest be gathered, but thou wouldest not. He tries men likewise by his Providences, how they will demean themselves under them, Deut. VIII. 2. Thou shalt remember all the way, which the Lord thy God led thee these forty years in the Wilderness, to humble thee, and to prove thee, to know what was in thine Heart, whether thou wouldest keep his Commandments or no. So he doth by his Spirit; in that noted place Revel. III. 18. Behold I stand at the door and knock. He that stands at the door could break down the door: but he tries, whether the door will be opened to give him entertainment.

And in this regard, it is no wonder, if men be said to resist, and quench the Spirit; because he comes only to try, whether they will imbrace or resist, quench, or cherish. This work of his differs from the effectual working of grace, when he comes resolvedly to overcome and overpower.

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

ROMANS IX. 3.

For I could wiſh that I my ſelf were accurſed from Chriſt, for my Brethren, my Kinſmen according to the fleſh.

A Dreadful paſſage at the firſt reading! and which may make us even to tremble, a man to wiſh himſelf to be accurſed from Chriſt! accurſed from Chriſt! The very words may make us to quake to think of ſuch a thing. And can we believe that a Paul ſhould make ſuch a wiſh, that he might be accurſed of Chriſt, who knew ſo well what it was to be bleſſed of him? Can he make ſuch a wiſh? Or rather can any one but ſuch an one as he, make ſuch a wiſh upon ſuch a ground, upon ſuch a condition, upon ſuch a warrant?

The Apoſtle is here beginning his Diſcourſe concerning the caſting off of the Jewiſh Nation and ſeed of Iſrael; as at the nineteenth verſe of the Chapter foregoing he is beginning his Diſcourſe about the Calling of the Gentiles. Them there he ſtiles by the title of the whole Creation, πᾶσα κτίσις, an expreſſion uſual among the Jews to ſignifie in that conſtruction. Theſe here he calls his Brethren and Kinſmen; for ſo nature had made them, he and they coming of the ſame ſtock and original. He ſpeaks there of ſome mourning out of deſire that the Calling of the Gentiles ſhould be accompliſhed. Here he ſpeaks of himſelf mourning out of grief for the caſting off of his own Nation. There the whole Creation of the Gentiles themſelves groaning to be delivered from the bondage of their ſinful corruption. Here himſelf grieving for the not delivering of his own people from theirs, at ver. 2. he hath grief, and great grief; and ſorrow, and continual ſorrow for them; and could wiſh himſelf to be accurſed from Chriſt, on condition it might be better with them.

And one would think he had very ſmall cauſe to be thus affected towards them, if it be well conſidered how they had continually demeaned themſelves toward him. They had continually bred him trouble, always perſecuted him, five times beaten him, conſtantly ſought his life, and contrived his death. And yet the good man grieves for them that grieved not for themſelves, and that always were grieving him; and could wiſh himſelf to be accurſed for them that could wiſh him curſed to the pit of Hell.

A ſtrange wiſh, and a ſtrange charity! that he himſelf might be accurſed, that they might not be ſo; that he might be ſeparated from Chriſt, that ſo they might be united to him. A paſſage ſo ſtrange that it hath but one parallel, viz. that of Moſes, Exod. XXXII. 32. where he prays, God to blot him out of his Book, when God was now ready to cut off the ſeed of Iſrael. A paſſage ſo ſtrange that it ſeems directly to croſs the whole courſe of his profeſſion and practiſe. He profeſſeth, Phil. III. 8. That all things in the world were but loſs for the excellency of the knowledg of Chriſt Jeſus. And yet here he can upon ſome condition be content to loſe him. He practiſeth (1 Cor. IX. ult.) to bring his body into ſubjection, leſt when he had preached to others, he himſelf might be a caſt-away. And yet he could wiſh upon ſome condition to prove a caſt-away. So ſtrange a paſſage, that ſome Expoſitors cannot endure to look upon it in its full proportion, but take as it were a diminiſhing glaſs to look upon it withal; and they make thoſe words of the Apoſtle to ſpeak leſs a great deal than ever they meant. They will have his meaning to be but this, For my Brethrens ſake the ſeed of Iſrael, I could be content to be ſeparate from Chriſt for a while, and to continue upon earth from that glory that is prepared for me in Heaven, that I might labour for their ſalvation. Do you think, that being Anathema, or accurſed from Chriſt means no more than this? Others

Others conceive that the Apoſtle only uſeth an high expreſſion, whereby to ſignifie how intirely he deſireth the good of his own Nation. As if he had needed ſo full and feeling an aſſeveration, as, I ſpeak the truth in Chriſt Jeſus, my conſcience alſo bearing me witneſs in the Holy Ghoſt, ver. 1. to intimate that he ſo intirely deſired their ſalvation.

But to omit more, by this ſtrong aſſeveration, it is plain, that he thinks as he ſpeaks, and ſpeaks as he thinks. For it was ſo ſtrange a wiſh, that he himſelf ſees reaſon to uſe many aſſeverations to ſhew that he ſpeaks in good earneſt, otherwiſe he would hardly be believed. As,

Firſt, His double aſſeveration, affirmatively and negatively, ver. 1. I ſpeak the truth, I lye not.

Secondly, He lays his Conſcience for earneſt, that he did not lye, but ſpoke truth, My Conſcience bearing me witneſs.

Thirdly, He doth as it were call Chriſt and the Holy Ghoſt to witneſs, I ſpeak the truth in Chriſt: my conſcience bearing me witneſs in the Holy Ghoſt. And ſo under the atteſtation of three witneſſes, his Conſcience, Chriſt, and the Holy Ghoſt, he would have what he ſays to be confirmed for a truth, and that he may be believed.

Well, we believe that he ſpeaks from his very heart, and as he thinks, that he wiſhes himſelf accurſed from Chriſt for his Brethren, his Kinſmen according to the fleſh. Doth he piouſly in ſo wiſhing, or prudently? St. Auſtin once wiſhed that he might have heard him Preach, but what would he have thought, think you, at ſuch a wiſh as this? Doth he not curſe himſelf, when he wiſheth to be accurſed? And doth he not undervalue Chriſt, when he could wiſh to be ſeparate from Chriſt?

That paſſage, My conſcience bearing me witneſs in the Holy Ghoſt, doth plainly evidence that what he doth is neither raſhly done, nor impiouſly, nor imprudently, but from a good conſcience, good affection, and not without the Warrant of the Holy Spirit.

Indeed at ver. 38. of the Chapter next going before, He is perſwaded that neither life nor death, nor principalities nor powers, nor things preſent, nor things to come, nor any creature is able to ſeparate him from the love of God, which is in Chriſt Jeſus. And yet at this place he could wiſh that he were ſeparate from Chriſt on the condition he propoſeth. Not that either he undervalueth his uniting to Chriſt, or that he thought he ſhould be ſeparated from him, or that he ſimply deſired it; but comparatively he could wiſh it; on condition the ſeed of Iſrael his Brethren and Kinſmen, might be united to him. He could wiſh to be damned on condition they might be ſaved. Which may ſeem a dreadful wiſh; but ſo much doth he value the ſalvation of ſo many thouſand ſouls above the ſaving of his own one ſoul; and ſo much deſire the glorifying of Chriſt and his Grace in the ſalvation of them.

Thus doth he love the Lord his God with all his heart, and with all his ſoul, when he prefers the glorifying of his Grace before his own benefit. And thus he loves his neighbour as himſelf, nay more than himſelf, when he prefers the good of their ſouls before his own. It had been much if he had been willing to be impriſoned, to be ſcourged, to be killed for their ſakes; but what love could be more than to be willing to be accurſed of Chriſt for them?

Ah Paul, if thou be accurſed from Chriſt, thou art undone for ever. If thou be ſeparated from Chriſt, it had been better for thee thou hadſt never been born. However, the love of Chriſt conſtrains me; whoſe blood and grace I would have glorified in theſe mens ſalvation; and the love of ſouls conſtrains me too; for I would not, if I might redeem them upon any terms, have ſo many to periſh.

For the viewing of the words, and the whole matter before us, let us leiſurely and more particularly conſider of theſe things following.

I. The Apoſtle knew that the far greateſt part of the ſeed of Iſrael, his Brethren and Kinſmen according to the fleſh, was to be caſt off by God, and accurſed by Chriſt, for their diſobedience and unbelief. And this he knew well enough from the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, whatſoever he knew beſides by revelation.

Firſt, That ſo infinite a number of them ſhould periſh, and ſo ſmall be ſaved, the Scripture is ſo abundant in ſhewing, that it is needleſs to cite places that ſpeak it. The Apoſtle himſelf cites two in Chap. IX. 27. That of Iſaiah, Though the number of the children of Iſrael be as the ſand of the Sea, yet a remnant, i.e. but a remnant, ſhould be ſaved. And how little that remnant ſhould be, he cites another place of the ſame Prophet, ver. 29. Except the Lord had left us a very ſmall remnant, we had been made as Sodom, and we had been like to Gomorrha. Which you have, Iſa. I. 9. a ſmall remnant like Lot and his family, to eſcape, the reſt like Sodom and Gomorrha to be deſtroyed.

To the ſame tenor is that Iſa. XVII. 6. Gleaning grapes ſhall be left in it, as the ſhaking of an olive-tree, two or three berries in the top of the uttermoſt bough, four or five in the outmoſt fruitful branches thereof. But gleanings, but two or three berries, but four or five olives of the bearing of a whole tree. And that Jer. III. 14. I will take you one of a City, and two of a Tribe, a Tribe, and will bring you to Zion. One of a City is but a ſmall number to a whole City; two of a family or a Tribe, but a pitiful quantity to a whole Tribe. And yet only ſo ſmall a remnant that muſt be brought to Sion. How great then is the quantity of them that periſh?

Nay, if we ſhould take that literally which you have, Revel. VII. Twelve thouſand ſealed of every Tribe; an hundred forty four thouſand in all; yet how ſmall a number is this in compariſon of the thouſands of thouſands of the ſeed of Iſrael, that was ſcattered through the whole world. As that account in the days of Elias of ſeven thouſand, that bowed not the knee to Baal, was ſmall to the many hundred thouſands that were in all Iſrael. So likewiſe, ſaith our Apoſtle, There is a remnant, and but a remnant, at this preſent, Chap. XI. 5.

And if we compare how many thouſands of Iſrael there were, that never would receive the Goſpel, and how many thouſands that having received it, revolted from it, we ſhall find an infinite number periſhing in unbelief and apoſtacy, in compariſon of thoſe that believed and were ſaved. To omit how many millions of them have periſhed in unbelief and obduration, and ſo have periſhed all along theſe ſixteen hundred years.

This goes to the very ſoul of our holy Apoſtle, to ſee ſo vaſt a deſtruction of his people and Nation. Let us take ſome glimpſe of his proſpect from the ſtory of a ſlaughter in the Eaſt-Indies, a Tyrant cauſed all the Inhabitants of a great City and Country about it, to the number of ſix hundred thouſand, to be fettered in chains, and manacles, and to be laid ſo bound in a great plain, and thither he comes himſelf, and at his command his Souldiers ſlay that vaſt number of people at one clap. What a ſight had been here for a tender heart, Six hundred thouſand throats of men, women and children cut at one inſtant. Our tender hearted Apoſtle is looking upon a proſpect of ſlaughter incomparably beyond that for ſadneſs, though that were ſad enough and enough again. If you regard ſlaughter of bodies, thoſe of his Nation outvied the number of theſe that were ſlain. Here were Six hundred thouſand, but at the taking of Jeruſalem Eleven hundred thouſand periſhed by ſword, peſtilence and famine; beſides almoſt an hundred thouſand taken captives.

But ſecondly, It is not the periſhing of bodies, that he mourneth over, but the periſhing of ſouls. A whole Nation ſcattered over the whole earth, and ſo periſhing by thouſands of thouſands ſoul and body to all eternity. It grieves him to the ſoul to look upon ſuch a numberleſs ſlaughter of ſouls periſhing and going to eternal flames: His whole Nation to become a Calvary, a place of ſculs, of ruined ſouls, periſhing in blindneſs and unbelief. According to that Iſa. LXVI. ult. He goes forth in his meditation, and looks upon the carkaſſes of thoſe that had ſo rebelled againſt God; and thinks of their worms never dying, and their fires never quenched. And the thoughts of this pierceth his ſoul through and through, as with a ſword; that he thinks Jeremies wiſh too low and little for him, Oh that my head were a fountain, and my eyes ciſterns; but he takes a deeper ſigh, and a deeper wiſh, I could wiſh to be accurſed from Chriſt, &c.

II. Is it only the vaſtneſs of the numbers that were to periſh that he looks upon with ſo much regret and yearning of bowels? That is not all, but he cannot but obſerve alſo the ſad manner of their periſhing, viz. under a peculiar quarrel of Chriſt againſt them, and a ſpecial curſe and vengeance upon them.

This very Apoſtle denounceth the doom and equity of it in that paſſage, 1 Cor. XVI. 22. If any man love not the Lord Jeſus Chriſt let him be Anathema, Maranatha. Or, Accurſed at the Lords coming. Which direful thunderbolt that it is directly and more eſpecially levelled and aimed at that Nation, may be collected, partly becauſe he uſeth their own language to ſpeak it in, Maran Atha, and chiefly becauſe no people under Heaven did leſs love the Lord Jeſus, or ſo much hate him.

The word Anathema, that he uſeth there, he uſeth here; there denouncing a curſe upon that people, and here wiſhing a curſe upon himſelf, on condition they might eſcape it. He ſeeth it threatned in ſo diſmal terms upon them in many places of Scripture, and now he ſeeth it coming in ſo diſmal a manner upon them, that what would he not give, what would he not be, that they might eſcape it?

Such Thunderclaps as theſe that follow, ſound dreadfully againſt them, and light heavily upon them, which makes the tender hearted Apoſtle to tremble for their ſakes. Deut. XXXII. 22, 23. A fire is kindled in my anger, and it ſhall burn unto the loweſt hell, &c. I will heap miſchiefs upon them, I will ſpend mine arrows upon them. And ſo he goes on in fire and thunder, Iſa. I. 9. Set a very little remnant aſide, and they ſhall be as Sodom, and ſhall periſh as Gomorrha; monuments of Divine vengeance to all generations, Iſa. LXV. 15. Ye ſhall leave your name for a curſe unto my choſen. And the very laſt verſe of that Prophet leaves them in fire with the never dying worm for their rebellion. And the laſt words of the Old Teſtament threaten a curſe upon the land, if they diſobey; which they did to the higheſt degree, and ſo fell under the loweſt curſe.

This

This Apoſtle very well knew, that that ſaying of the Prophets, Iſa. XI. 4. He ſhall ſmite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips he ſhall ſlay the wicked one; did aim more eſpecially and directly at that wicked Nation. And ſo he himſelf applies it in 2 Theſ. II. 8. And then ſhall that wicked one be revealed, &c. He very well knew that thoſe words of our Saviour, As for theſe mine enemies that would not have me to rule over them, bring hither and ſlay them before me, did moſt peculiarly reflect upon that people, whom Chriſt deſtroyed as direfully, as they rejected him ſcornfully. And in a word our Apoſtle knew, that Chriſts fearful deſtroying of that Nation is expreſſed and charactered in Scripture as his great victory and triumph, and glory, as indeed it were endleſs to cite places to ſhew. So fatally did they fall under Chriſts peculiar quarrel againſt them, and curſe and vengeance upon them. That whereas Revel. VI. 2. he is deſcribed as mounted and riding forth conquering and to conquer; if you look well upon what follows all along that Chapter, you will find his conqueſt to be the deſtroying that Nation.

This is a ſecond thing that pierceth the heart of this our moſt charitable Apoſtle through and through, to think that it ſhould be ſo with that Nation.

III. Nor are theſe things alone in the Apoſtles thoughts, but he remembers they had been Gods old and Covenanted people; a people upon whom his name had been called; a people for whom he had done ſo great things as he had done, and theſe now to be deſtroyed and periſh. Read the very next words after the Text, Who are Iſraelites, to whom pertain the Adoption, and the Glory, and the Covenants, and the giving of the Law, and the ſervice of God, and the promiſes; of whom are the Fathers, and of whom Chriſt came as concerning the fleſh. And now all to be ſo horridly changed, ſo as to them ſhould now pertain the Curſe, the Wrath, the Vengeance; and that Chriſt ſhould come to rejoyce and triumph in their deſtruction. This makes the tide of his affection to flow ſo high, nay to flow even above all meaſure, as it does here in the Text.

And what wilt thou do for thy great Name? How would the Heathen ſay, Where is now their God? How would the Nations that were about them, (not conſidering how they had deſerved deſtruction at the hands of God) be ready to fly in the face of God with ſcorn and blaſphemy, as if he were not ſo faithful to them, as he ſhould have been; and that he could not do for them as he ſhould have done? So Moſes of old pleads with God, when he was ready to deſtroy them in the Wilderneſs, with ſuch an argument, The Egyptians will ſay, that God could not perform his word, and bring them into the land that he had promiſed them.

So that our Apoſtles charity looks towards them, and would not have them periſh; and his Zeal looks towards God, and would not have him diſhonoured. And from both theſe together, his wiſh and words, For I could wiſh that I my ſelf were accurſed from Chriſt for my Brethren.

Upon the words we have occaſion to obſerve theſe three things:

I. The terms of his wiſh, or what it is he could wiſh, to be accurſed from Chriſt.

II. The terms or condition wherenpon he could wiſh it, For his Brethren and Kinſmens ſake of the Jewiſh Nation, that they might not periſh. And,

III. The cauſe or original of his being thus content ſo to wiſh; his great zeal for God, and his great love to their ſouls.

To explain a little the firſt, viz. the thing that he could wiſh: In the Original it is Ἀνάθημα εἶναι ἀπὸ τοῦ Χριστοῦ, To be Anathema from Chriſt; which the Text of your Bibles renders, to be accurſed from Chriſt; the Margin, to be ſeparated. And the word indeed means both, or indeed but one and the ſame thing in both. The Greek word is uſed in Levit. XXVII. for a thing ſeparate, or ſet a part, as a thing accurſed to him that ſhall meddle with it. And ſo the ſpoil of Jericho is ſaid to be an accurſed thing. It was indeed a conſecrate thing, ſacred and dedicated to the Treaſury of the Lord; but an accurſed thing to him that ſhould meddle with it, to take it for his own; as it proved to Achan with his wedg.

But the word is uſed not only of things, but of perſons, men or women; to wit, ſuch as were undoubtedly doomed to deſtruction. And ſo it is taken alſo in Levit. XXVII. and ſo in 1 Cor. XVI. 22. He that loveth not the Lord Jeſus let him be Anathema, that is accurſed. And to the like ſenſe the Apoſtle here, I could wiſh my ſelf to be an accurſed thing from Chriſt; that he ſhould have nothing to do with me, that I ſhould be an execrable thing unto him.

The Apoſtle to expreſs how earneſtly he deſires the ſalvation of his Nation, names the worſt thing that can be named or thought; and profeſſeth that he could willingly undergo that, that they might obtain ſalvation. And his expreſſion intimates two degrees of miſery, one above another. Firſt, that he may be ſeparate and ſet a part from Chriſt, ſo as that Chriſt ſhould have nothing to do with him. Secondly, that he ſhould become a curſe or execration to Chriſt, or as an accurſed thing to him. Direful and dreadful things to be ſuppoſed or ſpoken of! Than which no ſadder or more doleful can be imagined or conceived. Only

Only this we may obſerve, That the Apoſtle doth not down right wiſh himſelf accurſed; but intimates that if his being ſo would redeem his Nation from the Curſe, he could be content to be ſo.

His Expreſſion may give us occaſion to meditate, What a ſad thing it is to be ſeparate from Chriſt, as a thing accurſed: and to conſider with our ſelves, how the caſe may be with us as to this particular.

Now he that knows what Chriſt is, needs no more proof to ſhew, what it is to be ſeparate from him. If in him alone be life, Joh. I. 4. to be ſeparate from him can be nothing elſe but death. And if there be no Condemnation to them that are in Chriſt Jeſus, Rom. VIII. 1. there can be nothing but condemnation to him that is not in him. It is the ſaying of our Apoſtle 2 Cor. XII. 2. I knew a man in Chriſt, taken up into the third Heaven. What by the rule of contraries can become of him, that is out of Chriſt? I would we could but ſeriouſly lay theſe three things to heart, which are the particulars of the matter before us. I.

Firſt, How ſad a thing it is for Chriſt to have nothing to do with a man, but to diſclaim him?

Secondly, How ſadder, if ſadder needs be, is it for Chriſt to be aſhamed of a man, and diſdain to own him? And,

Thirdly, Yet ſadder, if poſſible, for Chriſt to curſe a man, or at leaſt to look upon him as a thing accurſed? Are not all theſe included in the Apoſtles expreſſion here? And is not any of theſe the ſaddeſt thing, that can poſſibly befal a man? It may be, you will ſay Hell fire is worſe than theſe; the Worm that never dyes, Eternal wrath and vengeance are worſe than theſe. But doth not this ſeparation from Chriſt include all theſe? And can any other come of it but Fire and Wrath and Vengeance?

How then is the caſe with thee as to this particular? Oh! I doubt not but I am Gods: I hope Chriſt owns propriety and intereſt in me. But upon what ground doſt thou think, that God owns thee? What reaſon haſt thou to think, that Chriſt acknowledges thee for a ſheep of his, againſt the claim of the Wolf and the roaring Lion? II.

I have heard of a man that laid claim unto a very great Eſtate upon no other ground in the world, but becauſe he dreamed one night, that that Eſtate was his. Mens confidence about their ſpiritual welfare moſt commonly proceeds from no other ground but merely becauſe they dream ſo: like them who in reference to outward welfare, 1 Theſ. V. dreamt of Peace, Peace, when ſudden deſtruction was juſt entring in at the door. It makes me remember that ſaying of Jude, verſ. 8. Theſe filthy Dreamers defile the fleſh, deſpiſe dominion, and ſpeak evil of dignites. And why does he call them Dreamers rather than any other title? Becauſe all their confidence in what they did, came but from a fancy and dream, and had no better foundation: and though they did this evil, yet they dream they ſhall ſpeed well enough.

God lays claim to no man, but becauſe he ſeeth that in him that pleaſeth him. He calls none his, that is offenſive to him. The wit of man cannot invent a reaſon, why God ſhould own a man, that goes on in his wickedneſs, and lay claim to him for his own, that is continually offending him. Plead Election, plead the infiniteneſs of Gods mercy, plead the freeneſs of his Grace, plead what you can; you can never give real ſatisfaction to your own heart, that God claims any intereſt in you, or owns you for his own, till you walk ſo as to pleaſe him. For what does an ungodly and wicked man differ from a ſeparate thing from Chriſt, and one that he hath no claim to, and nothing to do withal? The Scripture tells us, That God hates the proud, abhors the covetous, ſcorns the ſcorners, frowns upon the ungodly, and deſpiſeth evil doers.

And this fruitful Meditation I have gathered from the mention that is here made of being accurſed or ſeparated from Chriſt. Now from the conſideration of the perſon that could be willing to undergo this ſeparation, and of the reaſon why, viz. the ſaving of the ſouls of the Jews his Brethren, I may gather as fruitful a Doctrine. And that is this,

That the ſouls of other men ſhould be dear to us, as well as our own. And that it is cauſe of grief to ſee any ſoul periſh.

That the ſouls of theſe men were dearer to the Apoſtle than his own, in that he could be content that his ſhould periſh, ſo that theirs might not, is a thing of rare Example: and whether we are to write after ſuch a copy is a queſtion yet to be diſcuſſed. But that the ſouls of others ſhould be dear unto us, is ſo plain in this copy, that he that runs may read it.

It is not for kindreds ſake barely, that he is ſo affectionate to them, though he call them Brethren and Kinſmen; but it is their ſouls that he looks after, that the ſpirit might be ſaved in the day of the Lord Jeſus, and not periſh. It were needleſs to ſhew, how earneſtly he laboured to ſave as many ſouls as poſſible, and if it were poſſible, that no ſoul ſhould periſh. His pains, and Preaching, his actions and Epiſtles breathed ſuch affection every where, and to all perſons.

But this, you will ſay, belonged to his Function, as he was an Apoſtle and Miniſter. But doth this belong to every private perſon to be ſo tender to the ſouls of all?

I am loath this Queſtion ſhould be asked; it is ſo like Cains queſtion, Am I my Brothers keeper? Have I any thing to do with another mans ſoul, that I ſhould trouble my ſelf about it?

But how ſhall we interpret that great Command, Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thy ſelf. But firſt, Who is my Neighbour? Our Saviour Anſwers it with a Parable. Let me Anſwer it with another queſtion; nay, Who is not thy Neighbour? In that Parable of the Man that fell among Thieves, and the good Samaritan relieving him, our Saviour ſhews, that even one of another Nation, even one of an Enemy Nation is to be accounted a Neighbour. For ſo were the Samaritans to the Jews: and yet the Samaritan that pitied, was Neighbour, in our Saviours conſtruction, to him that fell among Thieves. The Greek and Latine word that is uſed to ſignifie a Neighbour, ſignifies properly one that is near to one; but it means nearneſs of relation and affection, rather than nearneſs of place. Nearneſs of relation, that is, as all are made of one blood: and nearneſs of affection, that ſhould be, as all are of one ſhape and image. Every one is our Neighbour of what Land or Nation, ſtate or condition ſoever; becauſe every one is related to us by theſe reſpects.

Well; every one is our Neighbour, and we are to love our Neighbour, that is, every one, as our ſelves: to hate none, to malice none, to be enemy to none, but to love every one. And what eſpecially to love in him? That that is the chief and moſt regardable, and moſt precious in him; and that is his Soul. To have an affection, a regard, a kindneſs for every mans Soul, and to owe, and pay a duty that we owe to them: and that upon as urgent obligations as likely can be; and thoſe are, the duty of Charity, and the preciouſneſs of every ſoul: or to knit them both in one, Charity to every one becauſe of his Soul.

If we ſhould queſtion, why we are to love our Neighbour as our ſelf? What is the proper Anſwer? Becauſe God hath commanded it. But did God command it without reaſon? And what is the proper reaſon of the Command? Does not that lye eſpecially in reference to the Soul of every man? David hath a ſaying, Pſal. XXXIII. 13, &c. The Lord looketh down from Heaven, and beholdeth all the Children of men. He faſhioneth their hearts alike. From whence ſome argue, that the ſouls of all the Inhabitants of the Earth are alike. And ſo indeed as to their eſſential conſtitution they are all alike. That very thing may huſh all exceptions againſt the loving of every man; and may quell malice and enmity againſt any. Conſider theſe things.

Firſt, That man that loves not every man for his ſouls ſake, knows not the value and excellency of a Soul. For did he, that very thing would move affection in him towards it. Beauty of it ſelf is an Attractive of affection, and it doth as it were charm the heart to love it, and delight in it. And if a Soul in its eſſential conſtitution be not beautiful and lovely, what thing upon earth can be counted beautiful and lovely? A Soul that carries the image of God in its very conſtitution: a Soul, that is like to the nature of Angels in its eſſence and being: a Soul, that is capable of the Divine Nature: a Soul, that is capable of Eternal Life and Glory. If this be not lovely, what is lovely?

It is accounted a great piece of Policy to ſtudy Men; to obſerve and take notice of the tempers, humors, paſſions, carriages of men: and ſome have come to be great Statesmen by ſuch obſervation. I am ſure, it is a great piece of Wiſdom to ſtudy Souls, and to obſerve the nature, worth, price, excellency both of our own, and other mens. And there is not a more general and comprehenſive cauſe of the ruine of Souls, than mens ignorance of, and unacquaintedneſs with their own ſouls. And it is no wonder, if men be not tender of the ſouls of otherss when they are thus regardleſs of their own. And the cauſe of that is, becauſe they are ſo unacquainted with the great value of any Soul.

Secondly, I might inſiſt to ſhew, that he that is not tender of the Soul of another, is not tender towards his own: becauſe he neglects ſo great a Duty, viz. his being regardful of his Neighbours Soul: the Duty of that great Command, Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour.

I might ſhew alſo, that a heart, that is right ſoftned, and made tender by Grace and Charity and Religion, is ſoft and tender to every one, towards every thing, wherein Religion, and piety and goodneſs may be concerned. A heart of ſtone is a heart of ſtone throughout, and no ſoftneſs in it. It is not ſoftned toward God to love him; nor toward its own Soul, to love that; nor to its Neighbour, to love him. But a heart of fleſh is ſoft and tender throughout towards every thing, toward which it ought to be ſoft and tender. Yea, as Solomon will tell you, A good man is merciful and tender towards his very Beaſt; when the very mercies of the wicked are cruel.

But

But what affection is it, that we owe to every Soul in the World? Muſt we come up to write after this copy of the Apoſtle before us: to be content and wiſh, that our own ſouls ſhould periſh on condition other mens ſouls ſhould be ſaved?

So far, you will ſay, he was within compaſs, to tender their ſouls, to deſire that they might not periſh, and to mourn for their perdition: this is ſomething within reaſon. But to wiſh that himſelf might periſh, that they might eſcape it; to be accurſed from Chriſt, that they might not be ſo; Who required this at his hands? And muſt our Chriſtian Charity come to that pitch, or we come not to the right pitch of Charity?

Toward the anſwering this Queſtion, let me firſt ask another. Would he have wiſhed thus in behalf of any other Nation but his own? Would he have been content to have been accurſed from Chriſt for the people of Edom, Syria, Greece, Italy, or any other Country? You will ſay, It may be he would not: for they were not ſo near akin to him as the ſeed of Iſrael was. But kindred was the leaſt thing that wrought with him here, though that was ſomewhat: but that his people periſhed, the old people of God periſhed, the old Church of God periſhed; there was an end of the Covenant of God with them, an end of the Promiſes to their Fathers; and they that had been more to God than all the world beſides, were now to fall under his wrath and curſe more than all the world beſides: this wrought deeply with him.

An Occurrence, ſuch as the like was never to occur again; an Occurrence ſo ſtrange and dreadful, that the ruine and deſtruction of that Nation is commonly charactered in Scripture, as the ruine and deſtruction of the whole world: as if Heaven and Earth paſſed away, when that Church and State paſſed away: and as if Sun and Moon and ſtars fell to the ground, when the ſtate and Ordinances of that Church fell.

Lay all theſe things then together, as on heaps of miſery and ſadneſs, and conceive our Apoſtle looking on them, and we ſhall ſee both the reaſon of his extraordinary ſorrow (which we have in part ſeen already) and warrant for his extraordinary Wiſh.

He ſees with ſad eyes and tears in them his whole Nation and blood and kindred, to be rejected, ſcattered, deſtroyed, ruined. It fetcheth more tears to think, that all thoſe Souls muſt periſh, as well as their outward eſtate. But it makes the tide flow above meaſure, to think of a whole Church deſtroyed, the Ordinances of God laid in the duſt, all the Providences of God for that people come to ſuch an end: The Children of the Kingdom caſt into outer darkneſs; and the Name of God blaſphemed by the enemy for their ſakes.

Theſe indeed you will ſay, were very juſt cauſes of his grief; but were theſe juſt warrants for him to make ſuch a wiſh againſt himſelf, that he might be accurſed for them.

This ſtrange Wiſh, I ſay again as I ſaid before, came not from paſſion or over-ſight, but from Charity and Zeal. And it was Charity and Zeal above the ordinary meaſure, as the man, whoſe they were, was a man above the ordinary ſtate of men. As he had more revelation from God of the things of the Goſpel and Heaven, than ever man had, as having been rapt into Heaven to contemplate them: So had he more Zeal and Charity, we may juſtly ſay, than ever man had. Zeal for God, and Charity for Souls. And it were no hard thing to make a fair probability of the truth of it. So that as he was rapt into Heaven to attain to his revelations, ſo he is wrapt as it were into an altitude and ſublimity of theſe two things above other men, when he prefers Gods glory in ſaving his Nation before his own ſalvation, and the Souls of his Nation before his own Soul. And this abounding, ſuperabounding Zeal and Charity, is that that moves him to make ſuch a Wiſh; and his Conſcience and the Holy Ghoſt warrant it. I ſpeak the truth in Chriſt, I lye not; My Conſcience alſo bearing me witneſs in the Holy Ghoſt, that I could wiſh my ſelf accurſed, &c.

But to return then to the former Queſtion, Muſt an ordinary Chriſtian write after this copy, and come up to ſuch a pitch of Charity and Zeal?

I might anſwer the occaſion is extraordinary, the perſon extraordinary, the meaſure of Charity and Zeal extraordinary. And therefore it cannot ſerve for an ordinary Rule.

Again, I might briefly anſwer, as we ſometimes anſwer Children. For pardon me, if I take up that homely and familiar compariſon. It is ordinary with Children, when they have meat in their hand to be greedy, and think they have not enough, but they cry for more. But we commonly ſtill them with bidding them firſt eat up that they have, and then they ſhall have more. God hath put thy task into thy hand, Chriſtian, viz. Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thy ſelf. Ply, take out, digeſt that task; and then it may be ſeaſonable to ask, What muſt I do more? Here the love of the Apoſtle to others is more than to himſelf: God requires of thee to love thy Neighbour as thy ſelf: Go and do that, and never trouble thy ſelf to queſtion, what thou haſt more to do toward thy Neighbour, till thou haſt done that.

Keep but pace with the Apoſtle, as he paceth like a Chriſtian: this is the task God requires of us. He requires not that we keep pace with him, as he paceth like an Apoſtle. We

We poor Children cannot expect to keep even pace with ſo great a Father ofthe Church, as this Apoſtle was. It is our work to follow his ſteps, though Non paſſibus æquis, though not with even pace, yet as well as we can.

But to conſider of this caſe more particularly and diſtinctly. Concerning our Duty, or what we are to do, we are to conſider, What is poſſible, what is lawful, and what is required. For that may be lawful which is not poſſible; and that may be lawful, which is not required. For example, it were very lawful for a man, to be as wiſe as Solomon, if he could attain to it, but that is impoſſible. So it is very lawful for a man to ſpeak with the tongue of Men and of Angels, if he could do it, but it is not poſſible to be done. So on the other hand: It is very lawful for a man to ſpend all his life in ſtudy and reading of Books, but this is not required of all, becauſe they have other juſt and lawful callings to follow. So it is very lawful for a Man, as Timothy, to drink nothing but water, but it is not required; ſince God hath afforded other wholeſome Drinks: and every creature of God is good, being received with thanksgiving.

So as to our Duty, or what we are to do, we are to determine what is lawful by what is required. I ſpeak of our Chriſtian Duty; for as to our Chriſtian Liberty, that is not to be determined by what is required but by what is warranted. Now as to the thing before us.

I. It is impoſſible we ſhould reach to that height of Grace, that this great Apoſtle attained to. We cannot look, that our poor ſpark of Grace, if it be any, ſhould ſhine ſo bright, as this glorious ſtar of the firſt magnitude: nor that we poor worms creeping altogether upon the Earth, ſhould ſoar to that pitch, that he did, that was rapt into the third Heaven. And therefore not being in the ſame capacity with him in Grace, we cannot think we are in the capacity of making the ſame wiſh with him: which came merely from the abounding Grace of Zeal and Charity, that was in him.

II. Then, which we muſt eſpecially look after, is it required from us that we ſhould wiſh ſuch a wiſh to our ſelves to be accurſed from Chriſt for any mans ſalvation? Is it either our Chriſtian Duty and we bound to do it; or is it with in our Chriſtian Liberty, and we licenced to it?

I check my ſelf for that I go about to diſcuſs ſuch a caſe as this; when there is a great deal more need to bewail the ſad want of common Duty, that the Apoſtle paſſed through, to come to that pitch he did. Which when any man hath paſſed through, then if he have warrant, as the Apoſtle had, let him wiſh as he did. The pitch that he came to, was to love his Neighbour above himſelf, when he could wiſh ſo much evil, to himſelf for their good. But the way that he went up thither was by loving his Neighbour as himſelf.

And this is the way that we are to ſet into, and to keep in: and to write after him in this, though we cannot, nor are required to do, in the other.

There are then three ſteps or degrees of the Apoſtles Charity. Firſt, He hated no man in the world. Secondly, He loved his Neighbour as himſelf. Thirdly, He loved him above himſelf. Now it is without all doubt, in the two former of theſe we are all abſolutely bound to follow him.

I. To hate no man in the world, to be enemy to none. That Gloſs that the Jews made upon the Command, Matth. V. 43. Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour, and hate thine Enemy: was a Gloſs from Hell, and not from Heaven; from Satan and not from God. And how our Saviour confutes it; and how he teaches what a Chriſtian is to do in that caſe, you may ſee there, Love your Enemies, bleſs them that curſe you, do good to them that hate you. As he of old ſaid, He knew not what to morrow meant, becauſe he looked upon every preſent day, as his laſt: So a true Chriſtian knows not what enmity or hatred to any Man means, becauſe he looks upon every Man as his Brother. And it was a moſt noble commendation, that one gives of another; Our Friend Sturmius hated no Man, but only Vice, Wickedneſs, Hereſie and the Devil.

A true Chriſtian hates no Man upon his own quarrel. David profeſſeth to God, Do not I hate them that hate thee? Yes, I hate them with a perfect hatred. But it was upon no quarel of his own, but becauſe they hated God. Nor was it their Perſons he hated, but their Qualities. So this Apoſtle would have thoſe that loved not the Lord Jeſus to be accurſed, 1 Cor. XVI. 22. It was not becauſe they loved not him, or he them, but becauſe they loved not Chriſt.

There is nothing in the world more common than the hate of one againſt another; whereas there is nothing in the world, of which you can give leſs a reaſon. Why a Man ſhould love every Man in the world, I can give variety of reaſons; but why any one ſhould hate any one Man in the world, the invention of Men and Devils cannot give a ſolid reaſon. He hath wronged thee: So haſt thou done others. He hath deceived thee: So haſt thou, but too oft, done thy ſelf. He hath been offenſive to thee: So haſt thou been to God. Thou canſt give no reaſon, why thou ſhouldſt hate thy Brother, ther, but the ſame will be retorted upon thee, that for the ſame cauſe thou ſhouldſt hate thy ſelf.

II. To love our Neighbour as our ſelves: This is a Royal Law, Jam. II. 8. or the Law of the King. And that which the King of his Church hath not only given, but a Law, which he put himſelf alſo in ſubjection to. Deny elſe his doing for mankind. Did he not love his Neighbour, Man, as himſelf, when he left the boſom of his Father, to take the nature, the infirmities, the ſins of Man upon him? Did he not love his Neighbour, Man, as himſelf, when he laid down his life for him: and that with as exquiſite cruelty, anguiſh and torture executed againſt him, as Men and Devils could invent? And if you doubt of his love to Man, his Neighbour; look into the wound in his ſide, and put your finger into the print of the nails in his hands and feet; and ask how thoſe came there.

And when this Patern and Copy of Love ſends his choiſe Apoſtle into the world, to teſtifie his love to the world; he warrants, and he inables him to expreſs as much love to Men, as it was poſſible for Man to expreſs. Look elſe upon his indefatigable pains for the good of Men, his ſufferings, his troubles, his bonds and impriſonment, and in a word, the conſtant courſe of his life and miniſtry: And all for the benefit of Men in the ſervice of his Maſter. And then believe the better, what he ſpeaks here, That he could wiſh himſelf accurſed, that they might be ſaved.

This is the Copy of a Chriſtian, and not of an Apoſtle only. And this muſt every one of us write after in the beſt degree we can.

Now if any inquire what is the proper reaſon and ground of the love of our Neigbour, I might treat at large of theſe things; That a Chriſtian is to love every one.

I. For his own ſake.

II. For Gods ſake.

III. For his Souls ſake.

I. For his own ſake. If any ask, why? the Anſwer is ready, becauſe he is thine own fleſh and blood. All the Nation of Iſrael is akin to our Apoſtle, as all deſcending of one blood. So this ſame Apoſtle tells, that all the men in the world do, Act. XVII. 26. God hath made of one blood all Nations of Men. Men of all Nations are akin, for they are all of one blood. Nay that of the Prophet ſeems to bring the kindred ſomething nearer, Eſ. LVIII. 7. That thou hide not thy ſelf from thine own fleſh. The Prophets meaning is, That thou hide not thy ſelf from the poor, when he comes to ſeek relief and comfort from thee. A poor, tattered miſerable creature, that it may be thou wouldſt ſcorn to look upon, or be loath to come near, or have any thing to do withall; yet for all thy goodlineſs, he is thine own fleſh.

II. For Gods ſake. Becauſe he commands it, urges it, and it is pleaſing to him. Doeſt thou love God? This Love of God is to keep his Commandments. And there is hardly any Command that is urged more, than Love and Unity, and affection one towards another.

III. A third bond that ſhould tye us to love our Neighbour is, For his Souls ſake. This was that that eſpecially moved the Apoſtle to ſuch an Affection towards his Nation. He had as little cauſe upon any outward or carnal reſpect to love them, as a man could have. They were indeed his Brethren, but Brethren Enemies; they were his Kinſmen, but ſpiteful Kinſmen: he never enjoyed peace or ſafety for them. When were they not clamouring againſt, accuſing, whipping, perſecuting, impriſoning him, and ſeeking his life? And yet he cannot but love them, wiſh them well for their Souls ſake.

You would think the Apoſtle little loved the inceſtuous Perſon, 1 Cor. V. but his very ſeverity was out of love to his Soul, verſ. 5. That the ſpirit might be ſaved. When he gave up Hymeneus and Alexander to Satan, one would think he heartily hated them, when he dealt ſo ſeverely with them: but it was, that, if poſſible, good might accrue to their Souls. For conſider his reaſon of that action, I have given them up to Satan. Why? Not that I might plague them, revenge my ſelf on them, bring them to ruine: but that they might learn not to blaſpheme, 1 Tim. I. 20. That if it may be, they may learn better manners and Religion.

The Kings Daughter is black but comely, Cant. I. Black becauſe the Sun hath looked upon her. She was born in the Morians Land. But ſhe is glorious within; becauſe of her virtuouſneſs and goodneſs. The ſinful Souls of men, as they are ſinful, are black, deformed things: but as they are Souls, and in regard of their Eſſential conſtitution, they are lovely and precious. And there is more in any Soul in the World to move thee to love him, than there is in his Perſon or Actions to move thee to hate him.

And how great is the beauty of the Soul, when it carries the image of God himſelf? Even the pooreſt and moſt contemptible Soul in the world carries the image of God upon it. It is Gods own argument againſt Murther, Gen. IX. 6. Whoſo ſheddeth Mans blood, by Man ſhall his blood be ſhed; for in the image of God made he Man. The very ſame may be uſed againſt the hating of our Neighbour, the ſeed of Murther; thou ſhalt not hate thy Neighbour, for in the image of God he made thy Neighbour.

Object.

Object. But I had thought, that by the fall of Man, the image of God had been quite loſt from him. For I have often heard, that every Man is born in the ſinful image of Adam: but the glorious image of God is utterly gone off from him. And ſo the Apoſtle, Rom. III. 23. We have all ſinned, and come ſhort of the glory of God.

Anſwer. Do you not obſerve that, Gen. I. 26. where mention is made of Adams Creation, that God ſaid, Let us make Man in our image, after our likeneſs. Where the image of God refers to the Eſſence of mans Soul; the likeneſs, to the qualities. The Qualities were Holineſs and Righteouſneſs in the likeneſs of God. And ſo the Apoſtle, Eph. IV. 22, &c. tells, That when any ſoul is reſtored again to the likeneſs of God, it is in Holineſs and Righteouſneſs. This is utterly loſt in humane nature, till Grace reſtore it in any Perſon. But the image of God, that is in the Soul, viz. as the Soul is a ſpiritual, underſtanding, immortal ſubſtance: that is not extinguiſhed by ſin, nor cannot be by any thing. And ſo when God forbids Murther, he doth it with this argument, That he that kills a Man, deſtroys one that carries the image of God. And yet then the likeneſs of God in Man, Holineſs and Righteouſneſs, was utterly gone: but the image of God in theſe eſſential conſtitutives in ſoul were ſtill remaining in him.

Upon that ſaying of God, Whoſo ſheddeth Mans blood, by Man ſhall his blood be ſhed, for in the image of God made he Man: if any Man queſtion, Is this meant of every Man in the world? Can any doubt it? Unleſs the Murther of ſome Men were allowed, though of others forbidden. Upon the very ſame argument we may urge the love of every man to every man, becauſe in the Image of God he created him. And if thou canſt find any man without the Image of God in his Soul, then hate him and ſpare not.

But then it will further be Objected, Then by this Argument I ſhould love the Devil; for he was created in the Image of God: that is, He is a ſpiritual, intellectual, immortal ſubſiſtence, as well as any mans Soul.

I Anſwer, He is ſo indeed; but theſe two things make now the vaſt difference.

Firſt, He is in a ſinful eſtate utterly irrecoverable. And ſo we cannot ſay of any ſoul in the world. The Apoſtle ſaith of the Angels that fell, That God caſt them down into Hell upon their Fall, 2 Pet. II. They are damned already irrecoverably: but you cannot ſay of any ſoul in the World abſolutely, that it cannot be ſaved.

Whether all Souls in the World be ſalvabiles, in a ſavable condition, we ſhall not diſpute; nor whence their ſalvability comes, if it be ſo. But certainly you and I, nor no Man in the world can ſay of any Man, that he cannot be ſaved. True, we may truly and juſtly ſay, that if he continue and dye in ſuch and ſuch ſins and wicked courſes, he cannot be ſaved. But of his ſoul conſidered in its bare eſſence we cannot ſay ſo. Nay, we muſt pray for his Salvation. This then is that that beautifies a Soul, and makes it lovely, and upon which we are to love every Man, becauſe he hath a ſoul capable of enjoying God and Salvation: Shall I hate any Mans ſoul? It may be united to God: Hate any Mans body? It may be a Temple of the Holy Ghoſt: any Mans Perſon? He may be an Inheritor of Eternal Glory. Scorn not poor Joſeph for all his rags and impriſonment, he may come to ſit upon a Throne. Deſpiſe not poor Lazarus for all his Sores and Tatters, he may be carried by Angels into Abraham's boſom.

Secondly, Chriſt dyed for Souls, he dyed not for Devils. And this is no ſmall demonſtration of the Excellency and preciouſneſs of a Soul, viz. That the Son of God himſelf would dye for it. It is therefore the Apoſtles Argument, once and again, Offend not him, for whom Chriſt dyed. Deſtroy not him, for whom Chriſt dyed, Rom. XIV. 1 Cor. VIII. Dareſt thou hate him, for whom Chriſt dyed? Dareſt thou wrong him, for whom the Son of God would ſhed his blood?

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

GENESIS III. 20.

And Adam called his Wives name Eve, becauſe ſhe was the Mother of all living.

ADAMS ſtory is all wonder: Duſt ſo raiſed to become ſo brave a Creature: that Bravery ſo ſoon loſt: ſo ſoon repaired, and ſo hughly repaired to a better condition. That he is ſenſible of in the Text, therefore he calls his Wives name Eve, becauſe Mother to all living. He had named her quoad ſexum, as to her ſex, Chap. II. 23. Now he gives her another name of diſtinction. Then ſhe was called Woman, becauſe ſhe was taken out of Man: Now Eve, becauſe all living were to come out of her. Adam ſhewed Wiſdom in naming the Beaſts; here he ſhews that and more, viz. Faith, and ſenſe of his better Eſtate. She was rather the Mother of Death, having done that, that brought death into the world; but he ſenſible of a better life to come in by her, calls her Eve, Life, as the word ſignifies.

Lay this to that in Joh. I. 4. In him was life, ſpeaking of Chriſt, and the life was the light of men. Eve was the Mother of all living: viz. of Chriſt, and all that live by him.

So that hence I make this Obſervation, That Adam and Eve believed and obtained life. For the proof of this, let us view their ſtory.

I. God ſaith, I will put enmity between thee and the Woman, and between thy ſeed and her ſeed: it ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel, verſ. 15. Satan had accompanied with them, till this Promiſe came. He keeps to them to chear them; he perſwaded them to hide themſelves from the preſence of the Lord. But now ſhe ſets him at defyance. She ſees her error, The Serpent, ſaith ſhe, deceived me; grows at enmity with him having now a ſurer comfort promiſed, to rely upon.

II. God clothed them with skins, verſ. 21. Which is an evidence that they ſacrificed. For they had no need of ſlaying Beaſts for any other purpoſe: Fleſh they might not eat. They were ſlain for ſacrifice, and their skins ſerved for clothing. Thus Body and Soul were provided for. And in theſe Sacrifices they looked after Chriſt; and ſaw him in figure. The firſt death in the world was Chriſts dying in figure. Noah knew clean and unclean Beaſts, and ſacrificed. This undoubtedly he had learned from the beginning.

III. Obſerve that Luk. I. 70. As he ſpake by the mouth of his holy Prophets, which have been ſince the world began. Hinting that from the very beginning of the world there were Prophets of the Meſſias. Thus Adam was a Prophet of Chriſt: and propheſied of him in the name of Eve; ſignifying life. And Eve propheſied of him in the name of Cain, Gen. IV. 1. She conceived and bare Cain, and ſaid I have gotten a man from the Lord: Or I have begotten a man, the Lord: as the words may be rendred. And in the name Seth, Gen. IV. 25. She bare a Son and called his name Seth; For God, ſaith ſhe, hath appointed me another ſeed.

IV. The promiſe of the Meſſiah was not given to a Caſtaway. It was given to Abraham and David, and others, that were righteous men.

V. Religion began to be planted by Adam. Cain and Abel brought Sacrifice to God. Which ſhews that Religion had been planted before.

VI. Chriſt

VI. Christ prevailed against the Serpent from the beginning, and had a seed. The Church began with Adam. Else what confusion would there have been in the world?

VII. The Sabbath was given from the beginning, and Adam kept it.

VIII. All Gods dealings with him were to forward Faith in him. Such were his Cursing the ground; his expelling him out of Eden: his enjoyning him Sacrifice, and the Sabbath.

IX. Adam is ranked with holy ones, Gen. V. These things laid together may be sufficient to prove that Adam and Eve believed and obtained life.

II. Let us now in the next place view the means of their believing.

A New Covenant was made with them. They were under two Covenants in one day. As Noah saw two Worlds; so Adam saw an old Creation and a new. As it was said of him, Idem dies vidit Consulem & exulem: The same day saw him Consul, and a banished man. So the same day saw Adam under two vastly different conditions according to the tenor of the two Covenants. The form of either Covenant was not expresst plainly, but resulting. The Covenant of Grace, and the Covenant of Works, both somewhat obscure to him. But,

I. The enjoyment of God was necessarily intimated in both: not the enjoyment of the Creature. Adam was made a reasonable Soul for this purpose.

II. Obedience was the way. This is a Duty to God, and this is the way of the enjoyment of him: when we conform to God.

III. He saw he had now lost obedience, and the power of obedience. He had lost God, and the power of the enjoyment of him.

IV. God held out one that should recover him. And he, 1. A root of a seed, as Adam was. 2. Of an infinite Righteousness and Obedience beyond Adam. 3. One that should by Obedience destroy the works of the Devil for his own seed.

V. Adam saw no way of recovery, but by trusting in him. God must be satisfied, he could not do it: obeyed, he could not obey. Therefore he had no way but to cast himself on Christs obedience.

VI. The Covenant only held out Christ, to be trusted and believed on. Obedience was required even by the Law of Nature, and creatureship Faith was therefore enforced, because they could not perfectly obey.

VII. The Promise given in the curse of Satan, that God would put enmity between the seed of the Woman and the seed of the Serpent, and that the Womans seed should bruise the Serpents head: this had that effect upon them, that they set themselves to defy Satan, and cleave to the seed promised.

VIII. That Mercy that created them in an instant so perfect, recovered them in an instant.

III. Let us now in the third place view their condition under believing.

I. They were now representative no more: as they were of mankind before the Fall. They were stated in another representative, Christ. Now they acted for themselves, and he for them. Hence their Faith was not imputed to posterity, though their sin was.

II. They were built on another foundation, than they were before. Then it was on Nature, Self-holiness, Freedom of Will; sandy foundations, because changeable. Now on a Rock, Grace, and the Righteousness of Christ.

III. Now they have the Spirit of God working in them. With Christ God gave his Spirit: whereas before they had only natural abilities.

IV. Now they were under a Promise, before not. That Christ should break the head of the Serpent contained the promise of all good things.

V. They were under such Evangelical revealings, that they wanted nothing needful for Salvation.

The Improvement of this discourse shall be in two or three Uses.

I. This magnifies Gods Grace to them and mankind. How great is this Grace! which will appear, if you consider these things.

1. There was as much done to provoke God for ever as was possible. Compute the sin of Adam with all its circumstances.

2. Here was greater Mercy than to the Angels that fell.

3. Nay than to the Angels that fell not.

4. Grace

4. Grace reſtored man to a better condition than he was in before. We may admire all this, and reſolve all into Grace.

What comfort then is here to poor ſinners? Look on an Example, that of St. Paul, who was the chief of ſinners, yet Grace was exceeding abundant towards him, 1 Tim. I. 14, 15. He was a blaſphemer, and a perſecutor, and injurious. Here were ſins like ſcarlet, yet forgiven. You that are under the pangs of conſcience, conſider this Grace. Thou canſt not ſin ſo hainouſly, as Adam did, if thou addeſt not wilfulneſs and impenitency, nor fall ſo high, nor damn poſterity, as he did, and yet he obtained pardon. Take one Example more: There were ſome pardoned, that Crucified the ſecond Adam.

II. See the wretchedneſs of the ſin of Devils, that is beyond pardon. Their unpardonableneſs in what lay it? In theſe two things.

1. They ſinned of pride and malice: Adam and Eve of ignorance and weakneſs. Take heed of ſinning proudly and preſumptuouſly.

2. They were in the ſtate of Eternity: therefore their change to evil was unchangable. Man carried the plea of weakneſs in his nature, they not.

III. There is the ſame Grace, Chriſt, Promiſe, Covenant from the beginning.

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

1 JOHN III. 12.

Not as Cain, who was of that wicked one, and ſlew his Brother; and wherefore ſlew he him? Becauſe his own works were evil, and his Brothers righteous.

THESE words refer to verſ. 11. For this is the meſſage that ye heard from the beginning, that we ſhould love one another: and indeed to the tenor of all John's Epiſtles, every where exhorting to love, and not to be as Cain, who was of that wicked one and ſlew his Brother.

He had given two marks of one not born of God, verſ. 10. Whoſoever doth not righteouſneſs is not of God, neither he that loveth not his Brother. They are both here in Cain. Who was ſo far from love and righteouſneſs, that he hated his Brother and ſlew him.

Wicked mens ſins are ſet down, that we may avoid them as Rocks. 1 Cor. X. 6. Theſe things were our Examples, to the intent we ſhould not luſt after evil things as they alſo luſted. But Cain's ſin reads more. It is the firſt ſtory after the Fall: And it ſhews.

I. The enmity 'twixt the ſeeds.

II. What poiſon Satan bad breathed into mans nature. The Holy Ghoſt in that ſtory bids us look on him: Thou art the Man. This is Man fallen. Of Seth it is ſaid, Gen. V. 3. that he was begot in Adam's image: here it needs not be ſaid, it is ſo plain.

In the words we have a deſcription of the Father, and the eldeſt ſon, viz. the Devil and Cain.

I. The Devil deſcribed by a moſt proper denomination, ὁ πονηρὸς, The wicked one.

II. Cain by his extraction and action. He was of the wicked one and ſlew his Brother.

We will firſt clear theſe, and then make ſome obſervations from them.

I. The denomination of the Devil, That wicked one. So he is ſtiled, Matth. XII. 45. Then goeth he, and taketh with himſelf ſeven other Spirits more wicked than himſelf. Eph. VI. 16. Taking the ſhield of Faith, wherewith ye ſhall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked. So ſome underſtand that petition in the Lords Prayer, ῥύσαι ἡμᾶς ἀπὸ τοῦ πονηροῦ, Deliver us from Evil: that is, the Evil one. Nay Epheſ. VI. 12. the Devil is called Wickedneſs in the Abſtract: We wreſtle, &c. againſt ſpiritual wickedneſs in high places.

Firſt, He is called ὁ Πονηρὸς, The Wicked one, in oppoſition to ὁ Ἅγιος, The Holy one. As the unclean Spirit is oppoſed to the holy Spirit; ſo the wicked to the holy. As the Children of God and the Children of the Devil are oppoſed, verſ. 10. ſo here in regard of their nature. There are ſome therefore that define the Devil by what is moſt contrary to God.

1. He is become contrary. As Chriſt and Belial, light and darkneſs, 2 Cor. VI. 14, 15. In what? Not in regard of his eſſential ſubſiſtence, as he is a ſpirit, intellectual, immortal: nor in regard only of want of righteouſneſs and holineſs: but in regard of the bent of his will. As in our ſelves we may read too much of the Devil in that reſpect, that our Wills run ſo contrary to Gods. No, contrary to that that will be contrary: as Hannibal was to the Romans. For,

2. He ſets himſelf to be contrary. He is called ὁ Ἀντικείμενος, He that oppoſeth. His contrariety is reſolved, and wilful. In the firſt Fall, he ſet himſelf up againſt God, to be head. He deſpiſed his charge: and would head the creature againſt him. And he he continually fights against Gods Will and ways. See those two things verſ. 10. which diſtinguiſh the Children of God and of the Devil, Love and Righteouſneſs; the ſame make the diſtinction between God and the Devil. God loves Man, He hates him: God loves Righteouſneſs, He oppoſeth it. He ſtands up againſt Chriſt. There are two Heads in the world, Chriſt and the Devil: and he by his own pride and putting on.

Secondly, He is the Wicked one, as he is the Father of Wickedneſs. As Joh. VIII. 44: Ye are of your Father the Devil, and the Luſts of your Father ye will do. Ask who begat wicked works; the anſwer muſt be, The Devil.

1. He is Father of his own wickedneſs. He is his own Tempter, and begat his ſin within himſelf: Whereas Adam had ſomething ab extra, from without, that tempted him.

2. He is the Father of others wickedneſs, verſ. 8. He that committeth ſin is of the Devil. He was the Father of the firſt Sin. How might Adam have ſtood, if not tempted by one above him. He could not have believed a Creature could be againſt God; but believed him one, that was as a Meſſenger from God, as Angels were. He is the Father of all ſins. He hath concurrence to every ſin we commit. A general concurrence by poiſon infuſed into our Nature. As ſin hath a general concurrence to death; ſo the Devil hath ſuch a concurrence to ſin. And ſuch a particular concurrence, as we cannot ſay any ſin is without him. As no grace is without the ſpirit. I ſhall not ſpeak of his preſence with all, his influence with all.

Thirdly, He is ὁ πονηρὸς, the Wicked one, in that he is perfectly wicked. That is perfect, Cui nihil addi poteſt, vel detrahi. To which nothing can be added or taken away. So God is perfect: and ſo is the Saints Happineſs in Glory perfect happineſs. The Devil can be no more wicked or leſs: as God can be no more or leſs good. In Satans firſt ſin he could ſin no more than he did; nor againſt more light, nor could his ſin be of more pride and malice. He knew he ſhould be damned if he fell, yet he ſinned and fell. His continual ſinning cannot be more than it is; he cannot have more hate of God than he hath. For he hates every thing, that is like God, or likes him. And that not becauſe God damned him, but becauſe God is God above him. Nor can he be leſs wicked. For an Angel cannot ſin at a leſs rate than the deepeſt willfulneſs and malice: cannot be tempted, deceived, ignorant, wants not power to ſtand. And thus we ſee how the Devil is the Wicked one. Now,

II. We come to the Deſcription, that is given of Cain, and that is twofold, viz. by his extraction, he was of that wicked one. And by his action, And ſlew his Brother.

I. Let us conſider him with relation to his Extraction. He was of that wicked one. Such a phraſe you have, Joh. VIII. 44. mentioned before, You are of your Father the Devil.

It may be Queſtioned, Whether all in an unregenerate ſtate may be ſaid alike to be of the Devil. They are all Children of wrath, Eph. II. 2. Whether are they all alike Children of the Devil?

I Anſwer, 1. All are alike guilty, and Children of corruption. Sin is come over all. One hath as much original guilt, as another. Becauſe Adams whole ſin is on all, as Chriſts whole righteouſneſs is on His.

2. One hath as much ſinfulneſs and depravation of nature, as another. Alel as much as Cain. For all have ſinned and come ſhort of the glory of God, Rom. III. 23. Becauſe all alike from Adam.

3. All Children of wrath alike, Eph. II. 2. That is, Firſt, Quoad meritum, in reſpect of merit. Secondly, Quoad indignationem Dei in peccatum, in reſpect of Gods indignation againſt ſin. But not Quoad æternam iram, in reſpect of Eternal wrath.

4. All ſlaves to Satan alike, which that expreſſion doth ſuppoſe; where it is ſaid, That we are delivered out of the power of darkneſs.

But all are not under the claim of Satan alike. The Elect have God claiming ſomething in them, even before they eſcape from the bondage of Satan. As Iſrael in Egypt before their redemption, God had a claim to them.

Therefore Men are not ſaid to be of the Devil, but where the viſible acting is according to the Devil. So in the place quoted already, Joh. VIII. 44. Ye are of your Father the Devil, and the Works of your Father ye will do. 1 Joh. III. 8. He that committeth ſin is of the Devil. And in the Text, Cain was of that wicked one, and ſlew his Brother. So the Phariſees were of the ſeed of the Serpent; Elymas was the Child of the Devil. And from hence I lay down this Doctrine:

That wicked mens wicked actings ſhew they be of the wicked one. See verſ. 8. Cain had pious education, taught to ſacrifice. His Parents could tell him more of God and the Devil, than almoſt any ſince. He made an outward profeſſion, for he brought his Sacrifice to God. Yet his works manifeſted him to be of the wicked one. So wicked ones by their wicked actings ſhew that they belong to the Wicked One. They are of him, That is, 1. Of his Kingdom, and pay a ſubjection to it. 2. Of his Spirit. 3. Of his Acting. And this brings us to the next particular. Viz.

II. To consider Cain with relation to his action. He slew his Brother. He was of that wicked one and slew his Brother. Here we may observe three things obiter, by the way.

First, That malice and murther is justly referred to the first Murtherer. As Joh. VIII. 44. Ye are of your Father the Devil and the lusts of your Father ye will do: he was a murtherer from the beginning. Ye would murther me, because ye are of the murtherer.

Secondly, The first man dying was Christ in figure: as the first death, that of Sacrifice, was Christ in figure also. The Jews say that when Cain killed his Brother he made wounds in his hands and feet.

Thirdly, That Cain, who was first born into the world should so miscarry. So the first estate of Man miscarried. Eve hoped well of him, when she named him Cain, saying, I have gotten a man from the Lord, or a man the Lord. But the first born miscarried. And so Esau the first born lost his birth-right. But to return to our subject.

He slew his Brother. We may cry Murther, Murther, with a witness. If it had been a stranger that had been slain, or an enemy, or one that had been too many in the world; but a Brother, an only Brother, the only man in the world, this vastly aggravates the crime. Fratricide is horrid, this without parallel, or possibility of parallel. It is justly said, that he was of that Wicked one. Else this story would have choaked all belief. How think you, was Adam amazed, when he heard it: but when he resolved it thus, he is of him that murthered mankind, this ceased his wonder. From hence I raise this Doctrine.

How much deviliſhness can the Devil infuse into Mans Nature.

This story is set first after the Fall, to shew how much of Devil breathed in our Nature, and how far it may be enhanced to deviliſhness. Seth was begotten in the image of Adam, Cain of the Devil. See against how many Divine and Humane Laws and bonds he did this Act.

1. It was besides reason. There was room enough in the world for both. It was not with them as it was afterwards with Lot and Abraham, Gen. XIII. 6. The Land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together. Nor as it was after that with Jacob and Esau, Chap. XXXVI. 7. Their riches were more than that they might dwell together: and the Land wherein they were strangers could not bear them because of their Cattel.

2. It was contrary to reason. 1. In that they should have been mutually helpful. And 2. Why should not Abel live as well as he?

3. It was contrary to Nature. He was his Brother-twin with him.

4. Contrary to the tender dealing of God.

5. Contrary to all reason and Religion. He slew him, because his works were righteous: As Caligula slew a man, because he was a proper man.

But Cain was not alone: I might shew as much Deviliſhness appearing in others; as in Pharaoh, Ahab, Nero, &c. Men in all things like the Devil and Cain. And the reasons of this are,

I. Because the Soul of Man is capable of all evil to all extremity. Not only that, Gen. VI. 5. that the wickedness of Man was great, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually; but he is capable of all manner and degrees of evil. Not only that in Matth. XV. 19. Out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, Murthers, Adulteries, Fornications, Thefts, false-witness, Blasphemies: but these to the utmost extremity. That in Rom. VII. 18. In me, that is, in my flesh dwelleth no good thing: is short of the utmost extremity by far.

1. The Soul is large enough to hold all evil. Immensity is part of the Image of God in it: desires it hath never satisfied; covetousness, voluptuousness never satisfied: it is a gulph that never says, Enough.

2. The spawn of Original Sin contains all sin in it: As a spark is enough to consume all, if fuelled: As the Mud after the overflowing of Nilus produceth all Monsters: And the Leprosie spreads all over, if let alone. Consider these three things of our Nature.

First, It being contrary to God contains all evil, as he all good. It is a question in the Schools, whether sin is contrary to Gods Nature or Will? Our sinful nature is contrary to both. To his Will, 1 Thess. IV. 3. For this is the will of God, even your sanctification. To his Nature; He light, but we are darkness; He holiness, but we sin and impurity. Other Creatures are not contrary to God, but divers and different from him: but sinful Creature is contrary. Our nature as evil is contrary to the Divine Nature. Our misery is not only in the loss of the Image of God, but in the obtaining the contrary Image.

Secondly, There is nothing in our nature to limit its breaking out to evil. It is an untamed Heifer, will bear no yoke. It is like waters running downwards without bounds. Nay there is that in us, that breaks all bounds, as the stirring of Conscience, the Motions tions of the Spirit, Education, Laws; all bounds, but those of Grace. Our principle is to please self, to have our own Wills. Now this consists of an hundred unsatiable gulphs, to satisfie Pride, Covetousness, Envy, Lust. Self Conjures up these Devils: but there is nothing in us to conjure them down again. The body breeds a disease, but can master it: but the Soul cannot, because it is overcome with content in its disease.

Thirdly, These distempers of our Nature are boundless in themselves: No bottom, no stop, but Grace, or Death.

II. Another reason, how it comes to pass that there is so much Devilishness in some Mens nature is, because the Devil is still urging, and never saith, Enough. As we are ever stirring evil in our selves, so he is hatching evil in us. We read of some that were taken captive by him at his will, 2 Tim. II. 26.

But I will not insist any longer on the proof. Let us consider in the next place, what sins are most deviliish, and how men come up to them, James III. 15. This wisdom descendeth not from above, but is earthly, sensual, deviliish. There are degrees of sin: first earthly, then sensual, and lastly, deviliish. The Devil himself is without an earthly mind, and without sensuality. He is not covetous; he offers Christ all the Kingdoms of the world, Matth. IV. Nor is he lascivious. They misconstrue Gen. VI. 2. that thought from thence, that the Angels lay with Women. Nor is he luxurious. No, the Devil flies at higher game, to defy God, and damn souls. All sin bears his stamp, but some his picture: As namely these that follow.

1. Pride; and to be puffed up against God, and his charge, and bounds, which he hath set. This is the Devils peculiar sin. See 1 Tim. III. 6. Not a Novice, lest being lifted up with pride, he fall into the condemnation of the Devil.

2. Hatred and cruelty. Satan is an Enemy, a Murtherer, Joh. VIII. 44. a roaring Lion, and devours them that serve him.

3. Enmity against Righteousness, and the ways of God. See vers. 10. of this Chapter. His name is Satan, that is an Enemy to what is good.

4. Lying and falshood. That appeared sufficiently in the story of the Fall. And in Joh. VIII. 44. He is a Lyar, and the Father of it.

Now are not some as deviliish as the Devil himself in these: 1. In Pride. Some will be called Gods, as Alexander, Caligula, Sejanus. It is said of Antichrist, 2 Thess. II. 4. That he opposeth and exalteth himself against all that is called God, or that is worshipped: so that he as God sitteth in the Temple of God, shewing himself that he is God. Are not thousands as proud in heart as the Devil himself: as much as they can be, and delight in it? 2. In hatred and cruelty. One would not believe that Man could be so cruel to Man, but that we have the experience of it, and this truth in the Text tells us the reason of it, because they are of the Wicked one. Men are more cruel than Beasts. Beasts have been tamed, but Man cannot, Jam. III. 7. Every kind of Beasts, and of Birds, and of Serpents, and things in the Sea is tamed, and hath been tamed by mankind. But only mankind it self is untameable. Such an Example was He, that wished That all Rome had but one head, that he might cut it off at once. Nay he in the story of China went further, who actually slew six hundred thousand innocent persons. 3. Do not some hate the ways of God, as the Devil doth? I hate Miohaiah, saith Ahab. There were some that spake evil of the Christians, only because they ran not into the same excess of riot with themselves. 4. And so we may say of Lying. There are Children of falshood among us.

To conclude all with some Uses from this Discourse.

I. The consideration of this may draw tears, to think of the corruption of our nature: so far degenerate from its excellency and end.

II. It may make us mourn to consider what we carry within us, if God leave us.

III. Not to think so little of Pride, Envy, Lying, as most do. For these sins are the neareſt resemblances of the Devil.

IV. How great a work is Renovation: For men to be made partakers of the Divine Nature, 2 Pet. I. 4. who had so much before pertaken of the Devils.

V. We had need to pray, that God would keep us from such mischief.

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

GENESIS IV. 15.

And the Lord ſet a mark upon Cain, Leſt any finding him ſhould kill him.

WE have ſeen Cain's ſin: here we ſee his ſtrange reward. Cain ſlew his Brother; God will not have Cain ſlain. How is this agreeable to that, Chap. IX. 6. Whoſo ſheddeth mans blood, by man ſhall his blood be ſhed? How ſtrange this Providence! Abel might have done good, if he had lived, Cain not; yet behold! this contrary Providence, Abel dyes, and Cain lives. What would Cain wiſh more than this, to live and be ſecure? What would ſome give for ſuch a Patent? If he live, What Murthers more may he commit? What a diſcouragement may he be to Righteouſneſs? How may the eye of humane reaſon ſtand amazed at this providence? We may take up that of Jeremiah, Chap. XII. 1. Righteous art thou, O Lord, when I plead with thee, yet let me talk with thee of thy judgments. Wherefore doth the way of the wicked proſper? And the words of Habbakkuk, Chap. I. 3, 4. Why doſt thou ſhew me iniquity, and cauſe me to behold grievance? For ſpoiling and violence are before me; and there are that raiſe up ſtrife and contention. Therefore the Law is ſlacked, and judgment doth never go forth: for the wicked doth compaſs about the righteouſneſs: therefore wrong judgment proceedeth. And, Shall not the Judg of all the world do right? Yet what Righteouſneſs ſeems in this? We may ſatisfie our ſelves concerning this, by theſe conſiderations:

I. Abel was happier dying, than Cain living. Balaam was a parallel of Cain, juſtfying this, Numb. XXIII. 10. Let me dye the death of the righteous, and let my laſt end be like his.

II. The Righteouſneſs of Gods providences is not to be judged of only according to outward appearance. Gods judgments are a great deep: and the footſteps of them are not known.

III. The greateſt ſeeming earthly proſperity may be the greateſt puniſhment. In the words we obſerve this:

That God reſerved Cain to long life. But how he managed it, is ſcrupulous. וישם לו he ſet a mark upon him. Rab. Solomon ſaith it was a letter in his forchead: Some ſay it was a Horn: ſome, a trembling, that all might know him for a fratricide, for a wretch that murthered his Brother. But this one would think, rather was the way to get him killed. For how could all that met him know Gods mind by this mark, (whatever it was) namely, That God would not have him killed? Therefore Aben Ezra underſtands it that God gave him a ſign, till he believed it, viz. That God would preſerve his life. And ſo it may beſt be conſtrued. That God ſet him a ſign, leſt, &c.

In the fourteenth Verſe Cain ſays, Behold thou haſt driven me out this day from the face of the earth, and from thy face ſhall I be hid, and I ſhall be a fugitive and a Vagabond in the earth: and it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that findeth me ſhall ſlay me. It is queſtioned here, whether Cain begs death, or declines it. If he begs it, God denies him; if he declines it, he hath his deſire with a Curſe. Hence we gather this Doctrine.

That Gods letting men go on uninterrupted in their ſins, is the greateſt puniſhment they can have here.

Doubtleſs Cain was loaden with puniſhment. Suppoſe a Council were called what to do with Cain. You would ſay, Cut him off: Gods wiſdom and juſtice ſaith, Let him him live. Long life and prosperity in it self a blessing, but here a prison, a curse; a poison that kills with delight. Consider Cain's temper, and then consider him banished from the Church, and from the memorials of his duty that Gods constant service would give him, turned loose to his lusts, and the councils of his own heart: the longer he lives in this condition, tis not the better, but the worse for him. See vers. 24. Cain was avenged sevenfold. It was a sore judgment, when God said, My Spirit shall not always strive with Man, Gen. VI. 3. I will trouble them no more, Hos. IV. 14. I will not punish your Daughters when they commit Whoredom. It is a great question, Whether is worse, to be cut off in sin, or to be not interrupted in it. A hard choise, as David's was, when he said, I am in a great strait. For the clearing of this observe these two things.

I. That sometimes the long-suffering of God to the wicked, is not the goodness of God to them. See 1 Pet. III. 20. Which sometime were disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the Ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water: Compared with Gen. VI. 3. My spirit shall not always strive with Man. God spared the Canaanites, that their measure might be full. Fulfil ye the measure of your Fathers, saith Christ to the Jews, Matth. XXIII. 32. And Psal LXXIII. 4. There are no bands in their death, but their strength is firm. But vers. 19. How are they brought into desolation, as in a moment? they are utterly consumed with terrors. So God tells Pharaoh, I have preserved thee alive, that I might make my power known in thee.

II. Sometimes Gods forbearance to cut off the wicked, is for their punishment: not only when he strikes them with horror, as he did Lamech, but when they prosper. Let Ephraim alone, was Ephraim's punishment.

The Uses of this Discourse might be these: 1. To Examine, while we live and prosper; whether it be for our punishment. 2. To be jealous of an untroubled condition. 3. This may teach with more patience and chearfulness to bear the Cross. For as Gods suffering men to succeed and prosper is sometimes a judgment, a token of his displeasure; so afflictions and troubles may be signs of his care and good will. 4. Not to envy the prosperity of the wicked. 5. To labour so to live as to be able to give a comfortable account of long life and age.

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

EXODUS XX. 5.

For I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the Fathers upon the Children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me.

THE first Commandment with threatning, as Paul saith, the first of the second Table was the first with promise, Ephes. VI. And the threatning is most properly affixed to the Command against Idolatry. Because God hath a special enmity and quarrel against Idolatry, as one of the greatest derogations to his honour, that can be in the World.

Observe in the Prophets the great complaint against the people is for Idolatry and unrighteousness. The former the great injury done to God, the later to Men: the former the height of Impiety, the later of Uncharitableness. When man is bound to love his neighbour as himself, to shew him mercy, to be helpful to him, and useful to him in all ways of charity; how high an iniquity is it to defraud, undermine, oppress, and deal injuriously with him? And when bound to worship God alone, as the great, dreadful and glorious Creator of Heaven and Earth, and all things in them; how abominable a wickedness is it to give this honour to a piece of wood, a stock or stone of our own framing?

How God detests this, he hath uttered abundantly in Scripture, partly, by proclaiming Idols to be abominable to him: Deut. VII. 25. and XXVII. 15. And by giving them names of the greatest abomination: Vanities, 1 King. XVI. 26. Jer. XIV. 22. Lyes, Esa. XLIV. 20. Jer. X. 14. And so is that to be understood, Rev. XXII. 15. Without are Dogs and Sorcerers, and Whoremongers, and Murtherers, and Idolaters, and whosoever loveth, and maketh a lye. Jonah putteth both the names together, Jonah II. 8. They that observe lying vanities. Nay the very name of abomination it self is given them, 1 King. XI. 7. Nay the very name of Devils is given them, Deut. XXXII. 17. 1 Cor. X. 20. And as thus in his word he hath shewed his detestation against Idols and Idolatry; so hath he also in his providence, by those fearful judgments that he hath shewed against them that have been Idolatrous. Witness Jeroboam and his house: Ahab and his, rooted out, and devoured by this deadly canker: themselves, and their posterity undone, according to the threatning here, Visiting the sins of the Fathers upon the children.

It were a wonder, and thing of amazement, that the Church of Rome should ever be so zealous for Images, were it not that there is something more behind the curtains, than is seen. They distinguish betwixt an Image and an Idol; and say, They worship not the Image, but before it only for a memorandum. But to omit the vanity of such a distinction, which hath been abundantly confuted by our Divines, where is their care of that rule of the Apostle, To avoid all appearance of evil? Certainly, if there be not the appearance of Idolatry in worshipping before an Image, what call you the appearance of Idolatry? The Heathen persecutors of old thought their turn served, if they could bring Christians to cast a little incense into the fire before an Idol. Here the Christians might have pleaded, it was not in worship to Idols, but to please their Masters: but they saw in it so much appearance of Idolatry, that they gave up their lives rather, than to consent to such an appearance of evil.

But that that is behind the curtains with the Papists is covetousness, and gain of mony. And if it were not that, I make no question, but they would be far cooler in pleading for for their Images, than they are. It is upon very good reaſon that the Apoſtle calls Covetouſneſs Idolatry, for it is not only making mony our God, but it is the very Father and Mother of Idolatry. This is it that hath made theſe men ſo bold with adoring of Images: ſo bold as to take away this Commandment againſt Idolatry out of the Ten, though a Command ſo needful, ſo dreadful, and that hath ſo terrible a threatning with it, For I the Lord thy God am a jealous God.

A Command, that one might wonder at, but that you can never enough wonder at the wickedneſs of mens hearts.

Firſt, One would wonder that ever ſuch a Command ſhould need: Thou ſhalt not worſhip a ſtock or ſtone: nor make that thy God, which thine own hands have made. Reaſon, and light of nature, and common ſenſe one would think, ſhould ſo cry this down to men that have their wits about them, that there might not any ſuch Command from God be needful. You may ſee how the Spirit of God does ſtand as it were wondring at the ſottiſhneſs of thoſe that make and worſhip Idols, in Eſa. Chap. XL. and three or four Chapters forward. And did you ſee a Heathen, or do you ſee a Papiſt, worſhipping and bowing down to the ſtock of a tree, as he calls it there; whether have you more cauſe to mourn to ſee God ſo diſhonoured, or to think what a ſtock, and ſtupid thing ſinful man is become, to pray to, or truſt in a piece of wood or ſtone?

Secondly, One might wonder, that ſuch a Law given ſhould be ſo broken. A Law ſo eaſie to keep, and in ſo ſenſleſs a thing to break it: Of all ſins, what eaſier to avoid, than falling down to the ſtock of a tree? And yet how were men infatuated with it, as the Heathen and Iſrael were continually. Who would have thought, that Iſrael having ſeen the wonders in Egypt, and the glory of God at Sinai, ſhould ever, eſpecially ſo ſuddenly, have worſhipped a golden Calf, and ſaid, Theſe are thy Gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the Land of Egypt?

What monſtruous madneſs, and ſenſleſneſs is there in this Idolatry? That 1. Whereas God made man, for man to think that he can make a God. 2. Man that can ſee and hear, and ſpeak and ſtir, to think that his help ſhould lye in that that can neither ſee, nor hear, nor ſpeak, nor ſtir. 3. For a man to fall down before that that he can caſt into the fire, water, dirt, and trample under feet, and the Image not able to ſay, What doeſt thou? 4. It being in the power of man to make his image in the likeneſs of man or beaſt, then when it is made to think it hath power over him, and he to owe homage, and duty, and ſacrifice and devotion to it. So brutiſh, fooliſh, beſotted a thing is man, when left unto himſelf, and his own wiſdom.

And therefore there was need of ſuch a Commandment againſt ſuch ſottiſhneſs; and of tyes and terrors added to affrighten men from the folly: as there are two, you ſee, in the words I have read.

I. That God proclaims himſelf a jealous God.

II. That he profeſſeth, he viſiteth the fathers upon the children.

I. It is no wonder God proclaims himſelf a jealous God in this caſe, when the love, ſervice and worſhip, due to him, is given to an Idol, to a piece of wood or ſtone, ſilver or gold. Conceive in your hearts, what jealouſie is, and you will find it no wonder, he is ſo in this caſe, or indeed in any other, where his honour is given away, and beſtowed upon any creature. This title is oft given him in Scripture; and if we well conſider what jealouſie is in man or woman, we will read terror in the tittle, when God giveth it to himſelf.

He profeſſeth it to be his Name, Exod. XXXIV. 14. The Lord, whoſe name is jealous, is a jealous God. Read it again, and tremble, The Lord, whoſe Name is Jealous, is a jealous God. Moſes gloſſes upon it with a gloſs of more terror, Deut. IV. 25. The Lord thy God is a conſuming fire, even a jealous God. As if he had ſaid, Does any aſk, what Gods jealouſie means? It means a conſuming fire. And ſo the Prophet Zephany explains it alſo, Chap. I. 18. The whole land ſhall be devoured by the fire of his jealouſie. And again, Chap III. 8. For all the Earth ſhall be devoured by the fire of my jealouſie. What fire was that, that devoured Sodom, and Gomorrha? The fire of Gods jealouſie. What fire was that, that conſumed Jeruſalem, and laid it in aſhes? Was it the fire the Chaldeans put to it at the firſt ſacking of it, and the Romans at the ſecond? No, it was indeed the fire of Gods jealouſie. What is that that conſumeth ungodly men, as ſtubble; that unquenchable fire, that devoureth the chaff, when God cometh to purge his floor? It is the fire of Gods jealouſie. The Prophet Nahum doth yet clear it further, Chap. I. 2. God is jealous, and the Lord revengeth; the Lord revengeth and is furious: the Lord will take vengeance of his adverſaries, and reſerveth wrath for his enemies. The reſt of the verſe is an expoſition of the firſt clauſe, God is jealous. What means that? And read the firſt clauſe in the Text, I the Lord thy God am a jealous God. What means that? An avenging God, a God that avengeth in fury, that taketh vengeance on his adverſaries, and reſerveth wrath and vengeance in ſtore for his enemies, and them that hate him.

But that we may view Gods jealouſie the better, and with the more dread and trembling (and oh! that we could ever feelingly conſider, that the Lord our God is a jealous God) let us firſt conſider the nature of jealouſie in men or women, and by that ariſe to apprehend, what this jealouſie is in God.

Zealous and jealous are comprehended under one and the ſame word in the Hebrew Tongue: and Zealouſneſs and jealouſie are uttered in that Language in the very ſame ſyllables: קנאה ſignifies both. In thoſe allegations out of Zephany, The land ſhall be devoured באש קנאתי, by the fire of his jealouſie: באש קנאתי, by the fire of my jealouſie. Now the ſame word is uſed elſewhere in a ſenſe moſt ſweet and comfortable. That whereas it comes in ſome places like Elias his fire, and earthquake and wind, that rent the Rocks in terror and dreadfulneſs; in other places it comes like the ſtill voice, in ſweetneſs and comfort. In Eſa. IX. 6, 7. Where he is ſpeaking of Chriſt, his Names and Kingdom, that he ſhould be called Wonderful, Counſeller, &c. And that of the encreaſe of his government, and peace there ſhould be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his Kingdom, to order and eſtabliſh it with judgment and juſtice from henceforth, ever for ever, he concludes, קנאת י״י, The zeal of the Lord of Hoſts will perform this. And ſo Eſa. XXXVII. 32. where he promiſeth comfortable things to his diſtreſſed people, and ſaith, Out of Jeruſalem ſhall go forth a remnant, and concludes קנאת י״י, the Zeal of the Lord of Hoſts ſhall do this. And one for all, Eſa. LXIII. 15. איה קנאתך, Where is thy zeal, thy ſtrength, and the ſounding of thy bowels?

In zeal is a fervent tincture of Love. The zeal of thy houſe hath eaten me up: that is, the fervent Love I have to thy houſe. And in jealouſie is a high tincture of Love. And accordingly Love and Jealouſie are joyned, and made as one thing, Cant. VIII. 6. In zeal is Love, and forwarding that we are zealous of. In jealouſie, Love and anger at that that provokes to jealouſie. A man is jealous of his wife, or the wife of her huſband; the bottom of it is Love, but the top is Anger. The bottom Love? How? It is ſaid, that jealouſie is too much Love. But that rule fails. For a man may be jealous of his wife he loves not. And yet the bottom of jealouſie is love. For a man, though he love not the perſon of his wife, yet he loves to have the affection of his wife intirely to himſelf: and cannot endure, that her affections, that are due to him, ſhould be given to another, but diſdains it, and is angry at it.

By this we may conceive of the jealouſie of God, only adding the obſervation of that expreſſion that is ſo frequent, viz. Gods complaining that his people went a whoring from him, Hoſ. I. 2. The Land hath committed great whoredom in departing from the Lord: and ſo went a whoring after other Gods. God takes it in anger and diſdain, that men ſhould give away thoſe hearts, affections, that love and ſervice, that is due to God, to any thing beſides God. God doth very oft title the Church of Iſrael his children, and oft his wife, that he had married to himſelf, Jer. III. 1. He had taken them for his wife, ſhe had played the harlot with many lovers, yet if ſhe would return, he would take her again. So Hoſ. III. 1. and in divers other places. And the expreſſion is very proper: for he had forſaken all other Nations, and clave only to her.

I ſhall not inſiſt to ſhew, how far the parallel fits any Chriſtian Nation, that God hath taken more peculiarly to himſelf by the adminiſtration of his Covenant among them. Nor ſhall I inſiſt to ſhew how far England may be called the ſpouſe of God, by his choiſe. It is undenyable that we have all married our ſelves to God by our Baptiſmal Covenant, and by our Sacramental, and other engagements. And then, what doth the Lord require of us, but that we ſhould be faithful to our huſband, and not give our ſelves, our hearts and affections to any thing beſides him: not our worſhip to an Idol, not our affections to the World, our hearts to pleaſure or profit, or earthly vanities; which is to go a whoring from our huſband? The Lord our God is a jealous God: and what can we expect, if we ſerve him ſo, but that his jealouſie will break out in fire and vengeance?

By his Law concerning jealouſie twixt man and wife, he hath ſhewed thee, O man, what thou mayeſt expect twixt thee and God, Numb. V. 12. to the end. He appointed that the ſuſpected wife be brought to trial, undertakes to work a miracle for her diſcovery; and if guilty, upon drinking the bitter waters, her belly was to ſwell, her thigh to rot, and ſhe to become a curſe. And doth not the Lord diſcover, whether thy heart hath played the whore, and will he not bitterly puniſh in his own cauſe, as he did in the cauſe of men?

But to return to Gods jealouſie againſt the ſin of Idolatry particularly, as this title of his, that he is a jealous God, is peculiarly affixed to the Command againſt Idolatry. And here I ſhall ſhew ſome particular evidences and inſtances of Gods jealouſie againſt this ſin. And I ſhall name three paſſages of the Spirit of God in his ſtyle in Scripture, by which he doth hint his diſtaſt, and abominating of this ſin of Idolatry: and three paſſages of God in his providence and diſpoſal, that intimate the ſame: and all ſuch as are not obviouſly obſerved by every Reader of Scripture.

Firſt,

Firſt, To mention the paſſages of the Holy Ghoſt's ſtile in reference to this ſin.

I. Obſerve, That in 2 Sam. XI. 21. who ſmote Abimelech the ſon of Jerubboſheth? Abimelech was the ſon of Jerubbaal, or Gedeon, as you may ſee, Judg. IX. where you have Abimelechs ſtory. Why then does the Holy Ghoſt here miſname Gedeon, and inſtead of Jerubbaal call him Jerubboſheth? The reaſon is, becauſe Baal was the general name of an Idol, and the Holy Ghoſt in deteſtation of Idolatry changeth the name Baal, which ſignifieth a Lord, into Boſheth, which ſignifies Shame. And he calleth Gedeon, Jerubboſheth, inſtead of Jerubbaal, becauſe Gedeon had made an Idol, that all Iſrael went a whoring after, Judg. VIII. 27.

Of the ſame obſervation is that, that the ſon of Saul, whom his father named Eſhbaal, the Holy Ghoſt in his ſtory nameth Iſhboſheth. You have a large ſtory of Iſhboſheth Sauls ſon, in 2 Sam. II. Now look among Sauls ſons where they be reckoned, and you find no ſuch name; 1 Chron. VIII. 33. Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchiſhua, and Abinadab, and Eſhbaal. That Eſhbaal is he, whom the Holy Ghoſt in his ſtory calls Iſhboſheth, as deteſting the name Baal, the name of an Idol: changing it into the name Boſheth, ſhame. As the ſame Holy Ghoſt explains himſelf, and this matter, Jer. XI. 13. According to the number of the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, have ye ſet up Altars to that Shame, even Altars to burn incenſe to Baal.

II. In reading Revelations, VII. where the Sealed of the Lord of the twelve Tribes are mentioned and numbred, have you obſerved that the Tribe of Dan is wanting, and the Tribe of Ephraim not named? You will find Manaſſes there, but not Ephraim by name, but Joſeph inſtead of Ephraim, verſ. 8. And what is the reaſon of this? Publick Idolatry firſt began in Dan, Judg. XVIII. And the golden Calves were ſet up by Jeroboam of Ephraim; and the one in Ephraim and the other in Dan. And the Holy Ghoſt doth point as it were with the finger at thoſe Idolatries, and ſhew his diſtaſt and abhorring of them, when he will not ſo much as name the names where they began, among the Lords ſealed for ſalvation.

III. As here mention is made of viſiting to the third and fourth generation, obſerve that paſſage, Matth. I. 8. and ſee whether the ſtile of the Holy Ghoſt do not hint the very ſame thing: Joram begat Ozias. Now look in the ſtory of the Kings and Chronicles, and you will find, that Joram begat Ahaziah, and Ahaziah Joaſh, and Joaſh Amaziah, and Amaziah Ozias. So that here three deſcents are wanting or daſhed out: and Ozias is grand child to Joram in the fifth generation. What is the reaſon? Look into the ſtory of Joram, and you will find that he married the daughter of Ahab, the great Idolater, and that he walked in the Idolatries of Ahab, 2 King. VIII. 18. And here the Holy Ghoſt to hint his diſtaſt of ſuch Idolatry, blots out his children to the third, nay fourth generation, out of the Line and Genealogy of our Saviour.

Theſe and other things of the like nature, may be obſerved in the very ſtile and dialect the Holy Ghoſt uſeth in Scripture. Whereby he ſetteth a brand upon Idolatry, and Idols, as things odious, and abominable, and abhorred of God in ſpecial manner.

Shall I alſo give you three like paſſages of Providence, which it may be all of you have not obſerved in your reading; which ſpeak the ſame thing and proclaim the jealouſie of God againſt Idolatry?

I. Obſerve that Deut. IX. 21. And I took your ſin, the Calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and ſtamped it, and ground it very ſmall, until it was as ſmall as duſt, and I caſt the duſt thereof into the brook, that deſcended out of the mount. And why all this ado, to burn, ſtamp, grind it? And why caſt the duſt into the brook, and not on the earth or into the air? Why not into the dunghil rather than into the water, that the people muſt drink? By this very thing God would ſhew, that he was a jealous God againſt Idolatry, by putting the people to the very ſame trial for this Idolatry, that the wife ſuſpected of Adultery was to be put to by the jealous huſband, Numb. V. ſhe was put to drink water and duſt, and if ſhe proved guilty, her belly ſwelled, and her thigh rotted, and ſo gave plain evidence of her guilt. So in this caſes Moſes bids the Levites, Exod. XXXII. 13. Put every man his ſword by his ſide, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and ſlay every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour. Now how could they know who had committed Idolatry among ſo many hundred thouſands? How could they pick out the men that were guilty? Why, the diſcovery is in the very ſame way. The people drink the water, in which was the duſt of the Calf, and thereupon thoſe that were guilty, their bellies ſwelled, and ſome other miraculous evidence was given, whereby they were diſcovered, and whereby God diſcovered himſelf to be a jealous God, viſiting the ſins of Idolaters.

II. A ſecond paſſage is that about the battel at Gibeah, Judg. XX. concerning which let us firſt take up the words of Deborah, Chap. V. 8. (For though the hiſtory of that war is ſet many Chapters after the ſtory of Deborah, yet was it a great while before her, as might be ſhewed by many evidences, if I would ſtand upon it) They choſe new gods, ſaith ſhe, then was war in the gates; Was there a ſheild or ſpear ſeen among forty thouſand in Iſrael? No ſooner Idolatry, but vengeance; no ſooner new gods, but war in the gates: and war with a witneſs, that deſtroyed forty thouſand of Iſrael, and above twenty thouſand of Benjamin.

She ſpeaks but of forty thouſand that periſhed, as if no ſheild or ſpear had been among them all, whereas in all there fell ſixty five thouſand. But ſhe hints the ſad ſlaughter of Iſrael; which was ſent by God, and encouraged by him to go againſt Benjamin: and yet when they went to battel, they fell forty thouſand. Strange! to be ſent by God, and yet miſcarry: to be encouraged by God, and yet fall! Oh, they had choſen new gods, and thence this miſcarriage. The Tribe of Dan had ſet up Idolatry, and all Iſrael quiet, and ſtir not againſt it, and ſo become partakers of it. But when a Whore hath ſome unhanſom and hard uſage at Gibeah, then all Iſrael is ſuddenly up in arms to revenge her quarrel. Zeal for a Whore to revenge her quarrel againſt Gibeah, but not zeal for the Lord to revenge his quarrel againſt Idolatry. And therefore God takes the cauſe into his own hand, and ſhews himſelf a jealous God againſt Idolatry, and cauſed forty thouſand to fall in battel, though he had ſent, and encouraged them to it.

III. A third paſſage let be that, which yet comes more near the Text: nay ſeems not only to come up to it, but to go beyond it: and that is Exod. XXXII. 34. where after the ſin of the golden Calf, and the Levites ſlaying three thouſand men; yet God ſtill hath ſome anger in ſtore for that ſin, and ſaith, Nevertheleſs in the day, when I viſit, I will viſit their ſin upon them. When? The Jews ſay, That in every ſcourge and judgment that came upon them, there was a remembrance and a laſh for the golden Calf. And S. Stephen ſpeaks no leſs, or more, in Act. VII. 41, 42. They made a Calf in thoſe days, and offered ſacrifice unto the Idol, &c. Then God turned and gave them up to worſhip the hoſt of Heaven, &c. This ſpeaks God a jealous God againſt Idolatry, and ſeems to ſpeak, that he viſits the ſins of the Fathers upon the children beyond the third and fourth generation ſucceeding. To which thing we ſhall ſpeak in courſe in handling of the words. To which now we are come.

II. Then, viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, &c. All the queſtion and ſcruple about the thing is Quo jure. Where is Gods juſtice in this to viſit the ſins of him that ſinned upon him, that ſinneth not; ſins of the fathers upon the children, who probably were never witting or aſſenting to the Fathers ſin? It is Gods ſtrict commandment to men, Deut. XXIV. 16. The fathers ſhall not be put to death for the children, neither ſhall the children be put to death for the fathers, but every man ſhall be put to death for his own ſin. And doth not he go contrary to that rule himſelf, when he viſits the ſins of the fathers upon the children? And it is his proclaiming again, Ezek. XVIII. 4. Behold all ſouls are mine; as the ſoul of the father, ſo alſo the ſoul of the ſon is mine, the ſoul that ſinneth it ſhall dye. And doth he not warp from that aſſertion, when children are puniſhed for the ſins of their Fathers?

That God ſhould impute the ſin of Adam to all his poſterity, hath been cavilled at in antient times by ſome Hereticks; and in theſe later ſome are not well ſatisfied about the matter, and cannot, or will not ſee how God is juſt in it. Viſiting ſins unto the third and fourth generation ſounds ſomething harſh, this far more; viſiting the ſin of the firſt Father upon all generations. Shall he condemn millions of millions for the fault they never committed, charge upon them the crime they never conſented to? I ſhall not ſtay my diſcourſe upon this. The anſwer is ready: in Adam was all mankind: in his Covenant was enwrapped all humane nature: and the violation of that Covenant was the ſin and guilt of whole humane nature.

But we ſhall ſpeak to other kind of examples, that come nearer to the ſenſe of the words before us. And theſe are of two ſorts, viz. in reference to the body or outward condition, or to the ſoul, or inward.

Firſt, Was not that hard meaſure, as you may think, that when Corah, Dathan and Abiram, the Parents only had ſinned, that not only they ſhould go down quick into the pit, but their houſes alſo, and all that appertained to them? Numb. XVI. 32. The like, that when Achan only was in the tranſgreſſion, that his ſons and daughters, and his very cattel ſhould be put to death, as well as he? Joſh. VII. 24.

Secondly, Seems it not hard meaſure, that when that generation at the building of Babel had only ſinned againſt God in that deſign for ſetting up Idolatry, that not only they ſhould be given up to Idolatry, and blindneſs; but the Heathen, their poſterity, to ſcores of generations? The like, that when that generation only had ſinned in murthering Chriſt, not only they ſhould bear the guilt of his blood, but their poſterity through ſo many ages.

For the unfolding of Gods dealings in theſe things particularly, let me firſt move this general conſideration.

What

What care Parents had need to take, that they ſin not ſo, as to leave ſin and guilt and a curſe upon their children, and poſterity. Among their cares to leave them well, as the word in the world goes, i. e. rich, to be ſure to take this care, that while they leave them well, they leave them not ill. Sin not for thy childrens ſake, that they ſmart not for thy faults, when thou art gone. I mention two ſins particularly that may draw miſery, and entail a curſe upon the poſterity, curſing their children, and unconſcionably ſcraping a curſed eſtate together to leave to their children.

Now to aſſert the Juſtice of God in this caſe of viſiting the iniquity of the fathers, &c. either for theſe ſins or others: whereas it ſeems a wrong to the children. Conſider theſe things.

I. It is moſt juſt with God to puniſh wicked men in their deareſt delights, that judgment may come home to them to the quick: to take away the delight of their Eyes and Heart, that puniſhment may make them ſmart in the tendereſt part. And when Parents are ſo fond of that part of themſelves, their children, that they will venture ſoul and body and all to Hell for the advancement of their children, is it any injuſtice in God to laſh them in that part, that is moſt tender and delicate to them?

II. I might ſpeak, that it appertains to divine juſtice in ſpecial manner to fruſtrate the deſigns of ungodly men, and to have them in deriſion, and to ſhew that they are but fools. To take the wiſe in their craftineſs, and to bring their deep plotted counſels and deviſes to nought. How frequently doth Scripture harp upon this ſtring? Do I need to cite places, Job V. 12, 13. He diſappointeth the devices of the crafty, &c He taketh the wiſe in their own craftineſs, and the counſil of the froward is carried headlong, Luke I. 51. He ſcattereth the proud, ſaith the holy Virgin: as if ſhe pointed at the proud deſign of building Babel, which the Lord blaſted: and ſcattered theſe proud plotters into all quarters of the Earth. Places to this purpoſe are abundant.

Now when an unconſcionable Gripe lays his deſign deep, by all means right or wrong, (he cares not) to advance his poſterity, and to build them up an houſe, though in blood and injury; and accounts all cockſure: that divine Eye and Juſtice that ſits in Heaven, laughs at his deſigns, and hath his Counſils in deriſion. The man ſaith, I will lay land to land, and houſe to houſe, and my children ſhall be great, and rich and proſperous in the World, and I will build up a family of renown. But divine Juſtice ſaith, I will daſh ſuch confidence, and lay ſuch unjuſt and unconſcionable undertakings in the duſt; that men may know, that there is a God, and that he is righteous, that judgeth the Earth. Ariſe, Lord, let not ſuch men prevail; let ſuch heatheniſh contrivers be judged in thy ſight.

But all this while, ſtill the objection lyes: That this is indeed juſtice to the Father, but where is juſtice to the Son, who ſinned not, nor was partaker in his Fathers wickedneſs?

For anſwer to which, we muſt firſt take up the laſt word לשנאי, of them that hate me. But who are meant, Parents or Children? Nay, who are thoſe that hate God? Queſtion the World through, and there is not a man upon Earth, but he will deny and diſclaim this. But ſurely the Scripture ſpeaks not in vain, when it ſpeaks ſo much of the haters of God, as it doth. That ungodly men are meant, there is no doubt, and in what ſenſe they are ſaid to hate God, we may take occaſion to ſpeak hereafter. Our preſent queſtion is, when it ſpeaks of them, that hate him, whether he means Parents or Children, or both? I may very truly anſwer, both. And the meaning ariſeth to this, Viſiting the ſins of the Fathers, that hate God upon the Children that hate God: of wicked Parents upon wicked Children.

Obſerve the contrary clauſe, Shewing mercy unto thouſands of them that love me. Where firſt, we may ſee ſome anſwer to the queſtion juſt now moved, who are haters of God? viz. They that love him not; for there is no medium. The oppoſites are not, that love him, and love him not; but that love him, and hate him. They that love him not, hate him. Secondly, That which we would obſerve is, That his ſhewing mercy to thouſands of them that love him, implies that every one loves him, that partakes of mercy. So Viſiting the iniquity of the Fathers upon the Children unto the third and fourth generation, implies that every generation hates him, that is ſo viſited, viz. when Children imitate the wickedneſs of their Parents. And ſo God ſtates the point, Ezek. XVIII. Firſt, He begins with a righteous man, verſ. 5. and ſpeaks of the particulars of his godlineſs, hath not eaten upon the Mountains, &c. and concludes, He is juſt, he ſhall live, verſ. 9. Then at verſ. 10. he propoſeth the caſe, that if ſuch a good man beget a bad ſon, a robber, a ſhedder of blood, &c. And of him he concludes, He ſhall ſurely dye, and his blood ſhall be upon him, verſ. 13. Then at verſ. 14. he propoſeth the caſe of that wicked mans ſon, that is not wicked like the father, that ſeeth all his Fathers ſins, which he hath done, and conſidereth, and doth not ſuch like, &c. He concludes, verſ. 17. He ſhall not dye for the iniquity of his Father, he ſhall ſurely live. His Fathers ſins ſhall not be viſited on him, if he follow not his Fathers iniquity, verſ. 20. The ſoul that ſinneth ſhall dye, the ſon ſhall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither ſhall the father bear the iniquity of the ſon: the righteouſneſs of the righteous ſhall be upon him, and the wickedneſs of the wicked ſhall be upon him.

Fathers

So that firſt, no ſon is damned for the iniquity of his father, (we ſpeak not of the guilt of Adams ſin charged on his poſterity, which is another caſe) but every one that is damned, is damned for his own ſin. For ſo I take the word Dye in the Prophet, He ſhall dye his blood ſhall be upon him. A good ſon to be damned for the ſin of a bad father, were to ſpeak the ways of God very unequal indeed; and God contradicts that all along the Chapter. Nay a bad ſon is not damned for the ſin of his father neither: nor does any ſuch thing fall under the notion of Gods viſiting the ſins of the fathers upon the children. Becauſe every one that is damned, is damned for his own ſin.

And ſecondly, God viſiteth not the ſin of the fathers upon the Souls of the children. God never made a Soul ſinful, becauſe his father was wicked. Nay God never made, or could make any Soul ſinful, becauſe he cannot be the Author of ſin. Nay God never accounted a child wicked, becauſe his father was wicked. For thus Ezekiah had been undone, the good child of Ahaz as wicked a father, as who was moſt wicked. We ſpake of the Heathen given up to Idolatry, becauſe of the firſt rebellion at Babel; and the Jews given up to blindneſs, becauſe of the murther of Chriſt. But neither damned, nor accounted wicked any Heathen or Jews, that walked not in the ſame ſteps of thoſe their wicked Predeceſſors in their blindneſs, Idolatry or Unbelief, or other ſins. So that Thirdly, Gods viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, &c. means by ſome bodily or external puniſhment. Whereby the ſon is puniſhed for his own ſins, as well as his Parents. And the meaning of the paſſage is, that when God comes to viſit the ſins of wicked children upon them, he remembers the iniquity of their Parents alſo againſt them, even in the third or fourth generation.

Shall I give you an inſtance in the ſins of a good father ſo viſited upon wicked children, which may clear the viſiting of the ſins of a bad father upon wicked children? God had told David, that becauſe of his killing Uriah with the ſword, that the ſword ſhould never depart from his houſe, 2 Sam. XII. 10. So his ſon Amnon periſhed by the ſword, his ſon Adonijah by the ſword, and his ſon Abſalom in as violent a manner. Did not God remember Davids ſin, and his own threatning in this? And yet did not all theſe periſh for their own ſins? God viſited their ſin, and withal remembred their fathers ſin againſt them alſo. God damned none of them for Davids ſin. Nor did God repute them ſinful for Davids ſin: but if they were damned, they were damned for their own ſin, and were reputed ſinners in the ſight of God for their own ſin. Yet in the external puniſhment that fell upon them, there was a remembrance of their Fathers ſin alſo. Hophni and Phinehas periſhed together in battel: their fathers ſin was viſited upon them, which he is charged with 1 Sam. II. 29. That he honoured his ſons more than God. And yet they periſhed for their own ſin. If they were damned, they were damned for their own ſin, and not their fathers: and were reputed wicked in the ſight of God for their own ſin, and not their fathers. And yet in the external puniſhment that fell upon them, their fathers ſin was called to remembrance.

Objection, But many a child is puniſhed for his fathers ſin, that it may be is a good child; or at leaſt is free and innocent from the ſin of his father. Jeroboams ſon was taken away in his prime, 1 King. XIV. was not that for Jeroboams ſin, that God cut off his child: and he a good ſon, and that had not conſented to his fathers ſin, verſ. 13. In him there is found ſome good thing towards the Lord God of Iſrael? Here was juſtice indeed againſt the father, but where was it to the ſon, to cut him off ſo ſoon? So Davids child begot in adultery muſt dye for Davids ſin, and what had the poor child offended? Many firſt born in Egypt, it is like, were not guilty of their fathers cruelty towards Iſrael, and yet they muſt all go to it, they muſt dye.

It may be, many a covetous unconſcionable wretch hath a ſon that is more honeſt, and yet the ill gotten eſtate moulders away, and comes to nothing with an inviſible canker. Is here juſtice to the children, to ſmart thus for their fathers fault?

To this I anſwer, Firſt, We are to conſider children as part of their Parents; bone of their bone, and fleſh of their fleſh. And is it not juſtice in God to puniſh wicked Parents in what part of themſelves he pleaſeth? It ſeems as lawful as for a King to puniſh a Traitor in what part of his body, head or hand or foot, it ſeems beſt to him. If Jeroboams hand wither for the ſin of his whole Perſon, is it not juſt with God? And is it not a penalty upon the whole perſon? And upon this account it was not unjuſt with God, when David had ſinned in numbring the people, to ſmite ſeventy thouſand of the people; if you conſider David as a general father to all the people; they part of him, as he was King, as being part of his Kingdom.

And ſuch an anſwer, if I had not other to give, ſhould I give to an Anabaptiſt, that aſks me, why I baptize my child? I ſhould anſwer, he is part of my ſelf, and ſo it is fit he be baptized, becauſe I am: otherwiſe all of my ſelf is not baptized. And this gives ſome ſome reaſon of what the Apoſtle ſaith, That the child of a believing Father or Mother is holy, that is, is a Chriſtian, for the believing Parents ſake; becauſe he is part of that Parent.

Secondly, There are ſome puniſhments, that deſcend, as I may ſay, naturally from Parents to Children: nay I may ſay, ſome ſins that deſcend ſo naturally, that God ſhould invert the very courſe of nature, if they ſtuck not to the children. Original ſin and guilt we derive not from our immediate Parents, but from our firſt Parent Adam: but ſome actual ſins many children derive from their Parents. When Parents from their childrens infancy let them run into lewd courſes; and either give them example of ſuch courſes, or at leaſt reprove and reſtrain them not; the children grow lewd and wicked. Whoſe ſin is that lewdneſs? It is the childs: but it is the Parents alſo. And many a Parent ſees the juſt puniſhment of his own fault upon himſelf in the miſcarriage of his child, his coming to fearful wickedneſs, and very oft to a fearful end. Elias lenity to his wretched ſons, in not reſtraining them, and ſo Davids to Adonijah; did traduce and derive that ſinful miſcarriage into them. And God even viſited that ſin of the Parents upon the children in ſuffering them to grow ſo abominably ſinful.

Many a Parent is guilty of this, and yet little conſiders it. When their children prove debauched, wild, riotous, they, it may be, will fret to ſee their expenſive and deſtructive courſes. But let them reflect upon themſelves, and conſider whether their children derive not that wickedneſs either from their Example, or want of care for their Chriſtian education. Is it any injuſtice in God, when Parents will have their children ſo brought up in wickedneſs, to let them be wicked: any injuſtice either to Parents or children, that it is ſo, when children will be ſo wicked, and Parents will let them be ſo?

So ſome puniſhments deſcend naturally from the ſin of the Parent: as when children are made beggers by the riot, prodigal, lewd courſes of the Parents; when a whoring lewd Parent gets the foul diſeaſe, and ſo traduceth it to his children; when an unconſcionable getter of an Eſtate leaves it to his children, that like a Leproſie, a Canker, and a Curſe ſticks to it; and it cannot but rot and come to nothing. What ſhould the juſtice of God do in this caſe? Bleſs a curſed Eſtate, preſerve Children, that the Parents will infect, and keep them from beggery, whom Parents will make beggers? Shall God work miracles for theſe, that only work rebellion; and change the very courſe of the nature of things for them that will not change one luſt?

Thirdly, We are to diſtinguiſh between puniſhments and trials. A good ſon of a bad father, may come into affliction becauſe of his fathers ſin: and yet that laid upon him not directly as a puniſhment, but trial. A good child of a prodigal, riotous or unconſcionable father may come to poverty, when God aims it not as a judgment on him for his fathers ſin, but for trial, and admonition to him againſt ſuch ſins. The father indeed is ſo puniſhed, when his child comes to miſery: but the affliction in the mean time is to the child for his good. The cutting off of Jeroboams ſon was a ſad judgment to Jeroboam, becauſe the only hopeful child he had was ſo taken away, but it was not intended as a puniſhment to his child, but in mercy to take him away from wrath to come: As in Eſa. LVII. 1. The righteous are taken away from the evil to come.

Fourthly, and laſtly, The proper meaning is, God viſits upon evil children the ſins of their fathers unto the third and fourth generation.

This leaves a leſſon to Parents: That they would pity their children; and when they ſin, think of them; and of the miſery they entail upon them.

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

EXODUS XX. 11.

For in six days the Lord made Heaven and Earth, the Sea, and all that in them is, and rested the Seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it.

THE greatest obscurity we have to speak about is in the last clause, He hallowed it: and yet at first sight that seems least obscure of all. The two former clauses may rather, one would think, set us at a stand; and yet the great dispute is about the last: viz. in regard of that Sabbath we now celebrate. When we look upon the world, it may set us at a wonder, that this vast bulk of all things should be made in six days. Heaven and Earth and Seas in six days? How many houses in the world have cost the work of six years? Solomon was building the Temple seven years, and his own house twenty years: and this great Universe and all things in it to be built in six days?

And yet if we look at the power of him that made it, we have as much cause to wonder, that he should be six days about it. He that made all things by his word, could have done it in one moment as well as six days, and with one word as well as six. And he that made all things of nothing could also have made all things in no length of time, but in an instant, in a moment of time, in the twinkling of an eye, as he will change all things, 1 Cor. XV. 52.

And so concerning his resting, If he were weary with working, that he needed resting, why did he work till he was weary? And if he were not weary, why had he need to rest?

Such frivolous, impious and Atheistical Disputes may flesh and blood and carnal reason move about the actings of God, that hath not learned to resolve all his wonderful actings into these two great principles, his Power and Will. That he created all things with the word of his mouth of nothing, is no scruple, if we resolve it into his Power. And that he took six days to do it, who could have done it in a moment, is as little, if we resolve it into his Will. That he was not weary with doing so great a work, it is no scruple, if we resolve it into his Power. And that he rested, though he were not weary, is as little, if we resolve it into his Will.

And therefore how can we better begin our discourse about the matter we are upon, viz. his creating all things by his word, and yet taking six days to do it: and his not being weary with so great a work, and yet resting, though he were not weary; than by adoration of his Power and Will? And therefore as David for all his haste of fleeing from Absalom, yet when he came to the top of the Mount Olivet, he worshipped God, 2 Sam. XV. 32. So let us make so much a stop in the current of our discourse, as to give the Lord his due of his power and pleasure, before we go further. And that let us do in the words, and Oh! that we might ever do it in the devotion of the four and twenty Elders, Revel. IV. 11. Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory, and honour, and power, for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.

All Israel hears more Divinity and Philosophy in these few words, In six days the Lord made Heaven and Earth, and rested the seventh day, &c. than all the great wisdom and philosophy of the Heathen was able to spell out in a thousand years. Some of them were so wide from knowing that the world was made by God, that they thought it was never made at all, but was Eternal, and never had beginning. Others, that it was a God

it

it ſelf, and made it ſelf. Others, that it grew together at hap hazzard of Atomes, or motes flying up and down, which at laſt met and conjoyned in this fabric of the world, which we behold. So blind is ſinful man to the knowledge of his Creator, if he have no better eys and light to look after him by, than his own. Iſrael hath a Divine light here held out before them, whereby they ſee and learn in theſe few words, That the World was not Eternal, but had a beginning, and that it was made; and that it made not it ſelf, but was made by God; that it was not jumbled together by hap hazzard of I know not What, and I know not How, but that God made it in ſix days.

That which God ſpeaks ſo ſhort here, Moſes afterward, when he ſet pen to paper to write his books, enlarges upon, and tells you, in the beginning of Geneſis, in what manner God proceeded in this great work, and what he created every day. With that you ſee the Bible begins the ſtory of the Creation: the proper foundation, that every Scholar ſhould ſay of his learning there, namely to know his Creator: and to know of whom, and through whom are all things, to whom be glory for ever Amen, as the Apoſtle devoutly, Rom. XI. 36.

Let us conſider the two things ſeverally, That God made Heaven and Earth; and ſecondly, That he made them in ſix days.

When I look up to Heaven the work of thy fingers, the Moon and Stars, which thou haſt ordained, I ſay, ſaith David, What is man that thou art mindful of him, or the ſon of man, that thou viſiteſt him? We may alſo ſay upon ſuch a proſpect, Oh! what is God, what a divine and infinite power and wiſdom and glory, that made ſo great, ſo beautiful, ſo ſtately a fabrick! Our God made the Heavens, is the Iſraelites plea againſt the Gods of the Heathen, pittiful pieces of wood and ſtone, that could neither ſee nor hear, nor ſmel, nor ſtir, but Our God made the Heavens. There is a paſſage very remarkable, Jer. X. 11. Thus ſhall ye ſay to them, the Gods that have not made the Heavens and the Earth, even they ſhall periſh from the earth, and from under theſe Heavens. That verſe is in the Chaldee Tongue, whereas every clauſe of his book beſides is Hebrew, and not a Syllable of Chaldee in it. And what is the reaſon? The people were ere long to be captived into Chaldea, and when they came there the Chaldees would be ready to be perſwading them to worſhip their Gods. Poor Iſrael new come thither could not ſpeake their Language, nor diſpute the caſe with them in their own Tongue. Therefore the Lord by the Prophet puts ſo much Chaldee into their mouths, as to make a profeſſion of their own God, and to deride and curſe the others. Your Gods made not Heaven and Earth, and therefore ſhall periſh from the Earth and be confounded; but Our God made the Heavens. I.

O! what an excellent ſtudy is it, to ſtudy God as the great Maker of Earth and Heaven to look ſeriouſly upon this great Fabric, the Variety, Order, Beauty of the Creatures; and deeply to think, what kind of thing is God, that made all theſe things with the word of his mouth. How great, dreadful, terrible is the Creator, with whom we have to do! Study upon the firſt verſe of Geneſis, God created the Heavens and the Earth. And can you find it otherwiſe there, than that he did that in a moment; that in an inſtant, in the twinkling of an eye, he made theſe two parts of the world, Center and Circumference; ſpread out this great Canopy over us like a Curtain, and hung this vaſt Ball, upon which we tread, upon nothing; both at once, and both in a moment? Oh! what an amazing power is here to think of! Oh! what a God have we to deal withall! How can this God cruſh a ſinner, check the pride and preſumption of wicked duſt and aſhes, when he can do ſuch wondrous and incomprehenſible things as theſe? How can this God create comforts to a poor afflicted child of his own? How can he find out means to deliver and releive a poor diſtreſſed Saint, that puts his truſt in him, when with a word he can make a world; nay, if he had pleaſed, could have made a thouſand?

Such uſe and other, might we make of the ſtudy of our Creator, and his creating. And O! that he that created us, and all things, would create in us frequent, ſolid meditations of him, and of his mighty power, and working, whereby he made all things of nothing.

It was once queſtioned by one, What did God before he made the world? And anſwered by another, He created Hell for curious and impertinent enquirers. It was once asked by another, With what inſtruments, tools, and engines did God make the world, if he made it? His own Spirit gives anſwer to this, By the word of the Lord the Heavens were made, &c. But we may not unuſefully, and unchriſtianly move this queſtion, Wherefore was it, that God made the world? The Scripture anſwers this too, Prov. XVI. 4. The Lord hath made all things for himſelf. Rev. IV. 11. For thou haſt created all things, and for thy pleaſure they are, and were created. But this leaves us to our inquiring ſtill: viz. In what ſenſe to underſtand his making all things for himſelf, and what his Will and pleaſure aimed at? Did God create Creatures, becauſe he had need of Creatures? Did he make the Heavens, becauſe he wanted a Houſe for himſelf? And the Earth, becauſe he could not be without Tenants in thoſe tenements below?

And the nayl of this queſtion might be driven further: why did he make this world, ſeeing he will mar it in time, and bring it to deſolation? Why made he millions of men, whoſe end proves to be damned for ever? Had it not been as good, this houſe of the Univerſe had never been; as to be built, and to be fired, and burnt down again? Had it not been better for millions, that they had never been born, than to be born, and brought into the world for a little time, and then to be damned to Eternity?

But, O vain man, who art thou that diſputeſt againſt God? Shall the pot or veſſel ſay to him, that made it, why madeſt thou me thus, or why at all? For his will and pleaſure were all things made: and it is not fit to diſpute his will or pleaſure, that could make all things. But that we may receive ſatisfaction in this poynt, and that we may not be ignorant of ſo great a matter, as the reaſon why God made the world,

Firſt, we may reſolve it without any ſticking, that he that created all things, ſtood in need of nothing; and that gave being to all, needed not any thing from the Creature to amend his own well-being. That is a moſt juſt challenge of all the world, if it can, to ſhew that God is beholden to any, or had ever need of any: the Apoſtle makes it, Rom. XI. 35, 36. Who hath been the Lords Councellor to teach him, or who hath firſt given to him, &c. But

Secondly, We may give him that for a proper and direct reaſon of Gods creating all things, which the Apoſtle ſays, Rom. IX. 23. That he might make known the riches of his glory: viz. That he might glorifie himſelf, and that he might impart of his own riches to his Creature.

It might almoſt be queſtioned, whether God could chooſe but create the world: not to put a neceſſity, or compulſion upon God, who doth freely whatever he doth, and hath no other tie upon him for his actings than his own Will. But in regard of that infinite goodneſs that is in God, could that do other than flow out upon the Creature? God from all Eternity dwelt in and with himſelf, bleſſed, ever bleſſed in the enjoyment of himſelf, and needed nothing beſide himſelf. But could that infinite Ocean of goodneſs, that was in him, be kept within thoſe bounds of ſelf enjoyment, and not communicate it ſelf to the Creature? A lively, full, flowing fountain cannot contain its ever-flowing waters within its own brims, but it muſt flow out to refreſh and water the places that are about it; The Sun cannot keep its light and heat within it ſelf, but muſt impart it to the world.

We ſhall not impoſe any ſuch neceſſity upon God, as he hath done upon theſe Creatures. And yet if we ſhould ſay, God the everlaſting fountain of Being, of Goodneſs, could not but impart Being, and his Goodneſs to Creatures; this would ſpeak no imperfection in God, but his infinite perfection. But we will take the thing up in terms of Scripture. He was willing to make known his goodneſs; it was his pleaſure to create the world, that he might communicate the riches of his glory. God would give being to Creatures, that he might glorifie his own being; would communicate of his goodneſs to his Creatures, that he might glorifie his own goodneſs. So all terminates and centers in that great end, his own glory. He created the world to glorifie his power: gave being to Creatures that he might glorifie his own being: ſhews goodneſs to them, that he may glorifie his own goodneſs, and receive glorifying from them. And at laſt, will deſtroy the world to glorifie his power and juſtice: damn the wicked to glorifie his truth and juſtice, and glorifie his Saints to glorifie his grace. So that God made all things for himſelf, that is for his own glory: doth all things for his own glory: created thee, me, and all fleſh, that he might reap glory from us.

II. But let us conſider of the ſecond thing, as it tends to the End of this Command, the ſetting forth the reaſon of the Inſtitution of the Sabbath; That he created all things in ſix days.

And what needed he take ſix days, that could have done all in a moment? He had as little need to take time for his work, as he had of the world, he being Lord of all. What reaſon can we give? but that he by his own proceeding and acting would ſet the clock of time, and meaſure out days, and a week, by which all time is meaſured, by his own ſtandard, Evening and Morning, to make a natural day, i. e. day and night: and ſeven natural days to make a week; ſix days of labour, the ſeventh for reſt, ſix for man, the ſeventh for God.

Shall we trace the ſtory of the ſix days a little, that we may the more plainly obſerve the Reſt, and bleſſing of the Sabbath, when it came?

That the world was made at Æquinox, all grant, but differ at which, whether about the eleventh of March, or twelfth of September; to me in September without all doubt. All things were created in their ripeneſs and maturity: Appels ripe, and ready to eat, as is too ſadly plain in Adam and Eves eating the forbidden Fruit. To this we might add that God attributed the beginning of the year to March, upon Eccleſiaſtical account, upon their their coming out of Egypt. Exod. XII. Which argues it had begun from ſome time elſe before. And ſo the Jews well obſerve, that ראש השנה לשנים The beginning of the year for telling the year, is from September: ראש השנה לרגלים The beginning of the year for ſtating of the feaſts, is from March. See Exod. XXIII. 16. The feaſt of in-gathering in the end of the year. After which a new year was preſently to begin, when they had gathered in grapes, &c.

So that look at the firſt day of the Creation, God made Heaven and Earth in a moment. The Heaven, as ſoon as created, moved, and the wheel of time began to go. And thus for twelve hours there was univerſal darkneſs. This is called the Evening, meaning Night. Then God ſaid, Let there be Light, and light aroſe in the Eaſt, and in twelve hours more was carried over the Hemiſphere: and this is called Morning, or Day. And the Evening and Morning made the firſt natural days; twelve hours darkneſs, and twelve light.

Accordingly did God proceed in the works of the ſix days, as Moſes hath informed us at large; which I ſhall not inſiſt upon, but come to the works of the ſixth day. On that day God created creeping things, and beaſts, and laſtly man. And that which is needful to obſerve towards the Lords reſting, and ſanctifying the ſeventh day, is, that before the ſeventh day came, ſin was come into the world, and Chriſt was promiſed.

On the ſixth day all was marred again. Before that day was ended ſin was got into the world, and ſpoiled the beſt of the Creation of God, Men, and ſome Angels. This we have to ſpeak to, wich giveth ſome illuſtration concerning the inſtitution of the Sabbath of the ſeventh day.

That Adam fell on the very day that he was created, needs not ſo much diſpute about, for it is eaſie to be proved, as it needs ſorrow and wonder. Wonder, that he placed in ſo incomparable happyneſs, and having perfect power to continue in it, ſhould ſet ſo light by that happineſs, as to paſs it off for an Apple, and that he ſhould loſe that happineſs on his firſt day, when he was able to have kept it all his days. And Sorrow, that the nobleſt of natures, that God had created, ſhould be ſo ſoon overthrown, and overthrown ſo ſorely.

For proof of this, we may have recourſe to Scripture, to Reaſon, and to the Correſpondence that was twixt the Fall and the Redemption.

I. To prove it by Scripture.

Firſt, Obſerve that, Pſal. XLIX. 12. Nevertheleſs man being in honour abideth not, but is like the beaſts that periſh. The Pſalmiſt in the verſe before ſhews the carnal confidence of worldly men: Their inward thought is, that their houſes ſhall continue for ever, and their dwelling places to all generations, &c. And in this verſe he ſhews, how vain ſuch confidences are. For that man hath no abiding here in his houſe, or honour, but he muſt away. And he lays it down not only as a thing undoubted in it ſelf in the words that you have before you in your Engliſh Bibles: but in the Original he includes the moſt proof of it, that could be produced. For in the Original the words ſpeak literally thus, Adam in honour lodged not all night, but was flitted out of his honour before his firſt night came. And if it were ſo with him in his great honour, and in his great ability to have ſtood and remained in his honour, it is much more ſo with man, that is become ſinful, mortal, and nothing but fading. I ſay, the words in the Original bear alſo this ſenſe, that Adam in honour lodged not all night. And ſo they ſpeak and prove the thing we are upon, that he fell and faded on the very day he was created; and loſt his honour and happineſs before night came.

Secondly, Obſerve that, Joh. VIII. 44. He was a murtherer from the beginning. The Syriac renders it from in the beginning; the common phraſe whereby the Jewiſh Nation expreſſed the days of Creation. So is it their common expreſſion, whereby they denote the works of the Creation, to call them מעשי בראשית the works in the beginning. And the Jews that ſtood by and heard Chriſt ſpeak theſe words, He was a murtherer from the beginning, could not otherwiſe underſtand it, than that he was a murtherer even from the days of the Creation, that he murthered Adam on the very day that he was created. And ſo Chriſt meant in the words, as ſpeaking according to the common and familiar Language of the Nation. For

II. To clear this by Reaſon, which the Scripture thus hinteth.

Firſt, It is without all queſtion, that the Devil would ſlack no time, but as he was fallen himſelf through his ſpite and malice at the happineſs and honour of Adam; ſo he would haſten all he could, to bring him out of his happineſs and honour, which he ſo much ſpited and maliced.

It is diſputed what day the Angels were created. It is the moſt probable they were created the firſt day with the Heavens: and that they were ſpectators of Gods works in the creation, and praiſed and magnified the Lord for his works all along; ſo God himſelf the great Creator tells us, Job. XXXVIII. 4, 5, 6, 7. Where waſt thou when I laid the foundations of the earth, &c. Who hath laid the meaſures thereof, if thou knoweſt, or who hath hath ſtretched the line upon it? Whereupon are the foundations thereof faſtned, or who layd the corner ſtone thereof? When the morning Stars ſung together, and all the Sons of God ſhooted for joy. By Stars, and Sons of God is plainly meant the Angels: and they are ſinging and ſhouting, when God lays the foundations of the earth; as they did at the laying the foundation of the Temple, Ezra, III. Now the foundation of the earth was laid in the firſt day, the firſt work of the Creation: when God in one and the ſame inſtant created Heaven and Earth, and in the ſame inſtant created the Angels with the Heavens.

Now theſe Angels that fell, were not fallen doubtleſs before man was made. For upon creating of Man, who was the laſt of the Creation, it is ſaid, Gen. I. 31. And God ſaw every thing, that he had made, and behold it was very good: and there was yet nothing bad or evil in the world, no Angels fallen, no ſin at all. But when thoſe that fell ſaw the dignity and honour and happineſs, that God had placed man in, a piece of clay, a lump of earth, duſt of the ground; and that he put all Creatures under his feet, as it is Pſal. VIII. 5, 6. yea and gave Angels charge to attend him, as it is, Pſal. XCI. 11: They maliced this happineſs and honour, and ſcorned this ſervice and attendance; and damned themſelves meerly upon this ſpite at Man.

Would they therefore, think you, delay any time of tempting man, to try whether they could ſhake him out of his happineſs and honour, and bring him into the ſame condemnation with themſelves? No, the Devil never ſince ſlacked time, and put off any opportunities of doing miſchief, much leſs would he then, when he had miſchieved himſelf with ſuch a ſpleen.

Secondly, I might ſpeak of divers things. As that if Adam had kept the Sabbath in innocency, he had kept the Law; that if he had continued any time without ſin, he had begot Cain without ſin: if Eve had been a little practiſed in obedience, ſhe had not ſo ſoon been ſhaken, when ſhe came to be tried: that their ſpeech ſheweth, that no fruit had been eaten before. But that which is eſpecially conſiderable is, that the Redemption was to be ſhewed inſtantly upon the Creation. Since Chriſt was to be ſet up Lord of all, the Saviour of all that are ſaved, and the ſecond Adam repairer of the ruines of the firſt; it was not only fit, but indeed needful, that he ſhould be proclaimed King and Saviour even the firſt day of man.

I do not ſay, it was needful that Adam ſhould fall on his firſt day, that Chriſt might be proclaimed on his firſt day: and yet I ſay, it was needful that Chriſt ſhould be proclaimed that day, viz. that he might be ſet up Lord of all men from the firſt day of man: But eſpecially, that what ſtability or firmneſs there is in obedience and holineſs, it might be founded in Chriſt alone. I could almoſt ſay, it was needful, that Adam ſhould fall on the day of his Creation, not in regard of any neceſſity God put upon him, but in regard of the fickleneſs of created nature, being left to it ſelf. When I ſay, it was almoſt needful, I mean almoſt inevitable, but that he, left intirely to himſelf, and to his own ſtrength, ſhould ſtand the temptation of an Angel, a Creature ſo far above him by nature, and ſo far wiſer than he, though he were full of wiſdom. And you ſee Satan did not ſo much tempt his ſtrength, as his wiſdom; and there he overturns him by a trick of ſubtility, out-witting his wiſdom.

However it was fit the Redeemer ſhould be held forth, even the firſt day of man, as the heir of all things, Heb. I. 2. as the root of all to be ſaved, and the ſure foundation of all holineſs, grace and eternal life. And

III. Do but obſerve what correſpondence there is twixt the Fall and Redemption; and the later will ſpeak the former to have been on Adams firſt day. Redemption was wrought on the ſixth day, as the Fall had been on the ſixth day. And when Chriſt had wrought that great work, he reſted the ſeventh day in his grave, as God reſted on the ſeventh day, when he had wrought the great work of Creation. To this purpoſe I might alſo apply the particular times of the one, and the other. About the third hour, the hour afterwards of ſacrifice and prayer, it is very probable Adam was created. And Mark tells you, Chap. XV. 25. And it was the third hour, when they crucified him; that is, when they delivered him up to Pilate to be crucified. About the ſixth hour, or high noon, Adam moſt probably fell, as that being the time of eating. And John tells you, Chap. XIX. 14. that about the ſixth hour he was condemned, and led away to be crucified. And about the ninth hour, or three a clock afternoon Chriſt was promiſed, which Moſes calls the cool of the day: and about the ninth hour Chriſt cried out with a loud voice, and gave up the Ghoſt. Such Harmony may be found betwixt the day and hours of the one and of the other: the later helping to prove and clear, that Adam fell on the ſixth day, the day on which he was created, and continued not in honour all night.

Ah! what a glaſſy brittle thing is poor humane nature, when it is ſo ſhaken all to pieces from ſo great perfection, that it holds not whole above three hours, or thereabouts? And that it held whole ſo long, was becauſe it had not yet met with a temptation. And that Satan offered not a temptation all that while, was becauſe he would hold hold off till they came to their time of eating; and their first meal proves their poyson. But Ah! the glorious and divine power of the grace of the Lord Jesus, that inables a poor sinful Soul to hold out against the shocks of all the temptation of Hell, and to break through all, and to get to glory. Compare Adam shaken with the first temptation the Devil offers, with Job not shaken with all that the Devil could do; and to the praise of the glory of his grace, as it is said, Ephes. I. 6. we have cause to cry out all our lives, and so do Saints in glory to eternity, Great is the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Now read the words carrying this that hath been spoken in your minds, In six days the Lord made Heaven and Earth, the Sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore God blessed the Sabbath day, and hallowed it. And on the sixth day Adam fell, and Christ was promised: and on the Seventh day God rested, and blessed the Sabbath day, &c. And so the Chaldee Translater of the Psalms considers of the thing. For upon Psalm. XCII. which is intituled for the Sabbath day, he saith thus, A Psalm or Song, which Adam the first man sung concerning the Sabbath day. And the same Chaldee Translater on Cant. I. yet more plainly: When Adam saw that his sin was forgiven, when the Sabbath came, he sung a Psalm, as it is said, A Psalm or Song for the Sabbath day.

And now looking on this first week of the world in this prospect, viz. as sin come into the world, and Christ promised before the seventh day came, it will give us a clearer prospect of the Sabbath, and of Gods resting, viz.

I. That God had created a new creation, before he rested on the Sabbath. For when Adam and mankind, by his fall, was shattered all to pieces, and the noblest Creature, to whom God put all other Creatures in subjection, was himself become like the beasts that perish, the beasts that were put in subjection to him: and when Satan the enemy of God, as well as man, had thus broke all to pieces the chief work-manship of God; here the world was mar'd as soon as made. And as God in six days made Heaven and Earth, and all things therein, so before the sixth day went out, Satan had mar'd and destroyed him, for whom all these things were created.

God therefore coming in with the promise of Christ, who should destroy Satan, that had destroyed all; and having now created a new world of grace, and brought in a second Adam, the root of all were to be saved; and having restored Adam, that not only from his lost condition, but into a better condition, than he was in before, as having ingrafted him, and all believers into Christ, a surer foundation, than natural perfection, which he had by Creation, but had now lost: then he rested, as having wrought a greater work, than the Creation of nature.

But then you will say, that that first Sabbath was of Evangelical institution, not of moral: that then the law for keeping of it was not written in Adams heart, but was of Evangelical revelation.

I may answer truly, that it was both. For though Adam had not sinned, yet must he have kept the Sabbath. And to this purpose it is observable, that the institution of the Sabbath is mentioned, Gen. II. before the fall of Adam is mentioned, Gen. III. partly because the Holy Ghost would mention all the seven days of the first week together, and partly to intimate to us, that even in innocency there must have been a Sabbath kept; a Sabbath kept, if Adam had continued in innocency: and in that regard the Law of it to him was Moral, and written in his heart, as all the Laws of piety towards God were. It is said, Gen. II. 15. The Lord God took the man, and put him into the Garden of Eden to dress and keep it. Now if Adam had continued in innocency, do you think he must have been at work dressing and keeping the Garden on the Sabbath day, as on the other six? He had Gods own copy so laid before him of working six days, and resting the seventh, that he could not but see, that it was laid before him for his Example.

But you will say, All the Moral Law was written in Adams heart, as soon as he was created: now the Law to keep the Sabbath could not be, because the Sabbath was not yet created, nor come. And by then the Sabbath came, the Law in his heart was blurred by sin and his fall.

I answer, The Law writ in Adams heart was not particularly every Command of the two Tables, written as they were in two Tables line by line: but this Law in general of piety and love toward God, and of justice and love towards our neighbour. And in these lay couched a Law to all particulars, that concerned either; to branch forth as occasion for the practice of them should arise. As in our natural corruption brought in by sin, there is couched every sin whatsoever too ready to bud forth, when occasion is offered. So in the Law in his heart of piety towards God, was comprehended the practice of every thing, that concerned love and piety towards God, as occasion for the practice was offered. Under this Law was couched a tie and Law to obey God in every thing he should command. And so though the command, Eat not of the forbidden fruit, was a Poſitive and not a Moral Command; yet was Adam bound to the obedience of it by virtue of the Moral Law, written in his heart, which tyed him to love God, and to obey him in every thing he ſhould command.

not

And ſo the Sabbath, when it came, although you look upon it as a poſitive command in its inſtitution; yet was it writ alſo in Adams heart, to obey God in that Command, eſpecially when God had ſet him ſuch a Copy by his own reſting.

II. A ſecond thing obſervable in that firſt Sabbath, and which was tranſmitted to poſterity as a Law to keep, is, that now it had ſeveral ends. As in man there is ſomething of the perfection of every Creature, a Spirit, as Angels; Life, as Beaſts; Growth, as Trees; a Body, as Stones; ſo the Sabbath hath ſomething of the excellency and of the end, of every Law, that was or could be given.

There are four ſorts of Laws, which God hath given to men; Moral, Commemorative, Evangelical and Typical. Moral Laws are given in the Ten Commandments. Commemorative Laws, as the Law of the Paſsover, to commemorate the delivery out of Egypt; Pentecoſt, to commemorate the giving of the Law. Typical, as Sacrifices, Prieſthood, Purifications, ſprinkling of blood, to ſignifie good things to come, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, and to have their accompliſhing in Chriſt Evangelical, ſuch as repentance, ſelf-denial, believing, &c.

Now the Sabbath is partaker of all theſe Ends together, and hath the ſeveral excellencies of all theſe ends included in its ſelf. And ſo had that firſt Sabbath appointed to Adam.

Firſt, The Moral end is to reſt from labours. So in this fourth Commandment, ſix days ſhalt thou labour and do all thy work, but the ſeventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God, in it thou ſhalt do no manner of work, &c. So Jer. XVII. 21. Thus ſaith the Lord, Take heed to your ſelves, to bear no burthen on the Sabbath day, nor bring it in by the gates of Jeruſalem. Neither bring forth a burthen out of your houſes, neither do you any work, but hallow the Sabbath day, as I commanded your fathers.

Oh! then I celebrate the Sabbath, ſaith the Sabbath-breaker, for I do no work but play and recreate, and drink and ſit ſtill, and do no work at all. Friend, doſt thou think God ever eſtabliſhed idleneſs and folly by a Law? That he hallowed the Sabbath day to be a playing, fooling, ſporting day? But Chriſtian, how readeſt thou, as a Chriſtian? The ſeventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God; not a Sabbath for thy luſt and lazineſs. And in it thou ſhalt do no manner of work of thine own, but the work of the Lord thy God. And the reſt that he hath commanded is not for idleneſs, but for piety towards God; for which end he gave all the Laws of the firſt Table, viz. to leave communion with the world and worldly things that day, and to have it with God, as in Eſai. LVIII. 13, 14. If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy will on my holy days, and call the Sabbath a delight. As Moſes to betake our ſelves to the mount of God, and there to have communion with him. To get into the Mount above the world, and there to meet God and converſe with him. To be in the Spirit on the Lords day; and not to recreate the Body, but the Soul. To gather Spiritual ſtrength for that, which it may be hath been ſcattered in our wordly employment.

Secondly, There is a commemorative end of the Sabbath, to remember Gods creating the world. Which Adam might very well, nay muſt have been employed about, though he had never fallen. When he had been all the week upon his employment, dreſſing the Garden, and keeping it; then on the Sabbath to ſet himſelf to meditate upon Gods creating of the world; and to ſtudy his power and wiſdom and goodneſs, ſhewed in that glorious workmanſhip, and to ſpend the day in prayers to him. Obſerve the work of that day to us, and the ſame it ſhould have been to him, in Pſal. XCII. which is intituled a Pſalm for the Sabbath day. It tells you what the work of the day is, verſ. 1. It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to ſing praiſes unto thy name, O moſt High. And upon what reaſon, ver. 4. For thou haſt made me glad through thy works, I will triumph in the works of thy hands. This is a Sabbath days work; after our ſixs days work, to make it our employment to think of Gods: to meditate of his wondrous works of Creation and Preſervation: and there will come in the thoughts of our Creator and Preſerver, and may mind us of our engagement to praiſe him: to whet our thankfulneſs and faith with theſe thoughts.

1. When we have laboured all the week, to think of our Creator, that hath ſuſtained us, fed, cloathed, brought us hitherto. And here is a right Sabbath employment, to let our thoughts ſtream from our wordly employment to God, and to the remembrance of him, in whom we live, and move and have our being.

2. To truſt God with our ſupport, though we labour not on the Sabbath, but ſpend it wholly to him, and not to our ſelves. He that created all things, and that hath fed and preſerved us hitherto, can ſupport us without our working on his day; nay, and will do it: for do his work, and undoubtedly, thou ſhalt not want thy wages.

What

What a lecture did God read in his raining of Manna, that on the Sabbath day he rained none: thereby to ſhew his own owning of his Sabbath, and checking and chiding thoſe, that for greedineſs and diſtruſt, would go out and think to gather ſome on that day. And when he provided them Manna on the ſixth day for the Sabbath alſo, what a lecture did he read, that he that obſerves the Sabbath and does Gods Will, ceaſing from his own labour, and doing his, ſhall never be unprovided for.

Thirdly, There is an Evangelical end of the Sabbath, referring to Chriſt: and that in Adams Sabbath as well as ours. Let us begin with his.

I have ſhewed that on the ſixth day Adam ſinned, and Chriſt was promiſed. So that the laſt work of God in the days of Creation, was the ſetting up Chriſt, and reſtoring fallen man by him. And here God reſted, viz. He had brought in his Son in whom his Soul delighted, and made him heir of all things: and thus he reſted in Chriſt, finiſhed his work in Chriſt, reſted, refreſhed, delighted himſelf in Chriſt. Now the next day, when the Sabbath came in, what had Adam to do in it, but to remember the Creation, to remember his new creating, when he was broke all to pieces and ſpoiled? To remember his Creator and Redeemer.

It is ſaid, Gen. III. 21. Unto Adam and his wife did the Lord God make coats of ſkins, and cloathed them. The Lord and Lady of all the world clad in Leather! Which our ſilks and ſattens now would ſcorn to think of: but from ſo mean a garb comes all our gallantry, though now we ſcorn it. But whence came thoſe Skins? Moſt probably they were the skins of beaſts that were ſacrificed. For, That ſacrifice was from the beginning may be obſerved from that, that Chriſt is called The Lamb ſlain from the beginning of the world: and that not only in prediction, or that it was determined, and foretold by God, that he ſhould be ſlain: but in figure, that ſacrifice was offered from the beginning of the world, which did preſignifie his killing, and offering up. And this further appears from the ſacrifices of Cain and Abel, which rite and piece of Religion they had learned of their Father Adam.

Here then was work for Adam on the Sabbath, to ſacrifice in memory of Chriſt to be offered up for redemption: and to praiſe God for creating the world; but eſpecially for vouchſafing Chriſt, whereby a better world and Eſtate is created.

And would not Adam, when he had a family, preach to his family of theſe things upon the Sabbath day? "My Children, learn to know, and remember the Creator, "the bleſſed Trinity, Father, Son and Holy Spirit, who in ſix days made Heaven "and Earth, and on the ſixth day made me and your Mother, both of us in his own image, "perfectly holy and righteous, and endued with power of perfect obedience, and to "reſiſt all temptations. But that day we were deceived by the Devil, and fell and un- "did our ſelves, and our poſterity, and came into a ſtate of death and damnation. But "God ſuffered us to lye ſo but a few hours, but promiſed his own Son to take our fleſh, "and to dye to deliver us from death and damnation: and taught us this duty of "ſacrifice in comemoration of Chriſts death, and appoynted this day to commemorate "theſe things, and to be employed in ſuch ſervice, and meditations. Oh! my Children, "learn to know your Creator, to believe in Chriſt your Redeemer, and to obſerve his "Sabbath. Such employment as this had Adam with his family on the Sabbath day: that it was even a Chriſtian Sabbath to him, as ours is to us: and the very ſame work is ours, and was his on the Sabbath day; but only that he alſo ſacrificed.

Fourthly, There is a Typical end of the Sabbath; to ſignify Eternal Reſt. Heb. IV. 3. For we which have belived do enter into reſt: As he ſaid, I have ſworn in my wrath, if they ſhall enter into my Reſt, although the works were finiſhed from the foundation of the world. Where the Apoſtle ſignifies, that the Sabbath hinted another reſt, to wit, Gods Eternal Reſt, different from that reſt, when God ceaſed from the works of Creation. The Sabbath typifies the end, viz. Eternal Reſt: and the means, viz. to reſt in Chriſt. One end was to Adam in innocency, both to us. This is a lecture that may be read in the Sabbath; in ſomething that is viſible to ſee ſomething inviſible, as in the water to ſee the Sun. This is a way to reſt, and reſembles that great, and laſt Reſt: as pleaſant walks lead at length to the ſtately Houſe at the end of them.

This is a fit thought for the Sabbath-day morning. Now I reſt from the world, how ſhall I reſt from it eternally? Now I deal with God inviſibly, but one day viſibly. They who love Eternal Reſt, will certainly love the Sabbath.

To all theſe ends, God added another end, as the Sabbath was given to his peculiar people, given at Sinai, with all theſe ends, and this more; viz. To diſtinguiſh the Jews from all others for Gods own people. See Deut. V. 15. And remember that thou waſt a Servant in the land of Egypt, and that the Lord thy God brought thee out thence, through a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched out arm: therefore the Lord thy God commanded thee to keep the Sabbath day. And ſo in Exod. XXIII. 12. And the Sabbath is reckoned with the Jewiſh Feſtivals, Col. II. 16. Let no man judge you in meat or in drink, or in reſpect of an Holy

Holy day, or of the new Moon, or of the Sabbath days. They were diſtinguiſhed by Times from all other people. But how is this Sabbath diſtinctive? I anſwer,

1. None in the world kept the like reſting day. Therefore the Jews were ſcoffed at by other Nations, as Idle, and taken advantage of on that day.

2. They kept this Reſt as a redeemed people. Deut. V. How had they toyled in Egypt, and had not the liberty of a Sabbath: Now on the contrary, when they were delivered out of Egypt, they kept the Sabbath, as a ſignification of their reſt from their labours there.

And now look on the Sabbath in its Moral, Commemorative, Evangelical, Typical, and Ceremonial End. Look on it in its Royal Dreſs, with what poſſible it can put on, as Queen Eſther was dreſt; and then view its beauty.

Firſt, in its Antiquity. It was from the beginning: as it is ſaid of the word of God, 1 Joh. I. 1. Ask after the antient paths, and the Sabbath will be found to be one of them. This is not of the Law, but of the Fathers. It is the firſt born of Ordinances, and hath a double portion of honour due to it. It was the firſt day of comfort in the world, after Adam was adjudged to toyl and miſery. The Jews ſay of it, that it is a Mediator.

The Conſideration of theſe Ends of the Sabbath may ſerve to aſſoyl that controverſie about the Antiquity of its Inſtitution: viz. Whether its Inſtitution was not before the giving of the Law? In the Diſpute about the Sabbath afoot in England ſome years ago, there were ſome went ſo high (ſhall I ſay?) or ſo low, as to maintain that our Sabbath was not of Divine Inſtitution, but Eccleſiaſtical only; not ordained by God, but the Church. And to make good this aſſertion, they would perſwade you, that there was no Sabbath inſtituted before the giving of the Law. None from the beginning, but that the world was two thouſand five hundred and thirteen years without a Sabbath: for ſo long it was from the Creation to Iſraels going out of Egypt: and that then, and not before was the Law for the Sabbath given.

Then I pray, why ſhould Moſes ſpeak of Gods ſanctifying the Sabbath, when he is ſpeaking of the firſt week of the world, if he meant not, that the ſeventh day of that week was ſanctified? And what ſenſe were it to read the Command thus, For in ſix days the Lord made Heaven and Earth, &c. and reſted the ſeventh day, therefore two thouſand five hundred and thirteen years after, he bleſſed the ſeventh day and hallowed it? But read it as it lies before you, He reſted the ſeventh day, therefore the Lord bleſſed the Sabbath day and hallowed it, and muſt it not needs mean, he bleſſed that ſeventh day, that he reſted, and ſanctified it, and ſo the ſeventh ſucceſſively in following generations?

But you may obſerve in Moſes, that the Sabbath is given upon two reaſons or accounts here, becauſe God reſted; but in Deut. V. 15. becauſe God delivered them out of Egypt. Thou, O Iſrael, thou muſt keep the Sabbath day in remembrance of thy deliverance out of Egypt: but withall he bids them, Remember to keep the Sabbath in memory of Gods reſting. Therefore certainly the Sabbath was kept in remembrance of that, before it was given to Iſrael to keep in memory of the deliverance out of Egypt.

I ſaid, Adam ſhould have kept the Sabbath, had he continued in innocency: then certainly he had more need of a Sabbath, for the benefit of his Soul, when he was become a ſinner. And thoſe four Ends of the Sabbath already mentioned, were alſo ends of the Sabbath to him, as well as to us. The beauty then of the Sabbath conſiſts Firſt, in its Antiquity.

Secondly, In the Univerſality of its reception, throughout of all ages. One generation left it to another, from Father to Son. And it is known to all Churches.

Thirdly, The Bravery of its inſtitution. It had Gods example. God hallowed, bleſſed, dreſt it nobly: but his example is an addition without parallel.

Fourthly, The nobleneſs of its nature.

1. In it there was ſome of every part of the Law. It was Moral, Typical, Ceremonial. As there is ſomething of man in all the Creatures, ſo there is ſomething in the Sabbath of all the Law.

2. By it is the propagation of Religion. See Eſ. LXVI. 23. And it ſhall come to paſs, that from one new Moon to another, and from one Sabbath to another, ſhall all fleſh come to worſhip before me, ſaith the Lord. As Pſal. XIX. 2. Day unto day uttereth ſpeech, and night unto night ſheweth knowledge. So from Sabbath to Sabbath God is ſpoken of, and knowledge of divine things revealed. This was the Market-day that ſtill furniſhed the Jews with what was needful for their ſpiritual food and ſuſtenance. All marketing was forbidden on it, Neh. XIII. 15, &c. becauſe a greater market was to be minded. So Manna was not rained on that day, becauſe better things were rained.

3. By it came benefit to man and beaſt. It gave them reſt from labour, and renewed their ſtrength.

Fifthly, Its Durableneſs. Exod. XXXI. 16, 17. The children of Iſrael ſhall keep the Sabbath, to obſerve the Sabbath throughout their generations for a perpetual covenant. It is a ſign

ſign between me, and the Children of Iſrael for ever. It reacheth as the Cherubins wings from one end of the World unto the other.

Hence alſo we may ſee what little difference there is twixt our Sabbath and the firſt Sabbath of the world. Both commemorate the Creation, both the Redemption: but only that ours is removed one day forward: the Sabbath of old on the ſeventh day of the week, ours on the firſt.

Much diſpute hath been about this change: into which I will not ravel, only obſerve theſe things in reference to this, that it is changed to the day of Chriſts Reſurrection.

I. As great a Change as this do we not read in the Old Teſtament? viz. the change of the beginning of the year from September to March, Exod. XII. The year had a natural intereſt to begin in September, becauſe then the world, the year and time began: and yet when God wrought for Iſrael an extraordinary work in redeeming them from Egypt, a figure of our redemption by Chriſt, he thought good to change the year from that time, that naturally it did begin.

So though the Paſſover be appointed to be in that firſt month, that began the new year, and be called an Everlaſting Ordinance, Exod. XII. 16. Yet upon occaſion the Lord ordained it to be kept in the ſecond month, Numb. IX.

To this we may add Gods changing the very end and memorial of the Sabbath to Iſrael themſelves. Changing, ſaid I? or rather adding a new memorial, which it had not before. In Exod. XX. the memorial is to remember Gods creating and reſting: in Deut. V. where the Ten Commandments are repeated, it is in memorial of their redemption out of Egypt. Not unclothed of its firſt end, and memorial, but clothed upon. So if Adam had continued innocent, he muſt have kept the Sabbath; and then it had been to him, but the memorial of Gods creating and reſting. But when Chriſt and redemption by him was ſet up and come in before the Sabbath came in, then it was clothed with another memorial, viz. the remembrance of the redemption.

II. Chriſt had power and authority to change the Sabbath, Mark. II. 28. The Son of man is Lord of the Sabbath. He had power over all Divine Ordinances, Hebr. III. 5, 6. Now Moſes verily was faithful in all his houſe, as a ſervant, &c. But Chriſt as a Son over his own houſe. He is not a Servant in the houſe, but a Son to diſpoſe of the affairs of the houſe, as he ſees good. He is greater than the Temple, and ſo may order the affairs of the Temple, as he ſaw good.

If a Jew queſtion, why he laid by the Ceremonies of Moſes? The anſwer is ready, becauſe he was greater than Moſes, Lord of the houſe, in which Moſes was but a Servant. Nay, it was he that appointed Moſes thoſe Ceremonies, and he might unappoint them at his pleaſure. That is obſervable, Act. VII. 38. This is that Moſes, that was in the Church in the wilderneſs with the Angel, which ſpake to him at Mount Sinai, and with our Fathers who received the lively Oracles to give us. With the Angel? who was that? It was Chriſt the great Angel of the Covenant, as he is called, Mal. III. 1. The Angel of Gods preſence, as he is called, Eſai. LXIII. 9. Then, who ſpake with Moſes at Mount Sinai? It was Chriſt. Who gave him the Lively Oracles, Laws, Teſtimonies, Statutes? It was Chriſt. And then might Chriſt, that gave them, diſpoſe of them as ſeemed him good.

So that if a Jew queſtion, why Chriſt changed Circumciſion into Baptiſm, the Paſchal Lamb into Bread and Wine, the Jewiſh Sabbath, into the Chriſtian Sabbath, The anſwer is ready, he was Lord of them, and might diſpoſe of them. Het ſet up Circumciſion, the Paſſover, the Jewiſh Sabbath, and might take them down, and alter them as he pleaſed.

III. Ye read once and again in Scripture of Gods creating a new world, Eſai. LXV. 17. Behold! I create new Heavens and a new Earth. 2 Pet. III. 13. We according to his promiſe look for new Heavens and a new Earth. Rev. XXI. 1. And I ſaw a new Heaven and a new Earth. Now when was this done? The Apoſtle tells us when, viz. in his own time, 2 Cor. V. 17. If any man be in Chriſt he is a new Creature. The meaning of it, is Gods creating a new Eſtate of things under the Goſpel: a new Church, the Jews caſt off, and the Gentiles taken in: new ordinances in his Church; Ceremonious worſhip taken down, and Spiritual ſet up: new Sacraments, Baptiſm and the Lords Supper inſtead of the Circumciſion and Paſſover: a new Command of love to one another: a new Covenant, a new and living way into the moſt holy; a new Creature, and in a word, all things become new.

Then certainly, a new Sabbath was fit for a new Creation: Lay theſe two places together Gen. I. 1. In the beginning God created the Heaven and the Earth, and Eſai. LXV. 17. Behold! I create new Heavens and a new Earth. In fulneſs of time God created new Heavens and a new Earth: and as the firſt Creation had the old Sabbath, ſo was it not fit, the new Creation ſhould have a new Sabbath? As our Saviour ſpeaks, Mat. IX. 17. New cloth muſt not be put into an old garment, nor new wine into old bottles, but new wine muſt be put into new veſſels and both are preſerved. So in this caſe a new manner of worſhip, new Ordinances, new Sacraments, to be committed to the old Sabbath? This is improper: but a new Sabbath must be for these, as well as they themselves are new. How pied would Christianity have looked, if it had worn a Coat all new in other respects, but had had on the shirt or piecing of the old Sabbath? And how unfit was it to have tyed Christians to the observation of the old Sabbath of the Jews?

IV. The Resurrection of Christ was the day of his birth, and beginning of his Kingdom. Observe the quotation, Acts XIII. 33. The promise which was made unto the Fathers, God hath fulfilled to us their Children, in that he hath raised up Jesus: as it is also written in the second Psalm, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. When was the day, wherein Christ was begotten? In the day that God raised him from the dead. That is strange: for as he was God, was he not begotten from Eternity; and as he was man, was he not conceived by the Holy Ghost, and born three and thirty years and an half before his Resurrection? Yes, both most true, and yet that true too, that he was begotten from the day of his Resurrection. And the Apostle tells you how to understand it, viz. He was the first begotten, and first born from the dead: begotten that day to the Gentiles and all the world, from thenceforward a Saviour to them; and by his Resurrection, as the Apostle saith, Rom. I. 4. Declared to be the Son of God with power by the Resurrection from the dead.

So likewise his Resurrection was the beginning of his Reign and Kingdom. Consider upon that, Mat. XXVI. 29. I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Fathers Kingdom: That is, when I am risen from the dead. And see Mat. XXVIII. 18. Now I begin to reign, All power is given unto me in Heaven and in Earth. For now he had conquered all his Enemies, Devil, Death and Hell.

Now was not the first day of the week, the day on which Christ rose, fitter to be made the Sabbath, to commemorate his Birth-day from the dead, and his entrance into his Kingdom; than the last day of the week, the old Sabbath, on which day he lay in the grave, and under death? Kings and Potentates use to celebrate their Birth-day, and the day of entrance into their Kingdom, and this King of Kings, was it not fit that such a memorial should be of his Birth-day, and entrance into his Dominion?

And compare the Creation and Christs Resurrection, whether of them was the greater matter? whether of them the greater work? Was not the Resurrection? Not indeed in regard of the Power, that effected both, but in regard of the effect or concernment of man.

1. By his Resurrection he had destroyed him, and that that had destroyed the Creation, viz. Sin and Satan: and did set up a better world, a world of Grace and Eternal Life.

2. Had it not been better, that Man as he now was, sinful, had never been created, than Christ uot to have risen again to save and give him life? As it was said of Judas, It were better if he had never been born; so it were better for sinful men if they had never been born, than that Christ should not have been born from the dead, to restore and revive them. Observe, that the Resurrection of the Heathen from their dead condition, took its rise and beginning from the Resurrection of Christ, as Christ himself closely compares it from the example of Jonahs rising out of the Whales belly, and converting Nineveh. To that purpose is that prophesie, Esai. XXVI. 19. Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise; awake, and sing, ye that dwell in dust? The dead Heathen that had lain so long in the grave of sin and ignorance, when Christs body rose, had life put into them from that time, and they rose to the life of grace. For by his Resurrection, he had conquered him, that had kept them so long under death and bondage.

Now was it not most proper for the Church of the called Heathen, to have a Sabbath, that should commemorate the cause, time, and original of this great benefit accruing to them?

A SER-

A SERMON

PREACHED upon

EXODUS XX. 12.

Honour thy Father and thy Mother, that thy days may be long in the Land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

THIS is the First Commandment of the Second Table, and it is the first with promise, Eph. VI. 2. Why it is the first of the second Table the reason is easie: because when the second Table teaches our duty towards our Neighbour, it is proper to begin with the Neighbour nearest to us, such is our Father and Mother; and with the Neighbour to whom we owe most peculiar Duty, as we do to those that are comprehended under this title of Father and Mother. But why this is called the First Commandment with promise, is not so easie to resolve. The difficulties are in these two things:

I. Because that seems to be a promise in the Second Commandment, Shewing mercy unto thousands, &c.

II. And if it be to be understood the first of the Second Table that hath a promise annexed unto it, that is harsh also, because there is no other promise in the Second Table: and the First Commandment with promise argues some other Commandments, with promise to follow after. Now to these difficulties I Answer,

First, That in the Second Commandment is rather a description of God, than a direct Promise, A jealous God visiting the iniquity of the Fathers upon the Children, &c. and shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me. As much Gall is mingled there as Honey, as dreadful threatnings as comfort; and therefore not to be looked on as a clear promise, but as an argument and motive to Obedience, taken from both mercy and judgment.

Secondly, It is true, there is never a promise more in the Second Table, that comes after this; but there are abundance of promises after, in the rest of the Law. And so may this be understood: it is the First Commandment with promise in the whole Law, from the Law given at Sinai, to all the Law that Moses gave them afterwards.

And the first promise in the Law given to Israel is the promise of long life, That thy days may be long in the Land, which the Lord thy God giveth thee. So that here especially are four things to be spoken to.

I. The nature of the promise: that it is a temporal promise concerning this life.

II. The matter of the promise: Length of life in the Land, which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

III. The suitableness of the Promise to the Command: Honour thy Father and Mother, that thy days may be long, &c.

IV. The extent of the Promise: to all, that keep the Commandment. Which four heads will lead us to the consideration of several Questions.

The first leads us to this Observation, That the Promises given to Israel in the Law are most generally, and most apparently promises temporal, or of things concerning this life. 4

First look upon this Promise, which is first in the Law; and whereas it may be construed two ways, yet both ways it speaks at first voice or appearance, an earthly promise. There may be an Emphasis put either upon, Thy days shall be long, or upon, Thy days long in the land. Honour thy Father and thy Mother, that thy days may be long; that thou mayst have long life. Or, Honour thy Father and thy Mother, &c. That thou mayst have long possession of the Land, which the Lord thy God giveth thee: and mayst not not be caſt out of it, as the Canaanites were before thee. Now take it either way, what ſpeaks it elſe, but a temporal promiſe, and that that refers to this life, and to our ſubſiſtence in this world?

And ſo look upon thoſe promiſes, that are in Levit. XXVI. and Deut. XXVIII. and you find them all referring to temporal and bodily things.

And hereupon it may be obſerved, that you hardly find mention of any ſpiritual promiſes, eſpecially not of eternal, in all Moſes Law. No mention of Eternal Life, joys of Heaven, Salvation, or Everlaſting glory: none but of things of this life. Hence it was that the Sadducees denyed the Reſurrection and the world to come, becauſe they only owned the five Books of Moſes, and in all his Books they found not mention of any ſuch thing.

And therefore when our Saviour is to anſwer a Cavil of theirs againſt the Reſurrection, Mark XII. 18, &c. obſerve what he ſaith, verſ. 26. Have you not read in the Book of Moſes, &c. For he muſt prove the thing out of Moſes to them, or they would take it for no proof. And obſerve alſo, how he proves it by an obſcure collection or deduction, viz. becauſe God ſays, I am the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob. Therefore they lived, though they were dead. Which he would never have done, had there been plain and evident proof of it: And which if there had been, they could never have denyed it.

And that which we are ſpeaking to, that the promiſes of the Law are of temporal things, is alſo aſſerted by that, Heb. VIII. 6. He is the Mediator of a better Covenant, eſtabliſhed upon better promiſes. If the promiſes of the Law had been Heavenly promiſes, there could not have been better promiſes. Had they been of Grace and Glory, there could not have been better promiſes: but thoſe of the Law were of this world, and earthly things.

Now what ſhall we ſay to this, that God ſhould give no better promiſes to his people? How could an Iſraelite but look after earthly things, when he had no promiſe, but of earthly things? How could he look after Heaven, when he had no promiſe of Heaven? When much of his Religion might very eaſily become a temptation. The enjoyning them ſo much Ceremonious Worſhip might, indeed it did, prove a temptation to them to turn all Religion into Ceremony. Their Laws that enjoyned them to ſeparate from the Heathen, and to have no Communion with them, might eaſily become a temptation to them, and ſo it did, of prizing themſelves, and deſpiſing others. Their promiſes, which ſeemed only to relate to earthly things, might, and indeed did, become a temptation to them to mind earthly things: and either not to be acquainted with, or to neglect things ſpiritual and heavenly. What then ſhall we ſay to theſe things?

Truly the firſt thing we may ſay to them may be to ſay nothing, but to ſtand in ſilence and admiration; and beget ſuch a meditation in us as he had, that ſtood weeping over a Toad to think how much nobler a creature than that, God had made him, and yet he had not been thankful. The Apoſtle Paul tells us, Heb. XI. 40. God had provided ſome better thing for us, that they without us ſhould not be made perfect. And the Apoſtle Peter tells us, 2 Pet. I. 4. That there are given unto us exceeding great and precious promiſes, that by theſe we might be partakers of the Divine Nature. And now look upon their allowances and ours, their promiſes and ours: and meditate what God had done to us in compariſon of them, and what we have done towards God in reference to theſe things.

The promiſes that God made to them in the Law, of Corn and Cattel, of Land and Money, health and long life; if you look upon them reflexively one way, comparing them with ſinful mens deſerts, and they are great promiſes in compariſon of what any man can deſerve: but look upon them reflexively another way, and compare them with what God hath promiſed in the Goſpel, and they are but ſmall and little to them. They were as the leſſer light, the Moon, that ruled the Night, and darkneſs of that myſterious and dark Oeconomy of the Law: but theſe as the greater light, the Sun, to rule in the bright and glorious light of the Goſpel.

Compare what is ſaid here in the Command and Promiſe, and what is added, Deut. V. 16. That thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee in the Land which the Lord thy God giveth thee: with ſuch paſſages as theſe; Eph. I. 3. Bleſſed be the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who hath bleſſed us with all ſpiritual bleſſings in heavenly places in Chriſt. Heavenly places, the word is ambiguous, (ſhall I ſay?) or large to ſignifie either, Heavenly places, and Heavenly things, as you may obſerve in the Text and Margin. Now whereas the Jews bleſſing was in an earthly place, the Land which the Lord their God gave them, he hath bleſſed us in heavenly places. Whereas it ſhould be well with them in all outward earthly things, he hath bleſſed us with all ſpiritual bleſſings in Heavenly things. Their Promiſes did capacitate them to be partakers of the Creature, and of things below; but 2 Pet. I. 4. There are given to us exceeding great and and precious promiſes, whereby we are capacitated to be partakers of the Divine Nature.

You ſee the difference: Now Chriſtian, where hath been thy gratitude, thy improvement? Thou art partaker of a better Covenant, better promiſes, better things: where hath been thy better Obedience? See what improvement the Apoſtle, or God by his mouth requires of us upon this account, 2 Cor. VII. 1. Having therefore theſe promiſes, Dearly beloved, Let us cleanſe our ſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit, perfecting holineſs in the fear of God. I leave every one to examine himſelf what clenſing, what perfecting of holineſs they have made, becauſe of the Promiſes.

I come to conſider, why God gave Iſrael ſuch Promiſes of earthly things as he did.

And firſt, we are to conſider, That God hath given the promiſe of ſpiritual and heavenly things to the Church, long before theſe temporal promiſes were given to Iſrael. Chriſt, Grace, Eternal Life, enjoyment of God were promiſed from the firſt day of Adam: and ſo that promiſe went all along with the Church before the Law, and continued alſo under the Law. As the Apoſtle ſaith, Gal. III. 17. The Law could not make that promiſe of no effect. Obſerve the Apoſtles manner of Argumentation there. Ye that ſtand upon juſtification by Works, ye plead that the Law ſaith, He that doth theſe things ſhall live. Moſt true, but his life muſt not be by the Works of the Law, but by the grace of the promiſe, which was before the Law, and the Law coming after could not diſannul it.

And how God made ſpiritual and heavenly promiſes before the Law, theſe and other places do abundantly teſtifie, Luk. I. 70, 71, &c. As he ſpake by the mouth of his Holy Prophets, which have been ſince the world began, &c. Tit. I. 2. In hope of Eternal Life, which God that cannot lye, promiſed before the world began. And that one for all, Joh. I. 4. In Chriſt was Life. In him came the promiſe of Life and Grace, even from the beginning: and that Life was the Light that holy men looked and walked after: and that Light ſhone in the darkneſs of the types of the Law, and in the darkneſs of the obſcurity of the Propheſies: and the darkneſs comprehended it not.

So that Iſrael, when theſe temporal promiſes were given them, had alſo before them the promiſes of Grace, promiſes of things ſpiritual and heavenly: and they were to look through theſe that were temporal, at thoſe that were ſpiritual and eternal. Here is given a promiſe of long life upon earth in the Land which the Lord their God gave them. But they had before them, even from of old, the promiſes of Eternal life to thoſe that obeyed the Commandments of God: and they were to look at, and after this through the other. And ſo the holy men among them did. That in Levit. XVIII. 5. Ye ſhall keep my ſtatutes and my judgments: which if a man do he ſhall live in them: Which is oft repeated elſe where, doth it mean only This Life? The Apoſtle often ſhews it aimeth higher: viz. at Spiritual and Eternal life. And ſo the Jews themſelves did generally underſtand it, though they failed in ſeeking that life, that it aimed at. As it is, Rom. X. 3. They being ignorant of Gods Righteouſneſs, and going about to eſtabliſh their own Righteouſneſs, have not ſubmitted themſelves unto the Righteouſneſs of God. And when that Man enquired, Matth. XIX. 16. What good thing ſhall I do, that I may have Eternal Life? and Chriſt bad him Keep the Commadments; he ſhewed what was meant by that, Levit. XVIII. 5. viz. That by keeping the Commandments, not only life here, but Eternal life hereafter is obtained. And ſo it is further cleared by his words in Luk. X. 28. This do, and thou ſhalt life.

So that this here was not barely a temporal promiſe, but had wrapped up in it a further promiſe, of Life Eternal. And ſo had the other temporal promiſes, that were given them. And ſo ſome of the Jews interpret that, Levit. XXVI. 11, 12. And I will ſet my Tabernacle amongſt you, and my Soul ſhall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye ſhall be my people: not only of God, being among his people here, but of his being in the midſt of them, and they about him in Heaven. And ſo you find the word Heaven in Scripture ſometimes to ſignifie the Church here, as well as it ſignifies the ſtate and place of glory hereafter.

Now if you ask, why God, ſince he meant ſpiritual things and eternal under theſe temporal promiſes, did not ſpeak out, but uſed ſuch promiſes as might prove occaſions of miſſing of thoſe promiſes through miſimprovement? And ſo we find that this very thing proved the ruine of the Jewiſh Nation; they being moved hereby to look at temporal things, and to neglect eternal. They looked, and ſtill look for a temporal Kingdom of Chriſt, pompous and reſplendent with worldly luſtre. And this ſtands, as it were a Wood, or a Fog, betwixt them, and the diſcerning of his ſpiritual Kingdom, that they cannot, will not ſee it. This makes them look for their Canaan again, and to be planted and ſettled there anew. With which opinion too many Chriſtians do concurr, and look for ſome ſuch glorious thing among the Jews, even this year, ſixty ſix. Why, I ſay, did not God ſpeak out ſpiritual and eternal things, but only obſcurely hinted them in ſuch temporal promiſes as theſe?

I An-

I Answer, Because God would use the most feeling perswasions to them. Men are not so sensible of things spiritual, as they be of bodily: have not the feeling of things that concern Life Eternal, as they have of this Life. To have said, Honour thy Father and Mother, that thou mayst inherit eternal life, had been a fair argument; but it is not so feeling to flesh and blood. No Man, but is very desirous of long life here; and it is but one of a City, and two of a Tribe, that more desires Life Eternal. The Gadarens are more sensible of their Swine, than Christ; and not one in many, but a promise of earthly prosperity, or bodily welfare comes nearer his heart, than a promise of everlasting and heavenly glory, health of body, than of soul, showers of rain, than of grace, bags of money, than all the treasures of Christ. Therefore God gave such promises, as might be most feeling and perswasive, those that were most like to take. As the Apostle, I being crafty caught you with guile, as the Jews describe it. As one that gives his Child Nuts and Plums to bring him on to learn; so God gave to them those things, that he was sure would most please them.

The Church of the Jews was a Child under age, Gal. IV. 1, 2, 3. and God deals with them as with Children, giving Ordinances and promises according to its childhood; feeds them with milk, and not with strong meat, because they were not so able to bear it. It is commonly said, they were not able to bear spiritual dispensations in their abstract simplicity; and therefore God gave them such carnal Ordinances, according as they were able to bear them. It is true, they were carnal enough about the worship of God: but was it not because they had such carnal Ordinances from the first? The use of these made them dote on them. Are there not thousands among Christians as carnal about Gods service as they? That dote as much upon Ceremony and outward formality in Gods worship, as ever they did? And that because they have been brought up in such Ceremonious way, or cannot come up to worship in spirit. And might not the Jews have been as capable of the same spiritual manner of Religion, as the Gentiles were, if God had set it up among them, when he first took them for the Church?

Wherein then did the Childhood of the Church consist?

First, That it was yet but small of stature, in comparison of that full body and growth the Church of God was to come to. See that, Eph. IV. 12, 13. For the perfecting of the Saints, for the work of the Ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ: Till we all come in the unity of the Faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ. What is the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ? It is the mystical body of Christ in its full proportion, viz. Jew and Gentile joyned together. How small a Babe was the Church of the Jews in comparison with what the Church was, when the Gentiles of all Nations were become the Church?

Secondly, That Church was a Child in knowledge in comparison of the Church under the Gospel. Hence that promise, Esai. LXV. 20. There shall be no more thence an Infant of days. The Gospel should bring in such light and means of knowledge, that none should be a Child, or infant in knowledge, if they had a mind to learn. 'Tis true, they were so childish, because God afforded no clearer means of knowledge. And it is as true, that in some sort it was needful, the means of knowledge should be but as it was, viz. that God by those means might make way to the knowledge and embracing of spiritual things under the Gospel, when it came. Consider their carnal ordinances, and temporal promises: God in the Gospel was to bring in a spiritual Worship and Religion. A better way, to make way for the embracing of that, could not be used, than by shewing before the unprofitableness, the uneffectualness of their carnal worship. This the Apostle speaks to at large in the Epistle to the Hebrews, Chap. IX. 9. That gifts and offerings could not make him, that did the service, perfect. That sprinkling the blood of Goats and Bulls could not purge the Conscience. The experience of this was the way to make men harken after the Sacrifice of Christ, that would do the work; that blood of Christ, that could purge to the utmost.

And the like might be instanced in other parts of that carnal service. So God gave them especially promises of temporal things, that he might teach them, that they should not be losers by his service. Their service was chargeable in gifts and offerings, and in going up to Jerusalem, &c. Therefore it was needful, that God should ply them with promises of temporal good, that they should lose nothing by his service, if they were faithful to it. Observe that, Exod. XXXIV. 23. Thrice in the year shall all your men-children appear before the Lord God, the God of Israel, What objections might be made against that ordinance; as that while they were absent from home, their Lands might be invaded by their Enemies, &c. But he answers all in the next Verse. For I will cast out the Nations before thee, and enlarge thy borders: neither shall any man desire thy Land, when thou shalt go up to appear before the Lord thy God, thrice in the year. And so might they except at the costliness of the Sacrifices, but his promise satisfied all, Thou shalt be blessed in the fruit of thy body and land, in the herds of thy Cattel, and flocks of thy Sheep.

And

And so had God laid in stock in these promises for the Gospel Church when it should come in: which required so much self-denial, and forsaking House and Lands; and which foretold of Persecution. God had satisfied his people before, that he would take care for their support, that none for Obedience to his Commandments should be a loser.

And thus much of the first thing propounded, viz. The Nature of the promise, That it is Temporal.

II. We come now in the second place to consider the suitableness of the promise to the Command. And what affinity then, and agreement hath this promise with the Duty injoyned in the Command? One would think it were more suitable to have said, Honour thy Father and Mother, that thou mayest be honoured of thy Children. Honour thy Magistrate, and thy Superiors, that thou mayst also come to the like honour. And such an agreement hath that saying of God, 1 Sam. II. 30. Them that honour me I will honour. And why therefore is it said, Honour thy Father and thy Mother, that thy days may be long in the Land?

I Answer, First, There is this harmonious reason: Thy Father and thy Mother under God gave thee being, and if thou honour them, thy being and well being shall be prolonged. If thou desire long life, honour them, that under God gave thee life. I remember here the Gloss of some Jewish Expositors upon these words of Eve, Gen. IV. 1. When Cain was born, she said, I have gotten a man from the Lord. The Hebrew word, that is rendred From, in greatest propriety, when it signifies any thing (as sometimes it does not) is With: and so they render it, I have gotten a Man with the Lord. Which they construe to this sense, In the production of Adam, God only had an Agency, and Adam none: and in my production out of Adam, God only had an Agency, and Adam none: but in the production of this my Son, I have been an Agent with God; and I have gotten a Son with the Lord. But be it the one way, or other, (though I should construe it a third way, viz. I have gotten a Man, even the Lord: Or, I have obtained the Lord to become Man: as looking to the promise that Christ should be her seed:) It is very well known how much Parents contribute to the production and life of their Children. And therefore it is but a just claim, and a claim very suitable to that matter; Honour thy Father and thy Mother, that gave thee life, that the life they gave thee may be prolonged. But,

Secondly, This promise is affixed to very many Commandments in the Law. As,

1. In General, Deut. V. 33. Ye shall walk in the ways, which the Lord your God hath Commanded you, that ye may live, and it may be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the Land which ye shall possess. And so Deut. VI. 2. That thou mightest fear the Lord thy God, to keep all his Statutes and Commandments, which I command thee, thou and thy Son, and thy Sons Son all the days of thy life: and that thy days may be prolonged. And so Chap. XI. 8, 9. &c. And,

2. As thus in general it is promised to the Obedience of all the Commandments, so it is affixed to some special Commandments, Deut. XXII. 6, 7. about the Dam and her young. If a birds nest chance to be before thee in the way in any tree, or in the ground, &c. Thou shalt in any wise let the dam go, and take the young to thee; that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayst prolong thy days. Deut. XXV. 15, Thou shalt have a perfect and just weight, a perfect and just measure shalt thou have, that thy days may be prolonged in the Land, &c.

Now the reason of this affixing is, because life is so desireable by all men: and God useth arguments to perswade, which are most feeling, and come neerest, and warmest to the heart. And as that is a melting perswasive, Rom. XII. 1. I beseech you by the mercies of God: so this is as melting an one in regard of mens tenderness to themselves, I beseech you by the mercy to be shewed to your own selves.

III. And thus we have brought our selves down to the third particular to be discoursed, and that is the matter of the promise, length of life.

But is long life such a Blessing, is it so desirable? What say we to that passage, Job XIV. 1. Man that is born of a Woman, is of few days, and full of trouble? If of few days, where is the long life that is here promised? If full of trouble, where is that desirableness of long life, so as to account it such a Blessing? If we well consider, what the Scripture speaks of the shortness and misery of humane life, it may seem to set us at a stand, to think that God should so often promise long life, when there is no such thing, but as Psal. XXXIX. 5. Behold thou hast made my days as an hand breath. And that he should promise it as a blessing, when as Psal. XC. 10. The days of our years are threescore years and ten, and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labour and sorrow. If we live to the utmost Nature can hold out, it is but labour and sorrow.

To

To ſpeak to theſe ſcruples, and to reconcile the ſhortneſs of Man's life, and the miſeries of the longeſt life, to the promiſe in the Text, we are to conſider life, not comparatively, but ſimply.

For, 1. The longeſt life compared with the Eternity of God is nothing. So David compares it, Pſal. XCV. 5. Mine age before thee is nothing: That is, compared to thine Everlaſtingneſs and Eternity, is a thing of nothing at all. Though of the longeſt date that ever life was, yet to thy years that fail not, it is leſs than nothing. So when the Prophet ſaith, Eſai. XL. 15. Behold the Nations are as a drop of a bucket, and are counted as the ſmall duſt of the ballance. This is not to be underſtood ſimply; for all Nations are a vaſt bulk and maſs in themſelves, but compared with God they are but as a drop, but as a ſmalleſt grain of duſt. And ſo the Pſalmiſt comparing the laſting of Heaven and Earth, with the everlaſtingneſs of God, makes them as of no laſtingneſs at all. Pſal. CII. 26, 27. They ſhall periſh, but thou ſhalt endure, yea, all of them ſhall wax old like a garment: as a veſture ſhalt thou change them, and they ſhall be changed. But thou art the ſame, and thy years ſhall have no end.

2. The longeſt life compared with the Sanits in Glory is as nothing, 2 Cor. V. 1. This Tabernacle always diſſolving, what is it to an Eternal building in the Heaven? Here we have none abiding City, ſaith the Apoſtle; but he ſaith again, 1 Theſſ. IV. 17. that we ſhall be ever with the Lord. Here our life is but a vapour; Jam. IV. as a Sleep; Pſal. XC. as nothing: but there we ſhall live as long as the Lord himſelf ſhall live.

3. The longeſt life compared with the long lives, that ſome have lived, to wit, the Patriarchs before the flood, is but of very few days: and but as an inch to an ell. And ſo Jacob compares his life, Gen. XLVII. 9. Few and evil have the days of the years of my life been. That is, few, and full of miſery have they been. Jacob was of a very fair age, an hundred and thirty years old; and ſo old a Man as it is likely Pharaoh had never ſeen ſo aged and venerable a head; and therefore you find him asking him but that one queſtion, How old art thou? And yet in Jacob's computation his age was but ſhort in compariſon of his Fathers, that had gone before him: his hundred and thirty compared with Adam's nine hundred and thirty, or Methuſelah's nine hundred ſixty nine.

So that we are not to judge of long life ſo comparatively, but ſimply; and to meaſure it by the common ſtint of Nature, that God hath ſet. Which Moſes holds out to us, Pſal. XC. 10. The days of our years are threeſcore years and ten, and if by reaſon of ſtrength they be fourſcore years, &c. And ſo length of life is to be underſtood; that that reacheth up to that ſtint and limit of nature. So that though ſeventy or eighty years be but a ſhort time in compariſon of the Eternity of God, and of Heaven, and in compariſon of the ages heretofore; yet it is a long life, becauſe it reacheth up to the utmoſt on Natures allowance.

And it is a long time, if we conſider humane frailty; that a poor piece of clay, a Man as brittle as glaſs, as unſtable as water, as fading and fleeting as a blaſt or ſhaddow, a poor thing that carries death in its principle, and walks in danger of death every moment, ſhould come up to ſeventy or eighty years, and the pitcher and glaſs not broken. It is a long time for that, which is frailty it ſelf to hold ſo from breaking. So that though comparatively to come up to the full ſtint of Nature be but a ſhort life; yet ſimply conſidered, it is a long time for ſo brittle a thing to hold out. A long time for an ungodly Man to be provoking of God all along, and a long time for a godly man to be from home in this ſinful world, and not got to Heaven.

But if long life be ſo frequent in the mouth of God, as a promiſe of a bleſſing, How was it, that God ſhortned mens lives, when they were at a fair length?

I have formerly obſerved to you, that lives were ſhortned at the Flood, and brought from a thouſand years almoſt, to about five hundred, or not ſo much. Shortned again at the building of Babel, and cut from about five hundred, to two hundred, or little more. And when God gives the Ten Commandments at Sinai, and this promiſe in this Commandment, he was to ſhorten lives again; which he did within a year and an half, or thereabout after he had given this promiſe at Sinai. Now if long life were ſuch a promiſe, ſuch a bleſſing, why did he not ſuffer lives to ſtand at their firſt ſtint, or at that length that thoſe lived before the flood?

Let us a little conſider the length of thoſe firſt lives, and then the ſhortning of them.

Some aſcribe the length of them to natural cauſes: as that then their bodies were more big, ſtrong and vigourous, than men are now; and that the Elements were then more pure and uncorrupted than they became after, and that their diet was more moderate, wholeſome and nouriſhing. Which if it were ſo, though ſome queſtion may be made of it; yet certainly there was ſomething more concurrent to the prolongation of their lives to that long extent, than merely natural cauſes. Their Diet indeed was changed after after the flood, from eating herbs and fruits of the ground, to a liberty to eat flesh. and to that referr the words of Lamech upon the naming of his Son, Noah, Gen. V. 29. And he called his Name Noah, saying, this same shall comfort us concerning our work, and toil of our hands, because of the ground, which the Lord hath cursed. That is, he shall be a comfort to the world in that liberty to eat flesh, that shall be granted to him: which will be a great ease from the toil and tugging used before, to get all the provision they used by toyling in the ground.

But were the Elements changed after the flood, as well as their Diet was changed?

First, We might ascribe the length of their lives something to the promise of life through Christ, that was given to Adam. And the nearer they were to the giving of the promise, the more might we conceive they received bodily vigor from the promise, for temporal life, as well as spiritual life and vigor of soul to life eternal. What was that that made Israel to multiply, and to be so fruitful in Egypt, even when they were over-toiled and worn out with labour? St. Stephen tells you, Act. VII. 17. that is was the strength of the promise. When the time of the promise drew nigh, which God had sworn to Abraham, the people grew and multiplied in Egypt. This it was, and not the strength of nature, that made the men, though over spent with hard toil and labour, yet to be vigorous for generation. And this was it, that made the Hebrew Woman so lively and quick in time of travail, and delivery, incomparably beyond the Woman of Egypt: as the Midwives do relate of them to Pharaoh, Exod. I. 19. For that was not a lye of the Midwives, as divers Expositors will tell you it was, but it was a true relation of them, observing the wonderful hand of God in such a strange matter. But,

Secondly, We are to consider that in that minority of the world, God spared men to very long lives for propagation sake, and the peopling of the world. And this methinks is hinted in that constant expression, Gen. V. and XI. and begat Sons and Daughters.

It might be some Question, whether the holy and prophane before the flood and after, had their lives lengthned alike. Seth the Son of Adam, a holy Man lived nine hundred and twelve years. Do we think Cain the Son of Adam, that wicked wretch, had such a long life? Enos, the Son of Seth, the Grand-child of Adam in that holy line lived nine hundred and five years. Think we Enoch, the Son of Cain, and Grand-child of Adam in that wicked line, lived so long? So after the flood Heber lived four hundred sixty four years. Do we think, that Canaan, or Cush, or Mizraim, or any of that cursed line lived half so long a life?

There is some reason of this question, because we see in other examples that vigor and strength of nature in some of the holy line, because of the virtue of the promise: which you cannot conceive to have been in any Heathen.

However, if those in the wicked line before the flood and after, did not live to that age that those in the holy line did, yet it is doubtless they lived far beyond the age of men afterwards, for the propagating, and peopling of the world. Ishmael, if he were one prophane, as he is commonly reputed to be, yet he lived an hundred thirty seven years, Gen. XXV. 17. But,

Thirdly, A chief reason of the long life of the holy Patriarchs that may be given, is this, That they might propagate Religion in their generations. God gives testimony of Abraham, that he bid so, Gen. XVIII. 19. And it was the care and work of the other holy ones to do the like. Noah is said to be a Preacher of Righteousness; and Henoch a Prophet. And they and the rest were as a living Bible to instruct their Childred, and posterity, in the knowledge, fear and service of God. There was then no Scripture written, but the knowledge of God, and of the ways of God was conveyed from generation to generation, by word of mouth of those holy men. And therefore God carried them on to so very great an age, that they might be props and pillars of Religion in their Families, to the sound and sure establishment of it.

Now it pleased God by degrees to cut short the length of such lives, but it was still in displeasure. He shortned mans life after the flood, because of the sinfulness of men in their long lives before the flood. He shortned them again at the building of Babel for the sins of thōse wicked men, that went about to build it. And again in the Wilderness, where he brought in the stint of seventy or eighty years, because of the peoples murmuring, and despising the pleasant Land. Upon which Moses then present makes the ninetieth Psalm. See vers. 7, 8, 9. We are consumed in thine anger, &c. And all our days pass away in thy wrath. We spend our years as a tale. And why? Thou hast set our iniquities before thee, our secret sins in the light of thy countenance.

So that by shortning lives in judgment, or in way of judgment, he shewed that that we are upon, that prolonging of life is a mercy or blessing. But this with including the proper end of this promise, and of Gods prolonging life, viz. That man may more serve and glorifie God in his generation, and do more good to his generation, and lay up the more stock for eternal life for himself.

Long life to many an one proves a curſe, and it would have been better they had never lived, never been born. Cain's life and preſervation granted him by God, proved but a ſad curſe to him: and that indeed, not ſo much upon the account, that God prolongs his life, as upon the account of his own abuſe of Gods prolongation. Obſerve that, Gen. IV. 15. And the Lord ſaid unto Cain, Therefore whoſoever ſlayeth Cain, vengeance ſhall be taken on him ſevenfold. And the Lord ſet a mark upon Cain, leſt any finding him ſhould kill him. Cain in verſ. 14. reads in his own Conſcience the Law of juſtice, which afterwards was given by the mouth of God, Gen. IX. 6. Whoſo ſheddeth mans blood, by man ſhall his blood be ſhed. That made him ſay, Any one that meets me will kill me. God ſecures him againſt this, and gives him a token, that none ſhould kill him. Some think he ſet ſome viſible mark, or brand upon him, to ſignifie to all that he was Cain: but if God did not tell every man in the world, that he ſhould not kill Cain, as well as he told Cain that he ſhould not be killed, this was the likelieſt way to have him murthered, when all that met him knew that he was the murtherer. Therefore I ſhould rather render it, and ſo the Original doth very properly, if not moſt properly bear it, He ſets, or gave him a ſign, that any finding him, ſhould not ſlay him. Cain, take this for a ſign, that none ſhall kill thee, that I denounce ſevenfold vengeance to him that doth it. Now this ſecuring him againſt being killed, and Gods prolonging and preſerving his life, was it in favour or puniſhment? Compare the reſt of the dealing and words of God to him, and it will ſeem, and appear the later, viz. that God kept him alive, to anguiſh of conſcience, and the longer miſery here.

But how does Cain uſe this his prolonged time? As much as he can to delude the intent of God: he Marries, builds Cities, ſets himſelf to have and reap content in this world, and his portion here. And this is the way of Cain, Jud. verſ. 11. Had it not been better for him, when all was done, that he had never lived ſo long, never been born? So is it with the wicked of an hundred years old, Eſai. LXV. 20. The ſinner of an hundred years old is curſed. And ſo it is with thouſands, that ſpending their time in vanity and folly, their life and age be it never ſo long, proves but a ſad curſe to them, and hath but heaped the more guilt upon them.

But where is the fault? Not but that long life in it ſelf is a bleſſing: but that man by abuſing it hath turned it to a curſe. There is no earthly bleſſing, but by mans abuſe may become a curſe. That is terrible in Mal. II. 2. I will ever ſend a curſe upon you, and I will curſe your bleſſings. But that is becauſe men make ſuch things a curſe to themſelves. Haman's honour, an earthly bleſſing in its ſelf, becauſe a curſe to him: but it was through his own fault. Jeroboam's promotion, an earthly bleſſing, became a curſe to him, and his whole Family; but it was through his own abuſe of it. And ſo may I ſay of any earthly comfort. And ſo is long life to many, through their miſpending and abuſing it.

This I have ſpoken to take off an Objection againſt long life's being a bleſſing. There is undoubtedly a bleſſing in long life, otherwiſe God would never have ſo frequently, as he doth, held it out as a Promiſe. And that we may view the bleſſing the better, we firſt conſider upon thoſe things that may be ſaid againſt it; that afterwards we may the better view the bleſſing it ſelf.

One Objection then is, That long life to many proves in the end to be but a curſe; as I have ſhewed before; and they have the longer ſcore to anſwer for; the greater heaps of ſin to be arraigned upon; the ſadder account of ſo much time miſpent.

But for Anſwer to this, as I ſaid before, There is no temporal thing, which in it ſelf is a bleſſing, but wicked men by abuſe of it make it a curſe. They make their Table a ſnare, their wealth a trap, their long life a curſe. And it is no wonder, if they do ſo by theſe things: for they make Divine Ordinances, which in themſelves are a ſavour of life, to become to them the ſavour of death; nay Chriſt himſelf to become a ſtumbling block, and their ruine. Now the goodneſs or bleſſing in things is not to be judged of by ſuch mens uſing, but by what they are in their own nature. As thouſands in Hell curſe the time, that ever they lived; ſo thouſands in Heaven bleſs God for ever that ever they lived here ſo long. Long life to the one party was balm, the other made it poiſon.

There is another Objection, That long life to many proves but long miſery, therefore is not ſuch a promiſe and bleſſing. Such are the miſeries of this life, even to them that ſpend their time the beſt; that Solomon tells us, Eccleſ. VII. 1. That the day of death is better than the day of birth. And Chap. IV. 2, 3. I praiſed the dead, which are already dead, more than the living which are yet alive. Yea, better is he than both, that hath not yet been, which hath not ſeen the evil, which is done under the Sun. And how many of the Saints of God, that have ſpent their lives as well as ever men did, as ever men could ſpend their lives; yet becauſe of the miſeries of life, have deſired that their lives might be cut off, and that they might live no longer? How oft is this Job's mournful tune over and over? Chap. VI. 8, 9. O that I might have my requeſt, and that God would grant me the thing I long for: Even that it would pleaſe God to deſtroy me, and that he would looſe his hand and cut me off. And Chap. VII. 15, 16. My ſoul chooſeth ſtrangling, and death rather than my life. I loath it, I would not live always. And ſo alomſt in every one of his ſpeeches. And the ſame tune is Elias at, 1 King. XIX. 4. It is enough now, O Lord, take away my life, for I am no better than my Fathers. And Jeremy ſings the ſame doleful ditty, when he curſeth the day of his birth, Chap. XX. 14. How is long life then a bleſſing, when the ſorrows of it make men ſo weary of it?

and

I Anſwer, This were true indeed, if the bleſſing of long life conſiſted only in enjoying earthly proſperity: and then the Children of God were of all men moſt miſerable. For they have the leaſt earthly proſperity. But the bleſſing of long life conſiſts in things of another nature. For thoſe holy mens deſiring, becauſe of their afflictions here, to have their lives cut off.

1. We neither wronged them nor Religion, ſhould we ſay, it was an humane frailty and failing in them. But,

2. It was not ſo much for that they undervalued the prolonging of their lives, and the bleſſing in having life prolonged, as that they placed not their bleſſedneſs in living here; but were aſſured and longed after a better life. Not one of them was unwilling to live, but becauſe he was very well prepared to dye, therefore he wiſhed for death rather.

And now that we may come to conſider, wherein the bleſſing of long life conſiſteth, let us a little take up ſome places and paſſages of Scripture: and ſome arguments in reaſon, that declare and proclaim it, as of it ſelf to be a bleſſing.

I. Prov. III. 16. Solomon urging men to eſpouſe and marry Wiſdom, tells what Portion and Dower they ſhall have that get her: Length of days is in her right hand, and in her left riches and honour. Obſerve that he accounts length of days a right hand Dower, and riches and honour but a left hand one. And indeed what are riches and honour, if a man have not length of days to enjoy? And the ſame Solomon commending old age, ſaith, Prov. XVI. 31.. It is a Crown of glory, or, a glorious Crown, if the long life that brought it up thither, have been ſpent as it ſhould. I might heap up many ſuch paſſages, but theſe ſuffice.

II. Conſider that it is threatned, for a curſe and puniſhment, that the bloody and deceitful man ſhall not live out half his days, Pſal. LV. 23. That the men of Eli's Houſe ſhould dye in their prime, 1 Sam. II. 31. But I will name but one for all; how oft threatned, ſuch and ſuch ſhall be cut off. I need not to cite places, the Books of the Law are full of ſuch expreſſions, ſhall be cut off from his people, from the congregation, &c. Which ſome underſtand of Excommunication, but it means cutting off by the hand of God, by ſome untimely or fatal death, or ſhortning of life. It is threatned as a curſe, that his days ſhall not be prolonged, but cut off.

III. Ye have holy men in Scripture praying for prolonging of their lives, and that upon this warrant, that God promiſed long life as a bleſſing, Pſal. XXI. 4. He asked life of thee, and thou gaveſt it him, even length of days for ever and ever. And Pſal. XXXIX. ult. O ſpare me that I may recover ſtrength. And Pſal. CII. 24. I ſaid, O my God, take me not away in the midſt of my days. And ſo in the caſe of Ezekiah: how bitterly did he take the tidings of the cutting off of his days? Whether it were that it went ſadly with him to dye of the Plague, or that he ſaw not Jeruſalem delivered from Sennacherib: yet certainly it coſt ſome tears to think he was to be taken away, even in his prime, and his life prolonged no further.

IV. To this may be added, that God promiſed it for a peculiar bleſſing, Thou ſhalt come to thy grave in a good old age, Job V. 26. And how feeling a promiſe is that, Zech. VIII. 4. Thus ſaith the Lord of Hoſts, There ſhall yet old Men and old Women dwell in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, and every man with his ſtaff in his hand for very age? Methinks I ſee the ſtreets full of ſuch venerable heads and gravity, every one crowned with gray hairs, and old age, a crown of bleſſing.

But what need I arguments to prove this? What one thing is there in the world, that hath more votes and voices than this? For who is there, that deſires not to live long, and ſee many days? And skin for skin, and all that he hath will he give for his life, that it may be prolonged. And who but will be contented to part with any earthly bleſſing, ſo his life may be preſerved?

Now wherein it is that long life is a bleſſing, is beſt obſerved by conſidering what is the proper end and aim of mens living. Friend, wherefore cameſt thou hither? Why did God bring thee into the world, and why doſt thou live? A queſtion very pertinent, and very conſiderable. For the greateſt number of Men and Women in the world, go out of the world before they know or conſider, why they came in. Much like Ahimaaz, 2 Sam. XVIII. 29. That entreats Joab to let him run to David, and runs hard, and when he comes to David, to his journeyes end, all that he can relate is, When Joab ſent thy Servant I ſaw a great tumult, but I cannot tell what it was. God brings men into the world to run their race; they ſee a great buſtle in the world, and they keep a great ſtir themſelves; ſelves; and when they come to their journeyes end, they cannot give account what the buſineſs was for which they came into the world. What do you think he thought he came into the world for, that when he dyed, commanded this to be written on his Tomb-ſtone, πολλὰ φαγὼν, &c. I have eaten much, and drunken much, and done much miſchief in my time, and now here I lye? Who among thouſands in his life, or indeed in his thoughts owns the proper end of living?

The Apoſtle tells us what it is, Act. XVII. 26,27. God hath made all Nations of men, &c. That they ſhould ſeek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, &c. And the ſame Apoſtle, 2 Cor. V. 15. They which live ſhould not live to themſelves, but to him by whom they live. The Schools do very truly tell us, that God created reaſonable creatures, Men and Angels, that they might ſerve God, and partake of God, which unreaſonable creatures cannot do. So that here is the proper anſwer to the queſtion, Why do we live: And the proper end of our living; to ſerve God by whom we live, and to get intereſt in him, and participation of him; to live to God here, that we may live with him, and enjoy him hereafter.

And by this are we to judge of the bleſſing of a long life, and not by any earthly thing, or occurrence in our lives. Long life is not therefore a bleſſing to any, becauſe he lives long in peace and proſperity, becauſe he gets much wealth, much credit, experience, wiſdom, in ſo long a time: but becauſe he hath got much intereſt in God, and done much ſervice to God. That of Solomon muſt be underſtood prudently, and we muſt be ſure to take his right meaning in it, Eccleſ. III. 4. Better than either living or dead is he that hath not yet been. Is this abſolutely true? No, but only relatively; viz. relating to earthly miſeries. For the miſſing of theſe he ſcapes beſt, that never was, and never ſaw the evil done under the Sun.

But as to the thing it ſelf abſolutely conſidered, that paradox that is ſometimes maintained in diſpute in the Schools is true in ſome kind and degree, Præſtat eſſe miſerum, quam non eſſe. It is better to be miſerable, than not to be at all: He that never was, nor never ſhall be, he that never lived, nor never ſhall live, ſhall never praiſe God, never ſee the works of God, never enjoy God, and that is worſe than induring the miſeries that Men meet withal upon Earth.

This is the proper end of life, and the bleſſing of life, viz. to praiſe, ſerve, enjoy God. And by this we muſt ſtate the bleſſing of a long life, viz. as allowing more time and ſpace to accompliſh, and perfect thoſe ends. And upon the aim at theſe ends it is, that the Saints of God have begged of God for long life, Pſal. XXXIX. ult. That I may recover ſtrength, and be fitter for my duty, and thy work, and fitter for thee, when thou calleſt. Pſal. LXXI. 18. Now alſo when I am old forſake me not: until I have ſhewed thy ſtrength unto this generation and thy power to every one that is to come. Eſai. XXXVIII. 19. The living, the living, he ſhall praiſe Thee, as I do this day. This was the end and bleſſing of prolonging Ezekiah's life, that he was ſtill alive to praiſe God. And this is the work of thoſe whoſe lives are preſerved and prolonged.

To prove the bleſſing of prolonging life, let me firſt appeal to any here. Man, or Woman, art thou prepared to dye, if God ſhould call at this very inſtant? If God ſend a meſſenger to bid thee ſet thy houſe in order for thou ſhalt die, couldſt thou take it better than Ezekiah did? Doſt thou not deſire that God would ſpare, and yet give ſome more reſpite, ſome longer time, ſome more ſpace added to thy life? And why? Thou dareſt not ſay, that I may enjoy the world, take my pleaſure, gather wealth, live in earthly delights yet longer. Why then? O! that I may be better fitted for Heaven; that I may have more repentance, a better compoſure of heart, a better ſtock good works, and proviſion for Eternity. This by thy confeſſion is the bleſſing, and a choice bleſſing of a long life; that a man may do God the more ſervice, ſerve his generation the more, ſtock himſelf the more fully with grace for glory.

Herein then properly is the bleſſing of prolonged life, that men have time to do for God and their Souls, to lay up good ſtore for Heaven and Eternity, to ſtock up the comforts of a good Conſcience, and ſtore of grace, which in old age makes them freſh and flouriſhing, and does as it were revive them, and make them young again.

And now, Brethren, let my Exhortation be to you that are aged, and gone far in years, to conſider ſeriouſly with your ſelves, whether your prolonged time hath been made a bleſſing to you by your improvement, or not. Let me be a Monitor this day to all gray heads here, to remember their age. God hath prolonged your time, ſome to fifty, ſixty, ſeventy years, ſome to more; What bleſſing hath this prolonging been to you?

And to youth, that deſire long life, my Exhortation to them is to ſet in a good courſe betime, that God may delight to prolong their life: and that the lengthning of their life may be a Bleſſing.

A DIS-

A

DISCOURSE

UPON THE FOURTH ARTICLE

OF THE

Apoſtolic Creed.

He deſcended into Hell.

THE ground of this Article of the Creed is in Act. II. 27. Thou wilt not leave my ſoul in Hell. The reaſon of its inſertion we ſhall ſee afterwards. An Article obſcure, and that hath bred many diſputes: and the rendring of it ſo in Engliſh, ſome offences. For it ſeemeth harſh, that Chriſts ſoul deſcended into Hell, which in our Engliſh Language ſpeaketh moſt plainly, and uſually, The place of the damned: a place very improper to look for the ſoul of Chriſt in, when departed out of his body: He and his betrayer Judas to meet in the ſame place: He that had by death purchaſed Heaven for others, himſelf after death to deſcend into Hell. Not an Article in our Chriſtian Faith hath more need of Explication to bring it to common reaſon, or Analogy of Faith.

The courſe I ſhall take in Explication of it, ſhall firſt be to clear it from that meaning, that is improper and offenſive, and that carries not probability with it; and then to unfold the proper and genuine meaning of it.

I. The general interpretation of it in the Church of Rome is, That his Soul really and locally deſcended into the place of torment, but upon ſome other errand; namely, as they themſelves expreſs it, That Chriſt in his Soul went to Hell to deliver the Patriarchs, and all juſt men, there holden in bondage till his death. So the Rhemiſts on Act. II. 27. To this they apply, Eph. IV. 9. Now he that aſcended, what is it but that he alſo deſcended firſt into the lower parts of the Earth? Where the ſame Rhemiſts, He meaneth ſpecially of his deſcending into Hell. I.

Likewiſe they apply to the ſame ſenſe, 1 Pet. III. 19. By which alſo he went, and preached unto the Spirits in priſon. And there they go further, and ſay, that Chriſt alſo preached in Hell, and delivered ſome thence, that had been there ſince the days of Noah. Some that were good men, but had not believed Noah his word about the flood, but when they ſaw it come, believed, and were ſorry for their error, and indeed died by the flood corporally, but in the ſtate of ſalvation: and being chaſtiſed in the next life for their unbelief, were delivered by Chriſts deſcending thither.

Do you not ſee plainly, whither all this ado tends? Namely, To prove their Purgatory, and to maintain the profit they get by it. The Doctrine of which buſineſs is this, That ſome dying not ſo bad as to be damned, yet not ſo abſolutely good yet as to go to Heaven, are ſent to Purgatory, and there their ſins ſcoured away by fire and torment; yet ſome after an hundred, ſome after two hundred years, &c. go to Heaven: but that the Pope by his power, and the Prieſts by their ſinging Maſſes and Dirges, can bring them out ſooner, than otherwiſe their time ſhould be. And hence ſo vaſt revenues have been beſtowed upon their Monaſteries, Chappels and Chanteries, upon this reaſon, that the Prieſts there ſhould ſay Maſſes, and uſe Dirges and Prayers for the Souls of the Founders to deliver them out of Purgatory.

And thus they make this Article of Chriſts deſcent a matter rather of Profit, than of Faith; of Mony rather than of Edification. And were not profit or worldly advantage in the Wind, there would never be ſuch ſtrugling with them to maintain points againſt reaſon and religion, as there is.

Some Proteſtants hold Local deſcent, but under another notion, viz. That Chriſt went to triumph over the Devils and damned. To which opinion, viz. The Local aſcent to ſpeak in groſs, and to theſe particular reaſons of it.

Firſt,

First, Let us take up the two places last alledged, for the first I shall take up afterwards.

Ephes. IV. 9. Now that he ascended, what is it, but that he descended first into the lower parts of the Earth? Where it is first observable, that they conclude Hell to be under the Earth, or within it: which is a fancy of the Heathen Poets, and others, that concluded both the place of torment, and of happiness to be down in the Earth. These men have learned from Scripture, that the place of the blessed is above in Heaven; and so they refuse that part of the Heathens opinion: but retain the other, that Hell is under ground. Upon what ground who can shew? It is neither agreeable to reason, nor at all to Scripture. Not to reason, to imagine a place under ground to be a place for Souls and Spirits; which are so far from an earthly substance. Not to Scripture, which tells us, Ephes. II. 2. That the Devil is the Prince of the Air, and not dwelling under ground. That tells us, Rev. XIV. 10. That the damned are tormented before the Angels, and before the Throne of the Lamb: not in the bottom of the Earth, or under ground. And time will be, when there will be no Earth at all; and where will Hell be found then? May we never know, where the place of Hell is; but certainly it is a most senseless and irrational thing to hold it to be within this Earth.

And to take up the words of the Apostle: he speaks of Christs ascending and descending. And whence did Christ ascend to Heaven? Not from Hell, but from off the Earth, Act. I. And what then means his descending, but from Heaven to Earth? And whereas he saith, To the lower parts of the Earth, he compares Earth to Heaven, not Earth with it self. As if he should say, He descended from Heaven to these lower parts of the Earth, to dwell among men; as the Scripture doth generally expound his descending from Heaven in such a sense.

1 Pet. III. 19. By which he went and preached to the Spirits in prison. It is plain here, S. Peter speaks of Christs preaching by his Spirit in the mouth and Ministry of Noah: As I have somewhere explained it.

These Texts thus spoken to, whereby they would prove Christ descended into Hell to preach to, and deliver Souls; now let us take their opinion in pieces, and consider them several.

And first comes to be observed, how improbable, ridiculous, and irreligious an opinion it is to conceive that the Patriarchs were in Limbo. Dato uno absurdo multa sequuntur. Yield one absurdity and many more follow. So grant this, and these rough and rugged absurdities follow.

1. That it was almost four thousand years before any Soul went to Heaven. Christ died Anno Mundi MMMDCCCCLX, but forty short of four thousand: and is it not absurd to think Heaven empty all that while? At the Creation, the Earth, the Air, the Waters were filled with Inhabitants, and Heaven to be a Tenement that stood empty? Sure God was a very hard Landlord, that would take in no Tenant of so long a time.

2. It is as absurd a thing to think a Thief should be the first that went to Heaven. For by this Opinion, the good Thief did so. The house to stand long empty, and a Thief, that repents but at the last gasp, taken in first: and Abraham, Isaac and Jacob not yet entertained, nor admitted there. Publicans and Harlots shall enter in before you. Yes, before you, Scribes and Pharisees, that shut the door of the Kingdom of Heaven against your selves. But for Abraham, and Moses, and the other antient Prophets and good men, that sought after Heaven all their time, to be shut out, and a Thief and a Robber let in before them; this is hardly hansom to conceive.

3. It is an absurd thing, that Abraham while he lived should be a friend of God, converse with God, entertain God at his Table; and when he is dead, he is become a meer stranger to God, thrust into a hole; where there is no sight of God, no communion with him: but God and Abraham now are as mere strangers. For Moses to converse with God face to face, when alive; and when dead, there is an end of all his communion. How comfortless would he have gone to Mount Nebo to dye, had he believed, as the Papists do, that he must go to Limbo, and never enjoy God for so many hundred years, till Christ should come to fetch him out?

When he appeared in Glory, Luke IX. 31. Think ye that he came out of Limbo in that glory? And when Abraham is proposed in that parable before Christs death, Luke XVI. 22, 23. Think ye that he is proposed as being in Limbo, or in Heaven?

4 It is absurd to think, that Holy ones, that served God all day, and should at night receive their wages, should be denied it. God forbids to detain wages, and he not to pay his workmen of a thousand, two thousand years after they have done their work? Abel a faithful servant of God, died for him, and his truth; and when he comes to expect his reward in Heaven: No, Abel, thou must to Limbo, where there is no glimpse of Heaven, nor comfort from God for this three thousand five hundred years.

David

David in Psal. XXIII. saith, He will dwell in the house of God for ever. In the Temple here, and then in Heaven hereafter. No, will a Papist say, David, thou must dwell a thousand years in Limbo, before thou comest to Heaven. A hard Master! that rewards his servants no better, that serve him here, and when they should come to enjoy the fruit of all their labour, then God puts them away far from him, and they enjoy not what they laboured for.

Such Doctrine is that of the Romanists, and such absurdities they make people believe to build up their Purgatory for their profit. Nor are they only thus Absurd, but as Irreligious in this Doctrine.

1. That they will make men believe, that there was not divine and spiritual power in Christ for salvation, without his bodily power, and personal presence: they limit the Spirit, and the operation of Christ to his presence. They give that to Christs presence, that God never meant. They account the Virgin Mary so incomparably holy and happy above all others, because she carried Christ in her womb, and arms; as though it were that, and not Faith and Grace, that made her so holy and happy.

Superstition is standing upon a thing over and above: leaping over that which is the proper duty and reality of holiness, and resting upon something besides it. So concerning Christ, superstition hath taught men to take up something in opinion, and practise, over and besides what is needful about the worship and love of Christ. To worship the Cross because Christ suffered on it: To put holiness in those places, where he once was, as the Manger, the Sepulchre, &c. Of this nature and rank is placing so much in the bodily presence of Christ, and overlooking the efficacy and work of his Spirit. Transubstantiation is of this form, and this that we are speaking of, the like, viz. That the Patriarchs could not be saved by the divine power and Spirit of Christ, but he must come first in Person before, to bring them to Heaven.

2. They make Grace not sufficient to save, but something else must be added, viz. Purgatory fire, to purge out those sins that Grace did not, or could not purge out. It is said, 2 Cor. XII. 9. My grace is sufficient for thee. They will say, Not; Purgatory fire must help out to sufficiency. They will tell you, It is rare for any to dye so spotless, as instantly to go to Heaven, but he must have some scouring elsewhere before.

And indeed this may deserve our consideration, not to make us think of any Purgatory hereafter, but to affect us with what we have to do here.

It is undoubted, that to dye in any sin is damnable. Ye shall dye in your sins, is as much as, when ye dye ye shall be damned, because ye shall dye in sin. See Joh. VIII. 21. Ye shall dye in your sins: whether I go, ye cannot come. He that dyes in his sins, in any of his sins, must never come where Christ is. Imagine a man had got off all his sins but one, and that stuck to him dying, that would damn him, as well as all. Suppose it this, I cannot, will not forgive such an one, that hath done me this wrong; that spot of malice will keep him out of Heaven, as well as if he were dawbed all over with all sins whatsoever. Nay, to come to a lower rate, Be it but a little love of the World, an unwillingness to part with the pleasures and profits of it; is it possible that man should go to Heaven, that had rather be here? Nay, yet lower, Be it some particular sin, that he hath chanced to forget, and not repent of, can he with that go to Heaven?

Hitherto Papists and we agree, that there is no going to Heaven with any spot of sin upon the Soul: but here we differ: They say, A man may go out of this World with many spots of sin upon him, yet at last go to Heaven, these being purged out in Purgatory. We say with the Scripture, That after death there is no Redemption; that this is the acceptable time, and day of Salvation: that if a sinners Sun set in a cloud, it will be dark with him for ever: that if he dye in any sin, his condition is damnable, and no help afterwards, Esa. XXII. 14. Surely this iniquity shall not be purged from you till ye dye. And then it shall never be purged.

And the Reasons of this are,

First, Because any one sin loved, unrepented of, damneth as well as many: by the rule of S. James, Chap. II. 10, 11. For whosoever shall keep the whole Law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all. For he that said, Do not commit adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a Transgressor of the Law.

Secondly, Because the other World is a World of Eternity; and in Eternity there is no change. He that goes sinful into that, can never be changed.

Thirdly, Because it is impiety to make any thing sharer with the Blood and Grace of Christ in mans Salvation. It is said, We are saved by his Blood, and by his Grace. There needs no Purgatory fire, unless these were weak, and insufficient.

Object. But is it possible any one should dye without some sin sticking to him? Original sin sticks: It may be a man has forgot some actual sin to repent of it: it may be there is some impatience upon him, his heart may fly out into passion: never without infirmities.

Answer

Anſwer I. Let me queſtion, Durſt any dye with any ſin ſticking on him? Thou beareſt malice: dareſt thou dye ſo? Thou art proud, covetous; dareſt thou dye ſo? Who is ſo little taught the Doctrine of Salvation, as to put himſelf to ſuch a venture? At leaſt, who is not convinced of the danger? Balaam loved the wages, the wages of unrighteouſneſs, yet he could wiſh to dye the death of the righteous, Numb. XXIII. 10. Even Conſcience beareth witneſs to this truth, that dying in any ſin is damnable.

But how is it poſſible but ſome ſin will ſtick to the beſt of men? I anſwer,

II. True, that there is no man living without ſin: but we are to diſtinguiſh upon two things.

Firſt, Twixt ſin and guilt. If we conſider preſly, it is not the ſin that immediately damns, but the guilt of the ſin. A thief hanged: the ſin of robbing is paſt, and gone; but the guilt of it brings him to the gallows: ſo ſin as to the act is over and gone, but the guilt ſticks. Now there is ſome ſin, which binds not a man over to guilt to condemn him, Pſal. XXXII. 2. Bleſſed is the man to whom the Lord imputeth not ſin. There is ſin, but the guilt of it is not charged on men. But what ſin is that? I might anſwer, All ſins already pardoned, have they been never ſo great, Rom. VIII. 33. Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of Gods elect? It is God that juſtifieth. But we ſpeak of ſins that ſtick at the inſtant of death. Therefore,

Secondly, We diſtinguiſh upon the ſticking of ſin to the fleſh, and to the heart. A Saint hath ſin ſticking to the fleſh, not to the heart, Rom. VII. ult. With the mind I ſerve the Law of God, but with the fleſh the Law of ſin. As if we get the diſeaſe from the heart, it is not ſo deadly: ſo Saints having got ſin from their hearts, it is not damning to them. They hate it, but it cleaves to their fleſh. So that, the guilt of ſuch ſins is pardoned all along, becauſe the Saint all along ſtrives and prays againſt them. It is not I, but ſin in me. Not my heart, or conſent, but ſin in my fleſh, that will neither be got out, nor quiet. In a word, a dying ſin cannot kill a dying man. Sin is mortified all along, and if in death it ſtirs, yet it is dying, and hath not power to kill.

And this have I ſpoken to remove that error about this Article of the Creed, that Chriſt deſcended to Hell to fetch Souls to Heaven, that yet wanted ſomething to bring them thither.

II. II. A ſecond opinion, and interpretation is, that he deſcended locally to triumph over the Devils and the damned. An Interpretation that ſeems to carry more ſenſe, and innocence; and yet is far from the meaning of the Article. To take it into examination.

Firſt, To conſider ſomething concerning Chriſts Soul, when ſeparate from his body.

I. It is undoubted that it went to Heaven, aſſoon as departed, and it is very unwarrantable to look for it in Hell: unleſs we have good evidence of the Scripture, at leaſt of reaſon for it. His words on the Croſs to the good thief were, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradice, Luke XXIII. 43. and his laſt words to God were, Father, into thy hands I commend my Spirit, verſ. 46. Now who can doubt, but he was inſtantly in Heaven, and his Soul with God? And when, and indeed why, ſhould it go to Hell? Chriſt was dead but thirty ſix hours; and his Soul to be on the Croſs, in Heaven, and Hell in that time, is a flitting up and down, that unleſs the Spirit of Chriſt himſelf in Scripture tell us ſo, how can we believe it? That it flitted from the Croſs, to Heaven, Scripture is plain: but that it flitted from Heaven to Hell, we are yet to ſeek. Ye ſhall ſeek me, and not find me. Truly according to this opinion, we know not where to ſeek him, nor to find him in that time. If you will take the propriety of his own words, (Luke XXIII. 46. Father, into thy hands I commend my Spirit. And John XVII. 11, 13. I am no more in the World, but theſe are in the World, and I come to thee. And now I come to thee) you may certainly conclude that his Soul was with God, while it was ſeparate: but that it was in Hell any moment of that time, there is not one tittle of Scripture to give any evidence, but Act. II. 27. Thou wilt not leave my Soul in Hell: and this Article: of which we ſhall ſhew a far other ſenſe.

II. Was it poſſible that Chriſts Soul ſhould go from Heaven to Hell? The Souls of the glorified Saints cannot; and I queſtion whether Chriſts could or not. See Luke XVI. 26. Between us and you, there is a great gulph fixed; ſo that they which would paſs from us to you, cannot. Whence I obſerve two things, 1. What is meant by a great Gulph; an unſuperable unpaſſableneſs from one to another. But eſpecially, 2. They that would paſs from hence to you. Are there any in Heaven, that ever would go to Hell? The Devils indeed choſe it: but I queſtion, whether they underſtood what Hell meant ſo well, as they do now. But never bleſſed Soul did, nor could do it. They are too much delighted with the happy enjoyment of God, to make ſuch a choiſe. But Chriſt by that expreſſion in the Parable does the more ſhew, how it is impoſſible for a Soul once in Heaven to go thence to Hell: that if it could be ſuppoſed, they would do it, it cannot be done. And could Chriſts Soul do it any more? Could Chriſts Soul have any delight to leave the joys of Heaven to go to Hell?

III. There

III. There is no reason, no Scripture to tell us, that Christs Soul had any thing to do, as to the work of Redemption, or Mediatorship, when separate from the body. What will you make of this Triumphing? Was it any part of his Redeeming, or Mediatorship? If it were not, what was it? If it were, why not acted per totum Christum, by whole Christ? Christ performed the whole Law, as Totus Christus, whole Christ, viz. As to his humane nature, in Soul and Body. He was upon the Cross, as Totus Christus, Whole Christ: he rose, ascended, sits in Heaven, as Totus Christus, Whole Christ, Body and Soul. And we are bound to believe in toto Christo, In whole Christ, as Redeemer, and Mediator, as God, so perfectly Man of Body and Soul consisting. And it were but an improper piece of Faith, to believe so great a thing, as his work in Hell is made to be, to be done by a part of Christ; for his Soul was but one part of him. But,

Secondly, Let us speak a little to this Triumphing.

I. The opinion is taken up, I suppose, in allusion to the custom of the Romans. They conquered and then led their prisoners in Triumph: the Conqueror in his triumphal Chariot, the Captives in chains after it. Cleopatra would kill her self, rather than be thus led in triumph. Now what was this, but a pompous, proud, and vain shew. And what will they make of this Triumph of Christ? Nothing but a shew. For what did he in this Triumph? Who can imagine what, but shew himself there? Did he conquer Hell then? If he did, what was it with? What did his Soul there to conquer Hell? How he conquered Hell and Death by dying and rising, we can tell; but how his Soul conquered with bare going thither, who can tell you?

Or did he augment the torments of the Devils and damned? That needed not, nor indeed could it be done, as I shall shew afterwards. What then did Christs Soul there in its Triumph, unless (as He, Veni, vidi, vici, I came, I saw, I overcame,) it conquered Hell by looking into it? Natura nihil facit frustra. Nature does nothing in vain: much less the God of nature. And Christ in his life time never did, spoke, thought any thing in vain. And it is unhansom to think, that his Soul after death, should go out of the bosom of his Father into Hell, to do, no body can imagine what. For who can tell what it did in Triumphing there?

II. Was not Christ under his Humiliation, till his Resurrection? Was he not under it, whilst he lay in the grave? He himself accounts it so, Psal. XVI. 10. Thou wilt not suffer, my Soul being in the state of separation, my Body to see corruption: to be trampled on by death, to be triumphed over by Satan, that yet had it there. If you imagine his Soul triumphing, or vapouring in Hell (for I cannot imagine what it should do there, unless to vapour) how might Satan vapour again? Thou Soul of Jesus, dost thou come to triumph here? Of what, I pray thee? Have I not cause to triumph over thee? Have I not procured his death? Banished thee out of his body, and got it into the grave? And dost thou come to triumph here? Let us first see, whether he can get out from among the dead, before we talk of his triumph over him that had the power of death.

So that if we should yield to so needless a point, as Christs going to triumph in Hell, yet certainly it would be but very unseasonable to have gone thither, when he had not yet conquered, but his body was still under death, and as yet under the conquest of Satan. This had been to triumph before Victory: as Benhadads vapour was to Ahab, when he received that answer, Let not him that girdeth on his sword, boast himself, as he that putteth it off.

The beginning of Christs Kingdom, was his Resurrection: for then had he conquered death, and him that had the power of death, the Devil. And so the Scripture generally states it. I need cite no proof, but two of his own speeches, Matth. XXVI. 29. I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the Vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Fathers Kingdom: that is, after my Resurrection, when I have conquered the Enemies of God, and set up his Kingdom. And Matth. XXVIII. 18. And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in Heaven and in Earth. And this was after his Resurrection. But is it not improper, to dream of a Triumph, before a Conquest? That Christ should Triumph as King, before he had put on his Kingdom? As Esth. V. 3. On the third day she put on the Kingdom. For so it is in the Hebrew. The days before, she had been under fasting, mourning, humiliation; and that was not a time of Royalty, and Triumph. So on the third day, Christ rose, and put on his Kingdom: the days before he had been under death, had abased himself: a very unfit and unseasonable time for his Soul to go and triumph.

III. As concerning Christs triumphing over Devils. His Victory over Satan was of another kind of nature, than to go amongst them, to shew terribly, or speak terribly: for what else can we imagine his Soul did in that Triumph in Hell? It is said, Heb. II. 14. That through death he might destroy him, that had the power of death, that is the Devil. Destroy him? How? We may say of him, as he of the Traitor, Vivit, etiam in Senatum venit; He lives, yea, he comes into the Council-house. So, Is the Devil destroyed? He is alive, alive, walketh, rageth, ruleth. He walked about the Earth, before Chriſts death, Job I. So hath he done ever ſince, 1 Pet. V. 8. Your adverſary the Devil, as a roaring Lion, walketh about, ſeeking whom he may devour. He was a murtherer from the beginning, to Chriſts death, Joh. VIII. 44 So hath he been ever ſince: he goes about ſeeking to devour, and he doth devour. He wrought in the children of diſobedience before, and he now worketh, Eph. II. 2. And how hath Chriſt conquered, deſtroyed him? You muſt look for the Conqueſt and Triumph of Chriſt over him, not ſo much in deſtroying his Perſon, as deſtroying his Works, 1 Joh. III. 8. For this purpoſe the ſon of God was manifeſted, that he might deſtroy the works of the Devil.

I might here ſpeak of many things; I ſhall only mention two or three particulars, wherein the Victory of Chriſt over the Devil by his death doth conſiſt.

1. By his death he hath conquered the very clamors of Satan, paying a ranſom for all his people, Rom. VIII. 33. Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of Gods elect? Satan is ready to ſay, I lay a charge and claim to them, for they have been diſobedient. But Chriſt hath paid a ſatisfaction for all their diſobedience. Satan, thou art caſt in thy ſuit; the debt is paid. How is the Devil confounded at the loſs of ſuch a prize, as he expected? And how does the Death and Merits of Chriſt here Triumph? Now Goliah, David defies thee: touch one in the Camp of Iſrael, if you can or dare: they are all redeemed, and ranſomed: thou haſt nothing to do with them. And the ranſomed of the Lord ſhall go to Sion with everlaſting joy. Rejoyce, O Heathens, for the falſe accuſer is caſt out. Here is a glorious Triumph by the righteouſneſs, and holineſs of Chriſt, delivering all his people.

2. By his death, he brake the partition wall, and brings in the Heathen. Oh! how did Satan hold them in ſlavery? Pharaoh, let my people go. No. I know not the Lord, nor will I let them go. But thou ſhalt be brought to it; and by the death of a Paſchal Lamb, they ſhall go, whether thou wilt or no. Two thouſand years had they been in his ſlavery: ſure, thought he, this ſhall be for ever. But by the death of poor deſpiſed Jeſus at Jeruſalem, the priſon doors are open, and all theſe captives are gone free. Rejoyce, ye priſoners of hope, as they are called, Zech. IX. 11, 12. I cannot but think of the caſe of Paul and Silas, Act. XVI. in an inner priſon, their feet in the ſtocks, the doors faſt, and a ſtrong guard; and there comes one ſhake, and all fly open, and all the priſoners are looſed. Jaylor, what ſayeſt thou now? Thou mayſt even draw thy ſword, and end thy ſelf: all thy priſoners are gone.

3. Nay yet further; Jaylor, thou muſt to priſon thy ſelf. Ponder on thoſe words, Rev. XX. 1, 2, 3. The great Angel is Chriſt, the old Serpent is the Devil; there Chriſt binds and impriſoneth him; and that with the great chain of the Goſpel. Obſerve the paſſage, He ſhut him up in the bottomleſs pit. What? In Hell for ever? That he ſhould never go abroad again? Yea, you have him looſe again, verſ. 7. and he hath been always going about, as in 1 Pet. V. but he tyes him up, that he ſhould not deceive the Nations, verſ. 3. and when he is looſed again, verſ. 8. it is his being looſe to deceive the Nations.

Obſerve by the way, the phraſe, He ſhuts him up; that is, reſtrains him from deceiving and ſeducing people. It is Hell and Priſon to the Devil not to be doing miſchief. So the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks of the wicked children of the Devil, They ſleep not, reſt not, if they do not evil. It is a torment to them, if they may not be ſinning.

Well, how doth Chriſt bind Satan, that he do not deceive? By ſending the Goſpel to undeceive them. So that this is the Victory of Chriſt againſt the Devil. The very telling of his Death, and Merits, is that that overcomes the Devil: the very Word of his Death, and Reſurrection, is that that overthrows the Devil, and his power. So is 1 Cor. VI. 3. to be taken, Know ye not that we ſhall judge Angels?

Now needed Chriſts ſoul to go to Hell, to tell the Devil theſe tidings, and to triumph there? He felt the building of his Kingdom fall about his ears every moment. He needed no ſuch meſſage to go, and tell him, he had conquered him. This is the Triumph of Chriſt over the Devil by the virtue and power of his death; and not by any Vocal or actual Declaration of it by his Soul now ſeparate from his Body.

IV. As to Chriſts Soul triumphing over the damned, needed there any ſuch thing? Or could his Soul do any ſuch thing?

Think you Chriſts Soul doth, or could rejoyce in the damnation of the damned? There is joy in Heaven when a ſinner is ſaved. Is there joy too when he is damned? That tender expreſſion of God, As I live, I delight not in the death of a ſinner, doth it give us any room to think, that he can rejoyce in their damnation? That tender Soul of Chriſt, that but ſix or eight days before wept for the deſtruction of Jeruſalem with O! that thou hadſt known in this thy day the things that belong to thy peace? Can we think, that that Soul could go to Hell to triumph, and inſult over poor damned Souls? He had cauſe to triumph, and rejoyce over the conquered Devils: but had he the like cauſe or heart to triumph over damned Souls? What was the reaſon of his triumphing over the Devils? Becauſe Becauſe he had ſubdued themſelves only? He maſtered them while alive, in caſting them out, and commanding them at his pleaſure. He caſt them into Hell by his Divine Power; as ſoon as they had ſinned: but his triumph over them by his Death and Reſurrection was for his peoples ſake. We cannot ſay, Chriſt hath any pleaſure in the damnation of the very Devils, but he had pleaſure in the Conqueſt of Devils; becauſe he had delivered his people from them. Ah! moſt Divine Soul of Chriſt, ſo infinitely full of charity, that gave it ſelf a Sacrifice for ſin; that men might not be damned: can that rejoyce and inſult over poor Souls damnation? Look but upon Chriſts tenderneſs and earneſtneſs for Souls here, that they come not to damnation; and then gueſs how little delight he taketh in it, when they are damned. Let us apply theſe two paſſages to this, Ezek. XVIII. 23. Have I any pleaſure at all that the wicked ſhould dye? And verſ. 31. I have no pleaſure in the death of him that dieth. In the Hebrew it is in the ſtricteſt propriety, In the death of him that is dead. I have not pleaſure, that he dye, and no pleaſure in his death, when he is dead.

What is there more plain in Scripture, and in all Gods actings, than this, That God would not have men damned, if they would embrace Salvation? What ſpeak theſe expreſſions, 1 Tim. II. 4. Who will have all men to be ſaved, and to come to the knowledge of the Truth; 2 Pet. III. 9. Not willing that any ſhould periſh, but that all ſhould come to repentance? Certainly whatſoever elſe, this is plain enough, that God had rather men ſhould be ſaved, than damned. How is this written in Scripture, as in letters of gold, that he that runs may read it? How was it written in letters of Chriſts own blood; that was ſhed, that men might not be damned, but that whoſoever believeth might have eternal life? And how is this written in Gods patience, beſeechings, in his affording means of Salvation? I need not to inſtance in particulars.

Well, men will not be ſaved, but chooſe death before life. Doth Chriſt delight, rejoyce to damn them, when they muſt come to it? Think ye, he pronounceth, Go, ye curſed, with as much delight, as Come, ye bleſſed? That he inſults, triumphs, over poor damned wretches in their damnation? Read his heart in ſuch paſſages as theſe, Gen. VI. 6. And it repented the Lord that he had made man on the Earth, and it grieved him at his heart. What? Becauſe he had made them? No, but becauſe he having made them, muſt now deſtroy them; Lam. III. 33. He doth not afflict willingly, nor grieve the children of men. So he doth not damn willingly, nor deſtroy the children of men. And once for all, Eſa. XLII. 14. I have long time holden my peace, I have been ſtill, and reſtrained my ſelf: now will I cry like a travailing woman, I will deſtroy, and devour at once. I will cry, and deſtroy: but it is grievous to God, as pangs of a travailing woman.

Thus much as hath been ſpoken may ſhew, how unlikely, and indeed how unchriſtian a thing it is to conceive, that Chriſts Soul went purpoſely into Hell to triumph and inſult over the miſerable and damned. And ſo you ſee, that this Article cannot mean his Souls deſcending into the place of torment to triumph over the Devils and damned: ſo that we muſt yet look for another ſenſe of it.

III. A third interpretation then is this, That it means the Torments he ſuffered in Soul upon his Croſs. Some word it, That he ſuffered the extream wrath of God: ſome, the very torments of Hell: ſome, that he was for the time in the ſtate of the damned. I reluct to ſpeak theſe things: but this Gloſs ſome make upon this Article: and while they go about to magnifie the Love of Chriſt in ſuffering ſuch things for men, they ſo much abaſe, and vilifie his Perſon, in making it lyable to ſuch a condition. III.

The ſenſe of the Article we muſt refuſe, unleſs we ſhould ſpeak and think of Chriſt that which doth not befit him. The dearly beloved of the Soul of God, to lye under the heavieſt wrath of God? The Lord of Heaven and Earth to be under the torments of Hell? And the Captain of our Salvation to be under the condition of the damned? Let it not be told in Gath, publiſh it not in the Streets of Aſcalon. Let not the Jews hear it, nor the Turks underſtand ſuch a thing, leſt they blaſpheme our Lord of life more than they do.

The colour which is put upon this opinion by them, that hold it, is, becauſe Chriſt upon the Croſs bare the ſins of men; and therefore that he was to bear the wrath, torments, and damnation, that man had deſerved. And for this they produce thoſe places, Eſa. LIII. 6. The Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all. 1 Pet. II. 24. Who his own ſelf bare our ſins in his own body on the tree. And they would have Chriſt to mean no leſs, when he cried out, Eli, Eli Lamaſabachtani, my God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me.

For the ſtating of this matter, I lay down theſe two things.

I. That it was impoſſible Chriſt ſhould ſuffer the wrath of God, the torments of Hell, and be in the caſe of the damned for any cauſe of his own.

II. That he did not, could not ſuffer theſe, though he bare the ſins of all his people. I ſhall ſpeak to both theſe under theſe five obſervations.

I. In all the paſſages of Chriſt at his ſuffering, you cannot find that he looks upon God, as an angry God. Begin at his prayer at his laſt ſupper, Joh. XVII. Can you find there even the leaſt hint that he doubted of Gods favour to him? It is the rule of the Apoſtle, 1 Tim. II. 8. That we lift up holy hands without wrath and doubting. Can we think, that Chriſt ever prayed with doubting? Eſpecially, look into that Prayer, and there is not the leaſt tincture of it, verſ. 1. Father, glorifie thy Son. Did his heart then any whit ſuſpect, that God was angry at him? Verſ. 2. Thou haſt given him power over all fleſh, that he ſhould give eternal life. Are theſe the words of one that ſuſpected he could come under the heavieſt wrath of God? Verſ. 4. I have glorified thee on Earth; I have finiſhed the work which thou gaveſt me to do. Are theſe the words of one that thought he could ever be repayed for ſo doing with wrath and vengeance, and the torments of Hell? Verſ. 5. And now, O Father, glorifie me with thine own ſelf, with the glory which I had with thee before the World was. Verſ. 13. And now, Father, I come unto thee. Verſ. 21. Thou Father art in me, and I in thee. Verſ. 24. Father, I will that they alſo, whom thou haſt given me, be with me where I am, that they may behold my glory. Had Chriſt, when he ſpake theſe things, any ſuſpicion or thought, that he could poſſibly come under the heavy wrath of God?

It is ſaid Chap. XVIII. 1. He went beyond Kidron. There he is in his agony: then he prays, Let this cup paſs from me. Why? What did he ſee in the Cup? Bitterneſs enough, but not one drop of the dregs of Gods wrath. Gueſs his caſe by the caſe of ſinful men. A Stephen, a Cranmer, a Ridley, a Martyr is brought to the Stake: He hath a Cup put into his hand, and that very bitter; but doth he ſee any of Gods wrath in it? Martyrs could not have gone ſo joyfully to death, had they ſeen God angry in that bitter diſpenſation. Chriſt could not have gone ſo readily to his ſufferings, had he thought he had gone to encounter Gods indignation.

Look at his words on the Croſs, Hodie mecum in Paradiſo. To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe. Were theſe the words of one under the torments of Hell, to aſſure the thief of Heaven? Pater, in manus tuas. Father, into thy hands I commend my Spirit. Did he apprehend God angry, as at the Damned, when he ſpake theſe words? Nay, thoſe words, Eli, Eli, Lamaſabachtani, ſpeak not, that he felt the wrath of God, but a bitter providence; that God had left him to ſuch wrackings and tortures, and to ſuch wicked hands. So that look at Chriſts paſſages at and near his Paſſion, and you find not one word or action, that doth bewray, that Chriſt felt himſelf any whit at all under Gods fury.

Nay, look through the Scripture, whatſoever is ſpoken of Chriſt, it ſets him far from being to be thought liable to the wrath of God. Was Chriſt a child of wrath, as well as others? Scripture tells you, no. Eſa. XLII. 1. Behold my ſervant, whom I uphold, mine elect in whom my Soul delighteth. I have put my Spirit upon him. How far is that from ſuch language as this, Behold Chriſt under my wrath, behold him under the torments of Hell? And ſo that paſſage, Matth. III. ult. Lo, a Voice from Heaven, ſaying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed: And at his Transfiguration, In whom I am well pleaſed. And does he ever come to be angry at him, as at the Damned, and to lay his fury on him, as on the tormented in Hell? It troubles me to think any Chriſtian ſhould hold ſuch an opinion concerning our Saviour, and indeed, where there is little need to imagine ſuch a thing. Could not Chriſt have wrought Redemption without enduring ſuch heavy wrath, then it were not ſo improper to conceive ſo: But,

II. Chriſt in the work of Redemption had not to deal with the wrath of God, but the juſtice of God: not with his wrath to bear it, but with his juſtice to ſatisfie it. There is a great deal of difference may be made twixt wrath and juſtice; and twixt ſatisfying one and the other. A Judge condemning a Malefactor, weeps and grieves, Is there any wrath? No, but only juſtice. The Malefactor, ſatisfies the juſtice of the Law; no wrath ſtirring. Conſider, what was the debt men ought to God? What oweſt thou to my Maſter? It will be ſaid, Damnation, and ſuffering eternal torments. True, theſe were due to them, but the debt was of another nature, viz. Obedience. Damnation was the penalty upon forfeiture of Bonds, but the Debt was Obedience: that which man ought to God before he became ſinful: which he owes to God, as he is God, and which the Law challengeth, and which the Goſpel does alſo. Does man owe Damnation to God, as he is God, as he is Creator, as he is Lawgiver? Or as man is man? No, God rather owes, and will pay, Damnation to man for being ſinful.

Therefore that which Chriſt was properly to pay for his people, was that which was properly their debt, which they could not pay, viz. Obedience. And that the Scripture harps upon, Rom. V. 19. As by one mans diſobedience many were made ſinners; ſo by the obedience of one ſhall many be made righteous. Phil. II. 8. He became obedient unto Death.

Now

Now what was Christ obedient to? To say, To the wrath of God, were hardly sense: but, To the will of God; which would prove and try him, and could do it thorowly without wrath.

It was the Justice of God, that Christ was to satisfie: and if he could not have done that, then there would have been some reason he should have suffered his wrath. The Justice of God challenged obedience of men, or no coming to Heaven; satisfaction for disobedience, or they must to Hell. Here is enough, saith Christ, to serve for both ends. They have disobeyed, here is obedience more than all their Disobediences do, or can come to. They cannot obey as they should; here is that that makes it out, viz. Obedience infinite.

III. The truth was, that Christ had to deal with the wrath of the Devil, but not at all with the wrath of God. Consider but these passages, and see what was the stress, that Christ had to deal withal in his Passion. First, That Gen. III. 15. He shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel. Satan, the seed of the woman shall destroy thee. This is explained, Heb. II. 14. For as much as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself took part of the same; that through death he might destroy him, that had the power of death, that is the Devil. And 1 Joh. III. 8. For this purpose the Son of God was manifest, that he might destroy the works of the Devil. And then observe that Joh. XIV. 30. The Prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me. And Luke XXII 53. When I was daily with you in the Temple, ye stretched forth no hands against me: but this is your hour, and the power of darkness. While I preached, there was a restraint upon you; because my hour was not come: but now you and Hell are let loose, to have your full swing against me. There was a Combate proposed in the sufferings of Christ, before God, and Angels. Twixt whom? Christ, and the wrath of God? No, but twixt Christ, and Satan, and all his power. What doth God in this quarrel? Doth God fight against Christ too, as well as the Devil? Was his wrath against him, as well as the Devils wrath? What, against his own Champion, his own Son? No; he only tries him by affliction, not overwhelms him with his wrath. He only lets him alone to him, to be the shock of Satan. He little assists Satan by his wrath laid on his own Champion.

See the great Mystery of this great Dispensation in brief. God had created the first Adam, and endued him with abilities to have stood. Thus endued, he leaves him to stand of himself, and permits Satan to tempt him, and he overcomes him, and all mankind are overthrown. God raised up a second Adam, endued with power to foil Satan, do he his worst: and not only with power to withstand Satan, if he will, but a will that could not but withstand Satan. He sets him forth to encounter, and leaves him to himself; lets Satan loose to do his worst. Satan vexeth him with all the vexation Hell could inflict upon him. Did not God love his Son, look with dear bowels upon him all this while? It is a very harsh opinion to think, that Christ undertaking the combate for the honour of God against his arch-enemy, that obeying the Will of God even to the death, that retaining his holiness unmoveable in the midst of all his tortures, paying God an infinite obedience: it is harsh, I say, to think, that God should requite him with wrath, and look upon him as a wretched damned person. No, it was the wrath of the Devil that Christ had to combate with, not the wrath of God at all.

IV. Though Christ is said to bear sins, yet for all that God did not look upon him any whit the more wrathfully, or in displeasure, but rather the more favourably, because he would bear the sins of his people. For God looked on Christ not as a sinner, but as a Sacrifice, and the Lord was not angry at him, but loved him, because he would become a Sacrifice, Joh. X. 17. Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life. Esa. LIII. 12. Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong, because he hath poured out his Soul unto death. Do those words speak the anger of God? No, his wel-pleasedness, his rewarding him for that he would be numbred with transgressors, being none, but a Lamb without spot and blemish.

Some say, That Christ was the greatest sinner, murderer, &c. because he bare the sins of those that were so; which words border upon blasphemy, and speak besides a great deal of imprudence, and inconsideration. See Levit. XVI. 21, 22. And Aaron shall lay both his hands upon the head of the live Goat, and confess over him all the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their transgressions in all their sins, putting them upon the head of the Goat. And the Goat shall bear upon him all their iniquities. Is it not senseless now to say, That the Goat was the greatest sinner in Israel? Was he any whit the more sinful, because the sins of the people were put upon him? And so of other sacrifices, on whose heads hands were laid, and sins put: was the wrath of God upon the Sacrifice? No, the pleasure of God was upon it for attonement.

In such sense are those places to be taken, Isa. LIII. 6. The Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all; 1 Pet. II. 24. Who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree; 2 Cor. V. 21. He hath made him to be sin for us who knew no sin. He bare our sins, not not as a ſinner, but as a Sacrifice. And that Joh. I. 29. makes it plain: Behold the Lamb of God, that taketh away the ſins of the World. As a Lamb at the Temple bare the ſins of the people, ſo Chriſt bare our ſins. How? Was the Lamb guilty, or ſinful? No; as an attonement, and ſacrifice. And ſo God looked on Chriſt as a Sacrifice well pleaſing to him, not as ſinful at all.

Need we any more illuſtration? Obſerve that Exod. XXVIII. 36, 38. And thou ſhalt make a plate of pure gold, and grave upon it like the engravings of a ſignet, Holineſs to the Lord. And it ſhall be upon Aarons forehead, that Aaron may bear the iniquity of the holy things, which the children of Iſrael ſhall hallow in all their holy gifts: and it ſhall be always upon his forehead, that they may be accepted before the Lord. Holineſs to the Lord, becauſe he bare iniquity? It ſhould rather have been Unholineſs, if Aaron had been any whit the more ſinful for bearing the peoples iniquities. But he is ſaid to bear their iniquities, becauſe he by his office undertook to attone for them. How did God look upon Aaron in his Prieſthood? With anger, becauſe he bare the iniquity of the people? Nay, with favour and delight, as ſo excellent an inſtrument of attonement. Such another paſſage is that, Levit. X. 17, &c. Wherefore have ye not eaten the ſin offering in the holy place, ſeeing it is moſt holy, and God hath given it you to bear the iniquity of the Congregation, to make attonement for them before the Lord.

Let me aſk thoſe that hold this Opinion two or three queſtions.

Was Chriſt ſo much as puniſhed by God? Much leſs then was he overwhelmed by the wrath of God, damned by God. Was a Lamb puniſhed that was ſacrificed? He was afflicted, but not puniſht: for puniſhment argues a crime, or fault preceding; Lam. III. 39. Wherefore doth a living man complain, a man for the puniſhment of his ſins? Were the ſad ſufferings of Chriſt laid on him as puniſhments? Certainly, not for his own ſins: no, nor for ours neither. He ſuffered for our ſins, bare our ſins; but his ſufferings were not puniſhments for our ſins. For obſerve two things: Firſt, Chriſt merited by ſuffering. Is it good ſenſe to ſay, he merited by being puniſhed? Strange ſenſe! to ſay, he merited Salvation for his by being puniſht for their ſins: but moſt divine! to ſay, by ſuffering for the redeeming of them. He ſuffered as a Sacrifice to attone, not as a ſinner to be puniſhed. Secondly, Did Chriſt dye upon any debt to the Law? Much leſs, upon any debt, that he owed to Gods wrath? Did the Law lay any thing to Chriſts charge; did the Law condemn him? And then can we dream of the wrath of God charging him, and damning him? It is true, that it is ſaid, Gal. III. 13. Chriſt hath delivered us from the curſe of the Law, being made a curſe for us, as it is written, Curſed is every one that hangeth on a tree. But doth this mean, accurſed of God? Was the good Thief accurſed of God, when he hung upon the croſs? The meaning is, that he appeared ſo to the view of men.

So that as it is impoſſible, that Chriſt ſhould lye under the wrath of God for any fault of his own, ſo it is not imaginable, that he did for ours.

V. It is impoſſible, that Chriſt ſhould ſuffer the torments of Hell, or be in the caſe of the damned. A Prieſt could not fall under the Plague of Leproſie; and yet is the high Prieſt under a damned condition? Certainly, if his Body could not ſee corruption, his Soul could not feel damnation. If his Body were not under that, which the Bodies of the beſt Saints fall under, certainly his Soul could not be under that which damned Souls fall under.

I might clear this by conſidering eſpecially three things, which are the chief torments of Hell. 1. Separation from God, without any glimpſe of his favour. 2. Horror and Hell in the Conſcience, becauſe of guilt. 3. Utter deſpair. Now need I to ſhew, that it was not poſſible, that any of theſe ſhould ſeize upon Chriſt?

And theſe things be ſpoken to ſhew firſt what is not the meaning of this Article.

Now to come to the ſenſe of the Article. And for a beginning, I may ſay, as Moſes does, Numb. XI. 29. Would all the Congregation were Prophets. So, would all the Congregation were Grecians: for then this would be eaſie. The Creed was written in Greek: and in the interpretation of this Article, we are not tyed to the ſtrictneſs of the Engliſh word, but we muſt fly for refuge to the ſenſe of the Greek word. And if any of the opinions mentioned before, ſhould urge, It is Hell, therefore muſt be ſo underſtood; as he ſaid once, To the Law, and to the Teſtimony; ſo I would anſwer, To the original Greek, and to the propriety of the phraſe there. In Iſa. XXIX. 10. The Lord hath poured out upon you the Spirit of Slumber. In the Greek, and in Rom. XI. 8. it is κατανύξεως, compunction, clean contrary to the Prophets meaning. What ſhall we do here? Not ſtick to the ſtrict propriety of the Greek Tranſlation, but have refuge to the word in the original Hebrew, and conſtrue the Greek word by that. So in our Engliſh Tranſlation, Hell, ſeems to ſpeak that that is neither warrantable by Scripture, nor reaſon: therefore we muſt not ſtick to the ſtrict propriety of the word, but to the Greek. In the Greek it is, Κατῆλθεν εἰς Ἅιδης· He went down to Hades. Which I ſhall explain to you by and by.

I. The Article refers to the paſſage of Chriſts Soul after his death: I ſay, of his Soul. For what was done to his Body, is ſpecified in the Articles before, Crucified, dead and buried. But what became of his Soul? Κατῆλθεν εἰς Ἅδου· He deſcended into Hell. Now this Article is left out of divers Confeſſions of Faith in the Fathers, and out of divers Creeds. Vice plurium, inſtead of more obſerve the Nicene Creed, Was crucified alſo for us under Pontius Pilate. He ſuffered, and was buried. And the third day he roſe again. Which ſhews it was added occaſionally, and for ſome illuſtration. Councils and Fathers commonly inſerted ſome Articles into Confeſſions, to face ſome Hereſie then appearing. And this Article was inſerted to outface ſome error about Chriſts perſon. The Hereſies and miſtakes about Chriſts perſon were numerous: and among others this was one, that he had not a real humane Body, but Airy: and again, that though he had a real Body, yet he had not a humane Soul, but that the Divine Nature ſupplied the place of his Soul.

Theſe Articles that concern his death outface both theſe. He had a real Body, for he was really Crucified, dead and buried. And a real Soul, for when dead, he went to Hades. Or whether it had been enough, to have ſaid, He died and was buried: but of him ſuch addition was not needleſs, becauſe of miſconſtruction.

II. The Heathens owned another World, and the immortality of the Soul: though they had no Bible to tell them it, yet they believed, that there was another World after this. Socrates diſcourſed of this before his death: which Cleombrotus reading, caſt himſelf from a Tower, that he might become immortal. A ſtrange affectedneſs with this point, and a ſtrong perſwaſion! It is a wonder the Sadducees, that had the Scriptures, ſhould deny this; and Chriſtians, that hear ſo much of it, be affected ſo little. Tully ſhews arguments, whereby they gathered, that men lived in another World: one of which was from the apparitions of ſome dead men. In which thing, while the Devil went about to coſin them, to think them dead men, which indeed was his own appearing; yet he coſined himſelf too, while he taught them by it to believe a life after death. How they came thorowly to be grounded in this point, I ſhall not inſiſt upon to examine, but they did believe that there was another World after this, when the dead lived again.

III. This place and ſtate they called Hades: that is, a place obſcure, and inviſible. The Phraſe is infinitely frequent. Achilles, Ἀΐδι προΐαψεν· Sent him before to Hades. Sophocles, Πρὶν εἰς Ἅδου μολεῖν· Before the going to Hades. Leonidas to his Souldiers, δειπνεῖν ἐν Ἅδου· To ſup in Hades: that is, in another World. Shall I give you their character of Hades?

1. They thought it was a place under the Earth. And the reaſon is, becauſe they thought none went to Heaven, but thoſe that were to be gods: all others went to Hades. Hence Æneas and Ulyſſes went down into the Earth to the World of Souls there, to confer with ſome dead friends. Hence the cheat of the Devil, to bring Ghoſts as aſcending out of the Earth, 1 Sam. XXVIII. 13.

2. This place of Souls had two parts, viz. Elyſium, and Tartarus: and thoſe parted with a deep gulph of a deadly River; and that from one ſide they could ſee, and talk to the other. According to this common opinion, Chriſt frames his Parable, Luke XVI. 23. He in Hades, in the place of torment, looks over the gulph, and talks with Abraham. So that both good and bad, when dead, went to Hades; the good to the place of reſt and delight, the bad to the place of ſorrow and pain. So the Greek Poet, Εἰς Ἅδου δύο τρίβους, &c. Both go to Hades, &c. Lazarus went to Hades, and ſo did the rich man too, but to contrary conditions.

IV. In this ſenſe then is the Article to be taken, as ſpeaking according to the common notion, That Chriſts Soul went to Hades, to the other World, to the place where good Souls went, which Scripture hath taught us is Heaven.

The word Hell now is come to ſignifie only the place of torment, but of old it ſignified larger, as the word Hades does; and by the Greek word, and its ſignification, we muſt conſtrue it. Let me give you a word parallel. The word Knave is now taken only in a bad ſenſe: of old it ſignified a Servant. So ſome old Tranſlations expreſs, A Servant of the Lord, by A Knave of the Lord. When we read that, we do not conſtrue it by the preſent ſenſe of the word, but by the old, and by the original Hebrew. So when in this Article we read the word Hell, we muſt not conſtrue it according to our preſent common acceptation, but as of old it ſignified, the place, and ſtate of all Souls departed. And ſo in this Article there are theſe three Doctrines compriſed.

I. That Chriſt had a true humane Soul, like other men. Like to us he had a Soul, that was reaſonable, that inlivened the Body, that was whole in it: and not the Divinity, that inlivened, and actuated his Body.

II. That when Chriſt died, there was a real ſeparation of Soul and Body, as it is with other men. The Soul ſlept not with the Body, but was ſeparate from it. Though it was to come into the Body again, yet it forſook the Body; and was ſeparate.

III. As

III. As ſoon as it was departed, it went into another World of Souls: to a place where holy Souls go, viz. to Heaven. And there continued, till it was to return to the Body. It was in Paradiſe all the while the Body was in the grave.

Object. Is this the meaning of Act. II. 27. Thou wilt not leave my Soul in Hell, or Hades? If Hades mean Paradiſe, why ſhould Chriſt pray againſt being left in Hades? My Fleſh ſhall reſt in hope, that it ſhall not be left in Hades: and hopes he not, that his Soul ſhall not be left in Hades, as he hopes his Body ſhall not ſee corruption?

Anſwer, He doth not pray thus, as if it were not well with his Soul in Hades, as to what it enjoyed, but that it was not well while ſeparate from the Body: for that it was, while Chriſt was under death. As if he ſhould ſay, Thou wilt not leave me under death, my Soul in ſeparation. This would be the Triumph of the Devil.

Obſerve, Chriſts Soul was in glory the while his Body was in the Grave, and yet deſires to return to the Body. Why? That he may finiſh the work of God by his Reſurrection, to conquer death. As I ſaid, It is Hell to the Devil not to be doing evil; ſo it is Heaven to Chriſt to do the Will of God. He left the boſom of the Father to come into the World: and when his Soul was in the boſom of his Father again in thoſe joys, that are not expreſſible, yet it would rather do the work of God. Aſk a Soul there, wouldeſt thou be on Earth again? No. But wouldeſt thou be on Earth to do God ſervice there? Yes: it is as Heaven to be doing any thing for God. Ubi Imperator, ibi Roma. Where the Emperor is, there is Rome: ſo whereſoever a man can pleaſe God, it is Heaven to him. Here is the happineſs of Saints in Heaven, that their Will is wholly ſwallowed up in the Will of God.

It is a queſtion where Lazarus his Soul was, while he was four days dead? Why, undoubtedly no where, but in Heaven. But the reaſon of the objection is, Becauſe it was but a wrong, or miſery to his Soul, to ſend it from Heaven again. Bleſſed Soul, doſt thou think ſo? No; any thing to obey the Will of God. So the Soul of Chriſt was in glory, in the midſt of unſpeakable joys, yet he would not have it continue there, till the work of God was done. Soul, thou art well; be content, keep in Paradiſe ſtill; let the Body lye in the Grave, it feels not hurt. Ah! but all this while Satan, Death, is not conquered; Gods cauſe is not pleaded, and finiſhed; let that work firſt be done, and then both to glory.

That that I ſpeak to, and that that the Article aims at, is, that Chriſt had a humane Soul like other men, (but that not ſinful) and that it departed as the Souls of other men. Some, on Gen. I. 26, 27. And God ſaid, Let us make man in our image, ſay, God ſet Chriſt before him, and made man after the image of Chriſt; as though they would ſay, God made the firſt Adam in the image of the ſecond, whereas we ſhould ſay the contrary, God made the ſecond Adam in the image of the firſt. So Phil. II. 7, 8. He made himſelf of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a Servant, and was made in the likeneſs of men: and being found in faſhion as a man, &c. Not man at firſt created in the likeneſs of Chriſt, but Chriſt was brought into the World in the likeneſs of man.

And how Chriſts Soul was like other mens, I ſhall obſerve to you in three things. I. In its infuſion into the Body. II. In its exiſtence and acting in the Body. III. In its going out of the Body. Men ſaw his Body like other mens, and in theſe his Soul ſhewed it ſelf like other mens alſo.

I. By its infuſion or induction into the Body. But here you will ſay, the Copy is darker, than to know what to write after it. It is controverted how Souls are put into the Body: and there are two miſtakes about it, viz. Præexiſtence, and Generation; which this may rectifie.

Some hold Præexiſtence of Souls, that they were created at the beginning of the World, and put in at laſt into Bodies. And they would argue from this reaſon, God finiſhed creating in Principio, in the beginning; therefore he creates not a Soul now. I anſwer, He finiſhed creating genere ſpecierum, the kinds of all ſpecies, but not Species generum, the Species of all kinds. When he brought Frogs and Lice on Egypt, it was a creation of the things, but the kind was created from the beginning. The ſame muſt be ſaid of Souls. Let Chriſts Soul be the inſtance. Was the Soul of the Meſſias created at the beginning? If ſo, what did it all the while till it was united to the Body? Where was it? What did it? Was Chriſts Soul ever not acting for the good of his people? As ſoon as ever it was put into the Body, it began the work of Redemption, viz. Chriſt there ſanctifying our Nature, by the Union of the humane nature to the Divine. His Soul is now in Heaven in the work of mediation for his people. It is hard to think, that his Soul ſhould be almoſt four thouſand years in being, and doing nothing for mens Salvation. And we cannot call Chriſt Chriſt, till he be compleated in our nature, Soul and Body. So that Chriſts Soul, as ours was infuſed by immediate Creation in the Body: which Body was prepared in the womb for the receiving of it. So that though he was not not like to us in regard of his begetting in the womb, yet he was like in the Union of his Soul to his Body there. For,

II. Chriſt had a Soul like ours in all things, ſin excepted. It is a queſtion, Whether all Souls are equal. There is ſome colour for it, *Pſal.*XXXIII. 15. He faſhioneth their hearts alike. And thence ſome argue the equality of Souls. But I anſwer, 1. That place may be taken thus, That God alike is the Creator of all Souls; rich and poor, wiſe and fooliſh. 2. It is undoubted, all Souls are alike in regard of the Eſſentials of Souls: they are all intellectual, Spiritual, immortal; and in regard of their Eſſential faculties. Whether they are alike as to the uſe and excellency of thoſe faculties, I ſhall not diſpute. Doubtleſs, Chriſts Soul was the moſt excellent, and yet like ours in all things, that ſimply relate to the Eſſence of Souls, or the humane nature.

I need not ſpeak of the Eſſentials of a Soul; he had the Infirmities of a humane Soul, viz. thoſe that in themſelves are ſinleſs. I might ſo apply that, Matth. VIII. 17. Himſelf took our infirmities, and bare our ſickneſſes. He was ſubject to grief in Soul; *Matth.*XXVI. 38. Περίλυπός ἐστιν ἡ ψυχή· My Soul is exceeding ſorrowful. To fear, Heb. V. 7. In that he feared: Joh. XI. 33. He groned in ſpirit, and was troubled. Theſe are natural infirmities, or affections to humane Souls. Adam might have had theſe in innocency if occaſion offered.

The Apoſtle makes comfortable uſe of this likeneſs of Chriſts Soul to ours, *Heb.*IV. 15. For we have not an High Prieſt which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities: but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without ſin. And ſo may a Chriſtian; in ſadneſs, fear, hunger, perſecution, he may refuge to a High Prieſt, that himſelf was ſenſible what theſe things were. Non ignara mali, &c. Oh! what acceſs hath God given to ſinners? Not only to one in their own nature, but that partook of the very infirmities of nature; Except ſin. Name but one that he had not. A poor man, dying, aſſaulted with Satan, fearing pains; How comfortably may he refuge to Chriſt, who by experience knew all theſe.

III. He was like other Souls in the manner of his departure out of the body, and going to another World. And this I ſhall ſpeak to in three Particulars.

I. Although the reaſon of Chriſts death was different from the reaſon of the death of all other men; yet the nature and definition of Chriſts death agrees withal. Though the conception and birth of Chriſt was different from all others, yet the nature of his death was not different: the manner of dying indeed differed. That in Heb. IX. penult. reacht Chriſt as well as others: it was appointed for him to dye, though upon a far different reaſon, from what other men dye. It is worth obſerving, that Chriſts death was publiſhed, and pronounced of, before the death of Adam was denounced againſt him. In Gen. III. 15. the death of Chriſt is mentioned; in verſ. 19. the Death of Adam. Which ſpeaks, that Chriſt died not of the Plague of mortality, of which Adam, and all his poſterity dye, but that his death was upon another kind of account. Though Chriſt the ſecond Adam was incomparably above the firſt in his innocence, in regard of the Perfection of his nature and Perſon: yet in regard of the certainty of Death, as I may ſay, he was beneath him. For the excellency of his nature ſo far beyond him; that whereas Adam was without ſin, Chriſt was without poſſibility of ſinning. But for certainty of dying ſo far otherwiſe, that whereas Adam might not have dyed, Chriſt could not but dye.

Socinians ſay Adam was created mortal, becauſe he was in a poſſibility to dye, and becauſe he died: whereas indeed actually he was created immortal, not as yet having any ſeeds or principles of mortality in his nature, ſin not being yet come there. Chriſt was ſo much more without principles of mortality in him; as that whereas Adam was ſinleſs, He could not ſin: and yet, as I may ſay, he had the principles of dying in him, but not ſo much in his body, as mind; not in any failing of nature, but in the holy bent of his own Will. Death was not to him the wages of ſin, as it is to others; nor to end ſinning, as it is to others: but from clear contrary principles, viz. Love to Man, and Obedience to God. The Death of Adam and of all other Men, proceeded from diſobedience; the Death of Chriſt only from obedience. The Death of Adam, becauſe he loved not himſelf, nor his ſeed: the death of Chriſt, becauſe he loved his people, more than himſelf. So that as to the reaſon of the death of Chriſt, Jordan was driven back, the ſtream ran a clean contrary way to the reaſon, why other men dye: and yet as to the nature and definition of his dying, it agreed with the nature of the dying of other men. For,

II. Define death, What is it? It is the ſeparation of Soul from Body. Mortal, thou muſt once find this definition to be moſt true. The Soul, that that inliveneth the Body, that gives it freſhneſs of colour, warmth, life and motion; when the Soul is departed, all theſe are gone, and the Body dead. Here is the difference twixt death, and a ſwoon or trance. God ſhewed in Enoch, and Elias, what he would have done, if man had continued tinued innocent, viz. Have tranſlated Body and Soul to glory. But when ſin came in, death came in, and Soul and Body muſt be parted, the Body to corruption, the Soul into the World of Souls, to be diſpoſed of according to its ſinfulneſs, or goodneſs.

But why ſhould God thus diſpoſe, as to the taking men out of this World? Why not the wicked, Soul and Body to Hell, and no more ado? And why not the holy, Soul and Body to Heaven? I might ſay, That Simeon and Levi, that have been brethren in Evil, might be ſcattered in Jacob, that they conſpire evil no more. That Soul and Body that have been compartners in ſinning, might be ſevered from conjoyning to ſin any more. But what need we ſay more than, that God hath thus ſentenced upon ſin, that the Body that was created immortal, ſhould dye, and ſee corruption; and that Soul and Body, that were in the neareſt conjunction in this World, ſhould be diſunited, and the bonds of life diſſolved, and Soul and Body parted into two ſeveral Regions. Oh! how bitter is this parting; how dreadful the very thought of it to moſt in the World? Why, Chriſt did as really undergo this ſeparation in his death, as any other whatſoever.

Obſervable is the expiring of Chriſt upon his croſs, both in regard of the thing it ſelf, and of the manner of it. Comparing the Evangeliſts together we ſhall ſee it the better. S. John ſeems to make, It is finiſhed, his laſt words, Joh. XIX. 30. S. Luke, Father, into thy hands I commend my Spirit; Luke XXIII. 46. And add but the conſtruction, that the Centurion makes upon his crying out, Mark XV. 39. Truly this was the Son of God. They all ſay in our Engliſh, He gave up the Ghoſt. Which two of them, viz. Mark, and Luke expreſs, Ἐξέπνευσε, He breathed out his Spirit, according as other dying perſons do. But Matthew and John have expreſſions very feeling. Matthew, Ἀφῆκε τὸ πνεῦμα· He let go his Spirit, or his Soul. And John, Παρέδωκε· He delivered it up. Chriſt could not dye, nay I may ſay, he would not dye, till all things were fulfilled, that were written concerning his death. Therefore when he had hung above three hours, and knowing it was written, They gave me Vinegar, &c. he ſaid, I thirſt. He taſtes, and finds it Vinegar, and ſays, It is finiſhed: now all is accompliſhed: ſo he bows his Head, and compoſeth himſelf to dye, and cries, Father, into thy hands, &c. And having ſo ſaid, He let go his Soul, and Delivered it up into the hands of God.

Remember that Joh. X. 17, 18. and you ſee the ſenſe of theſe expreſſions. I lay down my life, that I may take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of my ſelf. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. He had life in his own hand, and the Jews could not take it from him, but he let it go himſelf, and delivered it up. When the Centurion ſaw, that he thus cried out, and gave up the Ghoſt, he ſaid, Surely this man was the Son of God. Doubtleſs this man hath the Diſpoſal of his own life. So ſtrong a cry is not the cry of one that is ſpent, and dying through weakneſs and fainting, but it argues life, ſtrong, and vigorous, to be ſtill in him; and therefore he dies not of weakneſs, but gives up his life at his own pleaſure.

Shall we paſs this great paſſage of our Saviour without a meditation? Mortal men and women, if your Lives and Souls were ſo at your own diſpoſal, could you ſo readily, ſo willingly part with them, and give them up to God? They are not: and time is a coming, when we muſt part with them, whether we will or no. Our Saviour hath taught us what to do, againſt they be called for, to get them in readineſs; to be comfortably willing to part with them, and give them up into his hands. I remember that paſſage of a good man dying, Egredere, anima, quid times, &c. Go, Soul, depart, why art thou affraid? Thou haſt ſerved a good Maſter, be not affraid to go to him. It will be a hard pull to have the Soul and Body parted. We had need to be getting the Soul looſned, that when God calls, it may not be unwilling, and hang on, and ſtick and be loth to go. It was a hard perplexity with him, that cried out, Animula, vagula, blandula, &c. Ah! poor Soul, thou muſt go, and whither art thou to go? To leave all thy worldly pleaſures and delights, and muſt away, thou knoweſt not whither.

The hard, and dreary parting is, when the Soul is chained to the World, as well as to the Body: when it ſticks to theſe things as well as to the Body; and muſt be torn from all theſe too. He that is dead to the World, how eaſie, how comfortable is it for that man to dye? When he dies, he hath nothing elſe to do, but to reſign his Soul to him that gave it.

So that though the manner of Chriſts parting Soul and Body were extraordinary; yet his Soul and Body were as really parted at his death, as other mens are.

III. His Soul thus parted from his Body went to Hades, into another World, to the place whither holy Souls go after death; which himſelf expreſſeth in thoſe words to the good Thief, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.

What does a Soul inſtantly after its departure? Some ſay, Walks the regions of Air, and ſees the ſecrets of nature there. But Souls go not into another World to ſtudy, but to receive rewards. And I may ſay of any Soul departed, as Chriſt of Peter, Joh. XXI. 18. When thou waſt young, thou girdeſt thy ſelf, and walkeſt, whither thou wouldeſt, but but when thou ſhalt be old, thou ſhalt ſtretch forth thy hands, and another ſhall gird thee, and carry thee whither thou wouldeſt not. So when the Soul was in the Body, it went whither it would, moved the Body, whither it thought good, did what it pleaſed, was at its own pleaſure: but now being departed, another hath girded it; and if it be an evil Soul, he carries it whither it would not: if even the beſt Soul, he hath fixed it, that it is not at its own liberty, as it was before.

The other World is the fixing of Souls in their place and condition, that they flit no more, change no more: that as the Soul then is not in a mutable condition as it is here, ſo not in a ſelf-moving condition, as here. Obſerve that Eccleſ. XII. 7. Then ſhall the duſt return to the Earth, as it was: and the Spirit ſhall return unto God, who gave it. A good Soul returns to God; and a bad Soul too returns to God, that gave it: both return to God. How? Now they come intirely into Gods hands to be diſpoſed of according to what was done by them in the fleſh; and he inſtantly diſpoſeth them into Heaven or Hell. That is the very day of retribution. See Luke XVI. 22, 23. And it came to paſs that the Begger died, and was carried by the Angels into Abrahams boſom. The rich man alſo died, and was buried. And in Hell he lift up his Eyes being in torment, &c. Both ſuddainly diſpoſed of, the one to Heaven, the other to Hell. So we may take example from the two Thieves on the Croſs: the good Thief went preſently to Paradiſe, and the bad, to his place: and both theſe to Hades, the word in the Creed.

Chriſt commends his Soul into his Fathers hands, and it went into the hands of God. What to do? For God to diſpoſe of it. And how think you God would diſpoſe of the Soul of Chriſt? The Schools queſtion, whether Chriſt merited Salvation pro ſe, for himſelf: becauſe the reaſon of the queſtion is, whether he ſet himſelf to merit pro ſe? Did he, or did he not, the Soul of Chriſt after ſo holy a life and death could not but go to Salvation. For what had the Soul of Chriſt now to do more towards mans Salvation; and what could be done more towards its own? Now having done all this, what had the Soul of Chriſt to do more, but to go to its reſt, till it be put again into its Body for the raiſing of that. As the Scripture tells us, holy Souls go to reſt, till at the laſt day they muſt meet their Bodies; and then both ſhall reſt together.

This paſſage of our Saviours Soul to Heaven upon his death, is called his going to Hades, the World of Souls, and the place of holy Souls, a place inviſible to mortal Eyes: which though it ſeems harſhly expreſſed, He deſcended into Hell; yet muſt be interpreted from the Greek expreſſion in this ſenſe.

And the Phraſe in the Greek teacheth, that the Soul ſleepeth not with the Body; ſtayeth not here on Earth, where the Body doth; but hath a life, when the Body is dead, and goeth into another World to have a living or dying life. Chriſts Soul to be ſeparate but thirty ſix hours, and yet it doth not ſtay, and ſleep with the Body, but takes wing, and flies into another World. The Sadducee, that thought the Soul died with the Body, little conſidered what the nature of the Soul was. Chriſtian, doſt thou conſider it? Doſt thou know what it is? No, I cannot ſee it. But I may ſay, as it is, Rom. I. 20. The inviſible things of God are clearly ſeen, being underſtood by the things that are made. So the inviſible things of the Soul, i. e. its ſpiritualneſs, and immortality may be ſeen by the things it acts; Prov. XX. 27. The Spirit of a man is the candle of the Lord. Its the Lords candle, like that in the Tabernacle, that never went out, but was dreſt Morning and Evening, and kept burning continually. It is the Lords candle, Searching all the inward parts of the Belly; that is able to acquaint man with himſelf, with his conſcience, his thoughts, affections. A candle that ſearcheth the things of nature, looketh into the things of God.

Compare this Spirit with the Spirit of a Beaſt, a Swine, an Ox; the acting of the Soul of Man in Wiſdom, Learning, Contrivance, with the acting of a Brute; and then gueſs what is the nature of the Soul. And if it be ſo active in the Body, when fettred in fleſh, what think you it will be, when looſed out?

And that it will be one day, and go into another World: not to be at its own liberty there: but it goes to God to diſpoſe of it, and ſo he doth to Heaven or Hell. Go away then with this meditation in thy boſom, and keep it there, My Soul muſt certainly one day go into the hands of God to receive her due reward.

FINIS.

A Chorographical Table,

OF THE

Several Places contained and described in the Two Volumes of Dr. LIGHTFOOTS Works.

By John Williams.

THe Jewish Writers divide the World into the Land of Israel, and without the Land. Vol. II. *Pag.*1. The Land of Israel, first called the Land of the Hebrews, then Canaan and Palestine, &c. may be considered as to its length and breadth. v. II. p. 327.

The length of it is said in Scripture to be from Dan to Beersheba, and from the entring in of Hamath, North, to the Sea of the Plain, or Dead Sea South. *v.*I.*p.*90. *v.*II.*p.*44

The Jews do reckon it from the Mountains of Amana, (or the upper Tarnegola, which is at the neck of Anti-Libanus) to the River of Egypt. v. II. p. 3,62,517

Others do measure it by the Coast; and, if Phœnicia be included, then from Sidon to Rhinocorura, or the River of Egypt, is 232 miles, according to Antoninus: But if Phœnicia be excluded, then from the South bounds of that to Rhinocorura, are 189 miles, according to Pliny. v. II. p. 10,322

The breadth of the Land within Jordan is not always the same; since the Seas bounding on all sides, here the Mediterranean, there those of Sodom, Genesaret, and Samochonitis, with the River Jordan, cannot but make the space very unequal by their various Windings: But if we take the measure of it from the Bay of Gaza to the Shoar of the Dead Sea, it is upward of 50 miles; and if we extend it also beyond Jordan, then from Gaza to Petra, the Metropolis of Moab, is 110 miles, as may be computed from Ptolomy and Pliny. v. II. p. 320, 321

The Jews do say, That the Land of Israel contained a Square of Four hundred Parsæ (a Parsa is four miles) which make 1600 miles. v. II. p. 318

And they have a Tradition (and not amiss) that the utmost Bounds of the Land of Israel (including the Land beyond Jordan) was within three days Journey of Jerusalem. *v.*II. p. 319.

Sometimes the Land of Israel is bounded with Euphrates, East (as indeed the Holy Scriptures do) and contiguous with Mesopotamia, the River only between *v.*II. *p.*365

The several Divisions of the Land.

It was anciently divided according to the People and Nations that inhabited it, viz. the Canaanites, Perizzites, &c. Vol. II. *p.*202, 328

When first possess'd by the Children of Israel it was parted among the twelve Tribes, and upon the Division of the ten Tribes, they were known by the two Names of Judah and Israel. But after their return from Babylon, it was divided by the Jews into Judea, Galilee, and the Land beyond Jordan (or Perea) excluding Samaria. To which if we add Idumea, then was Palestine divided into five Countries, viz. Idumea, Judea, Samaria, Galilee, and the Country beyond Jordan. Vol. I. *Pag.*282, 364. Vol. II. *Pag.*4, 01.

There was also an Imperial Division of it; viz. 1. Into Palestine, more especially so called, the Head of which was Cæsarea. 2. Palestine the second, the Head of which was Jerusalem. And 3. Palestine, called Salutaris, or the Healthful, which its likely was the same with Idumea the less, the Head of which may be supposed to be Gaza, Ascalon, or Eleutheropolis. v. II. p. 293.

A.

ABel, Abila, } are one and the same; the Hebrew Abel being according to the Greek Termination Abila, or Abella. There were many places of that name. Vol. II. *Pag.*369

Abila Lysaniæ, so called, because it had been a City in the Tetrarchy of Lysanias, was in Cœle-Syria, and had Longit. 68. 40. Lat. 33. 40. according to Ptolomy. v. II. p. 367

Abilene, was a Province in Syria, and so called from the City of Abila. This word soundeth so near to the word Havilah, Gen. 10. 7. that it may well be supposed to have descended from it, and the name of the place from that son of Chush, that, with his Brethren, planted in Arabia, or thereabout. v. I. p. 452, 453

Abel-bethmaachah, a Town in the Upper Galilee, not far from Dan or Cæsarea v. I. *p.*023. *v.*II. p. 367

Abel-meholah, [in Manasseh on this side Jordan, 1 Kings. 4. 12. ten miles from Bethshan, where dwelt Elisha the Prophet. Hieron.] v. II. *p.*367

Abel-shittim, where the Israelites pitch'd their Tents immediately before [and not as is in the English after] they pass'd the River Jordan: This place Josephus calls Abila, and saith is in Perea, threescore Furlongs, or seven Miles and half from Jordan; and, say the Jews, from Beth-Jesimoth twelve Miles. v. II. p. 46 367.

Acharabon, a Rock in the Upper Galilee. Josephus. v. II. p. 57

Achor Valley, so called from Achan, who is also called Achar

Achar, 1 Chron. 27. becauſe he troubled Iſrael, Joſh. 7. The Maps of Canaan do moſt of them lay this Valley and Sichem at a great diſtance; but if it be obſerved, its not improbable that the Valley runs betwixt Gerizim and Ebal. Joſephus ſpeaks of the Great Valley of Samaria. Vol. I. Pag. 596

Achzib. vid. Chezib.

Acrabatena, Acrabatta, A Mountainous Region, North of Samaria, and, ſay the Jews, a days journy from Jeruſalem v. II. *p.*16,50,52,320.

Adam, a City in Peræa over againſt Jericho, a little removed from Jordan, was the Center where the Waters of Jordan parted, and the Station of the Ark, Pſal. 88. 60. It was twelve Miles (ſay the Jews) from Zaretan. vid. Zaretan. *v.*I. *p.*40. *v.*II. *p.*82.

Adiabene, the ſame with Habor, 2 Kings 17. 6. (ſay the Talmudiſts) a Country of noted fame in Aſſyria, and ſo called from the River Adiab. *v.*II. *p.*800,801

Adida. There were ſeveral places of that name, as Adida in the Valley. Adida in the Mountain, under which lay the Plains of Judea. Adida in Galilee, before the Great Plain, perhaps the ſame with Adida in Sephel. Adida not far from Jordan, as we have it in Joſephus. *v.*II. *p.*326, 327

Ador. A City of Idumea. Joſeph. *v.*II. *p.*4.

Adullam Cave, whither David betook himſelf when he eſcaped from Gath, and where he compoſed the 142 Pſalm [it was in the Tribe of Judah. Hieron.] *v.*II. *p.*57

Aenon. Vide Enon.

Ai, Hai, In the Tribe of Benjamin, on the Eaſt of Bethel, Gen. 12. 8. Joſh. 8, 9, &c. and not far from Bethaven. *v.*II. *p.*20

Aiath, within the juriſdiction of Juda, and in the Tribe Benjamin, lying betwixt Samaria and Jeruſalem, Iſa. 10. *v.*I. *p.*104

Aila, Elath, in the utmoſt Borders of Paleſtine, joyned to the South Deſert and the Red Sea, whence Men Sail out of Egypt into India, and thence into Egypt, where was the Roman Legion, called Decima, (ſaith St. Hieron.) and was under the diſpoſition of the Duke of Paleſtine (ſaith the Notitia) but it ſhould rather ſeem that it was Elath in the South of Juda, the other being far diſtant, where there was a Duke of Arabia (in which Elath at the Red Sea was) as well as of Paleſtine. *v.*II *p.*320

Alexandria, or Anon-Min-No [a City in Egypt, at the Canobick Mouth of the River Nilus] where was in after-ages a vaſt number of the Jews, where they had many Synagogues, with a Cathedral, in which were ſeventy Stalls (as they report) and afterward a Temple built by Onias. Its probable, that Joſeph and Mary came hither with our Saviour. *v.*I. p 205. *v.*II. *p.*111,681

Alſadamus, A Hill, under which lived the Trachonite-Arabians. Joſeph. *v.*II. *p.*364

Amalek, near the Wilderneſs of Zin, 'twixt Edom and Egypt. *v.*I. *p.*27, 63.

Amanah. Vid. Hor and Kirmion.

Ammaus. Vid. Chamath.

Ammon, A Country Eaſt of Jordan, the chief City of which was Rabbah. *v.*I. *p.*62,63.

Amorites Mountain, Deut. 1. 19,20. took its beginning from Kadeſh-Barnea, the Southern Border of the Land of Iſrael, and ran forward into Judea beyond Hebron, the name only changed into The Hill-Country of Judea. So much miſtaken are Adricomius and others, that bring it almoſt from the Red Sea. *v.*II. *p.*11,12

Ampeloeſſa, A City near to Libanus, and a Decapolitan. Plin. *v.*I. *p.*314

Anthedon, A Town betwixt Rhinocorura and Gaza, Plin. *v.*II. *p.*10

Anti-Libanus. Vid. Libanus.

Antioch. There are two Cities of that name; the one in Piſidia, a Province of the Leſſer Aſia, otherwiſe called Cæſarea; the other in Syria, once the Head of the Syro-Grecian Empire, afterward the Seat of the Roman Governor. There the Diſciples of Chriſt were firſt call'd Chriſtians. Of old it was called Hamath, but afterward Antioch, from Antiochus, as bloody a Perſecutor of the Church and Truth, as ever Iſrael had Vol. I. *Pag.*286. v. II. *p.*688

Antipatris, *Act.*23.31. is called by ſome Capharſalama, & by Joſephus, Capharzaba; but when rebuilt by Herod, was named Antipatris, in memory of his Father Antipater. It was ſituated in the beſt Plain of his Kingdom, rich in Springs and Woods, and was from Joppa 150 Furlongs, that is, eighteen miles, in the way from Jeruſalem to the Weſt part of Galilee, and far from the place that is uſually aſſigned to it in the Maps, which is in the middle of Samaria. The Jews oppoſe Antipatris and Gebath, that is, Eaſt and Weſt, as the Sacred Writings do Dan and Beerſheba, North and South. Ptolomy makes it to be Long. 66. 20. Lat. 32. 0. *v.*I. *p.*55, 56. *v.*II. *p.*372

Apamia. There were, ſay the Jews, two Apamia's; one the Upper, and another the Lower. In one were Jews of pure Blood, in the other, not: And between them was the ſpace of 4000 Paces. Apamia (ſaith Pliny) was in Cœlo-Syria, and had the River Marſyas running betwixt. It was otherwiſe called Sepham, and was the utmoſt Coaſt of the Land of Iſrael, North and North-Eaſt. *v.*II. *p.*328,496,505,800

Apamia Sea, Is ſaid by the Jews to be one of the ſeven Seas that compaſs the Land of Iſrael, and which the Talmudiſts ſay, is the Sea of Chamats, making Chamats and Apamia convertible, but that is a miſtake. Vid. Chamats. *v.*II. *p.*5,63,328

Apheck, [There are three Cities of that name in Scripture; one in the Tribe of Aſer, *Joſh.*19.30. the other in Juda, 1 Sam. 4. 1, &c. the third in Syria, 1 Kings 20. 30.] the Wall of which laſt fell upon the Syrians, and killed 27000. *v.*I. *p.*83

Appii Forum, A place in Italy about 50 miles from Rome, and in the way thence to Rhegium. *v.*I. *p.*322

Ar, A City in Moab, ſituated upon the River Arnon. *v.*I. *p.*36

Arabia, [is of large extent, reaching from Euphrates to Egypt, and is divided into three parts; viz. Arabia Deſerta, Petræa and Fœlix.] Arabia Deſerta is full Eaſt of Judea, and the Inhabitants thereof are in Scripture conſtantly called, Men of the Eaſt, Gen. 25. 6. Judg. 6. 3, &c. [Petræa, ſo called from the City Petra, or the rockineſs of it] reaches from thence to Egypt, dividing Judea from Egypt, ſaith Pliny [Fœlix is contained betwixt the Perſian Gulph and the Red Sea] and is divided from Petræa by the Black Mountains. Ptol. *v.*I. *p.*437. *v.*II. p. 9,352,501 Arad. Vid. Aſcalon.

Aram. Vid. Syria.

Ararat, [Mountains in Armenia. Hieron.] upon one of which the Ark reſted. *v.*I. *p.*8

Arbel, A City of Galilee, betwixt Zipporis and Tiberias. It is alſo the name of a Valley, perhaps, adjoyning thereunto. Joſeph. *v.*II. *p.*77,80

Arca, A Town in the Midland Phœnicia, that gave name to a Tetrarchy (ſaith Pliny) at Libanus. Borcard ſaith, That the ſtrong Hold Arachus, built by Arachæus Son of Canaan, is on (or rather between) the Borders of Libanus, and Anti-Libanus. From hence were the People called Arkites. *v.*II. *p.*312,314,328

Argob. Vid. Trachone.

Arimathea. Vid. Ramah.

Arnon, Was a River (or ſeveral Streams) that divided the Land of Iſrael from Moab. It was a Watry Country. *v.*I. *p.*36. *v.*II. *p.*501

Arvadites, A People in the North part of Canaan, ſeated in Arad and Antarad; call'd by Jonathan, Lutaſites, perhaps from Latavin a place in Phœnicia, mentioned in the Notitia. *v.*II. *p.*328

Arumah, A City, of which there is frequent mention in the Talmudical Writers, diſtant from Caphar Shichin Four Four thousand Cubits, and not far from Caphar Hananiah. *Vol.*II. Pag. 58.

Alamon, A Mountain in the middle of Galilee, over against Sippor. Joseph. *v.*II. *p.*76

Ascalon. Gerar, or Arad, stood in the Country that was from thence called Gerarika, and was in the Tribe of Judah (though possess'd by the Philistines.) It was from Jerusalem 520 Furlongs, or 65 Miles; from Azotus 24 or 25 Miles; from Gaza ten (saith Mr. Sandys) or as Antoninus, 16 Miles; from the River of Egypt 54 Miles; from Elcutheropolis 24 Miles; from Jamnia 20 Miles. It was a place, say the Jews, much given to poysoning, and South from thence was accounted Ethnick Land. Vol. I. Pag. 44. V. II. P. 4, 14, 322 681. There was also another Ascalon, called The New, which was built by Ezra, and was 4 Parsæ, or 16 Miles from the Old, and sixteen nearer Jerusalem than the Old, saith Benjam. Tudelensis. *v.*II. *p.*14,322

Asher Tribe, was in Galilee, and did extend it self from North to South, even from Carmel to Sidon and Lebanon, and lay betwixt Nephtali (running along with it in length) and the Coasts of Tyre and Sydon, or the Great Sea. It abounded in Corn and Metallick Mines. *v.*I. *p.*21, 431. *v.*II. *p.*21,59,60,88

Ashteroth-Karnaim, (called in the Samaritan Copy Aphinith Karnaiah) was in the Kingdom of Basban, the larger Region being called Astaroth, and Karnaim is added in a distinguishing sence, Deut. 1. 4. The Jews say, Ashtaroth Karnaim were two great Mountains, with a Vally between; by reason of the height of which, the Sun never shone upon the Vally. v. II. *p.*363

Assyria, [divided from Mesopotamia by the River Tigris] is improperly made the first of the four Monarchies. v. I. p. 108,114

Athens, [the Metropolis of Attica] where was a famous University, a Synagogue of the Jews, and the great Court of Areopagus. v. I. p. 295

Athone, in Joseph. A City belonging to Aretas the Arabian King, and seems to be the same with Thoana in Ptolomy, which he placeth in Long. 67, 30. Lat. 30,30. *v.*II. *p.*502

Atolin, or Hatolin, famous in the Gemarists for the best Wine. v. II. *p.*50

Avites Region, called in Scripture *Hazerim, Deut.*2. 23. and sometimes Shur, and in the Eastern Interpreters Raphia: This Country lay betwixt the River of Egypt and *Gaza,*44 Miles,& was part of *New Idumea. v.*II.*p.*4,292

Aulon, A City of Moab. Joseph. v. II. *p.*316

Auranitis, or Abrantis, is in the extreme Parts of the Land North, and is so called from the Mountain Hauran there situated also. vid. Hauran. II. 361,365,366

Azem, A Town whose Houses were in Judah, but the Fields in Dan. v. II. *p*42

Azotus, or Ashdod, [was taken from Judah and given to Dan. Bonfrer.] It was 270 Furlongs, or 34 Miles from Gaza, 24 Miles from Ascalon, and two Miles from Jamnia: Probably the Language there spoke was Arabick. *v.*I. *p.*108. *v.*II. *p.*14,504,681.

B.

Baale. Vid. Kiriath Jearim.

Baal-Shalishah, 1 Sam. 9. 4. The Targum reads it, The Land of the South, the reason of which is given by the Gemarists, because there was no Country throughout the Land of Israel, where the Fruits of the Earth were so forward as in Baal-Shalishah. Now such a Country they call Southern Fields. It was not far from Mount Tabor. Vol. II. Pag. 498

Babylon, or Babel, so called from the Confusion of Tongues. Its also called, The Desert of the Sea, Isa.21.1. and in the Samaritan Version Lilak. Its in Scripture said to lye North of Canaan, and was situated on Euphrates. *V.*II. Pag 9, 112, 115

Babylon was also, say the Jews, the name of a Region that extended it self from the River Azek, or perhaps Azochis in Pliny, to the River Jurin, or Jorin, perhaps Oenana, in Amm. Marcellinus, and above Digleth (or Tigris) unto Bagdaat and Avana, and the lower Apamea, and unto Aera Tulbankana (or Thilbelene, which Ptol. placeth, Long. 78, 30. Lat. 35. 30) Indeed, by Babylon the Jews understand all those Countries unto which the Babylonian Captivity was carried, not only Chaldea, but Mesopotamia also and Assyria, and do say of them, Whosoever dwells in Babylon, is as though he dwelt in the Land of Israel, and is reputed as clean. There, and in Egypt, was in after-times the greatest number of Jews, and it had of them three famous Academies, viz. Nahardea, Sorah, and Pombeditha. *v.*I. *p.*874. *v.*II. *p.*365,505, 681,798,800,874

Bahurim, called also Alemeth and Almon (both Bahurim and Alemeth, found as much as young Men) was a Levitical Town in the Tribe of Benjamin, and close by Jordan. *v.*I. *p.*66. *v.*II.p. 42

Bambyce, called also Hierapolis, and by the Syrians, Magog, in the Tetrarchy of the Nazarins in Cœlo-Syria. Plin. v. II. p. 496

Bamoth-baal, A City in the Plain of *Perea. v.*II. *p.*81

Barchaim, A place famous for Wheat near Jerusalem, say the Jews. v. II. *p.*50

Basan, Was first inhabited by the Rephaim, and afterward was the Kingdom of Og. The name was afterward changed into Batanea (the Syrians changing S into T.) It formerly contained Gamalis, Gaulonis, Batanea and Trachonitis; but afterward, it was more especially applied to the South part of it, and so it lay betwixt Galilee West, and Trachonitis East, extending it self, in length from South toward the North. *v.*II. *p.*363 364

Basan-hill, Seated among pleasant Fields. *v.*II. *p.*536

Beer, or the Well, North of the River Arnon, where the Seventy Elders of the Sanhedrin, by Moses appointment, brought forth Waters by the stroke of their Staves, Numb. 21. 16, v. I. p. 30

Beeroth, of Benejaakan, the 28 Mansion of the Children of Israel in the Wilderness. v. I. *p.*38

Beeroth, A City in Benjamin, Joseph. Josh. 18.25. probably the Beere mentioned by Mr. Boddulph (and not Beersheba as was reported to him) ten Miles from Jerusalem, and said to be the place where Christs Parents miss'd him in their Journey, Luke 2.34. *v.*II. p. 537

Beersheba, [or the Well of the Oath, Gen.21.31. was the utmost point of the Land South; from whence the Phrase, From Dan to Beersheba: It was first given to Judah, Joshua 15. 28. and afterward to Simeon, Joshua 19.2. and was twenty Miles from Hebron South. Hieron. Bonfrer.] There Abraham lived, consecrated a Grove, and had an Oracle. Its call'd in the Notitia, Berosaba, where was a Roman Garrison, that had in it the Dalmatian Horse of *Illyria. v.*I. *p.*13,14. *v.*II. *p.*4,294

Beersabee, A Fortified Town in the Nether Galilee. Joseph. *v.*II. *p.*57

Bekin, A Place between Jamnia and Lydda, say the Jews. *v.*II. p. 17, 85

Belatah, A Village, the distance of a Sabbath days journey (or 2000 paces) from Sechem, and where Joseph was buried, say the Jews. *v.*II. *p.*668

Belus, A very small River, called also Pagida, that flows out of the Lake Cendevia, saith Pliny, and runs into the Sea (not two Miles as the English, but) two Furlongs from Ptolemais, saith Joseph. *v.*II. *p.*59, 60.

Benjamin Tribe, was in length from the River Jordan to the Sea, and in breadth from Jerusalem to Bethel. Its Land was of the same nature with that of Judah, and had its Mountainous part, its Plain and Vale, not only towards Lydda, and the Great Sea, but towards Jericho and Jordan. *v.*II. *p.*10,20

Benebarak, A Place where sat a Council of the Jews and and Akba sometime liv'd. Vol. II. Pag. 85

Berœa, A Town in Macedonia [situated on the River Haliacmon.] There is also a City in Syria of that name, far North of Damascus. v. I. p. 294. v. II. p. 104

Berytus, [A City betwixt Byblus and Sidon, and almost equally distant from both] where Agrippa built a Theatre, and Amphitheatre, Baths, Porches, and such like Magnificences. v. I. p. 889

Bethany, Call'd by the Rabbins Beth-Hene, fifteen Furlongs from Jerusalem. It took its name from a Tract of Ground so called, which reach'd within eight Furlongs of Jerusalem, and had its name Beth-Hene, or the place of Dates from Athene, which signifies the Dates of Palm-Trees, not come to ripeness; of which many were growing there. Vol. 2. Pag. 37, 40, 304. There was a Lavatory, or a Pool and Collection of Waters, where the People were wont to purifie themselves. Travellers speak of a Cittern near the Town of Bethany, near which in a Field is shewn the place where Martha met our Lord. v. II. p. 305

Bethabara, John 1.28. where John first Baptized, John 10. 40. It is by some read Bethamarah, and Bethania either as put for Batanæa, according to the Syriack Idiom for Batanæa.) It was called Bethabarah, because (as the word signifies) it was a place of Passage, or because opposite to Bethbarah (a place on the other side Jordan.) It was out of the Precincts of Judea in the Scythopolitan Country (where the Jews dwelt amongst the Syro-Græcians) over against Galilee, and was a Water distinct from Jordan, and removed somewhat from it, and above the Passage from Jericho. v. I. p. 513, 527, &c. 578, 582. v. II. p. 478, 492, 494

Bethbarah, Judg. 7. 24. oppolite to Bethabarah, near to Mount Ephraim, and near unto which were the Waters that the Ephraimites kept against the Midianites to stop their Passage. v. II. p. 494

Betharabah, A City in the Wilderness of Judah, Josh. 15. 61. v. II. p. 499

Bethaven in Benjamin, Josh. 7. 2. It was near unto Ai, and gave name to a Wilderness adjoyning thereunto, Josh 18 12. v. II. p. 20

Beth-Baltis, A Hill in the utmost part of the Land of Israel (taken in the largest sence) and not far from the Bank of Euphrates West, say the Jews, where they lifted up flaming Torches to give notice of the New Year to them of the Captivity. v. II. p. 364 365

Beth-baal-meon, A City in the Plain of Perœa. II. 81

Beth-Chaduda, A place three Miles from Jerusalem, at the first entrance into the Desert, toward Beth-horon. v. II. p. 50

Beth-Cerem, Nehem. 3.14. Out of the Valley of that name were fetched the Stones for the Altar, &c. say the Jews v. II. p. 51

Bethel, was in the Land of Benjamin, and the utmost bound of it toward Ephraim; it was seated in a Mountainous Country, oppolite to Jerusalem, in a right Line North and South (and not as the Maps, remote and aslope.) It was afterward call'd Bethaven by way of reproach (as Jerusalem is called Sodom) because of Jeroboams Calves that were placed there. v. II. p. 20, 514

Beth Haran, A City in the Valley of Perœa. v. II. p. 81

Beth Horon, There were two Places of that name under the Old Testament, the Upper (which was in Ephraim, Joh. 16. 5.) and the Nether [Josh. 18. 13. in Benjamin, or the extreme part South of Ephraim. Bonfrer.] This last is call'd by Josephus, Bethoro (and is the only Bethoron under the second Temple) and according to him, stood about an hundred furlongs, or twelve miles and an half from Jerusalem, upon the publick way thence to Cæsarea: At which place the Passage was very rocky and narrow. Here the Canaanitish Army perished, Josh. 10. not by Hail but Stones, which lasted unto following Ages. Here also (say the Jews) the Army of Sennacherib fell. v. II. p. 19, 372

Beth Jeraeh, A Castle near the Lake of Genesareth, and opposite to Sinnabris. Vol. II. Pag. 65

Beth-Jeshimoth, A place East of Jordan, near which the Israelites encamped, and twelve miles from Abelshittim. v. II. p. 46

Bethlehem, or Ephratah, Gen. 35. 19. Ruth 4. 11. was in the Tribe of Judah, 35 Furlongs, or (about four Miles and half) South from Jerusalem. It was called Bethleem of Judea, to distinguish it from a Town of that name in Zebulun, Josh. 19. 15 We read not any thing in the Jews concerning this City, besides what is produced out of the old Testament; this only excepted, that the Jerusalem Gemarists confess, that the Messias was born there before their times. Vol. I. Pag. 431, 440 v. II. p. 48

Beth-Maon, A Town in Asher near Gush-Halab, at the ascents of which was a way so narrow, that two could not walk abreast together, for there was a deep Vale on each side. v. II. p. 515

Beth-meon, or Beth-mein, called by Josephus Beth-maus, was distant from Tiberias four Furlongs. (The Maps place it too remote from thence.) v. II. p. 71

Beth-Nimrah, A City in the Vale of Perœa, famous for Waters, called the Waters of Nimrin, Isa. 15. 6. Josephus saith, There spring out near this place certain Fountains of hot Water. v. II. p. 81, 501

Beth-phage, So called from the word Phagi, which denotes Green Figs (a Fruit that place was famous for) it was not a Town far upon Olivet (as the Maps generally do shew) but a Tract, which beginning at the Foot of Mount Olivet, ran forward for 2000 paces (where it joyned to that of Bethany) and being so near Jerusalem, gave the name of Bethphage, to the uttermost part or street of it, within the Wall, and was accounted as Jerusalem it self in respect of all Priviledges. v I. p. 252 v. II. p. 36, 37, 304

Beth-Rimmah, A place in the Hilly-Country, probably of Ephraim, famous for excellent Wine. v .II. p. 50

Beth-saida, signifies the place of Hunting, and it seemeth to be so called, because it stood in a place where was store of Deer, as Gen. 49. 21. Nephthali shall abound in Venison: And Bethsaida stood either in or very near that Tribe. Our Author at first thought it to be on that side the Lake of Genesareth: But in his after-writings he placeth it East of the Lake of Genesareth, in Batanea and the lower Gaulanitis, at the beginning of the Mountainous Country and North of Hippo. Philip rebuilt it, and gave it the name Julia, in honor to the Emperors Daughter. v. I. p. 35, 533. v. II. p. 83, 197, 309

Bethsaida-wilderness, A little North of Bethsaida, and near a Creek of the Sea of Gennesareth. v. II. p. 197

Beth-shaaraim, There the Sanhedrim sat before it removed to Tsippor. Here was buried Rabbi Judah, the Holy (say the Jews) though he taught at Tsippor. v. II. p. 74, 249

Bethshan, Of this there is frequent mention in Scripture, Josh. 17. 11. Judg. 1. 27. It was by the Heathens called sometime Nysa, from Bacchus's Nurse that was buried there (saith Pliny) and Scythopolis, because the Scythians planted there, or perhaps from Succoth. It was in the Lot of Manasseh, and the furthest bounds of it Northward. Jud. 1. 27. It was situated below the Lake of Genesareth toward the Dead Sea, half a League from Jordan, near to Zartanah, 1 King. 4. 12. and almost over against Succoth. And yet our Author elsewhere placeth Tiberias there, and saith, that Bethshan was 120 Furlongs, or 15 Miles from Tiberias, the whole Lake belongs, or 15 Miles from Tiberias, the whole Lake being between them (which is an hundred Furlongs in length) and there its placed in the Map. [Its said, 2 Macab. 12 29. to be 600 Furlongs, or 75 Miles from Jerusalem.] This was a noble City of the Syro-Græcians, and one of Decapolis, inhabited in later times by Gentiles for the most part. It was placed at the entrance into a great Valley or Plain, and so delightful, that the Jews say, If Paradise be in the Land of Israel, Beth-shean is the Gate of it. Hereabout was a common passage over ver Jordan, from Manaſſeh, Samaria, and the lower Galilee to Peræa. Scythopolis is alſo taken for the whole Juriſdiction belonging to that City, which was not only within the Confines of Manaſſeh, but extended it ſelf beyond Jordan, even to Peræa, ſo that part of the Country was on this ſide, and part on that. Vol. II. Pag. 56, 68,82,314,315,493

Beth-themeſh, A City in the Tribe of Iſſachar, and toward the utmoſt coaſt North. Joſh. 19. 22. [There were two others of that name; the one in Juda, 2 Kings 14. 11. the other in Nephtali, Joſh. 19. 38.] v. II. p. 498

Bezer, In the Tribe of Reuben, Joſh. 20. 8. v. II. p. 81

Biram, A great Fountain, and one of the three that remained after the Deluge, ſay the Jews. v. II. p. 69

Biram. Vid. Beth-Baltin.

Bitter, or Betar, called Beth-Tar, or, The houſe of Spies. It may be queſtioned whether it be the Betaris in Antoninus (between Cæſarea and Dioſopolis on the Sea-coaſt) or Betaris in Joſephus, which he placeth in the South of Judæa. Euſebius calls it Bethcka, and ſaith it was not far from Jeruſalem, which Baronius boldly Tranſlateth Bethlehem. Bitter is placed by the Jews in the Valley Jadaim, and ſome of them ſay it was a mile, others forty miles from the Sea. It is notorious amongſt them for the vaſt deſtruction of the Jews there, 52 or 55 years after the deſtruction of the Temple, in the Inſurrection of Ben-Coziba or Ben-Cozba. v. I. p. 366,367, 349 v. II. p. 48,49,81,323

Bochim, A place near Bethel, and ſo called, becauſe the people wept there. Judg. 2. 1. v. I. p. 45

Boſor, or Boſorra, A ſtrong City in Gilead, 1 Mac. 5. 26, 27. the Bound of Trachonitis, in the Confines of Peræa. v. II. p. 81,82, 364

Bozra in Edom, Iſa. 63. 1. v. II. p. 82, 83.

C.

Cadeſh-Barnea, was before called Rithmah, Numb. 33. 18. compared with Numb. 12. 16. and 13. 26. perhaps from the Juniper-Trees that grew there, as 1 Kings 19. 4. but afterward it was named Cadeſh, becauſe the Lord was there Sanctified upon the people that murmured upon the return of the Spies, Num. 13. 26. & 20. 13. & 32. 8. Deut. 3. 19. And Barnea, or The wandring Son, becauſe here was the Decree made of their long wandring in the Wilderneſs, by many Stations till they came hither (and not to another Cadeſh, as ſome would have it) again ſome 37 or 38 years after. It was alſo called Meribah, Numb. 28. 13. Ezek. 47. 19, &c. It was called by the Rabbins Rekam, and by the Arabians Cawatha, from Kawa, which ſignifies an Outcry: And was ſituated in the deſert of Zin and Paran, Numb. 12. 16. and 20. 1. in the very Southern Bounds of the Land, Numb. 34. 4. and near unto Edom, Numb. 20. 16. v. I. p. 35,38. v. II. p. 8,9,325

Cadmonites, originally Canaanites, and one of the ten (though not of the ſeven) Nations the Jews ſay they are to poſſeſs: So called perhaps from Cadman, a Perſon of Renown in the Family, if not from their Antiquity, or rather from their habitation Eaſtward, which was about thoſe parts that afterward belonged to the Moabites and Ammonites. v. II. p. 329

Cæſarea-Paleſtinæ, ſo named by Herod in honor of Cæſar Auguſtus. It was otherwiſe called, The Tower of Strato, and perhaps was the Tower Sid in the Talmud. It was ſituated betwixt Doron and Joppa, and was from Jeruſalem 600 Furlongs, or 75 Miles; from Sycaminum 20 Miles; from Dioſpolis 40 Miles; from Jamnia 52 Miles. Here the Roman Proconſul reſided, and it was inhabited by Jews (who had ſeveral Schools there) Heathens, and Samaritans. It was called Ekron by the Jews, by way of reproach. v. II. p. 3,54,55, 322

Cæſarea Philippi, Was firſt call'd Laiſh or Leſhem, and then Dan (when ſubdued by the Danites, Judg. 18.29.) and by the Arabick Interpreter Hazor, Joſh. 11. 1. (for of this Cæſarea is it to be underſtood, and not (as our Author ſaith he formerly thought, Vol. II. pag. 54.) of Cæſarea Strat.) It was ſituated at the Springs of Jordan the Iſs, not far from Lebanon, within the Juriſdiction of Tyre and Sidon, in the Midland-Phœnicia, and was a Decapolitan City. Joſephus ſaith, it was alſo called Panias, from the place adjoyning call'd by that name, to which perhaps the name Remphan may relate. Acts 7. 43. becauſe of the Idolatry or Calf that continued longer here than at Bethel. Euſebius ſaith, here was to be ſeen the Statue of the Woman cured by Chriſt of the Bloody Iſſue, but that Cure was rather wrought at Capernaum. Vol. II. Pag. 63, 172,312,317,673.

Cain, There is a City Cain, placed in the Maps not far from Carmel; and in the Dutch Map of Doet, with the Picture of one Man ſhooting another, with this Inſcription, Cain was ſhot by Lamech, Gen. 4. a place obſcure by the various Opinions of Interpreters, but Doet hath choſen the worſt of all. v. II. p. 330

Callirhoe, Vid. Laſha.

Cana, There were ſeveral Towns of this name. 1. In Aſher, Joſh. 19. 28. call'd by St. Hierome, Cana the Great, and may be call'd Cana of the Zidonians. 2.) In the North part of the Lower Galilee, and dividing it from the Upper: This ſeems to be the ſame with Caphar-Hananiah. This our Author once thought to be the Cana, Joh. 2. 1. But laſt of all, he ſuppoſed it to be 3. Cana the Leſs, or of Galilee, to diſtinguiſh it from the other, which was ſituated where Jordan flows into the Lake of Geneſareth, over againſt Julias Betharampta, and was (ſaith Joſephus) a Nights Journey from Tiberias, and as far from Capernaum as the length of the Lake. This was the abode of Nathaneel, and of Simon, who probably was from hence called the Canaanite, 4. in the Tribe of Ephraim, Joſh. 16. 8. & 17. 9. which was Cana of Ephraim. v. I. p. 541,742. v. II. p. 81,309,497,498,624 Vid. Chorazin.

Canaanites. The Scripture doth not call all the Sons of Canaan by that name, as the Arvadites, &c. that inhabited Phœnicia, and a great part of Syria, but where their Coaſts end toward the South, there the Canaanites began, and they are ſometimes reckoned as a particular Nation, ſometimes as including all the ſeven, Gen. 10. 18, 19. Deut. 7. 1, &c. When particular, it reſpects that part of the Northern part of Canaan, which Canaan himſelf, with his firſt-born Sons, Zidon and Heth inhabited. Hence Jabin King of Hazor is called King of Canaan, Judg. 4. 2. that is, of the Northern Coaſt of the Land of Canaan. But when its a general name, it includes all from Sidon to Gerar and Gaza, Gen. 10. 19. v. II. p. 202, 328

Canatha, accounted a Decapolitan City by Pliny. v. I. p. 643

Capernaum, Perhaps the Capharnome of Joſephus. Its uncertain whether the name be derived from נעים or נחום; the former denotes pleaſantneſs, the later comfort. The Oriental Interpreters write it the later way, Caphar Nachum. It was ſituated near to the Sea of Geneſareth, in the Country of Geneſaritis, Matth. 14, 34, &c. and whereabouts the Tribes of Zabulon and Nephtali met, Matth. 4. 3. between Tarichea and Tiberias, and from the later about two miles. This was the Town of Chriſts ſuppoſed Father Joſeph, and where he himſelf dwelt. Near to it was a Fountain of the ſame name, and the Cuſtom-houſe where they gathered a Tribute of thoſe that paſſed over, and where Matthew was: And the Mountain where Chriſt choſe the twelve, made his Sermon, Matth. 5. and its likely where he met his Diſciples after his Reſurrection, Vol. I Harm. N.T.SS. 3. & 272. pag. 455. v. II. p. 72,197,308,496,624

There was another Capernaum, mentioned by Gul. Tyrius, that lay upon the Coaſt of the Mediterranean Sea, not far from Tyre. v. II. p. 496

Caphar Achum, not far without Jeruſalem. v. II. p. 50

Caphar Hanamah, or Caphar Homan, was in the uppermoſt Border that divided the Upper and Lower Galilee, and 16 miles from Zippor, and where the plenty of Sycamines began. It may ſeem to be the ſame with Bethſhan, or rather Cana of Galilee, it agreeing with it in its ſituation. Vol. II. Pag. 56, 58, 497

Caphar Lodim, A Village in the Vale of Saron, between Lydda and the Sea; and was ſo called, becauſe ſome people of Lydda were always there. It was reckoned without the Land. *v.*II. *p.*18

Caphar Shichin was 4000 Cubits diſtant from Arumah, and not far from Caphar Hananiah. There was a City Shichin deſtroyed for Magical Arts. *v.*II.*p.*51,58,76

Caphar Sigana, in a Valley next to Beth-Rimmah, &c. noted for the beſt Wine. v. II. p. 50

Caphar Uthni, from Caphar Hananiah 32 miles, from Zippor 16 miles. v. II. p. 58

Cappadocians, are thoſe chiefly who are bounded Southward with that part of Cilicia that is called Taurus, Eaſtward by Armenia and Colchis, and other interjacent Countries, ſaith Strabo. The Greek Interpreters render Caphtorim by Καππάδοκες, Cappadocians. v. II. p. 312, 693

Carchemiſh by Euphrates, 2 Chron. 35. 20. *v.*I. *p.*117

Caria, A Province of Aſia the Leſs, nearer Greece than Lycaonia. *v.*II. p. 693

Carmel, rather a Mountainous Tract than one Mountain, containing almoſt the whole breadth of the Land of Iſſachar, and part of Zabulon, but had one top more eminent than the reſt, which had a Town on it called Ecbatane, and where probably was the Oracle Veſpaſian conſulted. The Foot of it was waſhed by the Sea. v. II. p.'59

Caſius Mountain, lies nearer Peluſium than the Eruption of Sirbon doth (and not as the Maps, farther from it.) Its from Peluſium 40 miles, from Oſtracene 26 miles, from Sirbon 28 miles. From hence the Country near it was called Caſiotis, which was the Country of the Amalekites. v. II. *p.*9,291

Celo-Syria, or Cælo-Syria, had 17 Tetrarchies, ſaith Pliny. [It was ſo call'd, becauſe it was placed betwixt the Mountains of Libanus and Anti-Libanus, for that was properly Cælo-Syria, ſaith Strabo: Others, as Ptolomy, extend it much farther, vid. Bonfrer.] v. I. p. 453

Cendevia, flows at the Root of Carmel, and out of that the River Belus. So Pliny. v. II. p. 59

Chabor, 2 King. 17. 6. whither the ten Tribes were carried. There is a River Chaborus in Meſopotamia. v. II. *p.*800

Chabul, was a Country in the Northern part of Galilee, where the twenty Cities were that Solomon gave to Hiram King of Tyre, 1 Kings 9. 11. Chabul (ſay the Talmudiſts) ſignifies a Land that bears not fruit, or that is dirty, and in the Phœnician Tongue, that which pleaſeth not. The 70 Interpreters render it ὅριον the bound or coaſt, taking the modern Name inſtead of the old. It contained Cities of a mixed Juriſdiction, viz. forbidden, as Nebo, &c. permitted (that is, as to Tith) as Iſur, Iſezar, &c. v. II. p. 311,312,313

Chabul, A City deſtroyed for diſcord, ſay the Jews. v. II. p. 51

Chakrah, A fortified Town which belonged to Guſh, and was near to Sipporis. v. II. p. 75

Chalcis, A City or Garriſon built on an Hill in the Streights of Libanus and Anti-Libanus. *v.*II. *p.*365. It was alſo the name of a Kingdom thereabouts in Syria, which Agrippa ſucceeded his Brother-in-Law-Uncle. Herod, in (for ſuch Relations did that Inceſtuous Family find out) v. I. p. 320

Chaldea was reckoned to Meſopotamia. There be that ſuppoſe the Chaſdim, or Chaldeans, were ſo called from the laſt Letters of Arphaxad's name, כשד. v. I. *p.*13 780

Chammath, in Joſephus Ammaus, ſo called by reaſon of the Chammi, or warm Baths; it was ſo near to Tiberias (within a mile) that it was almoſt one City with it, and ſo near to the Country of Gadara, that thence it took its name of Chammath of Gadara. It was on both ſides Jordan; one part upon the Bank of Nephtali, or Tiberias; another, on that of Gadara, the Bridge lying between. Vol. II. Pag. 68,197,308,492

Chammath pellæ. Vid. Laſha.

Chamathi. Vid. Hamath.

Canothah. Canatha, The Upper and Lower, beyond Jordan in the Borders. v. II. p. 84,314

Chaphenatha, 1 Mac. 12. 37. It may be thought to be ſome part of the Out-skirts of Jeruſalem toward the Eaſt, and ſo called from the Dates growing there. For Chaphannioth is frequently uſed among the Talmudiſts for the Dates of Palm-Trees that never come to their full maturity. v. II. p. 516

Cherethims, A Philiſtine Nation, which by the Greek Interpreters is rendred Κρῆτες, Creets, Ezek.25. 16, &c. and probably the Creets, Acts 2. 11. were ſuch, becauſe St. Luke joyns them with Arabians. v. II. p. 504

Cherith, A Brook where Elijah was concealed, 1 Kings 17. 3. It was Weſt of Jordan, perhaps near Bethſhan. v. II. p. 318

Chezib and Achzib, which at laſt paſſed into Ecdippa, according to the manner of the Syrian Dialect, which commonly changeth Zain into Daleth; it was North of Acon, and not far from the Scalæ Tyriorum. This divided the clean of the Land from unclean. v. II. p. 59,61

Chippar, within twelve miles of Zippor. v. II. p. 515

Chorazin, Matth. 11.21. Chorazhin denotes Woody places, hence we ſuppoſe this place ſo called, becauſe ſo Seated: And ſuch Places the Land of Nephtali was famous for above the other Tribes, to which, Gen. 49. 21. refers, Nephthali is a Hind let looſe, i. e. ſhall abound in Veniſon. So that its probable it was in Galilee; and what if Cana, and ſome ſmall Country adjacent, be concluded to be it? v. II. p. 84

Cilicium, A City in Moab. v. II. p. 316

Corinth, at firſt called Ephyra, ſtood in an Iſthmus of five miles, parting the Ægean and Ionian Seas, and joyning Greece and Peloponeſus, having in the Ægean the Port Lechæ or Jochæum (which lay under the City) from whence they Sailed for Italy; and in the Ionian the Port Cenchreæ, diſtant from the City 70 Furlongs. The City was in compaſs 40 Furlongs. v. I. p. 295. v. II. *p.*737

Crete, An Iſland in the Mediterranean Sea, of ſmall compaſs, but the Language of it reached all over Greece. v. I. p. 752

Cuſh, or Æthiopia, is ſometimes taken for Arabia; ſo Moſes's Wife is call'd a Cuſhite, Num. 12. 1. and Zerah the Arabian alſo, 2 Chron. 14. for Arabia was the Land of Cuſh. And ſometimes for Æthiopia in Africk, South of Egypt, whence the Eunuch came, Acts 8. 27. A name infamous amongſt the Jews, *Pſal.*7. Title. *v.*I. *p.*25, 34, 108, 789.*v.*II. p. 503

Cuthites, firſt came from Cutha to Samaria, 2 Kings 17. 24. By this name the Jews called all the Samaritans, by way of reproach (probably thereby reproaching them with the odious name of Cuſhites) In their after-writings they apply this name to Chriſtians. v. II. p. 496, 503

Cyprus, An Iſland in the Mediterranean Sea, exceeding full of Jews, and where they in an Inſurrection having killed 200 thouſand people, were afterward not ſuffered to come. It was the native Country of Barnabas. v. I. p. 289

Cyrene, A Country in Africa, near Lybia; and alſo a City. Strabo deſcribes the Country, Lib. 17. and Pliny the City, l. 5. c. 5. v. II. p. 663.

Dalma-

D.

Dalmanutha may be ſo called, as the place of widowhood, or from Zalmon (Iſaddi being changed into Daleth after the manner of the Syrians and Arabians) It was a little Town within the bounds of Magdala. Vol. II. Page 307. 309

Damaſcus, the chief City in Syria, and was watered by the Rivers Chryſoroas, Abana, &c. It was in the days of Abraham, but not victorious till the time of David. It was afterward the head of Syria, and at laſt captivated by the Aſſyrian. In aftertimes it had many Jews in it: And was accounted by Pliny a Decapolitan City. v. I. p. 113.283,645

Dan Tribe, was ſituated on the ſhore of the Mediterranean Sea, and afterward ſent a Colony to Laiſh. In this Tribe publick Idolatry began, therefore not named, Revel. 7. v. I. p. 45

Dan City. V. Cæſarea.

Daphne, a Region in the Northern part near Lebanon, out of which Jordan ariſeth. V. Riblah. *v.*II. p. 62

Debir, a City in Judah, called at the firſt Kiriath-Sepher. *v.*I. *p.*44

Decapolis, the ten Cities are by Borchardus placed in Galilee, and by Pliny all beyond Jordan in Syria, except Scythopolis. But they ſeem to be ſuch as were within the bounds of the Land, but inhabited by Gentiles. Such were Bethſhan, Gadara, Hippo, Pella, Cæſarea Philippi, and probably Caphar-Iſemach, Beth-Gubrin, and Caphar Carnaim. *v.*I. p. 645. *v.*II. p. 311,314, &c.

Derbe, Act. 14. a City in Lycaonia, and coaſted on Iſauria. *v.*I. p. 291

Dibon-gad, in Moab, and the thirty ninth manſion of the Iſraelites.

Dioſpolis. V. Lydda.

Dimon waters, Iſa. 15. 9. in Moab. Quære whether Dimon be not the ſame with Dibon (Beth and Mem being alternatively uſed) that ſo it may agree more with דם blood. *v.*II. *p.*501

Dor, Doron in the Tribe of Manaſſe, bordering upon Galilee, between Cæſarea and Sycaminum. v. I. p. 54,56 493

Dothan, Gen. 48. in the Tribe of Zabulon, (Vid. Bonfrer.) v. I. p. 19

Dumah, a Country in Arabia. v. I. p. 108

E.

Ebal a Mountain, on which the curſes were read, it touched on Sychem (the Metropolis of Samaria) and was oppoſite to Gerizim. It was a Mountain dry and barren. Vol. II. *p.*52

Edar. Vid. Migdal Eder.

Eden, Its difficult to meet in the Samaritan Verſion with any footſtep of the names of the Rivers of Eden, and the Country which thoſe Rivers run into, except Cophin, which ſeems to agree ſomething with Cophen mentioned by Pliny. v. II. *p.*505

Edom. Vid. Idumæa and Seir.

Eglah Shelishiah, tranſlated Iſa. 15. 5. an Heifer of three years old; but why may it not be the name of a place, and ſo called a third Eglah in reſpect of two others, much of the ſame ſound; or elſe Dutcheſs or Noble Eglah as שלש ſignifies a Duke or Tribune? There is mention of En Eglaim in that Country, Ezek. 47.10. where Eglaim is in the Dual number, and ſeems to intimate there were two Egels, with reſpect to which this of ours may be called a third. The ſound of the word Neela comes pretty near it, which Ptolomy placeth in Arabia Petræa Long. 67. 20. Lat. 30. 15. which was fifteen miles from Zoar. This ſeems to be Agalah in Joſephus. *Vol.*II. p. 502

Egypt River. Vid. Sihor.

Ekron [was the moſt Northern of the five Lordſhips of the Philiſtins, Joſh. 13. 3. and was firſt given to Judah, Joſh. 15. 45. but afterward taken from that and given to Dan, Joſh. 19. 43.] *v.*I. p. 44

Elath, South of Jeruſalem a days journey. Vid. Ailа. *v.*II. p. 320

Elath or Eloth, a Sea-Town in the Country of Edom, on the Red Sea, 2 Kings 14 22. & 16.6. *v.*I. *p.*91,103

Elutheria, Eaſt of Joppa and betwixt that and Lydda; its mentioned in Gul. Tyrius. *v.*II. *p.*372

Eleutheropolis, a City often mentioned in St. Hierom; and from Jeruſalem twenty miles, almoſt in the middle betwixt that and Aſcalon. v. II. p. 293, 322

Eleutherus River is by Ptolomy placed near Antarado, but by Borchardus between Tyre and Sarepta, the mouth of it three Leagues from that, and about two from this. v. II. *p.*369

Elim the fifth Manſion of the Iſraelites after they came out of Egypt. *v.*I.*p.*27

Emaus, afterward called Nicopolis and a Roman Colony, was ſixty furlongs or ſeven miles and an halt Weſt from Jeruſalem, and in the way thence to the Weſt part of Galilee. It might have its name from Ammath a chanel of waters, being famous for ſuch. And perhaps might be the ſame with thoſe of Nephtoa (or Etam) which was alſo Weſt of Jeruſalem. Ptolomy placeth it Long. 65. 45. Lat. 31. 45. which doth not well agree with the account of the Evangeliſt, Luke 24. 13. and Joſephus. I. p. 270. II. p. 42, 371, &c.

Emims, the old Inhabitants of Moab. v. I. p. 12

Enganim or Anem, 1 Chron. 6. 72. Joſh. 21. 29. now Enne ſignifies a Fountain and Gardens, and ſo the pleaſantneſs of the place. It was in the Tribe of Iſachar, a Levitical City twenty two miles from Tabor, ſaith Biddulph, and in the way from Jeruſalem to Galilee. Perhaps the ſame with Naim, by a tranſpoſition of Letters. *v.*II. p. 370, 536

Engeddi, a City in the Wilderneſs of Juda, the ſame with Hazezon Tamar, & not yielding to Jericho for fruitfulneſs in Palms (from whence its name, Tamar ſignifying a Palm). It lay on the South (not on the North as the Maps place it) point of the dead Sea, and not far from it, being the utmoſt bound of the Land. It was in Idumæa the Leſs. Near to it was the Wilderneſs of Engeddi, famous for its ſtrong holds in the time of David. v. I. p. 12. 58, 84. v. II. p. 7. 295, 296, 499

Enon or Ænon, ſignifies a place of Springs, or Waters, which may be the reaſon why the Seventy Interpreters tranſlate Middin, Joſh. 15. 61. by Ænon, as Middin is a place of Waters. Its uncertain where it was, whether in Galilee; or the Wilderneſs of Juda (as Middin was) or in Peræa near Arnon. *v.*I. N.T.SS. 14.478 *v.*II. 499, 500, 501

Epheſus a famous City in the leſſer Aſia, in which was the Temple of Diana, one of the Seven wondrous Fabricks of the World. It was hundreds of years in building at the charge of all Aſia. *v.*I. p. 306, 316

Ephraim Tribe extended it ſelf in length from Jordan to Gezer. *Joſh.*16.3. by the Mediterranean Sea, and in breadth from Bethel, and ends at the Great Plain; ſo Joſephus. *v.*II. p. 493

Ephraim, Hill Country, Jud. 4. 5. was a certain hilly place running out between Judea and the Land of Ephraim. *v.*II. p. 20. 373

Ephraim, a ſmall City, Joh. 11. 54. in the confines of the Tribe of Ephraim, 2 Chron. 13. 19. but in the Tribe of Benjamin, in the Wilderneſs of Bethaven, and near to that of Judea, in or near the way from Jeruſalem to Jericho. It was ſeated in a fruitful Valley, and famous for the beſt flower. v. II. p. 20. 49, 514

Esdrelon. Vid. Great Plain.

Eſſens. Vid. Kenites.

Etam

Etam Fountain, ſay the Jews, is in the way betwixt Hebron and Jeruſalem. But if it be the ſame with Neptoah, Joſh. 15.9. then it lies not South as Hebron, but Weſt. The Waters of this were not conveighed into the City but the Temple, and the overplus of what was uſed there flowed thence into the Valley that lay between the Temple and Jeruſalem, and emptied it ſelf, by the Water-gate into Kidron. *Vol.*II. p. 510

Etham, Wilderneſs, the ſame with Shur, Numb. 33.7,8. *Exod.*15.22. The Read-Sea ſo pointed into this Wilderneſs that it was on both ſides of the point of the Sea. *v.*I. (*p.*27

Ethiopia. Vid. Cuſh.

Euphrates [often called the River in Scripture, Ezra 4. 10, &c. divides Syria and Arabia from Meſopotamia, and then joyning with Tigris falls into the Perſian Gulph] its called in the Samaritan Verſion, Salmaah. v. II. p. 505

Ezion Gaber, the thirty ſecond Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs. Thence the Fleet ſet out for Ophir. v. I. p. 35, 74

G.

Gaash Hill where Joſhua was buried, perhaps the ſame with that Galaad, Jud. 7.3. (which is by the Seventy rendred Gaaſh) and might it not be ſo called upon the account of the Pillar of Witneſs, Joſh. 24. 26. that was built there a little from Sichem? Vol. II. p. 363, 364

Gabala, a Midland City of Phœnicia. Ptol. v. II. p. 312

Gabara, Geber, or Tarnegola (theſe two ſignifying the ſame, viz. a Cock) the Upper to diſtinguiſh it from another of that name, one of the three great Cities of Galilee. It was ſeated beyond Cæſarea Philippi, and the utmoſt bound of the Land North. *v.*II. p. 77.312, 517

Gad, [Tribe had Reuben on the South, Manaſſe North, Jordan on the Weſt, and Gilead Mountains and Arabia East.] v. I. p. 37

Gadara, or Hippopodion, the Metropolis of Peræa, waſhed by the River Hieramax, from Tiberias ſixty furlongs, and near to Gergeſa. It was one of the Cities of Decapolis and of Heathen Juriſdiction, and gave name to the Country about it. v. II. p. 37. 69, 315

Galilee, contained Iſachar, Zebulun, Nephthali, Aſher with part of Dan, and Peræa. It was bounded North by Lebanon and Syria; on the Weſt by Phœnicia; on the South by Samaria. It was divided into three parts, the Upper (ſo called becauſe it abounded in Mountains) which contained Aſher and Nephthali, and was eminently called Galilee of the Gentiles, and ſometimes Gilgal, Deut. 11.30. And ſecondly the Lower, which contained Zebulun and Iſſachar, and becauſe it was Champion was called the Great Field. And thirdly the Vale, which is the border of Tiberias. Joſephus ſaith, there were two hundred and four Cities and Towns in Galilee, that were more eminent and fortified. *v.*I.*p.*364, 623. II. p. 56, &c. 66, 80, 362, 496

Gamala, a fortified Town in Batanæa in the Lower Gaulonitis upon the Lake of Geneſareth over againſt Taricheæ, and that gave the name to a Region about it. v. II. p. 75. 83, 364

Gath Hepher, a Town in Zabulon, Joſh. 19. 13. and from whence was Jonah the Prophet, 2 Kings 14. 25. v. I. p. 411

Gaulonitis, the Upper and Nether, within Batanæa, ſo called from Golan, once the chief City of Baſhan. v. II. p. 81. 364

Gaza, or Azza, and by Euſtathius Jone, in the Tribe of Juda. There were two, the Old and the New, the former was deſtroyed by Alexander, and therefore called Deſert. It was from the bay ſeven furlongs (which was ſaith Ptol. in Long. 65. 45. but more probably 65. 26.) from the River of Egypt forty four miles; from Azotus thirty four miles; from Aſcalon ten (or ſixteen) miles; from the dead Sea fifty five miles, from Petra in Arabia one hundred and ten miles. *Vol.*I. Pag. 44. 281. *Vol.*II. p. 13. 14, 44, 292, 320, 321, 500, 681

Gaza, the New was built nearer the Bay, was called Mainma, and afterwards Conſtantia, and named ſo by Conſtantine after the name of his Siſter, ſaith Euſebius, or as Sozomen, of his Son Conſtantius. v. I. p. 281

Gaza, there was another in Ephraim, 1 Chron. 7. 28. v. II. p. 679

Gedor, a Town in the mountainous part of Peræa. *v.*II. p. 81

Gema, a City in the extream parts of Samaria, next adjoyning to Iſſachar; near to Nain, if not the ſame with it. v. II. *p.*370

Geneſareth, Lake, Luke 5. called Cinnereth, Numb. 34. 11. and the Sea of Galilee, Joh. 6. and Tiberius, Joh. 21. is one of the ſeven Seas that the Jews ſay compaſs the Land. Its about ſix miles broad and ſixteen long, ſaith Pliny, but Joſephus twelve and half, and Biddulph twenty four in length and in breadth fifteen. From the head of Jordan to the South part of it, was about forty miles, from Samachontis fifteen. It was within the Tribe of Nephthali, and not out of it as the Maps miſtake. See the Scheme of it. *Vol.*II. *p.*308. In the middle of it was a famous whirle Pool, called Miriama. It was ſo called from . . . v. I. *p.*632. II. p. 5. 59, 65, 66, 536

Geneſaritis, a Region near the Lake, thirty furlongs in length and in breadth twenty. A very pleaſant and fruitful place, abounding in the Gardens of great Men. From whence it had its name. v. II. p. 71

Gergeſa, a Town very near Gadara, and ſo called either from the Gergaſites, a people of Canaan; or from its Clay ſoil, (Gargiſhta ſignifying Clay). It gave name to the Region ſo called, which comprehended in it the Regions of Gadara, Hippo and Magdala. II. *p.*70.340

Gerizim, the Hill upon which the Bleſſings were pronounced. It was near to Sychem, and had upon it Springs and Gardens. Upon this the Temple of the Samaritans was built in the time of Alexander the Great, forty years after the ſecond Temple, in oppoſition to that of Jeruſalem, and flouriſhed there about two hundred years, and at laſt was deſtroyed by Hyrcanus. I. *p.*599. v. II. *p.*52, 53

Geſhur, [was two fold, one in Syria, Joſh. 13. 13. near to Hermon, *v.*11. Hither Abſalom fled, 1 Sam. 13. 8. The other near the Amalakites, 1 Sam. 27. 8.] Vol. I. p. 64

Gezer, on the ſhore of the Mediterranean Sea, 1 King. 9. 15. which according to the Syrian Dialect paſſed into Gadara. It was a Levitical City in the Tribe of Ephraim. Joſh. 16. 3. & 21. 21. v. II. p. 69. 493

Gibea, of Saul, it ſignifies Saul's Hill, it was about thirty furlongs from Jeruſalem, near to Ramah, and had near it the Valley of Thorns, perhaps the Valley under the Rock Seneh, 1 Sam. 14. 4 *v.*II. *p.*41

Gibeon, lay North of Jeruſalem in the way to the City Samaria, there was a great Pool of Waters, where perhaps Chriſt baptized, Joh. 3. 22. There in Solomon's time was the greateſt Synagogue, the Tabernacle being brought thither after Shiloh fell. I. p. 72. 581

Gilead, Country lay beyond Jordan and was divided into two parts, there was Mount Gilead called ſo from the heap of Stones ſet up for a Witneſs twixt Jacob and Laban, *Gen.*31. v. I. p. 48. & 51. *v.*II. p. 374

Gilgal, Joſh. 4. 19. It was in Benjamin, and fifty furlongs or ſix miles and a quarter, from Jordan, ten furlongs Eaſt from Jericho. Sometimes Galilee is ſo called. V. Galilee. v. II. *p.*43. 46

Giſcala, a Town beyond Jordan not far from Gadara. v. II. p. 80

Gophna, the next Toparchy of eleven to Jeruſalem. There was a City alſo of that name, betwixt Cæſarea and Jeruſalem and its likely was in Juda. v. II. p. 51. 373

Gozall,

Gozan, 2 King. 17. 6. a River in Media whither the ten Tribes were carried, called Ginzak by the Jews, is like Ganzanitis in Ptol. Vol. II. Pag. 801

Guſh Chalab, in the Tribe of Aſher, famous for Olives and Oyl. v. II. p. 40. 50, 515

H.

Halac, 2 King. 17. 6. a City whether the ten Tribes were carried, the Jews call it Halvaoth, or Chalzon, perhaps for Chalvaon, which agrees with Alvanis a City in Meſopotamia, that Ptolomy placeth in Long. 74. 15. Lat. 35. 20. Vol. II. p. 800. 801

Hamath, was the utmoſt point of the Land North, and is by ſome of the Jews underſtood to be Antioch, by others Epiphania. There were ſome Kingdoms named from it, as Hamath-Zoba. &c. v. I. p. 74. 90. v. II. p. 66. 328

Haradah, is the 21 Manſion of Iſrael in the Wilderneſs,

Haſhmonah, is the 26th Manſion. v. I. p. 35

Haroſheth, of the Gentiles, Judg. 4. 2. hath its name from Choraſhin, woody places, and was in Nephthali. v. II. p. 84

Hauran, was one of the Mountains on which were placed the ſignal fires, perhaps ſome part of Anti-Libanus, and might have its name either from the Syriack word Havar, which ſignifies white, or from the Hebrew word Hor, which ſignifies a Cave, being white with Snow, and hollow with ſubterranean paſſages. However it was ſituated in the extream parts of the Land toward the North, Ezek. 47. 16. v. II. p. 364. 365

Hazar, is a frequent name in the South of Juda, as Hazar-addar, Hazar-gaddah, Hazar-Sua, Hazar-Suſah, &c. and it ſignifies a plain or champion betwixt Hills. v. II. p. 2

Hazar-Enan, Numb. 34. 9. In the Roman Copy is Arſenain, it was the utmoſt bound of the Land toward Syria. v. II. p. 369

Hazeroth, the twenty fifth Manſion of the Iſraelites. v. I. p. 34

Hazor, Joſh. 11. 4. is called Naſor, 1 Mac. 11. 63. the Metropolis of Canaan, that is, of the Northern Country, which is known by that name. It lay on the Lake Samachonitis. V. Cæſarea Phil. v. II. p. 64

Hazezon Tamar. Vid. Engeddi.

Hebrews, Act. 6. 1. were Jews dwelling in Judea, to whom the Hebrew, that is the Syriack or Chaldee, was the Mother Tongue. v. I. p. 279. 340. v. II. p. 798

Hebron, ſignifies Conſociation, and it was ſo called perhaps from the pairs buried there; for here (they ſay) Adam and Eve, Abraham and Sarah, Iſaac and Rebeckah were interred. It was in the Hill Country of Judah, Joſh. 21. 11. South of Jeruſalem, but a little toward the Eaſt, and might be ſeen from the Towers of it, (ſay the Jews) It was a City of Refuge inhabited by the Levites, but the Fields and Villages belonged to Judah. It had ſeveral Cities within its Juriſdiction. Here John Baptiſt was born, and probably Chriſt conceived. v. I. p. 60, 413, 414, 420, 454. v. II. p. 46, 47, 296

Heliopolis, a City in Celo-Syria, Ptol. placeth it in Long. 68. 40. Lat. 33. 40. v. 2. p. 366

Hellenists, Act. 6. 1. are Jews dwelling in foreign parts among the Greeks, and whoſe Mother Tongue was Greek. v. I. p. 286, 340. v. II. 798

Hermon, or the Mountain of Snow, at Cæſarea Philippi, and near the Springs of Jordan. v. II. p. 62. 502

Hermon, the Leſs. Borchardus placeth it South of Tabor, which without queſtion is from a miſconſtruction of Pſal. 89. 12. v. II. p. 370, 501

Herodium, a Caſtle upon a Mountain in the extream part of Perea, South, toward Moab, near Machærus, built by Herod the Great, who was buried about eight Furlongs from it. Here Herod Antipas entertained his Lords, when Herodias danced before them. It was two hundred Furlongs or twenty five Miles from Jericho. Vol. II. p. 361. 363, 500

Heſhbon, a City in the Mountainous part of Perea. Vol. II. p. 81

Hieramar, or Jarmoch, a River near to which ſtood Gadara beyond Jordan. v. II. p. 69

Hippo, or Suſitha, (being of the ſame ſignification) in the Land of Tob, and Region of Gergeſa. It was thirty Furlongs or about three Miles from Tiberias, beyond Magdala from Jordan two Miles, and betwixt that and Bethſaida. It was for the moſt part inhabited by Gentiles. v. II. p. 70, 199, 340, 515

Hittites, were the Northern Inhabitants of Canaan, and ſo the Kings of Tyre and Sidon are called Kings of the Hittites, 1 King. 10 29. v. II. p. 202

Hor, the Mountain where Aaron died, and the thirty fourth Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs, and the ſame with Moſeroth, &c. v. I. p. 36, 39. From hence thoſe that inhabited the Land, afterwards poſſeſſed by the Edomites, were called Horites, or Horims. Gen. 14. 6. v. I. p. 12. v. II. p. 329, 366. It is alſo another Mountain in the Northern Coaſt of the Land; Numb. 34. 7, 8. ſo that what is inwards of it, is within the Land, what is without it, is without the Land. It was called by the Jews Amanah, by others Amanus. v. II. p. 362, 516

Horeb Mountain, the ſame with Sinai, where the Law was given. This gave name to the Wilderneſs of Horeb. v. I. p. 39. 501

Hormah, a City in the Tribe of Simeon. v. I. p. 44

Horonaim, Jer. 48. 34. called by Joſephus Horone, a City in Moab betwixt Zoar and Eglah. Ptol. Long. 67. 20. Lat. 30. 30. Vol. II. p. 503

I.

Jabesh-Gilead, (was in Manaſſe beyond Jordan, ſix Miles from Pella upon a Mountain, as they go to Geraſa, ſaith Hieron. Elijah the Prophet came from hence. Vol. I. p. 46, 55, 82

Jabneh, 2 Chron. 26. 6. called by the Gentiles Jamnah; by the change of Mem into Beth, (not Iramnia, as Antoninus) and Ivelyn afterwards, was in Judea on the Sea-coaſt, three Leagues South from Joppa; two parſæ or eight Miles from Azotus (as Benjamin) or as Antoninus two Miles, from Diospolis twelve Miles, and from Aſcalon twenty Miles. Here the Sanhedrim ſat firſt after its removal from Jeruſalem. Ptolomy placeth it, Long. 65. 40. Lat. 32. 0. v. I. p. 284, 365, &c. v. II. p. 15, 16. 322, 372, 681

Jacob's Bridge over Jordan, between the Lake Samachonitis and Geneſaret in the way that leadeth to Damaſcus, ſo Biddulph. But its probable it was lower, betwixt Succoth and Zartanah. v. II. p. 492. 493

Jamnith, a Town in the Upper Galilee, fortified by Joſephus. v. II. p. 57

Japha, a Town in the Lower Galilee, fortified by him. Ibid.

Ibleam, in Manaſſeh on this ſide Jordan, Joſh. 17. 11. and not far from Megiddo, 2 King. 9. 27. v. I. p. 88.

Iconium, a City in Lycaonia, and the moſt famous of the fourteen Cities that were in that Tetrarchy, near to it were two Lakes called Coralis the Greater, and Trogitis the Leſs. v II. p. 692

Ide, otherwiſe called Enhydra, between Tyre and Sarepta. v. II. p. 59

Idumea, or Edom, of old lay betwixt Amalek and Ammon, and the Read Sea, South, and is called Idumea the Great, but in proceſs of time (eſpecially after the Captivity) it was enlarged, and took in all Simeon, and ſo up as far as Azotus, and part of Judea, as far as the Dead-Sea, Eaſt, and almoſt to Hebron, North, which was called Judæo-Idumea; Idumea the New, or the Less, Mark. 3. 8. Vol. I. Pag. 63, 84, 103. Vol. II. Pag. 4, 290, 292, 504.

Jenysus, A Town upon the Borders of Arabia and Syria, saith Herodotus, but where that Town was, is uncertain. The Talmudists mention Jenush among the Towns, which they say, are in the Confines, but the situation doth not agree. v. II. p. 302

Jericho, or the City of Palm-Trees (the second to Jerusalem) was in the Tribe of Benjamin, from Jerusalem about nineteen miles, and about eight or ten from Jordan. It was situated in a Plain, but compassed with Mountains like a Theatre; it was famous for its Balsom and Waters. v. II. p. 43, 44, 46, 297

Jerusalem, Vid. description by it self.

Jeshanah, A neighboring City to Zippor, where the Records of Zippor were laid up. v. II. p. 75

Jezreel, [seems to be in the Tribe of Issachar, Josh. 19. 18.] In it was the Palace of Ahab. It gave name to the Valley of Jezreel, otherwise called Esdrelon, Judith 1. 8. and the Great Plain) that ran far down, where was a River that discharged it self into Jordan. Vid. Great Plain. v. I. p. 88. v. II. p. 492, 493

Jim, A Town whose Houses were in Judah, but the Fields in Dan. v. II. p. 42

Jion, 1 Kings 15. 20. seems to be beyond Dan, the City, or in the extreamest Borders of the Land on that side. The Alexandrian Copy reads it Nain. v. I. p. 623 v. II. p. 369

Jonian Sea, reached from Egypt to Gaza, and was so called from the Iones that were seated in Egypt near to it. v. II. p. 500

Joppa, Japho, Josh. 19. 46. Acts 9. 36. A famous Port-Town, betwixt Cæsarea and Azotus, and from the former a days Journey and half. v. I. 846. v. II. p. 15

Jordan, ariseth in the Region of Daphne, near to Lebanon, not out of two Fountains, but one that is in a Cave called Panium, and is called Jordan the Less, till it falls into the Lake Samachonitis: Thence forward it is called Jordan, and falling into the Lake of Genesareth, ends in the Dead Sea. To the utmost Point of which, or the Desert of Haran, from the Head of the River, is about 100 miles. In some places it was not above twenty or thirty yards over, and had Fords. In this River was Christ Baptized, and probably where the Waters were divided by Joshua. v. I. p. 128, 478, 528 v. II. p. 62, 63, 298

Jordan Region, lay betwixt Jordan and Jericho, and so on this side of the City and that, and also toward Jerusalem. v. II. p. 297

Jotopatah, or Jodaphath, A Town in the lower Galilee. v. II. p. 57, 75. There was a Valley of that Name. v. II. p. 51

Ishmaelites, near to the Midianites and Medanites, with whom they lived so promiscuously, that any of them did indifferently bear any of these Names, Gen. 37. 28, 36. v. I. p. 19

Issachar Tribe, was the most Southern part of Galilee, lying betwixt Zabulon North, and Manasseh South. Its length was ironward the Sea of Cenesareth (but not quite reaching to it) to Carmel, Kishon and the Great Sea. Its breadth North to South, from Manasseh to Mount Tabor, and with Zabulon was about fifteen miles. Issachar (by the Jews) is like a strong or bony Ass, Gen. 49. 14. low before and behind, and high in the middle; and couches between two borders, that is, the valleys of Pisan and Jezreel. v. II. p. 58, 59, 370 495, 498

Ituræa, The same with Auranitis in Josephus. It was so called either from Jetur a son of Ismael, Gen. 25. 15. or from Hitturi, which signifies under-digging, and so it sounds the same with Troglodites, the Country of those that dwell in Caves (the Country being famous for Caves, for which reason Pliny and Strabo speak of an Ituræa in Cyrrhestica and Chalcis) It was beyond Jordan, and lay edging upon Arabia, but was in Syria. v. I. p. 453. v. II. p. 365, 366

Judea, as a division of the Country, contained the Tribes Judah, Benjamin, Simeon and Dan, and is ordinarily called the South, by the Rabbins, in opposition to Galilee. Vol. I. Pag. 364. v. II. p. 13. As a Tribe, it was divided into the Mountains, the Plain, and the South, Num. 13. 30, &c. The South lay toward Seir and Amalek, from the Inlets into the Land, at the utmost part of the Dead Sea, having the Philistins upon the West: This part reached to the rising of the Mountains, not far below Hebron. The Mountains (called in Scripture, The Hill-Country of Judah, Josh. 21. 11, &c. and by the Jews, The Mount Royal) began about Hebron, and ran along Northward to and beyond Jerusalem, having the Plain or Flat of Jordan skirting all along upon their East-side, till Samaria and Galilee brought in another denomination. The Plain joyns to the Mountainous Country on the East, and though more level and low than that, yet hath its Hills. To the Plain Eastwardly joyns a Valley, lower than the Plain, which is the Coast of Sodom, and at length that of Jordan. This Tribe was incredibly populous, and had several Priviledges, as the intercalation of the Year, &c. Vol. I. Pag. 399. Vol. 2. p. 9, 10, 12, 113, 293

Judah Wilderness, Josh. 15. 61. Psal. 63. Title, was in Idumea the Less, or the Wilderness of Engeddi.

Judea Wilderness (for so they are to be distinguished) was betwixt Jericho and Jordan, and from Jericho onward toward Jerusalem, both of them comparatively Desert, but both populous, and had many Towns. Here John first taught, Matth. 3. 1. and Christ was tempted, whether two miles from Jericho at Quarantania (as its pointed out by some) or further Southward along the Banks of the Dead Sea, as the more Desert place. v. I. p. 501, 502. v. II. p. 295, 297 499

Julias, formerly Betharamphta, built by Herod and called Julias, in honor of the Emperors Wife; it was in Perea, near to Jordan, and at the influx of it into the Lake Genesareth. (The Maps have placed it further off.) v. II. p. 83.

Vid. Bethsaida.

K.

Karhjim, or Karuthin, A place of Note among the Jews for the best Wine. Vol. II. Pag 50.

Kedar, A Country in Arabia, Gen. 25. 13. Isa. 21. 13, 16. where the Inhabitants lived in Tents, Psal. 120. 5. v. I. p. 108

Kehelathah, The nineteenth Mansion of the Israelites in the Wilderness. v. I. p. 35

Keilah, Where David raised the Siege of the Philistins, [It was in the Tribe of Judah, Josh. 15. 44.] It was, say the Jews, famous for Figs. v. I. p. 57. v. II. p. 50

Kenites, were of two sorts. 1. The Descendents of Canaan, who were, its likely so called from some Cain, a Person of Renown in that Family. These were planted East of Jordan, Gen. 15. 19. Numb. 24. 21. whereabout Moab and Ammon were seated. v. II. p. 329, 501. 2. There were of that Name of the Posterity of Jethro, Father-in-Law of Moses (so called from the Country Kain, Num. 24. 22.) who came with Joshua and Israel into the Land of Canaan, and first resided about Jericho, the City of Palm-trees, Judg. 1. 16. and afterward removed into the South of Judah, upon the Coasts of the Amalekites, and in Saul's time were mingled with them. These Kenites were the Root of the Rechabites, Jerem. 35. and 1 Chron. 3. 55. And from them came the Essens (a People that lives alone, and of all other Nations most to be admired, they are without any Woman, &c. saith Pliny) who succeeded them in their habitation and austerity of Life, residing on the Western shore of the Dead Sea. These were called Salamæans (and so the Kenites are constantly translated by the Caldee Para-Paraphraſt.) There were ſome of the Kenites in Galilee, Judg. 4. 17. v. I. p. 33,44,373. v. II. p. 7,499

Kenizzites, were by original Canaanites, called ſo perhaps from one Kenaz of that Family. They dwelt Eaſt of Jordan, whereabout afterward Moab & Ammon planted: and were one of the ten (though not of the ſeven) Nations the Jews ſay they were to poſſeſs. v. II. p. 329

Ketſarah, A little City, Fortified from the time of Joſhua, that belonged to Zippor, and was near to it. v. II. p. 75,76

Kibroth-hattaavah, [or the graves of Luſt, Num. 11.34. the thirteenth Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs.]

Kiriath-jearim, The City of the Woods, Pſal. 132. 6. was formerly called Baal, 2 Sam. 6.2. or Baalath, 1 Chron. 13. 6. and was ſometime reckoned to Judah, ſometimes to Dan, Joſh. 15. 29. and 19. 44. that is, the Houſes were of Judah, and the Fields of Dan. v. I. p. 54. v. II. p. 42

Kirharaſeth, A City in Moab, 2 Kings 3. 25. v. I. p. 85

Kirmion, or Amana, a River in the way to Damaſcus. v. II. p. 62.

Kiſhon, A River that pours it ſelf into the Sea, not far from Carmel, on the South, 1 Kings 18. 40. (and not as ſome place it, on the North) of it. It's called an ancient River, Judg. 5. 21. or River of their Antiquities, becauſe in ancient times it was a Water of much Idolatry amongſt them. v. I. p. 49. v. II. p. 59.

L.

Lachiſh, A City [in the Tribe of Judah, Joſh. 15. 39.] where Amaziah was ſlain. Vol. I. Pag. 90.

Laodicea, Coloſſ. 4. 16. A City of Aſia the Leſs, and in the Province of Phrygia Pacatiana, one of the Seven Churches. v. I. p. 307,326,339. There was alſo a City of that name near Lebanon. v. II. p. 365

Laſha, called alſo by the Heathens Callirhoe, and by the Jews Chamath Pellæ (to diſtinguiſh it from Chamath Gadaræ) was on the North-Eaſt part of the Dead Sea, as Sodom was on the South, Gen. 10. 19. It was famous for its Warm Spring of a Medicinal Nature. v. II. p. 296, 308.

Lebanon, A large hilly Country, and ſo called from Laban, to be white, becauſe of the Snows that lie continually upon it, ſo Deut. 11 24, &c. Its oft Tranſlated by the Greek Interpreters, Anti-Libanus; and is called ſometimes by the Talmudiſts, Bala. There was upon it a Foreſt, and there Solomon built him a Summer-houſe. v. I. p. 74. 582. v. II. p. 517

Lebba, A Sea-coaſt Town in Galilee, near unto Carmel, from whence perhaps Judas was ſirnamed Lebbæus, Matth. 10. 3. v. II. p. 176

Lemba, A City of Moab. v. II. p. 316.

Lesbos, A pleaſant Iſland [in the Ægean Sea, betwixt the Promontory Aſſos, and the Iſland Chios. It was otherwiſe called Mitylene, Acts 20. 14. from the chief City that was ſo named.] Thither did Tiberius baniſh Junius Gallio, a Friend of Sejanus. v. I. p. 771

Libnah, the ſeventeenth Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs. v. I. p. 35. There was alſo of that Name a City in the Tribe of Judah, Joſh. 15. 42. 2 Chron. 21. 10. It was a City of the Levites, Joſh. 21. 13. v. I. p. 86

Lod, in the Tribe of Benjamin, Nehem. 11. 35. This is alſo another name for Lydda. v. II. p. 17 Vid. Lydda.

Lodebar, A City beyond Jordan, near Mahanaim, 2 Sam. 17. 27. where lived Eliam, or Ammiel, the Father of Bathſheba, 2 Sam. 11. 7. 1 Chron. 3. 5. v. I. p. 64

Lot's Cave, The Maps ſhew it in Judea, at the Northern Coaſt of the Dead Sea, but it was near Zoar in the Land of Moab. v. II. p. 6, 295. Vid. Zoar

Lycaonia, Acts 14. 6. A Province of the Leſſer Aſia, bordering upon Galatia and Caria. There are Hills that are plain, cold and naked, and Paſtures for wild Aſſes, which begin at Iconium, ſaith Strabo. v. II. p. 692 693

Lydda, Acts 9. 35, 38. The Authors of the Maps have held Lod and Lydda for two Towns; Lod not far from Jericho, and Lydda not far from the Mediterranean Sea: when there is no difference, unleſs that is Hebrew, this Greek. An Error perhaps from Lod and Hadid, that are framed into one word Lodadi, by the Seventy Interpreters, Ezra. 2. 33. Neh. 7. 37. This was called by the Gentiles Diospolis, and by the Jews Lodicea. It wanted little of the bigneſs of a City, though a Village, and of all places next Jabneh and Bitter, was moſt eminent for its Schools, where R. Akibah ſat Preſident. It was ſeated in a Plain not in the Tribe of Ephraim (as it is placed in ſome Maps) but in Judah, and was a days Journy Weſt from Jeruſalem, not far from Joppa, forty miles from Cæſarea Strat. and thirty two miles from Aſcalon, ſaith Antoninus, and had, according to Ptolomy, Long. 66. 0. Lat. 32. 0. From Lydda to the Sea was Vale, and to Emaus, Plain. v. I. p. 284,369 v. II. p. 9, 297,320,322,325,326,372

Lyſtra, A City of Lycaonia. Act. 14. 8. v. II. p. 692

M.

Maachathites, are by the Jews called Epikerites, Deut. 3. 14. Joſh 13. 13. being its probably ſo called in their time. Epicarus is in Ptol. on the Eaſt of Jordan. Long. 67. 0. Lat. 31. 0.

Macedonia, A Country North of Greece, that had in it ſeveral Cities of Note; as Philippi, Theſſalonica, Nicopolis, and Berea, &c. In the Notitia there is a diſtinction betwixt Macedonia, ſtrictly ſo called, and Macedonia Salutaris. v. I. p. 294,295,307 309 793. v. II. p. 294.

Macherus, called in the Talmud, Mac-var, a Caſtle in the Mountainous part of Perea, and the South Bound of it toward Arabia or Moab, near Arnon, and the Shore of the Dead Sea. Here John the Baptiſt was Impriſoned, and this was the Bound betwixt Herod and his Father-in-Law Aretas the Arabian King, whoſe Daughter he put away when he took Herodias. v. I. p. 582,592 v. II. p. 81, 197. 501

Machir, Half Gilead beyond Jordan v. I. p. 48

Macpelah, The Burying-place near Hebron. v. II. p. 47

Magdala, Sometimes call'd Magdala Gadaræ, from its Neighborhood to Gadara, was a Sabbath-days Journey, (or two miles) from Chammath, one mile from Jordan and from Hippo. From hence perhaps was Mary called Magdalene, if not from Magdal, that ſignifies Folding or curling hair. v. II. p. 70 197, 270 308

Magdalus, A place where Pharaoh Necho obtained a Victory over the Syrians, ſaith Herodotus, which ſeems to be the ſame with what is related, 2 Kings 23. 33 concerning his Battel with Joſiah in Megiddo. v. II. p. 303

Makeioth, The two and twentieth Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs. v. I. p. 35.

Manaſſeh Tribe, was half on this, half on the other ſide Jordan. That on this ſide, extended it ſelf in length Eaſt and Weſt from Jordan, to Dor on the Mediterranean Sea; in Latitude from Ephraim to Bethſhan. v. II. p. 493 Manaſſeh beyond Jordan, was the moſt Northern of thoſe that were there ſituated. v. I. p. 37.

Marah, The fifth Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs, where they murmured for want of Water. v. I. p. 27

Mariſſa. A Town in Idumea the Leſs. Joſephus. v. II. p. 4

Maſſada, in Hebrew Matſada, which implies Fortification, taken from 1 Sam. 23. 14. and 24. A Caſtle built on a Rock, in the Wilderneſs of Judah or Engaddi, near near the Dead Sea, but not on the utmoſt North-coaſt (as the Maps) for it was the South Bound of Judea. Here David compoſed that Pſalm, 1 Sam. 24. 1. and he calls the place, The Rocks of the wild Goats. Vol. II. Pag. 295

Mearah, [beſide the Zidonians, Joſh. 13. 4.] There were Waters allowed by the Jews [probably of the ſame kind with thoſe of Tiberias.] v. II. p. 69

Medeba, A City of Moab. [Numb. 21. 30. in the Tribe of Reuben.] *v.*II. p. 316

Megiddo Valley, where Joſiah was ſlain, 2 *Chron.*35. 22. This is alluded to Zech. 12. 10. [It was in Manaſſeh, Joſh. 17. 11. in the Borders of Zabulon near the River Kiſhon, Judg. 5. 19.] v. I. p. 116

Vid. Magdalus.

Melita, now called Malta an Iſland in the Sicilian Sea, and in the middle betwixt that and the Shore of Africa, being 88 miles from Pachinus in Sicily on the Eaſt, and 84 from Camerina in the South, and 113 from Lylibæum, looking toward Africa. Ptol. placeth it, Long. 38. 45. Lat. 34. 40. Here St. Paul was Shipwreck'd. *v.*I. *p.*322 v. II. p. 704

Mero, A Town in the Upper Galilee. Joſeph. *v.*II. p. 57

Meroe, Is the chief City of the African Ethiopia, and ſeated in an Iſland of the ſame name, and which is made by the River Nile Weſtward, and the River Aſtabora Eaſtward. From whence perhaps the Eunuch came, Acts 8. 27. which may call to mind, Zeph. 3. 10. *v.*II. p. 679

Merom-waters. Vid. Samachonitis.

Meroz, A Town in Galilee that lay very near the place where the Battle was fought betwixt Iſrael and Siſera. *v.*II. p. 49

Meſopotamia, or Aram Naharaim. Geographers diſtinguiſh betwixt Meſopotamia and Babylon or Chaldæa. So Ptolomy, Meſopotamia lyeth South of the Country of Babylon. And yet Babylon may be ſaid in ſome meaſure to be in Meſopotamia, becauſe it lay between Tigris and Euphrates, but eſpecially in Scripture-Language, for it was beyond the River. Chaldeans are therefore ſaid to be of Meſopotamia; and Strabo ſaith, that Meſopotamia, with the Country of Babylon, is contained in the great compaſs from Euphrates to Tigris. The Meſopotamian or Chaldæe Language was ſpoken in Aſſyria, Chaldæa, Meſopotamia, Syria, Cœlo-Syria, &c. v. I. p. 46. 752. v. II. *p.*665

Metheg Ammah, or the bridle of Ammah, 2 Sam. 8. 1. becauſe there was a continual Garriſon of the Philiſtines in the Hill Ammah, 2 Sam. 2. 25. which the Philiſtines of Gath uſed as a bridle to curb thoſe parts. *v.*I. *p.*63

Michmash, [was Eaſtward from Bethaven, 1 Sam. 13. 5. and ſeemed to be upon the Confines of Ephraim and Benjamin] Iſa. 10. 28. *v.*I. p. 104

Middin, A Town in the Wilderneſs of Juda. Joſh. 15. 61. The Greek puts Ænon for Middin; Ænon being in ſignification, A place of Springs; and Middin, A place of thoſe that draw waters. So in the Hebrew we find Middim, Judg. 5. 10. which if rendred, Ye that dwell by Middin, Kimchi will warrant it, who in his Notes upon the place, ſaith, Middin is a City mentioned in Joſhua, and it follows, verſ. 11. among the places of drawing waters, as explaining the other. v. II. *p.*499

Midian was twofold; the one South of Canaan toward the Red Sea, and near to Amalek whither Moſes fled, and where Jethro lived, Exod. 2. 11. the other was Eaſtward betwixt Moab and Syria. v. I. p. 33. 37

Migdal Edar, or the Tower of the Flock; there was one of that name, Gen. 35 21. about a mile from Bethlehem, and whereabout, it hath been held, that the Shepherds were, unto whom the Angels appeared at the Birth of our Saviour, Luke 2. 8. There was alſo another place of that name, ſpoken of in the Rabbins, ſituated on the South ſide of Jeruſalem, and ſo near the City, that there was no Town round about within that ſpace, or betwixt that and the City. v. I. p. 423. v. II. p. 305.

Migdal Zabaaia (or the Town of Dyers) that was deſtroyed for Fornication, ſay the Jews. *v.*II. p. 51

Migron, A Town in Benjamin, Iſai. 10. 28. *v.*I. *p.*104

Miletum, Acts 20. 17. A Port Town to Epheſus, and near to it. v. I. p. 317, 325

Mithcah, The five and twentieth Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs. v. I. p. 35

Mizaar, or Miſſaar, Pſal. 42. 6. ſeems to be the Hilly part of Zoar, whither Lot would have fled, Gen. 19. 20. O let me eſcape to this City, is it not Mizaar, or, a little one? So that the Hill Miſaar, may be the ſame as if it had been ſaid, the hilly part of the little Hill Zoar. The reaſons of which are two. 1. As Hermon was near the Springs of Jordan, ſo the hilly part of Zoar lay hard by the extreme parts of Jordan in the Dead Sea; and the Pſalmiſt ſeems to meaſure out Jordan from one end to the other. 2. As David betook himſelf towards Hermon in his flight from Abſalom, ſo when flying from Saul, he betook himſelf to Zoar in the Land of Moab, 1 Sam. 22. 3. and ſo bewails his condition, as baniſhed to the utmoſt Countries North and South that Jordan waſhed. v. II. p. 501, 502

Mizgah, A place near Tiberias of an unwholſom Air. *v.*II. *p.*310

Mizpeh, [There were ſeveral places of this name in Scripture. 1. One in Gad, called Ramath-Mizpeh, Joſh. 13. 26. 2. In the North part of Manaſſeh beyond Jordan, near Hermon, Joſh 11. 3, 8. 3. In Moab, 1 Sam. 22. 3. 4. Not far from Jeruſalem, in the confines, its likely, of Judah and Benjamin, Joſh. 15. 38. and 18. 26.] Here the Sanhedrim ſat in the time of Samuel, and Saul was proclaimed King, 1 Sam. 10. 17. *v.*I. p. 55

Moab, called Arabia of the Nomades, ſituated on the Eaſt of the Dead Sea. v. II p. 501.

Modin, 1 Macab. 2. 1. the Sepulchre of the Macabees, fifteen miles from Jeruſalem. v. II. p. 319

Moſeroth, the ſeven and twentieth Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs, and the ſame place or Country with Hor, Gudgodah, and Horagidgad. *v.*I. *p.*35, 39

Mountains, The Black Mountains run from the Bay which is near Haran to Judea. Ptolomy. v. II. p. 501

Mountain of Iron, in the South in the Deſert of Sin; another of that name was alſo in Perœa. *v.*II. p. 43, 88

Mountain, where Chriſt was tempted, was probably beyond Jordan Eaſtward, becauſe his firſt appearing afterward was at Bethabara on that ſide, *Joh.*1. 28. But whether Piſgah, Nebo, Horeb, or what elſe, is uncertain. v. I. p. 507.

Mount of Tranſfiguration, not Tabor, but ſome Mountain near Cæſarea Philippi, perhaps that, which Joſephus ſaith, was the higheſt, and hung over the very Fountains of Jordan. It being improbable Chriſt ſhould go from Cæſarea Philippi, where he was immediately before his Tranſfiguration, through the length of almoſt whole Galilee, and from thence back again by a Courſe to Capernaum, where he immediately afterward was. v. II. *p.*346.

N.

Nabathæans inhabited in and about the Town Petra in Arabia. Plin. With whom David had War, ſaith Joſ. Vol. II. Pag. 321, 365.

Nain, Luke 7. 11. ſo called, from the pleaſantneſs of its ſituation, and probably as its of the like ſignification, ſo was the ſame with Engannim. It was in the extreme Borders of Iſſachar toward Samaria, oppoſite to Gema, the extreme of Samaria toward Iſſachar (if not the ſame with it) and in the way from Galilee to Jeruſalem. It is two Leagues from Nazareth, and not much above one from Tabor, ſaith Borchard. *v.*II. p. 369, 370

Naveh, A Town three miles from Chalamiſh, the former in-inhabited by the Jews, and the latter by the Gentiles of Moab and Ammon, its uncertain where they were. Vol. II. Pag. 515

Nazareth, See 2 Kings 17. 9. the Tower of Nozarim, which, if Chorography would suffer, might be understood of this City, which was built like a Watch-Tower on the top of a steep Hill, Luke 4. 29. Nazaret, in the Arabick Tongue, signifieth help; in the Hebrew, a Branch, by which name our Saviour is called, Isa. 11. 1. It is in the lower Galilee, two leagues West from Tabor, in the Bounds of Issachar and Zebulun; but within Zebulun, and sixteen miles from Capernaum. v. I. p. 411 v. II. p. 495.496

Nazarens, A Tetrarchy in Cœlo-Syria, near to Hierapolis. *v.*II. p. 496

Neapolis. Vid. Sichem.

Neardaa, A Residence and University of the Jews in the Country of Babylonia. v. I. p. 874

Nebo, A Hill in the Plains of Moab, from whence Moses had a prospect of Canaan, Deut. 34. v. II. p. 296

Nephthali, was in the upper Galilee: Its length was Northward from Lebanon and the Springs of Jordan; and Southward, to the South part of the Lake Geneszareth, which was about forty miles. Its breadth was East and West, having Asher and the Coasts of Tyre betwixt it and the Great Sea. It abounded in Venison, and there was the Gospel first Preached. v. I. p. 21 v. II. p. 59, 66

Neptoah, Vid. Etam.

Netophah, Jer. 40. 8. [in the Tribe of Judah, 1 Chron. 2. 54. and 9. 16.] v I. p. 130

Nibshan, A City in the Wilderness of Judah, Josh. 15. 62. v. II. p. 499

Nicopolis, A City in Macedonia, Titus 3. 12. that bore the name and badge of the Victory that Augustus obtained against Antony. v. I. p. 309, 310

Vid. Emaus.

Nilus, The great Deity of the Egyptians, and the chief River of Egypt, but not the same with what the Scripture calls, The River of Egypt. v. I. p. 26. v. II. p. 9

Vid. Sihor.

Nineveh, The chief City of Assyria, prophesied against by Nahum and Jonah some thirty or forty years before it fell, and was swallowed up by Babylon. vol. I. p. 110, 114

Nisibis. There was a noted Consistory of the Jews. v. II. p. 85

Noarah, A place three miles from Jericho. *v.*II. p. 515

Nob, Isai. 10. 32. was a City in Benjamin belonging to the Priests, so near Jerusalem, that it might thence be seen. Here the Tabernacle was, before it was translated to Gibeon, in both which it rested seven and fifty years, saith Maimon. v. I. p. 56. *v.*II. p. 42.

Nomades, were Arabians that lived in Moab. *v.*II. p. 501

O.

Oboth, The seven and thirtieth Mansion of the Israelites in the Wilderness. Vol. I. Pag. 36

Of Wilderness, was in Batanea, or Bashan the Desert, where our Saviour fed 5000 with five Barly Loaves, &c. Josh. 6. 9. v. II. p. 552

Olivet Mount, faced Jerusalem [viz. the part of the City so called] the Temple and Sion on the East, winding North, and was so called from the abundance of Olives that were upon it, or rather a part of it. That part which was nearest Jerusalem, being called Bethphage, from the Figs that grew there, the next to that Olivet from the Olives, and the farthest part Bethany, from the Palms or Dates. The Foot of it was five Furlongs from Jerusalem, saith Josephus, The top of it, Acts 1. 12, called a Sabbaths days Journy, which was about eight Furlongs, or a Mile; and was the place (according to the later sense of our Author) where the Tracts of Bethphage and Bethany met. Here our Saviour ascended, and where he got upon the Ass when he rode into Jerusalem: Perhaps it's the same with 2 Sam. 15. 32. where David taking his leave of the Ark and Sanctuary, looked back and Worshipped, which place is called by the Greek Interpreters, Ros.

On this Mount was the Red Heifer burnt, Num. 19. 2. directly before the East-gate of the Temple, and from this to that was a Bridge made: And upon it were two great Cedars, under which, in Shops, were all things sold for Purification: On the top of the Mount were the Signal Fires, to give notice of the New Moon, and which by several places was signified to the Captivity. On the right hand (as you stood in the East-gate of the Temple) was the Mount of Corruption, in the face of the Temple.

At the Foot of it, toward the North, was Gethsemane, the place of Oyl-presses. *v.*I. p. 65, 262, 349, 740. Temple cap. 3. v. II. p. 37, 39. 40, 304, 305, 485, 486, 636, 637

Ono, was three miles from Lydda (and not as the Maps, near Jordan, not far from Jericho) It had a Plain near it of the same name, Neh. 6. 2. &c. which was either the same with Saron, or a part of it. Betwixt this and Lydda, or near to them, was the Valley of Craftsmen, Nehem. 11. 35. v. II. p. 18, 325

Ophir, A place in the East part of the World, and for which they set out from Ezion Geber, a Port Town on the Red Sea, 1 King. 9. 26, 28. v. I. p. 74

Opotos, A City that is watered by the River Chrysorrhoas, and which Pliny reckons amongst the Decapolitan. v. I. p. 644. *v.*II. p. 314.

Ono, Ezek. 27. 27. A City in the Borders of Bethshan, whereabout Elijah was when fed by the Ravens. v. II. p. 318

Onithon, or, The City of Birds, A little City betwixt Sarepta and Sidon. v. II. p. 10

Onas, A City in Moab, Joseph. v. II. p. 316

Ontes, formerly called Typhon, a River springing between Libanus and Anti-Libanus, near Heliopolis (and so it should be raised higher in the Map.) It seems to derive its name from Hauran. v. II. p. 365

Vid. Hauran.

There was another Orontes near Seleucia Pieriæ.

Vid. Seleucia.

Ostracine, Was from Rhinocorura 24 miles, from Cassium 26 miles. Antoninus v. II. p. 322

P.

Palæo Biblus, A City in the Midland Phœnicia. *v.*II. p. 312

Palæ-Tyrus, or old Tyrus, is thirty Furlongs, or three Miles three quarters beyond Tyre. It was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar. v. I. p. 127. v. II. p. 10

Palestine, was in length from the Confines of Arabia South, to Phœnicia North, (which began at Ptolemais) 139 miles, saith Pliny. Arabick was there the Mother Tongue. Vol. II. p. 10, 59, 687

Palmyra. Vid. Tadmor.

Paltathah, A place not far from Tiberias. v. II. p. 71

Pancas, or Panium, and by the Rabbins Pameas, is the place whence arose the Springs of Jordan; which Josephus thus describes: Near Panium is a most delightsom Cave in a Mountain, &c. and under the Cave rise the Springs of the River Jordan. Sometimes the Fountain it self is called by that name; and sometimes Cæsarea Philippi is called also Paneas. To this perhaps, Acts 7. 43. may have a respect, and Remphan may be no other than the Calf of Phan or Panias, which is the same with

Vol. II. Pag. 63, 673.

Dan.
Vid. Cæsarea Philippi.

Papath, A place three miles from Sipporis. *v.*II. *p.*74

Paphos, Acts 13. 6, 13. Was a City in the South-west Angle of the Island Cyprus, there was the old City and new, and both Maritim places. Here was a Temple of Venus. v. I. p. 289, 290. v. II. p. 688

Paran, Numb. 10. 12. and 12. 16. was the general name of the terrible Wilderness that lay on the South Point of the Land of Canaan. It was from Libanus 100 miles. v. I. p. 34. v. II. *p.*8

Parecchio, A Fortified Town in the Nether Galilee. v. II. p. 57

Patmos, An Island in the Icarean Sea of about thirty miles compass, where St. John had his Visions. Vol. I. Pag. 341

Pella, A City of Moab, the furthest Northern Coast of Peræa, and the South Coast of Trachonitis. It was a Decapolitan City, and rich in Waters. It is commonly said the Christians fled thither, and by that means were not involved in the destruction of Jerusalem, but how that could be, when it was (as Josephus saith) one of the Cities destroyed by the Jews, in revenge of the slaughter of 20000 of their Nation in Cæsarea, must be left to the Learned. If they fled thither, its probable it might be for sustenance, the destruction of Jerusalem being (say the Jews) in the seventh year, which was the year of Release, when on this side Jordan they neither ploughed nor sowed, though they did on the other. v. I. p. 337. v. II. p. 81, 314, 316

Pelusium, signifies muddy, from πηλὸς mud; and so is the same with Sin and Tin, which among the Chaldees is mud. So the vulgar Translates Sin, Pelusium, Ezek. 15. 16. The Targums make it the same with Ramases, Exod. 1.11. This by the Talmudists is called Gapadocia, and by the Arabians Damiata. In the Samaritan Naphik, from Anpack wrote over the Gate. It was the bound of Egypt toward Arabia; and was from Mount Casius forty miles, from Joppa One hundred thirty six. v. II. p. 11. 290, 291, 322, 505, 620

Pemeliffus, A City in Pisidia. v. II. p. 668

Pentaschœnum, half way between Pelusium and Cassium, and from each twenty miles. v. II. p. 322

Peræa, signifies that part which is over a River, and is largely taken for the whole Country beyond Jordan, inhabited by the two Tribes and half; and so it went sometimes under the name of Galilee, and might be so called from Gelioth of Jordan, Josh. 22. 11. sometimes the Southern part of that only was so called, which contained the Kingdom of Sihon or Reuben, and part of Gad. And then the length of it was from Macherus South, to Pella North, and the breadth from Philadelphia to Jordan. It was inhabited of old by the Zuzims. v. I. p. 623. v. II. p. 81, 316, 361, 362, 363

Perga, Acts 13. 13. A City in Pamphilia, and was situated betwixt the Rivers Cestrus and Cataractius, being sixty furlongs distant from the former. There was a Temple of Diana. v. I. p. 290. v. II. p. 688

Perizzites, so called from Perez, a person of Note in the Family of Canaan, from whom they descended, (though not named amongst them, Gen 10.) And was one of the seven Nations of Canaan that were to be cut off. v. II. p. 202, 329

Persia, Is otherwise called Elam, Isa. 22.6. *v.*I. *p.*108

Petra, or the Rock, a City of the Nabatæans, and Metropolis of Moab, little less than two miles in compass, situated in a Valley, and encompassed with unaccessible Mountains, a River running between, 38 miles from the Dead Sea, from Gaza (not 600, as in Pliny) 110 miles, from the Persian Bay 122 miles. Its Long. 66.45. Lat. v. II. p. 298, 321

Pharphar, 2 Kings 5.12. A River near Damascus, which the Jews call Pigah, and is said to be one of the seven Rivers that compass the Land. v. II. p. 5

Phenicia, or Phœnicia, may be divided into three parts, the Maritim Phœnicia, the South Border of which was Ptolemais; the Midland Phœnicia, which had Cities, Arca, Paleo-biblus, Gabala, Cæsarea of Paneas; Syrophœnicia, which extended as far as Antioch. v. II. p. 11, 312

Phenician Sea, reached as far as Joppa. v. II. p. 11

Pheno, a Town in Palestine. v. II. p. 88

Philadelphia. There were several Cities of that name. 1. The Metropolis of Ammon [formerly called Rabbah] was in the South of Peræa, in a fruitful Country, and reckon'd by Pliny a Decapolitan City. 2. Philadelphia, one of the seven Churches of Asia, Rev. 1. & 3. [and so was it likely that of Lydia (as being of greater note) rather than Cilicia, Vid. Bonfrer.] v. II. p. 81, 314

Philippi, Acts 16. 12. A City in Macedonia, where was a Roman Colony. v. I. p. 294

Philistims, [inhabited the Sea-coast, and gave the name of Palestine to the Country.] They were long Enemies to Israel. v. I. p. 44, 52, &c.
Vid. Palestine.

Phygia, [A Province in the Lesser Asia] part of which was called Pacatiana (in which was Laodicea) and another part Salutaris. v. I. p. 307. v. II. p. 294

Pimon, The six and thirtieth Mansion of the Israelites in the Wilderness. v. I. p. 36

Pirathon, A Town in Ephraim, where Abdon lived, Judg. 12. 13. v. I. p. 52.

Pisidia, A Province in the Lesser Asia; it had thirteen Cities in it, amongst which was Antioch. v. II. p. 688

Pisgah, A Valley in or near Issachar. v. II. p. 370

Pithom. Vid. Tanis.

Plain, The Great Plain, 1 Machab. 5. 52. was on both sides Jordan, and was on the West side in breadth from Bethshan to Ephraim; and in length from Bethshan to the Dead Sea: on the West side from Julias to Somorrha, the Bound of Arabia Petræa. It was 150 miles in length, and fifteen in breadth. It was the same with the Great Plain of Esdrelon, Judith. 1. 8. and the Great Valley of Jezreel, 1 Kings 4. 12. v. II. p. 43, 65, 298, 493

The Lower Galilee, is sometimes called the Great Plain.
Vid. Galilee.

Pombeditha, A famous School of the Jews in the Country of Babylon. v. II. p. 85, 799

Ptolemais, or Acon, and by the Talmudists, Caphar Aco, is a Sea Town of Galilee; and divided the Upper Galilee from the Lower, and the Land of Israel from Phœnicia. Its seated in a Plain, compassed with Mountains, having on the East the Mountainous part of Galilee, on the North the Scala Tyriorum, from which it was an hundred Furlongs; on the South Carmel, from whence it is 120 Furlongs. v. II. p. 56, 60.

Puteoli, A famous Mart-Town in Italy, and a Haven for Ships. v. II. p. 706

R.

Rabbah. Vid. Philadelphia

Rachels Sepulchre, South of Bethel and Migdal-Eder, and between Bethlehem and Ramah. Vol. I. Pag. 443. Vol. II. Pag. 306

Ragab, A place beyond Jordan, famous for Oyl. v. II. p. 50

Ramah. There were many Towns called by this name, because they were seated in some High Place; but the more eminent were. 1. Ramah or Aramathea, called Ramathaim-Zophim, or Ramah of the Zophites, 1 Sam. 1. 1. (so called from the Country of Zuph, in which it was, 1 Sam. 9. 5.) in the Hill-Country of Ephraim, the Birth-place of Samuel. 2. Ramah [if not the same] a Frontier Town upon the very skirt of Ephraim, towards wards Benjamin. 3. Ramah in Benjamin, Josh. 18. 25. near to Gibeah of Saul, 1 Sam. 22.6. where Saul was anointed. It was not far from Bethlehem, though they were in different Tribes, Matth. 2. 18. Hither Nebuzaradan brought the Captives, Jerem. 40. 1. It was within sight of Jerusalem, being about thirty Furlongs from it; and was called also Zophim, but for another reason, perhaps from the Zophim near Jerusalem. Vol. I. Pag. 53,55 80,129,443. Vol II. *Pag.*41,80

Ramoth Gilead, A City of Refuge in the Tribe of Gad, and so in the Country of Gilead, Deut. 4.43. Josh. 20. 8. *v.*I. p. 83

Raphana, A City toward Arabia, and by Pliny accounted a Decapolitan. v. I. p. 645. v. II. p. 314.

Rekam. Vid. Cadesh.

Rephaims, A People under Lebanon, Gen. 14. 5. and 15.20. called by the Samaritan, Aseans; and by the 70 Interpreters, Titans, 2 Sam. 5.18. *v.*I.*p.*12.*v.*II. *p.*330

Rephaim Valley, 2 Sam. 5. 18. not far from Jerusalem. v. I.*p.*61

Reuben Tribe, West of Jordan [North of Gad, and inclosed between the Rivers Arnon and Jordan.] *v.*I p. 37

Rhegium, Acts 28. 13. A Port Town in Italy, opposite to Sicily. v. I. p. 322

Rhinocorura, Vid. Sihor.

Riblah, in the Land of Hamath, Jer. 39. 5. where Nebuchadnezzar passed judgment upon Zedekiah. It was the North-East Border of the Land, Num 34. 11. The Targumists render it Daphne. v. I. *p.*128. v. II. *p.*62 Vid. Daphne.

Rimmon Rock, Whither the 600 Benjamites fled, Judg. 20. 47. called Hadad Rimmon, Zech. 12. 11. or the sad shout of Rimmon. v. I. p. 46

Rimmon-parez, the sixteenth Mansion of the Israelites in the Wilderness. v. I. p. 35

Rimmon Valley, There was a Marble Rock there, into which every one of the seven Elders that intercalated the Year there, fastned a Nail, therefore its called. The Valley of Nails, say the Jews. *v.*II. p. 52

Rissah, the eighteenth Mansion of the Israelites in the Wilderness. v. I. p. 35

Rithmah. Vid. Cadesh.

Rome, is called Chittim in the Old Testament. It was built by Romulus, in the Year of the World 3175. in the fifteenth Year of Amaziah King of Judah, that is, 785 Years before our Saviours death. It was the Head of the fifth Empire, and extended its Dominion from Parthia to Britain. v. I. p. 348, 424,425,676, &c.

S.

Sabbatic River, saith Pliny, is in Judea; but Josephus saith, It's in the way to Antioch, between the Cities Area and Raphana. Josephus saith, It flows on the Sabbath days. Pliny and the Talmudists say, Its dry upon those days. The contrary relations of Historians bring the truth of the Story into suspicion. v. II. p. 313

Sabeans, East of Canaan. Vol. I. p. 437

Saccea, A Country East of Batanea. v. II. p. 364

Sagalassus, A City in Pisidia. v. II. p. 688

Salamis, A Fortined Town in the Nether Galilee. v. II. p. 57. There was also a City in the Island of Cyprus of that name, Acts 13. 5. It was a Port Town. v. I. p. 289

Salim, John 3. 23. not near Sichem, as the Maps place it, but a Town in Galilee, and its likely in Issachar, for so the Greek Interpreter reads it, Jos. 19. 22. v. I. p. 582. v. II.p. 498.

Salmaa, or Sulma, a Town in Arabia Deserta, *Long.*78 20. Lat. 28. 30. near to Euphrates; and from which its likely the Samaritan calls Euphrates by that name. Vol. II. p. 505

Salt, City of Salt in the Wilderness of Judah, Joshua 15. 62. v. II. p. 499

Samachonitis Lake, called also the Sibbechæan Lake, from סבך a Bush, because in the Summer it was much dried, and grown over with Thorns and Bushes. It was otherwise called the Waters of Merom, Josh. 11. 5. and is said by the Jews to be one of the seven Seas that compassed the Land. It was thirty Furlongs broad, and sixty long, and its Marshes reached up to the Country Daphne. v. II. p. 5. 64.

Samaria was a City, under the first Temple, built upon an Hill, and was in later times called Sebaste, in honor of Augustus, or from the Temple built in honor of him. Under the second Temple, it gave name to a Region that was in the middle betwixt Judea and Galilee, beginning from Ginea lying in the great Plain, and ending at the Toparchy of the Acrabateni. It contained the two Tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh. Vol. I. Pag. 597,598, v. II. p. 52,53,58,676

Sandalium, two of that name; the Sandalium of Lydda, being near to that City; and the Emkan, so called from Caphar Imki. v. II. *p.*326

Saphetta, An University of the Jews, v. II. *p.*536

Sarepta, or Zarephath, 1 King. 17. Obad. 20. was in Asher, belonging to Sidon, and betwixt that and Tyre, being from the former two Leagues, and from the later five. It was called Zarephath, as a Confutory for boyling Metals, especially Glass. v. I. *p.*96. v. II. p 368,369

Saron, Heb. Sharon,. Acts 9.35. the same with Ono in V. T. Nehem. 6. 2. &c. was a spacious and fertile Vale or Champaign, betwixt Lydda and the Sea, having several Villages in it, and was famous for Wine. It was so called from שדה to let loose, because of the Cattle turned out there. v. I. p. 284,841. v. II. p. 18.582

There was another Sharon beyond Jordan, inhabited about by Gileadites, by which it seems that it was a common name for all Plains and Champaigns whatsoever. v. I. p. 841

Saracens, so called from Saracon the East. *v.*II. *p.*329

Scale Tyriorum, or, the Ladder of the Tyrians, a very high Mountain, North of Ptolemais 100 Furlongs. v. II. p. 60,61,328.

Sea, The Great Sea, Numb. 34. 4. or the Mediterranean. v. 2. p. 3

Sebaste. Vid. Samaria.

Secacah, A City in the Wilderness of Judah, Josh.15. 61. v. II. p. 499.

Seir Mount, called Gablah [or Gebalah] by the Samaritans, betwixt Horeb and Cadesh, Deut. 1. 2. *v.*I. p 35, 38 326

It took its name from Seir, a Branch of the Canaanites. v. II. *p.*329,505

Selame, A Town in Galilee near Tabor, probably the same with Salim, mentioned by the Seventy, Josh. 19. 22. v. II. p. 498

Seleucia Pieriæ, Acts 13. 4. A Port Town, and the first City of Syria toward Cilicia, Long. 68. 36. Lat. 35. 26. not far from thence the River Orontes pours it self into the Sea. v. I. p. 289, 875. v. II. p. 686

Selge, A City in Pisidia. v. II. *p.*688

Seleh, A Rock near Gibeah in Benjamin, 1 Sam. 14. 4 *v.*II. p. 41

Vid. Gibeah.

Seph, A Fortified Town in the Upper Galilee. Josephus v. II. p. 57

Sepharad, *Obad.*20. neither, as the Targum, Spain, nor as St. Hieron. Bosphorus; but rather Edom, South, in opposition to Sarepta, North v. II. p. 368.

Shamir, In the Hill-Country of Ephraim, Judg. 10. 1. may well be supposed to be Samaria. v. I. p. 49

Sapher Mount, the twentieth Mansion of the Israelites. v. I. p. 35

Sheba, Luke 11. 31. A Country of the Arabians (as some think) toward the South; and some of the Arabians Countries have been called Alienum, or Southern. Vid.

Vid. Saba.

Shechem, or Sichem, ſignifieth both a portion of ground, and the place where it lay, called Job. 4. 5. Sychar, (either by way of reproach, as it ſignifies Drunkards, Iſai. 28. 1. or as it ſignifies a Sepulchre, &c.) and Nicopolis. It was the Metropolis of Samaria. Here the twelve Patriarchs bones were laid. It was in the Tribe of Ephraim, in a Valley between the Mounts Gerizim and Ebal, being diſtant eight miles from Samaria, and twenty ſeven from Engannim. v. I. p. 18, 42, 593, 597, 598, 781. v. II. p. 52, 505, 506

Shezor, A Town near Zephath in the Upper Galilee. v. II. p 77

Shiloh, ſo called, becauſe of the peaceableneſs of the Land when the Tabernacle was ſet up there. It was otherwiſe called Ephratah, Pſal. 132. 6. and was in Ephraim North of Bethel, and a little on one ſide from the way 'twixt Bethel and Sichem. It was deſtroyed in the time of Hophni and Phineas. Vol. I. Pag. 41, 53, 54, 128. Vol. II. Pag. 43

Shunem, A Town in the Tribe of Iſſachar, Joſh. 19. 18. where the Woman lived whoſe Son Eliſha raiſed to life. v. II. p. 411

Shur. Vid. Etham, and Hazerim.

Shuſhan, The Royal City of Perſia. v. I. p. 135

Sicily, An Iſland in the Mediterranean Sea, near Italy, the chiefeſt City of which was Syracuſe. v. I. p. 322

Sicut Valley. In a place of that name was an Univerſity of the Jews. v. II. p. 51, 85

Sidon, on the ſhore of the Great Sea, from Tyre five and twenty miles, from Sarepta two Leagues. It was famous for Glaſs, and notorious for the Idol Baal. v. I. p. 82. v. II. p. 11, 369

Sigo, A Fortified Town in the Nether Galilee. Joſephus. v. II. p. 57

Shor, or Sichor, it ſignifies Black. It was otherwiſe called Rhinocorura, by the Seventy Interpreters, or the River of Egypt, Joſh. 13. 3, &c. and was the South bound between Judea and Egypt. It was from Gaza four and forty miles, from Aſcalon fifty four miles, from Oſtracene twenty four miles, and not far from Sirbon. v. II. p. 49, 291, 298, 322

Simeon Tribe, was all in Idumea the Leſs. See the proportion between that and Judah, Joſh. 21. 16. v. II. p. 51. 292.

Simeon Mount, very fruitful, perhaps the ſame with the Land of Simeon. v. II. p. 51.

Simonia, A Village in the Confines of Galilee. v. II. p. 51.

Sin. Vid. Peluſium.

Sinai Mount in the Wilderneſs, where the Law was given. v. I. p. 27, &c.

Sinnabris, A Town thirty Furlongs from Tiberias. There was alſo a Tower of the ſame name, built at one end of a Bridge near the Lake Genneſareth, and oppoſite to Bethſerach. v. II. p. 65.

Sipporis. Vid. Zipporis.

Sirbo Lake, or the Sandy Sea, the word ſignifies heat or burning, is like the Lake of Sodom, bituminous; and perhaps for the ſame reaſon. Its one of the ſeven Seas that compaſſed the Land of Iſrael, ſay the Jews. It was ſixty five miles from Peluſium, and eight and twenty miles from Caſium. v. II. p. 4, 5, 9, 290, 291

Socoh, Joſh. 15. 35. in the Vale of Judah. Thence was Antigonus ſometime Preſident of the Sanhedrim. v. II. p. 51.

Sodom City, ſtood not in the North (as its uſually placed in the Maps) but the South part of the Lake, for in Scripture its ſet oppoſite to Gaza, Gen. 10. 19. and was the Eaſt bound of the Land, as Gaza was the Weſt. v. II. p. 6. 296

Sodom Sea, not ſo properly the Salt as the bituminous Sea; and Aſphaltites, was the Weſt bound of Judea, and from Jeruſalem (not directly South, but bending toward the Eaſt) eight and thirty miles. It was in length, ſaith Joſephus, ſixty two miles, in breadth eighteen, Pliny ſaith, it was in length more than One hundred miles, in its greateſt breadth five and twenty, in its leaſt ſix. Its likely Joſephus did not comprehend within his meaſure the Tongue of the Sea, Joſh. 15. 2. and deſcribes the breadth as it generally was. Vol. II. Pag. 6.

Somorrha, The South bound of the Rock of Arabia. v. II. p. 43

Succoth, So called from the booths Jacob built there, Gen. 33. 17. was in the Vale of Perea, oppoſite to Zartanah, and perhaps might give the name of Scythopolis to Bethſhan, which was near to Zartanah. There was the Valley of Succoth, Pſal. 60. 10. in Moab or Perea. v. I. p. 18, 63. v. II. p. 81. 493

Vid. Bethſhan.

Suſitha, anciently called Mazi. v. II. p. 84

Vid. Hippo.

Sycaminum, probably the Shikmonah in the Talmudiſts, a Town on the Sea-coaſt of Phœnicia, betwixt Doron and Carmel, and perhaps the ſame with Caphar Hananiah, that divided between Upper and Nether Galilee. v. II. p. 56, 57, 58

Syria, anciently called Aram, which was divided into ſeveral Kingdoms, as Aram-Naharaim, Aram-Zobah, Aram-beth-Rehob, &c. Pſal. 60. Title. 2 Sam. 10. 8. And ſo Syria was of large extent, its breadth being from Seleucia Pieriæ to Zeugma on Euphrates, Five hundred twenty five miles; and did include in it all the Country of the Jews, both within and without Jordan, Matth. 4. 24. as being within the Juriſdiction of the Roman Governor of Syria, and by the Jews was all of it accounted as Canaan, in reſpect of its priviledges. It was divided in the Notitia into Syria on Euphrates, and Syria Salutaris. Vol. I. Pag. 63. Harm. Sect. 21. p. 19, 113, 645. v. II. p. 64, 294, 686.

T.

Tabor Mount, called by Joſephus, Itaburion, was thirty Furlongs high. It lay as it were, in the midſt, betwixt the Coaſts of Samaria and Upper Galilee. Having on this ſide Iſſachar (of which it was the utmoſt bound North, Joſh. 19. 22.) toward Samaria, and on that ſide Zabulon toward the aforeſaid Galilee [and ſo is miſplaced in the Map by miſtake.] It was two Leagues Eaſt from Nazareth, and about ten miles from Capernaum. The Tabor uſually ſhewn to Travellers, agrees not with that of Joſephus. Vol. II. Pag. 57, 369, 370, 495, 496

Tabor Plain, 1 Sam. 10. 3. perhaps the Methbara of the Gemariſts. v. II. p. 499

Tadmor, 1 King. 9. 18. It may be queſtioned whether it be the ſame with Tamar or Engeddi. Joſephus ſaith, the Greeks call it Palmyra, and ſo the vulgar Interpreters read it. v. II. p. 7, 311

Tahath, the three and twentieth Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs. v. I. p. 35

Tamar. Vid. Engeddi.

Tanis, ſaid to be the Pithom, Exod. 1. 11. by the Tarcum. Its deriv'd from Tin, which among the Chaldees ſignifies Mud. v. II. p. 290

Tarah, the Four and twentieth Manſion of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs. v. I. p. 35

Taricheæ, A Town in the Lower Galilee, South-weſt of the Lake of Geneſareth, over-againſt Gamala, and thirty Furlongs from Tiberias. v. I. p. 359. v. II. p. 57, 67, 68, 71, 83, 308

Tar-

Carnegola the Upper, is above Cæsarea Philippi, at the neck of Anti-Libanus, and is accounted by the Jews the Bound of the Land. Vol. II. Pag. 312, 517

Carshith, A City that was in the Dominion of Nineveh in the time of Jonah. v. I. p. 97

Carsus, A City in Cilicia, and a Free Town of the Romans. Here St. Paul was born; and here was an University in which were Scholars no whit inferior to Athens. v. I. p. 790. v. II. p. 664

Tekoa [in the Tribe of Judah, South of Jerusalem and Bethlehem, being distant from the former twelve miles, from the later six. Bonfrer.] It was the Birth-place of Amos, and famous for the best Oyl. There was a Wilderness near to it. v. I. p. 95. v. II. p. 50,295

Telithon, A City in Moab. Josephus. v. II. p. 316

Tetrarchy, not a fourth part of a Kingdom (for Syria had seventeen, &c.) but rather a Principality that was in the fourth rank of Excellency in the Roman Empire; as Emperors, Proconsuls, Kings, Tetrarchs. Vol. I. Pag. 452

Thebais in Egypt, was famous for Myrobalanum. Pliny. v. II. p. 352

Thessalonica, A City in Macedonia. v. I. p. 295

Tiberias City, in the Lower Galilee, formerly called Rakkath, Josh. 19. 35. but named Tiberias by Herod in honor of Tiberius. The Ground of it was before a Burying-place, but pleasant, having the Lake of Genesareth as a Wall on one side; and a little from Jordan, being at the Efflux of that from the Lake, and not in the middle of the Shore of the Lake (as the Maps.) It grew to be the prime City of Galilee, and indeed of all Israel, having thirteen Synagogues, and an Academy. Here was collected the Talmud; and here was the tenth and last Session of the Sanhedrim. It was from Scythopolis fifteen miles, from Hippo three, from Gadara six, from Zipporis eight or nine. It was famous for its Medicinal Waters. v. I. p. 368,369. v. II. *p.*56, 57, 67,68,69,72,308,515

Tigris River where it riseth and runs slower, was called Diglitus, where swifter and lower, Tygris. *v.*II. *p.*800

Timnath, or Thamna, one in Judea, and another of Samson in Dan. There was also a third, called Timnath-Serah, Josh. 24. 30. in Mount Ephraim where Joshua was buried. v. II. p. 373

Tiphsah, not far from Tirzah, where Menahem exercised great severity, 2 Kings 15. 16. v. I. p. 99

Tirathala, A Village near Gerizim, where the Jews met an Impostor amongst the Samaritans (Simon Magus as like as any) that promised to shew them Holy Vessels which Moses with his own hand had hid in Gerizim. v. I. p. 818

Tirzah, 1 Kings 14. 17. perhaps the same with Shechem. v. I. p. 78

Tishab, A City from whence Elijah was called the Tishbite, as say the Targums, which is far fetched: perhaps rather from Toshbi, which denotes no other than a Converter, to which Malach. 4. 5. seems to have alluded. v. II. p. 382, 383

Tres Tabernæ, Acts 28. 15. in Italy three and thirty miles from Rome, and betwixt that and Appii Forum. v. I. p. 322

Trachonitis, was a Province and Tetrarchy, or rather part of a Tetrarchy in Syria, anciently called Argob or Regab, being North of Perea and East of Batanea. And was so called, saith Tyrius, from Dragons, or secret lurking-places (which were so called) which this Country did abound in, the Inhabitants living upon Robbery: or it might be so called from Trachones, which, saith Strabo, were two Mountains beyond Damascus, and might be so called from the Hebrew word טרחה which signifies weariness, in regard of the difficulty of passing them. v. I. *p.*453. v. II. p. 81,316,361, 364, 366

Troas, Acts 20. 6. in Lesser Asia, and in the way from Ephesus to Macedonia. v. I. p. 316.

Troglodytes, were a People that dwelt in Caves and Holes, and were both of the North of the Land of Israel and the South. Pliny saith, Troglodyta had excellent Myrobalanum. v. II. p 352. 366

Tsok, was the Rock from whence the Goat Azazel was cast; it was near Beth-horon, twelve miles from Jerusalem. v. II. p. 52

Tyre, There were divers Towns called by the name of Tsur or Tyre, because built in a Rocky place. As 1. The noble Mart of Phœnicia, which had Bounds with old Tyre, nineteen miles about, and extended its Territories South as far as Ptolemais, and gave name to the Tyrus-Sidonia, which reach'd as far as Cæsarea-Philippi and Chabul. 2. There was a Tyre which was between Arabia and Judea beyond Jordan, and Josephus joyns Tyrians with Gadarens, &c. 3. There was another in Chabul. v. II. p. 10,58,59 312 322 369.

V.

Valley of Salt, near Edom, Psal. 60, Tit. Vol. I. Pag 63

Ur, A City of the Chaldees, Gen. 11. 28. v. I. p. 11.

Usha, or Oshe, A City over-against Sepharaim, from which it was a double Sabbath-days journey. Here the Sanhedrim sat. v. I. p. 365, 308. v. II. p. 76

Uz, The Country of Job, so called from Uz the Son of Nahor, Gen. 22. 21. v. I. p. 23

Z.

Zabulon Tribe, was North of Issachar. Its Latitude was North and South, and contained about eight miles. Its length was East and West from ward the Sea of Genesareth, not including it, to Carmel and the Great Sea. v. I. p. 21. v. II. p. 58, 66

Zalmon, Judg. 9. 48. A Mountain, or some Tract in a Mountain near Sychem. Vol. II. Pag. 310

Vid. Dalmanutha.

Zalmonah, The Five and thirtieth Mansion of the Israelites in the Wilderness. It signifies the place of the Image, because of the Brazen Serpent. It was called also Maaleh Acrabbim, or the coming up of Scorpions, Josh. 15.3. v. I. p. 36

Zarah, A City of Moab. Josephus. v. II. p. 316

Zared Valley [or Brook] between Jie-Abarim and Arnon. v. I. p. 36

Zarephath. Vid. Sarepta.

Zaretan, or Zartanah in Manasseh in the Plain of Jordan, not far from Bethshan, and twelve miles from Adam, betwixt which the Waters were divided. Vol. II Pag. 82, 637

Zeboim, One of the Cities destroyed with Sodom, South of Lasha and North of Adma, on the North Point of the Lake. v. II. p. 296

There was a Mountain also of that name. v. II. p. 51, 226

Zedekiah's, or Zedekah's Dens or Caves, not a few miles in measure. v. II. p. 88, 294, 366

Zemarites, were Canaanites, and by the Targums are called Chamathi, and they think them so called because they labored in Wooll. v. II. p. 328

Zephath, A Town in Upper Galilee. Vol. II. Pag. 77
Zer, neighbor to Ziddim. Vid. Ziddim.
Zeriphin Gardens near Jerusalem. v. II. p. 52.
Zeugma, The East-bound of Syria on Euphrates. Vid. Syria.
Ziddim, Josh. 19. 35. otherwise called Caphar-Chittaia, a Fortified City not far from Tiberias or Magdala. v. II. p. 71
Ziglag, in the South of Judah, 1 Sam. 30. 1. v. I. p. 59
Zin Wilderness, Num. 34. 4. so called from the Mountain Zin, or Mountainous Tract, as that was called from the Groves of Palms. It was part of the Wilderness of Paran, and the South bound of the Land: It had in it Metallick Mines. v. I. p. 27. v. II. p. 8,88,325
Ziph Desert in Judah. v. I. p. 57. v. II. p. 295
Zippors, so called, because situated on an Hill, or Kitron, Judg. 1. 29. the biggest City in Galilee, and for sixteen miles round pleasantly situated. It was from Tiberias twenty miles, from Chippar twelve, and in the middle between Caphar-Uthni and Caphar-Hananiah, which were thirty miles asunder. It was the ninth place where the Sanhedrim sat. v. I. p. 368. v. II. p. 58,74,249,515
Zoan, Numb. 13. 22. the best Country of Egypt. v. II. p. 46
Zoar, Gen. 19. 20. in Moab, Long. 67. 20. Lat. 30. 30. Four miles from Sodom, on the South end of the Lake, and not on the North (as the Maps) and fifteen miles from Necla. v. II. p. 6,296,501,502
Zobah. Vid. Syria.
Zuzims, A People anciently in Ammon. v. I. p. 12

The Description of JERUSALEM.

Jerusalem, was otherwise called Salem, Gen. 14. 18. Psal. 76. 2. and by Herodotus, Cadytis, probably from Cadisha, The Holy (the Syriack changing ש into ת) the common name of it, Isai. 48. 2, &c. and from Ælius Adrianus, Ælia. It was in compass fifty Furlongs, or six Miles and a quarter. The Latitude according to the Jews was 33. but according to Ptolomy, the Longitude is 66. 0. the Lat. 31. 40. It was from the Sea of Sodom eight and thirty miles, from Bethlehem five and thirty Furlongs, from Jericho about nineteen Miles, from Jordan thirty, from Neapolis thirty, and stood in the two Tribes of Judah and Benjamin. Vol. I. Pag. 497. Vol. II. Pag. 6,20,21,48.302, 303,320,322,372. Polyglot.

The girdle or compass of the City, Nehem. 3. v. II. p. 26

SOUTH.

Sheep-gate, Nehem. 3. 1. Josh. 5 2. so called, because it was a Market for Sheep; it was a little from the East, the corner looking South. v. II. p. 26,27,507
Fullers-field, South, near the Wall, not far from the corner Easterly; so called, from Wood framed together where Fullers dryed their Cloth, or from a Fullers Monument, of which Josephus writes. v. II. p. 40
Bethesda, It signifies, The place of Mercy, just within the Sheep-gate and the same with Solomons Pool. It had cloystered Walks. Vol. I. Harm. Sect. 24. Vol. II. Pag. 26,35,508,661,666.
Meah, Hananeel, } Towers beyond the Sheep-gate, Jer. 31.38. v. II p. 26
Fish-gate, Zeph. 1. 10. so called, from a Fish-Market there, rather than because the Fish were carried through it (as many conjecture) It was South. v. II. p. 27
The gate of Birds, called the second Gate, Zeph. 1. 10. perhaps it was that which is called the old Gate, Neh. 3. 6. v. II. p. 27
Ephraim-gate, was next to the old Gate, Neh. 12. 39. It was South, but a little from the corner West and South, 2 Kings 14 13. v. II. p. 28.

WEST.

Corner gate, 2 Kings 14. 13. [400 cubits from that of Ephraim, 2 Chron. 25. 23.] v. II. p. 28
Siloam Fountain, the same with Gihon, 1 Kings 1.33 It was on the back of Acra without the City, not far from the corner that look'd West and South, and ran in a contrary Channel East and West. As it made to the East, it left the Fullers Field upon the right, and saluted the Sheep-gate on the left, and so turning Eastwards, fell into Bethesda. This Pool which it thus emptied it self into, was called by divers names; as the Upper, and Solomon's, as also the old Pool, Isai. 22. 11. and the Pool of Shiloah, or Siloam, which gave name to all the Buildings about it, as the Tower of Siloam, &c.

By another Rivulet, the Waters of Siloam ran west, and coasted along the Broad-wall, the Tower of Furnaces, the Valley-gate and Dung-gate; and after a while at the Basis of Sion, or on the back of some small part of it, fell into the Lower or Kings-pool, called Shelah, Neh. 3. 15. This was without, though very near the wall of the City, and afterward brought within it by Manasseh. v. I. p. 1054. v. II. p. 25.26,27,508,509
Gareb-hill, Jer 31.38. as Lyra not amiss the same with Calvary from the South, and more to the West. v. II. p. 26. Polyglot.
Broad-wall, Neh. 12.39. Siloam ran by it. v. I. p. 1054
Tower of Furnaces, next to the Broad-wall. ibid.
Valley-gate, Neh. 3. 13. on the West at the Basis of Acra, Siloam ran by it. Ibid. & v. II. p. 27
Dung or Equitne-gate, Neh. 3. 14. A thousand Cubits from the Valley-gate. v. II. p. 27
Fountain-gate, Neh. 3. 15. another distinct from that of Siloam and the Dragon. ibid.
Steps that led up to the City of David, West, a little beyond Siloam, and at the foot of Sion. ibid. and p. 507
Burying-places of David.
A Pool.
The House of the Strong, Neh. 3. 16. Not far from whence the Wall turned North.
Pompey's Tents, on a Mountain near the North, but on the West. v. II. p. 35
Kings Gardens, extended from the descent of Sion to the Pool Shelah, and between the Fountain-gate and the Kings Pool, were Rivers drawn, that ran from Siloam into the Kings Pool. v. II. p. 509
Etam Fountain was Westward four Furlongs from the City, from whence was an Aqua-duct to the Temple. v. II. p. 31, 584

Vid. Etam, in the general Table.

NORTH.

NORTH.

On the North side was no Gate, but Buildings within close to the Wall. Vol. II. Pag. 27

Psephinus Tower, built by Herod at the North-west corner. ibid.

Zophim, or Scopus, A Mountain North of Sion, from whence there was a prospect into the City. v. II. p. 41

Herod's Sepulchre, without the North-wall of the City. v. II. p. 35

EAST.

The Tower which lyeth out, was in the very bending of the corner North and East, Neh. 3. 25. Vol. II. Pag. 27

Water-gate, Neh. 12. 37. so called, because the Waters that flowed from Etam into the Temple, descending into the Valley betwixt the Temple and Acra; and perhaps those of Bethesda (constantly supplied by an Aquæduct from Siloam) ran by this Gate into the Brook Kidron. v. II. p. 27,40,510

Ophel, was rather a Building than a Tower, South of the Water-gate and the Horse-gate. v. II. p. 27,508

Horse-gate, Neh. 3. 27. perhaps the same with the East-gate, Jer. 19. 2. was South of Ophel, and led into the Valley of Hinnom. v. II. p. 27,38

Miphkad Gate, the vulgar calls it The Gate of Judgment, not far from the South-East corner. v. II. p. 27

Kidron Valley, so called from the Brook (which had its name from Blackness, or Kedardung) ran from the East, embracing Sion on the North, appearing then broader. v. II. p. 607

Hinnom Valley (so called from shrieking) or Tophet (so called because of the Drums or Tabers) was a great part of Kidron (largely so called) ran South, bending to the West; and both of them met at the Horse-gate. v. I. p. 109, 1053, v. II. p. 27,37,38,40

Camp of the Assyrians, was betwixt Goath and the Horse-gate in the Valley of Hinnom, which was called the Valley of Carcases, Jer. 31. 40. because the Assyrians fell there. v. I. p. 1053. v. II. p. 35

Olivet Mount faced Jerusalem and the Temple, and Sion upon the East, winding likewise Northward, so as that it faced Sion also something upon the North. It's called, The Mount of Corruption, 2 Kings 23. 13. because of Solomon's Idolatry. v. I. p. 1053

Vid. Olivet, in the general Table.

Aceldama, if as now shewn, was in the Valley of Hinnom, or thereabout. v. II. p. 640

Gardens round, without the Walls of Jerusalem. v. II. p. 40.

The City JERUSALEM.

Jerusalem was built upon two Hills, Sion and Acra, confronting each other with a Valley betwixt, in which the Buildings of both did meet: over against which, East, was a third called Moriah. v. II. p. 22,23

Sion, or The Upper City (which was upon an higher Hill than the Lower) was the North part of Jerusalem, but winding West, so that part of it was West of the Temple. It reached not East so far as Acra. v. I. p. 1054

Bezetha. Where Sion fell short of the East, it was filled up with Bezetha, which was situated North over against Antonia, and divided from it by a deep Ditch. v. II. p. 24

Cænopolis, or the new City, did with Bezetha fill up the City East; It was lower than Bezetha. In this was a Wool-market, and a Market of Garments, and Shops. v. II p. 34

Millo, was a part of Sion, on the west side betwixt Davids City and the Temple, which it was just West of, and where Jerusalem (particularly so called) and Sion met; it was replenished with Buildings, and taken in as a part of the Suburbs of Sion, but parted by a Wall from it, in which was a Gate. v. I. p. 1056 v. II. p. 25, 507

Kings Stables were West of Moriah, in Millo before the Gate Parbar. v. II. p. 1056

Buildings in SION.

In it was the Palace, Court, and City of David. v. I. p. 1049

Kings Court, It was joyned to the Hippick or Horse Tower, and Xystus on the inside, and to the Northern Wall without. It stood in the North East corner. v. II. p. 23,27. To this the Gate Shalleheth led (which was the most Northern of the west Gates of the Mountain of the House.) And there was a Causway betwixt them, 1 Chron. 26. 6. (the Valley being filled up betwixt for the Passage) which was the renowned Ascent made by Solomon, for the better going up to the Temple. v. I. p. 1056

Asmoneans House, was in the further part of the Upper City, somewhat above Xystus. v. II. p. 23

Xystus, was an open Gallery at the furthest end toward the East; a Bridge led from thence to the Temple, and joyned the Temple to Sion. ibid.

Court of the Prison, was betwixt the corner of the Wall, North-East, and the Water-gate. ibid.

Sparrow Pool, just before Antonia. v. II. p. 35

Τυροποιῶν, or the Valley and Street of Cheesmongers (the most noted Street of the City) ran East and West betwixt Sion and Acra. The entrance into it probably was at the Horse-gate East, and so onward to the West. v. II. p. 25 34

Acra, bore upon it the Lower Town (properly called Jerusalem) It was naturally steep, and higher than Moriah, but was much level'd, and had the Valley betwixt them filled up by the Asmoneans, that the Temple might over-top the Buildings upon Acra, and that the coming from the City to the Temple might be more easie. v. I. p. 1054. v. II. p. 22,24 507

Archivum, or Repository for Records, In it were the Council-House, Siloam Tower, and Ophel, &c. v. II. p. 24

Moriah, or the Mountain of the Lords House, was compassed by the City like a Theatre, was in the second Temple, by several fillings up, made a perfect Square of Five hundred Cubits on every side, and Two thousand in the whole, and was inclosed in a Wall, all within which was taken in for Holy Ground. It faced Olivet on the East, Jerusalem on the South, and Sion on the North. v. I p. 1049, &c. v. II. p. 28. Moriah was part in one Tribe, part in another; the most part of the Courts in Judah: the Altar, Porch, Temple, and Holy Place, in Benjamin. v. I. p. 1050, &c. v. II. p. 21,24

Antonia, The Mountain of the House, had some space on the North without the Wall, and there stood the Castle Antonia, joyning to the West Angle, and so was on the North-west part of Moriah. It was two Furlongs in compass, and the Rock it stood upon was fifty Cubits high, and steep. v. I. p. 1060.

The Mountain of the House, on the side it faced Jerusalem or Acra, had two Gates call'd the Gates of Huldah, in equal distance from the Angles of the two Walls East and West. To the West it had four Gates, viz. Shalleheth, Parbar, Kiponus, &c. To the West the little Gate Tedi. To the East, the Gate Shushan. v. I. p. 105. v. II. p. 299

The Temple and Courts were not just in the middle of the Mount. v. I. p. 1064

Temple-street. The Temple was not on the Wall, for there was a Street betwixt that and the Wall called The Temple Street, Ezra 10. 9. and The East-Street, 2 Chron. 29. 4. which led through the Water-gate to Kidron, through which the Priest went to burn the Red Heifer, and into which our Saviour came with Hosannah's. v. II. p. 34,303,5-7

FINIS.

Since the Printing the former Errata before the Indexes, this following more perfect Collection of Errors has come to hand, which is here exhibited for the Readers further advantage in the use of this Volume.

ERRATA in Horæ Hebraicæ.

PAge 4. line 4. read הנועה וגנויי Ibid. l. 9. r. Beersheba. Ibid. l. 12. r. Strabo. Ibid. l. 51. r. Idumea. p. 5. l. 13. r. Sibbechean. Ibid. l. 37. r. ההום Ibid. l. 52. r. Amanah. p. 6. l. 14. r. מעלה עשן Ibid. l 17. r. μῶλ. l. 25. r. openeth. p. 10. l. 39. Ornithon. p. 12. l. 54. before but add, The land of a Kid. p. 13. l. 44. r. his Captains. p. 15. l 4. r. ברים Ibid l. 54. r. Tiberias. p. 17. l. 12. r. that time. Ibid. l. 50. r. whom. p. 18. l. 31. r. במורח p. 22. l. 38. r. ירבי p. 23. l. 11. r. Σελλομεὶ δ' ἐλο. Ibid. l. 21. r. above. Ibid. l 41. after on add to. Ibid l. 47. r. Σελλομεὶδ' ἐλέλα. p. 25. l. 24. r. Beam. p. 28. l. 26. del. of. Ibid l 34. r. whole Platform. p. 31. l. 43. r. זקן p. 35. l 47. After Artificers add in Brass p. 39. l. 50. r. pile. p. 40. l 22. r. וורדים Ibid. l 39. r. mentioned. Ibid. l. 43. Akene. p. 46. l. 18. r. Jurico. p. 49. l. 12. r. Bride-chamber. Ibid. l 31. r. Καλέλοϲαν. p. 51. l 50. r. תרי Ibid. l. 51. r. things. p. 54 l. 29. r. Sid. Ibid. l. 38. r. ἐξακοσίων. p. 55. l. 49. r. Διοιώσω. p. 56. l. 4. r. παλεὶ. p. 57. l. 16. r. we. Ibid. l. 20. r. Ἰοϲδάνη. p. 58. l. 31. r. dearth. p. 60. l. 49. r. and Heathen. p. 65. l. 31. r. Julias. p. 68. l. 8. r. Thy. p. 69. l. 28. r. רבתי p. 76 l. 4. r. sometime. p 77. l. 30. r. Γαζαρὰ κώμην, the Town Gazareth. Ibid. end in lin. The Gebaraganes. p. 78. l. 51. r. מאברין p 80. l. 20. r. ἐπορεύθησαν. p. 81. l. 3. del. as. p. 83. l. 10. ὁμώμεθον. p 88. l. 15. after disprais, add to their dispraise. p. 89. l. 3. καλεσκεύαϲε. p 95. l. 16. r. Liberti. Ibid. l. 17. del. for. p 96. l. 23. r. settled. p. 97. l. 51. r. רשע p. 102. l. 27. r. יחיך Ibid. l. 3. of the Margin. r. פסקו הראש p. 110. l. 33. r. אחד כופר ואחד p. 112. l. 29. r. Καπαϲσὶ Θ. p 116 l. 49 r. seventy weeks. Page 291. line 51. r. initiated. p. 296. l. 20. r. Targum of Onkelos. p. 299. l. ult. del. of this. p. 302. l. 6. r. אחד add in the Margin there, Zavim cap. 1. halac. 5 p. 310. l. 20. r. Paltathah. Ibid. l. 21. r. Eltus of Tiberias. Ibid. l 26. r. Zalmon. p. 315. l. 25. r. R. Meir. p. 316. l. 1. r. Yebb. p. 318 l 4. del. by. p. 319. l. 55. r. מהלך Ibid. l. ult. r. bought to be eaten. p. 326. l. 38. r Elam. Ibid. l 46. del. him. p. 328. l. 8. r. Aram. p. 329. l. 28. r. Kenizzites. p. 330. l. ult. r. Ἰαϲεοὶ. p. 362. l. 15. r. Ἱεϱάϲια. p. 363. l. 37. r. קרניה Ibid. l. 57. r. Gaulonitis. p. 364. l. 6. r. טרכונא and טרנונא p. 365. l. 53. r. δ' ἀυτὸν. p. 366. l. 7. r. Cyriſtica, or Chalcidice. Ibid. l. 19. r. Troglodytæ. p. 367. l. 3. r. that pronunciation. p. 369. l. 31. r. ירברו בראשונה דבר Ibid. l. 38. r. came. p. 370 l. 39. r. whether this. p. 371. l. 23. r. common furlongs, seven miles, and an half. Ibid. l. 33. r. by it self. p. 372. l. 1. after plenty add, and pleasantness. p. 372. l. 36. r. plains of Idumea. p. 373. l. 2. r. The Natives of those two families. Ibid. l. 10. r. Siphra. p. 374. l. 27. r. after no add more. p. 375. l. 11. r. ἐπιδήμησε. p. 376. l. 6. r. saying. Ibid. l. 8. r. may. p. 491. l. 21. r. The Vulgar Greek Copies have it. p. 492. l. 8. r. בי Ibid. l. 11. r. ב' תניא p. 493. l. 24. place τὴν after φύλλη, and in the same line r. μικπαπαῦλαν. p. 497. l. 44. r. περιαγορεύεται. Ibid. l. 45. r. From that place where. Ibid. l. 50. r. In the end of the Chapter. Ibid. l. 60. after whether add our. p. 499. l 28. r. Salameans p. 501. l. 12. after South add, Otherwise you would remove Macherus a great way from its proper situation. p. 501. l. 23. r. Διατείναι. p. 503. l 29. r. Josephus faultering. p. 504. l. 2. r. or the Kings. p. 505. l. 5. r. Cattiphu. p. 509. l. 58. r. a Rivulet. p. 511. l. 13. r. under it in. Ibid. l. 15. r. he stands. Ibid. l. 33. r. Terentius. p 512 l. 28. del. for. p. 514. l. 2. r. אמלטור p. 514. l. 42. r. Targum of Jonathan. p. 515. l. 41. r. Co pher. in the same line, r. Shemoth. Ibid l. 52. r. a most. p. 516. l 1. r. to the Scholar. Ibid. l. ult. r. ἀπαλεῶτε. Ibid. l. 32. r. Cadcot bar Sintgora. Ibid. l. 51. r. shew himself.

These are the chief mistakes in the Chorographical pieces. There are divers in the Excerptations, as mispointings; and particularly errors in the Hebrew Letters of a like shape, as ר for ד and כ for ב and ע for ץ &c. and vice versa. Which a judicious and skilful Reader will easily amend.

ERRATA in the Sermons.

PAge 1036. line 27. after was add that. p. 1038. l. 21. r. mainly. p. 1040. l. 59. r. which. p. 1045. l. 54. r. your. p. 1048. l. 41. r. this. Ibid. l. 43. r. otherwise. p. 1051. l. 41. r. us. p. 1054. l. 38. del. is. Ibid. l. 44. r. here. p. 1055. l. 5. r. where. Ibid. 13. r. privately. p. 1056. l. 21. after accomplishment del. not. p. 1057. l. 4. r. Sunshine. Ibid. l. 13. r. Then. p. 1058. l. 10. r. mistakers. Ibid. l. 42. del. not. p. 1059. l. 8. r. work. Ibid. l. 42. r. פרנסים Ibid. l. 63. r. Patre. p. 1060. l. 26. r. was. Ibid. l. 27. after as add a. Ibid. l. 28. r. the. Ibid. l. 45. before continued r. and. Ibid. l. 48. after continues, r. it. p. 1061. l. 61. r. the. p. 1062. l. 32. after Infidels add the. p. 163. l. 1. dele men. Ibid. l. 29. dele not. Ibid. l. 57. near. p. 1064. l. 29. r. loved. p. 1067. l. 24. r. state. p. 1070. l. 62. r. whence. p. 1072. l. 3. r. Conscience. p. 1074. l 48. r. last. p. 1075. l. 42. r. Punitive. p. 1077. l. 54 r. righteousness. p. 1078. l. 11 r. obtain. p. 1081. l. 43. r. unchastity. Ibid. l. 58. r. she. p. 1087. l 46. r. forsooth. p. 1091. l. 52. r. you. p. 1094. l. 7. r. convinceth p 1095. l. 48. r. חטאה Ibid. l. 49. r. אם Ibid. l. 60. r. מתה Ibid. The same line r. ביד p. 1096. l. 42. r. That. Ibid. the same line after unwilling add viz. p. 1097. l. 15. r. misinterpreting. p. 1099. l. 1. r. perverts. p. 1100. l. 33 r. sight. p. 1101. l. 37. r. Doom. Ibid. ult. r. כהובים Ibid. the same line, r. Hagiagrapha. p. 1103 l 53. after vailed r. him. p. 1104. l. 51. r. his. p. 1106. l. 45. Boanerges p. 1110. l. 33. r. See 2. p. 1112. l. 49. r. them. Ibid. l. 54. r. when. p. 1119. l. 44. after what add proof and assurance is there, that God will judge the world, the. p. 1132. l. 33. r. reserved. p. 1133. l. 6. r. Tenent. p. 1134. l. 17. r. badge. p. 1136. l. 21. r. in. p. 1138. l. 6. r. ask. p. 1139. l. 21. r. מעין Ibid. l. 26. r. superinduceth. Ibid l. 47. r. Gods, and dele the comma. Ibid. l. 55. r. כבוד p. 1142. l. 1. add I. Ibid. l. 20. add I. p. 1143. l. 6. dele the last or. p. 1146. l. 25. r. elected. p. 1148. l. 16. dele the period point. p. 1149. l. 18. add a period before He. p. 1152. l. 47. r. Chap. p. 1155. l. 26. r. of. Ibid. l. 28. r. מהו p. 1159. l. 43. r. jog. p. 1160. l 35. r. Targumica. Ibid. l. 36. r. that Tongue. p. 1169. l. 49. r. are. p. 1171. l. 21. add in the margin I. Ibid. l. 48. add in the margin II. p. 1174. l. 35. add I. p. 1175. l. 61. add II p. 1181. l. 14. Midianitish. p. 1185. l. 12. r. Wights. Ibid. l. 41. r. Aruch a Talmudical. p. 1187. l. 16. r. was Ibid. l. 23. after in add all. p. 1188. l. 39. r. Lord. p. 1189. l. penult. after cannot r. but. Ibid. the same line r. te. p. 1192. l. 46. r. להרבורית Ibid. l. 51. r. Epithites. p. 1193. l. 9. r. Epithite. p. 1198. l. 55. dele the. p. 1200. l. 39 presly. p. 1201. l. 7. for your r. the. p. 1212. l. 53. r. straitned. p. 1233. l. 8. r. binding. p. 1237. l. 18. r. engrafted. p. 1239. l. 1. r away. Ibid. l. 2. dele the second let. Ibid l. 10. r. inquiry. Ibid. l. 11. r. intimation. Ibid. l. 13. impenitent. p. 1240. l. 13. r. a King. Ibid. l. 26. after a r. this. p. 1241. l. 8. dele bath. p. 1243. l. 37. after As add to. Ibid. l. 40. dele so. p. 1244. l. 17. r. more. p. 1245. l. 3. at this. p. 1251. l. 31. dele the second And. p. 1252. l. 35. r. his sin. Ibid. l. 36. r. oft. p. 1257. l. 53. dele in it. p. 1267. l. 4. In the margin add I. p. 1270. l. 38. r. motion. p. 1272. l. 20. r. racking. p. 1276. l. 60. r. ways. p. 1277. l. 29. dele that. p. 1278. l. 27. r doted. Ibid. l. 34. dele not. Ibid. l. 46. In the margin add I. p. 1279. l. 53. r. word. p. 1281. l. 10. in the margin add II. p. 1283. l. 10. after First add thing. p. 1303. l. 23. in the margin add I. p. 1310. l. 21. r. righteous. p. 1314. l. 15. r. even. p. 1321. l. 13. r. lay. p. 1323. l. 12. r. day. p. 1326. l. 17. after Christ add a period. p. 1328. l. 51. after some add thing. p. 1337. l. 44. r. did. Ibid l. 46. r. Children. p. 1338. l. 32. r. even. Ibid. l. 44. r. became. p. 1340. l. 48. after stock add of. p. 1350. l. 58. r. κλασεως. p. 1352. l. 52. r. genera.

THE TABLES, or INDEXES, Belonging to the Second Volume,
OF Doctor LIGHTFOOTS Works.

READER,

THAT this Work, ſufficiently Great, Pleaſant, and Uſeful in it ſelf, may be ſo to thee, thou art deſired to Correct with thy Pen the enſuing Errors of the Preſs; eſpecially, thoſe that refer to the right numbring of the Pages, which will highly befriend thee in the uſe of the following Indexes or Tables, as alſo in the Correcting the other Erratas.

ERRATA.

IN the Hebrew and Talmudical Exercitations upon the Evangeliſt St. Mark, at the firſt Y in the ſecond Alphabet, the number of the Page, viz. 345. is repeated on the next Page, and ſo the number continues on for twenty eight Pages more, being fourteen numbers twice ſet down; ſo that if the Reader find not what he wants on the firſt of any of thoſe Pages, he may turn to the ſecond, where he will eaſily find it.---- In the Hebrew and Talmudical Exercitations upon the Evangeliſt St. John, at the ſecond X in the third Alphabet; for Page 531. read 523. and ſo on for three Pages, viz. for 532. r. 524. for 533. r. 525. for 534. r. 526.---- In the Hebrew and Talmudical Exercitations upon the firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians, in the Additions to the fourteenth Chapter, at the firſt L in the fifth Alphabet, for Page 799. r. 809. ---- In the Sermons, at the ſecond Z in the ſixth Alphabet, for Page 1109. r. 1107. and ſo on for three Pages more, viz. for 1110. r. 1108. for 1111. r. 1109. for 1112. r. 1110. ---- At the firſt B in the ſeventh Alphabet, ſecond number, for 1022. r. 1122.

Page.	Line.	Read.
3	7	Sphinx.
6	45	Zoar.
	24	Solinus.
43	1	Pſal. 132. 6.
[illegible]
222	44	ſole.
224	35	tranſported.
244	28	abundance.
292	4	Deut. 2. 23.
297	60	Hony.
336	43	There is a controverſie.
341	34	twelve.
352	44	bride chambers.
357	22	hour.
358	[illegible]
	38	Alexander.
383	37	Temple.
387	47	of the field.
402	46	vain-glorying.
404	48	caught up by.
410	36	ſpace of.
414	12	own.
425	48	theſe Towns.
454	6	years.
481	penult.	ſaying.
494	20	near.
523	Marg. 5.	Appi.

Page.	Line.	Read.
515	34	young.
577	antepenult	they.
602	3	Ezek. 15. 2.
646	43	Grave.
654	30	and.
	54	Alexandrian.
658	9	1 Cor. 11. 21.
657	37	Theudas.
660	49	were.
690	40	heard.
742	35	man.
798	17	diſperſed.
	23	Talmudiſts.
752	41	Jews had lived.
791	43	Pſal. 102.
1037	39	Heb. 2.
1038	16	Matth. 23. 2, 3.
1039	34	Feaſt of Dedication.
1041	2	conformed.
1044	8	Matth. 12. 43, 44, 45.
1051	2	in peace with God.
1058	19	Matth. 19.
1061	10	ſuch an occaſion as this.
1063	29	do thou with.
1066	48	Exod. 6. 25.
1073	6	2 Pet. 3. 13.
1074	43	1 Tim. 4. 1.

Page.	Line.	Read.
1080	11	been.
1081	58	ſhe were guilty.
1100	17	Elixir.
1106	45	two words of.
1110	33	2 Theſſ. 2.
1118	10	had been theſe, had there.
[illegible]
1129	30	went.
1138	38	ſhall.
1139	34	to be uſed.
1145	19	they.
	24	preface.
1147	21	it was a time.
1180	55	no changling.
1184	6	David.
1192	9	derive.
1223	3	hand.
1224	18	Propher.
1226	29	therefore.
1242	33	from.
1252	1	ſorer.
1278	34	now.
1286	5	they have made the beſt of, &c.
1302	24	God.
1306	20	had.

The First TABLE, of Scriptures Illustrated, Explained or Reconciled; in whole or in part: with an Appendix of such as are Differently Read from the ordinary Translation.

GENESIS.

Ch. vers. — Page

1. 2. THE Spirit of God moved upon the face of the Waters. 643
3. 15. I will put enmity between thee and the Woman. 1171
21. Unto Adam and his Wife did the Lord make coats of Skins. 1327
4. 7. If thou dost not well sin lyes at the door. 1085, 1243
6. 3. My Spirit shall not always strive with Man. 1291
10. 18. The Canaanites were dispersed. 329
19. The borders of the Canaanites. 328
14. 5. Chedorlaomer, and the Kings, smote, &c. 363
46. 27. Children that were born to Joseph, &c. 402
All the Souls were threescore and ten, Compared, and reconciled with Acts 7. 14. Threescore and fifteen. 667
49. 17. Dan shall be a Serpent by the way, &c. 1249
22. Joseph is a fruitful Bough, even by a Well. 537

EXODUS.

Ch. vers. — Page

1. 19. THE Midwives said unto Pharaoh, the Hebrew Women are, &c. 1243, 1244
4. 24. The Lord met Moses, and sought to kill him. 1066
8. 19. This is the finger of God. 1244
17. 16. The Lord will have war with Amalech. 291
20. 5. Unto the fourth Generation. 97,98
28. 30. Thou shalt put in the Breast Plate of Judgment the Urim and Thummim. 1067
32. 27. Put every Man his sword by his side, and slay, &c. 1081, 1315
34. 14. The Lord whose Name is Jealous, is a jealous God. 1313

LEVITICUS.

Ch. vers. — Page

13. 46. HE that is a Leper shall dwell alone, &c. 460
19. 17. Thou shalt not hate thy Brother, &c. 214
20. 5. Visiting the iniquity of the Fathers upon the Children. 1127
23. 10, 11. On the morrow of the Sabbath the Priest shall wave, &c. 184, 411

NUMBERS.

Ch. vers. — Page

13. 24. LAnguage of Ashdod, what? 504
15. 27, 28. If any Soul sin through ignorance, &c. but the Soul that doth ought presumptuously, &c. 1095
38. Fringes in the borders of your Garments. 354
22. 5. He sent Messengers to Balaam, the Son of Beor to Pethor. Reconciled with 2 Pet. 2. 15. Son of Bosor. 1144
24. 24. Ships shall come from the coast of Chittim, &c. 1168
33. 29. They camped near Jordan from Beth Jeshimoth unto Abel Shittim. 46

DEUTERONOMY.

Ch. vers. — Page

2. 23. HAzerim. 292
7. 22. Thou must not consume the Nations at once, lest the Beasts of the field encrease upon thee. 1224
8. 13. That certain Saint, &c. 1230
9. 21. I took your sin, the Calf which you had made. 1315
11. 30. Gilgal, what? 79,80
16. 2. Thou shalt Sacrifice the Passover of thy Flocks and of thine Herds. 356,357,610
6. Sacrifice the Passover at even. 7. Thou shalt turn in the morning, and go unto thy Tent. 794
16. They shall not appear before the Lord empty. 356
21. 23. His body shall not remain all night upon the tree. 271
24. 4. Her former Husband which sent her away, may not take her again to be his Wife. 759
27. 4. The Samaritan Text upon this place noted. 505
32. 8. When the most High divided the Nations, &c. 402,403
22. To the lowermost Hell, &c. 248
29. O that they were wise, that they understood this, &c. 1282
33. 25. Thy shoos shall be iron and brass. 88

JOSHUA.

Ch. vers. — Page

8. 33. STood over against Mount Gerrizim, &c. 136
15. 1. Edom, rendred אל רום, Rome. 292
18. 12. Very many Versions to be corrected which render ים, the Sea. 19

Ch. vers.

Ch. verſ. Page
19. 33, 34. The outgoing of the border was to Jordan. 66
35. Rakkath, ---- Chammath. 67,68
24. 19. Ye cannot ſerve the Lord, &c. 1244, &c.

JUDGES.

Ch. verſ. Page
4. 5. BEtween Ramah and Bethel in Mount Ephraim. 20
5. 8. They choſe new Gods, then was war in the Gates. ------ Was there Shield or Spear ſeen among forty thouſand in Iſrael. 1067
7. 3. Let him return early from Mount Gilead; a difficult place. 373
24. Beth-barah, what? 492,493,494

RUTH.

Ch. verſ. Page
1. 1. IT came to paſs in the days when the Judges judged, &c. Theſe words are inverted by the Jewiſh Commentators. 1111

1 SAMUEL.

Ch. verſ. Page
22. 6. SAul aboad in Gibeah under a Tree in Ramah. 41

2 SAMUEL.

Ch. verſ. Page
2. 8. IShboſheth the Son of Saul. 1315
9. 10. Bring the Fruits that thy Maſters Son may have food to eat. ----- Thy Maſters Son ſhall always eat bread at my Table. Reconciled. 1241, 1242
11. 21. The Son of Jeruboſheth. 1315
18. 8. The wood devoured more people, &c. 1224
20. 18. They ſhall ſurely ask counſel of Abel, and ſo they ended the matter. 367

1 KINGS.

Ch. verſ. Page
4. 12. AND all Bethſhan. 492
7. 46. The Plains of Jordan. 492,493
9. 13. The Land of Cabul. 311
18. Tadmor, what place? 7

2 KINGS.

Ch. verſ. Page
23. 4. THE Prieſts of the ſecond order. 397
25. 5. Plains of Jericho. 43

1 CHRONICLES.

Ch. verſ. Page
1. 36. THE Song of Eliphaz, &c. 403
7. 20. Children of Ephraim, &c. 667

NEHEMIAH.

Ch. verſ. Page
3. Many verſes. 26, to 28

ESTHER.

Ch verſ. Page
9. 21. FOurteenth and fifteenth day of the month Adar, &c. 87

JOB.

Ch. verſ. Page
19. 25. I Know that my Redeemer liveth, &c. 791

PSALMS.

Pſ. verſ. Page
37. 28. THE ſeed of the wicked ſhall be cut off. 97
42. 6. The Hill Miſſaar. 501
44. 22. We are killed all the day long. 513
48. 2. Mount Sion on the North-ſide; Compared with Ezek. 40. 2. 22
49. 12. Man being in honour abideth not, &c. 1323
50. 16, 17. But to the wicked God ſaid what haſt thou to do, &c. 1252
56. 12. Thy vows O Lord are upon me. 1221
78. 20. He ſmote the Rock, and the waters guſhed out. 619
49. He caſt upon them the fierceneſs of his anger, &c. by ſending evil Angels among them. 1084
82. 4. I will make mention of Rahab and of Babilon to them that know me. 1146
6. I have ſaid ye are Gods; ridiculouſly interpreted by the Jews. 579
102. 25. Thou Lord in the beginning haſt founded the Earth. 791
110. 3. Thy people ſhall be a willing people in the day of thy power. 647,691,1105
111. 9. He commanded his covenant forever. 1068
118. 22. The Stone which the Builders rejected. 652
24. The day which the Lord hath made. 272
132. 6. We heard of it in Ephrata, we found it in the fields of the wood. 43

PRO-

PROVERBS.

Ch. verſ. — Page

6. 26. THE precious Life. 1209

20. 25. It is a ſnare for a Man to devour that which is holy. 1220

ECCLESIASTES.

Ch. verſ. — Page

2. 5. THE Targumiſt, upon it noted. 509

5. 5. It is better that thou ſhouldeſt not vow, than that thou ſhouldſt vow and not pay. 1221

12. 1. Remember thy Creator, &c. 1157

11. The words of the wiſe are as goads. 575

ISAIAH.

Ch. verſ. — Page

1. 10. SOdom, put for Jeruſalem. 20

2. 2. The laſt days, compared with Acts 2.17. 1 Tim. 4. 1. 2 Tim. 3. 1. 1 Joh. 2. 18. 1 Cor. 10. 11. 1 Pet. 4. 7. and interpreted of the end of the Jewiſh State. 1074

4. They ſhall beat their ſwords into plow ſhares, and their ſpears into pruning hooks, &c. and Iſa. 11. 9. reconciled with Matth. 10. 34, 35. Luke 12. 51, 52. 1042, 1061

Neither ſhall they learn war. 573

3. 16. Making a tinckling with their feet. 587

6. 1. I ſaw the Lord ſitting upon a throne. 593

11. That prepare a Table for that troop. 302

7. 14. A Virgin ſhall conceive and bear a ſon. 101

8. 6. Waters of Siloah, that go ſoftly. 25

9. 1. Nevertheleſs the dimneſs ſhall not be ſuch. 1244

Land of Zebulon, and of Naphthali, &c. 131

10. 34. Lebanon ſhall not fall, &c. 584

11. 1. A rod out of the ſtem of Jeſſe. 584

4. He ſhall ſlay the wicked. 573

9. They ſhall not hurt nor deſtroy in all my holy Mountain, and Iſa. 2. 4. reconciled with Matth. 10. 34, 35. Luke 12. 51, 52. 1042, 1061

19. 23, 24, 25. Iſrael ſhall be the third with Egypt and Aſſyria. 1036, 1144, 1146

26. 19. Thy dead men ſhall live, together with my dead body ſhall they ariſe. 590

And compared with John 5. 20. Epheſ. 2. 1. 1105

28. 16. I lay in Sion a foundation, a ſtone, &c. 205

35. 10. It pleaſed the Lord to bruiſe him, and put him to grief. 1255

40. 3. Wilderneſs ----- for Heathen World. 296

45. 13. All thy children ſhall be taught of the Lord. 1057

Ch. verſ. — Page

53. 4. Surely he hath born our griefs, &c. reconciled with Matth. 8. 17. 167

7. He was led as a ſheep to the ſlaughter. 680

8. Who ſhall declare his generation? 1112

55. 3. Hear, and your Souls ſhall live, &c. Even the ſure mercies of David. 1235

56. 1. Keep judgment, and do juſtice. 1114

63. 4. The day of vengeance is in my heart, &c. 351

8. Children that will not lye; compared with John 1. 47. 524

65. 13. Behold my ſervants ſhall eat, but they ſhall be hungry. 552

17. I create a new Heaven and a new Earth. 244, 626, 1075

20. There ſhall be no more than an infant of days. 573, 1071

66. 7, 8. Before ſhe travailed ſhe brought forth, before her pain came, ſhe was delivered, &c. 244, 350, 351

20. They ſhall bring their Brethren, &c. 347

21. I will take of them for Prieſts and Levites, ſaith the Lord. 1040

24. Their worm ſhall not dye, neither ſhall their fire be quenched. 38, 346, 347

JEREMIAH.

Ch. verſ. — Page

2. 31. SEE the Word of the Lord. 1125

4. 23. Earth without form, &c. 244

31. 34. They ſhall teach no more every man his neighbour ----- for they ſhall all know me. 1071

EZEKIEL.

Ch. verſ. — Page

8. 17. THEY put the branch to their noſe. 602

15. 2. What is the Vine-tree more to me than any tree, &c. 602

27. 7. Wheat of Minith and Pannag. 684

38. 17. Concerning Gog, and the Land of Magog. 1173, 1247

DANIEL.

Ch. verſ. — Page

7. 9. THrones were caſt down, &c. 220

10. The judgment was ſet, &c. 220

13, 14. Kingdom of Heaven. 115

18, 26, 27. The Saints of the moſt High ſhall take the Kingdom, &c. 1058, 1059

24. The ten horns are ten Kings that ſhall ariſe. 1035

25. A time, and times, and the dividing of times. 1035

9. 24. Seventy years, &c. 116

27. He ſhall confirm the Covenant, &c. 117

12. 2. Many of them that ſleep in the duſt of the Earth ſhall awake. 1085

HOSEA.

Ch. verſ. — Page

3. 5. IN the later days; compared with Acts 2. 17. 1 Tim. 4. 1. 2 Tim. 3. 1. 1 Joh. 2. 18. 1 Cor. 10. 11. 1 Pet. 4. 7. and interpreted of the end of the Jewiſh State. 1074

4. 8. They eat up the ſins of my people. 1243

5. 11. Ephraim is oppreſſed, &c. ---- Becauſe he willingly walked after the commandment. 1098

8. 12. I have written to him the great things of my Law, &c. 1127

AMOS.

Ch. verſ. — Page

3. 2. YOU have I known of all the families of the Earth, therefore I will puniſh you for all your iniquities. 1226

4. 3. And ye ſhall go out at the breaches, &c. 673

5. 18. Wo to you that deſire the day of the Lord; reconciled with Chap. 6. 3. 1120

25. Have ye offered unto me. 671

26. The Tabernacle of Moloch, &c. compared and harmonized with Luke 7. 43. 671, to 673

6 3. Wo to you that put the evil day far away; reconciled with Chap. 5. 18. 1120

OBADIAH.

verſ. — Page

20. Z Arephath. 368

HAGGAI.

Ch. verſ. — Page

2. 9. THE glory of this later houſe ſhall be greater than of the former. 531

ZECHARIAH.

Ch. verſ. — Page

11. 8. THree Shepherds, &c. interpreted of Phariſees, Sadducees, and Eſſeans. 1037, 1102

11. 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, 8, 10, 14. Concerning the great Shepherd. 573, 574

14. 16, 17. It ſhall come to paſs that every one that is left of all the Nations, &c. 107

MALACHI.

Ch. verſ. — Page

4. 5. BEhold I will ſend Elijah. 382, &c.

MATTHEW.

Ch. verſ. — Page

1. 17. FOurteen Generations, &c. thrice ſaid, but ſquares not exactly. Vindicated. 99, 100

3. 5. The Region about Jordan. 43, 298, &c.

7. Who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come. 1128

4. 15. Beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles. 362

6. 9. After this manner pray ye. 1138, &c.

8. 17. Himſelf took our infirmities; reconciled with Iſa. 53. 4. 167

28. The Country of the Gergaſins; reconciled with Mark 5. 1. 70

10. 5. Go not into the way of the Gentiles. 273

29, 30. The hairs of your head are numbred. 1251

34, 35. Think not that I am come to ſend peace on Earth; reconciled with Iſa. 2. 4. & 11. 9. 1042, 1061

12. 32. It ſhall never be forgiven in this world, nor in the world to come. 1095

43, 44, 45. When the unclean Spirit is gone out of, &c. Even ſo ſhall it be to this wicked generation. Meant of the Apoſtacy of the Jews from Chriſtianity. 1044, 1096

15. 22. A woman of Canaan; reconciled with Mark 7. 26. 202

Ch. verſ. — Page

39. Coaſts of Magdala; reconciled with Mark 8. 10. 307

16. 28. Shall not taſte of death, till they ſee the Son of Man coming in his Kingdom. 625, 1074

18. 17. Let him be to thee as an Heathen, or a Publican. 1097

19. 28. Ye alſo ſhall ſit upon twelve Thrones judging the twelve Tribes of Iſrael. 1057

21. 19. No figs, but leaves; why was the figtree curſed, when as it was not time for figs? 87, 225, to 228

38. The Husbandmen ſeeing the Son ſaid among themſelves, this is the heir, let us kill him, &c. 654

23. 2, 3. The Scribes and Phariſees ſit in Moſes ſeat; Therefore whatſoever they bid you obſerve, that obſerve and do. 1038, 1080

24. 22, 24. For the Elect ſake. ---- Deceive the very Elect. 1146

29, 30. The Sun ſhall be darkned, &c. --- Then ſhall appear the ſign of the Son of Man in Heaven. 608, 1074, 1201

31. Son of Man, ſend his Angels, &c. 1201

26. 6. And John 13. 1, 2. The Suppers here mentioned were the ſame, however otherwiſe interpreted. 252, to 254, 260, 261

Ch. verſ. — Page

24. This night before the Cock crow thou ſhalt deny me thrice. 1086
37. Thou art a Galilean, for thy ſpeech betrayeth thee. 78
27. 33, 34. Vinegar to drink mingled with Gall; reconciled with Mark 15. 23. 267, 617
48. Put it on a reed; reconciled with John 19. 29. 617
28. 19. Go and teach all Nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghoſt. 1122, to 1124

MARK.

Ch. verſ. — Page

1. 40. Beſeeching him, and kneeling to him. 347
3. 28, 29. All ſins ſhall be forgiven, &c. But he that ſhall blaſpheme againſt the Holy Ghoſt hath never forgiveneſs, &c. 1130
5. 1. The Country of the Gadarens; reconciled with Matth. 8. 28. 70
7. 26. A Greek, a Syrophenician by Nation; reconciled with Matth. 15. 22. 202
8. 10. Parts of Dalmanutha; reconciled with Matth. 15. 29. 307
10. 21. Jeſus looked upon him and loved him. 596
11. 13. The time of Figs not yet; why then was the Figtree curſed for having no Figs upon it? 225, to 228
25. Love to ſtand praying. 156
12. 7. This is the heir come let us kill him. 583
4. The Treaſury. 299
13. 32. But of that day and hour knoweth no Man, not the Angels, neither the Son, but the Father. 1407
15. 23. Wine mingled with Myrrhe; reconciled with Matth. 27. 34. 267, 617
25. It was the third hour; reconciled with John 19. 14. 356, 357
16. 15. Go ye and preach the Goſpel to every creature. 1149

LUKE.

Ch. verſ. — Page

1. 80. John was in the deſerts. 113
4. 16. He went to the Synagogue, and ſtood up for to read. 1040
9. 51. When the time was come, that he ſhould be received up. 556
12. 47, 48. He that knew his Maſters will, and did it not, ſhall be beaten with many ſtripes. 1230
51, 52. Suppoſe ye that I come to give peace on Earth, I tell you nay, but rather diviſion; reconciled with Iſa. 2. 4. & 11. 9. 1042, 1061
17. 11. He paſſed through the midſt of Samaria, and Galilee. 362
21. The Kingdom of God is within you. 116
18. 11. To ſtand praying. 156
12. The Phariſee faſted twice a week. 167
32, 33. The Son of Man ſhall be delivered to the Gentiles, &c. 1167
20. 38. Not the God of the dead, but of the living, for all live to him. 1118
21. 18. Not an hair of your head periſh. 1251
22. 30. That ye may ſit on Thrones judging the twelve Tribes of Iſrael. 1058
53. This is your hour, and the power of darkneſs. 1255
24. 44. In the Pſalms. 265
26. 29. Until that day when I drink it new with you in my Fathers Kingdom. 691

JOHN.

Ch. verſ. — Page

1. 4. In him was life, and that life was the light of Men. 1090
4. 35. Say ye not there are four months, and then cometh harveſt, &c. 1147, 1148
5. 25. The dead ſhall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear ſhall live. 1057, 1105, 1123
7. 27. When Chriſt cometh, no Man knoweth whence he is. 112
37, 38. Jeſus ſtood and cryed, if any Man thirſt, let him come unto me and drink; He that believeth on me, out of his belly ſhall flow rivers of living water. 1039
39. The Holy Ghoſt was not yet. 1283
8. 6. Jeſus ſtooped down and wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not. 1080, 1081
44. He was a murderer from the beginning. 1323
10. 17, 18. I lay down my life, no Man taketh it from me, that I may take it up again. 1354
11. 47, 48. This Man doth many miracles, if we let him alone, &c. 654
51. But being High Prieſt that year, he propheſied. 1068
54. A City called Ephraim. 50
13. 1, 2. And Matth. 26. 6. The Suppers here mentioned were the ſame, however otherwiſe interpreted. 252, to 254, 260, 261
38. The Cock ſhall not crow, &c. 261
14. 30. The Prince of the World cometh, and hath nothing in me. 1256
16. 7. It is expedient that I go away from you, for if I go not away the Comforter, &c. 1129
13. When he, the Spirit of truth cometh, he will guide you into all truth. 1034
17. 24. Father, I will, 413
18. 31. It is not lawful for us to put any Man to death. 248, 1080, 1108, 1109, &c.
39. Releaſe one at the Paſſover. 356
19. 14. About the ſixth hour; reconciled with Mark 25. 25. 356, 357

Ch. verſ.

Ch. verſ. Page

29. Put it upon Hyſſop; reconciled with Matth. 27. 48. 617

20. 23. Whoſe ſins ye remit. 207

21. 22. Tarry till I come; viz. in vengeance. 1074

28. 29. All that are in the grave ſhall hear his voice, and ſhall come forth. 1233

The ACTS.

Ch. verſ. Page

2. 17. IT ſhall come to paſs in the laſt days. Underſtood of the end of Jeruſalem, not the World. 1048

20. Before the great and notable day of the Lord come. 626

3. 21. Times of reſtitution of all things. 310

4. 6. John. Suſpected for Rabban Jocanan. 16

16, 17. That indeed a notable miracle is done by theſe Men, But that it ſpread no further, &c. 1275

5. 37. Judas of Galilee. 362

6. 9. Synagogue of the Alexandrians, and of the Libertines. 35, 36

7. 14. Threeſcore and fifteen Souls; compared and reconciled with Gen. 46. 27. 667

16. The bones of the Patriarchs, where buried? 408

30. When forty years were expired; concerning the age, &c. of Moſes. ibid.

9. 2. We have not ſo much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghoſt. 1283

36. Tabitha; much mentioned amongſt the Talmudiſts. 18

10. 34, 35. God is no reſpecter of perſons. 1210, 1211

13. 33. As it is written, thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. 1104

19. 13. Calling over them in the Name of Jeſus. 162

23. 5. I wiſt not that it was the High Prieſt. 1289, 1290

ROMANS.

Ch. verſ. Page

1. 17. RIghteouſneſs of God revealed from faith to faith. 1051, 1052, 1064, 1075, 1077, 1078

2. 11. God is no reſpecter of Perſons. 1210, 1211

3. 19. Whatſoever the Law ſaith, it ſaith to them which are under the Law. 535

4. 11. Sign of circumciſion, the ſeal of the righteouſneſs of faith, which he had being yet uncircumciſed. 273, 274, 1076, 1126, 1133, 1134

7. 5. The motions of ſin which were by the Law did work. 1098

8. 15. Abba, Father; what? 354

19, 20, 21, 22, 23. For the earneſt expectation of the Creature, waited for the manifeſtation of the Sons of God, &c. 359, 360, 1089, 1147, to 1149

Ch. verſ. Page

11. 5. The Elect, and the remnant according to the election of grace; explained of the Elect of the Jews. 574, 1146

13. 1. Let every Soul be ſubject to the higher Powers. 230, marg.

1 CORINTHIANS.

Ch. verſ. Page

6. 2. DO ye not know that the Saints ſhall judge the World; explained of Chriſtian Magiſtracy. 1158, 1159, 1119

7. 12. But to the reſt ſpeak I, not the Lord. 1124

36. If a Man thinketh he behaveth himſelf unſeemly towards his Virgin, &c. 1219

10. 11. Upon whom the ends of the World are come; explained of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, &c. and the end of the Jewiſh State. 1074, 1117

11. 19. There muſt be Hereſies among you. 1279

21. Every one taketh before other his own Supper. 658

32. When we are judged we are chaſtned of the Lord, that we may not be condemned of the World. 1226

2 CORINTHIANS.

Ch. verſ. Page

1. 8, 9. WE were preſſed out of meaſure, above ſtrength, in ſo much that we deſpaired even of life, &c. 790

4. 18. We look at things that are not ſeen. 1284

5. 21. He hath made him ſin for us. 1243

GALATHIANS.

Ch. verſ. Page

4. 6. ABBA, Father; what? 354

EPHESIANS.

Ch. verſ. Page

1 17. THE Spirit of Wiſdom and Revelation in the knowledge of Chriſt. 1034, 1047

2. 1. You hath he quickned, who were dead in treſpaſſes and ſins. 1057, 1105

4. 9 Now that he aſcended, what is it, but that he deſcended firſt into the lower parts of the Earth? 1342

24. The new Man is created in righteouſneſs and true holineſs. 1152

32. Be renewed in the Spirit of your mind. 1286

5. 18, 19. Be filled with the Spirit, ſpeaking to your ſelves in Pſalms, Hymns and Spiritual Songs. 1160

PHIL-

PHILIPPIANS.

Ch. verſ. — Page

3. 19. WHOSE God is their belly. 184

COLOSSIANS.

Ch. verſ. — Page

2. 13. YOU being dead in your ſins, and the uncircumciſion of your fleſh. 1057

1 THESSALONIANS.

Ch. verſ. — Page

4. 13, 14. I Would not have you ignorant concerning them that ſleep, that ye ſorrow not as others without hope, &c. 1087

2 THESSALONIANS.

Ch. verſ. — Page

2. 2. AS that the day of Chriſt is at hand. 626

3 The day of Chriſt ſhall not come, except there come a falling away firſt. 626

4. Concerning obedience to Magiſtrates. 230 Text and Marg.

1 TIMOTHY.

Ch. verſ. — Page

3. 13. OFFICE of a Deacon. 133

4. 1. In the later time; interpreted of the end of the Jewiſh State. 1074, 1117

3. Forbidding to marry. 695

8. Godlineſs hath the promiſe of this life, and that which is to come; reconciled with Heb. 11. 36, 37. 1053

2 TIMOTHY.

Ch. verſ. — Page

3. 1. IN the later days; not for the end of the World, but of Jeruſalem. 1074, 1117

9. Jannes and Jambres. 404

HEBREWS.

Ch. verſ. — Page

2. 2. IF the word ſpoken by Angels. 1129

12. I will declare thy Name unto my Brethren, &c. 1037

13. And again I will put my truſt in him. ibid.

8. 6. He is the Mediator of a better Covenant, ---- eſtabliſhed upon better promiſes. 1332

11. They ſhall teach no more every man his Brother, ſaying know the Lord, for all ſhall know me. 1071

9. 19. Moſes ----- took blood ----- with water. 619

10. 26. If we ſin wilfully after we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more Sacrifice for ſin. 1095, 1096, 1146

11. 32. Gedeon, Sampſon, Japhtha. 1215

36, 37. Concerning the ſufferings of Gods people in this life; reconciled with the 1 Tim. 4. 8. 1053

40. That they without us ſhould not be made perfect. 1089

12. 11. Chaſtening --- yeildeth the peaceable fruits of righteouſneſs. 1226

13. 20. Chriſt was raiſed from the dead by the blood of the Covenant. 1257

JAMES.

Ch. verſ. — Page

5. 9. BEhold the Judge ſtandeth before the door. 626

14. Let the Elders of the Church pray for him that is ſick, anointing him with Oyl. 162, 343

17. Elias ---- for the ſpace of three years and ſix months. 408, 409

1 PETER.

Ch. verſ. — Page

1. 2. ELect according to the foreknowledge of God. ---- for the elect of the Jews. 1146

2. 10. Which in time paſt were not a people, but are now the people of God. ibid.

13. Submit your ſelves to every ordinance of God for the Lords ſake, &c. 230 Text, Marg.

3. 19. He went and preached unto the Spirits in priſon. 478

4. 7. The end of all things is at hand. For the end of Jeruſalem and the Jewiſh State. 626, 1074, 1117

17. The time is come that judgment muſt begin at the Houſe of God. 241. Text, Marg.

2 PETER.

Ch. verſ. — Page

2. 10. DEſpiſe government, ---- ſpeak evil of Dignities. 230. Text, Marg.

15. The way of Balaam the ſon of Boſor. 1144

3. 3. There ſhall come in the laſt days. For the days immediately foregoing the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, &c. 1074, 1117

10. The Heavens ſhall paſs away with a great noiſe, and the Elements ſhall melt with fervent heat. 626

13. We look for new Heavens and a new Earth. 626

Ch. verſ.

Ch. verſ. Page

16. In Pauls Epiſtles there are ſome things hard to be underſtood. 1243, 1246

1 JOHN.

Ch. verſ. Page

2. 16. THE luſt of the eyes. 162

18. It is the laſt time. For the end of the Jewiſh State. 626, 1047

27. The anointing which ye have received of him abideth in you, and ye need not that any man teach you. 1071

5. 16. There is a ſin unto death, I do not ſay that he ſhall pray for it. 1093, 1904

JUDE.

Verſ. Page

8. DEſpiſe dominion, ſpeak evil of dignities. 230. Text, Marg.

Filthy dreamers. 1297

12. Feaſts of Charity. 774, &c.

REVELATION.

Ch. verſ. Page

1. 7. HE cometh with clouds, &c. 626

Ch. verſ. Page

3. 17, 18. Becauſe thou ſaieſt I am rich, &c. and knoweſt not that thou art wretched, &c. 1136

6. 12, 14. The Sun became black as ſackcloth of hair, &c. And the Heavens departed as a ſcroll, &c. 626

7. 14. They have waſhed their Robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. 1078

11. 8. The Streets of the great City, which Spiritually is called Sodom. 1109

13. 2. The Dragon gave his Power and Seat, and great authority unto the Beaſt. 1108, 1165

4. The Dragon which gave his Power unto the Beaſt. 614

20. 3. Satan ſhould deceive the Nations no more, till the thouſand years ſhould be fulfilled. 1056, 1057, 1233

5. This is the firſt Reſurrection; ſpoken of the calling of the Gentiles. 1057, 1105

7, 8. When the thouſand years are expired, Satan ſhall be looſed out of his priſon, and ſhall go about to deceive the Nations. Interpreted as fulfilled in the depth of Popery. 1057

Gog; an Enemy to true Religion. 1247

22. 20. Behold I come quickly. 625

An Appendix of ſome Places of Scripture differently Read from the ordinary Tranſlation.

GENESIS.

Ch. verſ. Page

1. 2. THE Spirit of God was carried upon the face of the waters. 643

14. Let there be Light-ſats (or Light-veſſels) in the Firmament. 1285

4. 1. Eve conceived and brought forth Cain, and ſaid, I have poſſeſſed (or obtained) a Man, the Lord. 792

DEUTERONOMY.

Ch. verſ. Page

27. 4. IN Mount Gerizzim; ſo read by the Samaritan Verſion. 540

33. 2. From his right hand went the fire of a Law for them. 1227

JOSHUA.

Ch. verſ. Page

15. 61, 62. DIfferently read by the Greek Interpreters. 499

JUDGES.

Ch. verſ. Page

4. 5. The Chaldee reads; Deborah had white duſt in the Kings Mountains. 12

16. 3. He carried them to the top of a Mountainous place which is before Hebron. 12

21. 19, &c. The Daughters go over to the enemy. 537

2 KINGS.

Ch. verſ. Page

17. 18. THAT when my Maſter went, &c. 409

JOB.

Ch. verſ. Page

19. 25. I Know that my Redeemer liveth, and he ſhall ariſe from the duſt another, &c. 791

A Table of some places of Scripture differently read, &c. in the Second Volume.

ECCLESIASTES.

Ch. vers.		Page
12. 11.	AS nails fastned by those that gather the flock into the fold.	575

ISAIAH.

Ch. vers.		Page
10. 32.	HOW the Chaldee Paraphrast, Kimchi and Jarchi, read it.	42
11. 2.	He shall make him quick of scent in the fear of the Lord.	655
15. 5.	An Heifer of three years. An Heifer in his third year. A great Heifer of three years old, &c.	502

JEREMIAH.

Ch. vers.		Page
48. 34.	THE Heifer being in his third year.	502

DANIEL.

Ch. vers.		Page
9. 27.	EVEN by the Wing (or Army) of abominations making desolate.	242

HOSEA.

Ch. vers.		Page
13. 14.	WHere is thy revenge, O death?	792

MARK.

Ch. vers.		Page
1. 2.	IN Esaias the Prophet.	331, 332

JOHN.

Ch. vers.		Page
2. 20.	FOurty and six years hath this Temple been in building.	529, 530
3. 19.	That the times of refreshing may come.	650, 651
5. 39.	Ye search the Scriptures.	550

ACTS.

Ch. vers.		Page
23. 5.	I Know not that there is an High Priest.	1289, 1290

ROMANS.

Ch. vers.		Page
4. 11.	A Seal of the righteousness of Faith, which should hereafter be in uncircumcision.	761
6. 17.	You have obeyed from your Heart that form of Doctrine, whereunto you were delivered.	1245

TITUS.

Ch. vers.		Page
1. 2.	WHICH God hath promised before the times of the Jewish ages.	767.

A Second Table to the Second Volume, containing the AUTHORS, or their WORKS Quoted therein.

A.

Ben Ezra.
Adrichomius.
Ælianus Spartianus.
Æthicus.
Agadah.
Alphesius.
Ambrose.
Ammonius.
Antoninus.
Apolinaris.
Appianus.
Aquila.
Aristeas.
Aristophanes.
Aruch, or Author of the Aruch.
Athanasius.
Athenæus.
Augustine, or Austine.
Author of Juchasin.

B.

Baal Turim.
Baronius.
Benjamin.
Beza.
Bibles { Complutensian. / English. / French. / Italian. / Polyglot. / Septuagint. / Vulgar.
Biddulph.
Bochart.
Book of Ben Syrach.
Borchard.
Bostrensis, Titus.
Breidenbach.
Broughton.
Buxtorf, or Buxtorfius.

C.

Caldee Paraphrase, and Paraphrast.
Camerarius.
Caninius.
Capellus, Ludovicus.
Carthusianus.
Carthusiensis.
Carthwright.
Cæsar.
Chrysostom.
Cippi Hebraici, or Collector of the Hebrew Cippi.
Clopenberg.
Copy { Alexandrian. / Complutensian. / Old Testament. / Roman.
Cordus.
Cyril, St.

D.

De Dieu, Ludovicus.
Diodorus Siculus.
Dion, or Dion Cassius.
Dionysius.
Drusius.

E.

Epiphanius.
Erasmus.
Erpenius.
Eulogius.
Eupolemeus.
Eusebius.
Eustathius.

G.

Gemarists.
Gemera of { Babilon. / Jerusalem.
Gregory Nyssen.
Gulielmus Tyrius.

H.

Haddarson.
Heinsius.
Heptaglot Lexicon.
Herodotus.
Hierom, or Jerome.
Holstein, Luke.
Homer.
Hottinger.

I.

Jacob ben Dositheus.
Jarchi.
Jeremiah Bar-Abba.
Jerome, or Hierom.
Jewish Records.
Jews Pandects.
Ignatius Martyr.
Interpreter { Arabick. / Italian. / Latin. / Persian. / Samaritan. / Syriack.
Jonathan.
Josephus.
Juchas.
Julian.
Julius Capitolinus.
Justinian.
Justin Martyr.
Irenæus.

K.

Kimchi David: or Kimchius.

Lampridius

L.

Lampridius.
Leunclavius.
Lexicographers
Lexicon Heptaglotton.
Lyphius.
Lyra, or Lyranus.

M.

Maccabees.
Maimonides.
Manuscript, Alexandrian.
Marcellinus.
Mazoreth.
Mela, or Pomponius Mela.
Menander.
Micra.
Midras Tillen.
Mishneh.
Moed Katon.
Morney.

N.

Nazianzen.
Nobilius.
Nonnus.
Notitia Imperii.

O.

Olivar, or Olivares.
Onkelos.

P.

Pancirollus.
Pausanias.
Pentateuch, Samaritan.
Petavius.
Philo Judeus.
Philostratus.
Photius.
Phrynicus.
Pliny.
Pocock.
Polyglot Bible.
Primasius.
Ptolomy.

R.

Rabban Simeon ben Eliezer.
Rabban Simeon ben Gamaliel
Rabbi { Akibah. Barachiah. Chaijah. David. Eliezer. Jochanan. Johanan. Josah. Jotten. Judah. Meir. Nathan. Nissen. Saadia. Simeon ben Jochai. Solomon. Suaida.
Rabbins.
Rambam.
Rhemists.

S.

Aligniac.
Samaritan Pentateuch.
Scaliger.
Sedulius.
Seneca.
Septuagint.
Sigeverts Chronicle
Solinus, Polyhistor.
Sozomen.
Spartianus.
Strabo.
Symmachus.
Syracides.

T.

Tacitus.
Talmud of { Babilon. Jerusalem.
Talmudists.
Tanchum.
Targum of { Jerusalem. Jonathan.
Targumists.
Tatianus.
Tertullian.
Theodoret.
Theodosius.
Theophilus.
Titus Bostrensis.
Translation { Arabick. Beza's. English. Erasmus's. French. Greek, or Seventy's. Interliniary. Italian. Samaritan. Syriack. Vulgar, or Latin.
Trebellius Pollio.

V.

Version { Arabick. Beza's. English. Erasmus's. French. Greek, or Seventy's. Interlineary. Italian. Samaritan. Syriack. Vulgar, or Latin.

X.

Xenophon.
Xylander.

Z.

Zohar.

A Third Table to the Second Volume of HEBREW words, &c. and of GREEK words annexed; in both which the words are less or more Explained, or Illustrated.

א.

א Is frequently enough cut off from the beginning of several words. Page 580
אבא and אבי used of a Natural and of a Civil Father. 354, &c.
אברם that is (an high Father) why changed to אברהם that is (the Father of a great multitude.) 1076
אב מויר כרת a saying of the Jews concerning sin done wilfully. 1095
אם שוגג חשאת a saying of the Jews, concerning sin done ignorantly. 1095
אמת Truth, supposed by the Jews to be the Seal of God. 551
אנכי I, rendred by ἐγὼ εἰμι. 568
אפי or אפם Nose, Nostrils, anger. 602

ב.

ב and מ are alternately used. p.491, 501. It is changed for פ in the Syriack. Page 1144
בבל Babel, for a City and a Country. 1144
בות פני Bethphage, how within Jerusalem. 36
בוצינא a Candle, used for a Person famous for life or knowledge. 550
בית שאן the beginning of Galilee. 57
בין השמשות Bin Hashmashuth, what? 167
בן ברית a Son of the Covenant. 1126
בקר ושרה in Sanctitate 1125

ג.

גב Gab, surface, pavement. Page 615
גוזין and דנין differ much. 264

ד.

דבר a word, the Plague. Page 792
דנין and גוזין differ much. 264
דרשה denotes a more narrow search into the Scriptures. 550

ה.

ה He, being put for ח, destroys the world. Page 138
הר המלך The Mountainous Country of Judah, what? 11
הידוש Hidjot, a word very usual among the Rabbins, what? 786
הטהדו Mundate nos, rendred, be clean, Gen. 35. 2. 1132
התפלל that is, Judging our selves, and התחנה that is, Depending upon grace, why Prayer is so called. 1136

ו.

ו May be rendred either And, or Or, Page 1215

ח.

ח Cheth, changed into ה He, destroys the World. Page 138
חזן הכנסת Chazan Hacconeseth, that is, The Overseer of the Congregation; the Minister of every Synagogue was so called. 1041
חרש Deaf, and Dumb. 210
חרם Cherem, the same with Anathema. 795

י.

י Jod, its eternal duration, whence? Page 137, 138
ים The Sea, thus rendred by very many Versions; but to be corrected. 19
ים המלח The Sea of Sodom, what? 6

כ.

כבול χῶμα, a coast, &c. Page 311
כתובים that is the Hexiographa, or that Third Part of the Bible which the Jews refused to read in their Synagogues. 1101
כותה ביד שמים Death by the hand of Heaven, or in the common Speech of the Jews, cutting off. 1095
כל הבריות All creatures, used for all Men, or Nations among the Jews. 1149
כפר טבי Caphar Tebi, what? 18
כפר לודים Caphar Lodim, what? 18
כפר שלם Caphar Salama, what? 55
כפרים } and עירות are distinguished. 333, 334
כרכים }
כרסון רמו Thrones were cast down, an Interpretation by many, but to be wondred at. 220

ל.

לוד for Lydda. Page 16
ליח לנא רשותא for we have not liberty, power, or priviledge. 1111

מ.

מ and ב are alternately used, Page 491, 501
מאך whether it signifie both strength and mind? 424, 425
מהו rendred by τί; common in the Schools, yea, used a thousand times by some of the Jewish Writers. 786, 1155
מיאונין how tolerated among the Jews. 759
מיד out of hand, 338
מליח Salt Fish, so rendred from the Aruch. 198
מפלת for a Woman bringing forth an abortive. 789
מקרא קדש An holy Convocation, rendred by the Seventy Interpreters, called Holy. 740
משוחררים Libertines, what they were. 663

נ.

נ Nun, is inverted in two places in the Book of Numbers, the supposed Reasons are laid down. Page 483
נאמן used for one whose testimony may be taken. 558
נגורו אחור estranged, or turned backward. 1137
נטרפה רעתו His knowledge is snatched away, 337
ניסים שבום the Talmudick Girdle of the Land, what? 3
נפש variously interpreted. 236
נפל rendred by the Seventy ἔκλεψμα, an untimely Birth. 789

ע.

ע Ain, is of no sound with some. Page 60. It is sometimes changed into ש p. 64 It is twice cut off from the end of words, to shew the greater Emphasis. p. 97. Sometimes it's changed into ס by the Chaldeans. Page 802
עונות Onoth, and עונה Onah, what? 191, 192
עירות and נרים and נפרים distinguished. 333, 334
עצרת used by the Hebraising Jews for the Feast of Pentecost. 641
עשע to be eaten up with some malady, &c. 1192

פ.

פ This Letter is sometimes changed into ב by the Jews using the Syriack Language. Page 1144
פלמוני that certain Saint, &c. 1250
פרס Paras, was the space of fifteen days before any of the Jews Feasts. 635
פרפים Pastores, the chief Magistrates of the Jews being so called. 1059
פתור that is, Pethor, mentioned Numb. 22. 5. was changed into בשר Bosor, mentioned 2 Pet 2.15. 1144
פתח used for one that was teaching. 435

צ.

צדקה Righteousnes, commonly used and understood by the Jews for the giving of Alms. Page 432
צופים Zophim, or Scopo; the reason of the name 41

ק.

קדש is rendred by Rekam, why? Page 8
קונם used for a thing devoted. 201

ר.

ריש and סיפא the beginning and the end, what? Page 565
רקם used for קדש Cadesh, by the Eastern Interpreters, why? 8

ש.

ש is often changed by the Chaldeans into ע p. 64. 802. and into ת Page 81
שבר in several places does not denote extream drunkenness. 776
שומא a man of sores, &c. 1192
שושבינא what kind of Friend or Companion it signified among the Jews? 527
שליח ציבור the Angel or Messenger of the Congregation, so was the Minister of every Synagogue called. 1041
שכינה the Divine presence, this the Sanhedrim accounted to be always near the Altar in the Temple; therefore they used to sit near it, and, while they continued there, durst not but do Justice. Page 1116

ת.

ת Tau, this Letter is sometimes changed by the Jews using the Syriack into ש. Page 1144
תה" is not always one Learned, but one that gives himself to it; contrary to עם הארץ 1124
תק" was to be prayed in the plural number, though he that prayed was alone by himself. 1139

The

The TABLE of the GREEK words, Explained or Illuſtrated, in the Second Volume.

A.

Ἅγιοι, Holy, frequently taken for thoſe that profeſs Chriſtianity. Page 759

Ἅδης among the Greeks, and Inferi among the Latins, do comprehend the eſtate both of the bleſſed, and of the damned. 458, 478, 646

Ἀδικεῖν ſignifies to hurt, and alſo to deal unjuſtly. 451, 452

Αἰων, Age; in the Scripture very ordinarily is the Jewiſh age. p. 767. So by Συντέλεια τοῦ Αἰῶνος is meant the end of the Jewiſh age, or world. 438

Ἀκουσίως, unwillingly, uſed for ignorantly; Numb. 15.27. 1096

Ἀνατολὴ, branch, bud, ſpring; uſed by the Seventy for צמח 387

Ἀντιλήψεις, Helps, ſuch as aſſiſted the Apoſtles. 781

Ἄνωθεν, from above, ſignifies ἐξουρανόθεν, from Heaven. 376

Ἀπέκτειναν, Killed, ſignifies a death by the ſword. 228

Ἀρχεῖον, the Archivum; what? 24

Ἀρχιερεύς, whether to be rendred High Prieſt? 698

Ἄχρι, untill, in what ſence to be underſtood. 470

B.

Βάλανος, what, and whence derived? Page 352

Βηθαμαζὰ, Βηθανία, how poſſible to be put one for the other. 491, 492

Βοσὸς, mentioned, 2 Pet. 2 15. illuſtrated. 1144

Βουλευταὶ, Councellors, what? 358

Γ.

Γαζοφυλάκιον, a coffer or cheſt for money. Page 588

Γραμματεὺς, סופר, a Scribe, what? 742

Δ.

Δέησις, uſed for ſupplications. Page 427

Δεκαπόλει, illuſtrated. 1144

Δίδραχμα, Didrachma, tribute-money, to be underſtood of the Half Shekel. 211, 212

Δίκαιος, juſt, gentle, merciful. 100

Διαμάρτια, what? How miſtaken by the Vulgar. 379

Δῶρον, a thing devoted to ſacred uſe. 200, 201. A Gift, known, and common among the Talmudiſts. 345

Δύναμις, Power, very uſually referred to Miracles, not to Diſcipline. Page 750

E.

Ἐγὼ εἰμι, ſometimes is rendred from the ſingle word אני, I. Page 568

Ἐδιήρευν Beat, what? 228

Ἕκαστος, every one, limited. 1157

Ἐκλεκτὴ and συνεκλεκτὴ, what? 1144

Ἔκτρωμα, an untimely birth, uſed for נפל 789

Ἑκουσίως, wilfully, how to be interpreted, Heb. 10.26. 1096

Ἐλιθοβόλησαν, ſtoned, what? 228

Ἕλλην, in the writings of the Apoſtles frequently denotes the Gentiles as well as the Greeks. 558

Ἐνοντα, τὰ ἐόντα, may ſignifie that which is over and above, or all that you have. 432

Ἐξαρεῖτε, take away. 752

Ἐξέστη, he is too much tranſported. 337, 338

Ἐξὸν, I may, or let me. 646

Ἔξω, οἱ ἔξω, thoſe without, in Jewiſh ſpeech ſignified the Gentiles. 339

Ἐπιταγὴ, command, anſwers חובה. 757

Ἔρημος, imports the Country, as well as the Deſert. 113

Ἐστὶ, τὶ ἐστὶ, what is it, or what is to be done? it anſwers מהו, a word uſed a thouſand times among the Jewiſh Writers. 786, 1155

Ἑτερομορφώθη, what in the Seventy. 689

H.

Ἠπάτα, he loved him, put for ἔπεισε he perſuaded him. Page 596

I.

Ἰδιῶται, put for, Men of no degree or quality, meer vulgar Perſons. p. 653. Private Perſons, Members of the Church, diſtinguiſhed from Miniſters, very uſual among the Rabbins p. 786. Rendred unlearned, 1 Cor. 14. 16. Page 1156

Ἰῶτα ἢ κεραία, Jot and Tittle, that they ſhall not periſh in the Law. 137, to 139

K.

Κατανύξεως, denotes remorſe or compunction in the Seventy. Page 711, 712

Καφαρσαλαμᾶ, for Antipatris. 55

Κεραία, Tittle, the duration of the Tittles of the Hebrew Language. Page 137, 140

Κλίμαξ Τυρίων, what Place? 61

Κοινωνία, communion, among the Jews this was called עירוב mixing; the manner and sence of which is shewed out of the Jewish Writers. 768

Κόσμος, hath a peculiar propriety in Sacred Writ, which it hath not in prophane Authors, importing the Nations, not Jewish. p. 438. Thus the Jewish Schools also used it. 534, 535

Κτίσις, creature, for the Gentile world. 1147, 1149

Κυβερνήσεις, intimates a deep and profound reach, answering the word תחבולות prudent counsels. 781, 782

Κύμβαλον, a Cymbal, what kind of Instrument? 782

Κώμαι, Κωμοπόλεις and Πόλεις, distinguished. 333, 334

Λ.

Λόγιον, sayings, how rendred by many Versions. Page 359

Μ.

Μαθητεύσατε, signifies bring them into learn, to be Disciples, Scholars. Page 1124

Ματαιότης, denotes inward vanity and emptiness of mind. 708

Μεθύει, is drunk, may bear a favourable interpretation. 776

Μετάνοια, does very well expres the sence of true Repentance, with respect to the Jews. 114

Μεταξύ, is used for henceforward or hereafter. 692

Μεταξὺ Σάββατον, the Sabbath after, or the week between the two Sabbaths. 692

Μετεμψύχωσις, or transmigration of Souls, that is, of holy Souls into other Bodies; was the opinion of the Pharisees. 569

Μύλος ὀνικὸς, seems to be distinguished from a smaller sort of Mills used by the Jews. 213

Ν.

Νομικὸς, the Lawyer, was a Doctor of Traditions. Page 434

Νομοδιδάσκαλος, the Teacher of the Law, was a more profound traditionary Doctor of the Law then the Νομικὸς was, &c. 434

Ξ.

Ξεῖον, Pots, what, and whence derived? Page 345

Ο.

Ὄγκος, ἡ ἁμαρτία εὐπερίστατος, that weight, and the sin that doth so easily beset us; what the meaning, referring to the Jews, to whom it was writ. Page 1145

Οἱ ἔξω, those without, in Jewish speech were the Gentiles. 339

Ὀλιγόπιστοι, Men of little faith, what? Page 162

Ὄρος, a Coast, what? 311

Ὁσιότητι καὶ ἀληθείας, true holiness, and the holiness of truth. 1152

Ὅλη, all the night. 271

Ὅτι, for, how used? 415

Π.

Παράκλητος, Advocate, Comforter, the Jews expected their Messiah under this Title. Page 600

Παράκλησις, whence derived, it signifies equally Consolation and Exhortation. 655

Παρεῖδον, or Περιεῖδον, an Appartment, into which the High Priest betook himself for some time before the day of Attonement. 554

Πᾶσα κτίσις, in the Scripture, and the Jewish Writers, is used for the Gentiles, or the Heathen World. 708

Πίστις, what, and whence derived. 352

Πίστιν παρέσχων πᾶσιν, Acts 17. 31. diversly construed. 1101

Πόλεις, Κῶμαι, and Κωμοπόλεις, are distinguished. 333, 334

Πονηρὸς, ὁ πονηρὸς, that wicked one; why the Devil is so called. 1306

Περιεῖδον, or Παρεῖδον, an Appartment, &c. as under the word Παρεῖδον, which see, but six words foregoing.

Περιτρέπει, comprehends singing of Psalms, and Preaching, as well as Revelation in order to Prophesie. 785

Πυγμῇ, the fist, how understood. 344, 345

Πύργος Στράτωνος, the Tower of Strato, what? 54

Πυρέσσει, to burn; a Jewish Story upon it. 758

Σ.

Σάββατον δευτερόπρωτον, the first Sabbath after the second, or the second Sabbath after the first; what? Page 184

Σκοπὸς, Scopo, the Viewer, what? 41

Σοφὸς, חכם, a wise Man, what? 742

Στενὴ πύλη, seems to be the Greek rendring of פשפש much used among the Talmudists. 164

Συγχέομαι, to have dealings, to borrow for use, &c. 539

Συζητητὴς, דרש or דרשן, a Disputer, what? 742

Συναλιζόμενος, not derived from ἅλς, but from ἁλία, an Assembly. 635

Συναναμιξις, companying, or mixing together, put for a more intimate friendſhip or alliance. Page 751

Σωματικα πεντηκοντα, fifty Copies of the Goſpel, what they were. 1079

Τ.

Τι ἐστι, what is it? or what is to be done? it anſwers מה a word uſed exceeding often in the Talmud and in Tanchum. Page 786, 1155

Τραπεζιται, Exchangers, what? 248

Υ.

Υιοθεσια σωματος or ψυχης, the Adoption of the Body, or the Adoption of the Soul; what? Page 1149,1150

Υιος, Son, put for Meſſias very frequently. Page 351

Υμνησαντες, what, and how tranſlated. 1159, 1160

Υπερ, for, ὑπὲρ τῶν νεκρῶν, for the dead. 790

Φ.

Φθορα, frequently denotes ſinful corruption. 708, 709

Φωτα, Lights, the Jewiſh Feaſt of Dedication ſo called, and why? 1039

Ω.

Ωραία, Beautiful, whence derived, and what Gate of the Temple was ſignified by it? Page 649

THE

Fourth TABLE, or Alphabetical Index, is of Things or Principal Matters, contained in the Second Volume.

A.

ABEL, what? Page 367
Abilene, what? 366, 367
Abraham's Bosome, a Jewish Phrase for an happy state. p. 455, 456. The ridiculous Notion the Rhemists have upon it. p. 455. Son of Abraham, by Faith and Nature; what? p. 467. Abraham's Seed, the being of it, much gloried in by the Jews. p. 566. Several things of Abraham's History. p. 665. What he bought in the Land of Canaan? 669, 670
Absolom was a Nazarite, and for that reason wore long hair. 774
Acceptance with God, and coming to him, is only through Christ. 1261, 1262
Achzib, (it and Chezib, changed into Ecdippa) the Name of a place. 61
Acon, is a City of Galilee, where there was a Bath of Venus. 60
Actings of God extraordinary, are not mens ordinary Rule. 1276
Adam, the City, was in Perea, this was the Centural Place, where the waters parted when Israel entred Jordan. 82
Adam, although at first holy, yet had not the Spirit of Revelation. p. 1046. He had not the Spirit of Sanctification, nor of Prophesie. p. 1150. Before his fall, he is compared with a Believer sanctified. p. 1152, 1153. The fall of Adam, and the fall of Angels compared together. p. 1285. His Story is all wonder. p. 1303. Adam and Eve believed, and obtained Life. p. 1303. A view of their Story in nine Particulars. p. 1303, 1304. The means of their believing, and their condition under believing. p. 1304. Adam fell on the sixth Day of the Creation, viz. on the Day he was created. p. 1323. The proof of this. p. 1323, 1324. He was created about nine a Clock in the Morning, fell about Noon, Christ was promised about three a Clock in the Afternoon. p. 1324. A new Creation, or Redemption was performed on the day that Adam was created. p. 1325. Adam's first Sermon to his family, the matter of it supposed. p. 1327. Adam not created mortal, against the Socinians. 1353
Adoption, or Sonship, as referring to God; how understood by the Jews. 521, 533
Adultress, how punished. 563
Adultery, the only case in which Christ permitted a Bill of divorce. p. 148. The Divine Laws concerning it. p. 218. How does the Law of Death for Adultery, and that of Divorce, consist together? p. 218. Adultery, practised (probably in the Temple Court of the Jews in our Saviours time; p. 1080. The story of the Adulterous Woman (recorded John the 8.) left out of some of the Ancient Greek Testaments, and the first Printed Syriack, and also some Latine Translations, and the reason of this omission. p. 1079, 1080. Adultery, is so common among the Jews, that the custom of trying the Adulterous Woman by bitter water (mentioned Numb. 5.) was omitted, the pretended reason for this omission. 1080, 1111 Affairs, and Times of Men, how God knows, and dates them. 1250, &c.
Affliction of the people of God, the duration of it, is determined by the Lord. 1248, to 1251
Agape, or Love Feast, they were appendages to the Lords Supper, also they were when strangers were entertained in each Church, at the cost of the Church. Page 774, to 776
Age of Man, the several abatements of it as to length; at what time these abatements were made. 1066
Aleph, and Ain, The mystical Jewish Doctors did not distinguish them. 79
Alms, why taken for Righteousness. p. 153, &c. The ordinary Alms of the Jews is divided into three parts; what they put into the Alms Dish for the Poor of the World? What into the Chest for the Poor of the City only? What they left in the field ungathered? Whether a Trumpet was founded when they did their Alms? p. 154, 155. Alms given to the Poor, of what nature they were to be. 467
Almon, and Alemoth, the same. 42
Altar, the Rings, and the Laver thereof, described, p. 33, 34. What it was to leave a gift before the Altar? p. 143. When or at what time the Ashes were swept off it? p. 618. The several Offices belonging to it. p. 765. The zeal of the Officers to serve at it. p. 765. The custom of fetching water at the Fountain Siloam and pouring it on the Altar, what it signified. p. 1039. Altar, put for the Communion Table, but in a wrong sence. p. 1259. Altar, put for Christ, how? 1259, 1260
Amana, or Amanah, a Mountain, and a River. 62
Amen verily, why so much used by Christ? p. 137. Why used double, and single. p. 533. All used Amen after Prayer or Thanksgiving. p. 786. But not in the Temple, for there they used another Clause instead of it. p. 1139. Orphan Amen, was when he that answered Amen knew not what he answered to. 786
Amulets, Charms, Mutterings, Exorcisms, what? 243
Anabaptists, refuted. 1125, 1127, 1128, 1133
Ananias, the madness of his sin, his degree supposed to be higher than the Vulgar. p. 655, 656. Two of the Name, one famous. 698
Anathema, founds all one with חרם Cherem, its taken in a threefold sence. p. 795. To be Anathema from Christ, what? 1295, 1296
Angels, Dæmons, and Spirits distinguished, among the Jews. p. 483. Angels for Prophets and Ministers. p. 674. Angels sometimes, put on the shape of Men. p. 683, 684. Angels foolishly denyed by the Sadducees, p. 702, 1282, &c. The Jews called evil Angels Destroyers, or Angels of Death; and good Angels, Ministring Angels. p. 767 Angels put for Devils. p. 754. Angels put for Devils, Ministers, and Messengers. p. 773. Angels, fight for the Church of God. p. 1163. The Devil is called the Angel of Death by the Jews. p. 1209. Christ is called the Angel by Stephen (the Proto-Martyr) upon the account of his delivering the Law on Mount Sinai, this proves him to be God against the Arian, and Socinian. p. 1229. Angel, and Angels, for Christ, Prophets, and Ministers. p. 1229. Why in some cases they are ranked with Christ, and God. p. 1268. Angels, can will nothing but as God willeth. 1268. The Fall of Angels, and the Fall of Adam; compared together. p. 1285. Angels in probability were created the first Day with the Heavens. p. 1323, 1324. They fell not before Man was created. 1324
Anger or wrath of God, this Christ did not undergo, but only the Justice of God in his sufferings. 1348, 1349, 1350

Anointing of Bodies and Heads among the Jews, had a threefold reason; used for superstition little differing from a magical Design. p. 161, 162. The Anointing mentioned in the Epistle of James, was for health, but opposed to the Magical Anointing of the Jews. p. 162. Anointing with precious Ointment; when, and wherefore used. p. 352. Anointing with Oyl, was a Medicine to cure the sick. Page 342

Antichrist, Rome Heathen could not be Antichrist, because the Character of Antichrist is Apostasie. p. 1168. Antichrist is two fold. p. 1200. How to discover the Antichrist, that was to be in after-times. 1200

Antinomians say, that Believers are not punished for sin; a false opinion. 1226

Antiochus and Epiphanes, the bloodiest enemies that the People of the Jews, and their Religion ever had. 513

Antipatris, the Name, the Situation, almost in all Maps mistaken; some History concerning it. 55, 56

Apamia, the Sea of it, what upon conjecture. 63

Apparitions of the Souls of Men, (or Spectra) after death believed by the Jews. 483, 1283

Apostasie of the Jews caused chiefly by false Teachers. p. 1044. The sad fruits of Apostasie. 1181, 1182

Apostles, had a power of inflicting Death, and giving the Holy Ghost. 622, 623

Arad, Ascalon bears great affinity to it. 14, 15

Arbel, a City of Galilee, between Zippor and Tiberias. 77

Ark of the Covenant, why so called. 1068, 1069, 1070

Ascalon, a place now of no note, but once was venerable, how far from Jerusalem? It bears a great affinity with Arad, and Gerar, a famous story of eight Witches, there. 14, 15

Ashdod's Language, what? 505

Ashes of the red Cow, which were most purifying, when sprinkled, what? 37

Asiarch, was the setter forth of the Games. 790, 791

Asmodeus, what sort of Devil, he was the Author of Apostasie. 429, 430

Asphaltites, the extent of it. p. 6. The Coast of it. 7, 296

Assembly of Twenty three, was held in the Gate of Susan. 512

Assizes, are an assurance, and a fit representation of the last Judgment. 1104, 1117, 1119

Assyrian Tongue, or Language, not the Original of the Old Testament. 138, 139

Attonement, how the High Priest prepared himself (with the help of others) for the day of Attonement. p. 554, 555. The Attonement or Ransom for Souls, how much, and for what end? p. 1204, 1205, 1208. And at what time it was paid? p. 1205. And why the Poor therein was to give as much as the Rich. p. 1207. And why the Poor in worldly matters gave more than the Rich did in that which referred to God. 1207

Attributes, God acteth not any of his Attributes according to the utmost extent of their infiniteness, proved by many instances. 1063

Aven, a term blasphemously used of Christ. 533

Avites, (the Country) a part of the new Idumea, called sometimes Hazerin, sometimes Shur. 292

Auranitis, and Hauran; what the Name, where the Place? 364, 365

B.

BAAL, changed in the Names of Men into Bosheth, which signifies shame, in detestation of Idolatry. Page 1315

Baalath, or Baale; what? 42

Babilon, Hebrews in Babilon (and the adjacent Countries) were supposed by the Jews to be vastly numerous and of a purer and more noble Blood, than those that went up from thence. p. 799. They had three Universities in Babilon; the Ten Tribes were placed in Assyria, and Babilon. p. 800, 801. Peter Preached the Gospel in Babilon. p. 802. Babilon put for Rome. p. 1141. Why Saint John in the Revelation calls Rome so, rather than by its own proper Name. p. 1143. Peter wrote his Epistle from Babilon in Chaldea, and not from Rome as some would have. p. 1144. Peter dyed there. Page 1144

Baburim, a Levitical City; Almon and Almoth the same 42

Balaam, what was his way, and wages, and what the way of his Followers? p 1180, 1181. Balaam is described by his Parentage, and by his Qualities. 1180

Balaamites impudently opposed the Decree of the Apostles. 697

Baptism, whence it came to pass that the Baptism of John was so readily received. p. 116, 117. Baptism had been constantly used among the Jews from the days of Jacob, and that for the same end for which we now use it, i. e. as an Entrance into the Church, and not only of Proselytes but of all Israel. p. 117 118. The Jews Baptised also young Children (for the most part) with their Parents. p. 118. So did John and the Apostles. p. 118, 119, 122. The Manner and Form which John used in Baptism. p. 119. The use of Witnesses at Baptism, was only for them that had no Parents to present them. p. 118, 119. The Baptism of Proselytes, with its circumstances, p. 117, to 112. The Baptism of John compared with the Baptism of the Jewish Proselytes, and ours with them both. p. 120, 121, 122. Among other things dipping is discoursed. p. 120, 121, 122. Dipping in Baptism endeavoured to be laid aside, because it caused the Women of Galilee to be Barren. p. 121, 122. Why Sprinkling was used in stead of Dipping. p. 121. Infant Baptism argued for. p. 273, 274. At first Baptism was in the Name of Jesus, why? p. 274, 275. Afterward in the Name of the Trinity, why? p. 275. Baptism without Circumcision gave a right to the Passover. p. 353. Baptism in the Name of Jesus, only among the Jews, and why? p. 647. Baptism taken for Martyrdom. p. 789. Baptism used in the Jewish Church, for Introduction and Admission, many Generations before John the Baptist was born. p. 1040, 1132. Baptism, four times established. p. 1122. Why there is no particular Precept in Scripture for Infant Baptism. p. 1128, 1133. The difference between the Primitive, and the Gospel Institution of it. p. 1125, 1127, 1128. Baptism to be administred before Teaching. p. 273. The same proved from Matth. 28. 19. p. 1124. The several ends of Baptism as a Sacrament. p. 273, 1125, 1126. Three Forms of it used for Introduction. p. 1129. How John the Baptist did Baptize in the Name of the Messias coming. 1129. Why the Apostles Baptised at first in the Name of Jesus only. p. 1129. Baptism was no new thing in our Saviours days. p. 1128, 1132, 1133. Baptism, its vow whether obligatory to Infants? p. 1221. Baptism belongs to Children, they being part of their Parents. 1318

Barbarians, the Greeks call all Countries Barbarians but their own. 704

Barber, an odd story of a Barber cutting the throats of many Jews. 774

Barjesus and Elymas the same, the reason of the two Names, and what they both signifie. p. 687, 1192. His wickedness, and method of perverting the ways of the Lord. 1192, 1193

Bartimai (Bartimeus) may be rendred a Son of admiration or of profit, &c. 348, 81, 82

Batanea for Bashan.

Bath Kol, or voice from Heaven which the Jews pretended to, upon the ceasing of the Prophesies, Urim and Thummim, were either Jewish Tables or Devilish witchcraft. p. 128, 129. A story of Bath Kol. p. 181. Bath Kol the Daughter of Thunder. p. 337. It was used for a Testimony from Heaven, but was indeed performed by Magick Art. 345

Baths,

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

Bath of Venus, in Æcon. Page 60
Baths, warm Baths of Tiberias, of good use. 69
Bathurseans, frequently mentioned in the Jewish Writings, what they were? 702
Be Abidan, an House, or Temple, how used? 795
Beelzebub, the right readings of it is Beelzebul; what? And why the chiefest of the Devils? 188, 189, 429
Beggers among the Jews, what Form of words they used in begging. 579
Beginning and the end, as referring things to be debated or explained, what? 565, 566
Believers, punished for sin, and how or for what end? 1226
Believing in Christ, and coming to him, how distinguished? p. 1261, 1262. Believing, & obeying not to be separated. 1263
Bell, a little Bell in the Temple gave notice when they entred upon their Services. p. 380, 381. Upon the hearing of which the Priests, Levites, and People got themselves into their distinct Postures and Places of Service. 380, 381
Benches of Judicature, their Order and Degrees among the Jews. 755
Ben Coziba, the Pseudo-Messiah of the Jews, the reason on which they rejected him. 543
Ben Nezer, was a Thief or Robber, that raised himself to a sort of a Kingdom, by taking of Cities; its also taken for that Kingdom. 496
Ben Satda, or Stada, a contumelious and blasphemous Name given by the Jewish Writers to Jesus Christ, whom they make a Magician, and that he brought that Art out of Egypt with him. 189, 270
Beor, and Pethor changed into Bosor, three things observed from it. 1144, 1180
Berurea, the Wife of Rabbi Meir, was a learned Woman. p. 543. Supposed by some to be that Samaritan Woman, which conversed with our Saviour. 543
Betar, a City not mentioned in the Scriptures, but much among the Talmudick Writings; called Bitter, or Bither among the Christians. 48, 49
Bethabara, Bethamerah, Bethany, what, and how used for the same place? 491, 492, 493, 494
Fethany, and Beth-bene, the same. p. 40. Bethany, is put for that part of Mount Olivet which lay furthest from Jerusalem, being one mile off, but the Town of Bethany was twice as far off. 485
Bethaven, there were two of the Name. 20
Beth-cerem, whether not Beth-haccerem? 51
Beth Chadulo, three miles from Jerusalem; what? 50
Bethel, first called Luz; sometimes Bethaven, where situated. 20
Bethesdas Pool, in it Men, not Beasts, were washed. p. 545 It was made of an healing quality by the help of an Angel, about the days of Christs being on Earth, but how long before or after we know not. 546, 547
Beth Gubrin, what place? 317
Beth-horan, though there were two places of this Name in the Old Testament, yet we find but one under the second Temple; several Histories referring to it, the way from Jerusalem to it. 19
Beth Maron the Town, where situate. 515
Beth-Meon, distant from Tiberias four Furlongs, the Maps place it too remote. 71
Beth Midras, or Beth Midrash, was an upper Room like a Divinity School or Chappel, near a kin to a Synagogue, being the House of the Rabbin, common for any use; here the Disciples of the Rabbins met; and the like afterwards the Disciples of the Primitive Church met in the House of some Doctor or Minister. 638, 795
Bethphage, was reckoned as within Jerusalem; which shews the error of the most Maps, as also of the Description of the Place among Historians, and Travelers. p. 36. The derivation of the word Bethphage; where it is shewn how it agrees with its being within Jerusalem. 37
Bethsaida, after rebuilt by Philip, was called Julias. 83
Bethshan, the beginning of Galilee, a most fruitful pleasant place. p. 57. Now called Scythopolis, a City of Decapolis. p. 315. Where situate. Page 493
Bible, Hebrew, some would have the Hebrew Bible corrected by the Greek Version, and contend that those Interpreters were inspired. p. 710, 711, 712. The Hebrew bible was ever read in the Synagogues of the Hebrews. p. 802. The Jews thought not so honourably of any Version as they did of the Hebrew Bible. 803, 804, 805
Bigamy, and Poligamy, forbidden. 696
Bill of Divorce, its manner of giving, with a Copy of such a Bill how confirmed; how it was delivered? p. 147, 148 Christ permits not Divorce except in case of Adultery, the only case in which Christ permitted a Bill of Divorce. 148
Binding, and Loosing, a very usual Phrase in the Jewish Schools; spoken of Things, not of Persons; Thirty Instances out of the Jewish Writers. p. 205, 206, 207. Reduced to the Gospel State. p. 207. Remitting of sins is quite another thing, this belongs to Persons, that to Doctrine. 207
Birthdays, the keeping of them was esteemed as a part of Idolatrous Worship. 196
Bitter-water, for the tryal of the Adulteress; the way of using it with the consequence. 563, 564
Bitur, or Bitar, not the same with Betar. 51
Blasphemer, he was to be stoned. 579
Blessing, and Cursing, how practised among the Jews. 136
Blood, the eating of it prohibited, &c. p. 697. The putting the blood upon the Ear of him that was cleansed of a Leprosie, the way and manner of doing it. p 1038. The Blood of the Covenant, put for the Blood of Christ. 1254
Boanerges, what? 336, 337
Brass piece of Coyn, what? 468
Bread, frequently used by the Jews for Doctrine. 553
Breaking of Bread, was a Phrase and Custom much in use among the Jews. p. 648. Whether it intended common Bread, or Sacramental Bread among the Primitive Christians? 648
Bride, and the Children of the Bridechamber; what their priviledge, and business? 172
Bridge of Jacob over Jordan, where, and why so called? p. 492. There were two Bridges at least over Jordan, besides other passages over it. 492
Brother, and Neighbour, what the difference between them? 141
Brothers, younger Brothers; the Lineage or Descent of Christ was most of younger Brothers. 1089, 1090
Burials, what Musick and Mourning was used then? p. 172, 173. How the Jews carried the Corps to their Burials; little Children were carried in their Arms, all were buried out of the City. 414
Buried, Criminals were buried in differing places from other Men, and had the stone, wood, sword or rope, wherewith they were executed, buried with them. 676
Burying Places, were either Common, or Noble and Extraordinary; the Common, were publick places, where the mixed Multitudes buried without the City. The Extraordinary, were hewn out in Rocks in their own ground with no little Charge and Art; they buryed Men of the same Family altogether; the whole described, with their manner of Burying. p. 89, 90. How far their Burying Places were distant from their Cities? 656

C.

CADESH, where seated, and what other Names it had. Page 325
Cadytis, for Jerusalem, in Herodotus. 302, 303
Cain, there was another besides him we read of in the beginning of Genesis; also the Name of a Town. p. 329, 330

Cain,

Cain, his deſcription as to Extraction and Action after he ſlew his Brother. p. 1307, 1308. His Mark that God ſet upon him, what? Page 1310
Cainan, put into the Genealogy by the Seventy Tranſlators without ground from the Hebrew. 401, &c.
Calling of the Gentiles, why Chriſt gave a Commiſſion not before, but after his Reſurrection for the calling of them. 1123
Calling of the Jews, expected by ſome, not probable, and why? 1123
Callirrhoe, is Laſha. 296
Campain Country, put ſometimes for a Wilderneſs, ſometimes for a Country where the ground was not diſtinguiſhed by ſens. 294, 295
Cana of Gallilee, its ſituation. p. 81, 309, 497. Its diſputable whether it ſhould be writ with C or K, its ſituation. 497
Canaan, what? p. 202. It was only a part of Canaan. p. 328. The earthly Canaan is not to be ſought after. 1224
Candle, נרות a Candle, uſed for a Perſon famous for life, or knowledge. 550
Capernaum, its ſituation, a City in a pleaſant place. p. 72. Where? p. 308. There were two Places of that Name. 496, 497
Caphar Chittim, the ſame with Ziddim. 71
Caphar Hananiah, was the middle of Galilee. 58
Caphar Karnaim, was of Heathen Juriſdiction. 317
Caphar Tebi, what Village, and whence the Name? 18
Caphar Tſemach, ſomething obſerved about its Name. 316
Cappadocia, rendred by the Vulgar Paluſium, was Sin of old, but in the Talmudiſts Cappadocia, &c. 290, 291
Captains of the Temple, what? 471
Carmel, a mountainous Country. 59
Caſiotis, and Caſius, the Mount; where ſituate, &c. 291
Caſtara, what place, and by whom inhabited. 515
Caſtor and Pollux, what, how pictured, and how fatal their Feaſt to the Lacedemonians. 705, 706
Caves and Dens, vaſtly large and very numerous in the Land of Iſrael; many of theſe were digged out of Mountains and Rocks by the Gygantick Canaanites, for the uſe of war. 88, 89
Cauſes, capital, the Sanhedrim loſt the power of Judging in Capital Cauſes by their own neglect, being ſo remiſs to the Iſraelites, with the reaſon of it. 611, to 614
Ceſarea, how named by Arabians and Jews; how far from Jeruſalem; Herod built it after it was deſtroyed, the Schools and Doctors of the Jews flouriſhed there. 54, 55
Ceſaria Phillippi, where ſituated. 63, 317
Chabul, what? 311
Chagigah, the Feſtival, this was the ſecond part of the Paſſover being kept with joy, mirth, and ſacrifices. p. 356, &c. Paſchal Chagigah, what part of the Paſſover? When the time of bringing it? 610, 611, 618
Chains, for the hands uſed among the Jews. 683
Chalamiſh, what place, and by whom inhabited? 515
Chaldee Language, from their return out of Babilon, was the Jews Mother Tongue. 545
Chaldee Paraphraſt, addeth to the Hebrew Text. 707
Chaluch was a woolen ſhirt next the skin, worn by the Jews. 457
Chamber of the Counſellors and chief Men, what? 358
Chambers and Gates lying on the South ſide of the Court of Iſrael, what? 31, 32
Chammath, (this is Ammaus of Joſephus) ſo near Tiberias, as to be computed almoſt one City; computed by ſome to be the warm Bathes of Tiberias. 68, 69, 308
Chaphar Acon, what? 60
Chaphenatha, where, and what? 516
Charity towards our neighbour, is the top of Religion, and a moſt undoubted ſign of love to God. p. 219. Saint Paul had three ſteps or degrees in his Charity. 1300
Charms, Mutterings, Exorciſms, &c. were ſeveral ſorts of Enchantments, practiſed by Jews. 243
Chel, was the ſecond Incloſure about the Temple. 29, 30
Chephar, what place, and by whom inhabited. 515
Cheth and He, Aleph and Ain, the Myſtical Jewiſh Doctors did not diſtinguiſh them. 79
Chethib and Keri, are the differing Readings of the Hebrew Text. 139, 140
Chezib, it and Achzib changed into Ecdippa; the name of a place. 61
Chief Men and Counſellors their Chambers, what? 358
Chijun, or Remphan, or Rephan, what? &c. 673
Child, a Child with two Bodies from the Navel upward, which acted as two Children, &c. born at Emmaus. 373
Children, were born and brought up in ſome Courts (near the Temple) under ground, to be made fitter to ſprinkle the Purifying water. p. 34. Little Children admitted Diſciples by Chriſt. p. 219. Among the Jews when Children were grown to twelve years of age, they were put cloſe upon buſineſs, both Secular, and Divine. p. 394. Children born crooked, maimed or defective according to ſome ſin of the Parents, was the Opinion of the Jews. p. 568. Children in the womb ſuppoſed by the Jews to be in a capacity to commit ſome ſin. p. 569, 570. Holy Children, a term for ſuch as are born of Chriſtian Parents. p. 759, 760. Why Children were, and are to be baptized? p. 1125, 1127, 1128 Why there is no particular Precept in Scripture for their Baptiſm. p. 1128, 1133. Children of the Jewiſh Proſelytes were Baptized in the Jewiſh Baptiſm, and why? p. 1128, 1132, 1133. Why Children ſuffer for their Parents ſin, the Juſtice thereof. p. 1316, 1317. Good Children (being part of their Parents) are puniſhed for their Parents ſins. 1318, 1319
Children of the Bride-chamber, what their priviledge, and buſineſs? 172
Chipper, what place, and by whom inhabited. 515
Chorazin, where ſeated. 83, 84
Chriſt is added to Jeſus in numberleſs places in the New Teſtament, to ſhew that Chriſt was the true Saviour, and that Jeſus was the true Meſſias. p. 96. Jeſus Chriſt is called the Son of David in a Communion term in the New Teſtament, the Talmudick Writings alſo uſe the ſame term for the true Meſſias. p. 96, 97. Chriſt was born in the thirty firſt year of Auguſtus Cæſar. p. 104, 105. In the thirty fifth year of the Reign of Herod. p. 106. In the Month of Tiſri, anſwering our September, at the Feaſt of Tabernacles. p. 107. This Month Tiſri was ennobled before Chriſts time by many excellent things done in it. p. 107. He fulfilled the typical Equity of the three great Feaſts, Paſſover, Pentecoſt and Tabernacles. p. 107. The Jewiſh Writers ſeem to intimate the time of Chriſts birth. p. 107, 108. There was a general expectation of him when he came. p. 108. Manahem i. e. the Comforter, is taken for Chriſt. p. 108. He converſed upon Earth two and thirty years and an half. p. 128 Many Miracles were done by him. p 174. Ben Satda, a blaſphemous name given by the Jewiſh Writers to Jeſus Chriſt; whom they make a Magician, &c. p. 189. Signs of Chriſts coming, what from the Doctrin of the Jews? p. 240, 241. His coming in Glory and in the Clouds, ſignifie only his taking vengeance on the Jewiſh Nation. p. 244, 1074. His death, and the manner of it, in ſeveral things differed from the Jewiſh cuſtom in putting Perſons to death. p. 266. Chriſt had Perfections and Excellencies which flowed from the Hypoſtatical union of the two Natures, and ſuch alſo as flowed from the Donation and anointing of the Holy Ghoſt, both mentioned. p. 351, 352. Chriſt, or Meſſiah, and the Son of God, are convertible Terms (againſt the Jews). p 548, 549. Chriſt in his Agony and Paſſion exerciſed obedience and holineſs (not the Divine Power) to bear up under the utmoſt that an enraged Devil could do. p. 591. Whether God was then angry with him, is queſtioned. p. 591. Chriſts dew, is his quickening Power. p. 691. His Reſurrection ſhews him to be the Meſſiah. p. 691. His entrance into his publick Miniſtry, and the time of his death, and

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

and the several Actions which he did about the time of each, &c. p. 1033. He held communion with the National Church of the Jews in the publick Exercise of their Religion; proved by manifold instances. p. 1036, 1037, 1038, 1039, 1040, 1041. He was a Member of the Church of the Jews, proved; and under the obligation of the Law; p. 1037. Yea, he was under the obligation of the Ceremonial Law, and that in three respects. p. 1037. Christs lineage or discent was most of younger Brothers. p. 1089, 1090. Why Christ was Baptised? p. 1125. Christ conformed to many things received and practised in the Jewish Church and civil converse in several instances. p. 1137, 1139. Christ sets himself against them that set themselves against Religion. p. 1164. Christ sending his Gospel bound the Devil from his former abominable cheating. p. 1171. He delivered the Law on Mount Sinai, and is called the Angel by Stephen (the Proto-Martyr) upon that account; this proves him to be God against the Arian and Socinian. p. 1229. He was sanctified by his own blood. p. 1254. Christs blood called the blood of the Covenant, and why? p. 1254. He suffered as much as God could put him to suffer, short of his own wrath. p. 1255. The wrath of God not inflicted upon Christ in his sufferings. p. 1255. His victory over Sin and Satan in his sufferings, was by his holiness, not by his God-head. p. 1255, 1256. The obedience of Christ made his blood justifying and saving. p. 1255. His obedience conquered Satan, and satisfied God. p. 1256. He died meerly out of obedience. p. 1257. He was sanctified by his own blood to the Office of Mediator. p. 1254, 1257. Acceptance with God, and coming to him, is only through Christ. p. 1261, 1262. Christs obedience does not dissolve the obedience of a Christian. p. 1263. What it is to be separate from Christ. p. 1297. The Church of the Jews, was only a Child under age till Christ came. p. 1334. His descent into Hell, the improper meaning as to what the Church of Rome understands by it. p. 1341, to 1347. Where was the Soul of Christ, when separate from the body? p. 1344. His victory and triumph over Devils, what? p. 1345, 1346. His Kingdom began at his Resurrection. p. 1345, 1346. His descent into Hell, is supposed by some to be the Torments he suffered on the Cross. p. 1347. He did not undergo the anger or wrath of God, but the Justice of God in his sufferings. p. 1348, 1349, 1350. It was impossible Christ should suffer the Torments of Hell, or be in the case of the damned. p. 1350. His expiring upon the Cross considered, both in it self and in the manner of it. Page 1354

Christian Churches, were modelled by our Saviour very near the Platform of the Jewish Synagogue worship. 1041, 1139

Church of the Jews, Christ had a peculiar care of the Jewish Church (though but too much corrupted) while it was to continue a Church, and therefore sends the Leper to shew himself to the Priests. p. 165, 166. How it may be said to have been a National Church. p. 1036. It was only a Child under age till Christ came. p. 1334. Wherein its Childhood did consist. 1334

Churches in Houses, what? 794, 795

Churches, Christian Churches, under the Gospel, were by Christ himself and his Apostles modelled very like to the Platform of the Synagogues, and Synagogue worship under the Law; proved in several instances. p. 1041, 1139. The several Ages and Conditions of God's Church from the beginning of the World. p. 1088 Churches in the Apostles days, had many Ministers belonging to each, and the reason of this. 1156, 1157

Circumcision, at it Children received their Names. p. 387. Circumcision, as given by Moses, gives a right understanding of the Nature of the Sabbath. p. 557. Peter was a Minister of the Circumcision among the Hebrews. p. 741. An Israelite may be a true Israelite, or a Priest a true Priest, without Circumcision. 760, 761

Cities, of Refuge, their Number and Names. p. 47, 48. Cities of the Levites, the Lands about them large, called their Suburbs; these Cities were Cities of Refuge and Universities. p. 86. A great City was such an one as had a Synagogue in it. p. 87. Not any thing troublesom or stinking were to be near a City. p. 87. Cities, Towns, and Villages; how distinguished. p. 333, 334. What number of Officers in Cities, and what their Places, and Employments. 638

Cleansing, what the Leper was to do for his cleansing. 165

Climax of the Tyrians, what place? 61

Cock-crowing, at what time? p. 262. Whether there were Cocks at Jerusalem, being forbid by their Canons. p. 262 The Jewish Doctors distinguish Cock-crowing, into first, second, and third. 597

Collections were made by the Jews in forrain Nations for the poor Rabbins dwelling in Judea. 792

Comforter, was one of the Titles of the Messiah. 600

Coming of Christ in the Clouds, in his Glory, and in his Kingdom, are used for the Day of his Vengeance on the Jews. 626

Coming to Christ and believing in him, how distinguished. 1261, 1262

Commandments or Commands } Commands of the second Table chiefly injoyned in the Gospel, and why? p. 1064, 1114, 1115. God will not have his Commands dallied and trifled withal. p. 1227. Why we are to keep the Commands of God? p. 1230. The Commandments of the Law were given for Gospel ends. 1231

Communion of the Jews, what? and how made. p. 768. Christ had Communion with the National Church of the Jews in the publick Exercise of their Religion; proved by many instances. 1036, 1037, 1039, 1040, 1041

Confession of sins at the execution and death of Malefactors (say the Jews) did expiate for their sins. 1275

Confusion of Languages, was the casting off of the Gentiles, and the confusion of Religion. 644

Conjuring, so skilful were the Jews in Conjuring, Enchantments, and Sorceries, that they wrought great Signs and Wonders and many villanies thereby. 244

Conscience, how to clear the state and nature of it, when it is doubting: some heads for such an undertaking hinted. p. 1054: The great power of conviction of Conscience. p. 1082, 1803, 1804. Conscience is an assurance given by God of the last Judgment. 1104, 1119

Consistories that were of more note out of the Talmud. 85

Consolation of Israel, it was an usual Oath among the Jews, Let me see the Consolation, or Let me see the Consolation of Israel. 393

Conviction of Conscience, the great power of it. p. 1082, 1083, 1084

Corban, signifies a thing devoted and dedicated to sacred use. p. 201. Corban was the Treasury, there was a Corban of Vessels, or Instruments, and a Corban of Money. p. 299. The Corban Chests, how these were imployed to buy the dayly Sacrifice, and Offerings. p. 300, 301. The Corban Chamber. p. 300, 301. The Corban Chests and the Treasury were in the Court of the Women. p. 301. Corban, a Gift, what? 345 737

Corinth, where seated? 1254

Covenant, the blood of it, put for the blood of Christ. 1254

Covenant of Grace, Souls raised in the first and second Resurrection by the vertue of this, but not alike. p. 1235. The Tenor and vertue of this Covenant distinguished. 1238

Covetousness, called an evil Eye. 162. What it caused Balaam to do, what he got by it, and how many Israelites were destroyed by it. p. 1181. The sad fruits of Covetousness, and Apostasie. 1181, 1182 358

Councellors Chamber, what?

Council of the Jews, of what Authority in the time of Christ; of its place of residence, and what sort and number of Men it was compounded of. p. 248, to 251. The Council of the Jews transgressed many of their own Canons in Judging Jesus Christ. p. 263. Council, used for Sanhedrin. 355

Courses of the Priests in the second Temple did something differ from those in the first. p. 377. Course of Abiah, what? p. 377. How many Courses were there, and what were their turns in which they did Circulate. p. 377 378, 379, 380. Stationary Men among the Courses, what? 378

Court of the Gentiles, among the Jewish Writers is ordinarily called the Mountain of the House, those that were unclean might enter into this. p. 28, 29. The Gates of it. 29

Court of the Women, its dimensions, situation, Gates, and parts. 29, 30

Court of the Temple, its parts, its length, and breadth. 32, 33

Courts of Judicature, there were three in the Temple. 395

Coins, some of the Jews Coins of the smaller value mentioned. 142

Creation, God created all things in six days; and why not in a moment? p. 1322. The World was created in September. p. 1322, &c. A new Creation, or Redemption was performed on the day Adam was created. p. 1315. Creation and Resurrection of Christ, whether the greater work. 1330

Creature, all Creatures, or every Creature, a speech common among the Jews, by which is understood all Men, or all Nations, but especially the Gentiles. 359, 360, 1149

Criminals, capital Criminals, if Israelites, were not Judged by the Sanhedrin, with the Reasons why. p. 611, to 614. The Sanhedrin gave to Jewish criminals a full hearing, even after sentence; if they themselves or any other had any thing to say for them. p. 675. They were buried in differing places from other Men, and had the Stone, Wood, Sword, or Rope wherewith they were executed, buried with them. 676

Cruelty of the Jews, great, most barbarously destroying two hundred and twenty thousand Greeks and Romans, at one time, feeding on their flesh, eating their bowels, besmearing themselves with their blood, and covering themselves with their skins, &c. p. 686, &c. They also in Egypt and Cyprus destroyed two hundred and forty thousand Men in a most barbarous manner. p. 686, 687. Cruelty, or slaughter, prodigious in the East Indies. 1295

Cup, that Cup which Christ used was mixed with water. 777

Cup in the Sacrament, is not only the sign of the Blood of Christ, and a Seal as a Sacrament, but the very Sanction of the New Testament. 778

Curses in the Old Testament, the Jews applied to the Gentiles, not to themselves. 535

Cursing and Blessing, how practised among the Jews. 136

Custom of the Jews in praying, what? p. 1139. They said not Amen in the Temple, but in Houses and in Synagogues. p. 1139. What they said by way of response in the Temple. 1139

Cutheans were Israelites, and very exact in the Jewish worship, &c. 52, 53

Cuthites, and their Kingdom, what? p. 496. Cuthites for the Samaritans, and whence, p. 503. How far their Victuals were lawful to the Jews. p. 538. What dealings the Jews might have, or not have with them; these Cuthites here spoken of were Samaritans. 539

Cutting off in Scripture doth not intend Excommunication, but the Divine Vengeance. 142

Cymbal, and tinkling Cymbal, were two Balls of brass struck one against another. 782

D.

Dalmanutha, what, and whence the Name? Page 307, 309, 310

Damascus spoke to as the scene of Paul's convertion. 682

Damned, it is impossible Christ should suffer the torments of Hell, or be in the case of the damned. p. 1350. The Damned not tormented under Ground. 1342

Dan, why not named among the sealed of the twelve Tribes, Rev. 7. 1067

Dancing, one way of expressing joy. 196

Daniel, how he came to scape when Nebucadnezzer's Image was set up, as say the Jews. 657

Daphne, and Riblah, the same. Josephus mentions another Daphne. 62, to 64

David put for the Messias. 691

Day of the Lord, Christ's coming in Glory, and in the Clouds; signifie only Christ's taking vengeance on the Jewish Nation. p. 244, 624. The Son cometh, was expresst to be the same. 245

Day of Judgment, and Day of Vengeance, put for Christ's coming with Vengeance to judge the Jewish Nation, there are six differing ways of expressing it. 346

Days of the week, how reckoned by the Jews, by the name of first and second, &c. of the Sabbath. p. 274. The third Day much taken notice of by the Rabbins. 481

Days of the Messias, and the World to come, sometimes distinguished, sometimes confounded. 743

Demons, Angels, and Spirits distinguished among the Jews. 483

Deacons, there were three Deacons or Almoners, in the Jews Synagogues. 132, 134, 662

Dead, what mourning was used for the Dead, also what feasting and company. p. 173. The Dead live in another World. p. 230, 231. The Jews had an opinion that the Dead did discourse one among another, and also with those that were alive. p. 457. Mourning for the Dead, the way and method of it, The Jews used to comfort the Mourners both in the way and at home. p. 581, 582. The washing used after touching a dead Body, what? p. 790. Praying for the dead, founded by the Rhemists on that Text, 1 John 5. 16. refuted. 1094

Deaf and Dumb, unfit to sacrifice, &c. 210, 384

Death looks awakening and terrible upon the most Moral and Learned Men, p. 16. Four kinds of Death were delivered into the Hands of the Sanhedrin. p. 683. They are continued (say the Jewish Writers) by a Divine Hand now the Sanhedrin is ceased. p. 705. Death, what it is? p. 1353. Why do Men dye, i. e. why are they not removed Soul and Body into the other World without any more ado? p. 1354. The difficulty of the Soul and Bodies parting at death. 1354

Death of sin, God stints the time of Mens rising from it, which slipped, is not to be retrieved. 1238, 1239

Decapolis, the Region of it, not well placed. 314

Deciarii, were one sort of Publicans. 466

Dedication, the Feast of it, why called by the name of Lights? 576, 577. The Feast of Dedication is mentioned but once in all the Scripture, and that only by bare naming of it, in John 10. 22. p. 1033. The Original institution of this Feast of Dedication, collected out of the Talmud, Maimonides, Josephus, and the first Book of Maccabes. p. 1035. It was kept on the twenty fifth day of the Month Cisleu, or November. p. 1035. Dedication, the strange custom of lighting up of Candles therein used. 1039

Defendant and Plaintif chose their Judges, &c. among the Jews. 755

Degree, and Pomp, of the World, countervail nothing with God. 1210, 1211, 1212

Demoniacks,

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

Demoniacks, why so many in Christs time more than at other times? Page 175

Denarius, and Luz, were of the same value amongst the Rabbins. 343, &c.

Dens and Caves, vastly large and very numerous in the Land of Israel; many of these were digged out of Mountains and Rocks, by the Gygantick Canaanites, for the use of war. 88, 89

Dependance upon God for Life and Being, is to be owned and acknowledged by all good Christians. 1205, 1206

Descent of Christ into Hell, the improper meaning, as to what the Church of Rome understands by it. p. 1341, 1347. His Descent into Hell is supposed by some to be the Torments he suffered on the Cross.

Destruction of Jerusalem, is frequently expresst in Scripture, as if it were the Destruction of the whole World. 244

Devil, how he is the Prince of this World. p. 591, 592. The sin of the Devil, what it was? p. 198. How he deceived the Nations or Heathen before the Gospel. p. 1171. How, when, and why, and how long let loose by Christ. p. 1172, 1173, 1174. He is called the Angel of death by the Jews. p. 1299. The end for which Christ bound the Devil a Thousand years. p. 1233. The Gospel was the chain with which he was bound. p. 1233 The Devil is denominated That wicked one, why? 1306

Devilishness, how much thereof the Devil can infuse into Mans nature, with the reason of it. 1308, 1309

Devils were cast out by one that did not follow Christ, how possible. p. 346. Devils called Angels, how Saints shall Judge them. p. 754. Angels put for Devils. 773. The Souls of Men are in a better state than Devils; p. 1302 The sin of the Devils is wretched beyond pardon. 1305

Dew of Christ, is his quickening Power. 691

Dialect, the Dialect of the Galileans differed much from the Dialect of the Jews. 78, 79

Didrachma, Tribute mony, two things perswade that it was the half Shekel, paid yearly in the Temple. 211, 212

Diet, a Diet was thirty Miles. 319

Diocletian, the Emperor, was once Diclot the keeper of Hogs. 7

Dipping in Baptism, indeavoured to be laid aside, because it caused the Women of Galilee to grow barren. p. 121, 122. Why sprinkling was used in stead of dipping. 121

Disciple and Singular, what? They are terms sometimes confounded, and sometimes distinguished. 433

Disciples of Christ, mentioned by the Talmudists. p. 171. Why they were twelve, and for what end they were chosen? 174

Disciples or Learners, after the days of Rabban Gamaliel did use to sit while they were instructed. p. 395, 396. They had power to ask the Doctors any questions as they went along in their Expositions and Lectures. 396

Discoursing, the dead discoursing one among another, and also with those that were alive, was the opinion of the Jews. 457

Diseases, grievous, attributed usually by the Jews to evil Spirits. p. 211. Diseases were supposed by the Jews to be inflicted by the Devil. 441

Disputes, the power and will of God being well understood and submitted to, take off abundance of carnal Atheistical Disputes. 1320, 1321

Divinity, the Mystery of it, not contrary to reason; how to be understood. 1103

Divorces, what among the Jews. p. 146, 147. A Bill of Divorce, its manner of giving, with a Copy of such a Bill, how confirmed, how delivered. p. 147, 148. Christ permits not Divorce except in the case of Adultry. 148

Doctors of the Law, were of several sorts. p. 421. What? 434

Dogs and Swine, were forbidden the Jews, with the Reasons thereof. p. 168. Dogs, put for Gentiles, or Heathens. Page 202

Doors, and Gates, lying on the North-side of the Temple, what? 32

Dositheus or Dosthes was a famous Seducer of the Samaritans. 483, 504

Dowery, in the donation of it, the Galileans differed from the Jews. 77, 78

Drachm, what? 468

Dreams, none in the World more fond of dreams than the Jews; using art to make themselves dreams, and nice Rules of interpreting dreams. p. 243. Dreams some were strange and odd. 1257

Drink, the Jewish Doctors say that to drink a Quart of Wine makes one drunk; so much every one of them drank in their sacred Feasts, judge then how soberly they carried it in those Feasts, if they mingled not much Water with their Wine. p. 61. This is proved in Rabban Gamaliel. 61

Drinking and Eating, used frequently in a metaphorical sense by the Jews. p. 553, 554. Drinking the Blood, and eating the Flesh of Christ, is of necessity Metaphorical. 553, 554

Drunk. Vide Drink.

Dumb, such Persons were unfit to Sacrifice, &c. 210, 384

Dust, white Dust for Potters Clay, &c. 12

Dust of the Feet, what it was to shake it off? 179

Dying (called Martyrdom) for others to save their Country, what? 326

E.

EARTH and Heaven made by God, and wherefore he made them? 1321

Eating and Drinking commonly used in a Metaphorical sense by the Jews. 553, 554

Eating the Flesh, and drinking the Blood of Christ, must of necessity be Metaphorically understood. 553, 554

Ebal, how far from Jordan? p. 79, 80. Ebal Mount, its situation. 505

Ecdippa, formerly called Chezib and Achzib, the name of a place. 61

Edom rendred Rome. Edomites rendred Romans. 292

Egypt was full of Jews, there they had a Temple, and all their Offices and Ordinances. 111, 112

Elder, a Title proper to Saint John. 337

Elders, Chief Priests, and Scribes, how distinguished? p. 469. Elders ordained by whom, and how? p. 686. They were to judge in Pecuniary Affairs. 755

Elect, what it signified, and who they were? 1146

Election, admits not of magis and minus. 1147

Elements, used for Mosaick Rites. 626

Elias, the frequent appearance of him we meet with in the Writings of the Jews, were either Stories or Diabolical Apparitions. p. 129. His coming, how vain the expectation of it was among the Jews; the Ends also of his expected coming, as they propose them, what? p. 209, &c. They looked for his coming before the Messias. p. 210. Elias, put for John the Baptist. 382, 383

Elijah, put for John the Baptist. 382, 383

Elizabeth, why she hid her self when with child. 1220

Elymas and Barjesus, the reason of the two Names, for the same Person, and what they both signifie. 687, 1192

Emims, what? 363

Emmaus, six Furlongs from Jerusalem. p. 42. What? p. 293. It was from Jerusalem seven Miles and an half; the same with Nicopolis. p. 371. Its situation. p. 372, 373

Encænia, or the Feasts of Dedication. So the Feast of Dedication among the Jews, why called Lights; It was kept for eight days all over the Land. Page 576, 577, 578

Enchantments, there were hardly any People in the World that more used Enchantments than the Jews. p. 243. Which consisted in Amulets, Charms, Mutterings, and Exorcisms. p. 243. So skilful were they in Conjurings, Enchantments, and Sorceries, that they wrought great signs and wonders, and many Villanies by them. p 244. Hence arose false Christs. p. 244. Some sort of Hereticks used Enchantments, or Sorceries, to cause Men to follow them. 497

End, and Beginning, as referring to things to be debated, or explained, what? p. 565, 566. End of all things and of the World, put for the end of the Jewish State. 1074

Engedi, is ill placed in the Maps. p. 7. Engedi, is Hazezon Tamar. 296

Enmity, why the Lord put Enmity between Man and Devil. 1171

Ephraim, a Town so called. p. 49, 50. The City, where situate. 514, 515

Epistle to the Romans, when, and where it was writ by Saint Paul? 1051

Equality of Men, how all Men are equal in Gods esteem. 1210, 1211

Eremite, or Hermite, denotes a Country Man more properly than one that lives in a Desart. p. 113. John the Baptist in all probability was no Eremite. 387, 388

Error, and Ignorance, do arise because Men will not know, and embrace the Truth. 1286, 1287

Espousal, an espousal of a Woman, was performed by Money or Writing, or lying with. 101

Espoused, no Woman was married before Espoused. 100

Essеans, who they were. p. 7. Where they inhabited. p. 499 They owned the Immortality of the Soul, but at the same time might deny the Resurrection of the Body. p. 702. Their Religion was not the National Religion of the Jews, but a Sect and an Excrescence from it. 1036

Etam the Fountain, what, and of what use the streams. 510

Eucharist, when it was instituted. p. 258, 259. The Bread. p. 259. The Wine. p. 260. Judas was present at the Eucharist. p. 261. Receiving the Eucharist unworthily, two dreadful things against it. 779

Eve, her Temptation, the Tradition of the Jews concerning it. p. 1099. Adam and Eve believed and obtained life. 1303, 198

Evening, what? 517

Europe, in probability is derived from Choreph, which signifies Winter, or cold.

Excommunication and Reproof, what they were, with the difference between them. p. 747, &c. What the causes of Excommunication, and how many sorts there were. p. 747, 748. The Jewish method of proceeding against the Excommunicated, with the reason thereof. p. 749. Whether the Jewish Excommunication was esteemed a delivery up to Satan. 749

Extraordinary gifts of the Spirit, are in Scripture comprized under Tongues and Prophesies. 1157

Extraordinary actings of God, are not Mens ordinary Rule. 1276

Ezra, Traditions, as to their first conception, are referred to the time of Ezra. p. 124. In his days also was laid the foundations of Pharisaism and Sadducism. p. 12. In his days some denyed the Resurrection. 126

F.

FAITH, put for an holy boldness, confidence and magnanimity. Page 781

Faith, great in the Thief on the Cross. 1273, 1274

Faith in Christ, all the holy Men that lived before Christ were saved by believing in him; proved. Page 1089

Fall of, Angels, and Adam, compared together. 1285

Family of the Mother, not to be called a Family. 99

Farthings, what sort of Mony? 350

Fasted, the Jews fasted on the second and fifth days in the Week, whether imitated by Christians? 685

Fasts of the Jews, what they were both in publick and in private. p. 463. Fasts of the Pharisees, strange stories related of them. 171

Father, a Father was always obliged among the Jews to teach his Son some honest Art or Trade. p. 343. Father and Mother, why to be honoured. 1339

Fearers of the Lord, used for Proselytes, every one of them are blessed. 689

Feast of Tabernacles, the Joy and Songs thereof. p. 223. The preparations for it and the parts of it. p. 554, 555. With the great Joy that attended it. p. 555, 556. The nicity of the Jews referring to the Feast of Tabernacles. p. 556, 557. How and wherefore the Eighth day of this Feast was computed great by the Jews. p. 559, 560. The strange Rites and Customs therein used. 1039

Feast of weeks, what? 357

Feast, Governour of the Feast, understood of one whose place was to be Chaplain there. 528

Feast of Dedication, why called by the name of Lights. p. 576, 577. It is mentioned but once in all the Scripture, and that by bare naming of it, in Joh. 10. 22. p. 1033. The original Institution of it, collected out of the Talmud, Maimonides, Josephus, and the first Book of Maccabees. p. 1035. The strange custom of lighting up Candles therein used. 1039

Feast of Purim, was opposed by some of the Jews. 578

Feasts Jewish. The Jewish Feasts were vexed with innumerable scruples, about what, and how to eat, and not to eat. 769

Feasts of Charity, what they were. 1045

Festivals, John is the most punctual in giving an account of the Festivals that intercurred between Christ's entrance into his publick Ministry and the time of his Death. p. 1033. The Festivals of the Passover, Pentecost, and of Tabernacles were appointed by God for Communion, as well as for Religion. 1038

Fifth Monarchy, is not the Kingdom of Christ, but was the Kingdom of the Devil. 1166

Figs and Fig-Trees, there were some wild, and some cultivated; Figs were ripe at differing seasons, and therefore Christ might expect some of a former year, though as to that year the time was not come. 225, to 228

Fire, put for the Law of God, and for Indignation. 744

First born, when, and wherefore presented to the Lord, and when redeemed. 392

First Fruit sheaf, when, and how reaped. p. 38. When to be offered. p. 184. The Pomp of those that offered the First Fruits was very great. 306, 307

Flesh and Blood, is used as opposing Men to God. 204, &c.

Flux, various Medicines for a Woman labouring under it. 341, 342

Fondness, the Jews are fond and highly conceited of their own Nation; a notable Example of this Fondness. p. 1112. It hindred the execution of Malefactors. 1113

Fool, how came Fool to be a more greivous word than Raka? 142

Forbearance in sin, is the greatest punishment. 1310, 1311

Forms of Prayer, were prescribed under the Old and New Testament. p. 1137. Forms of Prayer defended, and objections answered. p. 1137. An account of the Jewish Forms from the Talmud, and other Writers. 1139

Foster Father, taken for a natural Father. 395

Fountain, Etam the Fountain, what, and of what use its streams. 510

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

France and Spain, what places the Jews underſtood for them. Page 368

Fraud, Pious Fraud was one cauſe of the falſities of Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory. 1143

Friendſhip, and Converſation more inward, which a Jew was not to have with an Heathen, what? 751

Fruits, the Firſt Fruit ſheaf, where, and how reaped. p. 38, 618, 619. When to be offered. p. 184. The Pomp of thoſe that offered it was very great. 306, 307

Furnication, why or how put among things indifferent. p. 696. There were two ſorts of Furnication, of this nature. 696

G.

GAD Javan, in the Temple, what? Page 302

Gadara, two places of the Name; it was at firſt Gazara, or Gezar. p. 69. It was a City of Decapolis of Heathen juriſdiction. 315

Gadarens, whether Jews or Heathens? p. 168. This Region was included within that of the Gergaſens. 340

Galileans, had ſome cuſtoms different from thoſe of Judea; as in writing the Donation of the Marriage Dowry; in working or not working on the Paſsover Eves; alſo concerning the Trumah, and the Curſes of the Prieſts, &c. 77, 78

Galilee, was the upper, nether, and the valley. p. 56, 57. Bethſhan, the beginning of Galilee, a moſt fruitful pleaſant place. p. 57. Caphar Hananiah; the middle of Galilee. p. 58. The diſpoſition of Tribes in it. p. 58, 59. The Weſt Coaſt of Galilee. p. 59, 60. Whether the Tranſjordanian Country was ever called Galilee? Whether Perea (properly ſo called) did not once go under the name of Galilee? p. 362. The way from Galilee to Jeruſalem, deſcribed. 536, 83

Gamala, where ſituate.

Gamaliel, Paul's Maſter was Preſident of the Sanhedrim. p. 15. Something of his Hiſtory. 652

Gardens, were all without the City Jeruſalem, and why? Roſes only excepted. 262, 607

Gariſons of the Romans, were diſperſed over the Land of Iſrael, what they were? 324

Garments of the Jews, what? p. 417. Talith, a Mantle, &c. which was the outer Garment: Chaluch a woolen ſhirt, was worn next the skin. p. 417. Theſe are called by Chriſt and the Baptiſt two Coats. p. 416, 417. The Zealots went with one of theſe ſingle. 416

Gate, is a term under which very many things in Religion are expreſt. 164

Gate of Nicanor, or the Eaſt Gate of the Court of Iſrael; the reaſon of the name, what was done in it? The Council of the Twenty three ſat there. 30, 31

Gate ----- of the Prieſts, what? p. 511. ------ of Suſan, whence the Name, in it was held the Aſſembly of the Twenty three, &c. p. 512. ---- Watergate, where ſituate? 510

Gates, lying on the South-ſide of the Court of Iſrael, what? 31, 32

Gaza, a City and a Mart, both famous. 13, &c.

Gazith, was a famous Council-room, where the Sanhedrim ſat, when they left that they ceaſed to judge in Capital Cauſes. p. 512, 513. Why called Gazith, &c. p. 615. Gazith, or the Council Houſe, what it was? 1111

Gemini, in the Zodiack, put for Caſtor and Pollux. 705

Genealogical Writings or Scrols, ſhewing the true deſcent of Families for many Generations, were preſerved among the Jews. 95, 96

Genealogy, Generations are ſometimes daſhed out in the Genealogical Accounts for good reaſons. 97, 98

Geneſaret, the Country of Geneſaret, a moſt fruitful pleaſant Country; its length. p 71. Geneſaret Sea, or Lake of Geneſaret, placed without the Tribe of Naphthali by the Maps, but within it by the Talmud. p. 66. A Scheme of it and the places adjacent. Page 307, 308

Gentiles, they were not to be helped, or ſuccoured, by the Jews. p. 425, 426. The Gentiles did not only ſend Gifts and Sacrifices to the Temple, but alſo uſed to come thither to worſhip. p. 589, 590. They were called Greeks by the Jews, and why? p. 704. Why Chriſt gave a Commiſſion, not before, but after his Reſurrection for the calling of the Gentiles. p. 1123. Their raiſing from the death of ſin, is the firſt Reſurrection. p. 1234, to 1238. Some of them loſt the opportunity, and would not be raiſed when the reſt were. 1238

Gentile World, was ſubject to vanity of Mind. 708

Gerar, had an affinity to Aſcalon. 14, 15

Gergaſa, a City; whence the Name. 70

Gergaſens, their Country was of broader extent and ſignification than the Region of the Gaderens. 340

Gerizim, whether over againſt Gilgal, or not? 79, 80

Gerizim Mount, its ſituation. 505

Gezar, is now called Gadara. 69

Gibeah, was Saul's Town, &c. 41

Gideon, Sampſon, and Jephtha, their failings; what? 1215

Gift, to leave the Gift before the Altar, what it was? p. 143. Gift, put for a thing dedicated, devoted, or vowed away. 200, 201

Gift of Tongues, it was general upon all the Diſciples. 643

Gift, Spiritual and Extraordinary, with the enjoyment of the Holy Ghoſt; only beſtowed on Miniſters. p. 1156. Whether every one that had Gifts, had all the Gifts given by the Apoſtles? 1157

Gihon, was the ſame with the Fountain Siloam. 25

Gilgal, what place it was ſuppoſed to be, whether Galilee? 80

Gilead, Mount Gilead, what? 373, 374

Girdle, the Talmudick Girdle of the Land under the ſecond Temple, what? p. 3. Girdle of the City, i. e. the Hills, Gates, and Walls that went round it. 26, to 28

God, acteth not any of his Attributes according to the utmoſt extent of their Infiniteneſs, proved by many inſtances. p. 1036. Dependance upon God for Life and Being, is to be owned and acknowledged by all good Chriſtians. p. 1205, 1206, 1207. God requires ſome Tribute of Men for their Preſervation. p. 1208. How God preſerves all Men alike, and yet not all alike. p. 1213. God's extraordinary Actings are for the magnifying of his own glory. p. 1276. God made Heaven and Earth, and wherefore he made them? 1321, 1322. Why he made the World, ſeeing he will ſpoil it in time? p. 1322. He created all things in ſix days, and why not in a moment? 1322

Godlineſs, how ſadly Satan cheats Men when they become enemies to it. 1177, 1178

Gog, underſtood of the Grecian Empire. p. 512, 513. Gog and Magog, what is meant by them? 1173, 1174

Golan, a City, whence is Gaulonitis. 81

Golden Calf, the Jews ſay the puniſhment of the ſin of it deſcended to the following Generations. 671

Good, a thing good in it ſelf is not utterly to be extinguiſhed, becauſe another uſed it ill. 1138

Goph, or Guph, a place where the Jews did ſuppoſe that Souls did Pre-exiſt. 569

Gophna, ſituate in Judea, oft ſpoken of. 51, 52

Goſpel Diſpenſation, was begun by the Preaching and Baptiſm of John. 331

Goſpel, Chriſt ſending his Goſpel bound the Devil from his former abominable cheating. p. 1171. Why the Goſpel is called the Truth. p. 1187. Its greateſt enemies are thoſe that had once profeſt it. p. 1188. What Inſtruments, and Machinations they uſe for the oppoſing of it. p. 1188. Who are the great reſiſters of the Goſpel. p. 1189. Why God permits wicked Men to reſiſt the Goſpel? p. 1190. It was the Chain which Chriſt tyed the Devil with. 1233

Grace, saying Grace before meat, if the Jews sat, then every one said Grace for himself; if they did lye, then one said Grace for all. Page 256, 257

Grace, Common Grace, is Gods ordinary way for working Saving Grace. p. 1048. The difference between Common and Sanctifying Grace. p. 1157. Grace to mankind, magnified. 1304, 1305

Grandure, worldly Grandure and riches countervail nothing with God. 1210, 1211, 1212

Greek, in Greek was the New Testament writ, because the Jews were to be rejected immediately, and the Gentiles to be called to the faith, and the Greek was the Gentile Language. 101, to 104

Greek Interpreters, their boldness in adding to the Scripture, taken notice of. p. 666, 667. Sometimes they gave a sense of their own upon the Hebrew Text, and very often used Greek words very different from the Idiom of the Greeks. 711, 712

Greek Tongue rejected by the Jews to their great disadvantage. 661. Greek and Hebrew Tongues, both native to some Jews. p. 661. Why the Greek Tongue was dispersed over most of the World in our Saviours time. 1145

Greek Version, the Hebrew Text added to by the Greek Version. p. 707. Some would have the Hebrew Bible corrected by the Greek Version, and contend that these Interpreters were inspired. p. 710, 711, 712. Greek Version in what value among the Jews, its not an acurate pure Version, even the Jews being Judges. 807, 808. Objections answered, p. 808, 809. Whence not the Greek Version, but the Hebrew Text was read in Synagogues of the Hellenists. p. 808. By what Authors and Counsels it might probably be that the Greek Version came forth, which obtains under the name of the Seventy, performed with more craft than Conscience, why therefore did the Apostles and Evangelists use it? 809, to 811

Greeks and Hebrews, who properly so called. p. 659, 660. The Gentiles were called Greeks by the Jews, and why? p. 704. The Greeks call all Countries but their own Barbarians. 704

Guph or Goph, a place where the Jews did suppose that Souls did Pre-exist. 569

H.

HADES, what in the opinion of the Heathen World? p. 1351. If Hades mean Paradise, why should Christ pray against it? Page 1352

Hair, long Hair; divers Nations did wear long Hair. p. 774. The Nazarites also wore long Hair, among which number Absolom was one. p. 774. Why the Nazarites let their hair grow long? p. 774. The Jews cut their hair very often especially ever before a Feast. 774

Hallell, the great Hallel, what? p. 223, 224. Hillel, the Hymn that was sung at the Passover, what? p. 353, 354. The Great Hallel and Hymn, that was sung at the close of every Passover; whence taken and how it was sung. p. 444, 445. Hallel, an Hymn, or Song, made up of six Psalms. 560

Hands, the plunging and washing them, what, and how they differ? p. 344, 345. The laying of Hands upon the Sacrifice, what, and for what end? 531

Harvest, Seed-time, Plowing, Sowing, Mowing, Dressing of Vines, and all the management of the Gardens, Grounds, Fields, and Vineyards, lay in the Hands of the Fathers of the Traditions; so that the Country-man did none of these things but by the Traditional Rule. p. 87, 88. Harvest and Seed-time, were early among the Jews, p. 184, 185. When? 543, 544

Hatred, we are to hate no Man in the World. 1300

Hauran, what the Name, and where the Place. 364, 365

Hazerim, the Region of the Avites, it was a part of new Idumea. 292

Hazezon Tamar, is Engedi. Page 296

Head, covered, shewed humility, reverence, shame, &c. uncovered, confidence, not fearful, not ashamed, &c. 769, 770

Heart, its hardness, what? 217

Hearts, Tongues, and Actions of Men, can be, and are overpowered by the Spirit of God, so as to serve the design of God's glory. 1290, 1291, 1292

Heathenism, from whence it sprung. 644

Heathens, how the Jews esteem them? 215

Heaven, put for God, very usual in the Jewish Dialect. p. 114. What Saints in Heaven do referring to Saints or Sinners on Earth. p. 1268. Heaven and Earth made by God, and wherefore he made them? 1321, 1322

Hebrew, was not the Jews Mother-Tongue in the time of the Apostles, but the Syriac. p. 101, to 104. The Hebrew Letter was the Original Letter of the Law. p. 138, 139. Whether the Text be corrupted? p. 139, 140. Hebrew Language, put for the Chaldee Language. 543, 544

Hebrew Bible, some would have it corrected by the Greek Version, and contend that those Interpreters were inspired. p. 710, 711, 712. Hebrew Bible, read in the Synagogues of the Hebrews. p. 802. The Jews thought not so honourably of any Version as they did of the Hebrew Bible. 803, 804, 805

Hebrew Text, added to by the Greek Version and Chaldee Paraphrast. 707

Hebrew Tongue, contained all the Things of true Religion, all other Languages at Babel wanted them, from whence sprung Heathenism. p. 644. What Language was the Hebrew Tongue in the time of the Apostles. p. 658, &c. The Syriack or Armenian under the second Temple was that which went under the Name of the Hebrew. p. 659. Both Hebrew and Greek Tongues were native to some Jews. p. 661. Hebrew Tongue or Language was used by the Jews in reading the Scripture, Prayers, and Preaching; and so its supposed the Corinthian Church did, though the common People of the one, and the other, did not understand it. 783, 784, 787

Hebrews, or the Land of the Hebrews was so called from Heber, from the confusion of Tongues. p. 327. Hebrews and Greeks, who properly so called. p. 659, to 662. Hebrews or Jews, and Hellenists distinguished, with the reason of the distinction. p. 798. Hebrews in Babilon, and the adjacent Countries, were supposed by the Jews to be vastly numerous, and of a purer and more noble blood, than those that went up from Babilon. p 799. They had three Universities in Babilon; the Ten Tribes also were placed there, and in Assyria. 800, 801

Hebron, the situation of it, and the reason of its name. 46, 47

Hell, called by the name of Gehinnon and Gehenna, why? p. 141. The Jews say that there are eight Doors of Gehenna. p 141. Christ's descent into Hell, the improper meaning, as, what the Church of Rome understood by it. p. 1341, to 1347. Some Protestants hold his local descent into Hell, but not as the Papists do. p. 1311. Christs descent into Hell is supposed by some to be the torments he suffered on the Cross. p. 1347. Its impossible Christ should suffer the torments of Hell, or be in the case of the Damned. p. 1350. What is the meaning of Christ's descent into Hell. p. 1350, &c. Hell did once signifie the same with Hades, now it is only used for the Place of Torment. 1350

Hellenists, were Jews that were scattered among the Greeks, and used their Tongue. p. 558. Hellenists, whether Jews or no? p. 659, 660, 661. Hellenists and Hebrews or Jews, distinguished, with the reason of the distinction. 798

Helps, were such as accompanied the Apostles, and Baptized such as were converted by them. 781

Heresies, why Saint Paul says they must be; whence is the unhappy necessity of them? p. 1279, 1280. The immediate Causes and Originals of Heresies, what? p. 1280

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

Popery, Socinianiſm, and Quakeriſm, are great Hereſies. Page 1280, 1281

Hereticks, ſome ſort of them uſed Sorcery, or Enchantments to cauſe Men to follow them. p. 497. There were Hereticks in the days of Ezra, which ſaid there was no world but this. 702

Hermite or Eremite, denotes a Country-man more properly than one that lives in a Deſart. 113

Hermon, the ſame ſay ſome with the Mountain of Snow. 62

Herod, his manner of riſe from a ſervant to a King. *p.*109. His Dominion enlarged. 361, &c.

Herodians, the riſe of them, and what they were. 229

Herodium, a Palace, or Caſtle, built by Herod near the Moabitiſh Arabia. 500

High Places, built up to Idols, and the ſame alſo to God. 718

High Prieſt, whether ſometimes there were not two High Prieſts? p. 397. High Prieſt and the Preſident of the Sanhedrim compared together, the High Prieſt ſhewed to be the greater Officer. p. 681. How he prepared himſelf (with the help of others) for the day of Attonement. 554, 555

High Prieſthood, and other Prieſthood only differed in two things. p. 585. High Prieſthood, loſt from one family to another; when? 1218

High Prieſt's Office, often poſſeſſed by unlearned Men, and often bought. 508

Hippo, the very ſame with Suſitha. p. 68, 70. Where? 309

Hiſtorian, officiouſneſs a great fault in an Hiſtorian. 1142, 1143

Hiſtory, Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory, very ſubject to fiction and fabulous ſtories. p. 1142. Four cauſes from whence theſe fictions proceed. p. 1142, 1143. Pious fraud is one cauſe of the falſities of this ſort of Hiſtory. 1143

Holineſs of a place, computed to the foundation when the ſuperſtructure was gone. 540

Holy Ghoſt, how he went away from the Jews, and when he returned. p. 561. The Holy Ghoſt in his extraordinary Gifts and Tongues, could only be communicated by the Apoſtles. 680

Honey, Wild Honey, God gave the people of Iſrael a Land flowing with Milk and Honey; Honey not from Bees, but from Palm and Figtrees, vaſt quantities. *p.*297, 298. Honey (from Figs) fallen on the ground ſo thick as to be up to the ankles. 297, 325

Hoſannah, what? p. 223, 224. It was ſung by the Children in the Temple. 225

Houſes among the Jews, the lower Rooms entred by the Door, the upper Rooms on the outſide. 334

Humane Inventions, leſs dangerous to be brought into Divine Worſhip under the Jewiſh Law, than under the Goſpel, and why? 1038

Humane Learning, is exceeding uſeful; nay, exceeding needful to the expounding of Scripture. *p.*1033. Two objections, of thoſe that deny this propoſition, anſwered. 1034

Hyperbolus, uſed for a litigious Fellow. 459

Hypocriſie, is hiding iniquity, with its puniſhment. 236

Hyſſop, ſeveral ſorts of it, and one with ſtalks like Canes or Reeds. 617

I.

JABNEH and Jamnia the ſame, famous for an Univerſity, and the Sanhedrim ſitting there. Page 15, 16

Jacob, why God wreſtled with him and ſought to kill him. 1066

Jambres and Jannes } who, and whence the Names? 1185, 1186

Idolatry ſet up by the Jews, only before their Captivity into Babilon. p. 1113. It is an abominable and ſenſeleſs wickedneſs. p. 1312, 1313. How God is jealous againſt Idolatry. p. 1314, 1315. Baal changed in the Names of Men into Boſheth, which ſignifies ſhame, in deteſtation of Idolatry. Page 1315

Idols, among the Jews it was held Religion to reproach Idols. p. 188. The moſt ignominious Name given Idols was Zebul, i. e. Dung, or Dung-hill. p. 188, 189. The worſt Idol, or Devil, was the Prime. p. 189. Idols, how rendred by the Lexicographers; They are figments of humane miſtake. p. 763. Some Jews held that Idols might be bowed unto or worſhiped. 763

Idumea, Jewiſh Idumea, what? 4

Idumea, or the Land of Edom, is not the ſame in the New Teſtament, with that in the Old, being ſwallowed up under the Name of Arabia, but under the New Teſtament it was got into Judea. 290, 292, to 297

Jealous God, what it ſignifies, and why God is ſo called, 1313, 1314

Jealous, Jealouſie, Zeal and Zealous, are comprehended under the ſame word in the Hebrew, what they are? 1314

Jechonias, who and what is ſaid concerning him. 98, 99

Jeptha, Gedeon, and Sampſon, their failings. p. 1215. Jephtha's vow, how to be underſtood; whether he did or did not ſacrifice his Daughter? 1215, to 1218

Jeremy put for Zachary in the Goſpel is no fault, but a thing known and received by the Jews. 265

Jericho, the Country of it, and the ſituation of the City, with its diſtance from Jeruſalem. p. 43, 44. It was (after rebuilt) the next City to Jeruſalem for grandure, rare Schools, and a Royal Palace: The Men of Jericho famed for ſix things. p. 44, 45. Some Miſcellanious matters belonging to the Country about Jericho. 46

Jeruſalem, once called Salem, being compounded of Jireh and Salem, and why? Under what Latitude: It was holy above other Cities, there were no Gardens in it, &c. p. 20, to 22. The parts of Jeruſalem. p. 22, to 24. It had in it Acra, Bezetha, and Millo. p. 24. It had many Hills in it. p. 22. Memorable places in it were the ſeveral Streets, the aſcent to the Temple, ſome Courts, Pools, Stones, &c. p. 34, 35. The Streets of Jeruſalem, were ſwept every day, and Money found there in the time of Feaſts were called Tenths or Tithes; ſo alſo what was found at any time. p. 303. The reaſon of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, gathered out of the Jewiſh Writers, and out of the Scriptures. p. 468, &c. The deſtruction of Jeruſalem and the Jewiſh State, is deſcribed as if the whole frame of the World was to be diſſolved. p. 626, 1073, 1074, &c. The deſtruction and conflagration of Jeruſalem, was an aſſurance of the judgment to come. p. 1104, 1119. It was ſet forth in Scripture in terms ſeeming to mean the laſt Judgment. p. 1104. The laſt days of Jeruſalem are characterized in one regard for the beſt, in another for the worſt of times. p. 1179. New Jeruſalem, what it is not, and what it is, and where to be found. 1197, 1198

Jeſhana, a City juſt by Zippor. 75

Jeſus Chriſt, Chriſt is added to Jeſus in numberleſs places of the New Teſtament, to ſhew that Chriſt was the true Saviour, and that Jeſus was the true Meſſias. p. 96. Jeſus Chriſt, is called the Son of David; a common term in the New Teſtament, and Talmudick Writings, for the true Meſſias. *p.*96, 97. Jeſus of Nazareth mentioned in the Talmud. p. 476. Why Jeſus was more oppoſed than John the Baptiſt, with the reaſon of it. p. 653. The Teſtimony concerning Jeſus found in Joſephus, not proved to be the writing of Joſephus; yet proved from Scripture to be true concerning Jeſus. *p.*653, 654. Jeſus the true Meſſias, ſome teſtimonies of his being ſo. p. 740. The falſe Logick of thoſe who are for no Rulers or Magiſtrates over them, but King Jeſus, refuted. 1060

Jew, a Jew was not to have an inward Converſation or Friendſhip with a Gentile. Page 751

Jewiſh Nation, whether (as to the more general part of it) it was not rejected and blinded before Chriſt came into the World? p. 709. The Jewiſh State, the deſtruction of it is deſcribed as if the whole frame of the World was to be diſſolved. 626

Jews, how far lawful, or unlawful for them to eat of the victuals of the Samaritans? p. 538. Their Mother Tongue was the Chaldee Language, from their return out of Babilon. p. 545. Their cruelty. p. 663. It was very great, deſtroying two hundred and twenty thouſand Greeks and Romans at one time, feeding on their fleſh, eating their bowels, beſmearing themſelves with their blood, and covering themſelves with their skins, &c. p. 686, &c. They alſo in Egypt and Cyprus deſtroyed two hundred and forty thouſand Men in a moſt Barbarous manner. p. 686, 687. The Jews faſted on the ſecond and fifth days in the week, whether imitated by Chriſtians? p. 685. They were not to be beholden to the Heathen. p. 764. Jews and Helleniſts diſtinguiſhed, with the reaſon of the diſtinction. p. 798. The Jews themſelves expected that the Meſſias ſhould raign amongſt them a thouſand years. p. 1057. They thought the Law was to reſtrain and bind the outward Action only, not regarding the inward thought. p. 1097. Jews and Romaniſts, how they may be ſaid to be yoak-fellows? p. 1110. They were permitted by the Romans (their Governors) to live by their own Laws and Religion, p. 752, 1111. How they loſt the power of Judging Malefactors. p. 1111, 1112, &c. They had a high conceit of their own Nation. p. 1112. They were highly ſevere and ſtrict about little inconſiderable Cuſtoms; but very remiſs about things of great Moment and Neceſſity. p. 1113, 1114. They were rejected by God, not only for putting our Saviour to death, but before alſo for their curſed Traditions and crying wickedneſs. p. 1114. The calling in of the Jews (expected by ſome) is not probable, and why? p. 1123. The Jews were diſperſed before our Saviours time. p. 1144. They were caſt off to a reprobate ſenſe before the deſtruction of Jeruſalem. p. 1145. They crucified the Lord of Life out of the very Principles of their Traditional Religion. p. 1177. The Jews, and the Jewiſh Religion were very corrupt under the ſecond Temple. p. 1199, 1200. The Church of the Jews, was only a child under age till Chriſt came. 1334

Jezabelites, impudently oppoſe the Decrees of the Apoſtles. 695, 696

Ignorance and Error, the common cauſe of them, is becauſe Men will not know and embrace the Truth: 1286, 1287

Image of God in Adam, what? p. 1153. Image of God upon Man, not loſt by ſin, though the likeneſs of God be. 1302

Images in the Church of Rome, are Idols. 1312, 1314

Impoſition of Hands in ordination, a fundamental Point as well as the Doctrin of Faith and Repentance; proved from Hebrews 6. 2. 1040

Imputation of the ſins or good Deeds of Parents to the Children; ſuppoſed by the Jews not to be in the days of the Meſſias. p. 569. Imputation of Parents ſins to Poſterity, is real, and rational. 1316, 1317

Incenſe, the way of burning it, with the manner of the Prieſts and Levites getting ready in order thereunto. 380, 381

Indifferent Things, and ſuch as were not ſinful of themſelves (although of humane invention, and uſed in the Jewiſh worſhip) did not cauſe our Saviour to leave that communion, nor to forſake the way of Worſhip, but he joyned therein, rather than he would give offence. 1037, 1038, 1039, &c.

Infant Baptiſm, argued for. 273, 274

Infants in the womb, ſuppoſed by the Jews to be in a capacity to commit ſome ſin. 569, 570

Inſtitution, divine, defiled by corruption, but not extinguiſhed. Page 165

Intercallated Month, or Year, what? 185, 226

Interpretation of the Holy Text, the judgment of the Jews concerning a juſt Interpretation. 784

Interpreters in the Synagogues ſtood by the Readers of the Law and Prophets, to turn the words of the Hebrew Text into the Language underſtood by the people, at the ſame time Commenting or Preaching upon the words. p. 132, 134, 707. Interpreters of the Law, part of their work, what? 803

Invention humane, leſs dangerous to be brought into Divine Worſhip under the Jewiſh Law than under the Goſpel, and why? 1038

Inviſible Things, are the greateſt things of our concernment. 1284

Jod, of its not paſſing away, or eternal duration. 137, 138

John Baptiſt in all probability was no Eremite. 387, 388

John, the moſt punctual of all the four Evangeliſts, eſpecially in giving an account of the Feſtivals that intercurred between Chriſt's entrance into his publick Miniſtry, and the time of his death. p. 1033. John the beloved Diſciple was him to whom the Revelation was delivered. 1196

Jordan, the waters thereof were opened twelve miles when Iſrael paſſed through. p. 46. The Country beyond it, what? p. 363. Little Jordan was from the ſpring of Jordan to the Lake Samochonitis, but from that Lake (being much a larger ſtream) it was Jordan the greater. p. 62, 63, 64, 298. Jordan had over it two bridges at leaſt, beſides other paſſages. 492

Jordan-tranſmarine, its diviſion. 363

Joſe and Joſeph are one and the ſame Name. 640

Joſhua, where buried? 373, 374

Jot, of its not paſſing away, or eternal duration. 137, 138

Journey, Sabbath days Journey, the length of it, was two hundred cubits, or one mile. 485, 486

Joy, wicked, in a ſtrange inſtance in the Gunpouder Traytors. 1184

Joy in Heaven over a ſinner that is converted, what? 1267

Iſaiah the Prophet, ſay the Jews, was cut in two by Manaſſes the King. 593

Iſcariot, a Name given to Judas, the Traytor, whether given before or after his death? If after his death, it emphatically ſhews his miſerable end. p. 176. As a Betrayer he was to have no part in the World to come; his going to his place, intends his going to Hell. 176, 177

Iturea, its ſituation. 365, 366

Juda for Jehuda, and why? 97

Judaiſm, the twofold ſenſe of the Word. p. 1051. The Jews held this Maxim, That if a Jew forſook his Judaiſm he ſhould have no part in the World to come. p. 1087. Judaiſm and Nicolaitiſm, were two Errors on each hand the Goſpel, into which ſome Primitive Chriſtians did fall. 1097

Judas, was preſent at the Euchariſt. p. 261. He was carried by the Devil into the Air, there ſtrangled, and then caſt down to the Earth, and there burſt aſſunder. 264, 639

Judea, a ſight and diviſion of it. p. 9. It was priviledged above other Parts of the Land of Iſrael. p. 10. A deſcription of the Coaſt of it. p. 10. The Mountainous Country of Judea, what? p. 11. The South Country of it, what? p. 13. The North Coaſt of it. 19

Judges, what Benches of them there were among the Jews. 755

Judgment, Judgment to him that is angry, what? p. 141, 142. Judgment might be unrighteous when the Judging was righteous. 1106

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

Judgment, the Day of Judgment, put for Christ's coming with vengeance to Judge the Jewish Nation, six differing ways of expressing it. p. 346. The Last Judgment, proved. p. 1101, 1102, 1103, &c. The objections of the Sadducees and Atheists, answered. p. 1101, &c. Noah's Flood was a prognostication and an assurance of the Last Judgment. p. 1104. The destruction of Jerusalem is set forth in Scripture terms, seeming to mean the Last Judgment. p. 1104. The several and providential assurances that God hath given of the Last Judgment. p. 1103, 1104, 1109. The prosperity of wicked Men, is an argument of the Last Judgment. p. 1105. Assizes, are an assurance, and a fit representation of the Last Judgment. p. 1104, 1117, 1119. Conscience, is an assurance given by God of the Last Judgment. p. 1104, 1119. The manner of giving the Law is an assurance of the Last Judgment. Page 1119

Judgments, Capital, always began on the Defendants side among the Jews, and not on the Accusers. p. 609. Judgments, were distinguished into Pecuniary and Capital among the Jews. 754

Julian, the Apostate, part of his character, or part of what he was and did. 1238

Julius, There were two Cities of this Name, one built by Herod the other by Philip; the later was before called Bethsaida, where situate. 83

Just, a just person, or the just, two sorts of them. p. 448. How distinguished from the Penitent. p. 449. Just Men distinguished by the Jews into two sorts, and to which of them they gave the preference. 1266

Justification, is a great Mystery in several respects. p. 1051, 1052. What it is? p. 1077, 1078. Why we are justified by perfect Justification, and not sanctified by perfect Sanctification or holiness, answered. 1153

K.

KARAITS, the difference between them and those that are said to be without. Page 339

Kedron, what? 37, &c.

Kenite, Salamean, or Salmean, the same, and what? 499

Kenites, who? 329

Keri, and Cethib, or the differing reading of the Hebrew Text; what? 139, 140

Kesarah, a little City without Zippor. 75

Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven; what? 205, &c.

Kidron the Brook was a sort of Sinck or common Sewer to Jerusalem. 607

Kingdom of Heaven in Matthew, is called the Kingdom of God in the other Evangelists. p. 114. The Kingdom of Heaven implies four things. p. 115. The Phrase very frequently occurs in the Jewish Writers. p. 115. By it they mean the inward love and fear of God, as also the Exhibition and Revelation of the Messiah. p. 116. To be of the seed of Abraham, or the stock of Israel, the Jews supposed was sufficient to fit them for the Kingdom of Heaven. 533

Kingdom of God, the Kingdom of Heaven in Matthew, is called the Kingdom of God in the Evangelists. p. 114. The Kingdom of God coming in power, is used for Christ's coming in his vengeance and power to destroy the unbelieving and wicked Nation of the Jews. p. 346. Kingdom of God, or of Heaven, what in the Gospel? And what among the Jews? 461, 462

Kiriath-Jearim, in former time was called Baal or Baalath. 42

Knee, in what use in Adoration. 347

Know, in Scripture is used for own and acknowledge. 699

Kubi, where situate? 51

L.

LAbourers, a Jewish Parable concerning them. Page 221

Lake of Genesaret, in the Old Testament called the Sea of Cinnereth, in the New also the Sea of Galilee, and Sea of Tiberias. 65

Lake of Samochonitis, in Scripture is the waters of Merom, &c. 64

Land of Israel, how divided by the Jews? p. 1, 2. The Land possessed by those that came up out of Babilon was divided into three parts. p. 2. Several great Mysteries and Offices confined to the Land of Israel. p. 2. The Talmudick Girdle of the Land, under the second Temple, what? p. 3. A great part of the Land, viz. South-Judea, was cut off under the second Temple. p. 4. Jewish Idumea, what part of the Land. p. 4. The seven Seas according to the Talmudists, and the four Rivers compassing the Land, what? p. 5. A description of the Sea Coasts thereof out of Pliny and Strabo. p. 10, 11. Land of Israel, was the Land of the Hebrews before it was the Canaanites; the original Title of it from the confusion of Tongues. p. 326, 327. Its breadth and length. 319, to 323

Language of Ashdod, what? 505

Language, Hebrew Language put for the Chaldee Language. 545

Languages, the Confusion of Languages was the casting off of the Gentiles and confusion of Religion. p. 648. The Fathers of the Sanhedrim were to be skilled in many Languages. 782, 296

Lasha, is Callirrhoe.

Last Days and Times, put for the times immediately preceding the destruction of Jerusalem and the end of the Jewish State. p. 626, 1074. Last Days, what they generally signifie in Scripture. 1074, 1097, 1104, 1117

Last Days of Jerusalem, are characterized in one regard for the best, in another for the worst of times. p. 1179. Last Days of Jerusalem, and the Jewish State, are named as the last days of the World. 1186, 1200

Lavatory of Bethany, what? 305

Laver, described. 33, 34

Law, Christ was to bring in a New Law, but not to abolish the old. p. 137. The Text of the Law was writ in the Hebrew and not in the Assyrian Letter. p. 138, 139. Law written and Oral, what? And how explained by the Scribes and Doctors. p. 422, 423. What the difference between coming to God in the Law, and coming to God by the Law. p. 599. Law used for the Scripture, i. e. Moses and the Prophets too, both the former and the later. p. 787. Women not allowed to read the Law in the Jews Synagogues, though a Child or a Servant might. p. 788. The Jews say there are six hundred and thirteen Precepts in the Law of Moses. p. 1114. Christ was a member of the Church of the Jews, proved, and under the obligation of the Law. p. 1037. The Law was thought by the Jews to restrain and bind the outward Action only, not regarding the inward Thought. p. 1098. The Jews read the Books of the Law and Prophets only in their Synagogues, the rest they read not. p. 1102. The manner of giving the Law is an assurance of the Last Judgment. p. 1119. Judaick and Mosaick Law, how distinguished by the Jews? p. 1199. Whether God shewed more mercy in giving the Law or in giving the Gospel? p. 1230. The commandments of the Law were given for Gospel ends. p. 1231. The performing of the Law in one sense is impossible, yet the keeping of it in another is possible. 1231

Law Ceremonial, Christ was under the obligation of the Ceremonial Law, and that in three respects. p. 1037. Ceremonial Law, why instituted? p. 1069. It was not the Covenant of Works, but the Mode or Manner of the the administration of the Covenant of Grace. Page 1069

Law Moral obligeth under the Covenant of Grace. 1069, 1070
Law writ in Adams heart upon Creation, what? 1325
Lawyers, were Doctors of the Law; they were of several sorts. p. 421, to 423. Lawyers and Teachers of the Law, what? 433, 434
Laying hands upon the sacrifice, what, and for what end? 531
Lazar, used for Eleazer. 454
Lazarus his Soul was in Heaven those four days he was dead. 1352
Learners, or Disciples, after the days of Rabban Gamaliel did use to sit while they were instructed. p. 395, 396. They had power to ask the Doctors any questions as they went along in their Expositions and Lectures. 396
Learning, humane Learning, is exceeding useful; nay, exceeding needful to the expounding of the Scriptures. p. 1033. Two objections, of those that deny this Proposition, answered. 1034
Leaven, put for Doctrin, and a naughty Heart and Affections. 204
Lectures, at them the Gesture was, the Teachers sat and the Learners stood. 193
Legion, includes an unclean company, and of exceeding power. 340, 341
Legends two or three of them, Papal, and Judaical. 494, 495
Lepers, how they were to dwell alone. 460, 461
Leprosie and the Doctrin of it, under the Law, points out very well the Guilt and Doctrin of Sin. p. 164, 165. The custom of putting the blood upon the Ear of him that was cleansed of a Leprosie, according to that command, Lev. 14. 14. what? 1038
Levites, The Cities of the Levites and the Land about them was large, called their Suburbs; being Cities of Refuge, and Universities. They and the Priests were the setled Ministry of the Church of Israel; they always lived upon Tithes when they studied in the Universities, or preached in the Synagogues, and attended on the Temple Service. p. 86. Priests and Levites, what was lawful, and unlawful in them? 382
Libanus, called the Mountain of Snow, Antilibanus, and Bala. 517
Libertines were Servants that had received their Freedom; these were Jews, how they came to be Servants and how again to be free. 663
Life, Eve called Chava, that is, Life, upon the account of the promise of Christ. p. 791. Why Life is called precious. p. 1209. How tender God is of the Life of Man. p. 1209, 1210. Why such an equal tribute is to be paid to God for the Life of Man? p. 1210, 1211. Long Life is a Promise affixed to very many Commands, and why? p. 1335, 1336. How to reconcile the shortness of Mans Life with that Promise? p. 1335, 1336. Why God shortned Mans Life at the Flood, at Babel, and at Sinai, even where he promised long Life? p. 1336. The length of the Lives of the first Inhabitants of the World, considered, and the reason given. p. 1336, 1337. Long Life to many proves a curse. p. 1338. Long Life in it self is a blessing. p. 1337, 1338. How it is a blessing, when so full of sorrow, and upon that account Men are made so weary of it. 1339, 1340
Light, put for evening of the Sabbath. 479
Light within, what, and of what power to lead to Heaven? 1256
Likeness and Image of God upon Man, distinguished; p. 1302. Likeness of God upon Man, lost by sin, but not the Image. 1302
Lineage, or Descent of Christ, was most of younger Brothers. 1089, 1090
Linnin Cloth, or a Sindon, was a Cloak made of Linnin, hung with Fringe. 354, 355
Lives, why Satan taketh not away our lives when he pleaseth? Page 1209
Locusts, many kinds of them. 333
Lod, where, and what? 325, &c.
Long sufferings of God to wicked Men, is sometimes not the goodness of God to them. 1311
Loosing or Binding, a very usual Phrase in the Jewish Schools, spoken of Things, not of Persons. 205, 206, 207. See Binding and Loosing.
Lords Day, the Jews say it was the first day in the week, why Christ changed the Day from the Seventh to the First. p. 271, 272, 1329, 1330. The Lords Day was not controverted, but every where celebrated in the Primitive Times, only some Jews (converted to the Gospel) also kept the Jewish Sabbath. 792, 793
Lords Prayer, illustrated out of the Jewish Writings. p. 159, to 161. The Lords Prayer was given twice by Christ, first in the Mount, Matth. 6 and then at the Feast of Tabernacles, a year and an half after. p. 1138. The agreeableness of it to the Jewish Forms. p. 1139. The reason why the Doxology is added to it by Saint Matthew, and omitted by Saint Luke. 1139
Loretto, the Legend of the Virgin Mary's House carried thither. 494, 495
Lots, how cast, where, and when? 380
Love, it is our duty to love all Men, the reason. p. 1204. We are to love our Neighbour as our selves. 1301
Love Feasts, they were Appendages to the Lords Supper, also they were when strangers were entertained in each Church, at the cost of the Church, &c. 774, to 775
Loving, put for embracing, kissing, or being well pleased with, and pitying. 347, 348
Lunatick, Deaf, and Dumb. 210
Luz, a little bone in a Mans back which the Jews speak of as the Seed and Principle of a future Resurrection. 583, 1238
Lydda, a Village not Inferior to a City, the same with Lod, notwithstanding the errors of some Maps making them differing Places, it had eminent Schools in it, much History belongs to it. p. 16, 17. Lydda is called Lodicea. 326
Lye, the Jews used and loved to lye at their Feasts, in what order they used that Gesture. 256, 257

M.

MACHERUS is derived from Macvar. p 81. Macherus, a Castle, where situate. Page 501
Maepelah, supposed to be Adams burying place. 47
Magdala was near Tiberias and Chammath. 70, 308
Magdalen (Mary Magdalen) whence the Name. 415, 416
Magistracy. instituted as an ordinance of Christ, and a Gospel mercy. p. 1059, 1060, &c. The usefulness of it to the Church. p. 1060, 1061, &c. So overawed by a wicked people, as not to dare to execute justice. 1111
Magistrates, are to be obeyed in all lawful things. p. 230, 231. The false Logick of those who are for no Magistrates over them but King Jesus, refuted. 1060
Magog and Gog, what is meant by them. 1173, 1174
Mahumetism and Popery coming, the Devil was let loose. 1172
Maids, the day of the week on which they were married, and the ceremonies of their marriage. 514
Malefactors at their death, were used cruelly by the Jews, as an act of friendship. p. 478. Malefactors (say the Jews) going to execution, and making confession of their sins; that, and their death did expiate for their sins. 1275
Mammon of unrighteousness, what? 451, 452
Man is a wonder. p. 1225. How much devilishness the Devil can infuse into Man's nature, with the reasons of it. 1308, 1309
Miracles for the hands used among the Jews. 683

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

Manahen (i. e.) the Comforter taken for Christ. Page 108

Maphtir, he that read in the Synagogues was called Maphtir, and was to read one and twenty Verſes. 406

Maps of the Goſpel Topography are too officious. 310, 311

Mar, or Mari, a Title the Jews ſometimes gave their Rabbins. 465

Maran-ath, this ſay very many Commentators is the higheſt and heavieſt Form of Excommunication, but it rather intimates the curſe coming upon the Jews. 796, 797

Mark, why he departed from Paul and Barnabas? 741

Maronite, a Maronite, what? 515

Marriage, not to be till a woman was eſpouſed. p. 100. Marriage of Men, the time, and reaſon of it. p. 757, 758. The Marriage Bond, both among Jews and Gentiles (eſpecially the Jews) was looked upon as a looſe thing. p. 759. When to marry or not to marry. 762

Marriages were performed on differing days for Maids and Widows, with the reaſon, and Ceremonies thereof. 534

Married, a hundred and ſixty Prieſts married in Gophna all in one night. p. 52. When a Man was new married, where he dwelt. p. 309. What a reproach it is for a Woman not to be married. 1216, 1217

Martyrdom, dying (called Martyrdom) for others, to ſave their Country. 326

Mary Magdalen, the ſame with Mary the Siſter of Lazarus, why called Magdalen. p. 270, 587. Baronius alſo proves her to be the Siſter of Lazarus. 588

Mary the Mother of Jeſus, vilified by the Talmudiſts. 400

Maſada, a Caſtle near Aſphaltites, fortified even to a miracle. 296

Matthew writ his Goſpel in Greek, ſo did Paul his Epiſtle to the Hebrews, and not in Hebrew as ſome have affirmed; becauſe the Hebrew was altogether unknown to the Common Jews; for it was not the Jews Mother Tongue in the time of the Apoſtles, but the Syriack. 101, to 104

Meaſurings of the Jews, how, or what they were? p. 318, &c. A Parſa was four miles; a Talmudick mile conſiſted of ſeven furlongs and an half; a Diet was thirty miles. 319

Meats, forbidden and unclean, what? 199, 200

Mediation of Chriſt, the matter of it, what? 1261

Melchiſedeck, all now acknowledge him for Sem. 327

Men, their Affairs and Times, how God knows and dates them? 1250, &c.

Mene, Mene, Tekel, Upharſin, the meaning of theſe words as written in Belſhazzers Dining Room. 1194, 1195

Mercy of God, oft wreſted by Men to their own deſtruction. p. 1275. Monuments of mercy, were never ſet up in Scripture to be encouragements for Preſumption. 1276

Meſſias, divers Names of him produced by the Talmudiſts. p. 167. The Epoche of the Meſſias is ſtated from the Reſurrection of Chriſt. p. 180. His coming was predicted by the Quarrels of the Jews. p. 181. He was acknowledged for the Son of God by the Jews, though not by Nature, but by Adoption. p. 269, 270. Meſſias (who was God-Man) conſidered as he was a Servant, and Meſſenger of the Father; and received his Abilities of doing Miracles, and of knowledge of Evangelick Miſteries, and of other things, before hand, from the anointing of the Spirit. p. 251, 252. Meſſias ſuppoſed by the ancient Jewiſh Rabbins to be begot without carnal copulation by the Spirit. p. 385, 386. The Jews expected their Meſſias to come when Chriſt did appear. p. 468, 1289. They alſo expected that when the Meſſias came he would lead them into the Garden of Eden, where they ſhould enjoy all manner of worldly Pleaſures in the higheſt degree. p. 552. At his coming the World was to be renewed. p. 220. Meſſias or Chriſt, and the Son of God, are convertible Terms, againſt the Jews. p. 385, 548, 549. The Fathers of the Sanhedrim had in all likelyhood a ſtrong ſuſpition, if not a knowledge, that Jeſus was the Meſſias. p. 583, 584. The Jews expected, when he came, to enjoy great worldly deliverances and bleſſings. p. 598. What the Jews apprehended of his Temporal Reign, was in ſome things plain, in others obſcure. p. 636. Meſſias not acknowledged by the Jews to be the genuine Son of God. p. 690. The Reſurrection of the Meſſias pointed at in the ſecond Pſalm. p. 690, 691. David put for the Meſſias. p. 691. What appearances and effects the Jews looked for in the Meſſias which they found not in our Saviour Chriſt. p. 1110. It was the opinion of the Jews, That the Meſſias ſhould reign a thouſand years. p. 1171. The Meſſias, ſay the Jews, was not to redeem from ſin, but from Captivity and Enemies. p. 1275. He was, ſay they, to have an earthly, pompous, flouriſhing Kingdom. Page 1275

Meſſopotamia, and her Conſorts or Companions, what? p. 663. And what Country it is. 665

Micra, a Treatiſe of the Rabbins, containing the Text of the Bible it ſelf, its Reading and Literal Explication. 422

Midraſh, a Treatiſe of the Rabbins, containing the Myſtical and Allegorical Explication of the Scriptures. 422, 423

Migdal Elder, was a Tower ſituate near Jeruſalem on the South-ſide. 306

Mile, a Talmudick mile was ſeven furlongs and an half. 319, 581

Millenaries, or Fifth Monarchiſts, their dangerous miſtake of the twentieth Chapter of the Revelations, refuted. 1056, 1057

Millo in Jeruſalem, what? 2425

Mind of Man, put for the underſtanding, alſo the bent and inclination of the Soul. 1286

Mines of Iron and Braſs were in ſeveral places in the Land of Iſrael. 88

Miniſtry, the Prieſts and Levites were the ſetled Miniſtry of the Church of Iſrael, they always lived upon Tithes when they ſtudied in the Univerſities, preached in the Synagogues, and attended on the Temple Service. 86

Miniſters, there were many Miniſters in the Apoſtles days, belonging to every Church, with the reaſon of it. 1156, 1157

Minſtrels, among the Jews were uſed at Burials. 172, 173

Miracles, many done in one day by Chriſt. p. 174. Miracles could not drive the Jews from their Traditions. p. 345. Mear Miracles, or Signs, were never wrought by our Saviour. 1104

Mirth or Joy, wicked, in a ſtrange inſtance in the Gunpouder-Traytors. 1184

Miſhneh, a Treatiſe of the Rabbins containing the Doctrin of Traditions, and their Explications. 422

Miſſaar or Mizaar, a hill mentioned in the Pſalms, where ſituate. 501

Mite, what ſort of mony. 350

Moloch repreſented the Sun, and why? It was an Image of Braſs, having the Face of a Calf, &c. 672

Moment of time, what out of the Jewiſh Doctors? 405

Monarchy, the Fifth Monarchy is not the Kingdom of Chriſt, but was the Kingdom of the Devil. 1166

Mony, the Streets of Jeruſalem were ſwept every day, and mony found there, in the time of Feaſts, was all Tenths or Tiths. p. 303. So alſo what was found at any time. p. 303. Mony of Silver and Gold, both Roman, and Jewiſh, with their value and ſtamps, what? 349

Money Changers, what from the Talmud and Maimonides. p. 224, 225. What they were, and why our Saviour overthrew their Tables in the Temple. 1204

Monſter in a Child with two Bodies, from the Navel upward it acted as two Children. 373

Mortal, Adam was not created mortal, againſt the Socinians 1353.

Moſes

Moſes, faſted forty days, three times over one after another. p. 405. Part of his Hiſtory. p. 670. Why God ſought to kill him, as we read Exod. 4. 24. Page 1066
Mothers Family, among the Jews, is not to be called a Family. 99
Mount Gilead, what? And whether not the Hill Gaaſh? 373, 374
Mount Hor, called Amanah in the Jewiſh Writers. 62
Mount Macvar; Macherus is derived from it, what? 81
Mount Olivet, the Mount of Olives, in the Rabbins commonly the Mount of Oyl; whence the Name, and what was done there? p. 39, &c. It had ſhops in it. 305
Mount of Simeon, what? 51
Mount Tabor, what, and where ſituate? 495, &c.
Mount Zebim, was within the Land. 51
Mountain of the Amorrbites, what? 12
Mountain of Snow, with ſome the ſame with Hermon. 62
Mountanous Country, what? 12
Mourners for the dead, how the Jews uſed to comfort them, both in the way and at home. 323, 581, 582
Mourning, what Mourning was uſed for the dead; alſo what Feaſting and company. p. 173. The third day of mourning was an high day. 583
Mulcts, for Corporal wrongs, were ſeveral. 151, 152
Murder, was ſo common among the Jews, that the beheading of an Heifer (commanded Deut. 21.) was left off by order of the Sanhedrim, for fear of the Murderers. 1111
Muſicians in the Temple, what ſort of Men? 373
Muſick uſed at Burials, what? 172, 173
Muſtard ſtalk or Tree; exceeding large. 195
Mutterings, a ſort of Enchantments uſed by the Jews, &c. 243

N.

NAIM, near Tabor, what? p. 369, &c. Naim in Joſephus and the Rabbins, what? p. 370. The ſame with Engannim. Page 370, 371
Names, were given Children at their Circumciſion; ſo at the inſtitution of Circumciſion God changed the Names of Abraham and Sarah. p. 387. It was chiefly for the honour of ſome Perſon, whom the Parents eſteemed, that they gave their Son his Name; ſeldom was the Son called by the Name of the Father. p. 387. It was common in the Jewiſh Nation for Men to have two Names, one a Jewiſh Name uſed among the Jews; another a Gentile Name, uſed among the Heathen. 739
Nature of Man, deſperately corrupted. 1308, 1309
Naveh, what place, and by whom inhabited. 515
Nazarene, Chriſt was ſo called to hint his ſeparation and eſtrangment from other Men. 99, 100
Nazareth, its ſituation. 495, 496
Nazarites, they were forbid the total uſe of Wine, whether the Law about the Nazarites had not ſome reference to Adam while he was under that Prohibition in the ſtate of innocency. p. 382. Only two Nazarites were ſet apart by God, viz. Sampſon and the Baptiſt; three hundred at once made themſelves Nazarites by their own voluntary vow. p. 384. They being forbid the total uſe of Wine, how could they keep the commands referring to the keeping the Paſſover (&c.) in which Wine was uſed. p. 382. They wore long hair, among whom Abſolom was one. p. 774. Why they let their hair grow long. 774
Nazaritiſm, what, and how the Vow of it was ſometimes laid aſide. 1219, 1220
Neapolis, the Jews in ſcorn called it Sychar. 52, 53
Neighbour and Brother, what the difference between them. p. 141. Neighbour the Jews denyed any Gentile to be their Neighbour. p. 425. Who is our Neighbour? p. 1298. We are to love our Neighbour as our ſelves, what? 1301
New Creation, new Heaven and new Earth, put for the times and ſtate of things immediately following the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem and the Jewiſh State. Page 626
New Jeruſalem, the Holy City, why called New, and why Holy City. p. 1196, 1197, 1198. What it is not, and what it is, and where to be found. 1197, to 1202
New Teſtament, why it ſo exactly follows the Tranſlation of the Septuagint in the Old Teſtament. p. 403. New Teſtament Phraſes and Paſſages; the ſureſt and ſafeſt way to underſtand them, viz. is not to frame a ſenſe of our own, which we think fair and probable; but to obſerve how they were underſtood by them to whom they were uttered. 1041, 1042
Nicholaitans, that impure Sect did not ſpring from Nicholas, the Deacon, but took the Name from ניקולאס Nicolas. p. 662. They impudently did oppoſe the Decree of the Apoſtles. p. 695, 696. They were wicked Hereticks, perſwading to eat things offered to Idols and to commit Fornication. p. 756. Notwithſtanding the affirmation of Antiquity, they did not ſpring from Nicolas one of the ſeven Deacons. 756
Nicholaitiſm and Judaiſm were two errors on each hand the Goſpel, into which ſome Primitive Chriſtians did fall. 1097
Nicodemus, the reaſon of his Name, and what he was; he was alſo called Bonai, he was exceeding rich; and yet his Family fell to great poverty. 513, 532, 371
Nicopolis, what? 1104
Noah's Flood, was a prognoſtication and aſſurance of the Laſt Judgment. 1104
Nob, a City of the Prieſts, from whence one might eaſily ſee Jeruſalem. 42
Numbers and Things near alike are ſaid to be the ſame. 99, 100
Nunſhip, or Virginity, the vow of it among the Papiſts is accounted a devout and ſacred Thing, which is falſe, and never to be proved by them. 1216, 1217, 1219

O.

OATHS in the Jewiſh Writings, reduced to a Promiſſory Oath. p. 148. A vain or raſh Oath, concerning which four Things; and an Oath concerning ſomething left in truſt, and a Teſtimonial Oath, what? p. 149. The Jews only took care of the truth of the thing ſworn, and not of the vanity of ſwearing, it was cuſtomary among them to ſwear by Creatures. Page 149
Obedience of Chriſt, made his blood juſtifying and ſaving. p. 1255. It conquered Satan and ſatisfied God. p. 1256 Chriſt died meerly out of obedience. p. 1257. His obedience does not diſſolve the obedience of a Chriſtian. 1263
Obeying and Believing, are not to be ſeparated. 1203
Oholus, what? 468
Offering of water uſed at the Feaſt of Tabernacles, how performed, whence derived, and what the meaning of it. 560
Officiouſneſs, a great fault in an Hiſtorian. 1142, 1143
Old Teſtament, how the Jews divided the writings of it. p. 483, 584. When any place of the Old Teſtament was cited by the Jews, they delivered it always in the very Original Words. p. 694. The Sadducees are ſaid by ſome to refuſe all the Books of the Old Teſtament, except the Five Books of Moſes. 1101
Ono, where, and what. 325, &c.
Opinion and a Scripture Text, diſtinguiſhed. 758
Orbo, the City. 317
Original Text of the Hebrew, whether corrupted or not? 131
Orphan Amen, or Pſalm, what? 786

Outward Action, the Jews thought the Law was to restrain and bind the Outward Action only, not regarding the inward Thought. Page 1098
Ointment, precious, how prized. 352

P.

PALESTINE, the third, called Paleſtine the healthful, whence the Name. Page 293, 294
Paneas, or Panius, the ſpring-head of Jordan, there being none ſuch thing as two Fountains. 62, 63, 64, 298
Papacy, it followeth Jannes and Jambres, and is the great Reſiſter of the Truth of the Goſpel. 1188, 1189
Papiſts, the improbability, ridiculouſneſs, and irreligion of their holding that the Patriarchs were in Purgatory. 1342, 1343
Parables were the Jews moſt familiar Rhetorick. p. 193. Parables were uſed by Chriſt among the Jews becauſe they would not ſee the Light. 339
Paradiſe, what the Jews underſtood by being in Paradiſe. p. 477, 478. Paradiſe put for the ſtate of the bleſſed. 1272, 1273
Paras, was the ſpace of fifteen days immediately before the Paſſover, Pentecoſt or the Feaſt of Tabernacles. 635
Pardon and Salvation, its the greateſt difficulty to make Men fit and capable for them. p. 1276. What are the ſure Grounds of hope for Salvation and Pardon? p. 1277. Pardon is the gift of God as well as Repentance. 1277
Parents, It was the opinion of the Jews that Children born crooked, maimed, or defective, was according to ſome ſin of the Parents. p. 568. Why the Children ſuffer for the Parents ſins, the Juſtice thereof. p. 1316, 1317. This only deſigns corporal or external puniſhment. 1318
Parſa, a Parſa was four miles. 319
Paſchal Supper, the whole Method and Order of it in eight Particulars. p. 257, 258. How Wine came to be there, and what quantity they drank. 259, 260
Paſſover (or Paſchal Lamb) how made ready in five Particulars. p. 255, 256. Whether Chriſt kept his Paſſover the day before the Jews, i. e. on the fourteenth, not the fifteenth day of the Month. p. 353, 356, 357. The difference between the firſt Month and the ſecond. p. 354. Preparation of the Paſſover, what? p. 356, to 358. After the Lamb was eaten, every Iſraelite was bound within that ſeven days Solemnity — Firſt, To appear before the Lord in the Court, and that with a Sacrifice, this was called the Appearance. p. 356. — Secondly, To ſolemn joy and mirth, and that alſo with Sacrifices, this was called Chagigah, The Feſtival. p 356, 357. Whether was it lawful to depart from Jeruſalem till the ſeven days of the Paſſover were ended? p. 394, 395. How the Paſſover was prepared for many days before it actually began. 550
Paſſovers, four intervened between Chriſt's entrance into his publick Miniſtry, and the time of his Death, with the ſeveral Actions which he did about the time of each. 1033
Patriarchs, where they were buried. p. 668. Whether their Souls were in Purgatory? 1342, &c.
Paul, and Saul, his Roman and Hebrew Name, and why? p. 687, 1191. He always calls himſelf by his Roman or Gentile Name after he became the Apoſtle of the Gentiles. p. 740. He was not a Baptiſt among the Gentiles as John was among the Jews. p. 742. He wiſheth himſelf accurſed for his Brethren the Iſraelites, a ſtrange wiſh, what the meaning of it. p. 1293, 1294, 1256. Why Paul thus wiſhed. 1297, to 1299
Peace, outward, or Proſperity in the things of this World, is no ſign of peace with God. p. 1053. It is ſometimes a ſign of Gods enmity, proved. 1053
Peace with God doth not neceſſarily infer peace of Conſcience. 1054
Pella, a City of Decapolis, vigorouſly Heathen. Page 316
Peluſium, was Sin of old, in the Talmudiſts Cappadocia, &c. 290, 291
Penitent, moſt of the Jews held that the Penitent were to be preferred before the perfectly Juſt. p. 449. But others of them the contrary. 449
Pentecoſt called עצרת which in Scripture was an Holy Day, and but one; therefore the Jews appropriate the word to the Feaſt of Pentecoſt. p. 641. Several other things about Pentecoſt. 641, 642, 643
Peny of Silver, Gold, Roman or Jewiſh, what? p. 349, 352. A Roman Peny was ſeven-pence half-peny, two of them maketh half a Shekel. 1204
People of God, the duration of their affliction is appointed by the Lord. 1248, to 1251
Perea, the length and breadth of it. p. 81. Whether it may not be called Galilee. 362
Perrizzites, who? 329
Perſecution, the firſt recorded ſhould have been that of the Jews. 241
Peter, a Miniſter of the Circumciſion among the Hebrews. p. 741. And why he therein outſhone James and John the two other Miniſters of Circumciſion. p. 741. Peter preached the Goſpel in Babilon. p. 802. Pethor and Beor being changed into Boſor, ſhews Peter was not at Rome, but at Babilon. p. 1144, 1180. Peter was never at Rome, the probability of this opinion ſhewn. p. 1141, 1142, &c. From whence that contrary opinion did proceed. p. 1143. He wrote his Epiſtle from Babilon in Chaldea, and not from Rome, as ſome would have it. p. 1144. Peter ſpent his laſt days and in all likelihood died in Chaldea and not at Rome. 1144, 1180
Phariſaiſm, was long a riſing, and when finiſhed, of no fixed form; when its Original? p. 122, to 124. The foundation of it was laid in the days of Ezra. 124
Phariſees, their trouble and fainting confidence when they came to dye, was great. p. 16. They were a ſort of Separatiſts; there were of them Women as well as Men, who under the vail of Sanctity and Devotion, practiſed all manner of wickedneſs. p. 123, 199. The loweſt rank of Phariſees were illiterate Plebeians; the Collegians or Aſſociates of the wiſe Men were the higheſt ſort; they were the moſt ſplendid Cloak of Religion. p. 122, to 124. There were ſeven Sects of Phariſees. p. 125. Strange ſtories related of their Feaſts. p. 171. Phariſees and Scribes laboured among the People for reſpect, and by reſpect for gain, which they did. — Firſt, As Doctors of the Law, inſtilling into their Diſciples and the Common People this Notion, That a wiſe Man, that was, one of themſelves, was to be reſpected above all mortal Men. p. 234, &c. — Secondly, Under a pretence of mighty devotion, eſpecially long Prayers. p. 234. Phariſees and Scribes are Terms ſometimes confounded, and ſometimes diſtinguiſhed. p. 433. By Phariſees in the Evangeliſt Saint John are generally to be underſtood the Sanhedrim. p. 571. The Religion of the Phariſees was not the National Religion of the Jews, but a Sect and Excreſcence from it. p. 1036. The difference between the Phariſees and Sadducees in matters of Religion, was great. p. 1278. Though they differed among themſelves greatly, yet they eaſily harmonized to oppoſe Chriſtianity. 1278, 1279
Phenicia, there was a midland Phenicia; whether it and Syrophenicia be the ſame. 312
Phylacteries, were Parchment Labels, having writ in them ſeveral places of the Law, faſtned to the Forehead and left Arm; conſtantly worn with great devotion. 232
Plaintif and Defendant, choſe their Judges, &c. among the Jews. 755
Pleaſures, the Jews expected when the Meſſias came, that he would lead them into the Garden of Eden, where they ſhould enjoy all manner of Worldly Pleaſures in the higheſt degree. 552
Pliny, corrected. 321

Pollux,

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

Pollux and Caſtor, what? How pictured, how fatal their Feaſt to the Lacedemonians. Page 705, 706

Polygamy, what? p. 146. It was lawful among the Jews. p. 696. Both it and Bigamy are forbidden. 696

Pomp and degree of the World, countervails nothing with God. 1210, 1211, 1212

Pondibo, is an hollow Girdle or Belt, in which the Jews put their mony. 178

Pool, lower Pool, upper Pool, Kings Pool, Pool of Siloam, Pool of Bethesda, Sheep-Pool, Pool of Shelahh, Pool of Solomon; what? 508, 509, 510

Pool of Bethesda, in it Men, not Beasts, were washed. p. 545. It was made of an healing quality by the help of an Angel about the days of Christ's being on Earth, but how long before or after we know not. 546, 547

Poor, collections were made by the Jews in forraign Nations for the poor Rabbins dwelling in Judea. 792

Popery and Mahumetism coming, the Devil was let loose. p. 1172. Popery, Socinianism, and Quakerism are great Heresies. 1280

Poverty, extream, especially of one whose foregoing Estate was pompous. 352

Pound, what? 468

Power and Will of God, being well understood and submitted to, take off abundance of carnal Atheistical Disputes. 1320, 1321

Prayer, what Posture the Jews used in it. p. 156. In what Places they used or loved to pray. p. 156. What sort of Prayers they used. p. 557. Repetition of the same words in Prayer, how practised; condemned by Christ. p. 157. The Jews had a great number of Prayers, dayly they used eighteen, and they had some that comprised the whole, which were compendiums, fitted for weak Memories. p. 157, 158. Which Christ imitated in that Prayer he gave his Disciples, which we call the Lords Prayer, for 'tis a Compendium of all Prayers, &c. p. 157, 158. These Compendiums were not to hinder stated Prayers. p. 158. Christ intended no other in his Prayer. p. 158. The Lord's Prayer illustrated out of the Jewish writings. p. 159, to 161. What kind of Prayer the Baptist taught his Disciples. p. 427, 428. Forms of Prayer are prescribed in the Old and New Testament. p. 1137. Forms of Prayer defended, and Objections answered. p. 1137. An account of the Jewish Forms from the Talmud and other Writers. p. 1139. Prayer, is a Duty for all Men, and the reason of it given. p. 1135, 1136. Objections answered, and more Reasons given. p. 1137. The Lords Prayer, is a Form to be used totidem verbis. p. 1041, 1138, 1140. The Objections of those that will not use it so. p. 1138. This Prayer is compared with the Ten Commandments. p. 1138. It was twice given by Christ, first, in the Mount, Matth. 6. and then at the Feast of Tabernacles a year and an half after. p. 160, 1138. The agreeableness of it to the Jewish Forms. p. 1139. The reason why the Doxology is added to it by Saint Matthew, and omitted by Saint Luke. 1139

Prayers were sometimes performed with great silence in the Temple. p. 351. Prayers of the Jews, consisted in Benedictions and Doxologies. p. 427. Private Prayers in what part of the Temple they were performed. p. 464. Dayly Prayers of the Jews were eighteen in number, what they were? 690

Praying for the dead, founded by the Rhemists, on that Text 1 John 5. 16. refuted. 1094

Preaching was one part of Prophesie, Singing Psalms and foretelling of Things from Divine Revelation were the two others. 785

Precepts there were, say the Jews, six hundred thirteen Precepts in the Law of Moses. 1114

Pre-existence of Souls, some of the Jews held it. 569, 1352

Preparation of the Sabbath, what? 358

Presbyters and Elders were to judge in Pecuniary Affairs. 755

Preservation of God, how he preserves all Men alike, and yet not all alike. Page 1213

Presumption, Monuments of Mercy were never set up in Scripture to be encouragements to Presumption. 1276

Priestess, one born of the Lineage of Priests, of these the Priests commonly took themselves wives. 379

Priesthood, and High Priesthood, only differed in two things. 585

Priests married Gentlemens Daughters. p. 42. One hundred sixty Priests were married in Gophna all in one night. p. 52. Priests were the setled Ministry of the Church of Israel, they always lived upon Tithes when they studied in the University, Preached in the Synagogues, and attended on the Temple Service. p. 86. They were called — First, Plebian Priests, for Priests were not made but born, so some of them were poor, yet being of Aaron's seed, though unlearned, they had their Courses at the Altar — Secondly, Theirs or Private, because still of a lower Order — Thirdly, Whether being (besides the High Priest) Heads of the Courses — Heads of Families, — Presidents over Offices — And such as were Members of the chief Sanhedrim. p. 110. The Marriage of the Priests was a thing of great concern, on purpose to keep them uncorrupt. p. 379. Priests and Levites, what was lawful, and unlawful in them. p. 382. Priests were examined by the Great Council, whether they had any blemishes, which if they had, they were sent away arraied in black. p. 388. Chief Priests, Elders and Scribes, how distinguished. 469

Prince of this World, the Devil how so called. 591, 592

Probatica or the Sheep Gate, was not near the Temple, contrary to the common Opinion. 507

Prodigies, very memorable, which happened forty years before the destruction of the Temple, what? 248

Prophane, or polluted, and unclean, distinguished. 199, 200

Promises given to Israel in the Law, are most generally and most apparently Temporal Promises. p. 1331 &c. Scarcely any Spiritual, much less any Eternal Promises in the Law of Moses. p. 1332. In the Books of Moses they were all for earthly things, as they belonged to the Jews. p. 1332. Why God gave them such Promises. p. 1333. There were spiritual Promises before the Law. p. 1333. The Gospel State happy in the better Promises. p. 1332, 1333. God intended Spiritual Things under Temporal Promises. p. 1333. Why God did not speak out Spiritual and Eternal Things, but only obscurely hinted them in such Temporal Promises. 1333, 1334

Prophesie comprehends the singing of Psalms, to Preach, and Foretel something from Divine Revelation. p. 785. From the death of the later Prophets the Holy Spirit, and the Spirit of Prophetie ceased from Israel. p. 802. Prophesie expired at the fall of Jerusalem. p. 1048. Prophesie was one of the two extraordinary Gifts of the Spirit. p. 1157. Prophesie, Revelation, and Urim and Thummim was gone from the Jews for four hundred years before Christ came. p. 1284, 1288, 1289. Prophesie was sometimes performed by ill Men, as Caiaphas and Balaam. 1288, to 1291

Prophesying, what it was in Saint Paul's time. 1157, 1158

Prophets, Schools of the Prophets were little Universities or Colledges of Students; their Governor some venerable Prophet, inspired with the Holy Spirit to give forth Divine Revelations, &c. p. 86. Prophets how divided by the Jews. p. 407. How unrolled, and distant Places put together. p. 407, 408. Prophets, put for Prophetical Books of Scripture. p. 458. From the days of Zachary and Malachy the Jews expected no Prophets till the coming of the Messiah. p. 522. Prophets were not the standing Ministry of the Church, neither under the Law, nor under the Gospel, but occasional and of necessity. p. 1034, 1049. The Books of the Law and Prophets only were read by the Jews in their Synagogues, the rest they read not. 1102

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

Proſelyte, what? Page 234

Proſelytes, Fearers of the Lord are uſed for Proſelytes, every one of them are bleſſed. 689

Proſperity of the wicked, did once occaſion both weeping and laughing. p. 706. Proſperity or Peace outward in the things of this World, is no ſign of Peace with God. p. 1053. It's ſometimes a ſign of God's enmity, proved from Eccleſiaſtes 5. 13. and from Mal. 2. 2. p. 1053. The Proſperity of wicked Men, is an Argument of the Laſt Judgment, and future ſtate. 1104

Proteſtant Church, and Religion, where they were before Luthers time. 1201

Providence of God, not a Rule for Men to go by, but his Word. 1276

Pſalms put for the Hagiographa. p. 265. Singing of Pſalms was one part of Prophetie. p. 785. Singing of Pſalms in Chriſtian Congregations is a great and heavenly work. p. 1158. The Primitive Chriſtians ſung David's Pſalms in their publick Congregations. p. 1158. The ſinging whereof is a Duty incumbent upon Chriſtians. p. 1158, to 1162. Our Saviour, the Apoſtles, and the Primitive Church practiſed it. 1159, to 1162

Ptolemais (alſo called Acon) a City of Galilee, how ſituate. 60

Ptolomy, is in ſomething amended. 320

Publican, what his buſineſs. p. 171. Publican Heathen, what? 215

Publicans were odious to the Jews. p. 152, &c. They were of ſeveral Degrees. 466, 467

Purgatory, the Doctrine of it. p. 1341. The improbability, ridiculouſneſs, and irreligion of the Papiſts holding that the Patriarchs were in it. 1342, 1343

Purification days of a Woman after Child bearing, when accompliſhed. p. 391, 392. Purification after touching a dead Body, what? 790

Purifying water, Children were born and brought up in ſome Courts under ground to be made fitter to ſprinkle the Purifying water. 34

Purifyings, ſome were performed in a longer and others in a ſhorter time. 586

Purim, the Feaſt of Purim oppoſed by ſome of the Jews. 578

Putting away, for divorcing, what? p. 146. Putting away a Husband by the Wife, &c. among the Jews, what? With the Form thereof. 759

Pythons, what? 175

Q.

QUAKARISM, Popery, and Socinianiſm are great Hereſies. Page 1280, 1281

R.

Rabban Jochanan ben Zaccai, ſomething of his Hiſtory. Page 652, 653

Rabbi, an haughty Title, not common till the times of Hillel, which in later times was much affected. 232, 233

Rabbins of Tiberias, were mad with Phariſaiſm, bewitched with Traditions; blind, guileful, doting, and magical; and ſuch a like work is the Jeruſalem Talmud, which they made there; it's not poſſible to ſuppoſe that theſe Men pointed the Bible, it ſavours of the work of the Holy Spirit. 73, 34

Rachab, ſuppoſed to marry Joſhua, famous among the Jewiſh Writers. 97

Rain, former and later, what? 409

Raka, a word uſed by one that deſpiſeth another in the higheſt ſcorn. 141

Rakkath, a fortified City from the days of Joſhua. 67

Rama, was the Name of very many Towns in the Land of Iſrael, becauſe they were ſeated in ſome high place. Page 80

Ramah, and Ramathaim Zophin, there were two of the Name, whence derived. 41

Ranſom, or Attonement for Souls, how much, and for what end? p. 1204, 1205, 1208. At what time it was paid. p. 1205. Why the Poor therein was to give as much as the Rich. p. 1207. And why the Poor in Worldly matters gave more than the Rich did in thoſe that referred to God. 1207

Retaliation, it's Laws. 150, 151

Ravens (which brought bread and fleſh Morning and Evening to Elias) are ſuppoſed to be the People of Orbo. 317

Raviſhed, Saint Auſtin's determination about chaſte Matrons and Virgins Raviſhed by the Enemy when they broke into the City, what? 1098

Readers of the Law, part of their work. 803

Reaſon, the myſteries of Divinity not contrary to it; how to be underſtood. 1103

Redemption, or new Creation, was performed on the day Adam was created. 1325

Refuge, Cities of Refuge, their Number and Names 47, 48

Regeneration, what kind of Regeneration the Jews thought to be neceſſary to Proſelytiſm. 533

Region round about Jordan, what? 298, 299

Regiſters, or Scribes of the Sanhedrim, were two, the one ſat on the right, the other on the left hand; one wrote the votes of thoſe that quitted, the other of thoſe that condemned. 337

Religion, the Religion of the Phariſees, Sadducees, and Eſſeans was not the National Religion of the Jews, but Sects and Excreſcences from it. p. 1036. Chriſt ſets himſelf againſt them that ſet themſelves againſt Religion. p. 1164. The Principles of the Traditional Religion of the Jews, made them Crucifie the Lord of Life. p. 1175. What Religion the Devil hath moſt reaſon to hate. p. 1177. And which is the beſt, and what it is. p. 1177. Which is the true Religion? A difficult Queſtion; two marks of it. p. 1176, 1177. The Jewiſh Religion was very corrupt under the ſecond Temple. p. 1199, 1200. The Romiſh Religion comes very near to Judaiſm. p. 1200. Whether a Man may be ſaved in that Faith, that is, in the Religion of Rome; doubted. p. 1202. Some maintain that a Man may be ſaved in any Religion or Opinion, ſo he live but honeſtly towards Men and devoutly towards God. 1279

Rempham, or Rephan, what? 673

Renting of Cloaths, what? 263

Repentance, a Doctrine highly fit for the Jews, when it was preached to them by John the Baptiſt; The Schools of the Phariſees did ill define Repentance. p. 113. The Jews ſuppoſed the Redeemer was to come at a time when Repentance was to be. p. 114. Repentance not to be put off till death. p. 1227. There is nothing more deſirable to God, Chriſt, and Angels than the Repentance of a Sinner. p. 1269. What it is that moves God, Chriſt and Angels to deſire this. p. 1270. Repentance is the gift of God as well as Pardon. p. 1277. The Rule to arrive at Repentance is to take Gods time as well as way. 1277

Repetition of the ſame words in Prayer, how practiſed: condemned by Chriſt. 157, 363

Rephaims, what? 747

Reproof and Excommunication, what they were, with the difference between them. 1233, 1235

Reſurrection, the firſt Reſurrection, what? 1233, 1235

Reſurrection of Chriſt, the Epoche of the Meſſias is ſtated from the Reſurrection of Chriſt. p. 180. The Reſurrection of Chriſt ſhews him to be the Meſſiah. p. 691. How it argues and gives aſſurance of the laſt Judgment. p. 1105. Chriſt Reſurrection and the Creation, whether the greater work? 1330

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

Resurrection of the dead, was in the days of Ezra denyed by some. p. 216. How it is proved out of the Old Testament by Rabban Gamaliel. p. 541. How the Sadducees came to deny the Resurrection from the dead. *p.*542. The Jews looked for the Resurrection from the dead. p. 549, 552. It is proved out of the Talmud. *p.*702. Proved out of the Law.*p.*787 Resurrection and last judgment, proved. p. 1101, 1102, 1103, &c. The objections of the Sadducees and Atheists answered. p. 1101,&c. Resurrection of the last day demonstrated against the Sadducees and Atheists. p. 1236,1237. Denyed by the Sadducees. Page 1282, &c.

Resurrection of the Saints, expected even by the Jews at the beginning of the Kingdom of the Messias. 269

Revelation, Prophesie, Urim and Thummim, were gone from the Jews for four hundred years before Christ came. 1284, 1288, 1289

Rhinocorura, a River of Egypt, what? 9, 291

Riches, worldly Riches and grandure countervail nothing with God. 1210, 1211, 1212

Righteousness, why Alms are taken for Righteousness. *p.*153, &c. Righteousness, inherent and justifying. 504, 505

Rings of the Altar, what, and for what use. 33, 34

Robbers, were very numerous among the Jews, and did strange mischiefs; how there came to be so many of them? 267, 268, 362

Rock for Christ, not Peter. 205

Roman Empire, when it began. p. 388, 389. When, and how it was measured. p. 389. When, and how taxed. 389, 390

Romanists, and Jews, how they may be said to be yoakfellows. 1110

Romans, there were Garisons of them dispersed over the Land of Israel, what they were? p. 324. The Romans are brought in by the Jewish Writers, owning themselves and boasting of their being the Children of Esau or Edom, and shew that Esau ought to rule over Jacob. p. 694, 695. The Epistle to the Romans, when and where it was written by Saint Paul. 1051

Rome, is put for Edom. p. 292. Rome guilty of our Saviours death, as much as Jerusalem. p. 1109. It is also guilty of Apostasie. p. 1110. Part of the character of Rome at this time as referring to England. p. 1165. The proper Name of Rome, say Roman Historians, is a Secret. *p.*1165. The Tutelar Deity of it also unknown.*p.*1166.Rome is the Devils Seat, his Deputy and Vicegerent. p. 1166. Rome commissioned by the Devil to fight against Christ, his Religion, and People. p. 1166, 1167. When first and last spoke of in Scripture. p. 1168. Rome Heathen could not be Antichrist, because the character of Antichrist is Apostasie. p. 1168. Rome Papal hath exceeded Rome Heathen. p. 1169. Rome is ever spoken of in Scripture with a black and dismal character. p. 1199. Rome, and the Religion thereof, comes very near to Judaism. p. 1200. Whether a Man can be saved in the Faith, that is, in the Religion of Rome, doubted. *p.*1202 Rome compared with the Old Jerusalem State. 1200

Rule, God's extraordinary Actings are not Mens ordinary Rule. 1276

Rulers, the false Logick of those who are for no Rulers over them but King Jesus, refuted. 1060

S.

SABBATH, when it ended. p. 166, 167. The Jews ate nothing on the Sabbath till the Morning Prayers of the Synagogue were done. p. 185. Sabbath from the second first, what? p. 184. Sabbath to the Jews was a day of junkets and delicious Feasting. p. 184. What worldly things were not to be done on it. p. 184, 187,547. And what worldly things might be done on it. p. 186, 187,547 The care of the Sabbath lay upon Adam under a double Law. p. 186, 187. Sabbath days journy, what? p. 304. The Preparion of the Sabbath, what? p. 358. Second Sabbath after the first, what? p. 409. The Jews used to get much and excellent Victuals on that Day, for the honour of the Day. *p.*445, 446. The Jews allowed all necessary things to be done on that day, as to heal the sick, &c. p. 446. To save Beasts in danger. p. 446. The night before the Sabbath candles were lighted up in honour of it; and the Evening of the Sabbath was called Light. p. 479. The length of the Sabbath days journey at first was twelve Miles, with the reason; afterward it was confined to two thousand cubits, or, one mile. p. 485, 486, 636, 637. Circumcision as given by Moses gives a right understanding of the nature of the Sabbath. p. 557. The institution of the Sabbath, and how God rested on it. p. 1325. Resting on it hath four ends, — Moral, to rest from Labours, - - Commemorative, to remember God's creating the World; — Evangelical, referring to Christ; and — Typical, to signifie eternal Rest. p. 1327. It was given to the Jews at Sinai to distinguish them from all other people. p. 1327, 1328. Its antiquity, &c. Page 1328

Sabbath, Christian, the Jews say that the Christian Sabbath was the first day of the week; why Christ changed it from the seventh to the first. p. 271, 272, 1329, 1330. It was not controverted, but every where celebrated in the Primitive Times; only some Jews, converted to the Gospel, kept also the Jewish Sabbath. 792, 793

Sabbatick River, said to rest on the Sabbath day; suspected. 313

Sacrament of the Supper, receiving unworthily, two dreadful things against it. 779

Sacramental Blood (as it may be called) of the Old and New Testament, and the very Blood of Christ; harmonized. 777, 778

Sacraments, are visible marks of distinction; proved. p. 1125. They have several Ends. p. 1125. They are perpetual. p. 1126. They are Seals of the life of Faith. p. 1126. How they answer Circumcision and the Passover. 1126

Sacrifices, Spiritual, every Christian hath three Spiritual Sacrifices to offer to God. p. 1260. The Altar on which these Sacrifices are to be offered. 1260

Sadducees, their Original, whence they came to deny the Resurrection. p. 124, to 126. They did not utterly deny all the Old Testament except the Five Books of Moses, but the Five Books were only what they would stand by for the confirmation of matters of Faith. p. 542, 1101. They denyed the Resurrection, what therefore was their Religion, and to what end? p. 699. They take their Heterodoxy and Denomination (say some) from Sadoc. *p.*699, 700. At first they denyed the Immortality of the Soul, and so by consequence the Resurrection. *p.*701. The Religion of the Sadducees was not the National Religion of the Jews, but a Sect and Excrescence from it. p. 1036. They held nothing for a Fundamental Article of Faith, but what might be grounded on the Five Books of Moses. p. 1102. The Resurrection of the last day demonstrated against the Sadducees and Atheists. p. 1235. The difference between the Sadducees and Pharisees in matters of Religion was very great. *p.*1278. Though the Sadducees and Pharisees greatly differed betwixt themselves, yet they easily harmonized to oppose Christianity. p. 1278, 1279. The Sadducees held several Heretical Opinions about some main Articles of Faith. p. 1279, 1280. The Sadducees considered in their Persons (or Original) and Opinions. 1280, to 1284

Sadduceism, the Foundation of it laid in the days of Ezra. 124

Sadoc, said to be the first Founder of Sadduceism, whether he denied the Resurrection, or all the Scripture except Moses? 699, 700

Sagan, was not so much the Vice-High-Priest, as one set over

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

over the Priest, therefore called the Sagan of the Priests; he was the same with the Ruler of the Temple. p. 397. Because his dignity was higher and independent, therefore he was sometimes called High-Priest. p. 397. Sagan was the same with the Prefect or Ruler; he was to be a Learned Man. Page 608

Saints judging the World, expounded against the Fifth Monarchists. p. 753. Not referred to the Last Judgment, but to Christian Magistrates, and Judges in the World. p 753, 754. Saints in Glory have not the Spirit. p. 1150. Saints in Heaven, what they do referring to Saints or Sinners on Earth. 1268

Salamean or Salmean, or Kenite the same, and what. 499

Salem the first Name for Jerusalem, (which was compounded of Jireh and Salem, and why?) under what latitude; how holy above other Cities. 20, to 22

Salim, what, and where situate. 498,499

Salting, with fire and with salt, the custom and the meaning of the phrase. 346, 347

Salvation and Pardon, what the sure ground of hope of them is. 1277

Salutares, some Companies and Wings of the Roman Army being so called, in likelihood gave the Title of Healthful to some Countries. 294

Salutations, were not performed by the Jews at some times. 420

Saluting of Women, was rarely used among the Jews. 385

Samaria, (under the first Temple was a City, under the second a Country) called Sebaste, the Religion thereof was Heathenism and Samaritanism. p. 52, 53. Samaria was planted with Colonies two several times. 503,504

Samaritanism, what? 53

Samaritans rejected the Temple at Jerusalem, and why? p. 540, 541. How they rejected all the Old Testament but the Five Books of Moses; whether they were not acquainted with the rest, and owned them in some cases? 541, 542

Samaritan Text, follows the Greek Version. 701

Samaritan Version, or Pentateuch, three things in it containing matter of notice, and a fourth of suspition. 504, 505

Samochonitis, the Lake of Samochonitis is in Scripture called the Waters of Merom, &c, 64

Sampson, what were his failings. 1215

Sanctification, Adam had not the Spirit of Sanctification nor of Prophesie. p. 1150. Why we are justified by perfect Justification, and yet not sanctified by perfect Sanctification and holiness: answered. 1153

Sandals and Shoos, not the same, against Beza and Erasmus. 178

Sanhedrim, the Jewish Sanhedrim consisted of Priests, Levites, and Israelites. p. 109. Sanhedrim, the Lesser and Greater; their time of sitting; the number that made a Council. p. 355. It was against the Sanhedrims own Rule to seek for Witnesses against Christ. p. 355. The whole Sanhedrim was sometimes comprehended under the Name of Pharisees. p. 571. The Sanhedrim lost the power of judging in capital Causes by their own neglect, being so remiss to the Israelites; with the Reasons of it. p. 611, to 614. The Sanhedrim removed from the Room Gazith to the Tabernæ, and from the Tabernæ into Jerusalem forty years before the destruction of that City; with the Reason of it. p. 652. The High Priest and President of the Sanhedrim compared together, and the High Priest shewed to be the greater Officer. p. 681. Whether the Decrees of the Sanhedrim were of authority among the Jews in Countries abroad. p. 681. It had four kinds of Death in its power, what they were. p. 683. The Fathers of the Sanhedrim were to be skilled in many Languages. p. 782. Why they departed out of the Council House before the destruction of Jerusalem. p. 1111, 1116. The Sanhedrim was esteemed a bloody Court if they put one Man to death in seventy years. 1113

Sarah was Abraham's Brothers Daughter. 666

Sarepta and Zarephath, whether the same, and where situate. Page 368

Satan, why he was let loose. p. 1172. How, when, why, and how long let loose by Christ. p. 1172, 1173, 1174. He did much mischief those thousand years he was bound. p. 1174. His great work is to deceive. p. 1174, &c. His Master-piece is to cheat Men in matters of Religion. p. 1175, to 1178. How he deceived the World under Heathenism, and under the Gospel. p. 1193. The reason why Satan taketh not away our lives when he pleaseth. 1209

Saved, its possible to dye for sin; and by a divine judgment, and yet be saved. 1225, 1226

Saviour, Rome was guilty of our Saviours death as much as Jerusalem, proved. 1109

Saul and Paul, his Hebrew and Roman Name, and why he had two Names. 687

Scape Goat, what kind of Man went with him into the Wilderness. p. 35. How he was sent out, and whither from Jerusalem. 50

Scholars of the wise Men; what? 124

Schools of the Prophets were little Universities or Colleges of Students, their Governour being some Venerable Prophet, inspired with the Holy Spirit to give forth Divine Revelations, &c. 86

Scopo, and Scopus, the View, called Zophim, what? 41

Scribes, used for every one that was Learned, and employed their time in writing referring to the Law. p. 110, 111. Scribes of the people, were Members of the Sanhedrim. p. 110, 111. The Scribes and Pharisees laboured among the people for respect, and by respect for gain; which they did as, — First, Doctors of the Law, instilling into the people this notion, That a wise Man (that was one of themselves) was to be respected above all mortal Men. p. 234, &c. — Secondly, Under a pretence of mighty devotion, especially long Prayers. p. 234. Scribes, was a general Title given to all the Learned part of the Jewish Nation. p. 421. The first Original of the word, what? p. 421. The Doctors of the Sanhedrim were so called; so were others that were in the Sanhedrim, but not Members of it, like our Judges in the House of Lords. p. 422. Scribes and Pharisees, are terms sometimes confounded and sometimes distinguished. p. 433. Scribes or Registers of the Sanhedrim were two, the one sat on the right the other on the left hand, one writ the votes of those that quitted, the other of those that condemned. p. 337. Scribes, Chief Priests, and Elders; how distinguished. 468

Scripture, in it (say the Rabbins) there is no first and last, i. e. the order of the Story does not necessarily determin the time of it. p. 666. Humane Learning is exceeding useful, nay, exceeding needful to the expounding of the Scripture. p. 1033. Not one tittle of the Scripture idle. p. 1180. The Scripture, because of its stile and difficulty, requireth all serious and sober study. p. 1242, &c. Wherein the difficulty of Scripture lyes. p. 1034, 1035, 1095, 1243, to 1245, 1248. Passages in the Scripture of the New Testament directly contrary to the Old; how to be solved. p. 1244. The reckoning of Numbers even in the Old Testament are sometimes different from it self; reconciled. p. 1244. The Difficulty of the Scriptures is not to the discredit, but to the glory and majesty thereof. p. 1245, 1246. Its difficulty consists in several passages in the same words, when they may be taken in two senses directly contrary one to another. p. 1034, 1035, 1095, 1248, &c. The Scripture Text, when read to them that understood not the Language, it was ever interpreted into the Mother-Tongue. p. 688, 689. When any Place of the Old Testament was cited by the Jews, they delivered it always in the very Original words. 694. A Scripture Text and an Opinion distinguished. p. 758. Its not unusual in Scripture when the same Story is cited in two places to bring in some difference, either in Things, Men or Years; and that from the highest Reason. p. 766. The Scripture Text was was usually varied or inverted by the Reader, or the Preacher in the Pulpit or the Schools among the Jews, with the reason thereof. Page 673

Scythopolis or Bethshan, a City; where situate. 57, 315, 493

Scythopolitan Country, what? 492, 493

Sea of Apamia, what upon conjecture? 63

Sea of Cinnereth, in the Old Testament, is called in the New, The Lake of Gennesaret, also the Sea of Galilee, and the Sea of Tiberias. p. 65. Sea of Galilee, its length, and breadth. p. 536. Sea of Sodom, what, and of what use? 6

Seas, the Seven Seas according to the Talmudists, and the four Rivers compassing the Land, what? 5

Sebaste, a brave City, built by Herod, just where Samaria stood, may be the place called in the New Testament the City Samaria. 676, 677

Seed of Abraham; to be of the Seed of Abraham the Jews supposed was sufficient to fit them for the Kingdom of Heaven. p. 533. Being of the Seed of Abraham was much gloried in by the Jews. 566

Seed time and Harvest; Plowing, Sowing, Mowing, Dressing of the Vines, and all the management of the Gardens, Grounds, Fields and Vineyards, lay in the hands of the Fathers of the Traditions; so that the Country Men did none of these things but by the Traditional Rule. p. 87, 88. Seed time and Harvest was early among the Jews. 184, 185

Separate, what it is to be Separate from Christ. 1297

Sepharad, rather in Edom than in Spain. 368

Septuagint Translation hath in it many errors. p. 401, to 404. The Septuagint or the Greek Interpreters, their boldness in adding to the Scripture, taken notice of. p. 666, 667. The differing Members of the Septuagint Translators render the same word in differing places in a different way. 667

Sepulchres of the Jews, described, with the whole manner of burying. p. 89, 90. The whiting of them, what? p. 235. Their distance from Cities, were two thousand cubits. 323

Servants, how bought, and how imployed. p. 127. Servants that were Jews, how they came to be Servants, and how again to be made free, called Libertines. 663

Seventy Interpreters noted. p. 306, 312. Seventy (or the Greek) Interpreters in their rendring the Text, sometimes favour the Jewish Traditions, and sometimes the common Interpretation of the Nation. p. 620. A comparison of the History of the Seventy Interpreters, as it is in Josephus, and as it is in the Talmudists. p. 804, 805. They changed thirteen places in the Law. p. 805, 806. In what value the Version of the Seventy seems to have been among the Jews; illustrated by examples. p. 806, 807. They translated the Old Testament so as to favour the Manners, Traditions, Ordinances, and State of the Jewish Nation. p. 806, 807. Its not an accurate pure Version even the Jews being Judges. p. 807, 808. Objections answered. p. 808, 809. Whence not the Greek Version but the Hebrew Text was read in the Synagogues of the Helenists. p. 808. By what Authors and Councils it might probably be that the Greek Version came forth, which obtains under the Name of the Seventy, performed with more craft than Conscience; why therefore did the Apostles and Evangelists use it? 809, to 811

Sheaf, first Fruit Sheaf, where and how reaped? p. 38, 52. When to be offered. p. 184. The manner of reaping it. 618, 619

Sheep Gate, or Probatica, was not near the Temple contrary to the Jewish opinion. 507

Shekel, of what parts and value it was. p. 343, 1204. The reason of the Gift of half a Shekel, as used in the Temple p. 1204, 1205. Why the half Shekel was to be paid at the age of twenty years, and not before. 1206

Shepherd, Christ a great Shepherd, described. 573, 574

Shezor, a Town in upper Galilee. Page 77

Shihin, not far from Zippor. 76

Shoes and Sandals, not the same, against Beza and Erasmus. 178

Shops, or Tabernæ, where things were sold for the Temple, where situate. 512

Shusbenuth, or Shosbenim, what? 527

Siehem, why called Sychar. 506

Signs are for a fit generation. p. 191. Meer Signs, or Miracles, were never wrought by our Saviour. p. 1104. Signs of the Heaven and Air, and of the coming of the Messiah, what? p. 203. Signs of Christs coming, what from the Doctrine of the Jews. 240, 241

Siloam, a sweet and large Fountain, where situate, and which way it emptied it self. p. 25, 26, 508, 509. Siloam taken for part of Jerusalem. 441

Simon Magus, who he gave out himself to be, and what the Samaritans accounted him. 676, 677

Sin is not to be remitted after death. p. 190. How a Man may know whether it be pardoned to him. p. 1071, 1072. Deadly Sin, what it is. p. 1093, 1094, &c. Sin is the more desperately deadly by how much it is the more desperately wilful. p. 1098. Sin of the Devil, what it was? p. 1098. Sin against the Holy Ghost, why more grievous than that against the Son. p. 1130. Believers punished for Sin, against the opinion of the Antinomians. p. 1226. God stints the time of Mens rising from the Death of Sin, which slipped is not to be retrieved. p. 1238, 1239. Sin unto death, and Sin against the Holy Ghost, how distinguished. p. 1253. Sin of the Devils, wretched, being beyond pardon. p. 1305. God's letting Men go on uninterrupted in their Sin is the greatest punishment they can have here. p. 1310, 1311. What to think of Saints dying with some Sin unrepented of. 1343, 1344

Sindon, was a Cloak made with Linnin, and hung with Fringes. 354, 355

Singing of Psalms was one part of Prophesie. p. 785. See Psalms.

Singular and Disciple, what? They are Terms sometimes confounded, and sometimes distinguished. 433

Sinners, there is nothing more delirable to God, Christ and Angels than the repentance of a Sinner. p. 1269. What it is that moves God, Christ and Angels to desire this? 1270

Sins of wicked Men are set down in Scripture that we may avoid them. 1306

Sion was the upper City on the North part of Jerusalem. p. 22, 23, 24. After the return from Babilon it was constantly called the upper Town. 23

Sippor or Zippor, a City encompassed with a Land flowing with Milk and Hony; noted for warlike affairs, an University, many Synagogues, and many famous Doctors. 74, 75

Sirbon a Lake like that of Sodom. 9

Sitting, after the days of Rabban Gamaliel, was the posture of Learning. 396

Sitting at Table, what the manner among the Jews. 595, 596

Slaughter or Cruelty, prodigious in the Evil Indies. 1295

Sleep put for Death, used hundreds of times among the Talmudists. 174

Smelling, judging by Smelling, supposed by the Jews to be one qualification of the Messiah, for want of which Ben-Cozibah was destroyed by the Jews. 543

Socoh, in Jos. 25. 35. where? 51

Socinianism and Quakerism are great Heresies. 1280, 1281

Solomons Porch, what and where? 511, 512, 1034

Son, what the Son is bound to do for the Father. 200

Son of Abraham by Faith, and Nature, what? 467

Son of David, a common term in the New Testament and Talmudick Writings for the true Messias. 96, 97

Son of God, the Messias acknowledged to be the Son of God by the Jews, though not by Nature but by Adoption.

The Table of Things contained in the Second Volume.

Adoption. p. 269, 270. He is put for the Messias frequently. p. 351. Son of God, and Messiah, or Christ, are convertible terms against the Jews. Page 385, 548, 549

Son, the word Son is to be added to every Race in Christ's Genealogy. 400

Son of Man, why this term is attributed to Christ. p. 204. The Son coming in Glory and in the Clouds, signifie only Christs taking vengeance on the Jewish Nation. 265

Sons of the envious Woman, what? 52

Sonship, or Adoption, as referring to God, how understood by the Jews. 521, 533

Sorceresses, Women of Israel were generally Sorceresses. 244

Sorrows of the Messiah, what? 351

Soul, the Soul is imprisoned and restrained in its actings whilst it is in the Body. p. 1092. How the Soul contemplates God. p. 1116. Soul put for Life, and Person. p. 1204, 1205. Soul of Man (not the Body) bears the Image and Resemblance of God, and how? p. 1284, 1285. Whether the Souls of Men are alike. p. 1285. The Soul of Lazarus was in Heaven those four days he was dead. p. 1352. Where was the Soul of Christ when separate from the body? p. 1344. His Soul was like the Souls of other Men, in its infusion, existence, and acting in the Body. 1352

Souls, of the Jews disposed of by the Jewish Schools under a threefold phrase or state. p. 455. The Transmigration (or μετεμψύχωσις) as also the Pre-existence of Souls, what? p. 569. How to judge of the true quality and worth of Souls. p. 1212, 1213. Spectra or Apparitions of the Souls of Men, believed by the Jews. p. 483, 1283. Souls of other Men should be dear to us as well as our own. p. 1297, 1298, 1299. Souls of Men in a better state than Devils; and whether all Souls be in a savable condition. p. 1302. The Pre-existence of Souls, some hold it. p. 1352. Whether all Souls are equal. p. 1353. What doth a Soul instantly after it hath left the Body. p. 1354. The Soul doth neither sleep nor dye when out of the Body. p. 1355. Souls in the other World are fixed in their place and condition. 1355

South Country used for Judea. 13

Spain and France, what places the Jews understood for them. 368

Speaking, among the Jews, used to be with all possible shortness, especially where the thing was plain. p. 668.

Speaking with Tongues, what is meant by it. 1157

Spectra, or the Apparitions of the Souls of Men after death, believed by the Jews. 1283

Spirit of Prophesie, and the Holy Spirit, ceased from Israel from the death of the later Prophets. p. 802. The false pretenders to the Spirit, how they may be discovered. p. 1046. Spirit of Revelation, not necessarily inferred, or begotten, by any degree of Holiness whatever; the truth of this proved at large. p. 1046. The Spirit of Holiness and the Spirit of Revelation, how they differed. p. 1046. The Spirit of Sanctification, how to know whether a Man hath it or no. p. 1047. What it is to have the Spirit. p. 1150, 1151, 1152, &c. Adam had not the Spirit of Sanctification nor of Prophetie. p. 1150. Saints in Glory have not the Spirit. p. 1150. How the Spirit worketh by the Word? The having of it implies not perfection. p. 1152. The several conditions of having the Spirit. p. 1151, 1152, &c. The Spirit never leaves them that have it. p. 1153. To have the Spirit implies not the Gift of Prophesie. p. 1153. The difference between the Spirit of Sanctification and Prophesie. p. 1154. The Enthusiasts, about every one having the Spirit, and the ground of it, refuted. p. 1156. The Spirit of Prophesie and Revelation, and the Spirit of Grace and Holyness, are greatly differing. p. 1290. The Spirit of God, can, and does overpower the Hearts, Tongues, and Actions of Men, so as to serve the design of God's Glory. 1290, 1291, 1292

Spirits, unclean, what? p. 175. Spirits, evil, and unclean; the Jews supposed the first inflicted Diseases, the second haunted Burying places. p. 441, 442. Spirits, Angels, and Demons, distinguished among the Jews. p. 483. The Sadducees denied the being of Spirits. p. 1282, 1284. Spirits and Angels, how distinguished. Page 1283

Spittle was accounted wholsom by the Jews for sore Eyes. 570

Stationary Men, what? 278

Stock of Israel, to be of the Stock of Israel, the Jews supposed, was sufficient to fit them for the Kingdom of Heaven. 533

Stoned, what sort of Persons or Criminals were to be stoned among the Jews. 579, 746

Stoning, and other executions, were without the City, and why? p. 266. How performed. p. 349. The whole proceeding of it among the Jews. 675

Strangled things, what the meaning of the Apostolick Prohibition concerning them. 697

Strato's Tower, what; 54

Streets some were memorable in Jerusalem. 34, 35

Stripes, what number Malefactors were to be beaten with, and what kind of Scourge. 439

Subterraneous places, as Mines and Caves, were in the Land of Israel, 88

Swearing, among the Jewish Doctors, little set by, unless it amounted to forswearing. 148, 149

Sychem, the Metropolis of Samaria called Neapolis, the Jews in scorn called it Sychar. 52, 53

Synagogue, or Synagogues, a Synagogue was only formed where there were ten Learned Men, of which number Three bore the Magistracy; the next was the publick Minister of it, called the Angel or Bishop, then three Deacons or Almoners; the eighth Man was the Interpreter; the two last less known. p. 132, to 134. Synagogue days were the seventh, second, and fifth in every week; Synagogues were anciently builded in Fields, but following times brought them into Cities, and built them higher than the rest of the Houses; every one was to frequent them at the stated times of prayer. p. 134. On the Sabbath the Minister in the Synagogue called out any seven whom he pleased to read the Law; there was also Prayer, Catechising and Sermons, in the afternoon a Divinity Lecture. p. 135, 136. There was a Synagogue in the Temple. p. 395. In the Synagogue they read standing up. p. 405. He that read was appointed by the Ruler of the Synagogue, and called Maphtir, and was to read one and twenty verses. p. 406 Christ read and expounded, as was usual in that Synagogue of which he was a Member. p. 406. The Minister of the Synagogue kept the Sacred Books, and brought them out to be read when the company was met together. p. 407. A Synagogue might be made of a dwelling House; an Heathen might build a Synagogue. p. 413, 414. The Synagogue Minister, or Bishop of the Synagogue and Ruler, how differing. p. 172. There were in Jerusalem four hundred and sixty Synagogues, or four hundred and eighty, as say others. p. 35, 664. Synagogue of the Alexandrians, what? p. 36. In every Synagogue there were three Magistrates, who judged of matters of contest arising within the place. p. 179, 180. Whether lawful to alienate a Synagogue from a sacred to a common use? 664

Syriack, or Aramean Language under the second Temple was that which went under the Name of the Hebrew. 659

Syrophenician, what? 202

TABER-

T.

Tabernacle, of the Levitical Priesthood, why those that serve there have no right to eat at the Altar that Christians have. Page 1264

Tabernacles, the Feast of Tabernacles, the preparation for it, and the parts of it. p. 554, 555. How, and wherefore the eighth Day was computed great by the Jews. 559, 560

Taberna, or Shops where things were sold for the Temple; where situate. 512

Tabitha is of eternal memory in Acts 9. and in the Pages of the Talmudists. p. 18. Every Maid Servant of Rabban Gamaliel was called טביתא i.e. Mother Tabitha. p. 18. Tabitha Kumi, what it signifies. 342

Table Gesture, or the manner of the Jews sitting there; with the form of the Table. 595, 596

Table, second, The Commands of the Second Table chiefly injoyned in the Gospel, and why? 1064

Tables of Mony Changers in the Temple, which our Saviour overthrew; what? 1204

Tabor was not the Mount where Christ was transfigured. p. 346. Mount Tabor, what, and where situate. 495, &c. 468

Talent, what?

Talith was a Cloak, which the Jews used to wear, made of Linnin. 355, 417

Talmud of Jerusalem, (and it may be the Talmudick Mishna) was written at Tiberias. p. 72, 73. The Jerusalem Talmud is like them that made it. 73, 74

Tamar and Engedi, are the same 7

Tarichee was a City, thirty furlongs from Tiberias. 71

Tarnegola the upper, called Gebar or Gabara by the Rabbins. 77

Tarsus was a famous Greek Academy. 644

Tauros a Mountain, where situate. 516

Teachers of the Law, and Lawyers, what? p. 433, 434. Teachers used to sit down, when they had done reading, while they taught. 689

Teaching was even by the Jewish Doctors sometimes performed out of the Synagogues, in Streets and ways. 410

Temple of Jerusalem, ten wonders referring to it. p. 21. Its breadth and length. p. 33, 34. In easing nature within the view of the Temple, though at a great distance, immodest Parts were to be turned the contrary way. p. 41. There was a constant Market in the Temple and Shops for that end. p. 224. Some hints of the condition of the Second Temple. p. 512, 513, 514. How long it was in building by Solomon, Zorobabel, and especially by Herod. p. 529, 530. How much the Second Temple came behind the first. p. 530. There were three Temples, one at Jerusalem, another on Mount Gerizzim, and a third in Egypt. p. 540, 541. The Second Temple at Jerusalem wanted the Divine Presence, the Ark, the Cherubims, the Urim and Thummim, and the Spirit of Prophesie. 541

Temptation, the method the Devil used in tempting Christ. 129, 130

Ten, the Nation of the Jews delighted mightily in the number Ten. 246

Ten Tribes, they were placed in Assyria and Babilon. p. 800, 801. The Seats, Cities, and Countries of the Ten Tribes, were well known to the Talmudists, and much more so in the times of the Apostles. 801.

Tera, Abraham's Father, his place of Residence, Religion, and time of Death, wrong computed by the Rabbins 666

Testament, the New Testament revealeth the Old, it requires Study to unfold it, rather than Revelation, and why? p. 1034. The New Testament Phrases and Passages, the surest and safest way to understand them is not by framing a sense of our own, which we think fair and probable, but by observing how they were understood by them to whom they were uttered. Page 1041, 1042

Testimony (or Witness) was of three sorts, — Vain, — Standing, — and of the words of them that agreed. 335, 337

Text of Scripture, usually varied or inverted by the Reader, or Preacher in the Pulpit, or Schools, among the Jews, with the reason thereof. p. 673. When read to them that understood not the Language, it was interpreted into the Mother Tongue. 688, 689

Thamna, three of the Name. 373

Thanks before meat, the manner of it. 23

Thessalonians, the first Epistle to them, was Writ the first of all the Epistles. 1145

Thelves of Israel, were esteemed by the Jewish Doctors to be the People of God, so not punished. 612

Thousand years, the opinion of the Millinaries concerning it, refuted, by shewing that the Thousand years which they expect are already expired. p. 1056, 1057, 1171, 1172. The Jews themselves expected that the Messias should raign amongst them a Thousand years. 1057

Threatnings of God, some are like Thunderclaps. 1295

Three years and an half, often made use of to express things affective and sorrowful. 513

Throne of Christ, put for his judgment in his entrance upon his Evangelical Government. 220

Tiberias, a fortified City from the days of Joshua, then called Rakkath. p. 67. The situation of Tiberias is ill placed in the Maps. p. 67, 68. The Rabbins of Tiberias, what? p. 73, 74. Tiberias very delightfully seated, built in honour to Tiberius the Emperor; after some time it became the chief City of the Land of Israel. p. 72. Talmudick Mishna and the Jerusalem Talmud was written there. 72, 73

Times, and affairs of Men, how God knows and dates them. 1250, &c.

Timnath, three of the Name. 373

Tisri was ennobled before Christs time by many excellent things done in it. p. 107. This Month is drawn down from its beginning to the Feast of Tabernacles. 554, 555

Tongue, Mother Tongue, when the Text of Scripture was read to them that understood not the Language, it was interpreted into the Mother Tongue. 688, 689

Tongues, the Gift of them was general upon all the Disciples. p. 643. The Holy Ghost in his extraordinary Gifts and Tongues could only be communicated by the Apostles. p. 678. Tongues, and speaking with Tongues, what is meant thereby. p. 1157. Tongues was one of the two extraordinary Gifts of the Spirit. 1157

Towns were fortified places. p. 87. Towns, Cities and Villages, distinguished. 333, 334

Trachon, or Trachonitis, what, and where. 81 82, 364

Tradition managed all among the Scribes and Pharisees, even all the common things of Seedtime, Harvest, and Vintage. 87, 88

Traditions, were valued by the Jews above the Word of God. p. 199 They were valued above Miracles. p. 345. They were as much esteemed and desired by the Jews when they returned from their captivity, as Idolatry was before. p. 1113. They were more destructive to the Jews than Idolatry was. p. 1113. How they deceived the Jews to their own destruction. p. 1193, 1194. The Traditions of Rome and of Old Jerusalem, of what simetry or likeness and effect they are. 1200

Traditionarians refer the first conception of their Traditions to the times of Ezra. 124

Transmigration (or Μετεμψύχωσις) of Souls, also their Preexistence, were the opinion of the Jews. 569

Transubstantiation not believed, how punished. 1176

Treasury, called Corban, what? p. 299. Where it was. 301

Tree in Paradise which was forbidden to Adam, what? 582

Tribes, the Ten Tribes were placed in Asyria and Babilon. p. 800, 801. The Seats, Cities and Countries of the Ten Tribes were well known to the Talmudists, and much more so in the times of the Apostles. p. 801. Two of the Jewish Tribes were dispersed before our Saviours time, and the other Ten not, the reason of this. Page 1145

Tribute money, what two things perswade that it was the half Shekel paid yearly in the Temple. 211,212

Tribute, God requires some Tribute of Men for their preservation. 1208

Trinity, the Doctrine of it by degrees grew up to a full maturity. p. 275. The Trinity proved from the Scripture. p. 1128. This Doctrine was intimated by the Holy Ghost in expressing the most great Actions in Scripture. 1128

Truma, how the Galileans and Jews differed about it. 78

Trumpet, whether a Trumpet was sounded when the Jews did their Alms? 154,155

Truth, why the Gospel is so called. p. 1187. Who are the great resisters of it. p. 1189. Why God permits wicked Men to resist the Truth. p. 1190. The cause of Ignorance and Error, is because Men will not know and imbrace the Truth. p. 1286, 1287. Truth is to be laboured after and kept. p 1287. How to know it among the various Opinions that are abroad. 1287

Tsok, a Rock twelve miles from Jerusalem. 50

Twilight, distinguished among the Rabbins into four Parts, which will easily reconcile the four Phrases of the Four Evangelists about the Resurrection of Christ. 359

Tyre was the Name of diverse Towns, because built in rocky places. 80

Tythes, the Priests and Levites always lived upon Tythes, when they Studied in the Universities, Preached in the Synagogues and attended on the Temple Service. p. 86. Out of what Tythes were paid. 235

Tything of Lambs, how performed by the Jews. 575

V.

U, The Syriack Tongue affects the letter V in the first Syllable of Words. Page 694

Vail, with which Women (Christian Women) were covered, was not for a sign of subjection to their Husbands. 771, 772, 773

Vailing, or covering the head, why used by the Jews in Prayers and Fasts, &c. 769, 770, 771

Valley, of Crafts-Men, what? p. 325. Of Hinnon, used Historically in the Old Testament, metaphorically in the New; it was the common sink of Jerusalem; there was a constant fire to burn up the bones and filth of the City. p. 38. Valley of Jehosophat, what? p. 39. Valley of Rimmon, what? 52

Vanity, the Gentile World was subject to vanity of mind. 708

Veil of the Temple, what? 268, 269

Vengeance, The day of Vengeance put for Christ's coming with vengeance to judge the Jewish Nation, six differing ways of expressing it. 346

Venus, Bath of Venus in Æcon. 60

Version, the Jews thought not so honorably of any Version as they did of the Hebrew Bible. 803, 804

Village, a Village was where there was no Synagogue. 87

Villages, Cities and Towns distinguished. 333,334

Vine, whether not that Tree in Paradise which was forbidden to Adam. 346

Vinegar was the common drink of the Roman Souldiers. 477

Virgins, Saint Austin's determination about chaste Matrons and Virgins ravished by the Enemy when they broke into the City, what? 1095

Vmanus, a Mountain, where situate. 516

Uncircumcised, many among the Jews, both Priests and People were uncircumcised. Page 760

Unclean with a touch, what? p. 164. Of all uncleanness Leprosie was the greatest. p. 165. Meats, unclean, what? p. 199, 200. Unclean and Prophane or Polluted, distinguished. 199,200

Universities, the Cities of the Levites were Universities, the Priests were maintained there by Tyths. 86

Unlearned Men, how they may know the Truth among various and different opinions. 1287

Unregenerate Men, whether all alike may be said to be of the Devil. 1307

Until signifies either concluding or excluding. 1235

Vow, of Jephtha, how to be understood, whether he did or did not Sacrifice his Daughter? p. 1215, to 1218. Very great care, prudence, and piety should be used in making a Vow. p. 1218. The Vow in Baptism, whether obligatory to Infants. 1221

Vows, difficult to be kept, the Casuist Rabbins did easily absolve. p. 703. Vows of Consecration and Obligation or Prohibition, what? 200, 201

Urim and Thummim. p. 336. What they were, and the manner of the inquiry by them. p. 1067. Urim and Thummim, Prophesie, and Revelation, were gone from the Jews for four hundred years before Christ came. 1284, 1288, 1289

Usha, famed for Decrees made, and other things done there by the Jewish Doctors. 76

W.

Washing of Hands, this was a great mystery of Pharisaism, and abounded with nicities. p. 199, 200. Washing and plunging their Hands, what, and how they differ. p. 344, 345. Washing of Hands, of how great esteem among the Jews. p. 431. Washing of Cups and Platters, what? p. 431, 432. Washing after touching a dead body; what? Page 790

Watches in the night, were three. 198

Water, the custom of fetching water at the Fountain Siloam, and pouring it on the Altar, what? 1039

Water Gate, where situate. 510

Water Offering, used at the Feast of Tabernacles, how performed, whence derived, and what the meaning of it. 560

Water Purifying, how curious the Jews were in performing it. 34

Ways in the Land of Israel, their breadth. 323

Wedding, to go to a Wedding was reckoned among the works of mercy. 246

Week, the Days thereof, how reckoned by the Jews; by the name of first, and second of the Sabbath, and so on 274

Whiting of the Sepulchres, what? 235

Whoredom, strangely committed under the pretence of Burial. 323

Wicked, their prosperity did once occasion both weeping and laughing. 706

Wicked Men's sins are set down in Scripture that we may avoid them. p. 1306. Their wicked Actions shew they be of the Devil. p. 1307. Wicked Men long suffered of God, is sometimes not the goodness of God to them. 1311

Wicked One, that wicked One, put for the Devil, and why he is so called. 1306, 1307

Widdow gadding about, what? and what wickedness such run upon. p. 123. Widdow, where she dwelt in her widowhood. 309

Wild-beasts, why God did not drive them out of Canaan as well as he did the Canaaniter. p. 1224. England happy in wanting Wild-beasts. p. 1224. Wood devoured, is put for Wild-beasts devoured. 1224

Wilderness, sometimes signifies Fields or Country in opposition to the City; sometimes a Campain Country where the

the ground was not distinguished by Fences; sometimes the deserts. p. 113, 294, 295. Wilderness of Judah, and of Judea, distinguished. p. 295, &c. A Scheme of the Wilderness of Judah, or Idumea, adjacent. p. 296, 297. The Wilderness of Judea, where John Baptist was, what? It was full of Inhabitants. Page 296, 297

Will and Power of God, being well understood and submitted to, take off carnal Atheistical Disputes. 1320, 1321

Wine, the Jewish Doctors say that to drink a quart of Wine makes one drunk; and so much every one of them drank in their Sacred Feasts; judge then how soberly they carried it in those Feasts, if they mingled not much water with their Wine. p. 61. Wine and Myrrhe used to be given to those that were to dye, to make them insensible. 267

Wisdom fourfold, what? 743

Wisemen, from the East, what their Names, and what their Country. p. 108, 109. Wisemen, they were in likelihood Doctors and Scribes in the Sanhedrim, but not Members of it, like our Judges in the House of Lords. 422

Wish, Paul wisheth himself accursed for his Brethren the Israelites, a strange wish, what the meaning of it. 1293, 1294, 1296

Witches, a famous Story of eight Witches at Ascalon. 14,15

Witness (or Testimony) was of three sorts, vain, standing, and of the words of them that agreed 355.357

Witnesses, false Witnesses, what? p. 262. They were to suffer the same things which their perjury designed to have brought upon others. 263

Women, as well as Men, under the vail of Sanctity and Devotion practised all manner of wickedness. p. 123. Women were exempt from very many Rites in the Jewish Religion, which the Men were obliged to. p. 123. The Women in Israel were generally Sorceresses. p. 244. Whether Women had any Office in the Temple. p. 394. There were Women of ill Name among the Jews, and several sorts of them. p. 414. Women labouring in the Lord, and being Servants of the Church, what? p. 775. What a reproach it was for Women not to be married, 1216, 1217

Wonder, Man is a wonder. 1225

Wood devoured, put for Wild-beasts devoured. 1224

Word, as Christ is called The Word of the Lord, doth frequently occur amongst the Targumists. p. 519, 520. How the Spirit worketh by the Word. 1152

Word of God, not his Providence, is the Rule for Men to go by. 1276

Working, or not working, on the Passover Eves, the Galileans differed from the Jews about it. 78

World, how the Jews divided it. p. 1. World, put for the Gentiles. p. 1. How taken by the Jewish Schools. p. 534. The World was to be renued at the coming of the Messias. p. 220. Saints judging the World, expounded against the Fifth Monarchists. p. 753. Old and New World, doth generally signifie in Scripture the Old Law and New Gospel, proved. p. 1074, 1075. The original of the World strangely misapprehended by some Heathen Philosophers. p. 1320, 1321. Why God made the World, seeing he will mar it in time. p. 1322. The World was created in September. p. 1322, &c.

World to come, this was a Phrase in common use to oppose the Heresie of the Sadducees, who denied immortallty; it always signified the times of the Messias. 190, 240

Worms, to be devoured by Worms was reckoned an accursed thing, only befalling Men of greatest impiety. Page 684

Worship of the Jews in the Temple, was Sacrificing, Washing, Purifying, &c. and worship in the Synagogues was Reading, Preaching, Hearing and Praying: Christ did abolish the Worship used at the Temple which was Ceremonial, but not that at the Synagogue, which was moral. 1041

Wrath, Christ suffered as much as God could put him to suffer, short of his own Wrath. p. 1255. Christ did not undergo the Wrath and Anger of God, but the Justice of God in his sufferings. p. 1348, 1349, 1350. With the Wrath of the Devil he had indeed to deal. 1349

Y.

YEAR, the beginning of it was in September, till Israel's coming out of Egypt, then it was changed into March Page 1322, &c. 1329

Years, three years and an half, often made use of to express things afflictive and sorrowful. 513

Z.

ZACHARIAS, son of Barachias, that was Zacharias the son of Jehoiada, made to appear by several Arguments, and Objections answered. p. 237, to 239. The Story of his Blood shed between the Temple and the Altar, what out of the Talmud? Page 1120

Zalmon, a Mountain (or part of one) near Sychem, supposed to be Dalmon, or Dalmonutha. 310

Zarephath, and Sarepta, whether the same, and where situate? 368

Zaretan sometimes called Zarthanah, a City twelve miles distant from Adam; which twelve miles the waters of Jordan dried up when Israel passed through. 82

Zeal or Zealous and Jealousie or Jealous, are comprehended under the same word in the Hebrew; what they are. 1314

Zealots, such Men, when Persecutors, did the most mischief. 604

Ziddim, the same with Caphar Chittai. 71

Zin, where, and whence so called. 325

Zippor, or Sippor, a City, encompassed with a Land flowing with Milk and Honey, noted for Warlike affairs, an University, many Synagogues, and many Famous Doctors. 74.75

Zophim, the same with Scopo and Scopus. 41

Zuz, and Denarius, (a Peny,) were of the same value among the Rabbins. p. 343, &c. 349. It was the fourth part of a Shekel of Silver. ibid.

Zuzims, what? 363

FINIS.

Books Printed for, and Sold by Richard Chiſwell.

FOLIO.

Speed's Maps and Geography of Great Britain and Ireland, and of Foreign Parts.
Dr. Cave's Lives of the Primitive Fathers, in two Volums.
Dr. Cary's Chronological account of Ancient Time.
Wilſon's Compleat Chriſtian Dictionary.
B. Wilkin's real Character, or Philoſophical Language.
Hooker's Eccleſiaſtical Polity.
Guillim's Diſplay of Heraldry with large additions.
Dr. Burnet's Hiſtory of the Reformation of the Church of England, in two Vol.
— Account of the Confeſſions and Prayers of the Murtherers of Eſquire Thynn.
Burlace's Hiſtory of the Iriſh Rebellion.
Ruſhworth's Hiſtorical Collections the ſecond Part in 2. Vol.
— Large account of the Trial of the Earl of Strafford.
Biſhop Sanderſon's Sermons, with his Life.
Fowlis's Hiſtory of Romiſh Conſpir. Treaſ and Uſurpat.
Sir Walter Raleigh's Hiſtory of the World.
The Laws of this Realm concerning Jeſuits, Seminary Prieſts, Recuſants, the Oaths of Supremacy and Allegiance explained by divers Judgments, and reſolutions of the Judges; with other Obſervations thereupon, by Will. Cawley Eſq;
William's impartial conſideration of the Speeches of the five Jeſuits executed for Treaſon. 1680.
Joſephus's Antiquities and Wars of the Jews with Figures.

QUARTO.

DR. Littleton's Dictionary, Latine and Engliſh.
Biſhop Nicolſon on the Church Catechiſm.
Hiſtory of the late Wars of New-England.
Dr. Outram de Sacrificiis.
Biſhop Taylor's Diſſwaſive from Popery.
Dr. Fowler's Defence of the Deſign of Chriſtianity, againſt John Bunnyan.
Dr. Jane's Faſt-Sermon before the Commons. 1679.
Mr. John Jame's Viſitation Sermon April 9. 1671.
Mr. John Cave's Faſt-Sermon on 30th of Jan. 1679.
— Aſſize Sermon at Leiceſter, July 31. 1679.
Dr. Parker's Demonſtration of the Divine Authority of the Law of Nature and the Chriſtian Religion.
Mr. William's Sermon before the Lord Mayor 1679.
— Hiſtory of the Powder Treaſon with a Vindication of the proceedings relating thereunto, from the Exceptions made againſt it by the Catholick Apologiſt and others; and a Parallel betwixt that and the preſent Popiſh Plot.
Speculum Baxterianum, or Baxter againſt Baxter.
Dr. Burnet's Relation of the Maſſacre of the Proteſtants in France.
— Converſion and Perſecutions of Eve Cohan a Jeweſs of Quality lately Baptized Chriſtian.
— Sermon before the Lord Mayor upon the Faſt for the Fire, 1680.
— Faſt Sermon before the Houſe of Com. Dec. 22. 1680.
— Sermon on the 30th of January 1681.
— Sermon at the Election of the Lord Mayor. 1681.
— Sermon at the Funeral of Mr. Houblon. 1682.
— Anſwer to the Animadverſions on his Hiſtory of the Rights of Princes. 1682.
— Decree made at Rome 1679. condemning ſome Opinions of the Jeſuits and other Caſuiſts. Publiſhed by Dr. Burnet, with a Preface.
— A Letter giving a Relation of the preſent ſtate of the difference between the French K. and the Court of Rome.
Bibliotheca Norfolciana, ſive Catalogus Libr. Manuſcript. & impreſſ. in omni Arte & Lingua, quos Hen. Dux Norfolciæ Regiæ Societati Londinenſi pro ſcientia naturali promovenda donavit.

OCTAVO.

BIſhop Wilkin's Natural Religion.
Dr. Grew's Phitological Hiſtory continued on Roots.
Spaniards Conſpiracy againſt the State of Venice.
Dr. Brown's Religio Medici: with Digbies Obſervations.
Several Tracts of Mr. Hales of Eaton.
Dr. Cave's Primitive Chriſtianity, in three Parts.
Ignatius Fuller's Sermons of Peace and Holineſs.
A free Conference touching the preſent State of England, at home and abroad, in order to the deſigns of France.
Certain genuine Remains of the Lord Bacon in Arguments Civil, Moral, Natural, &c. with a large account of all his Works, by Dr. Tho. Tenniſon.
Dr. Fuller of the Moderation of the Church of England.
Sir John Munſon's Diſcourſe of Supream Power and Common Right.
Dr. Henry Bagſhaw's Diſcourſes on ſelect Texts.
Mr. Seller's Remarks relating to the State of the Church in the three firſt Centuries.
Dr. Burnet's account of the Life and Death of the Earl of Rocheſter.
— Vindic. of the Ordinations of the Church of England.
— Hiſtory of the Rights of Princes in the Diſpoſing of Eccleſiaſtical Benefices and Church-Lands.
Markam's Perfect Horſeman.
Dr. Sherlock's Practical Diſc. of Religious Aſſemblies.
— Defence of Dr. Stillingfleet's Unreaſonableneſs of Separat.
— A Vindication of the defence of Dr. Stillingfleet in Anſwer to Baxter and Lob about Catholick Communion.
The Hiſtory of the Houſe of Eſtee, the Family of the Dutcheſs of York.
Sir Rob. Filmer's Patriarcha, or Natural Power of Kings.
Mr. John Cave's Goſpel to the Romans.
Laurence's intereſt of Ireland in its Trade and Wealth, ſtated.

DUODECIMO.

BIſhop Hacket's Chriſtian Conſolations.
An Apology for a Treatiſe of Human Reaſon written by M. Clifford Eſq; Books lately Printed for Richard Chiſwell.

AN Hiſtorical Relation of the Iſland of CEYLON in the Eaſt Indies: By Capt. Robert Knox, a Captive there near twenty years, Fol.
Mr. Camfield's Diſcourſes of Epiſcopal Confirmation. Octavo.
Biſhop Wilkin's Fifteen Sermons never before extant.
Mr. John Cave's two Sermons of the duty and benefit of ſubmiſſion to the Will of God in Afflictions, Quarto.
Dr. Crawford's ſerious expoſtulation with the Whigs in Scotland, Quarto.
A Letter giving a Relation of the preſent ſtate of the Difference between the French King and the Court of Rome; to which is added, The Popes Brief to the Aſſembly of the Clergy, and their Proteſtation. Publiſhed by Dr. Burnet, Quarto.
Sir James Turner's Pallas Armata, or Military Eſſays of the Ancient, Grecian, Roman and Modern Art of War, Fol.
Mr. Tanner's Primordia: or the Riſe and Growth of the firſt Church of God deſcribed, Octavo.
A Letter writ by the laſt Aſſembly General of the Clergy of France to the Proteſtants, inviting them to return to their Communion; together with the Methods propoſed by them for their Conviction. Tranſlated into Engliſh and Examined by Dr. Gilb. Burnet, Octavo.
Dr. Cave's Diſſertation concerning the Government of the Ancient Church by Biſhops, Metropolitans, and Patriarchs: more particularly concerning the ancient Power and Juriſdiction of the Biſhops of Rome, and the encroachments of that upon other Sees, eſpecially Conſtantinople, Octavo.
Mr. Selden's Janus Anglorum Engliſhed, with Notes: To which is added his Epinomis, concerning the Ancient Government and Laws of this Kingdom never before extant. Alſo two other Treatiſes written by the ſame Author: One of the Original of Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction of Teſtaments; the other of the Diſpoſition or Adminiſtration of Inteſtates Goods; now the firſt time Publiſhed, Fol.
D. Spenceri Diſſertationes de Ratione Rituum Judaicorum, &c. Fol. Sub-prælo.
Diſquiſitiones Criticæ de variis per diverſa loca & tempora Bibliorum editionibus, Quibus accedunt Caſtigationes ad Opuſc. If. Voſſi de Sybillinis Oraculis. Quarto.
Jus Regium or the Juſt and ſolid Foundations of Monarchy by Sir G. Mackenzie His Majeſties Advocate in Scotland. 8.
Two letters betwixt Mr. Ric. Smith and Dr. Hammond about the ſenſe of that Article in the Creed, He deſcended into Hell. 12.